We take everything so seriously, which, of course, at the bottom, means personally. But if we ever get away from our person, we have gotten away from our ills. That's what peace is,—a getting away. It is the sanest, the most comfortable, the most enjoyable state of man, barring none, not even happiness.

Washington, D. C.

In the Days of Herod

BY EZRA FLORY

The Gospel of Luke opens with the dark background of "in the days of Herod," against which is painted the beautiful home-life of two devout people, a husband and wife, through whom God appears on the scene with his plan of redemption. While this wicked ruler was making his plans, and plying his unscrupulous designs, God noted and selected vessels of ordinary material that were clean, for "they were righteous, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless."

The Gospel of Luke is one of humanity. The simple tale of domestic sorrow appears at its very beginning. We can imagine the disappointment and grief it records in this event.

A vision appeared to these holy ones which could be seen and heard only by eyes and ears that are adjusted to God. How long these two souls had prayed is not told. God has a way and a time, and his is always the best way and the best time. If his answer should come at any other time, we would miss the best blessing. See that picture of the coming child for which these devoted worshipers had almost lost hope.

1. A joy to his parents (Luke 1: 14). What a comfort to any parent is a child! What a heritage for any child to be reared by such parents as these! When God was about to reform the world, he selected the best home for that training. What a sacred trust! Who can measure the influence of one such home?

2. A joy to many (Luke 1: 14). The mother of Zebedee's children was ambitious for their excellency above others. It is far better to desire that children shall bring helpfulness to others.

3. Great in the sight of the Lord (Luke 1: 15). "In the sight of the Lord" comprehends all the elements of true greatness. The rich, covetous man was not great in the sight of the Lord. The publican's prayer showed him greater than the Pharisee in the sight of the Lord. The widow's mites marked her great. He who regards the child-like spirit and conserves it, is great in the Kingdom.

4. He is to be separated from the world,—a Nazarite (not Nazarine) (Luke 1: 15). Did you note this in the text? How many people are willing to pounce upon the "shall not drink wine or strong drink" in the text, without comprehending the significance of the scripture! One of the arraignments of the prophets against Israel was that the people gave the prophets wine. That is, they virtually made void the separation of these men of holy function from the world. When the Nazarite, Samson, lost his emblem of separation he was powerless enough. His unshaven hair was one of the marks of the Nazarite. John's manner and appearance are described later in another account where we are told of his simple dress, simple food, simple and direct message, and his hermit life. What does it mean to be separate? Some good people, I have known, take time to teach their children the way of God both by precept and example. Some are separated from the world so much that they would not have their children prepare for missionary work, and even give so little thought to loving the benighted world that they refuse to send their sons and daughters, that the erring ones might not be damned. What is it to be a present-day Nazarite? Is it to dress as odd as did the Nazarites? Is it that alone? Is it to refuse wine, —at least when you might be reported? What is it to be separated? It was one of the ear-marks of this great child. Is the idea a source of joy to you or does this scripture sound void?

5. He was to be filled with the Holy Spirit (1: 15). Can a child be filled with the Holy Spirit from his birth? Was this a case of predestination? What had the pious life of the parents to do with the filling of the child with the Holy Spirit? Have we begun early enough, in the rearing of children? Is it necessary to wait till conversion (Acts 2: 38) for the filling of the Holy Spirit? What right have we to claim such traits in our children unless we contribute to that end as did these parents? Are children naturally depraved sinners,—conceived and born in sin? "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." Have we, then, thwarted and maimed the holy children given to our nurture?

6. "Shall turn many to the Lord" (1: 16). This is what might be expected in a child under such circumstances. We must fulfill the conditions if we shall have a right to claim the ideals. Many of these conditions obtain before children are born. If we would have a religious awakening and turning to the Lord, let us begin in our home lives, before children are born.

7. He shall prepare the people for the coming of the Lord (1: 17).

What a picture of John the Baptist! The Spirit of God ordered it and then flung it down the centuries as a mighty weapon in the onward march of the Kingdom. Thus he began to paint this exquisitely tender and beautiful picture upon the canvas of the deeds of the men of the political world. May its cardinal truth grip us anew and his reviving work be again quickened in a day like ours!

Chicago, Ill.

Jesus, the King

BY NORMAN W. TWIDDY

Up the highway to the Shushan gate, in the wall of Jerusalem, rides Jesus Christ, seated upon an ass. The crowd waves palm branches. They spread their garments along his path. They acclaim him: "Hosanna! Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord!" These are the pilgrims coming up to Jerusalem for the passover who, in joyous shout, hail him. Exultantly they cast palm branches along the highway.

Into the Court of Jehovah goes the Christ and there the children raise their voices in songs of happy triumph. The palm branches are a symbol of gladness and victory, and the spreading of the garments is a recognized act of homage. All Jerusalem hails the Master. It is a gala day.

Some days later, out from the gate of the city winds a procession of Roman soldiers and a taunting crowd. Jesus, the Christ, is bearing his cross toward Calvary. "Crucify him! Crucify him!" "His blood be upon us and our children," cries the mob which only last week had strewn tokens of victory and homage at his feet. To Golgotha wearily toils the Christ; the cross is borne on the shoulders of Simon, the Cyrenian. "He came unto his own and his own received him not." Cruelly nailed, he hangs there. The crowd reviles and curses their Messiah. Bleeding in the agony of death he is yet the most sublime figure of all that throng. "Despised and rejected" then, yet "today every language on earth owns him King and none can refuse homage to him." But the crowd that acclaimed was the crowd that crucified! There is the tragedy of it all.

Are we doing that today, friends? Are we singing praises unto him with our lips, but crucifying him with our deeds? Do we acclaim our King and then nail him to the cross? No! No! Let us worship him with hosannas that ring to high heaven, but let us also enthrone him as the King of our lives.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

Keeping Up With the Times

BY RAY S. WAGONER

I HAVE just finished reading Mark Sullivan's article in the March 8 issue of Collier's Weekly, in which he is appealing for a speedy return of the American troops from Europe, and of America in general to a "pre-war America." In his entire article there is no conception of the fact that it is as impossible for America to return to a "pre-war America," as it is for an old man to return to the days of his youth. And in his reasoning there is no consideration of the need of the world at large. He seems only to have grasped the selfish benefits to be derived from such a maneuver, for his entire article is an attack in disguise upon the League of Nations. He appeals to America, through the homes which have sons over seas, to take no part in the affairs of her neighbor nations. But he should have remembered that that principle was thrown to the winds when America entered the war. Now every one in America must see the world as a whole,—his horizon must grow beyond his own selfish interests.

Everything in America has a broader scope than ever before. The world is new and needs a new spirit, —a spirit that it has heretofore not had,—a spirit of justice and righteousness that is new to the world. In his appeal for America to turn over the policing of Germany to the Belgian army, he says that the American army is too lenient, and that the Belgian army will translate into German, and administer to the Germans, the famous infamous orders once given to the Belgian population. But the sores of the world can never be healed by the making of a second Congo out of Germany. The world needs, and must have, the spirit of love to heal its wounds. What Germany needs is not absolute destruction, but absolute education to a higher standard than that of force.

But Germany is not the only patient needing such an education. The entire world is needing it. There never was such a need for the Gospel of love, of peace and of justice. There never was such an opportunity for the church to accomplish exactly what the world needs, and to demonstrate, beyond doubt, the efficiency and the merit of the plan of Christianity. The church is the only thing today that stands between the world and ruin,—between the weak and the strong, between justice and injustice.

Such an opportunity is a challenge to the Church of the Brethren as an ardent advocate, for over two hundred years, of a higher order of things. It is to be commended that our Board, at this opportune time, has launched the new Forward Movement, and it behooves you and me to see to it that our own personal part, and the part of our local congregations, does not fall below the mark set in their plans. It is not a hardship. It is not impossible, but it is all-important, the most important thing that confronts not only the church today, but you and me individually. Heretofore we have been content largely with a defensive program and I am glad that our leaders have now decided upon an aggressive program. This is no time for weak-kneed Christians. You and I have a part personally in this great Forward Movement, and if we fail in our part, then our part of this worthy movement will be a failure.

Arise, let us move forward! We can if we will, and God is expecting us to. He says: "Ye are the salt of the earth." And again: "If the salt have lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" O, brother, what is to happen to the world if we are unfaithful in this great hour of need?

Christ made this assertion to his disciples, his believers, after extended preaching tours in Galilee, and they understood it to mean that they were the seasoning of the world, the keepers of the world, the healers of all the world's diseases, and the preservers of the world. What would civilization have been today if they had failed in their hour of trial? Would we have had our present-day conveniences and our modern pleasures of civilization? But there never was a time when the words of the Master were more applicable to the church than they are today: "Ye are the salt of the earth." What an all-inclusive statement of the position of the child of God to the world!

East Enid, Okla.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

Self-Saving and Saving Others

Matt. 27: 42

For Week Beginning May 11, 1919

1. Introductory.—It was a wonderful truth to which the high priests unintentionally gave utterance in their scornful reference to Jesus as he hung on the cross: "He saved others; himself he can not save." It was absolutely true. He could not save himself from the cross and still be the Savior of others. If he is the Lamb, slain from the foundation of the world, he must place himself upon the altar of sacrifice. If there is no shed blood, there is no remission of sin, and if Christ saves himself, there will be no shed blood, and consequently no remission.

2. Gethsemane's Struggle Was for Us.—That awful night when Christ was in Gethsemane, the burden seemed almost too great for him to bear. The disciples were asleep, but Christ was out under the old olive trees, bearing the cross alone. The agony of it wrung from him that pathetic cry which has been heard around the world: "Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me!" But the cup did not pass. "Nevertheless," he cried, "not my will but thine be done." He could not bear the cross and relinquish it at the same time. He could not let the cup pass and still be the Redeemer of his people.

3. Christ Would Not Save Himself.—It was one of the sublime excellencies of our Lord that his own safekeeping was a matter of no concern to him. Had he been an impostor, he might readily have denied his mission and saved himself. But he could not and would not fail in his mission, and so he could not come down from the cross.

4. The People Who Spare Not Themselves to Save Others.—There are those in the various avenues of life who have felt the significance of these words: "He saved others; himself he can not save." We see it exemplified in the missionary work of the church. Men and women cheerfully go to foreign mission fields and face the tremendous responsibility that is before them. The field is large, the cares are many. Thousands of men and women are dying in sin. How can the missionaries save others while saving themselves from the toil and sacrifice involved? The work must be done, and there are but few to do it. It means toil and privation. It means self-surrender and self-immolation. Can they afford to spare themselves? How can they, if they desire to acquaint the sin-engulfed villages with the knowledge that One has come to save them who would not save himself?

5. Sacrifice Is Ever the Secret of Achievement.—It is literally true that no one can accomplish any great work for humanity and yet save himself,—his own convenience and personal desires. Every great achievement necessarily rests on sacrifice. If we insist on saving ourselves at all hazards, we will be unable to save others. The nurse who braves the perils "of the pestilence that walketh in darkness and the destruction that wasteth at noonday" is not trying to "save herself," in any way. She is willing to give up all to save others. The fireman must brave the smoke and flame if he is to save the child in the burning home. The diver must risk his life if he is to rescue the perishing. Through tribulation we enter heaven. The road to conquest lies through suffering. The Lord of all was Servant of all.

6. Suggestive References.—Save others by declaring God's glory (Psa. 96: 2, 3, 10). Watchmen should not keep silence (Isa. 62: 6). "They that be wise shall shine" (Dan. 12: 3). "Let your light so shine" (Matt. 5: 16). "Abounding in the work of the Lord" (1 Cor. 15: 58). "Be not weary in well-doing" (Gal. 6: 9). "Shine as lights in the world" (Philpp. 2: 15). Paul determined "by all means to save some" (1 Cor. 9: 22). The promise to the faithful worker (James 5: 19, 20). "Labor . . . to be accepted" (2 Cor. 5: 9).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, MAY 4

Sunday-school Lesson, Man Made in the Image of God. —Gen. 1: 26-28; 2: 7-9; Eph. 4: 20-24.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Simple Life in Dress.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, in his home church.

Bro. L. H. Eby, of Fruitland, Idaho, in the Proctor church, Montana.

Bro. E. L. Heestand, of Plymouth, Ind., in his home church, Salamonie.

Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe, of Chicago, Ill., after the second week of his meetings in the Pyrmont church, Ind., reports thirty-two accessions, including those previously reported. Others are near the fold. The meetings are being continued for another week.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

One was baptized in the First Church, Philadelphia.

One was reclaimed in the Lower Stillwater church, Ohio.

One was recently reclaimed in the Beachdale church, Pa.

Two were recently baptized in the Monitor church, Okla.

Two have been baptized in the Lititz church, Pa., since the previous report.

One has been baptized in the Germantown church, Pa., since the last report.

Three have been baptized in the Muncie church, Ind., since last heard from.

One has been baptized in the Sterling church, Colo., since last heard from.

One was reclaimed and one baptized in the Woodberry church, Baltimore, Md.

Two have been baptized in the Swan Creek church, Ohio, since the last report.

Two have been baptized in the New Philadelphia church, Ohio, since the last report.

Two from the Antioch Mission were recently baptized in the Fountain church, Ind.

One has been baptized in the Myrtle Point church, Oregon, since the last report.

Two have been received by baptism in the Circleville Mission, Ohio, since the last report.

Two accepted Christ in the South Whitley church, Ind., —Bro. S. J. Burger, of Howe, same State, evangelist.

Eighteen were baptized in the Reedley church, Calif.,— Bro. P. E. Robertson, of Lindsay, same State, evangelist.

Twenty-four accepted Christ in the Bridgewater church, Va.,—Bro. M. C. Swigart, of Philadelphia, Pa., evangelist.

One was reclaimed in the Pleasant Hill church, Va.,— Bro. Geo. A. Phillips, of Waynesboro, same State, evangelist.

Eight were baptized at the Snyder house, New Enterprise congregation, Pa.,—Bro. Kulp, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Seven stood for Christ, four of whom were baptized, in the Flora church, Ind.,—Bro. I. R. Beery, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. Z. E. Mitchel, of Wirtz, Va., to begin May 11 at the Spray mission, N. C.

Bro. Hugh Heckman, of Chicago, to begin May 18 in the Garrison church, Iowa.

Bro. J. W. Lear, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin July 13 in the Burr Oak church, Kans.

Bro. M. H. Geyer, of Milford, Ind., to begin May 4 in the Rock Run church, same State.

Bro. O. H. Peiler, of Hutchinson, Kans., to begin May 6 in the Bloom church, same State.

Bro. J. H. Longenecker, of Palmyra, Pa., to begin May 3 in the Springfield church, same State.

Brethren W. E. Wolford and J. W. Sanner to begin May 11 in their home church,—Ligonier, Pa.

Bro. J. H. Beer, of Denton, Md., to begin July 27 in the Beaver Dam congregation, same State.

Bro. Nathan Martin, of Rheems, Pa., to begin August 9 in the Pleasant Hill church, same State.

Bro. S. E. Decker, of Ashland, Ohio, to begin August 10, at the Golden Gate Mission, Oakland, Calif.

Bro. E. S. Rowland, of Hagerstown, Md., to begin May 18 at the West Brownsville church, same State.

Brother and Sister Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, to begin May 18 in the Middlebury church, Ind.

Bro. C. D. Hylton, of Troutville, Va., to begin May 11 at Pleasant Valley (Southern District) same State.

Bro. J. Edson Ulery, of Onekama, Mich., to begin some time in November in the McPherson church, Kans.

Bro. John Zug, of Palmyra, Pa., to begin May 12 at the Codorus house, Codorus congregation, same State.

Bro. D. G. Berkebile, of Bradford, Ohio, to begin sometime in August in the Lower Stillwater church, same State.

Bro. C. D. Bonsack, of New Windsor, Md., to begin May 12 in the Mercersburg mission, Welsh Run congregation, Pa.

Bro. S. M. Stouffer, of Carlisle, Pa., to begin May 11 at the Wolgamuth house, Lower Conewago church, same State.

PERSONAL MENTION

Southern Virginia has selected Eld. L. A. Bowman as its Standing Committee delegate for the Winona Conference.

Middle Pennsylvania is to be represented on the Winona Standing Committee by Elders John Bennett and J. H. Cassady.

Bro. Geo. W. Hilton has been chosen to represent Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado on the Standing Committee at Winona Lake.

1919 Conference Offering $150,000

The Armenian drive for funds has done more than awaken us to the needs of that country. It has also stimulated the church as nothing else could, to raise $150,000 for missions at this Conference time.

As a means to this end, the Brotherhood is being organized according to the general plan employed for the Armenian drive, with the following men as Regional Secretaries: G. A. Snider, Lima, Ohio; Edgar Rothrock, Holmesville, Nebr.; V. F. Schwalm, North Manchester, Ind.; J. W. Cline, 1823 S. Bronson Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.; John Heckman, Polo, Ill.; A. S. Thomas, Bridgewater, Va.; A. B. Miller, Hagerstown, Md.; P. J. Blough, 735 Grove Avenue, Johnstown, Pa.; Jacob Punk, Wiley, Colo.

District men are being appointed by the Regional Secretaries, and next week we hope to print the complete list of District Chairmen. In turn, these brethren will appoint local men in every church for this work.

While this organization is different from any ever proposed for a Conference financial campaign, yet this is an unusual time and the offering will be unusual in its size. And since we know that every church and every individual will want to share in the joy and blessing, we have taken this method, to be sure that every one has a chance to give.

We, therefore, earnestly appeal to every person, who is appointed for this special work, to do his assigned task. We earnestly entreat every pastor and elder to cooperate in raising this fund; and we pray that every organization in each local church will respond to this 200th year "Jubilee" Thank-offering.

To the isolated members we also send this appeal to help. We should all do our share in raising the full amount.

Go "over the top" double, treble, of your apportionment. Begin saving now, that you may have plenty to contribute.

Remember the week, May 18 to 25 is the week to canvass your church. And May 25 is the Offering Day. May God help us all to do our full share! Thanks in advance.

Fraternally,
GENERAL MISSION BOARD.

Bro. C. C. Cripe, of Auburn, Ind., recently located in the Waddams Grove church, Ill., and has assumed pastoral charge of the congregation.

Western Pennsylvania has selected as its Standing Committee representatives for 1919 Elders H. B. Heisey and E. M. Detwiler. Two papers are sent to the Conference.

Eld. D. J. Lichty has been chosen by the First District of India as a member of the Winona Lake Standing Committee. The District sends two queries to the Conference.

The Auditing Committee, Brethren L. R. Peifer and E. M. Butterbaugh, are busily engaged at the Publishing House as this issue goes to press, trying to close up their labors in preparation for their Conference report.

Bro. E. P. Caslow has changed his address from 3435 W. Van Buren Street, Chicago, and 1138 E. Filmore Street, Phoenix, Arizona, to 107 Quigley Boulevard, Grand Rapids, Mich. He expects to do evangelistic work during the summer, if health permits.

Bro. P. C. Peterson, of 1217 East Twenty-third Avenue, Denver, Colo., informs us that his name and address failed to be reported for the 1919 Yearbook. We suggest that the correspondents of our brother enter his name and address as indicated above.

Our attention has been called to a correction that should be made in the Yearbook. Instead of Bro. A. C. Daggett being listed as elder of the Burr Oak church, Kans., the name of Bro. G. O. Stutsman should be entered as pastor and elder. Those interested will kindly make the adjustment in their copy of the Yearbook.

Bro. D. L. Miller is spending a few weeks among some of the Maryland churches. He left for the East immediately after the Mission Board Meeting, stopping first at Huntingdon, Pa. When last heard from, he was engaged in a series of meetings at Broadfording, Md.

The General Mission Board has just received a letter from Bro. John I. Kaylor, of India, under date of March 17, stating that he was then nearing Colombo on his way to the homeland. He hopes to leave Yokohama April 22 and reach the American shores in time for the Winona Conference.

We have received word that on April 18, "Grandmother" Crumpacker, of Redfield, Kans., mother of our China missionary, Bro. Frank H. Crumpacker, passed on to her reward. Further particulars are promised us later. Let us extend our prayerful sympathies to all the bereaved ones and especially to those so far away. What a comfort, at such a time, is the faith of Jesus and the consciousness of devotion to his cause!

Concerning the Sunday-school Commission, en route to the Bible Lands, of which Brethren J. E. Miller and A. J. Culler are members, a cable message, signed by Dr. Barton, has been received, announcing the following: "The Sunday-school forces arrived safely at Cairo, Egypt. They will start to Jerusalem at an early date." This indicates that their progress has even exceeded their expectations, and that they were doubtless able to spend Easter in Jerusalem, as planned.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

Members of Western Maryland will please note Bro. Jonas L. Mellott's announcement among the Notes.

Descendants of Bro. Peter Becker will please refer to the announcement of the Bicentennial Program Committee, on page 284.

On page 286 we publish the program for the District Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Meeting of Northern Virginia, to be held in the Greenmount church May 9 and 10.

A Missionary Conference is announced for the evening preceding the District Conference of Southern Ohio. Please turn to Bro. Ira G. Blocher's announcement, among the Notes, for further particulars.

By reference to the announcement on page 284, under the heading "A Golden Prize," it will be seen that Bro. D. C. Moomaw, of Roanoke, Va., is widening the scope of his prize contest benefactions, reference to which was made in our last issue. We shall await with interest the results of the proposed contest, hoping it may bring to "Messenger" readers a contribution of unusual strength on "The Incompatibility of Christianity and War."

We publish this week, on page 277, an article by the Secretary of the Dress Reform Committee, giving valuable information on the subject of sane and simple dress. We have been interested in examining the suit booklet referred to in the article and it is a satisfaction to know that our own committee has had a part in its production, and that we have this concrete evidence that the committee is making a real contribution to the cause of dress reform. With the absurdities and extravagances of fashion so manifest on every hand, it is decidedly pleasant to note the strong tendencies at work in the opposite direction. We quote from the booklet: "Full proof of the great dress reform movement now upon us is the willingness of the active, thinking class of women to throw off the shackles of Madam Fashion for the appropriate, the practical in dress."

MISCELLANEOUS

Correction.—In the financial report of the General Sunday School Board, the donation of $3, reported as having been given by Mrs. Horace Dutcher, should have been credited to Minneapolis Sunday-school, Minn.

The following notice, by Bro. M. Clyde Horst, District Clerk of Western Pennsylvania, reached us too late for insertion among the Notes. To insure its immediate publication, we make room for it on this page: "The original paper, containing the motion concerning the authority of the Old Folks' Home Committee, which was handed to the Clerk by the Assistant Moderator after its passage, has been found, and it reads as follows: 'Moved that the committee be empowered to buy, solicit, and build an Old Folks' Home, as in their judgment is wise.' Those desiring to verify this statement may do so at any time."

At the recent World Program Conference, at Chicago, there was a strong pressure for greater activity, as well as a realization of past shortcomings. One of the delegates, fully impressed by the lamentable indifference of many professing Christians, exclaimed with much fervency: "O Lord, we have been riding in baby carriages, when we should have been mounting upward in chariots of fire." At once a heartfelt "Amen" was voiced by every member of the assembly. We, too, as members of the Church of the Brethren, may well watch our progress in the great work of missions. "Baby carriages" or "chariots of fire," —which shall it be? The "Forward Movement" awaits our decision.

AROUND THE WORLD

May 4, Employment Sunday

President Wilson heartily approves the suggestion of the United States Department of Labor, that Sunday, May 4, be designated as "Employment Sunday." Congregations everywhere have been requested to form "Church Welcome Committees" to greet the discharged soldiers and sailors, and to assist them in every needed way. It is but right and proper that the Christian people of our land should consider the welfare of the returning lads of the Army and Navy, who are seeking to be reabsorbed into the normal round of life. It is one of the opportunities of "doing good" that is amply authorized by apostolic precept, "as we have opportunity."

All Beer Manufacture to Stop May 1

According to the announcement of A. Mitchell Palmer, United States Attorney General, prompt action will be taken against brewers who persist in the manufacture of beer after the date above specified. The Government will prosecute all transgressors under the food conservation act of Nov. 21. As the law stands now, the manufacture of beer of any sort is prohibited, whether it contains 2¾ per cent alcohol or even less. While the law's constitutionality is being tested by the brewing interests of the New York district, manufacturers may possibly continue operations, but all such activities, in violation of a specific law, will surely be dealt with,—so the Attorney General has ruled.

True Greatness Means Service

General Pershing has distinguished himself by many admirable traits of character, but never before did he illustrate his real greatness more forcibly than on a recent occasion. Pursuing his journey to a distant appointment, his car was making swift progress along the highway. In passing a peasant's cart, piled high with firewood, the teamster's horse became unmanageable and, lurching to one side, half the brush slid off. The peasant, about seventy years of age, was quite decrepit. At once Gen. Pershing ordered his driver to stop, while he got out and personally helped the aged man to pick up the bundles, —a shining example of helpfulness that is a striking characteristic of the truly great.

Buddhists as Imitators

When Paul said: "Be ye imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ" (1 Cor. 11: 1), he had special reference to a complete appropriation of the Christ-life by the believer. The fatal mistake that is being made by Buddhists of Japan, is seen in their latest move, by which they spy out the strong points of Christianity, as seen in the missions, and make use of them as ideas of Buddhism. It is a veritable adoption of the "forms" of Christianity while "denying the power thereof." Buddhist girl spies commit the words of the Sunday-school lessons to memory, without reference to the spiritual import. Heathen preachers use Christian sermons by substituting the names of their native gods for the Deity. Religious revivals, even, are attempted along occidental lines,—all, of course, in promotion of Buddhism.

Is Walking Becoming a Lost Art?

Health experts are loudly bemoaning the fact that, with the increasing prevalence of automobiles, long-distance walking is becoming less frequent,—many persons, in fact, declaring their inability to endure the severe physical strain thus imposed. And yet,—according to these same health experts,—extended walks are a wonderful means of physical recreation and upbuilding. Herman Weber, a noted physician, who recently died in England, at the age of ninety-five years, had one prescription for health and a long life. It was this: "Walk, walk, walk every day, and while walking give the arms full play. By so doing, the bones, blood, muscles and brain will be kept in healthy activity. Take this exercise every day,—wet, fine, hot or cold." Dr. Weber took his own prescription, proving its merits by the length of years attained.

Intensive Culture

A noted agricultural expert, referring to farming conditions in the United States, recently said: "This country knows nothing about getting wealth from the soil. The island of Guernsey, in the English Channel, is about half the size of a township in Illinois. That island of fifteen thousand acres supports forty thousand people well. In many States of the Union a farmer is proud if he takes sixty dollars from an acre in one year. Guernsey exports, in agricultural and horticultural products, $400 a year for every acre. They have on the island miles upon miles of glass houses in which they raise four crops a year without artificial heat. These houses are forty-eight feet wide, following each other in unbroken succession. Their first crop is early potatoes; the second, string beans; the third, tomatoes; the fourth, grapes that sell for a dollar a pound up. In the early season they strip the leaves from the grapevines, to let in the sun to the other crops. This retards the grapes until the desired time. This is intensive culture." We are wondering what would happen if a similar system of "intensive culture" could be applied to the spiritual realm. Might not a greatly increased fruitage be the result?

Better Than Police Protection

It is a matter of general knowledge that many parts of China are so generally infested with robbers that the police forces,—inadequate at best, to meet the situation,—are practically unable to afford the desired protection. There is, however, one redeeming trait in these brigands, —they never trouble native Christians, Chinese preachers, and foreign missionaries. Recently a native preacher was obliged to visit a medical mission dispensary for treatment. While returning to his home, his chair-bearers were held up by a band of robbers. When inquiry was made concerning the man in the chair, they were told: "He is a preacher of the church." At once the order came, "Pass on." The little company was treated with the utmost respect by the band of outlaws.

Disturbing Conditions in Turkey

Grave anxiety is being aroused by the present situation of things in Turkey. Internal disorder is rife, according to reports of Rear Admiral Webb, at Constantinople. It is feared that there will shortly be further outbreaks and massacres of the Armenian population on a large scale. The situation in Smyrna, where the Turks and Greeks are ready to spring at each other's throats, is typical of conditions throughout Turkey. Bands of brigands are dominating the country, even within a few miles of Constantinople, and committing atrocious outrages. Further disorders are feared also in Egypt. A division of British troops is on the way from the Dobrudja, to reinforce the troops of Major-General Allenby, the special High Commissioner to Egypt, and to aid in the restoration of orderly conditions.

In Promotion of Peace

Opponents of militarism in Kansas have launched out in an interesting cooperative movement,—so we are told in a recent issue of "The American Friend." Representatives of the Society of Friends, of the Mennonites, and of the Church of the Brethren, in that State, met at Newton recently and effected a temporary joint organization for the promotion of peace, as opposed to militarism. It is hoped that denominational sanction will be given to the contemplated movement, so that the plan of the organization may speedily be ratified and made permanent. It was suggested at the meeting, alluded to above, that similar organizations of anti-war churches be formed in other States, to be followed, possibly, by a national organization of those religious bodies which are unalterably opposed to militarism in all its phases.

"Oh, Where Are Kings and Monarchs Now?"

Now, since the dust of crumbling thrones, that wrecked whole dynasties in their fall, has somewhat cleared away, it is quite interesting to compare the present condition of these rulers with that which they occupied six months ago. Morose and taciturn, William Hohenzollern,—second and last of the name,—is awaiting the judgment of the Peace Conference within the narrow confines of the estate, belonging to one of the few men in this world who still have the courage to avow themselves his friends. The former German Crown Prince, at Wieringen, has, after a few interviews, relapsed into profound silence. This, it is thought, is probably the bitterest punishment that could be visited upon him. A feeling of pity, and even of sympathy, seems to characterize the attitude of the world at large towards Charles, the former Emperor of Austria. He has found a refuge among the mountains of Switzerland, where doubtless the remainder of his life will be spent. The day of kings and emperors is drawing to a close.

Urgent Need of Assistance

A cablegram, recently received from Dr. G. H. T. Main, President of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa,—now serving as Commissioner to the Caucasus under the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief,—gives some illuminating facts. We quote the most essential parts of the message for the benefit of our readers who are so nobly and liberally contributing to the needs of the suffering ones in the Orient: "I have been handling refugee concentration along the former boundary line between Russia and Turkish Armenia. Alexandropol, a large center, and Ejchmiadzin, a small one, are typical. In the one are 68,000 refugees by actual census at our bread and soup kitchens; in the other there are 7,000. They have come here, hoping to find it possible to cross the border into their former homes in Turkish Armenia, near Kars. Concentration at these two places and many others, without food or clothing, and after a winter of exile in the Caucasus and beyond, has produced conditions of horror, unparalleled among the atrocities of the great war. On the day of my arrival, 192 corpses were picked up on the streets of Alexandropol,—far below the usual average per day. One-seventh of the refugees are dying each month. At Ejchmiadzin I attended a refugee burial,—seven bodies being thrown indiscriminately into a square pit as carrion, and covered with earth, without special care or pity. As I looked at the workmen, I noted that a hand protruded from the loose earth. It was a woman's hand, and seemed to be stretched out in mute appeal. To me this hand, reaching upward from the pit, represented starving Armenia. These were the first of thirty-five, awaiting burial that day. The refugees dare not go forward. They halt on the borderland of their homes. Turks, Kurds and Tartars have taken possession of the land and will hold it by force of arms. Refugees in that section now number 330,000,— all of them in need of help. Local inhabitants are also suffering."

Sacrificing All Things for Christ

G. Sherwood Eddy, who has just made another trip through China, holding meetings and conferences, has been much encouraged by finding a rich fruitage of previous labors. One man, Mr. Wen, who was brought to Christ several years ago, was found by Mr. Eddy in a high office under the Governor. Mr. Eddy felt that there was, for this promising convert, even more important work than this, and he asked the man if he would not give up his political field of work, and enter upon Christian activities as a Y. M. C. A. secretary. While this meant a sacrifice of his ambitions, both politically and financially, without hesitation Mr. Wen accepted the work assigned him. It took, however, much persuasion to secure the release from the Governor. In the development of the moral character of China's young manhood, Mr. Wen will doubtless prove a great power for good.

Will Franklin's Adage Prove True?

Considerably more than a century ago Benjamin Franklin made this observation: "When you lend your money, you lose your friend." While this country has been, what you might call "a useful friend" to the leading nations arrayed against the Central Powers in the recent war, curiously enough it is said to be, because of its signal prosperity, the most unpopular country today, among the nations it has specially favored. This resentment may not be openly expressed, perhaps, but it exists, nevertheless, and finds unconscious expression every now and then,—so we are assured. All in all, the United States has loaned to the allied nations nine thousand million American dollars,—a sum beyond the comprehension of the ordinary mind,—and naturally the liquidation of this vast debt is very apt to prove a task of no slight magnitude, provocative of unpleasant feelings.

Preservation of Vital Powers

It has been frequently noted that the intelligence of aged persons, who have lived temperate lives, remains bright long after their bodily powers have failed. Decay of the body does not necessarily imply a corresponding decay of the mental faculty,—the brain. The sudden mental illumination, or clearing up, often noticed at the point of death, indicates that the soul is not dimmed as the body decays, and that it is capable of stimulating the brain cells to renewed activity even when they are about to fall into dissolution. Medical experts maintain that if your occupation consumes your bodily energies, and if, at the same time, your brain cells get no exercise, or the least possible exercise, your chances for long life are not very good. In most cases of remarkable longevity the subjects were mentally active to a noticeable degree, even when their occupations and their status of education did not demand what is called intellectual labor.

An Example of Genuine Sacrifice

Much has been said about the Doukhobors who, when driven out from Russia some years ago, because of their nonresistant religious principles, settled on the prairies of Canada. Criticism there has been in plenty,—largely unwarranted,—as evidenced by their recent wholly altruistic demonstrations. When informed that the "Great War Veterans' Association of Canada" had passed a resolution, demanding that Doukhobor lands be given to the soldiers, because the people of that sect had not taken up arms,—it being against the tenets of their religion,—members of the Canadian Doukhobor community, while mildly protesting that war is savagery, voluntarily offered all their lands,—their entire possessions, if necessary. Their statement reads as follows: "The directors of the Christian Society of Universal Brotherhood considered it necessary to call a meeting at Brilliant, Quebec, to discuss resolutions concerning the point at issue. At this meeting more than 2,000 of our society were present,—the women being in the majority. It was decided that we solemnly offer all lands which are occupied by Doukhobors in Canada to soldiers, who have suffered so much from the recent war." We are greatly impressed by the practical object lesson, thus given by the humble sect of Doukhobors, concerning a leading principle of the Sermon on the Mount. Astute theologians have contended that the sublime teachings of Christ in that memorable discourse are too idealistic for everyday exemplification in the present age, but the Doukhobor, when he reads: "Give to him that asketh thee" (Matt. 5: 42), is ready to respond to the limit, though it means the sacrifice of his entire landed possessions.

HOME AND FAMILY

God Knoweth Best

Beautiful toiler, thy work all done,
Beautiful soul into glory gone,
Beautiful life with its crown now won,
God giveth thee rest.
Rest from all sorrows, and watching and fears,
Rest from all possible sighing and tears,
Rest through God's endless, wonderful years,
At home with the blest.

Beautiful spirit, free from all stain,
Ours the heartache, the sorrow and pain,
Thine is the glory and infinite gain,
Thy slumber is sweet.
Peace on the brow and the eyelids so calm,
Peace in the heart, 'neath the white folded palm,
Peace dropping down like a wondrous balm,
From the head to the feet.

"It was so sudden," our white lips said,
"How we shall miss her," the beautiful dead,
Who take the place of the precious one fled,
But God knoweth best.
We know he watches the sparrows that fall,
Hears the sad cry of the grieved ones that call,
Children and grandchildren, he loveth them all,
We can trust for the rest.

Grandmother Warren

BY BESS BATES

The Other Corners

GRANDMOTHER WARREN and Sally were settled for their quiet Sunday afternoon. Sally had picked up her Bible, as soon as she sat down, with an eagerness that Grandmother watched smilingly. Sally read her Bible regularly, but Grandmother noted that this was not a regular reading. Sally was reading not from habit or duty but because she was extremely interested. Grandmother smiled and took up her own Bible, but she could not keep still very long.

She finally laid down her Bible, folded up her spectacles (Grandmother believed that she looked better without them) and remarked: "You are hunting the other corners, eh, Sally?"

"What?" Sally's finger continued along the line jerkily.

"You are hunting the other corners?"

Sally sighed and looked up, well knowing that was the quickest way to get back to reading.

"I once read," said Grandmother, "that if you give a person one corner of a subject and he can not hunt out the other three for himself, he is not worth the trouble of a complete explanation. I had to think about that when I saw you pick up your Bible so quickly after dinner. You are hunting the other three corners, aren't you?"

"I am studying about the sermon this morning," said the matter-of-fact Sally.

"Exactly," asserted Grandmother smiling. "That was a one-corner sermon and I venture to say that a good many more people besides you and me are hunting for the other corners this very minute. I saw Jennie Davis making a few notes on her Sunday-school paper and it wasn't a note to Alice either. Neither of them were reading their papers, as they usually do, all through church, but they were listening to the sermon. Almost every one else was, too.

"We have had a good many sermons lately where the preacher would pick out one clause out of one verse out of one chapter out of one book out of the whole Bible, and tell so much about those few words that there was nothing left for the congregation to do. Those sermons are all right and we need them, but now and then we do need something like we got this morning. It sort of revives and stimulates our own interest and study in the Bible.

"Bro. Myers introduced us to one book of the Bible and showed us how to get acquainted by ourselves. Of course, he had to put quite a lot of work on that sermon, in order to show us how to work, but I believe his efforts are worth while. It was worth a lot to me to see Jennie and Alice interested. I have been a little worried about them lately.

"I suppose some would think that taking a whole book of the Bible for the subject of a sermon is a waste of good material. But I think it is just what we need. We study the Bible piecemeal in the Sunday-school. We read it in our home verse by verse or chapter by chapter. If we go to school or make some particular study of it, we may get a comprehensive view of it, but so few of us have that opportunity, so many are missing some of the most beautiful things in it. We only see the patches when we ought to be admiring a whole quilt.

"Now, Bro. Myers told us this morning the things about this Book that we couldn't find out from the Bible itself. He told about the history, the author and the purpose of it and also gave a brief outline. It was like leading us into a beautiful palace and saying: 'Now I have brought you here. Make yourselves at home and enjoy the beauties about you.' That kind of a sermon is bound to do good, for it did not stop at twelve o'clock but will keep growing and growing in the lives of everyone who will be inspired to study. I hope he gives us some more like it, once in a while.

"Really, it is better to get people to work for themselves. You can preach at them, inform them and inspire them and they will go out of the church saying: 'That was a good sermon. How much did you get for that load of hogs, John?' but when the preacher can make the members of his congregation work and study for themselves, he is doing his best work.

"Bro. Myers knew how to do it, too. He got his congregation so curious about the Book of John that they wanted to find out more for themselves, and there was no keeping them away from their Bibles. I was glad to see that one corner was all our people need to make them find the other three. Well, Sally, you don't need to listen any more. You can go back to reading for yourself."

Grandmother leaned back and smiled while Sally started moving her finger across the page.

Prophetstown, Ill.

Flowers for the Living

BY EDNA VIOLET KERR

In Three Parts.—Part Two

QUIETLY the guests at the Brockman home slipped away, leaving the family alone with their sad news. And Flora and Varley Brockman were surprised to see the grief portrayed in their mother's face.

Finally to her children she said: "We will start for Aunt Mary's very early in the morning and must take food along that is easily prepared. The neighbors may not know about us and father might not think of dinner for us. Poor father, how bad he must need us at this minute! Flora and Varley, you must go at once to order flowers. Spare no expense. We want to take everything with us in the morning, so all should be delivered here this evening. Tomorrow is the funeral. We'll all have to help. And hurry, children!"

"Oh, mama, don't say we have to go to a funeral! I never was at a funeral in my life! Please, mama!" pleaded Flora.

"Why, Flora, how could you think of staying away?"

"But mother, do please have a heart. Surely, it isn't necessary for us to go!" added Varley Brockman.

"That will do, children. Your words only show me how terrible has been our neglect of Aunt Mary. You children weren't always grown up. Once you were babies and there was no money and Aunt Mary helped us. Oh, she did everything for us! Now there is money,—lots of it,—and what have we done for her? I can't bear it,—dear Aunt Mary!" wailed Ellen Brockman.

"Get the most beautiful flowers in Carroll City, Flora. Hundreds of them! Get all we can possibly stow away in the car. It's all we can do now. And hurry, children. Ring for Sam. I want him."

Sam Gallup, man of color from Alabama and chauffeur for the Brockmans, appeared with proper self-effacement, received brief orders and was gone, wholly unconscious of the ghostly experience that was to be his on the morrow. Mrs. Brockman was soon giving more orders to one of the maids about food: "A large baked ham, Rita, and anything else you think of that can be stowed away in the hampers," finished Mrs. Brockman.

"Yes, ma'am, I'll see to it at once," answered the maid, and Mrs. Brockman knew she would, for her servants were faithful and once her orders were given, she was free to indulge her grief for Aunt Mary to any extent she pleased. So, when Leonard Lee Brockman came across his wife, huddled in a corner of the library, and heard her sobs, he was surprised to find she had had such a deep attachment for her Aunt Mary, and offered himself to go and get flowers and yet more flowers to lay upon the still form of Aunt Mary.

"It's all we can do now," he said.

"Yes, it's all we can do now," echoed his wife.

* * *

The gray dawn of Wednesday morning found Ella Brockman arising to a duty that for once could not be put off, while to Flora and Varley Brockman it was the first time they could remember having to do something they didn't want to do. Their spoiled young lives had been pleasant, and grim realities like this were unheard of and unwelcome. Leonard Lee Brockman,—always thoughtful of his wife,—was at once her comfort and support. Even now he was prodding Sam Gallup to unwonted activity, overseeing Rita's packing of the hampers, hurrying Flora and Varley at their dressing, and anything else he found to do that would help his wife.

Soon Sam's head appeared at the foot of the stairs, as Mr. Brockman was once more hurrying down. "What is it, Sam?"

"It's de boxes ob flowahs, Mistah Brockman. Theah hain't room fo' all. If Mistah Varley could run de cah it would save a heap o' room; Mistah Brockman, and ah could stay heah," said Sam.

"Oh, no, Sam, I think we can get the boxes all in. Come, I'll show you."

"But, Mistah Brockman, ah couldn't go to a daid woman's house nohow. Ah hain't used to funerals," protested Sam.

"Oh, I see. So that's it? Well, you needn't go near the dead woman and you may stay in the car every minute you are not needed to run errands. You see you are really needed, Sam, or I would let you off this time."

"Well, Mistah Brockman, ah cain't promise nohow what ah would do if ah saw a ghost. Sometimes, Mistah Brockman, daid folks' ghoses hant de places wheah dey libed!" said Sam in fear and trembling.

"That will do, Sam. Be ready in a half hour. You will be handy to the machine so if you see a ghost you can start down the road at fifty miles an hour and go as far as you like," rashly promised Mr. Brockman.

"Yes, suh, Mistah Brockman, ah'll be ready, suh." And Sam Gallup was ready at the appointed moment, and so was the family.

Somehow everything and everyone that was to go found places in the luxurious closed car. And because it was closed they missed the sweetness of the fresh morning air. Farmers were just beginning to stir about as they passed along. The young folks couldn't remember ever having risen so early before. Flora sat moodily staring at the tips of her gray kid shoes,—the very last word in shoes,—and dreaded the unknown ordeal before her. It would be torture, she knew. Varley stared gloomily at the farmhouses and frowned.

Leonard Lee Brockman sat wrapped in his own thoughts. He could ill afford to spend this day away from his office. Big affairs were to have been discussed today. Well, it was too bad about Aunt Mary, too bad! And Ella feeling so bad and all,—

Ella softly sobbed into her handkerchief, which was of the purest and sheerest of linen.

"Now, mama, try to be brave. We're almost there," said Mr. Brockman to his wife.

And soon the smart equipage passed the staring Plummers and glided noiselessly up before Aunt Mary's gate.

"Yes, it all looks just the same. How clean and shining everything is!" they murmured in low voices. "Yes, we should have come long ago."

"I thought Uncle Gibson would be here, mama," said Flora. "And mama, the neighbors, surely there must be some one about. Oh, I can't bear to go in!" shivered Flora.

"Come at once, everybody," ordered Ella Brockman.

"Sam, bring everything into the house."

The door was not locked and they entered. No one was there to greet them. The stillness was oppressive. The loud ticking of the clock accused them all of the crime of neglect. Ella Brockman sank into an arm-chair to continue her sobbing, and Sam Gallup, stepping warily about, now and again glancing over his shoulder at the several closed doors, brought the boxes and hampers.

Flora nervously began unpacking the beautiful blossoms they had brought, laying them about on tables and chairs till the room was filled with the overpowering fragrance of them. So beautiful were they that even the Brockmans, whose rooms were graced with the costliest and freshest of flowers every day, were made to exclaim again and again at the wonder of them. When all were uncovered, every corner overflowed and were they all piled high upon one still form, even the dead must feel the weight of them. Every blossom would bow its head and mourn, "Too late."

"Take the hampers to the kitchen, Sam," spoke Mrs. Brockman.

"Yas, ma'am. Which doah, ma'am?" asked Sam, desperately afraid of opening the wrong one and being confronted with a nameless horror. "Wheah is de daid woman?"

"That door, Sam," answered Mrs. Brockman, and Sam, thinking she was answering his last question chose, of course, the wrong door! And it was a long, hair-raising, blood-curdling howl that Sam Gallup let forth as he beheld the apparition before him!

Ashland, Ohio.

Why Take Time?

BY REBECCA C. FOUTZ

"WELL, what did she say about it?" Mrs. Forbes eagerly inquired of her sister as she returned from her errand. Her sister had come to live with her since being widowed.

"That they couldn't possibly take the time now," she replied, at which Maria Ann Forbes burst out indignantly with these words: "Might be out a few dollars, you know, if they didn't dig and grub for those two days,—not to mention the expense of car-fare." Then, more resignedly: "But it's just what I might have expected; only I did think that your asking them might have more weight."

At the shocked look on Ellen Bradley's face, because of this sudden outburst on the part of her usually even-tempered sister, Maria Ann confessed: "I guess my faith wasn't of a mountain-moving strength and I know my criticism wasn't kind, but I do get out of patience with their excuses about the work and no time. There isn't any one in our congregation who could better afford to go to this Sunday-school and Missionary Convention than the Harlows, and we do so need the help and inspiration that one gets at such meetings to push the work here at home," she finished with a break in her voice, as the last thought almost overcame her.

"Yes, it is a pity," sister Ellen sympathized, "for any one to get into such a rut. I argued and coaxed, but to no avail."

"And what's worse," Maria Ann began again, as she warmed to her subject, "I fear they have the wrong idea about this sticking so close to work now and enjoying themselves when they get old, for it can't be done. We must take a little time, as we go along, to enjoy rightful pleasures, or we won't know how when we grow old. We have to develop the capacity for them during all the years and not wait until we are old and the mind is as incapable of learning new tricks as is the body. As a rule, we can't 'right about, face,' so suddenly, especially in old age, for we are not made that way. And more, one can not make up for such things missed during former years." Then she questioned: "Do you remember Mr. and Mrs. Lowe back home?"

"I certainly do. Are they living yet?" Ellen asked with real interest.

"Yes, and I went to see them when I was down there last year on a visit to Aunt Milly. To me, it is one of the most pitiable cases and as much of a warning as Lot's wife."

"Pitiable case!" Ellen exclaimed. "Have they lost their money?"

"They surely have not. Trust old man Lowe to hold onto that, but I think they'd be much happier if they had." Maria Ann shook her head emphatically, then continued: "You know how they always worked. There was never a let-up. For years it was nothing but hard, unremitting toil. They wouldn't take time or money to enjoy any kind of pleasure. I can remember so well how Mrs. Lowe used to say what they were going to do when they got old.

"Well, they've reached that place, and now they can't because they don't know how. There they sit in that fine house, surrounded by luxury that is really a burden to them. They'd keep working like always if the children would let them do it. Some of the younger folks were going on an outing, the day I called to see them, and Mrs. Lowe told me that they wanted her to go along, but she did not care to do so. She said that there was a time when she longed to go out a day and just sit and drink in the wonderful beauty God made in nature, but that now the desire was gone.

"To me, it was tragic. Such a shriveled soul among all that plenty! Why, my washerwoman has a much richer life, for she takes time to keep alive her taste for some of the finer things to be had in life. She hasn't accumulated much of this world's goods in the process but she has something far more valuable.

"And the worst part of it is, that what they have gotten by squeezing the best out of their own lives, is being flung around pretty freely by their children and grandchildren, without any appreciation of how it came, and not always for their good, either. I feel that they could have been happier themselves and given their children a far better inheritance by living differently.

"That was quite a speech," Maria Ann apologized, "but since observing what I saw last summer, I get so upset whenever I see people taking such a course as the Harlows are following. This subject always makes me think of all the folks who want to go to heaven, and who, despite such a desire, don't care to go to meeting or to enjoy the things of God here. I always feel like telling them that they had better cultivate their taste for these things here if they expect to enjoy the life over there."

"All you said is true," Ellen readily agreed, "but then there is the other extreme. Over in Boyton I had neighbors who simply lived to give their children pleasure. Their theory was that young folks should just have a good time, and nothing was ever allowed to interfere with it. There was no better or higher ideal ever held up to them. And the pace they did go! They grew up without any preparation for real life, and some of them came mighty near not only shipwrecking their own lives but those of some others too, when they got up against some of the stern realities of life."

Maria Ann sighed. "Yes, and far too many children are raised that way, nowadays. Extremes in anything are bad and should be carefully avoided."

Waynesboro, Pa.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

HELP OTHERS

You may wonder why we wish to write or tell a story,—a true story of how pastor and members of the Church of the Brethren, Hummel Street, Harrisburg, Pa., "help others."

Mr. Henry is blind as well as deaf, and has not had the use of his lower limbs since Jan. 5, 1905. All this is the result of an encounter with burglars who enterd our home in October, 1902. Mr. Henry can not attend any church service, but the dear friends of the above-named church bring the message of love and devotion to us. It is such an uplift to have them come and they are always welcome guests. They share with us their joys and often bring us the messages of sweet flowers, fruit and other material gifts.

We look for Pastor Conner and Miss Sallie Schaffner regularly,—just as we look for the coming of the morning of each day. They visit us every week. Whenever they "pass this way" there is always a greeting. We wish that more of God's chosen people might do the "little things." No one can tell the good that is done by helping others. By their acts of kindness we continue to have faith in Christ's teachings and the teachings of the church. We feel that there still are true and helpful Samaritans, just as there were many years ago.

May we all learn the lesson to "help others" in some way,—a kind word, a greeting, a wave of the hand or a smile! An act or a deed, no matter how small, will bring forth its "harvest in due season."

Callers converse with Mr. Henry by placing his fingers on raised letters and spelling the words they wish to convey to him. Any one wishing to read the magazine article of the burglar attack and how Mr. Henry meets people, can have the same by enclosing a stamp to the writers for a reply. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Henry.

1224 Derry Street, Harrisburg, Pa.

HUTCHINSON, KANSAS

The church at this place is promoting the Forward Movement for the Kingdom. Brother and Sister Oliver H. Austin were with us in a one week's campaign for souls. The Bible sermons, new life in the song services and their effective personal work were greatly appreciated.

Four were received by Christian baptism and one by letter. Prior to the love feast Bro. Melvin Kint and wife, Bro. Thomas Templeton and wife, and Bro. Alfred Kint were installed into the office of deacon. Bro. Austin officiated, assisted by Bro. Ellis M. Studebaker, both of McPherson.

The Sunday-school, under the leadership of Bro. J. A. Nininger, is increasing in attendance and spirituality.

The Junior League is preparing to give an Easter Program, both at the church, and at the State Reformatory.

Brother and Sister Miles Blickenstaff will have charge of the services here on Mothers' Day, May 11.

At our last members' meeting the Evangelistic committee reported as having secured the services of Eld. L. H. Root, to be with us in a four weeks' revival Sept. 28. Brother Alfred Kint and the writer were chosen delegates to the Annual Meeting.

Since our last report, Eld. D. L. Miller and our District Sunday-School Secretary, Bro. J. W. Deeter, have been with us. We were favored with messages of life and encouragement.

April 26-28 is the date for the District Meeting. Bring "Kingdom Songs No. 2." The churchhouse is located at Eighth and Ford Streets, four blocks north of street-car line. Ask for a Fourth Avenue car on Main, and stop at Ford. Lodging is free. Phone to 3235W or 1639W. Meals will be furnished at reasonable rates.

We assure you a welcome in Hutchinson's characteristic way. While it is only a three days' session, we hope that all will help to make it one of the best in this District.

717 East Ninth, Hutchinson, Kans. O. H. Feiler.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

We met in council March 28, with Eld. D. W. Crist presiding. Eld. C. W. Guthrie gave a very favorable report of the work of the Boyle Heights Mission during the last quarter. It shows a healthy growth and promises to be a fruitful field. Feeling that a permanent work can be established in that territory, but considering that a site nearer the car-line, more centrally located, would be an advantage, the members of the mission requested the privilege of soliciting the church for funds to purchase another lot and to build a suitable churchhouse. The request was granted, and the trustees of the church were appointed to arrange for the disposal of the present property.

The treasurer's report was good, and it was decided to pay the District Mission Board our apportionment up to date. Our love feast was appointed for May 11.

The Chinese mission is in good condition, considering the fact that the Mission Board has not yet been able to secure a permanent worker. The Primary Department, especially, is growing. Last Sunday morning the superintendent of that department made an earnest appeal to the young people of the Los Angeles church for a permanent teacher for the beginners, and we hope some one will respond.

We have recently been favored with a number of addresses from brethren and sisters returning from various foreign fields. Bro. Thomas Chung, who spent the last year in China, gave a very interesting account of the few days he stopped over in Japan, and of his sojourn in South China, the home of most of our Chinese brethren now in America. Bro. Lew Faun, having spent the last three years in China, returned with Bro. Chung. He gave an interesting address in the Chinese Mission. He and Bro. Chung are both impressed with the need of a permanent mission in South China for the sake of the returning brethren and their families.

Brother and Sister Wampler, returned missionaries from

(Continued on Page 286)

A GOLDEN PRIZE

To the Presidents of the Brethren Colleges, including Ashland College, Ohio, I will give ten dollars in gold for the best essay on the subject: "The Incompatibility of Christianity and War."

The essay is to consist of testimony, argument and conclusion. The time limit is May 30. The space limit is 1,500 words. Communications should be typewritten, and signed with a nom de plume,—the real name being enclosed in a sealed envelope. The award is to be given by a non-partisan, disinterested commission. The contestants will send their communications to me. The winning essay will be published in the "Gospel Messenger" and the "Brethren Evangelist," with the consent of the authors.

Roanoke, Va. D. C. Moomaw.

REUNION OF PETER BECKER'S DESCENDANTS AT WINONA

All descendants of Eld. Peter Becker are urgently requested to attend a reunion of the descendants of Peter Becker during the Conference at Winona. The time and place are to be determined and announced on the Bulletin Boards during the Conference. Any one reading this notice and knowing of such descendants, who might not receive this information, will confer a favor by informing them of this meeting. It is the opinion of the committee that this may be a very pleasant, profitable and instructive event during the Conference at Winona.

Bicentennial Program Committee.

McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPHERSON, KANSAS

The thirty-first session of McPherson College will close with the events of Commencement week, which begins Sunday, May 25, and ends Friday, May 30. Commencement comes a week later, this year, on account of the loss of time, incident to the prevalence of Spanish influenza in the school. The Baccalaureate Sermon will be given on the evening of May 25 by the President, D. Webster Kurtz. There will be large graduating classes. The Alumni Business Meeting and Banquet take place on Thursday night. The speaker for graduation morning (Friday) is one of the most widely-known educators and pulpit orators in the West. Dr. Raymond A. Schwegler, of the University of Kansas, will give a message of vital interest to all who hear him. Friends and patrons of the college are invited to spend the week with us. No formal invitation is needed.

June 2 the Summer School of the College begins. It continues till July 11. Special emphasis is laid on work leading to graduation in some department of the school. Teachers will find our review courses very helpful. Those interested will correspond with the College.

Field Secretary W. O. Beckner has just returned from a trip to Texas and Southeastern Kansas. A good brother in Cherokee County, Kansas, conveyed to Bro. Beckner, for the College, a fine eighty-acre tract of land, this making a total of 160 acres given by this same brother within the present calendar year. The College is profoundly thankful for the gift.

President Kurtz is to spend a short time at Estes Park, Colo., this summer, where he is one of the speakers and Bible teachers at the great Y. M. C. A. Conference. He has been compelled to decline many invitations to give Commencement addresses this spring.

The catalog for the next school-year will be issued in May, and may be had by addressing the College.

E. L. Craik.

College Hill, McPherson, Kans., April 19.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 277)

—W. R. Cline, 1070 Gas and Electric Building, Denver, Colo., April 20.

Sterling church met in called council April 10, with Bro. S. G. Mickey presiding. Bro. Weaver, of Omaha, gave us two good messages. A Japanese brother from Bethany Bible School was here for several days and told of the customs and different religions of Japan, emphasizing the great need of sending missionaries to that country. While here, he led two Japanese to Christ. They were baptized and enjoyed the love feast with us April 11. One of our junior Sunday-school boys has been baptized since our last report.—Mary Countryman, Atwood, Colo., April 19.

ILLINOIS

Batavia church met to business session April 7, with Eld. Geo. Heagley presiding. He was reelected to continue in this office during the coming year. Bro. A. F. Musselman was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. J. S. Flory, alternate. We decided to hold our communion service May 18, at 7:30 P. M.—Nellie K. Netzley, Batavia, Ill., April 17.

Elgin.—"The King of Glory" was given his Easter crown at the "little church on Highland" last Sunday. Children predominated in the program in the morning, with songs and readings. Three young ladies, robed in white, gave the pantomime, "Abide With Me," while an invisible quartet sang. The adult chorus sang two numbers. The beautiful finale of the morning was the baptism of nine, mostly children, the fruit of our Decision Day of two weeks ago. Over the baptistry rose a white cross, on which were the words, "Rose in violets," "He is Risen." Green and white was the note in the decorations. The attendance was two hundred and forty; the offering, $9.77. In the evening the King was offered his crown of victory in a beautiful cantata. The rendition was preceded by an interpretation of it by S. C. Miller.—Adaline H. Beery, Elgin, Ill., April 22.

Lanark church met for business April 18, with Eld. J. M. Moore presiding. Three letters were received. We are anticipating having us some time in the near future. Bro. P. F. Eckerle was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Sister Ella Moore, alternate. The Sunday-school is now supporting six French orphans. We are also working to raise our apportionment for Armenian Relief. Our church recently dedicated the parsonage which is now occupied by our pastor and elder, Bro. J. M. Moore. Bro. P. F. Eckerle gave the dedicatory address in a very pleasing manner. Bro. Moore responded and in his discourse emphasized the value to the church and community, of the parsonage as well as our homes, being dedicated to the Lord. April 21 we began a week of Bible study on the doctrines of the church, closing with our love feast.—Neil Sites, Lanark, Ill., April 18.

Mt. Morris.—Easter Sunday was a full day for the Mt. Morris church. Following the Sunday-school hour an impressive program was given by the primary, intermediate and junior departments. After this we elected one of our local ministers to serve as pastor, Eld. M. M. Sherrick was chosen. In the afternoon we were favored by an address on "The Balkan Situation," by Eld. Edward Bell Haskell, who has served as a missionary in that country for more than twenty years. Later in the afternoon one was received by baptism. In the evening the Christian Workers gave a program and later Dr. Haskell spoke on "The Land of Missionary Adventure." The young people were urged to devote their lives to work which will mean most to the cause. He also spoke of the suffering in Armenia and Syria and the Balkan States. To this, the church made up its offering. Over $1,000 has been raised in cash and pledges. This amount, with what was contributed at Christmas time, makes a total of about $1,800.—Marion E. Shirk, Mt. Morris, Ill., April 23.

Pine Creek church enjoyed a very interesting Easter service given by eleven sisters. The attendance was very good. We decided to change the date of our love feast, making it May 3, at 7 P. M. We expect to have Bro. J. W. Lear with us May 11, in the morning service.—Bertha M. Stauffer, Polo, Ill., April 24.

Rockford church met in council April 3. Our elder, Bro. Redenbo, of Mt. Morris, was present. Our pastor, Bro. Cox, announced that he would soon be leaving to take up work with the Greenleafton church, Minnesota. We voted to have Bro. Cox continue to secure another pastor soon.—Mrs. E. C. Wise, Rockford, Ill., April 15.

Virden church reports a total offering of $336.07 for the Armenian sufferers. Our love feast was held last Sunday at 7 P. M. The services of the day were well attended and the spirit was appreciated. He preached an impressive sermon in the morning on "What Think Ye of Christ?" As he is our Sunday-school Secretary, he also gave a practical talk on the standard for Sunday-schools. The primary department gave an Easter program in the regular Sunday-school hour. This was followed by "In Old Jerusalem," given by the older Sunday-school pupils. Altogether we had a feast of good things on Easter Day.—Stella Brubaker, Virden, Ill., April 20.

Waddams Grove.—April 13 Eld. Chas. H. Keltner preached an inspiring sermon, after which over $550 was pledged and given in money for the Armenian sufferers. All the members have not yet been solicited. Bro. Ira Auburn, recently arrived, volunteered to take charge of the church at this place. Our young people gave a very interesting Easter program at the Chelsea church.—Clara E. Myers, Waddams Grove, Ill., April 21.

INDIANA

Flora church has enjoyed a week's series of meetings, with our pastor, Bro. H. C. Early, assisted by Eld. Kintner. Decision Day will be utilized by the teachers of each class. During the week seven stood for Christ, four of whom were baptized. The children also rendered an appropriate program. We had an attendance of 283 at Sunday-school. Our envelopes are coming to raise our quota for the Armenian Relief.—Mattie Welty, Flora, Ind., April 20.

Fountain.—March 23 Eld. E. O. Norris gave two inspiring sermons. Two young men from the Antioch Mission were baptized. March 30 we organized a Sunday-school, with Bro. Kintner, Superintendent. April 30, at our regular preaching services, a collection of $10 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief.—W. I. Kintner, Holton, Ind., April 22.

Landess church met in council April 7, with Eld. Hummer presiding. One letter was granted and two received. Bro. Olie Mathias was elected delegate to District Meeting. Bro. Marshal Pence, Olie Mathias and David Kitch were elected as ministerial committee for one year. The Sunday-school and church services are in regular progress again in the new church, which is not quite completed yet. The attendance is good. Cottage prayer meeting is held each Tuesday evening.—Ethel Mae Landess, Bach, Ind.

Loon Creek.—April 6 Bro. D. H. Hirt, our pastor, began a series of meetings continuing until April 20. While there were no accessions, still we feel that much good has been done. Bro. Hirt's sermons were inspiring and helpful to all. Our offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief, counting that previously reported, has reached almost $400. May 11 we expect to have with us Sister Anna Hutchison, returned missionary from China.—Mae Hoover, Huntington, Ind., April 22.

Manchester.—It has been our privilege to have Bro. Chas. D. Bonsack, of New Windsor, Md., with us in three of our services of the past two Sundays. The Sunday-school, Easter Day, was given to the Primary, Junior and Intermediate departments, with a special program. The Choral Society rendered a musical program in the evening.—Ivah M. Grossnickle, North Manchester, Ind., April 23.

Middlebury church enjoyed a great spiritual blessing April 11 and 12, when Bro. A. Cline, Sister Sadie Miller, of India, Bro. Brooks and Sister Inez Byer, of Bethany, were with us. Bro. Claybaugh gave lectures and views of Chicago, while the others showed us the need of more workers in the foreign field. It is a great inspiration to see such devoted young people giving up their lives in service. On Saturday afternoon they met with the Junior Mission Band and Sister Sadie Miller told the children what is meant by self-denial. Bro. Brooks also gave some good suggestions for Mission Study. An offering of $38 was lifted for the Nyoda Boarding Fund. April 20 Sunday morning Bro. Brooks preached for us.—Mrs. Geo. S. Sherck, Middlebury, Ind., April 18.

Muncie.—In this report, three more have been added to our number by baptism. Five have been received by letter. Our Sunday and Sunday-school continue to grow. There were 140 present at Sunday-school on Easter Sunday. An Easter program was rendered by the children. At the evening service, Eld. G. L. Studebaker's theme was "The Resurrection."—C. Branson, Muncie, Ind., April 21.

Oak Grove church met in council April 5, with Eld. M. J. Whitmer presiding. Three letters were granted. Bro. Claude Ullery was elected delegate. Sister Armilda Hoover, March 22 and 23 Sister Clara Michael and Bro. Floyd Irvin, of Bethany Bible School, were with us in the interest of missions. Sister Sadie Miller, on furlough from India, also gave a very interesting talk on her work. We had a good attendance at both services and an offering of nearly $32 was taken for mission work. On Sunday evening, Bro. Charles Rupel, who is now attending Bethany Bible School, delivered his first sermon, which was very good.—Harry Miller, North Liberty, Ind., April 14.

Plevna church met in council March 23, with Bro. Elsworth Weimer presiding. Bro. Forrest Hostetler was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Eld. Joe Kendall, alternate. March 30 we lifted an offering of $70.25, $56 of which is to go to the Armenian-Syrian Relief and the remainder to the India Famine Fund. Our series of meetings will begin some time in May.—Tena Smith, Kokomo, Ind., April 14.

Salamonie church has enjoyed many splendid services lately and is anticipating more good things in the very near future. Since March 1 our Christian Workers' Society has been reorganized and several interesting programs have been given. Recitals by the students from North Manchester College rendered a program of a missionary character. An offering was taken for Reconstruction Work, bringing our total to about $350. April 14 a special council meeting was held to make necessary arrangements for our lectures and series of meetings. April 21 Owen W. Wiard, a lecturer of international fame, will begin a course of seven lectures, followed by the revival conducted by Eld. F. L. Heestand, pastor of the church. May 4 will be held the dedication and home coming services,—the former in the morning and the latter program in the afternoon. Dinner will be served in the basement for all who desire to attend. A special invitation is extended to those who were once connected with the Salamonie church. The primary department of the Sunday-school will give an Easter program on Sunday evening.—Hampton Zook, Huntington, Ind., April 15.

South Whitley.—Our two weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. S. J. Burger, of Howe, Ind., closed April 6. Two accepted Christ. The meetings were well attended throughout, and the church feels greatly blessed and revived. We now have sixty members. Bro. Geo. Swihart was retained as elder. Easter Sunday Bro. D. C. Cole, of North Manchester, preached two sermons, which were highly appreciated.—Mrs. Henry J. Neff, South Whitley, Ind., April 20.

West Eel River church met in special council April 19, with Brethren Emanuel LeCrone and P. D. Yarbrough presiding. Reports were given by all the deacons sent out on the annual visit. Also reports of two visitation committees were received. Our love feast will be held May 3. Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely.—Ruth Metzger, Claypool, Ind., April 21.

IOWA

Franklin County.—Our quota for Relief and Reconstruction is $275. Our offering April 13 was $302.05. This, with the amount previously reported, totals $417.08. The quota is higher than these figures show, since several families have moved away from our records. Our elder is urging us to make a larger missionary offering than ever before, naming $500 as the goal. Bro. Virgil C. Finnell will be with us in a three-day Institute, April 25-27. Friday, at 8:30 P. M., he will give his illustrated lecture, "The Rural Church Facing Its Tasks." Sunday will be a full day at the church, with lectures at 11 A. M., 1:15, 2:00 and 8:30 P. M.—Harvey W. Allen, Dumont, Iowa, April 16.

Garrison church met in council March 15, with Eld. H. A. Gnagy presiding. We expect Bro. Hugh Hoffman, of Chicago, to hold a series of meetings for us May 18, closing with a love feast May 31 and June 1.—Mrs. Minnie Gnagy, Dysart, Iowa, April 23.

Greene church convened in council, with Eld. W. H. Lichty presiding. Bro. Lichty was retained as elder for another year, and Bro. W. E. Ankeny as deacon. Two letters were received. Two new families have moved into our midst since March 1. Bro. Buntain will represent us at Annual Meeting. April 13 our pastor gave us a very impressive sermon on the subject "The Good Samaritan," which was very appropriate for the occasion.—Relief Sunday. At the close of the service an offering was lifted for Armenian-Syrian Relief. Our quota was $400 and $630.05 was received. It is expected that the amount will be raised to $900, when the report is complete. An Easter program will be rendered on Sunday evening.—Elsie A. Pyle, Greene, Iowa, April 15.

KANSAS

Belleville.—The District Meeting of Northwestern Kansas and Northeastern Colorado, after being twice postponed, was held at the Belleville church April 15 and 16. Only the business part was held on account of the influenza being prevalent when the arrangements were made. The District was very harmonious in the passing of delegates from the different churches. Thursday night Bro. Stutsman, of Burr Oak, preached, and Wednesday night Bro. Jarboe, of Superior, talked to a well-filled house. The District Meeting will be held next fall at Quinter, Kans. The Belleville church also held a council meeting Wednesday. Bro. A. C. Daggett was reelected for the next six months as elder, and Bro. John Oakley, our pastor, as assistant elder. Four letters were granted to those who have moved away. Our love feast will be held May 31.—Jessie Ball, Belleville, Kans., April 22.

Bloom.—Our Sunday-school gave a very good Easter program on Sunday morning. In the evening our pastor, Bro. J. S. Sherly, gave us an excellent discourse on "Life Emerging from Death." Our Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Band are doing some excellent work since the epidemic has subsided. Our series of meetings will begin May 6 and continue for two weeks, the love feast to be held at the close of the meetings. We expect Bro. Feiler, from Hutchinson, Kans., to be with us.—Cassie Martin, Bloom, Kans., April 21.

Kansas City (Armourdale Mission).—We are glad to report some progress in the work here. Interest is slowly, but we feel steadily, increasing. We have been favored with a few sermons, recently, by Brethren Geo. Clemens, and Isaac Crist. We intend to have a love feast this spring, announcement of which will be made later. Last Sunday night we held special services for Armenian and Syrian relief work, at which our offering was $33.72. Then we decided to take the class offering the next Sunday, at Sunday-school, for the same purpose, and that amounted to $8, making a total of $41.72 for that work. Our Annual Conference offering has also been taken. It amounted to $30.' We are making some much needed improvements on the mission property. We are few in number and need more workers, especially teachers. Please pray for our little mission.—Chas. 'A. Miller, Kansas City, Kans., April 20.

McPherson.—Gifts to the Armenian Fund, which was launched by this congregation on April 6, are coming in. The amount now amounts to slightly over $1,600. Our semiannual love feast was held April 13, and was enjoyed by one of the largest crowds, assembled here for that purpose, for some time. Eld. D. W. Kurtz delivered a masterly self-examination sermon in the morning, explaining the real spiritual significance of the symbols. He also presided at the love feast in the evening. The quarterly business meeting of the church occurred last night, with Eld. J. S. Johns in charge. The report of the church treasurer, Bro. Joseph Andes, showed a substantial balance. One query was sent to District Meeting. Seven letters of membership were received. Bro. J. Edson Ulrey, of Onekama, Mich., will be with us in a revival effort next November.—F. L. Craik, McPherson, Kans., April 15.

Sabetha church had a "red letter" day April 13, when our elder, Bro. R. A. Yoder, preached a very inspiring sermon. The theme was, "A Vision of the World's Need." Special emphasis on suffering Armenia. After a strong appeal, $1,200 was raised for relief work. The Gospel Team, from McPherson College, will be with us April 26 and 27. Our series of meetings and love feast have been postponed indefinitely. Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely, with a good attendance. Bro. Roy Kistner is holding services every two weeks at the Porter schoolhouse.—Mrs. John Heikes, Sabetha, Kans., April 23.

OKLAHOMA

Monitor.—We held our love feast April 14, with about forty communing. Bro. B. Bright efficiently and pleasantly presided in the presence of visiting members. Sister Lydia Taylor was also with us and gave two interesting lectures on "Character and Clothes." Our prayers accompany Sister Taylor as she goes to other fields of labor. Two were received into the church by baptism.—Sarah Miller Logsdon, Nash, Okla., April 19.

MARYLAND

Baltimore (Woodberry) church met in council April 6, with Eld. C. D. Bonsack presiding. One was reclaimed and another received by baptism. Eld. F. D. Anthony was chosen elder of this church. Delegate to Annual Conference, with Eld. Ira Rairigh, and Bro. Gilbert; to Annual Meeting, Bro. F. D. Anthony, with Bro. S. Rairigh, alternate. The report of the treasurer showed an increase of $833.61 for 1918 over 1917. We are glad to report that this church is now self-supporting and hopes to continue to prosper. April 13 an offering of $25 was lifted for Armenian Relief by the Christian Workers' Society.—Flora A. H. Babylon, Baltimore, Md., April 16.

Baltimore (Woodberry).—Our opportunity to help the Armenian-Syrian Relief Fund is $110, and today the Sunday-school itself gave $100 in cash. This amount, with nearly $25, given by the Christian Workers' Society, puts us "over the top" and there are other offerings to follow. Next Sunday the church will be given the opportunity to contribute to this worthy cause.—F. D. Anthony, Baltimore, Md., April 20.

Notice.—Our Sunday-school Convention will be held at the Pine Grove church, Oakland congregation, June 8, and the District Meeting of Western Maryland will be held at the same place Aug. 29. The Ministerial Meeting convenes Aug. 30.—Zenas L. Mellott, Sines, Md., April 18.

MICHIGAN

Lake View church met in council April 19, with Bro. L. T. Holsinger as moderator. Our love feast will be held May 31, beginning at 7 P. M. We decided to have an all-day meeting June 1. Bro. Holsinger was chosen elder for one year; the writer, correspondent and "Messenger" agent. Bro. Holsinger was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting.—Ella Keith, Brethren, Mich., April 21.

Ministerial Conference.—Marilla, Harland, Homestead, Brethren, and Onekama congregations met in conference at Kaleva, Mich., April 12. Eld. J. Edson Ulery, of Onekama, was appointed Moderator of the meeting and O. F. Gochenour, of Kaleva, Clerk. The purpose of the Conference was to effect a more perfect organization of the ministry. The total membership of the five congregations is two hundred and three. The Onekama congregation has four ministers, Brethren has three, Homestead one, and Harland and Marilla have none. It was decided select an informal committee, of one member from each congregation, to draft plans by which the five churches can cooperate in the work of the ministry. The following members were appointed on this committee: Sister Lung from Homestead; Bro. Charles Miller from Harland; Bro. H. Grosnickle from Marilla; Bro. H. W. Gochenour from Brethren and Sister J. E. Ulery from Onekama. Bro. Grosnickle was chosen chairman of the committee and Bro. Charles Miller, secretary. This committee will meet April 26, and will then announce the date for the next Conference.—O. F. Gochenour, Kaleva, Mich., April 19.

Rodney church met in council April 5, with Eld. Samuel Bollinger in charge. Church officers were elected, with Bro. Bollinger, elder. Our love feast will be held June 21, commencing at 10 o'clock.—an all-day meeting. Our Brethren Sunday-school and our two church services since last November, except in February, when Bro. Bollinger came and preached for us. We have our Sunday-school going now, and will have preaching every two weeks.—W. E. Tombaugh, Rodney, Mich., April 15.

MINNESOTA

Hancock.—After having closed our school all winter on account of influenza, we again organized April 13, with Bro. Edwin Glover, superintendent. Our elder, Bro. A. J. Nickey, was present, and his help was much appreciated. His son, Bro. Ernest Nickey, gave us a splendid sermon. Our love feast was appointed for June 28 and 29.—Mrs. H. W. Yingst, Hancock, Minn., April 16.

Root River church met in council March 28, with Eld. Jonathan Broadwater presiding. Communion was granted. Sister Amanda Oornink was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. J. O. Burkholder, alternate. Bro. Cox has been secured to take up the pastoral work at this place from June 1. The Primary Department is preparing to give a program some time in May.—Amy J. Owen, Preston, Minn., April 16.

MISSOURI

Shelby County church met in council April 12. Two letters were granted to Brother and Sister Folger, who are moving to Idaho. Sister Salome Stouder was elected delegate to our Christian Workers' Society. April 6 our pastor talked to us about the Armenian-Syrian sufferers. 'Cash received for the fund amounted to $85.05. One of our sisters gave $10, who is not a member of the evangelist, going to or from Annual Meeting, hold a series of meetings for us if Bro. Geo. Ellenberger can not come. We are anxious for a revival, as we had none last fall. We had a very interesting Easter service.—Merle Stouder, Leonard, Mo., April 22.

NEBRASKA

Lincoln.—April 6 we had the pleasure of having with us again our former pastor, Bro. J. Edwin Jarhoe, and wife. They closed their meetings at Oenver and on their way to Chicago stopped over Sunday. In the morning Bro. Jarhoe gave us a fine talk on the work they had been doing in the past church year. While we have missed them greatly, yet we were made happy to know that Bro. Jarhoe, though his earnest preaching, has been the means of bringing so may souls to Christ. In the evening he again gave us a splendid sermon, on the subject "Eternity Without God." Both services were largely attended. We could not help but notice the new life and spirit that the song service took on, with Sister Jarhoe as leader again. We hope to have them with us again in the near future.—Alice Rush, Lincoln, Nebr., April 17.

NORTH CAROLINA

Pleasant Grove Sunday-school is progressing nicely. Our cradle roll superintendent has fourteen infants enrolled. Some have already received their Sunday cards, and the remainder will receive theirs the schools which Bro. Virgil C. Finnell, the Field Director, has visited. We hope they are all striving to become Front Line Sunday-schools. —Emma Boyer, Beaumont, N. C., April 20.

Spray Mission.—Our elder, Bro. A. Bowman, came to us April 19, and remained several days, preaching three times. April 20 we met in council. The report of the visiting brethren was favorable. Bro. Bowman was chosen elder for another year; the writer, "Messenger" correspondent. Sister Lucy Rickman, Sunday-school secretary decided to call Bro. Z. E. Mitchell, of the Antioch congregation, Va., to begin a series of meetings May 11, closing with a love feast May 24, beginning at 5 P. M. We should like information that will help us a membership of about fifty, and we hope that the work may prosper.—Mrs. Lucy A. Rickman, Leaksville, N. C., April 22.

NORTH DAKOTA

Egeland congregation met in council April 19, with Eld. A. M. Sharp presiding. Three letters were received. We decided not to send a delegate to Annual Meeting. On Easter Sunday Bro. Arthur Shively gave a splendid talk on Armenia and its needs, after which a collection of $125 was taken for the relief work. Our love feast will be held in July the close of our series of meetings, which will begin June 1. We are glad to have Bro. Sharp with us again. He spent the winter in California.—Nellie Kahl, Egeland, N. Dak., April 22.

Ellison.—We are glad indeed to have with us, April 13, Bro. Arthur Shively, of Egeland. His subject was, "Our Christian Duty to Armenia's Need." He gave us information that was much appreciated in our drive for the Armenian Relief. We about doubled our quota. We are looking forward with joy to the Mission Board's request for May. Surely we should double our quota, for the need is great.—J. C. Forney, Rock Lake, N. Oak., April 22.

OHIO

Bear Creek.—The Christian Workers' committee arranged an Easter program for the evening of April 13, which was well rendered. Following this, Bro. John Garst gave a splendid sermon. Easter Sunday we had an interesting service at 10 o'clock, when another program was given. Our returned missionary, Sister Anna Eby, told how she spent Easter in India last year. She showed us the costumes worn by Hindu women and girls. Following the Sunday-school hour, Sister Eby gave us an interesting talk, telling her experiences in evangelistic work in the villages. We expect to have Bro. Claybaugh, of Bethany, with us May 25 and 26.—Maudie W. Fifburn, Clayton, Ohio, April 22.

Circleville mission closed a series of meetings April 20, conducted by the pastor. Sister Edith Pletcher, of Goshen, Ind., had charge of the song service. Two have been received by baptism since our last report. We have gone "over the top" more than fourfold for Armenian-Syrian Relief. Our Sunday-school is nearing the 100 mark again and continues to grow in interest. The work has been greatly hindered during the winter on account of influenza, etc., but we hope for better things.—Mrs. Oliver Royer, Circleville, Ohio, April 23.

Jonathan Creek church met in council April 12, with Bro. E. B. Bagwell presiding. Eld. Bagwell is our delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. A. O. Helser, alternate. Brethren Helser and Marion Leckrone are our delegates to District Meeting, with Sister Mary Leckrone and the writer, alternates. Arrangements are being made to hold special services on Mother's Day. We decided to hold our spring love feast some time in May. Our pastor will try to secure an evangelist to hold services for us some time this fall. The Sisters' Aid Society gave a report of their year's work. The treasurer of the Missionary Committee also gave a report. Bro. J. J. Hoover, of Morrill, Kans., held services for us on Sunday morning and also on the evening of March 30. It had been a long time since Bro. Hoover had been in our midst and his presence and efforts were appreciated by all.—Mary H. Snider, Thornville, Ohio, April 21.

Lower Stillwater church met in special council, preparatory to our love feast, with Eld. L. A. Bookwalter presiding. Three letters were granted and three received. One was reclaimed. Our visiting brethren gave a good report. Eld. L. A. Bookwalter was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. Harvey Miller, alternate; Brethren Harvey Miller and Alva Oren, delegates to District Meeting. We have with us O. G. Berkebile, of Bradford, Ohio, to hold our series of meetings sometime in August. The third Sunday of each month we take a special offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Sister Oren prayer meeting and teachers' meeting every Thursday evening. March 22 and 23 Bro. H. A. Clayhaugh gave us an illustrated lecture on the work in Chicago and Bethany Bible School, which was very much appreciated. We expect to hold our home communion April 19, at 7 P. M.—Maude E. Crook, Trotwood, Ohio, April 18.

New Philadelphia.—We met in council April 11, with Bro. Shriver presiding in the absence of Bro. Shepler. We decided to send two delegates to the Sunday-school Conference. Sister Snyder prayer meeting and teachers' meeting every Thursday evening. March 22 and 23 Bro. H. A. Clayhaugh gave us an illustrated lecture on the work in Chicago and Bethany Bible School, which was very much appreciated. We expect to hold our home communion April 19, at 7 P. M.—Maude E. Crook, Trotwood, Ohio, April 18.

New Philadelphia.—We met in council April 11, with Bro. Shriver presiding in the absence of Bro. Shepler. We decided to send two delegates to the Sunday-school Conference. Sister Snyder and Sister Morse were elected. They are to serve as delegates to the Christian Workers' Convention also. Bro. Shriver was elected delegate to Annual Meeting. We agreed to pay our amount to the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Reuben Shroyer recently gave us two excellent addresses, containing many words of encouragement. Good Easter services were held in the morning and evening. Since our last report, two have accepted Christ and been baptized by him into the church. We hope and believe that after the building of our new church many more souls may be brought into the fold. We are working with earnest will and effort toward getting our share of the money. This new building which is much needed.—Clark E. Springer, New Philadelphia, Ohio, April 21.

Notice to Southern Ohio.—On the evening before our District Meeting, at Pleasant Hill, Ohio, we will hold our conference. Eld. L. A. Bookwalter will give the address which will be of special interest to our committees. Time will be given to discuss local problems. We hope every committee will be represented.—Ira G. Blocher, District Missionary Secretary, Greenville, Ohio, April 22.

Swan Creek.—April 20 the Sunday-school rendered an appropriate Easter program, after which Bro. W. C. Oetrick, of Bryan, Ohio, preached a very forceful sermon. Steps have been taken to raise our quota for the Armenian Relief. Two have been received by baptism since our last report.—Nancy Smith, Wauseon, Ohio, April 21.

OREGON

Myrtle Point church met in council April 5, with Bro. C. H. Barklow as moderator. It was decided to have a series of meetings either in June or July,—announcement to be made later. The program given on a program being rendered by the Sunday-school in the morning and services of some kind in the afternoon of July 4. We discussed the subject of Christian Stewardship, and decided to have some evangelistic work. Since our last council one has been received into the church by baptism and another awaits the rite.—Rachael Michael, Myrtle Point, Oregon, April 21.

Portland.—April 20 the Young People's Class of our Sunday-school rendered a program at the Christian Workers' service, under the direction of their teacher, Sister Laura Cheney. The program consisted of Scripture readings, special singing, recitations, etc., all of which were inspiring and helpful. We are glad to see our young people participate in this good work.—Grace W. Hewitt, Portland, Oregon, April 21.

PENNSYLVANIA

Codorus church met in council at the Codorus house April 7, with Eld. J. M. Blauhart presiding. Delegates to Annual Meeting were elected: Brethren Michael Markey and Eld. J. M. Blauhart; Brethren S. B. Myers and J. H. Keller, alternates. We will hold two love feasts this spring,—the first one at Fairview house May 11, the other at Codorus house May 25. Bro. John Zug, of Berwick, Pa., will begin a series of meetings at the Codorus house May 12. Series of meetings will also be held at four of the other preaching places during the summer and fall this year. Three letters of membership were granted. Some needed repairs will be made on the Pleasant Hill and New Freedom houses. Bro. Geo. Keeney was appointed secretary, and Bro. E. H. Lehman, correspondent; the writer and Bro. Zug, agents for "Messenger." Our collection for Armenian Relief amount to about $1,000.—S. C. Godfrey, Red Lion, Pa., April 22.

Connellsville Mission.—Bro. I. R. Pletcher has moved his family to Connellsville, to take charge of the work. We hope that much good will be accomplished. The church, Sunday-school and Aid Society together raised $50 for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Pletcher expects to hold revival services some time in May and at the close of the meetings the first love feast will be observed. The Sunday-school is in a flourishing condition. Our collection for Armenian Relief amount to about $1,000.—S. C. Godfrey, Red Lion, Pa., April 22.

Connellsville Mission.—Bro. I. R. Pletcher has moved his family to Connellsville, to take charge of the work. We hope that much good will be accomplished. The church, Sunday-school and Aid Society together raised $50 for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Pletcher expects to hold revival services some time in May and at the close of the meetings the first love feast will be observed. The Sunday-school is in a flourishing condition. Our collection for Bro. P. S. Lepley. The Aid Society has organized a Mission Society. A mission program is given once a month. Sister Friend has organized a Junior Mission and twenty-three members are taking the first course of study. They will give an Easter program.—Anna Cogan, Dawson, Pa., April 17.

Elk Lick church met in council April 12, with Eld. Waltz presiding. Our love feast will be held May 11, at 7:30 P. M. The Sunday-school will be held at 9:30 on the same day. Our Armenian relief was $727.50. Two Mission Study Classes and the teacher training class meet weekly.—Mrs. B. F. Walts, Elk Lick, Pa., April 18.

Germantown church met in council April 14, with Bro. Geo. W. Yoder, of Norristown, present. Three deacons were elected and with their ordination will be Brethren Jos. Sawyer, John Mohler and Howard Shugard. It was decided that an offering be taken in the near future for the Armenian work. The pastor, Bro. M. C. Swigart, and his wife, are delegates to Annual Meeting. Our Sunday-school gave an Easter program. One has been received by baptism and five by letter since our last report.—Mrs. M. C. Swigart, Philadelphia, Pa., April 21.

Hatfield congregation met in council March 29, with Eld. Wm. B. Freed presiding. One letter was granted. The visiting brethren gave their report, which was very favorable. We decided to have the Volunteer Mission Band give us a talk along the line of mission work. We expect to hold the revival meeting with Eld. Jacob Mohler and two deacons. Our elder was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. David N. Cassel, alternate; Brethren Frank Munsinger and Peter Freed, delegates to District Meeting; Brethren David N. Cassel and the writer, alternates. We expect to hold our love feast May 3, at 6:30 P. M.; preparatory services at 2 o'clock.—J. Herman Rosenberger, Souderton, Pa., April 18.

Ligonier church met in council April 6, with Bro. P. J. Blough presiding. We decided to have the church officers for one month. We will have a series of meetings beginning May 11, and closing May 25 with a love feast. Our home ministers, Brethren W. E. Wolford and J. W. Sanger, will conduct the meetings. Bro. P. J. Blough will represent us at Annual Meeting, and Brethren H. L. Miller and Arthur Wolford at District Meeting. Easter Sunday we held with us the close of the National Temperance Workers, Mr. H. S. Bonsib, from Indianapolis. Brethren Sanger and Miller had charge of the children, in charge of one of the Sunday-school classes. Our Teacher-training Class is almost ready for the last examination. We lifted an offering of $40 for the Armenian Relief and are raising money this month for the same purpose. Our share is $105.—Our Sunday-school is doing nicely now.—Opal W. Leonard, Ligonier, Pa., April 23.

Lititz.—We held our love feast on Good Friday. Ministering brethren from seven of our neighboring congregations were with us. Eld. Harry Yoder, of Lancaster, officiated. March 30 Bro. J. H. Cassady, of Juniata College, preached for us morning and evening. His sermons were very instructive and highly appreciated. Since our last report two have been received by baptism and fourteen by letter.—Florence B. Gibbel, Lititz, Pa., April 21.

Moxham (Johnstown).—The Moxham congregation called a special business meeting on Monday evening, April 14, to consider calling Eld. O. F. Hoover to the pastorate of the congregation, the present pastor having recently resigned. Bro. Hoover preached for us on the morning and evening of April 13. The congregation unanimously called Bro. Hoover to become their pastor as soon as he can take up the work. The present pastor expects to leave about the middle of May, and will begin his pastorate with the West Charleston congregation, of Southern Ohio, immediately. Bro. Hoover will be in shape to begin the work there about the same time. One letter was granted and an assistant chorister was elected.—Mrs. J. C. Flora, Johnstown, Pa., April 18.

New Enterprise.—Bro. Cassady was with us for a few days, in the interest of the James Quinter Memorial Fund. He gave us a fine lecture on the subject of "Alexander Mack and the Early Church." Sunday morning he talked on "The Crisis of the Church Based on Christian Education," and Sunday evening on the "Second Coming of Christ." We raised $815 for Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Kulp, our pastor, held a very successful meeting in the Snyder house. Eight confessed Christ and were baptized.—Margaret Replogle, New Enterprise, Pa., April 22.

Philadelphia (First Church).—March 9 Bro. Stover Kulp preached for us morning and evening. In the afternoon, at Sunday-school, he gave an interesting talk. March 23 Bro. J. A. Myers preached in the morning. In the afternoon and evening he gave illustrated addresses. Prof. Francis Harvey Green's lecture on the "Interrogation Point," given March 28, was very much appreciated. March 30 Bro. C. C. Ellis preached for us, and at the close of the evening service one young man united with the church by baptism.—Mrs. Wm. H. B. Schnell, Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.

Pleasant Hill church met in council April 18, with Eld. Oavid Hobf presiding. Eld. E. S. Miller and Bro. A. S. Baugher were with us. We elected two deacons: Brethren Jacob Hummert and Harry C. Miller. Three letters were granted. Bro. G. Howard Danner is our delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. S. K. Jacobs, alternate. We will have a two weeks' series of meetings, beginning August 9, conducted by Bro. Nathan Martin, of Rheems, Pa. April 20 Bro. J. L. Myers, of Loganville, Pa., preached a memorial sermon for Bro. G. E. Stoughbaugh, who died a few months ago in France.—Amanda K. Miller, Spring Grove, Pa., April 21.

Robinson.—Our church met in council March 18, with Eld. M. J. Brougher presiding. We chose our elder as delegate to Annual Conference; to District Meeting, Sisters Carrie Bowser and Rebecca Mc-Graw. The pastor will endeavor to secure an evangelist to hold a series of meetings in the near future. Bro. M. J. Brougher preached a very interesting sermon April 17. The service was well attended.—Mrs. Carrie Bowser, Robinson, Pa., April 18.

Royersford church recently held a two weeks' series of meetings, conducted by our pastor, Bro. E. G. Oiehm. Eight converts were baptized April 13. At our council of April 14, Bro. Oiehm and Sister Emma Tyson were chosen to represent our church at the District Meeting, to be held in the Bethel church, Philadelphia. Our love feast will be held May 10.—Mrs. Elizabeth G. Harley, Royersford, Pa., April 23.

Springfield church met in council April 5, with Eld. Hottel in charge. A series of meetings, to be conducted by Eld. J. H. Longenecker, of Palmyra, Pa., will begin May 3, followed by a love feast May 17, at 6 P. M. Oelegates to District Meeting are Brethren S. S. Flint and Mathias Steely. Superintendents for the Springfield Sunday-school are Brethren Edwin Jacoby and Elmer Buchman. The Quakertown Sunday-school sent $50 to the Armenian-Syrian Relief. A splendid Easter program was rendered by the Christian Workers' Society under the leadership of Sister Winnie Lint.—Lucina Heraberger, Quakertown, Pa., April 22.

Uniontown.—In March Bro. Carl S. Oriver came to this place as pastor of the church. Our communion was held April 19, preceded by a two weeks' series of meetings. Bro. G. M. Oover, of Smithfield, was to have charge, but was called home on account of illness in the family. Our pastor continued the meetings. Four were baptized during the meetings and two previously, making a total of six since our last report. Bro. Carl S. Oriver is our delegate to District Meeting and Eld. C. M. Oriver to Annual Meeting. We have organized a Teachers' Training Class. The Sunday-school rendered an Easter program April 20.—Orpha Cather, Uniontown, Pa., April 21.

York (First Church).—April 10 we met in council, with Eld. J. A. Loop presiding. Two letters were received and nine granted. Brethren Eli Wagner and Thos. Fitz were elected to the office of deacon and, with their wives, ordained. Brethren J. L. Baker and O. W. Cook were present and assisted in the installation services. Our quarterly Teachers' Institute was held March 20. The subject of "The Teachers' Meeting Hour" was ably discussed. The Round Table, conducted by Bro. Arthur Ahrens, was also very interesting. April 13 Bro. Lewis Clower, of Bridgewater, Va., preached for us.—Alice K. Trimmer, York, Pa., April 22.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Melvin Hill (N. C.).—We met in council April 12, with Eld. Geo. A. Branscomb in charge. Eld. C. M. Thomas was present also. Three letters were granted. Our church and Sunday-school were closed for quite a time on account of influenza. Five of our number were taken by death,—all young people. We were thankful and glad when we could resume work once more.—Jennie M. Robb, Campobello, S. C., April 17.

TENNESSEE

Knob Creek.—April 6 was the annual missionary day. The committee arranged for Bro. S. M. Lilly to preach, and Pleasant Hill congregation, to give the address. An offering of $332 was taken for the support of our missionary in China, Sister Anna Seese. We also reorganized our Sunday-school, electing Bro. John A. Pritchett as superintendent.—Mrs. C. R. Simmons, Johnson City, Tenn., April 21.

Pleasant View.—We recently took an offering of $36.90 for the famine-stricken people of India. Easter morning the church had the privilege of hearing a splendid sermon on "The Resurrection," by Bro. Rural Pritchett, of the Knob Creek church.—Johnson City, Tenn. —Lawrence E. Edwards, Jonesboro, Tenn., April 20.

VIRGINIA

Antioch church met in council April 5, with Bro. S. M. Ikenberry acting as moderator. One letter was granted. An offering of $21.81 was raised for the benefit of sorrow-poor members. April 6 Bro. Jos. Bowman preached a very interesting sermon. This was a fine service. We believe our Sunday-school is increasing in interest and attendance since the visit of Bro. Virgil C. Finnell.—Beula Bowman Peters, Rocky Mount, Va., April 16.

Beaver Creek.—We met in visit council April 12, with Eld. M. B. Miller presiding. The brethren brought in a very interesting report. Elders H. L. Miller and M. G. Sanger were present. One query was sent to District Meeting. Delegates to Annual Meeting are Brethren A. S. Thomas and J. W. Hess; to District Meeting, Brethren S. E. Garber, Earl Shirkey, M. B. Miller and J. W. Hess.—Nannie Miller, Bridgewater, Va., April 21.

Damascus church met in council April 7, with Eld. Oaniel Turner presiding. One was received by letter and one was reinstated. Our delegate to District Meeting is Bro. Grover C. Moyer, with Bro. Oscar Oavis, alternate. Bro. Moyer was elected solicitor for funds for the Orphans' Home at Timberville. We expect to have a series of meetings soon, if an evangelist can be secured. We have had very few meetings during the winter, on account of the influenza.—F. A. Yankey, Ooovesville, Va., April 18.

Nokesville.—The churchhouse at our mission point, near Fredericksburg, will be dedicated May 11. The dedicatory sermon will be preached in the morning and there will be a program in the afternoon. A council meeting will be held Saturday afternoon, May 10, followed by a love feast.—Mrs. J. A. Seese, Nokesville, Va., April 21.

(Continued on Page 288)

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

(Continued from Page 283)

North China, visited our church and each delivered an address. The subject of Sister Wampler's talk was: "Some of the Customs of the Chinese People." She exhibited a few articles of wearing apparel, which were very interesting. Bro. D. L. Miller, being present, called our attention to the fact that some of the customs of the women of Christian America are as foolish and injurious as the foot-binding practice among the heathen of China. Bro. Wampler's subject was: "Some of China's Christians." Lasting impressions were made on all who heard him speak. The faithfulness and devotion to the Christian religion, on the part of these heathen converts, surrounded by idolatry, puts tp shame the indifference exhibited by many American Christians, whose environment has ever been Christian. Dr. Wampler's hospital work affords him a rare opportunity to gain the confidence of the people. This line of work certainly should be encouraged on every mission field.

Brother and Sister Emmert, of India, and their son and two daughters, recently visited us. Sister Emmert is the missionary supported by the Sunday-schools of this District. On account of her broken-down health, she was unable to address us. Bro. Emmert delivered two able addresses on different phases of their work in India. This picture of India's Macedonian call should be a constant appeal to men of means to support that work. It should inspire young men and women to give their lives to that work. Especially are young men greatly needed. An offering was taken, to be forwarded to the General Mission Board.

Della Lehmer.

April 18.

DEATH OF ELDER S. U. SHOBER

Eld. S. U. Shober died on Thursday, March 27, in the Memorial Hospital of Johnstown, Pa., where he had undergone two operations for internal troubles, aged sixty-five years, eleven months and twenty days. Bro. Shober was the eldest son of George W. and Leah Berkley Shober. He was educated in the common schools and Berlin Normal School, of Somerset County, Pa. At fifteen years of age he began teaching school, which profession he followed for five years.

Sept. 26, 1872, he was united in marriage to Sarah Ellen Kimmel, to which union were born three sons and one daughter, all of whom survive. He is also survived by his wife, seven grandchildren, one brother and two sisters. Two grandchildren preceded him.

Eld. Shober was a faithful worker in the Church of the Brethren, which be made his choice at sixteen years of age. He was elected deacon in the Brothersvalley congregation of Western Pennsylvania in 1880. In 1897 he was called to the ministry, and ordained to the eldership in 1908 by the same church. He had oversight of the Bolivar congregation of Western Pennsylvania from 1908 to 1912. He served as a worthy member of the District Mission Board of Western Pennsylvania for several years. He was always active in the service of the Master, and his departure means the loss of one who always tried to do his share in the work of the church. Funeral services were held in the Pike church on Sunday, March 30, being conducted by the writer, assisted by Eld. W. G. Schrock. Interment was made in the Pike cemetery.

Berlin, Pa. Lewis S. Knepper.

DISTRICT SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND CHRISTIAN WORKERS' MEETING

These meetings will be held at the Greenmount church, Rockingham Coooty, Va., May 9 and 10.

Friday, May 9, 10:30 A. M.

Welcome.—Sister Lizzie S. Myers.

Afternoon, 2 o'clock

Business Session.

How to Make Our District Sunday-school Meetings Count in Congregations of the District.—I. W. Miller. What Is An Ideal Sunday-school?—J. W. Harpine. A History of Timberville Sunday-school: (a) Birth and Infancy.—J. F. Driver. (b) Developmeots.—W. C. Hoover. When Has the Superintendent Done His Duty?—J. Frank Good.

Evening, 8 o'clock

Address.—Fred J. Wampler.

Saturday, May 10, 10 A. M.

When Hast a Teacher Done His Duty?—J. H. Bowman. The Art of Teaching Without Telling.—W. A. Myers. Brief Review of "Training the Sunday-school Teacher"—Book Two.—J. S. Roller. Our Suoday-school Standard.—Wm. K. Hamilton.

Afternoon, 2 o'clock

How Can Each Individnal Member Best Advance the Interest of His Sunday-school?—C. F. Kohne. Christian Workers' Society: (a) The Benefits of the Christian Workers' Society to the Active Worker.—A. J. Pitzer. (b) The Junior Christian Workers' Society.—Catherine Kline. The Sunday-school and the Christian Workers' Society in the Forward Movement.—J. F. Wampler.

Committee: S. L. Garber, L. S. Miller, P. M. Funkhouser

A FAITHFUL WORKER CALLED HOME

With the passing of Bro. Leonard Clarence Morrison, there went from the Altsmont church a strong and influential example of Christian life and service. Bro. Morrison was born in Labette County, Kans., and died near the same place, of influenza, March 27, 1919, aged thirty-eight years, two months and twenty-four days.

In the fall of 1902 he married Essie P. Morris, who survives. Five children were born to them. One little daughter preceded her father a few years ago. His good counsel and fatherly presence will be greatly missed by the family.

About twelve years ago he was received into the church of his choice and remained faithful. A few years later he was elected deacon and faithfully discharged the duties of that office. He could always be depended upon to be present with his family at all church services, ever ready and willing to do his part and often much more. The little band at this place keenly feels the loss of one so much needed.

Services at the home by Bro. W. H. Miller, of Independence. Burial in the cemetery near the church.

Lillie Miller.

Altamont, Kaos.

IN MEMORY OF OUR BELOVED FATHER

James Rufus Henricks, son of Elisha and Hannah Henricks, was born in Woodford County, Ill., March 30, 1859. In 1882 he married Christena Waggoner. To this union were born ten children, two of whom died in infancy. They made their home near La Place, Ill., until 1901, when they moved to Wichita, and later to Caldwell, Kans.

James Rufus Henricks

At twenty-one years of age he united with the Church of the Brethren and the following year was elected to the office of deacon. He was a great Sunday-school worker, serving as superintendent for a number of years while living in Wichita and also in his home congregation. Although he was never called to the ministry, yet he often taught, admonished and encouraged those who were starting out on the Christian way. He was very fond of music and led the song service in many revivals.

He died Dec. 19, 1918, of heart failure. His wife preceded him about two years ago. He never gained entirely from his sickness, but was willing to lay up treasure in the heavenly home. He was a kind, loving husband and father, and will be missed by all who knew him.

Caldwell, Kans. Minnie Henricks.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

CERRO GORDO, ILL.—Report of the Aid Society of Oakley church for 1918: We held two all-day and one half-day meeting, with an average attendance of five. Our work coosisted of quilting and serving sale lunches. The total receipts for the year are $243.88; amount paid out, $224. We sent to the Kindergarten at Champaign, $80; to Sister Lauver, Maywood, Ill., $25; to Mission in Sweden, $50; Belgian Relief, $48; Hastings Street Mission, Chicago, $25; Bethany Bible School, $25; balance, $19.68. Officers: President, Sister Clara De Vault; Vice-President, Sister Lydia Urban; Secretary-Treasurer, the writer.—Lydia Heckman, Cerro Gordo, Ill., April 12.

DIXON, ILL.—The Sisters' Aid Society met Feb. 27 and reorganized with Sister Martin, President; Sister Johnson, Vice-President; the writer, Secretary-Treasurer. We have knotted foor comforters and quilted one quilt. Our work is principally aiding mothers and those who need sewing and meeding done. We also did some Red Cross work. We held eighteen meetings. Collections, $6.59; received for work done, $10.20. At the last meeting we decided to give $10 toward redecorating the church.—Elizabeth Brubaker, Dixon, Ill., April 26.

LEON, IOWA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society of Franklin church for 1918: We held 16 meetings, with ao average attendsnce of 6. We sewed for the Red Cross at three of our meetings. Money received during the year, $201.95; we held 4 exchanges, receipts from which were $123.44; served lunch at two sales, $41.75; quilting and sewing, $4.50; other work, $5; donations, $22.89; birthday offerings, $4.37. We paid on our $800 pledge for the proposed new church building, $131.47; Mary Quinter Memorial, $5; general treasury for 1918, $63.23. Officers: President, Sister Mary Sears; Vice-President, Sister Susie Cnoots; Secretary-Treasurer, the writer.—Mrs. Maggie Keim, Leon, Iowa, April 12.

MAPLE GROVE, PA.—We held six all-day aod two half-day meetings duriog 1918. We made four quilts and forty-one bonnets, which sold for $15.35. Total amount taken in during the year for dues nod work done, $30. We sent $5.75 to Bro. O. S. Heltny gave $4.25 for charity; balance in treasury Jan. 1, 1919, $31.35. Officers: Mrs. Jos. Hoover, President; Mrs. Anoie Link, Vice-President; Sister Lucy Berkey, Secretary-Treasurer.—Mrs. Edith Varner, Salix, Pa., April 13.

PORTLAND, IND.—We met at the home of Sister Eva Tharps April 3, 1919, and reorganized our Aid Society. Officers: Sister Tharps, President; Sister Stump, Vice-President; Sister Andrews, Secretary; Sister Stomp, Treasurer. We are working for the Armeoian sufferers.—Marie Stump, Porthod, Ind., April 12.

VIRDEN, ILL.—Report of Aid Society for 1918: Eighteeo meetings were held, with an average attendance of eleven; enrollment, twenty-five. Aid given to the home congregation, $100; Sunday-school society, $20; help to families in Virden, $16.75; wardrobe for society, $5; curtains for Sunday-school rooms, $11. Aid given to State District: To Champaign church, $87.00; to Mt. Morris, Springfield, $7.50; to Decatur Mission, $8.50. Aid given to Foreign Missions: Toward support of Esah Ruth Ebey, $45; Mary Quinter Memorial, $35; to Belgian Relief, $10; also help sent to Chicago Mission. On hand from 1917, $29.58; received during year, $241.92; total, $281.50; paid out, $254.09; balance, $16.62. President, Elms Brubaker; Treasurer, Myrtle Shutt; Secretary, the writer.—Mrs. E. R. Snell, Virden, Ill., April 15.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Coffman-Snell.—By the undersigned, at the bride's home, Feb. 5, 1919, Brother John I. Coffman, Laton, Calif., and Sister Rozie Snell, Ontario, Calif.—W. I. T. Hoover, La Verne, Calif.

Hoff-Waddelow.—By the writer, Feb. 28, 1919, Brother Paul Hoff and Sister Emma Waddelow, both of Waterloo, Iowa.—A. P. Blough, Waterloo, Iowa.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Allbaugh, Charles, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allbaugh, born April 9, 1919, died April 11, 1919. Services at the home by Eld. Ira Kreider. Interment in the Maple Lawn cemetery.—Pearl Sink, Flora, Ind.

Arbegast, Sister Mary B., died at her home, Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 2, 1919, aged 77 years. Death was due to typhoid fever. She was a daughter of George H. and Sarah Arbegast. At the age of thirteen she united with the Church of the Brethren and was a consistent member. She leaves her father, mother, four sisters and two brothers. Services at the Mechanicsburg house by Brethren Wm. Murphy and J. A. Miller. Text Philpp. 1:21. Burial in Mechanicsburg cemetery.—J. W. Galley, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Barton, Sister Elisabeth, died near McAlisterville, Pa., of heart failure April 6, 1919, aged 75 years, 8 months and 15 days. For the last fifteen years she made her home with Bro. H. J. Shallenberger. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for about forty years. One brother and one sister survive. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey. Text, Rev. 22:7. Burial at the Academia Presbyterian church.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Clem, Sister Carrie Lueinda Mackley, wife of Chas. Clem, born Oct. 18, 1895, in the bounds of the Beaver Dam congregation, near Union Bridge, Md. She was an active member of the church. She died Dec. 25, 1918, of influenza. She leaves her husband, three children, three brothers and one sister. Services in the Rocky Ridge house by Eld. L. J. Flohr, assisted by the writer. Burial to cemetery adjoining.—John S. Weybright, Thurmont, Md.

Cross, Sister Hazel, wife of the late Bro. Wm. U. Cross, died Feb. 26, 1919, aged 26 years, 1 month and 28 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren about two years ago. She leaves her father, mother, grandmother, four brothers and one sister.—Z. L. Mellott, Sines, Md.

Evans, Thos., died April 11, 1919, of dropsy, aged 50 years. He united with the Church of the Brethren about four years ago and remained faithful. He leaves his wife, stepdaughter, two brothers and one sister. Services by the brethren at the Williams cemetery.—J. Z. Jordan, Fruitdale, Ala.

Gentry, Bro. Leon, died in a New York hospital, of influenza, Feb. 23, 1919, aged 29 years, 5 months and 23 days. The body was brought to Beaver Creek for burial. He is survived by his sister and a younger brother. Services by Eld. M. B. Hughes, assisted by Eld. A. S. Thomas.—Nannie J. Miller, Bridgewater, Va.

Harley, Cordelia Trellis, nee Whitehead, born at Dayton, Ohio, April 7, 1891, died at her home, 1080 Fairchild avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, March 19, 1919, aged 27 years, 11 months and 12 days. She graduated from the grades and the high school of Dayton, Ohio, and finished her A. B. at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., in 1913. She was an accomplished pianist, and was a member of the faculty of that college, previous to her marriage to Prof. Henry B. Harley, one of the talented young ministers of the Church of the Brethren, in charge of the mission at Cleveland, Ohio. Services by the writer from 1 Sam. 20:3, at the home of her parents in Dayton.—Mrs. M. Cobb, Dayton, Ohio.

Hummel, Sister Lydia, widow of Bro. Ephraim Hummel, died at the home of her daughter at Middletown, Pa., from a complieation of diseaes, April 2, 1919, aged 75 years. She is survived by three daughters. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren of this city, but for the past four years made her home with her daughter at Middletown. The remains were brought to Lancaster. Services by Elders H. B. Yoder and S. Z. Witmer. Interment in the Riverview cemetery.—Leah N. Phillips, Lancaster, Pa.

Jones, Sister Melinda Frey, died at her home near Oakland Mills, Juniata County, Pa., from the effeets of a stroke, April 4, 1919, aged 64 years, 2 months and 8 days. In 1872 she married Bro. Hiram Jones, who survives, together with nine children. For twenty-five years she had been a member of the Church of the Brethren and her whole life was one of service. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey, Text, 2 Tim. 4:7, 8. Interment in the United Brethren cemetery, East Salem, Pa.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Keim, Sister Sarah Beachley, born near the Cove, Md., died at her home in Elk Lick, Pa., April 14, 1919, aged 81 years, 6 months and 1 day. She is survived by her husband, J. J. Keim, three daughters and a son. She was a member of the church for sixty-six years and forty-four years assisted her husband in the deacon's office. Services by her pastor at the home. Interment in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.—B. B. Walts, Elk Lick, Pa.

Lindsey, Mrs. Ruth Anna, died, following a lingering illness, March 23, 1919, aged 75 years, 2 months and 19 days. For the past few years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Coehlin Frymoyer. Surviving are nine children, thirty-four grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren. She was a member of the Evangelical church and devoted to her Christian life. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey in the Cross Roads United Brethren church. Text, Luke 10:42. Interment in cemetery adjoinioq.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Ludwick, Rachel Catherine, wife of Daniel Ludwick, of Burlington, W. Va., died of a complieation of diseases, Feb. 8, 1919. She united with the Church of the Brethren when a girl and remained faithful. She leaves her husband, nine sons and four daughters.—Sister Bro. G. S. Arnold. Interment in the Arnold cemetery.—B. B. Ludwick, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Martz, Jas. Luther, born in Virginia, April 29, 1871, died at his home near Salix, Pa., Feb. 28, 1919. He leaves his wife and six children. Services from the Elkson church by Eld. J. C. Forney. Interment in Elkson cemetery.—H. A. Stevens, Rock Lake, N. Dak.

Meyers, Bro. Jacob J., son of John B. and Barbara Miller Meyers, born in Somerset County, Pa., Sept. 27, 1860, died at his home in Morrill, Kans., April 14, 1919. With his parents he came to Ashland, Ohio, at the age of fourteen, where he grew to manhood. Dec. 6, 1864, he was united in marriage to Nannie Beechley, of Dayton, Ohio. To this union six children were born, five of whom are living, and were present at the funeral. In the fall of 1868 he, with his family, moved to Auburn, Ill., and in 1879 they came to Brown County, Kans. In 1886 he, with his wife, was baptized into the Church of the Brethren. For many years he faithfully served the church as deacon. The church has lost one of its most spiritual and consecrated fathers, but our loss is his gain. Shortly before his death he arranged in detail for his funeral, choosing the 4th of Cor. 5:1, 2 as a funeral text. Services by the writer, assisted by the brethren. Burial in the Morrill cemetery.—C. B. Smith, Morrill, Kans.

Overdorf, Sister Clara Pearl, died April 3, 1919, at her home in Johnstown, Pa. She was the daughter of Bro. and Sr. Emma Atkinson,—of this city. She was 26 years of age. She is survived by her husband, three children, mother, father, two sisters and three brothers. Services at the house by her pastor, Bro. J. C. Flora. Burial in the Grandview cemetery.—Mrs. J. C. Flora, Johnstown, Pa.

Pressler, Mrs. Minnie Belle, daughter of Bro. Henry (deceased) and Sister Mary Anstine, born in Miami County, Ind., died in Wabash County, Ind., of influenza, March 25, 1919, aged 31 years, 2 months and 5 days. In 1906 she was married to Mr. Pressler. Three children were born. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, two sons, her mother, three sisters and two brothers. Services at the house by her pastor, Bro. J. C. Flora. Burial in the Grandview cemetery.—Mrs. J. C. Flora, Johnstown, Pa.

Ream, Sister Mary B., died at her home, Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 2, 1919, aged 77 years. Death was due to typhoid fever. She was a daughter of George H. and Sarah Arbegast. At the age of thirteen she united with the Church of the Brethren and was a consistent member. She leaves her father, mother, four sistera and two brothers. Services at the Mechanicsburg house by Brethren Wm. Murphy and J. A. Miller. Text Philpp. 1:21. Burial in Mechanicsburg cemetery.—J. W. Galley, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Barton, Sister Elisabeth, died near McAlisterville, Pa., of heart failure April 6, 1919, aged 75 years, 8 months and 15 days. For the last fifteen years she made her home with Bro. H. J. Shallenberger. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for about forty years. One brother and one sister survive. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey. Text, Rev. 22:7. Burial at the Academia Presbyterian church.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Cross, Sister Hazel, wife of the late Bro. Wm. U. Cross, died Feb. 26, 1919, aged 26 years, 1 month and 28 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren about two years ago. She leaves her father, mother, grandmother, four brothers and one sister.—Z. L. Mellott, Sines, Md.

Evans, Thos., died April 11, 1919, of dropsy, aged 50 years. He united with the Church of the Brethren about four years ago and remained faithful. He leaves his wife, stepdaughter, two brothers and one sister. Services by the brethren at the Williams cemetery.—J. Z. Jordan, Fruitdale, Ala.

Gentry, Bro. Leon, died in a New York hospital, of influenza, Feb. 23, 1919, aged 29 years, 5 months and 23 days. The body was brought to Beaver Creek for burial. He is survived by his sister and a younger brother. Services by Eld. M. B. Hughes, assisted by Eld. A. S. Thomas.—Nannie J. Miller, Bridgewater, Va.

Harley, Cordelia Trellis, nee Whitehead, born at Dayton, Ohio, April 7, 1891, died at her home, 1080 Fairchild avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, March 19, 1919, aged 27 years, 11 months and 12 days. She graduated from the grades and the high school of Dayton, Ohio, and finished her A. B. at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., in 1913. She was an accomplished pianist, and was a member of the faculty of that college, previous to her marriage to Prof. Henry B. Harley, one of the talented young ministers of the Church of the Brethren, in charge of the mission at Cleveland, Ohio. Services by the writer from 1 Sam. 20:3, at the home of her parents in Dayton.—Mrs. M. Cobb, Dayton, Ohio.

Hummel, Sister Lydia, widow of Bro. Ephraim Hummel, died at the home of her daughter at Middletown, Pa., from a complieation of diseaes, April 2, 1919, aged 75 years. She is survived by three daughters. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren of this city, but for the past four years made her home with her daughter at Middletown. The remains were brought to Lancaster. Services by Elders H. B. Yoder and S. Z. Witmer. Interment in the Riverview cemetery.—Leah N. Phillips, Lancaster, Pa.

Jones, Sister Melinda Frey, died at her home near Oakland Mills, Juniata County, Pa., from the effeets of a stroke, April 4, 1919, aged 64 years, 2 months and 8 days. In 1872 she married Bro. Hiram Jones, who survives, together with nine children. For twenty-five years she had been a member of the Church of the Brethren and her whole life was one of service. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey. Text, 2 Tim. 4:7, 8. Interment in the United Brethren cemetery, East Salem, Pa.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Keim, Sister Sarah Beachley, born near the Cove, Md., died at her home in Elk Lick, Pa., April 14, 1919, aged 81 years, 6 months and 1 day. She is survived by her husband, J. J. Keim, three daughters and a son. She was a member of the church for sixty-six years and forty-four years assisted her husband in the deacon's office. Services by her pastor at the home. Interment in the I. O. O. F. cemetery.—B. B. Walts, Elk Lick, Pa.

Lindsey, Mrs. Ruth Anna, died, following a lingering illness, March 23, 1919, aged 75 years, 2 months and 19 days. For the past few years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Coehlin Frymoyer. Surviving are nine children, thirty-four grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren. She was a member of the Evangelical church and devoted to her Christian life. Services by the writer and Eld. C. G. Winey in the Cross Roads United Brethren church. Text, Luke 10:42. Interment in cemetery adjoinioq.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Ludwick, Rachel Catherine, wife of Daniel Ludwick, of Burlington, W. Va., died of a complieation of diseases, Feb. 8, 1919. She united with the Church of the Brethren when a girl and remained faithful. She leaves her husband, nine sons and four daughters.—Sister Bro. G. S. Arnold. Interment in the Arnold cemetery.—B. B. Ludwick, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Martz, Jas. Luther, born in Virginia, April 29, 1871, died at his home near Salix, Pa., Feb. 28, 1919. He leaves his wife and six children. Services from the Elkson church by Eld. J. C. Forney. Interment in Elkson cemetery.—H. A. Stevens, Rock Lake, N. Dak.

Meyers, Bro. Jacob J., son of John B. and Barbara Miller Meyers, born in Somerset County, Pa., Sept. 27, 1860, died at his home in Morrill, Kans., April 14, 1919. With his parents he came to Ashland, Ohio, at the age of fourteen, where he grew to manhood. Dec. 6, 1864, he was united in marriage to Nannie Beechley, of Dayton, Ohio. To this union six children were born, five of whom are living, and were present at the funeral. In the fall of 1868 he, with his family, moved to Auburn, Ill., and in 1879 they came to Brown County, Kans. In 1886 he, with his wife, was baptized into the Church of the Brethren. For many years he faithfully served the church as deacon. The church has lost one of its most spiritual and consecrated fathers, but our loss is his gain. Shortly before his death he arranged in detail for his funeral, choosing the 4th of Cor. 5:1, 2 as a funeral text. Services by the writer, assisted by the brethren. Burial in the Morrill cemetery.—C. B. Smith, Morrill, Kans.

Overdorf, Sister Clara Pearl, died April 3, 1919, at her home in Johnstown, Pa. She was the daughter of Bro. and Sr. Emma Atkinson,—of this city. She was 26 years of age. She is survived by her husband, three children, mother, father, two sisters and three brothers. Services at the house by her pastor, Bro. J. C. Flora. Burial in the Grandview cemetery.—Mrs. J. C. Flora, Johnstown, Pa.

Pressler, Mrs. Minnie Belle, daughter of Bro. Henry (deceased) and Sister Mary Anstine, born in Miami County, Ind., died in Wabash County, Ind., of influenza, March 25, 1919, aged 31 years, 2 months and 5 days. In 1906 she was married to Mr. Pressler. Three children were born. She is survived by her husband, four daughters, two sons, her mother, three sisters and two brothers. Services at the house by her pastor, Bro. J. C. Flora. Burial in the Grandview cemetery.—Mrs. J. C. Flora, Johnstown, Pa.

Ream, Sister Serena, died April 8, 1919, aged 78 years, 2 months and 21 days. She married Milton Ramsey in 1867. To this union were born eight children, five of whom preceded her. The father died eleven days ago. She united with the Church of the Brethren twenty-nine years ago and lived a consistent life. Services at the Methodist church near Beverly, W. Va., by the writer. Text, 2 Cor. 5:1. Interment in the cemetery near by.—T. P. Valentine, Junior, W. Va.

Richter, Sister Emma M., nee Kimer, of Chambersburg, Pa., died April 2, 1919, aged 17 years, 10 months and 2 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren at the age of twelve, and was a faithful member. She leaves her husband, an infant son, her parents, one sister and six brothers. Services at the church by Eld. P. S. Lehman, assisted by Brethren Forney and McCoy.—Emma R. Carr, Chambersburg, Pa.

Row, Bro. Henry J., born in Maryland, died at his home in Brantford, N. Dak., March 8, 1919, aged 75 years and 25 days. He married Ella Zellers Stoner in 1877. To this union were born two sons who, with the wife and six grandchildren, survive. He also leaves one sister, one half-sister and one half-brother. He was a veteran of the Civil War. Bro. Row became a member of the Church of the Brethren about five years ago and remained faithful. Services at the house by Bro. W. A. Deardorff and Rev. J. J. Jones. The remains were taken to Leal River, Ill., for burial in the Silver Creek cemetery. Eld. M. S. Newcomer officiated.—Veda Row, Brantford, N. Dak.

Sagar, Sister Minnie, died Feb. 26, 1919, of pneumonia, following Spanish influenza. She had been a member of the church for a number of years and lived a quiet, Christian life. Services at the house by Bro. B. F. Miller. She is survived by her father, mother, one sister and one brother. Interment in Fairfax cemetery.—Maggie Miller, Vienna, Va.

Slaubaugh, LeRoy Richard, son of Brother and Sister A. L. Slaubaugh, born Aug. 14, 1915, died of influenza, Nov. 9, 1918.—Emra T. Fike, Oakland, Md.

Smith, Sister Annie E., died at the Brethren Home at Neffsville, Pa., April 3, 1919, aged 71 years. Her husband preceded her a few years ago. She was one of the charter members of the Church of the Brethren of this city and lived a consistent Christian life. She is survived by one daughter and one son. Services by Eld. H. B. Yoder. Burial in Lancaster cemetery.—Leah N. Phillipy, Lancaster, Pa.

Studebaker, Bro. Henry, born in Bethel Township, Miami County, Ohio, July 4, 1839, died in Tippecanoe City, Ohio, April 13, 1919, aged 68 years, 9 months and 9 days. He was married to Catharine Sensenman Dec. 26, 1871. To this union six children were born, one of whom died in infancy. In 1873 he united with the Church of the Brethren and was ever faithful. No one in need ever appealed to him in vain. He leaves a faithful wife, two sons, three daughters, five sisters, and six brothers. Services at his home by Bro. Woodford W. Peters. Interment in the Studebaker cemetery.—Mrs. W. W. Peters, Tippecanoe City, Ohio.

Taylor, Sister Lula Virginia, died March 19, 1919, of pneumonia following Spanish influenza, aged 24 years, 8 months and 6 days. She is survived by her mother, one sister and three brothers. Her father preceded her about eleven months ago. She was a member of the church for several years. Services at the Pirtle church by Bro. W. H. Sanger. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Maggie Miller, Vienna, Va.

Walker, Sarah N., daughter of Johnson and Barbara Walker, died at her home near Shanksville, Pa., April 9, 1919, aged 52 years, 9 months and 17 days. She suffered with rheumatism for more than twenty years. She tried many kinds of treatment, but none gave her entire comfort and she was heard to remark, that prayer strengthened her more than medicine. This remark is significant of the kind of life she lived. She was married to John Walker in 1886, to which union were born three sons and one daughter. She is survived by her husband, one son, one daughter, two brothers and two sisters. Services in the Pike church April 11, by the writer, assisted by Eld. W. G. Schrock.—Interment in the Pike Cemetery.—L. S. Knepper, Berlin, Pa.

Wiley, Samuel B., died at the home of Sampson Wiley near Conway Chapel, April 14, 1919, aged 72 years, 3 months and 6 days. He leaves one sister. Services at the home by the writer. Burial in the Flat Run cemetery.—Van B. Wright, Peebles, Ohio.

Williams, Bro. Benjamin Franklin, son of Brother and Sister P. B. Williams, born in Augusta County, Va., died of influenza, March 5, 1919, aged 28 years, 5 months and 26 days. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Stella Sandy, one daughter, his father and mother, five brothers and two sisters. He united with the church when sixteen years old, and lived a devoted Christian life. Burial in Summit cemetery March 6. Services at a later date by Bro. J. T. Glick at the Summit church.—Mattie F. Wise, Bridgewater, Va.

Young, Sister Mary Catharine, nee Royer, born in Bridgewater, Va., Nov. 11, 1854, died at her home north of Lanark, Ill., April 12, 1919, aged 64 years, 5 months and 1 day. She was the daughter of Jacob and Rebecca Royer. In the spring of 1856 she came with her parents to Illinois, where she has made her home ever since, with the exception of something over three years, spent in Ohio. At the age of fourteen she was baptized into the Church of the Brethren, and was a consistent and faithful to the end. March 23, 1887, she was married to Eld. I. R. Young. Two daughters were born to them. She has been afflicted for seventeen years with asthma and high blood pressure,—more seriously for the past three years. Last November she called for the anointing, and received much physical and spiritual benefit from the service. The end was most peaceful. Besides her husband and two daughters, she leaves four brothers and two sisters. Services at the Cherry Grove church, north of Lanark, by the writer, assisted by Elders S. I. Newcomer, Chas. Delp and Wm. Eisenbise.—James M. Moore, Lanark, Ill.

Zimmers, Bro. William, born in Bedford County, Pa., April 7, 1835, died at the "Old Folks' Home," Darlow, Kans., April 5, 1919, aged 83 years, 11 months and 28 days. The deceased came to Kansas about forty years ago and made his home in Douglas County until several years ago when he, with his companion, accepted a room in the comfortable "Home" at Darlow, Kansas. He united with the Church of the Brethren when a young man, and enjoyed its blessings until life's close. July 17, 1887, he was joined in marriage to Esther Neff, to which union was given one son, who, with his mother, is left to follow later. Bro. Zimmers left many friends in his old community and will be greatly missed at the "Home." He was highly esteemed by all because of his faithfulness to duty, and his personal care of the children whom he safely piloted to and from school during the fast cold and stormy weather. Services by the undersigned from the parlor of the "Home" on Sunday afternoon, April 5. Interment in the Darlow cemetery.—W. A. Kinzie, Nickerson, Kansas.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY.

General Mission Board.—H. C. Early, Chairman, Penn Laird, Va.; Otho Winger, Vice-Chairman, Manchester, Ind.; D. J. Fyock, McPherson, Kans.; A. P. Blough, 1315 Grant Ave., Waterloo, Iowa; Chas. D. Bonsack, New Windsor, Md.; Life Advisory Member, D. L. Miller, Mt. Morris, Ill. Secretary-Treasurer for the Board, J. H. B. Williams, Elgin, Ill.

General Sunday School Board.—H. K. Ober, Chairman, Elizabethtown, Pa.; S. S. Blough, Vice-Chairman, Astoria, Ill.; Jas. M. Mohler, Treasurer, Leeton, Mo.; Ezra Flory, 3446 Van Buren Street, Chicago; C. S. Bucher, Dayville, Va. Secretary for the Board, J. E. Miller, Elgin, Ill.

General Educational Board.—D. W. Kurtz, President, McPherson, Kans.; D. M. Garver, Vice-President, Trotwood, Ohio; J. S. Flory, Bridgewater, Va.; D. C. Reber, North Manchester, Ind.; J. W. Lear, Mt. Morris, Ill. Secretary for the Board, H. A. Brandt, Elgin, Ill.

Temperance Committee.—P. J. Blough, Chairman, Hooversville, Pa.; A. J. Culler, Secretary, McPherson, Kans.; J. Carson Miller, Treasurer, Moores Store, Va.

Peace Committee.—W. J. Swigart, Chairman, Huntingdon, Pa.; A. C. Wieand, Secretary, 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago; Jacob Funk, Treasurer, Wiley, Colo.

Homeless Children Committee.—Frank Fisher, President, Mexico, Ind.; P. S. Thomas, Secretary, Harrisonburg, Va.; E. E. John, Treasurer, McPherson, Kans.

Committee on Dress Reform.—E. M. Studebaker, Chairman, McPherson, Kans.; J. John, Vice-Chairman, New Windsor, Md.; Lydia D. Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer, Mt. Morris, Ill.; Eva Trostle, 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago; Mary Polk Ellenberger, 6035 Pryor Avenue, St. Joseph, Mo.

Tract Examining Committee.—T. T. Myers, Chairman, Huntingdon, Pa.; Edgar Rothrock, Secretary, Holmesville, Nebr.; E. B. Hoff, Maywood, Ill.; Jas. M. Moore, Lanark, Ill.; J. P. Dickey, La Verne, Cal.

Utah Committee.—J. E. Miller, Chairman, Elgin, Ill.; H. A. Brandt, Secretary, Elgin, Ill.; J. W. Lear, Mt. Morris, Ill.

General Officers of Sisters' Aid Societies.—Mrs. M. C. Swigart, President, 6611 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Naomi Shaw, Vice-President, 1249 East 13th Street, Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. Levi Minnich, Secretary-Treasurer, Greenville, Ohio.

General Railway Transportation Agent.—P. S. Miller, Roanoke, Va.

Annual Meeting Treasurer.—J. B. Deeter, West Milton, Ohio.

Auditing Committee.—L. R. Peifer, 3353 Walnut Street, Chicago; E. M. Butterbaugh, Warsaw, Ind.

That talk to the Children ---oh dear, what shall I say?

Don't rack your brain trying to think up an experiment that may not work. Dr. Stall has a pleasant surprise for you in his book called, "With the Children on Sundays." It is a large, beautiful volume containing 52 illustrated talks for children.

Don't be a quitter! Teachers, superintendents, ministers and parents, you will get real help from Dr. Stall's book. He will show you how to talk to children about the most commonplace things. Here are a few of the titles of the 52 illustrated stories for children showing at a glance what Dr. Stall will enable you to do with ordinary subjects:

Bread—Universal Soul Hunger.
Banks—Gathered and Guarded Treasures.
Husks—The Disappointed Pleasure Seeker.
Nuts—God Means That We Must Work.
Ropes—Habits and How They Become Strong.
Reaping—The Harvest Time of Life.
Traps—Unsuspecting Mice and Men.

With the Children on Sundays

is bound in olive green vellum cloth. It contains 330 pages, 9 full page color plates by C. M. Burd, over 130 line drawings illustrating the text, and 52 talks to children. Originally sold by subscription at $2.00 per copy. Our special price on "With the Children on Sundays" is $1.20 postpaid.

Save Money By Ordering Today From

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

Do You Sing? Even if you don't sing you will appreciate a new song book---Kingdom Songs

KINGDOM SONGS NO. 2

Our newest and best Sunday-school song book is Kingdom Songs No. 2. It contains the best of the old and new favorites. The press work is unusually good; there are no hymns or songs in fine print. Either shaped or round notes may be had. Shaped notes sent if no preference is indicated.

Single copy, 35c postpaid; per 100, carriage extra, $25.00.

Leather Bindings

Many persons have ordered Kingdom Songs No. 2 in a leather binding with their name and address stamped on in gold. To all who wish a well-bound book for their personal use we are glad to say that either edition may be had in the following special bindings; Half leather, 85c per copy, postpaid; Stiff leather, $1.00 per copy, postpaid; Limp leather, $1.25 per copy, postpaid.

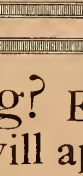
We can stamp your name or name and address in gold on any hymnal or song book for 20c per line. The charge for stamping name of church on hymnals is $1.00 for the first dozen and 50c for each additional dozen.

REVIVAL SONGS AND BEST HYMNS

In nearly every church extra books are needed for revival meetings. The songs in this book are numbered the same as those in Kingdom Songs No. 2, so they can be used together. 96 pages of the best revival songs tested in many campaigns. Bound in strong manila board. Price: Single copy, 15c, postpaid; 30 copies, $3.75, postpaid; 100 copies, carriage extra, $10.00.

THE BRETHREN HYMNAL

A book of 512 pages containing 742 of the best hymns. It is adapted for use in church, Sunday-school and sacred services.



Regular Edition: The regular edition for church use comes in the several bindings at the following prices: Half leather, single copy, 65c; per dozen, prepaid, $7.20; full leather, gilt edge, per copy (stiff back), $1.00.

Gift Edition: For gift purposes we have a special edition of the Hymnal in green, black, brown or maroon in full Morocco binding. Limp back, black kid lined, $1.50 per copy.

In genuine kid Morocco seal, limp, black kid lined, an extra quality of binding, in black only, $1.75.

SONGS FOR CHILDREN

A New Primary Song Book. A collection of songs and exercises, written and arranged by Carrie B. Adams and Lillie A. Faris. Many have never been used before, and all are adapted to the needs of the children in the different elementary grades. Price per copy, 45c, postpaid.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 1
SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 2

The best from the primary unions all over the country. It would take years for a worker to make collections like these. Price per copy, either No. 1 or No. 2, 30c, postpaid.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Illinois

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 285)

Pleasant Hill.—We have just closed a two weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Geo. A. Phillips, of Waynesboro, Va. He gave us some very interesting lessons on Christian life and duties toward God and man. One was reclaimed. We feel that we were spiritually blessed and drawn closer together during these meetings which closed with a love feast. We organized our Sunday-school April 20, with Brethren Isaac Spitzer and John M. Wright, superintendents. Our school closed last fall on account of influenza. With a good working force we hope to do greater things during the coming year than ever before.—Nora B. Crickenberger, Harriston, Va., April 22.

Selma church met in council April 21. The committee reported that Bro. R. G. Rarick had consented to hold a series of meetings beginning August 3, immediately following the District Meeting, which is to be held here. Our love feast will be held May 4, at 6 P. M. The church decided to send their first delegate to Annual Conference. Bro. J. H. Wummer was chosen. Easter Sunday a delightful program was rendered. The music was especially sacred and impressive.—Ada K. Carter, Selma, Va., April 23.

WASHINGTON

Loomis church met in council March 29. We decided to build a churchhouse this spring. The grounds for the church and cemetery were donated by Bro. Geo. Shamberger. We have two Sunday-schools and preaching appointments, both being held in schoolhouses. Bro. Paul Mohler and family, of Minneapolis, have just settled in our valley. We have received nineteen new members this spring. We have a splendid country, with many opportunities for people with limited means to secure homes.—Mrs. Alice Rothrock, Tonasket, Wash., April 17.

Wenatchee Park congregation convened in council March 15. April 13 an offering of $19.54 was lifted for Armenian-Syrian Relief. Easter Sunday a special program was rendered, consisting of recitations and songs appropriate for the occasion, followed by an address by the writer.—C. F. Engel, Plain, Wash., April 22.

WEST VIRGINIA

Capon Chapel met in council April 5, with Brethren I. J. Saville and Geo. S. Arnold present. Bro. J. S. Ubitas and wife were installed into the ministry and Bro. Baker and wife into the deacon's office. During the month of February the Mission Chapel Sunday-school sent an offering of $15 to the Armenian-Syrian Relief. The Mission Chapel Sunday-school was reorganized and Bro. Leslie Baker appointed as superintendent. April 13 the Sunday-school at Bright Hollow was organized with Bro. J. L. Shanholtz, superintendent.—Delcie Shanholtz, Levels, W. Va., April 18.

Correction.—I am sorry for the mistake I made in my communication to the "Messenger" two weeks ago. It has been customary to hold our love feasts at Vandevenville on Sundays and I thought that the coming love feast was announced for Sunday, June 1. It is to be held, however, on the first Saturday of June. I also wish to say that the Sunday-school I reported is not at Vandevenville but at the Fairview schoolhouse, near Bunker Hill, W. Va. We are a part of the Berkley congregation. Our Sunday-school has never been reported.—V. O. McDonald, Bunker Hill, W. Va., April 22.

Mount Union.—Bro. Walter Hamilton, Field Sunday-school Secretary, came to us April 5. He preached a number of sermons and gave some very good lessons on Sunday-school and church work. The last Sunday evening he spoke on conditions in Armenia and we took an offering of $72.03. Bro. Hamilton organized a Sunday-school in the country churchhouse with a splendid interest. We hope his work may prove a blessing.—S. Bucklew, Morgantown, W. Va., April 18.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DISTRICT MEETINGS

May 6, 7, 8, Southeastern Kansas, in the Osage church, McCune.

May 7, 8, District of Southern Ohio, Pleasant Hill.

May 13-15, Idaho, and Western Montana, in the Nezperce church.

LOVE FEASTS

California

May 4, Fresno.
May 10, Empire.
May 10, Lindsay.
May 11, Pasadena.
May 11, Los Angeles.
May 18, 7 pm, Inglewood.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Glendora.
May 18, Raisin.

Colorado

May 9, 6 pm, Antioch.
May 17, Haxtun.

Idaho

May 2, 6 pm, Bowmont.
May 10, Boise Valley.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Nampa.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Moscow.
May 25, Twin Falls.
June 7, Nezperce.

Illinois

May 10, 11, Astoria.
May 10, 6 pm, Panther Creek.
May 10, 6 pm, Macoupin Creek.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Piney Grove.
May 18, 8 pm, Hudson.
May 18, 8 pm, Polo.
May 18, 7:30 pm, Batavia.
May 24, 10 am, Franklin Grove.
May 24, 6:30 pm, Elgin.
May 25, 7:30 pm, Dixon.
May 29, 6 pm, LaPlace, LaPlace house.
May 31, 7 pm, Pine Creek.
June 1, 6:30 pm, Cherry Grove.
June 14, 15, Waddams Grove.
June 14, 15, 2:30 pm, West Branch.

Indiana.

May 3, West Eel River.
May 3, 7 pm, Anderson.
May 3, English Prairie.
May 3, Kewanna.
May 8, 7 pm, Elkhart City
May 8, West Goshen.
May 10, 7:45 pm, Monticello.
May 10, Tippecanoe.
May 10, 7 pm, Mississinewa.
May 10, Pleasant Valley.
May 10, Washington.
May 10, Buck Creek.
May 11, 6:30 pm, South Bend, Second church.
May 17, Wawaka.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Rock Run.
May 17, 7 pm, Middletown.
May 17, Shipshewana.
May 17, 8 pm, Burnettsville.
May 18, 6 pm, White.
May 24, 7 pm, Red River.
May 24, Upper Fall Creek.
May 24, 7 pm, Union Center.
May 24, 8 pm, New Bethel.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, Loon Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Pipe Creek.
May 25, Logansport.
May 25, Muncie.
May 29, Bango.
May 31, 7 pm, Yellow River.
May 31, Beech Grove.
May 31, Middlebury.
May 31, 7 pm, Bethel.
May 31, 10:30 am, Cedar Lake.
May 31, Blue River.
May 31, 7 pm, Wakarusa.
June 1, Bremen.
June 1, Walnut.
June 14, 7 pm, Camp Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Killbuck, Antioch house.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

May 4, Muscatine.
May 10, Oscela.
May 10, Libertyville.
May 17, 8 pm, Prairie City.
May 17, Greene.
May 17 and 18, Des Moines Valley.
May 18, South Keokuk.
May 24, 25, 3 pm, Coon River, at Panora house.
May 24, Salem.
May 24, Kingsley.
May 25, Des Moines City.
May 31, 7 pm, Fairview.
May 31, Brooklyn.
May 31, 7:30 pm, Panther Creek.
May 31, June 1, Garrison.
June 14, 15, 7 pm, Dallas Center.
June 14, 15, Spring Creek.

Kansas

May 4, Independence.
May 10, 6:30 pm, Mont Ida.
May 10, Murdock.
May 10, 11, 11 am, North Solomon.
May 10, Ottawa.
May 10, Salem.
May 12, Verdigris, at Madison house.
May 17, 10:30 am, Victor.
May 17, 5 pm, Chapman Creek.
May 17, Monitor.
May 17, Prairie View.
May 18, Lawrence.
May 18, Morrill.
May 24, 5 pm, Ramona.
May 31, 7 pm, Richland Center.
May 31, Belleville.
May 31, Quioter.
June 14, 10:30 am, Burr Oak.

Maryland

May 3, Pleasant View.
May 4, 5 pm, Baltimore (Fulton Ave.).
May 4, Denton.
May 10, 2 pm, Monocacy, at Thurmont.
May 10, 4 pm, Manor.
May 10, 2 pm, Pipe Creek.
May 10, 4 pm, Long Green Valley.
May 17, Meadow Branch.
May 17, 2:30 pm, Middletown Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Brownsville.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, 25, 2:30 pm, Beaver Creek.
May 24, 2 pm, Monocacy, at Mountaindale.
May 31, 3:30 pm, Beaver Dam.
June 14, Bear Creek.

Michigan

May 3, Sunfield.
May 10, Woodland Village.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Saginaw.
May 17, 6 pm, Harlan.
May 18, 7 pm, Oneksms.
May 30, Grand Rapids.
May 31, 10:30 am, Crystal.
May 31, 7 pm, Lake View.
June 1, 8 pm, Sugar Ridge.
June 7, Woodland.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Haven.
June 21, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 14, Worthington.
June 28, Lewiston.
June 28, 29, Hancock.

Missouri

May 10, Cabool, at Greenwood.
May 10, Shoal Creek.
May 17, 6 pm, Dry Fork.
May 31, South Fork.
May 31, Carthage.
June 14, Peace Valley.

Montana

May 3, Flat Head Valley, at Proctor.

Nebraska

May 3, Bethel.
May 11, Hanson.
May 17, 2:30 pm, Alvo.
May 22, 8 pm, South Beatrice.

New Jersey

May 11, 2:30 pm, Amwell, at Amwell house.

North Carolina

May 24, 5 pm, Spray Mission.

North Dakota

May 24, 6 pm, Surrey.

Ohio

May 3, 7 pm, Sugar Hill.
May 10, 2 pm, Ross.
May 10, 7:30 pm, Middletown.
May 11, Marion.
May 11, 7 pm, Mohican.
May 17, Harris Creek.
May 17, Logan.
May 17, 5 pm, Eversole.
May 17, 7 pm, West Charleston.
May 24, Loramie.
May 24, Stroll Creek Valley.
May 24, Painter Creek.
May 24, 10 am, Rome.
May 24, 10 am, Beech Grove.
May 24, 6 pm, Bear Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Oakland.
May 31, 10 am, Lick Creek.
May 31, 5 pm, Pleasant Valley, Valley house.
May 31, 7 pm, Cincinnati.
May 31, 10:30 am, Wyandot.
May 31, Pleasant View.
May 31, Blanchard.
May 31, 5 pm, Middle District.
June 1, Reading.
June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.

Oklahoma

May 17, Pleasant Plains.
May 24, Hollow.
May 24, Paradise Prairie.
May 31, Big Creek.

Oregon

May 3, 7 pm, Newberg.
May 10 (evening), Portland.

Pannsylvania

May 3, 3 pm, Reading.
May 3, 6:30 pm, Hatfield.
May 3, 2:30 pm, Upper Cumberland, at Huntsdale.
May 3, Eel River.
May 4, 6 pm, Huntingdon.
May 4, Ephrata.
May 4, Everett.
May 4, 6:30 pm, Rockton, Rockton house.
May 4, Hanover.
May 4, 6 pm, Walnut Grove.
May 4, Beachdale.
May 6, 7, 1:30 pm, East Petersburg.
May 6, 7, 9:30 am, Midway.
May 7 and 8, East Fairview.
May 8, 9, 10 am, Little Swatara.
May 10 7 pm, Stonerstown.
May 10, Royersford.
May 10, 1:30 pm, Back Creek, Shank house.
May 10, 4 pm, Plessant Hill, Pleasant Hill house.
May 10, 4 pm, Artemas.
May 10, 2 pm, Indian Creek.
May 10, 10 am, Antietam, Price House.
May 10, Lower Claar.
May 10, 11, 10 am, Upper Cedorus, Black Rock.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Pottstown, First Church.
May 11, Lewistown.
May 11, Albright.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Quemahoning, at Maple Spring.
May 11, 2 pm, Marsherock, at Friends Grove house.
May 11, Fairview.
May 11, Codorus, Fairview house.
May 11, York, First church.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Pittsburgh.
May 11 (evening), Carson Valley.
May 11, 6 pm, Clover Creek.
May 11, 6:30 pm, West Johnstown.
May 11, 7:30 pm, Elk Lick.
May 12, 13, 1:30 pm, West Conestoga, Middle Creek house.
May 13, 14, 1:30 pm, White Oak, at Pennville house.
May 13 and 14, Tulpehocken at Heidelberg house.
May 14, 15, Chickies, at Chickies house.
May 17, 6 pm, Upper Dublin, at Ambler.
May 17, 6 pm, Springfield, Springfield house.
May 17, 18, 2 pm, Lost Creek, at Good Will house.
May 17, 18, 1:30 pm, Upper Conewago, Mummert house.
May 17 and 18, 10 am, Falling Spring, at Hide house.
May 18, Elizabethtown.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Altoona, First church.
May 18, Viewpoint.
May 18, Scalp Level.
May 18, 6 pm, New Enterprise.
May 18, Williamsburg.
May 20, 21, 9:30 am, Springville, Mohler house.
May 20 and 21, 1 pm, Mountville, Mountville house.
May 20, 21, 10 am, Fredericksburg, Meyer house.
May 22, 23, 9:30 am, Big Swatara, at Hanoverdale.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Welsh Run.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Antietam, at Welty house.
May 24, 2 pm, Akron.
May 24, Mechanic Grove.
May 24, 25, 1:30 pm, Conewago, at Bachmanville.
May 25, Ligonier.
May 25, 4 pm, Carlisle.
May 25, 6 pm, Roaring Spring.
May 25, Codorus, at Codorus house.
May 25, Manor, at Penn Run house.
May 25, Shade Creek, Berkey house.
May 27 and 28, 1:30 pm, Conestoga, at Bareville house.
May 31, 1:30 pm, Marsherock, at Marsherock house.
May 31, June 1, Lower Cumberland, Mohler house.
May 31, 4 pm, Spring Run, Pine Glen house.
June 1, Meyersdale.
June 1, Quakersburg.
June 1, Lancaster.
June 1, Harrisburg.
June 1, 6 pm, Rummel.
June 1, 6 pm, Smithfield.
June 1, 7:30 pm, Yellow Creek.
June 1, Middle Creek.
June 5, 6, West Greentree at Greentree.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Auglwick, at Germany Valley.
June 7, 4 pm, Mingo, at Mingo house.
June 11, 2 pm, Buffalo.
June 29, Speedwell.

Tennessee

May 3, 3:30 pm, French Broad.
May 17, 3 pm, Beaver Creek.

Virginia

May 3, Mill Creek.
May 4, 7 pm, Harrisonburg.
May 4, Schoolfield.
May 4, 6 pm, Selma.
May 10, 3 pm, Trenevville.
May 10, Middle River.
May 10, 4 pm, Sangerville.
May 10, 4 pm, Woodstock, Valley Pike.
May 10, 6 pm, Summit.
May 10, Nokesville.
May 10, 4 pm, Texas Chapel.
May 17, 4 pm, Pleasant Valley, Second District.
May 17, Cook's Creek, at Hinton Grove.
May 17, Elk Run, at Moscow.
May 17, 4 pm, Midland.
May 17, Woodstock, Columbia Furnace.
May 18, 6 pm, Bridgewater, at the old church.
May 24, 6 pm, Rileyville.
May 24, 3 pm, Linville, at Cedar Run.

Washington

May 3, 7 pm, Olympia.

West Virginia

May 10, 2 pm, Spruce Run.
May 17, Pleasant View.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Berkley.
August 30, Maple Spring.

The Message of the Book of Revelation
By Emanuel B. Hoff

A concise, logical, practical exposition of the book of Revelation, well adapted to class work or private study. Neatly bound in buckram. Price $1.10 postpaid. E. B. Hoff, 3435 Van Buren St., Chicago.

CHILDREN'S DAY DIALOGS, RECITATIONS AND SONGS

THIS BOOK CONTAINS

107 Recitations
7 Dialogs
33 Songs

All for 25c, Postpaid

This is the book for Children's Day; it contains all that is needed in the way of songs, recitations and dialogs.

Children's Day Services

The King's Messengers. A 1919 thirty-two page service. 1 to 5 copies, 10c each; 6 to 24 copies, 8c each; 25 to 49 copies, 7c each.

Voices of Gladness. A special Children's Day service. 1 to 5 copies, 10c each; 6 to 24 copies, 8c each; 25 to 49 copies, 7c each.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

Some Church Necessities

ANNUAL MEETING CREDENTIAL BLANKS

Church clerks should be supplied with these blanks since they are the official forms accepted by the credential committee at Annual Meeting. Price per dozen, 10c.

DISTRICT MEETING CREDENTIAL BLANKS

These blanks are similar to the Annual Meeting blanks except that they are for the use of delegates to District Meetings. Price, per dozen, 10c.

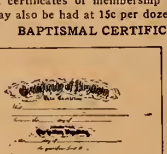
CHURCH CERTIFICATE BOOK

A book of 50 blank certificates of membership attached to a stub and the same number of notification blanks as provided by the Conference of 1918. Price, 35c postpaid.

CARD CERTIFICATES

Card certificates of membership 2¾x4 inches in size may also be had at 15c per dozen.

BAPTISMAL CERTIFICATES



No. 4. Crane's parchment diploma style certificate. This is considered one of the best, with envelope for mailing, or when folded to enclose. Size 8x10½ inches.

Each, 10c; per dozen, 75c.

THE BRETHREN'S CARD

The principles of the Church of the Brethren are briefly stated, giving Scripture references on each point of doctrine. Per 100, 10c.

CHURCH MINUTE BOOK

A durable book suitable to the needs of our people. It has extra quality paper and is bound in cloth with leather back and corners. Size 8¼x10½ inches.

No. 79. 150 pages, $1.15; 200 pages, $1.35; 300 pages, $1.80.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

5,000 Foot Monument to the Inglenook Cook Book

If all of the cook books sold could be laid one on top of another they would make a pile 5,000 feet high. Think of it! The Monument to the Inglenook Cook Book is almost a mile high,—and it is going higher every day! Every Revised Inglenook Cook Book you buy adds one inch to the monument; every copy of the Old Edition adds one-half inch.

Revised Inglenook Cook Book, ...75c
Old Edition Inglenook Cook Book, ...40c

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13 "Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4: 14.

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., May 10, 1919 No. 19

In This Number

Editorial,—
"Our Father." 289
From Faith in Man to Faith in God, ...289
Asking in Words and in Deeds, ...289
Memories of the Old Home and Mother (D. L. M.), ...289
The Quiet Hour, ...295
Among the Churches, ...296
Around the World, ...297

Contributors' Forum,—
My Mother (Poem), ...290
Church History and Polity.—No. Five. By Carman Cover Johnson, ...290
Women and Welfare. By Ezra Flory, ...290
The Christian Woman's Present Responsibility. By Carol Miller Blough, ...291
A Girl's Regard for Mother. By Sara Zigler Myers, ...291
The Transforming Touch of Mothers. By Ralph G. Rarick, 292
Report and Queries for Annual Conference, ...292
The Evolution of the New Order.—Part Three. By Harrison A. Frantz, ...293

The Round Table,—
Nobody Knows but Mother (Poem), ...294
"Put Beauty into Your Life." By Persie Hylton Faw, ...294
Listening to a Sermon. By Nettie C. Weybright, ...294
Witness-bearing That Counts. By G. W. Tuttle, ...294
Mothers the World Around. By Kathren R. Holsopple, ...294
The Man with One Arm. By Julia Graydon, ...295
District Conference of Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado. By J. H. B. Williams, ...295

Home and Family,—
"Rock Me to Sleep" (Poem), ...298
The Four Stars. By Oma Kurn, ...298
Edna Garst Stauffer.—An Appreciation. By S. S. Blough, ...298

...EDITORIAL...

"Our Father"

THERE are no words in the Lord's Prayer more wonderful than the first two. All the rest are subordinate to these.

You can not really hallow God's name, nor wish his Kingdom to come and his will to be done, until you have caught the deep significance of these words. Many Christians scarcely put the "father" idea into their thought of God. They use the word but it has no content. It is only another name for King.

The king idea is in this prayer, as it is elsewhere in the New Testament, but it is not the controlling conception. It is a lingering, but necessary, survival from the Old Testament.

The father idea is in the Old Testament, but it is not dominant. It is a foreshadowing from the stronger light of this doctrine in the New. Both ideas,—King and Father,—are in both Testaments. The difference is one of emphasis but that difference is great.

The bread, forgiveness and deliverance which you pray for in this prayer presuppose a father. You would not ask such things of kings, unless they were exceptionally fatherly. Kings delight in collecting taxes. Fathers delight in giving good things to their children.

Do you mean it when you say, "Our Father"?

From Faith in Man to Faith in God

NOT only is it impossible to please God without faith; it is impossible to do business with our fellowmen without faith. It is the basis of all normal human relationships. It may be called by other names, such as credit, confidence and trust, and for this reason may escape recognition as the fundamental fact which it is in our social, domestic, commercial, national and international life.

The loss of faith, therefore, whether between individuals or between nations, is one of the most serious of disasters, and the betrayal of faith is justly regarded as one of the most terrible of crimes.

Seeing, then, how vital a place faith holds in every kind of human activity, is it strange that Christianity should put such emphasis upon it? Whence came the silly sneer that religious faith is a mark of intellectual weakness? In part, perhaps, from that ignorant fanaticism which confounds faith with superstition and credulity. Certainly not from any real acquaintance with that thoroughly sane and rational thing which is Christian faith.

Just because faith is the "substance" or "assurance" of "things hoped for," it does not follow that we are left without good grounds for hoping for them. Just because faith is the "evidence" or "conviction" of "things not seen," it does not follow that we have no solid basis for our conviction.

"Maternal love! Thou word that sums all bliss!"

(See the Descriptive Sketch on Page 298)

Intelligent men and women continue to do business with each other on a basis of mutual confidence, in spite of an occasional breach of trust. Intelligent men and women believe in the reality of "things not seen" and in a good God, worthy of their confidence, notwithstanding some things they can not explain, because such a faith is in harmony with the only satisfactory interpretation of the facts of human experience.

Fools will continue to deny these spiritual realities, even while they continue to trust one another. Sensible persons will prefer to believe that the ultimate explanation of "the riddle of existence" is the God of Jesus.

Asking in Words and in Deeds

"YES, I know the Spirit can do all these things, but how can I get him to do them for me? How can I really have the Spirit of God as the constant strength and comfort and guide of my life?"

How do you get anything you want? Do you simply say, "Oh yes, it would be very nice to have that," and then promptly forget all about it? Not if it is anything you actually desire. Such an attitude is conclusive proof that you do not want it.

Did you never read "How much more shall your Heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him"? Do you get the force of that "much more"? Did you ever "ask him"? Actually ask him? To be sure, you and I have often said the words in those nice little prayers we make. And then we went right on in pursuit of the same worldly ambitions as before.

That isn't asking. That's making mockery with words. Did you think we could fool God so easily as that? He knows what we want.

Memories of the Old Home and Mother

THESE bright spring days the writer is spending in his old home church, Broadfording, Washington County, Maryland, holding meetings and in part living over the boyhood days. Here he was born nearly seventy-eight years ago and was converted sixty-six years ago, accepting Christ as his Savior. From our good Office Editor comes a kind suggestion that something be written for the Mothers' number of the MESSENGER.

In the early years of his life father purchased a flouring-mill here. There was no dwelling-house connected with it, and my parents lived in two small rooms, in the lower part of the mill. Here it was that I first saw the light of day. Born in a mill, learning the milling trade, and named "Miller," there can be no dispute as to the validity of the name.

As I wander about the old home place, I live in the past. Memory after memory floods the mind, but the strongest of them is that of my sainted mother. She was a godly, faithful Christian woman, with a great, kind, loving heart. The Lord stilled that heart and took her home forty-six years ago, at the age of fifty-three. The Lord filled her life with the care of fifteen children,—thirteen of her own and two stepchildren. Five sons were chosen as elders in the Church of the Brethren, and her only living daughter's husband is an active elder. She was one among the most loving, kind and considerate mothers. Roaming about the old home, in every nook and corner the memories of the past come with wonderful force to the mind, as they did years ago when the home was visited and this was written:

"To return, after many years, to the old home, and to visit the scenes of early youth and childhood, fills the heart with both pleasant and sad reflections. It is pleasant to renew old and almost forgotten acquaintances, to ramble over the old and well-remembered hills and valleys, to search out the nooks and corners where in childhood we spent so many happy hours, where every rock and tree is familiar, and each brings to mind some reminiscence of the olden time, recalling to memory the pure, unalloyed pleasures of childhood, before dull, corroding care touched our hearts; when the shadows flitted quickly, and all the joyous years were full of sunshine and childish happiness.

"But with these pleasant reflections come sad ones too. We stand, it is true, amid the familiar scenes of our youth, but we look in vain for the friends of the olden time. We realize that we are strangers in our old home. As we stand in some well-remembered spot, made almost sacred to memory by the associations of the past, and give way to reflection, how the long forgotten faces, like ghosts of the past, come trooping through the mind,—how each face and form carries with it some memory of the past! But of all the faces that come and go, like the flitting shadows of a summer day, one only remains with me in all my wanderings around the old home,—it is the face of my sainted mother. Years ago she died, and her body was laid away to rest in the quiet churchyard. Her loved form has mouldered to dust. Although dead, yet she speaketh. Her life of pure, unselfish Christian devotion, to her family and friends, has raised for her a monument more lasting than granite or marble. The example of a life like hers is worth much to humanity."

And so the memory of my dear, good mother still lingers, and brings joy to the heart, and the hope grows brighter of a happy reunion in heaven very soon.

* * *

The following beautiful poem was written by a man who let the "Wanderlust,"—the desire to tramp,—get stronger than his love for home:

"Near the camp fire's flickering light,
In my blanket bed I lie,
Gazing through the shades of night
At the twinkling stars on high;
O'er me spirits in the air,
Silent vigils seem to keep,
As I breathe my childhood's prayer,
'Now I lay me down to sleep.'

"Sadly sings the whip-poor-will
In the boughs of yonder tree;
Laughingly the mountain rill
Swells the midnight melody.
Foeman may be lurking near,
In the canyon, dark and deep;
Lo, I breathe on Jesus' ear,
'I pray the Lord my soul to keep.'

"'Mid the stars one face I see,—
One the Savior took away,—
Mother, who in infancy
Taught my infant lips to pray.
Her sweet spirit hovers near
In this lonely mountain brake;
Take me to her, Savior dear,
'If I should die before I wake.'

"Fainter grows the flickering light,
As each ember slowly dies;
Plaintively the birds of night
Fill the air with saddened cries;
Over me they seem to cry,
'You may never more awake.'
Lo, I lisp, 'If I should die,
I pray the Lord my soul to take.'

"Now I lay me down to sleep,
I pray thee, Lord, my soul to keep,
If I should die before I wake,
I pray thee, Lord, my soul to take."

Governor Colquitt, of Texas, used the verses in his proclamation,—one of the most beautiful ever issued,—setting apart May 14, 1911, as "Mothers' Day."

D. L. M.

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

My Mother

I miss thee, my mother, when young health has fled,
And I sink in the languor of pain,
Where, where is the arm that once pillowed my head,
And the ear that once heard me complain?
Other hands may support me, gentle accents may fall,—
For the fond and the true are still mine:
I've a blessing for each; I am grateful to all,—
But whose care can be soothing as thine?

—Eliza Cook.

Church History and Polity

BY CARMAN COVER JOHNSON

V. The Official Board

When Paul speaks of "ordaining elders in every city" in which churches were just then in process of being established, he could not have meant "elders,"—just such as we Brethren now speak of,—else he would probably have said "ordain an elder in every city." Elders, as then understood, or "presbyters," to use the Greek term, meant a group of synagogue or church head men or overseers; and so our Calvinistic brethren are very likely most nearly scriptural when they make the term elder or presbyter apply to that group of ministerial and non-ministerial brethren, sometimes including deacons, who are chosen and ordained by the local congregation to be most intimately responsible for the general polity of the congregation, always subject, of course, to a periodic, or at least an occasional, congregational meeting.

But I am not arguing herein that we Brethren should drop the name elder as we now use it, or even presiding elder, and adopt the Presbyterian use of the term. What I am getting at is this, that there was originally an elders' board, a presbyterial board, or an official board, in the congregations of the primitive church, and we do well to preserve the idea in our congregations today.

Yes, but I hear somebody say: "It isn't democratic," "It becomes a secret or hidden government of the congregation by a few," "It tends to get into the control of the exclusively aristocratic, or the exclusively rich, or the exclusively learned, and ignores the mass of the congregation." Is the mass of the congregation essentially neither rich, nor aristocratic, nor learned? Is the mass of the congregation free from all cliques and factions and parties and issues and schisms, just because it is the mass or the whole? Let not our zeal for democracy and liberty run away with us, even in our churches,—not to speak of our civil governments. It is about the cheapest and most empty type of argument to cry: "Wolf, wolf," or "special privilege," or "ecclesiastical politics," at every turn, even when the very wisest and most thoroughly representative and most sincerely honest consideration of the congregation's affairs is merely being prepared for advice to the congregation as a whole.

At any rate, Brethren, it is time to take stock of our inherited policies and to note what the Brotherhood really provides for in its inner historical character. Elders, ministers and deacons are the inner circle of official responsibility in every true congregation of the Brethren. The very nature of the choice of these officials distinguishes them with a kind of respect on the one hand, and a kind of responsibility on the other hand, that never does and never can attach to auxiliary officials, elected periodically or yearly by the congregation, to perform some distinctive duty,—such as trustees, Sunday-school superintendents, choristers, ushers, and special secretaries or committees. Note carefully, I am not rating the personal, spiritual or moral quality of elders, ministers and deacons personally, or even as a class, above the spiritual and moral quality of others in the congregation. What I am herein setting forth is the fact of inherent churchly responsibility that attaches to all elders, ministers and deacons because of the offices to which they have been chosen by grace of the Holy Spirit. And so, from time immemorial, in the church at large, and even in our own denomination, these permanent officials in every congregation have been the official board, whether they so acted or not.

In view of this essentially scriptural and historical background of the official board, what should be added by way of suggestion? If I may, I beg to submit, first of all, that my argument is never for the exercise of more legalism, severity and merely officious authority; but rather for more recognition, on the part of the officials and laity alike, of what might be called the moral responsibility of the official board. Here's the real provision for Christian democracy in church government,—not that government should crumple up and become sour and individualistic in the elder; not that it should become a ball of petty jealousies to be tossed around among a group of indifferent or unspiritually-minded deacons; not that it should be a convenience to be put on or laid aside by an irresponsible pastor; but rather that it (church government and constructive discipline) should be the prayerful and deeply serious consideration of a group of godly-minded officials who naturally check and balance one another wholesomely and generously and helpfully, to the good of the larger body for whom they act.

Furthermore, if we develop the idea of "housekeeping," management, government, discipline and polity in general around the elder and within the official board, rather than around the pastor, and somewhat independently of the official board, we do what no other denomination is really doing adequately today,—we save the pastor for his very unique and exalted work of spiritual ministration, very largely unencumbered with matters of congregational finances, organization and discipline.

The official board of every congregation should meet quarterly, at least,—not exactly to make business, and yet to make good business. It feels good, also, when the congregation realizes that the pastor or the preacher of the day comes into the pulpit fresh from a little prayer meeting and sympathetic conference with his fellow-ministers and deacons. No congregational, or, more properly, council meeting, ever goes really right if its business is not at least prepared by the official board. Notice, I say "prepared," and I do not mean "set up" or "fixed" or "predetermined,"—I merely mean, and I specifically mean, "put into intelligent shape for handling in council," without any other thought than entire freedom of action by the open council.

And, as a matter for reflection, I venture again to raise this question here, because the pastor is a new factor in our Brotherhood: Why should any congregation of Brethren ever be obliged to create a special "pastoral committee" to seek, invite, hire, advise, and probably recommend the discontinuance of a certain pastoral contract? Yes, I do mean it without any hesitation,—we have a natural, normal, safe, entirely representative and wholly satisfactory pastoral or ministerial committee, always ready at hand, in our official board. Any special ministerial or pastoral committee throws itself open immediately to possible bias as a factional, and therefore not truly representative, committee, just because it is special and temporary, while, if the official board is anything like as nearly right as it should always be, and more especially if it is treated by the congregation as if it must be above reproach, there can scarcely be any failure in securing, supporting and holding a good pastor, and constantly making him a better pastor.

In short, the official board is, or should be, the solid and substantial center of every congregation, presided over always by the presiding elder of the congregation or some one specifically delegated by him, if he must be absent, and eagerly awaiting the leadership of the pastor in matters purely spiritual. Given an official board, such as is herein contemplated, and there need never be any occasion for special usurpations of power and control on the part of specially-picked groups of members whose motives may be very good but whose only rule is either mere caprice or personal judgment, unseasoned by that element of wisdom and careful consideration of the interests of all that come from thorough respect for really original principles and institutions of church promotion. This is good doctrine for liberal and conservative alike.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

Women and Welfare

BY EZRA FLORY

The source of our social and national life is in the home. As goes the home, so goes the nation. During the chaos of the Middle Ages, when feuds and wars raged between church and state, political and ecclesiastical powers waned, but a small group of people, secluded in the small valleys of Piedmont, survived,—a people of the simplest character and loftiest morality and piety. These Waldenses were kept untouched by political ambitions or moral corruptions, which had invaded every other part of Europe. These families proved to be the cradle and the citadel of the simplest faith and the purest morals, the heart and inspiration of which had been the Bible.

The home is the whole pedagogical system in miniature. The mother is the most natural teacher in this school. Fathers too often give little attention to this most controlling factor in society. One small boy was asked, one morning, as his father left for his usual work: "Who is that man?" The boy's reply was: "He is the old man that stays at our house nights." The proper sphere of the woman is the domestic life. The more she invades the dominion of man, the more will her social and moral status be lowered. This, certainly, is an age when the home is neglected, and Christian people have a great duty to perform in having their homes of the right kind, and in aiding others to establish the same kind. The sweet odor of morning prayer is too often supplanted by the smell of gasoline.

Let us take a glimpse into the days of Isaiah, to discover there a concrete picture of a time not dissimilar to our own. An era of prosperity had come to Judah, and two powerful monarchs,—Uzziah and Jotham,— reigned for half a century. Unblushing wickedness (Isa. 3: 5-7) was one of the causes calling for the intervention of God. In the description we have a wonderful picture of the wicked women of the city. Isaiah describes minutely the jewelry and dress of the women, who have made themselves beautiful outwardly. Much of a city's welfare depends upon its women. We often mistake the outward show for the real thing.

"What is beauty? Not the stately show
Of form and feature; these are but flowers
That have their dated hours
To breathe their momentary sweets, then go.
'Tis the spotless soul within That far outshines the fairest skin."

Though the society women of the city may make the greatest show, the modest, unassuming toilers are often the greatest in reality.

A sharp contrast is seen in the following verses of the prophet's message as he portrays the various elements of prosperity in the city which shall be (Isa. 4: 2-6). Let us pray for inward purity and beauty, which transforms outward life and makes character.

Chicago, Ill.

The Christian Woman's Present Responsibility

BY CAROL MILLER BLOUGH

HERMES wrote: "A beautiful and chaste woman is the perfect workmanship of God." Next to God we are indebted to woman for life itself, and then for making it worth living. While we can not, with mathematical precision, say that man and woman are equal, we may say that they are equivalent. Each one in his own sphere must shoulder his respective portion of the world's burdens. The world, weary of war, is urgently calling today for the help and service that woman can render. "Make the world safe for democracy" was the inspiring slogan of the allied armies. "Make democracy safe for the world" is the nobler battle-cry of the united womanhood of the world.

The casual observer will term the present crisis a political and economic one, but a thorough analysis will show it to be a moral and spiritual crisis. We were not lately fighting a government, but we were and are primarily fighting for moral principles. It is the principles and ideals of our Christ that made those of Germany objectionable, and dangerous to the well-being of the human race. But the ideals of Christianity can be upheld only through the instrumentality of Christian homes, Christian parentage and universal Christian teaching.

We speak of the "new world of tomorrow." In so speaking, do we mean a world changed merely from an economic and political standpoint? This is practically all that the war has accomplished, but this forced obedience is not the highest goal toward which we are striving. Making democracy a world issue will not, in the truest sense, regenerate the world. The vital teachings of Christ is the only world issue that can bring such results. The human will should be free, cultured and trained to discern the proper ways of life. This, mere force will never do. Peace negotiations and treaties, signed by royal officialdom, counted for nought when the great struggle broke upon a sleeping world. The Hague Conference has sought, these many years, for world peace, but the day of world peace will never come until the living generations become Christed and until the human will freely chooses to love all men as brothers. Just as the individual has character, conscience, and organization of powers, so nations have a character, conscience and organization that determine the nature of the national life. "By their fruits ye shall know them," is one of the simplest laws of life.

Character can not be produced by reading books, or watching noble leaders. It comes only by way of experience and the disposition we make of our daily opportunities. Much of our early character is moulded by our direct parental teachings. Woman, the world over, is primarily the teacher of the home. In the schools, as well as in the home, the youth of our land are trained and tutored by women. The altruism and fair play, upheld in all our national dealings, is due to the Christian ideals taught throughout the land.

There is another phase of our subject that must not be overlooked. All of us, who are grown, understand the spirit and motive underlying our participation in the recent war. But what have the children seen? What impressions have they received? The headlines of the newspapers, cartoons, posters, and even the drift of our conversation have instilled in them any but Christian ideals. These early impressions, by the very laws that govern mental development, will become lasting impressions and color their whole after-life unless the counteracting impressions are given with greater force and greater frequency than the former ones have been. The children of but yesterday saw war, heard war, dreamed and played war. For most boys no day's play is complete without it. If military drill becomes compulsory in our schools, the children will have additional inducement to think along this line. The peril that hovers around the children of today will, if not controlled, lead our youth to embrace the very militaristic ideals which have been humanity's bitter enemy in Germany. While we were making a mighty effort to kill it off abroad, it is unconsciously being absorbed at home. If the child can be taught war by constant reference, equally well can he be taught love by the same method.

The teaching of the wonderful love of the Living God, and Christ as the world's Redeemer,—this and this power only can regenerate the human race and bring healing to a convalescent world. Jesus Christ should be made the main theme in every home. This teaching rests, in most cases, with the mother. It may be necessary to call up the old Jewish law (Deut. 6: 6-9): "Thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down and when thou risest up."

We are all agreed that if the mothers of our land succeed in instilling these lofty principles in the lives of the youth, democracy will indeed be safe! It is not unthinkable for the world to become evangelized in the next generation,—it is merely the natural outcome of strong Christian teaching. Is not the desire to give a life of service, in carrying the Gospel to the unsaved, just as strong, just as noble, as the recent response to military service? Our army of three million was easily mustered. If an army of Christian soldiers equally eager and equipped, were sent out, fired with the conviction that the WHOLE WORLD MUST be won for Jesus Christ, the missionary goal of world evangelization in this generation would be realized.

The woman's Christian responsibility, as she faces the present crisis, is twofold,—first, she herself must keep a strong faith in a Living, Personal God; and second, she must have a burning desire to make him known to others as such.

West Wichita, Kans.

A Girl's Regard for Mother

BY SARA ZIGLER MYERS

WE are very greatly indebted to the originator of Mothers' Day, when we think of the many hearts that are made glad at this time because of its being set apart, and annually remembered and celebrated by thousands of people. In all probability, great amounts of cards, letters, flowers and other little remembrances are being gladly received by the mothers of our country because some distant boy or girl, or even a near one, has been prompted specially to remember them at this particular time.

But I am thinking of the other three hundred and sixty-four days of the year, and I am wondering if mother receives as many little favors and kindnesses from us as are due her. Girls, how many times have we made our mothers happy since last Mothers' Day? This is such a busy world. We come and go. We make and execute various plans, but seldom do we realize that mother remains at home, constantly backing us up in our efforts, doing all she possibly can for our enjoyment, and helping us over the rough places.

I am wondering whether we are as thoughtful as we should be in helping mother while we are at home. I once heard a girl say: "Mamma, if you knew how tired I am, you wouldn't ask me to feed the chickens; you would go yourself." The truth of the matter was that the girl had done practically nothing all day, while the mother had worked hard and was then busy preparing supper for company.

Think of the many unnecessary steps mother has to take, oftentimes, because we are negligent and thoughtless! Surely, additional steps make her very tired when she is growing old, and has worked hard all her life. You ought to do that little task, or run that errand for her yourself, and have her sit and rest a few moments. She will not only enjoy the rest, but will appreciate, in no small way, your willingness to help.

Then, there are times when mother, perhaps, feels bad. Does she always tell it and give up her work? No, she usually says little about it and goes until she is compelled to stop. How many times could we have relieved that bad headache by getting dinner, while she rested where it was cool? How often have we cheered her by surprising her with something suitable for her meal, when she didn't feel like eating? There are so many things we could do for mother which would not only help her physically but mentally as well. She may not tell you, in so many words, every time, that she appreciates what you have done, but deep down in her heart she remembers the little act a long time.

If you are away from home, do you go to see mother as often as you can? We can never understand and appreciate the feeling of a mother at the homecoming of her children until we have children of our own to come home. She spends many moments thinking of her daughter, wondering where she is, what kind of company she is in, and what she is doing. And when she receives your letter that you are coming home, she can hardly wait until she sees you. Then, how do you come? Do you come feeling grouchy, dissatisfied with the old place and its inconveniences, perhaps, and cross because she does not give you the things to eat which you most like? Or do you come, filled to the brim with joy because it is home, and because it is mother who dwells there? Are you appreciative of the extra work mother has done that you may enjoy your little visit at home? Do you know that ever since you wrote or telephoned that you were coming she has been planning, in some way or other, for you, and preparing the things you will most enjoy? If she, mother-like, prepares for your coming, you ought to prepare for the visit. Do not cause her a lot of extra work, but make it a period of real enjoyment for her, as well as for yourself.

I know a young girl, who, although quite devoted to her widowed mother, frequently brings a half dozen friends home unexpectedly to dinner. The mother prepares the best meal she can, while the young people remain in the parlor, having a good time, unconscious of the embarrassing position of their hostess. Your mother is willing and anxious for you to bring your friends at suitable times, because she wishes to know with whom you associate, but when you do, make her as little extra labor as possible, and at the same time assist her all you can. Your friends will appreciate you all the more for it.

How about your words when you talk with mother? Are they always kind and gentle? Naturally, things happen which worry us, and we can not be in the best mood on all occasions, but angry words never help matters, and, worse than all, they wound mother's heart. I know a young girl who fusses and quarrels about everything, and causes her poor mother to shed tears almost daily because of her unpleasant disposition. Mother has many things to vex her, and she may occasionally scold, or be a little peevish, but we should only try the harder to lift her burden and make her pathway smoother.

Do you always comply with mother's wishes? How many times we disobey her and cause her tender heart to ache! Sometimes we think her suggestions old-fashioned and we would rather pursue a more up-to-date course. Many girls have wept in bitter anguish when they had gone too far, contrary to mother's desires and prayers. Mother may not see things just as you do, which is quite natural, but her ideas are not as objectionable as you may think. Talk things over with her in a reasonable way, free from undue haste and unkindness, and all will work out well. Mother's counsel is invaluable because of her years of experience. Nestle as closely to her heart as possible, to receive the benefits which are so lovingly stored there for you. Confide in her above all others, and consider her your first and best friend in everything.

Does your mother like flowers? Of course she does, especially if you put forth a little extra effort to provide them for her. Take her a nice bunch once, see how she will admire them and care for them as long as even one remains fresh. She loves them, but she loves your thoughtfulness far more. How many dear, sweet mothers have never been given a flower by their children during their lifetime, though they were lavished on the casket-lid and the grave. Why not give them flowers while they are living and able to enjoy them?

A few years ago I attended a Mothers' Day program in a little mountain church. Among the people was an aged lady,—a mother who had walked twelve miles to be present. After church she went to one of our party, and, pointing to the white carnation which she wore, asked her what it was. The young lady told her, and, immediately removing it, pinned it on the faded calico dress. The old lady looked up into the girl's eyes much pleased and said with tears: "It's the first one I ever had." Girls, give your mothers flowers! Do not wait until the clods have hidden the dear face from your sight, and then heap them there for display!

Have you ever told your mother that you appreciate her and the countless things she has done for you? She loved you long before she ever saw you, and she loves you still. She eased cruel pain many times when you were sick, and she is willing to do it yet. She has spent sleepless nights in caring for you when you were small, and she will do it still. She has suffered much for you, and she suffers with you now, when your pathway seems rough and hard. She is willing to spend her very life for her children, and why should we not show her our appreciation in some real way?

If your mother has been a blessing to your life, tell her now. If her efforts have made you successful, tell her now. If her prayers and teachings have kept you pure and clean, tell her now. Mother has meant more to you than you can ever understand, and she deserves every word of praise you can give. Accept her counsel, consider her feelings, do everything you can for her comfort and happiness! Tell her what her life means to you, and be the best girl that mother, in her close fellowship and communion with God, can help you to be.

Nashville, Tenn.

The Transforming Touch of Mothers

BY RALPH G. RARICK

When, as a child, my mental faculty was much inclined to make animated tours in the province of the fanciful, I could read repeatedly, without tire, or lag of interest, the fabulous story of King Midas. In spite of the sequel, I was prone to ponder what a great thing could be done, to make the world beautiful, if some one could really touch and turn things into gold. But later years have convinced me that many things of earth can be turned into gold only by the transforming touch of mothers!

How charming were the things my own mother touched for me!. Well do I remember the first day I spent in the "chart class" of the public school. There was a whole building full of wiggling boys and giggling girls, so it seemed, but I was lonesome. It was a dreadfully long time until the noon period came. How eagerly, then, I clutched that little dinner bucket of mine, that had erstwhile been out of sight on the shelf in the entry way! It wasn't because I was so very hungry. It was more because that little bucket, purchased expressly for me, with its contents of two boiled eggs and other things,—just as I liked them,—represented the love of my mother.

Winter came on and, with her own hands, she knit me mittens. Not a schoolmate of mine could have prized them as highly as I did, for the reason was that they evidenced more to me than so much practicably-knitted yarn. Mother's touch had been knitted in. With a knowledge of that, I felt in them the warm glow of mother's heart. And so it was with many other things which figured in my career as a baby and a boy. And now, since I am no more with her, she ministers by mail. She has done many necessarily hard things for each of us children, and as I reflect on what her toil-worn hands have touched and turned for the better, I faintly see the rugged path that might have been mine had it not been smoothed by mother love and made, in many respects, a golden pathway.

Youth has felt this transforming touch of mother in every land. As an instance of this, on the far side of our globe, it is reported that in a certain Japanese agricultural college there were two brothers. One of the boys appeared one day wearing a woman's yellow and black striped padded coat. The coat had a velvet neck band which indicated that the garment was ordinarily worn to support a baby, carried Japanese fashion, on the back. There was much tittering among the other students at this strange garb, and the instructors found their classes somewhat demoralized. At noon the young man was called into the faculty room for an explanation.

Then they learned that his father was dead. The mother was still on the small farm, but making little more than a bare subsistence. Though she had succeeded in sending her boys to school with clothes for the summer session, and had hoped to provide the necessary winter kimonos, or over-garments, yet, in spite of every economy, she had been unable to manage it.

At this point her letter read: "So I am sending you my own kimono and coat. You must have your thin cotton ones washed and mended. Wear my heavy kimono underneath, and as soon as I can, I will send you some money to buy new ones."

"But, though I have mended my old kimono," the young man further explained, "it is too ragged. There was only one thing to do,—wear this one on the outside."

When he was asked why he had not at least removed the tell-tale black velvet band, he answered: "Last night I took the scissors and began to rip; but suddenly I remembered how my mother's hands had sewed those stitches, and how she had taken off her warm coat to send it to me, and how she was always working for us and thinking of us here, lonely for the sight of our faces, and I could not rip out the stitches of my mother's hands. I had to wear it as it was."

Be it said that the culminating touch of mothers is the touch given to our very characters. It is that touch, verily, that surpasses aught else. It is a Spanish proverb, worthy of general acceptation, that says: "An ounce of mother is worth a pound of clergy." Charles Dickens paid this tribute to the permanency of maternal influence when he said: "I think it must somewhere be written that the virtues of mothers shall, occasionally, be visited on their children, as well as the sins of fathers."

Over a century ago, in a rude cabin in Southern Indiana, a mother lay dying. Realizing that the end was near, she asked for her seven-year-old boy. She pressed him close to her and whispered: "Be somebody, Abe!" He did become somebody, for he was Abraham Lincoln, and he became a great and good man, a dearly beloved President of our United States. Throughout the years of struggle, and later, when honors came fast to him, Lincoln often remarked that those last words of his "angel mother" led him on.

"Mighty is the force of motherhood!" wrote George Eliot. "It transforms all things by its vital heat; it turns timidity into fierce courage, and dreadless defiance into tremulous submission; it turns thoughtlessness into foresight, and yet stills all anxiety into calm content; it makes selfishness become self-denial, and gives even to hard vanity the glance of admiring love."

"She led me first to God;
Her words and prayers were my young spirit's dew,—
For when she used to leave
The fireside every eve,
I knew it was for prayer that she withdrew.
How often has the thought
Of my mourned mother brought Peace to my troubled spirit, and new power,
The tempter to repel!
Mother, thou knowest well
That thou hast blessed me since my natal hour."

—John Pierpont.

John Randolph, one of our American statesmen, once made this noteworthy confession: "I should have been an atheist if it had not been for one recollection, —and that was the memory of the time when my departed mother used to take my little hand in hers, and cause me on my knees to say: 'Our Father who art in heaven!'" Such is the highly exalted work God has given to mothers, and in what would a woman find a greater?

It is recognized, of course, that not all women are vested with the privilege to serve in motherhood. And yet, what greater and higher blessing is there than that of being a good mother? Truly, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." It is altogether fitting and proper, therefore, to exalt the sweet-sounding and service-signifying name of "mother dear," above aught else that this earth can offer as a mark of distinction.

Covington, Ohio.

Report and Queries for Annual Conference

I. REPORT OF CHURCH ORGANIZATION COMMITTEE

We, your committee, appointed to draft rules to be followed in dividing churches and in organizing new churches, beg to submit the following report:

DIVISION I.—Organization of New Churches

Article 1.—A call for an organization may originate with the congregation, with the District Mission Board or in the Elders' Meeting.

Article 2.—Whenever there are twenty members living within convenient distance of each other, in territory where there is no organized church, it shall be their duty, unitedly or separately, to report the fact to the Mission Board of the State District in which they reside.

The Mission Board, upon receiving this information, shall present the request to District Meeting. In case the District passes favorably on the organization, a committee of elders shall be appointed, whose duty it shall be to go and organize the new congregation.

One member from the Mission Board and one from the Ministerial Board shall be appointed on this committee. The committee shall call a meeting of all members in said territory, and if, in the judgment of the committee and a majority of the members present, it is deemed advisable, shall organize them into a church by electing and installing officers, as the committee, in conference with the members present, may decide, such as elder in charge, ministers and deacons, as the Holy Ghost may direct, church secretary, treasurer, trustees, church correspondent, chorister, and committees for departmental work, as deemed advisable.

The election may be by private vote or ballot. If an ordained elder, having the requisite qualifications, resides in the territory of the church, he should be recommended by the committee. The church, however, may choose an elder in the State District of which it is a part, or from an adjoining State District. The new organization shall then be reported by the committee to the Clerk of the District Meeting of the State District of which it is a part, and, after its acceptance by District Meeting, its delegates shall be seated in the District Conference.

Article 3.—In case of a mission point, they may petition District Meeting, through the Mission Board, or over the wishes of the Board.

Article 4.—Should a congregation be refused the right to organize they may petition again, but not more than twice in succession.

DIVISION II.—Dividing Organized Churches

Article 1.—A query, expressing a desire to divide an organized church may be presented to the church for consideration in the regular way, through the annual visit or the official board of the church. If a majority of the church votes in favor of the request, the fact shall be reported to the adjoining elders.—one or more of whom should be invited to the council meeting of said church, to assist in determining lines, division of church property, etc., and upon a majority, by a private vote or ballot, agreeing to divide, each of the proposed new churches shall send a request to District Meeting for a committee of elders to assist them in their organization. This committee shall meet with the church and shall proceed to elect an elder in charge and such other officers as they and the new church may decide. The new organization shall then be reported to the Clerk of District Meeting, and recognition by the same be obtained, after which their delegates shall be seated.

Article 2.—If, however, the original request for division should not be granted by the church, the member, or members, feeling it would be for the best interests of the cause to divide, may draw up a petition, setting forth their reasons for the request. If a majority of the members, residing in the proposed new church, sign the petition, it shall be forwarded to the elders of the State District at Elders' Meeting. The elders, after hearing the petitioners and considering their request, may send a committee to the church, who, after hearing the arguments for and against the proposition, shall make a report, recommending what their judgment dictates for acceptance or rejection by the church. In the event the church then decides to grant the petition for a division, the same proceedure, as suggested above, shall obtain.

Signed J. Bruce Book, L. H. Eby, Sam'l H. Hertzler.

II. FIRST DISTRICT OF INDIA

1. Because of the difference in languages, making it difficult and, in most cases, impossible for those from one language area to understand what is done in the other language, thus depriving them of the benefits and inspiration of the conferences and business sessions of District Meeting, therefore we, the members of the Ahwa church, petition Annual Conference through District Conference of the First District of India, that the Marathi-speaking members (at present composing three churches, with a membership of 160) be allowed to form a separate District.

(Note.—This petition is supported by the other two churches of the Marathi area.)

Answer of District Conference.—Request granted and sent to Annual Conference.

2. The Vyara church petitions Annual Conference, through District Conference of the First District of India, to grant voting power at the sessions of the District Conference to the Indian Christian ministers, the same as has been granted to the missionaries.

Answer of District Conference.—Request granted.

III. WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

1. Whereas, our Committee on Fraternal Relations was discontinued and now the [Progressive] Brethren are asking on what terms they can be received into the Church of the Brethren, should we not follow the minutes of 1916, that effort should be made to bring the churches together?

Whereas, The mission of the church is to save all who ask to be received, then, are we not, under the Gospel, obliged to answer them? and,

Whereas, We are the larger body, should we not take the initiative and work for a union of the churches?

Therefore, we, the Meyersdale congregation, petition Annual Conference, through District Meeting, to appoint a committee of at least three competent brethren, whose duty it shall be,

(1) To investigate more thoroughly the relations between the two churches, and try to carry out the provisions of the adopted report of 1916.

(2) To help the local congregations where the Brethren churches have asked to come into our Conference.

(3) To report then to Annual Conference.

Passed to Annual Conference.

2. We, the Mount Union congregation, ask Annual Conference, through District Meeting, to change section three (3) of Dress Decision (see Minutes of 1911), so as to read: "That the sisters attire themselves in plainly-made garments, free from ornaments and unnecessary appendages, that the headdress be plain, and that the hair be worn in a becoming Christian manner."

Passed to Annual Conference.

The Evolution of the New Order

BY HARRISON A. FRANTZ

In Three Parts.—Part Three

Those nations or individuals who have consecrated and devoted their lives to a great cause, have secured for themselves an immortal name and shall have the gratitude of many generations. Other men have died and have been forgotten. So with nations. Therefore what shall be the mission of the American people? For what purpose have we, as a nation, been raised up? When we think of the United States and of that for which it stands, we think of liberty. But why of liberty? Are we, whose good fortune it is to have been born in America, more deserving of liberty than other peoples? Not all people can live in the United States, nor would they if they could. But why liberty? "Liberty is a way station on the road which leads to the goal. Liberty is a condition under which life can be developed. The final word in the vocabulary of life is, not liberty, but love. To establish the reign of love is the sublimest of all achievements." ("Christianity and International Peace," Jefferson, page 44.) Are we not, then, as an American people, ready to espouse a cause of so worthy a character, and of such great magnitude? I say "America," because she must lead,—yea, for this very purpose hath she been raised up. The United States is "like unto leaven, which a woman took and hid in . . . meal, till it was all leavened." (Matt. 13: 33).

When we speak of an international organization, it at once suggests that there must be international law. National laws are made by congresses, legislatures, or assemblies of one kind or another. But this is not true of the international law of the present day. It is merely recognized international usage. Indeed, how could it be otherwise? For there is no centralized power that has authority to enact laws that shall be obligatory upon the nations. The world is, today, ready to make for itself laws by which it shall be governed,—not only laws of inhibition or of a conciliatory nature, as though to settle difficulties were the chief business of the nations, but laws for the promotion of world enterprise, progress, and social well-being,—" to set at liberty them that are bruised." For this very purpose did our Christ come, and for this should the Christian nations stand. The lamentation of Christ over the nations today is even as was his lamentation over the Israel of old: O nations, nations, ye that smite each other and kill them that are sent unto you, " how often would I have gathered you together " in peace and unity " but ye would not."

We MUST have a political organization of the world, and laws to govern and guide us in our quest after that which shall make for the social well-being of the citizens of our world. Until now the term " citizen of the world " has been applied only to a few men. Those men were worthy of that distinction, but the day is coming when ALL MEN with noble ideals, of whatever caste or color, shall be citizens of the world, and shall be permitted to share, if they will, the richest blessings which the social and spiritual resources of men can afford. Today, while our noble statesmen are sitting in the great Peace Conference, we are on the threshold of a new era. The destinies of the whole world are hanging in the balances. The great forward movement which we, the civilized nations of the world, should now take, as our big initial step, is to form a League of Nations.

We only need to refer to past history to know that right now is the psychological moment for the formation of a " United Nations." After the American Colonies had fought side by side and won their independence, they united and formed a nation with one united and definite aim. In 1871, after the German States had fought in the war against France, they laid down their differences and united to form a powerful German Empire. Likewise, also, the United Italy was formed in the same year. So now, in this year 1919, following the greatest of wars, when the allied nations have fought for a common cause, shall they not unite in a common defense against the possibility of future wars? The world is sick of war. It has had its fill, but moral disgust is not enough, neither is moral sanction of future peace enough. We must organize with definite aims in view.

A League of Nations must be formed. There is much criticism of the League of Nations idea, but so has there been of all great movements which have been launched. Even today, as I am writing these lines, word comes that prohibition has won the victory in our own beloved country,—a victory which many have contended could never come. So I say again, " Let the scoffers scoff."

We grant that a League of Nations created now, with perhaps only the few greatest powers as charter members, will not have solved all the world problems from the beginning of its existence. The immediate task of the proposed League should be the organizing of the nations for united work. The great fundamental aims of the League, as set forth by " The League of Free Nations Association," 130 West Forty-Second Street, New York City, are: " To achieve for all peoples, great and small, security, due protection of national existence, equality of economic opportunity."

Heretofore it has been the policy that each nation, be it great or small, no matter whether it had great or limited resources, whether it were land-locked or had abundant access to the sea, be compelled to be its own defender. If a strong rival nation wanted some richly-endowed territory, or some advantageous strategic point on which to build forts of defense, or at which it could build a great harbor, it might proceed to take it without any regard for the advantages or disadvantages of a sister nation, and without having transgressed any law of nations. Then each of the greater nations have kept on increasing their armies and navies, that they might be safe from their rival sisters. So long as the nations increase their means of defense and aggression in about the same ratio, what has been gained? It has merely been a question as to which nation should get the strongest group of allies, as to which one should be superior in power.

Why should one nation be afraid of another? The whole secret lies in the fact that their laws have been only selfish nationalism, rather than a wholesome internationalism. The forty-eight States under the stars and stripes each have a pride and ambition of State, yet all live in perfect harmony under the flag and laws of the union. The reason is obvious. The ambitions of the States are wholesome,—there is a rivalry which produces thrift but does not advance one State at the expense of another, for that would, in the last analysis, defeat the well-being even of the aggressor, by affecting the union as a whole.

The same should be true of the nations. Dare we say that it was of no concern to other nations if Germany wanted to include Belgium, and parts of France and Russia in her empire? Or is it of no concern to the world if Turkey should continue to massacre Armenians, Jews, and missionaries, and thus continue to stay the onward progress of civilization and leave a terrible blot upon the pages of twentieth century history?

But how shall the League of Nations cure these evils? Let us see. " The fundamental principle underlying the League is that the security and rights of each member shall rest upon the whole League, pledged to uphold, by their combined power, international arrangements insuring fair treatment for all." With this guarantee, nations may safely decrease their armaments and they will. The difficulty, heretofore, has been that no one nation dared to disarm, for it had no guarantee of security against the aggressions of other nations.

There are three kinds of force in the world: (1) The force of aggression, which is wholly bad and should be abolished. (2) The force of defense,—to neutralize the force of aggression,—a necessary evil so long as there is aggression. (3) Police force,—almost wholly good. The first must go. The second will vanish with the disappearance of the first. The third will always be needed and will be incorporated in the League of Nations' program, as the rod to threaten an international offender. This it will seldom be necessary to use in a conspicuous way. A police force is not a standing army. It will not demand a program of increasing military preparation. It shall consist simply of power being vested in the international commission that they may, with authority, direct and use the combined forces of the nations to bring pressure upon the offender. The first work of this commission, in case of disagreement between two or more powers, shall be to offer terms of reconciliation. A proposal from the commission will, in most cases, be accepted. If it is not accepted then the economic boycott can be put into operation, and the naval police shall patrol the seas and the ports of the offender, to see that the boycott is rigidly enforced, and that no ships shall enter or leave her ports. Likewise also on land all interstate railway trains shall be stopped at her borders, and all telegraph and mail service shall be cut off. As a last and final word, if it becomes necessary, actual, arbitrary force will be used, but one can scarcely conceive of any power being able or disposed to refuse the judicial advice, much less to be willing to face the boycott, knowing whom it is resisting. This, it is apparent, would require only a small navy and army to be maintained by each nation, each doing double service by policing the domestic interests of its own country and at the same time being subject to international command when needed.

Another great advantage will be that it shall no longer be necessary for nations, after spending some millions, in a single year, for modern battleships, then to be compelled, only a few years later, to cast them aside as scrap-iron because other nations shall have built later and more effective types. The same battleships, cannon, airplanes, submarines, rifles or clothing will not be carefully kept for the next war, but will, in the main, be discarded. Before we entered the war, we were selling rifles to England at $48 apiece. We have since equipped more than two million soldiers with these rifles, to be used for a time; then they are worthless.

Now, in order that the League may succeed, it should be organized with an understanding that there shall be no secret diplomacy between the powers, and that all the conferences of the International Council shall be open. It shall also be the duty of the League to see that no minor leagues or special covenants shall be formed, neither any special boycotts or exclusions. The League should be so democratic in spirit, should so control economic world resources, as would make it far more advantageous for a State to become, and to remain, a member of the League, and to cooperate with it than to challenge it. A " Monroe Doctrine " for the world should be the policy whereby it is made unlawful for any nation to attempt to gain advantage, territorially or in any other way, which would work as a disadvantage to any other nation.

An effort should be made to have as nearly a representative body of all the free peoples of the world as possible. Also the various political parties of those Governments, which are responsible to the people, should be fairly represented. Thus, as one by one the more skeptical nations shall come into the family, the world will realize, more and more, that all the principles of the League are merely the extension of the great principles upon which our own national life and that of all self-governed peoples rest.

The practicability of a League of Nations has long been doubted for the reason that we, as a nation, would not always receive satisfactory decisions. But what court, even of the highest type, has always been able to render a decision equally satisfying to both litigants? If a nation is in the right, it will get justice. If it is in the wrong, it should not expect a decision in its favor but should gracefully submit to a decision which is equally fair to all concerned.

Let us note a few of the definite things for which the League shall stand:

(1) It shall serve as a guarantee against war.

(2) It shall guarantee one state against the aggression of another.

(3) It shall provide for the settling of disputes between powers by arbitration.

(4) It shall establish and codify international law.

(Continued on Page 300)

THE ROUND TABLE

Nobody Knows But Mother

Selected by Mrs. Wilson Weller, Laketon, Ind.

Nobody knows of the work it makes
To keep the home together;
Nobody knows of the steps it takes,
Nobody knows,—but mother.

Nobody listens to childish woes,
Which kisses only smother;
Nobody's pained by naughty blows,
Nobody,—only mother.

Nobody knows of the sleepless care
Bestowed on baby brother;
Nobody knows of the tender prayer,
Nobody,—only mother.

Nobody knows of the lessons taught
Of loving one another;
Nobody knows of the patience sought,
Nobody,—only mother.

Nobody knows of the anxious tears
Lest darlings may not weather
The storm of life in after-years,
Nobody knows,—but mother.

Nobody kneels at the Throne above
To thank the Heavenly Father
For that sweetest gift,—a mother's love,
Nobody can,—but mother.

"Put Beauty Into Your Life"

BY PERNIE HYLTON FAW

THE life that would be complete; that would be sweet and sane, as well as strong, must be ornamented, softened and enriched by a love for the beautiful.

There is a lack in the make-up of a person who has no appreciation of beauty, who does not like good music, and see beauty in the sunset or in nature around him.

Savages have no appreciation of beauty. They have a passion for adornment, but there is nothing to show that their esthetic faculties are developed. But as civilization advances, ambition grows, and we find aspiration and love of the beautiful manifested on the person, in the home and in the environments.

There are many evidences in the New Testament that Christ was a great lover of the beautiful, especially in nature.

Back of every rose, back of every landscape, back of all the beautiful things that enchant us, there must be a great lover of the beautiful and the beauty principle. Every star that twinkles in the sky bids us look behind it for its source. It points us to the great Author of the beautiful.

No one can look at the wonderful beauties of nature and doubt that the Creator intended that man, made in his own image and likeness, should be equally beautiful.

Beauty of character, charm of manner, attractiveness of expression are our birthrights. Yet how ugly, stiff, coarse and harsh in appearance and bearing many of us are! No one can afford to disregard his good looks for personal appearance.

If we wish to beautify the outer, we must first beautify the inner, for every thought and every motion shapes the delicate tracings of the face for ugliness or beauty.

Shakespeare says: "God has given you one face and you make yourself another." The mind can make beauty or ugliness at will.

A sweet, noble disposition is absolutely essential to the highest form of beauty. It has transformed many a plain face. But a bad temper, jealousy and ill nature will ruin the most beautiful face ever created.

Beauty is from within. We have all seen very plain women who, because of the charm of their personality, impress us as being beautiful. A fine spirit speaking through the plainest body will be beautiful.

We admire the beautiful face, the beautiful form, but we love the face illumined by a beautiful soul. Too many women have the wrong conception as to being beautiful. While they are spending hours at the mirror, trying to look attractive, they are losing the very best beautifier,—smiles and kind deeds to others.

It was only a glad "good morning"
As she passed along the way,
But it spread the morning's glory
Over the livelong day.

Every one should endeavor to be beautiful and attractive; to be as complete a human being as possible. There is not a taint of vanity in the desire for the highest beauty.

The love of beauty that confines itself to the mere external form, however, misses its deepest significance. It is the indwelling Spirit and the pure character that make one beautiful.

813 Northumberland Avenue, Roanoke, Va.

Listening to a Sermon

BY NETTIE C. WEYBRIGHT

WHEN I was a little girl, an aged minister and his wife moved into our neighborhood. They were humble, faithful, cheerful Christians. Especially was I impressed with the saintly countenance and habitual good cheer of the mother. One of her practices I remember, especially. She always repeated to herself the sermons she heard. As a child, I often watched the motion of her lips as she sat, gazing intently at the speaker.

To me, that was a new custom. But how much good she derived from the sermons, that many others lost or missed entirely! Her characteristic expression, as she greeted others after church, was: "Wasn't that a good sermon we had today?" Or, "We ought to praise God that we can come to church and hear such good, helpful sermons."

To be sure, she couldn't have told the color or make of the dress worn by the sister at her side, neither did she look at the door, to gaze at the late-comer, nor did the children annoy her. But her calm face,—radiant with the love of God and peace of a life lived with Christ, spoke volumes of what she had gained by listening intently and interestedly to the Word of God, as preached by his servants.

It may not be necessary, for all of us, to listen to sermons in just that way; but I have often thought if I were troubled with being sleepy at church, I would try repeating the sermon. I doubt, if the mind were thus actively engaged, if the eyelids would close in such peaceful slumber, while rich thoughts are being wasted on sleeping ears. I would at least try taking notes of the sermon. However unsystematic they might prove to be, it would certainly keep me awake, and be a better example to others. It might help me to gain much more good from the service, and be more exemplary than a drowsy attitude.

Syracuse, Ind.

Witness-Bearing That Counts

BY G. W. TUTTLE

OFTEN, when we multiply words, we lessen effectiveness. We shoot too many arrows without taking time to aim. We are to confess Jesus Christ, according to his fullness of blessing to us, and not according to an unabridged dictionary. "Come and hear, all ye that fear God, and I will declare what he hath done for my soul."

The witness-bearing of the devout soul always counts. The words of a new beginner in the Christian life may be few and stumbling, but the Spirit gets busy, and fills in the gaps, and opens men's hearts, and straightens up the crooked words, and makes the heart message powerful. Ah! but our God can use stumbling words as a lever to lift some needy soul from the depths of despair, to draw men closer to him. Talk about self-possession,—it is Christ-possession that we need to make witness-bearing effective.

And the life testimony that counts is the consistent living, day after day. How cumulative is the testimony of the earnest Christian life! The unchurched, who work daily by your side, heed not, for a time, but day after day, month after month, year after year, it grows before him. The mole-hill becomes a mountain. Even almost blinded eyes can see it. That which was dormant awakes, and says: "Whence came this mountain?" and the reply echoes in his heart: "This is the witness of the power of God."

And only the Lord knows when speech will be effective, or when silence will speak louder than words. If we listened more for his voice, our blunders would be fewer, our results greater. A pastor's wife said to a young man, a beginner in the Christian life: "I am very much interested in Mary S——; she likes you, and I think you can exert a good influence over her, but you must not talk to her directly about religion, as it will do no good and might do much harm."

The young man intended to obey her counsel, but a few evenings later he happened to be alone with the young lady, and somehow the way opened. The young lady listened with tears in her eyes that bore witness to her sense of need,—to the personal appeal. She did not accept Christ at the time, and yet the young man's heart rejoiced because he had spoken, for he felt that it would not be in vain. "We ought to obey God rather than men." When God says: "Speak," words are golden. When God says: "Keep silence," words are lifeless and useless.

Pasadena, Calif.

Mothers the World Around

BY KATHREN R. HOLSOPPLE

MANY different things are seen when one goes around the world. There are wonderful buildings, old and curious trinkets and relics, beautiful paintings, gorgeous sunsets at sea, new sights, sounds and smells on land, strange faces and odd costumes. But there is one thing that is just the same as at home,—that is human nature. Everywhere you find fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters and babies, and they laugh and play, weep and work, in much the same way we do.

The mothers and babies attracted my eye the most, and I wish it were possible for me to make you see them as I saw them in all parts of the world. There were the babies of my dear friends here, many of whom I had helped to care for. There were the children of the rich in New York City, dressed in the finest clothes, playing with costly toys, and tended by uniformed nurses. There were the English babies, confined to the nursery, with a careless nurse maid as a companion. On the English mail-boat two sweet little girls were left in the care of a Mohammedan man servant. There were the babies of Port Said, running the streets naked, begging when they were scarcely old enough to walk. There were the babies of India, opium-fed, starved and filthy, and the babies of Singapore, dirty and ill cared for. There were the babies of China, hanging on their mothers' backs. There were the Japanese babies, indulged and spoiled. And always there were mothers,—mothers who loved their babies and cared for them in the best way they knew.

Yes, mother love is the same the world over. No matter where you go, whether in the temperate zone or in the tropics, among the rich or poor, educated or ignorant, mother love is there, a beautiful light that shines out above all else. No sacrifice is too large, no service too great, no burden too heavy for mother love.

Look at this home in India. The house has one room, a door but no window. The walls are of mud, the roof so low that you can not stand upright except in the middle. A small, dug-out place serves as a fireplace and stove. Around it are a few vessels for cooking. In one corner is a rickety cot, on which are a few dirty clothes, and under it a small tin box, which holds the family wardrobe. The mother sits at the fire preparing breakfast. On the cot lies the baby, wrapped in dirty rags and breathing the foul air and the dense smoke made by the fire. Four or five people slept in this one room all night with no ventilation, for the door is kept closed, even in warm weather. After breakfast the mother turns the older children on the road, takes the baby and starts to the field, where she can make six cents a day by pulling weeds. She has fed the baby most of the night, so she gives it some opium, hangs him in a hammock made of a strip of cloth, attached to the branch of a tree, where he stays alone.

If she does not go to the field to work, she stays at home and alternately scolds, whips and pets the children, quarrels and visits with her neighbors and does the little work necessary around her house. If the baby gets sick, a native doctor or an old hag is called. They burn the baby's flesh with hot irons, put pepper in his eyes and give horrible doses. She blackens the children's faces around the eyes with soot to keep the devils away, and often ruins their eyesight. She tells them fearful stories of the gods, their vile deeds and their anger and how to appease it. But despite all this she loves her children and is doing the very best she knows. It is hard for her to make her baby suffer, but she thinks that it is for his good.

Look at a home in this country. The mother may be a so-called educated woman and one who loves her children dearly. Yet she allows her children to eat all sorts of harmful things, and at all hours. She lets them run the street, or camp at the neighbors' houses. She trains them on "Don't do that," or lets them do as they please, as long as they don't bother her. In case of sickness she stands wringing her hands and weeps at the sight of her child's suffering. And she, too, loves them and is doing the best she knows.

Let us look at another home. The clean, well-kept, well-lighted home is ventilated and sanitary. The well-cooked meals are planned to nourish the body. The regularly-fed, regularly-bathed baby is trained, from the first day of its little life, not to acquire bad habits, that will be hard to break when older. The clean, sweet children are taught to play happily together, with instructive toys. Little ones are helped and guided with gentle look and word, though firm, to do what is right, to think of the comfort of the other person, and to be helpful to every one they meet. In case of sickness the mother aids the physician or nurse with skillful hands, carrying out every instruction, even though it may mean pain. She teaches her flock about the Heavenly Father, who loves them and cares for them, and who will help them if they go to him. And she, too, is doing the best she knows.

But why the difference in these homes? It can not be love, for we found that in all three. It can not be instinct, which some consider sufficient, and is to be depended upon, for that, too, is found in all the homes, and surely did not always produce the best results. It can not be poverty, for we find the ideal home among the poor as often as among the rich. I believe it is a difference of training,—mother knowledge.

Mothers hold the most important job there is, and have the least training for it. The college girl, the social butterfly, the factory and business girl,—all trained along their special lines,—are expected to go into homes of their own and care for and train children, without a bit of preparation. How can the best be expected, and yet, are not our children entitled to the best?

Mothers should teach their daughters these things, and encourage them to read and study along these lines. There should be "Home Training Courses" in our schools. This has been tried out in a large New York high school with excellent results. Young mothers should read and study helpful books, and take one or two of the splendid mothers' magazines. Where possible, it would be well to take one of the "Mother-training Courses," that are given by some of our universities in their correspondence departments. In this day, when there is plenty of material and opportunity, all should desire to learn.

Mother love and mother instinct are great things and God-given, but neither one is complete or sufficient without mother knowledge.

Penn Run, Pa.

The Man With One Arm

BY JULIA GRAYDON

ONE day, not long ago, as I was going down street, I saw ahead of me a man who had only one arm. As he passed a laundry wagon, which stood in the street, he walked out to the curb, picked up a bag which had fallen from the wagon and tossed it up to the driver.

Men with two arms had probably passed by that bag, but none of them thought to pick it up,—that was left to the man with one arm.

And I saw a lesson in it: Not to let the thing we have lost hinder us, in any way, in helping others with what we have left.

In fact, we can make what we have left, do double duty.

Harrisburg, Pa.

District Conference of Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado

Having been privileged to meet with the Brethren of Nebraska in their District Conferences, and for some reason having been requested to prepare a report of the same, we take pleasure in noting a few facts and observations of this splendid meeting.

Because of influenza this District Meeting, which was to have convened in the Omaha church in October, 1918, was postponed until April 22 to 25, just past, and was held in the South Beatrice church, near Holmesville, Nebr.

The Conference of Tuesday was devoted to the interests of the Sunday-school. Bro. Edgar Rothrock acted as chairman. Tuesday evening was given to a presentation of the Forward Movement. Wednesday forenoon was devoted to Ministerial Meeting, Bro. S. G. Nickey presiding; the afternoon to the Christian Workers' Society, Elders' Meeting, Mothers and Daughters' Conference; the evening to missions at home and abroad. Thursday was the District business session. The evening was devoted to education, while on Friday there was a Sunday-school Institute. In addition to the evening sessions, above mentioned, each evening was closed with an evangelistic message by Bro. C. B. Smith, who was engaged in a revival effort there. The Educational Address was delivered by Bro. D. W. Kurtz, while he and Bro. J. W. Deeter, representatives of McPherson College, conducted Friday's Institute. The District rightly places these men from its college in the fore-front, realizing their worth in influencing its youth for God.

The various Inspirational Conferences were splendid, affording not only inspiration but also awakening a keen sense of the place which each church activity emphasized, occupies in God's great business campaign. Likewise the business sessions, proper, afforded inspiration as well. To be engaged for four days in such a Conference, generates much enthusiasm for the cause.

The elders of the District, in their session, dealt only with positive problems, and there are always plenty of them. The reports given show commendable zeal and spiritual progress.

The business session was very efficiently cared for by Brethren S. G. Nickey, Moderator; George W. Hilton, Reading Clerk; W. W. Blough, Writing Clerk.

Nearly all of the churches were represented by delegates. We noted that the Nebraska brethren have a very effective method of reminding the churches, through their delegates, of the necessity of keeping apportionments paid. It helps the District Treasurer not a little, if the delegate, in answering the roll call, is required to state whether dues are paid or not. Really, it's quite a tonic, putting iron into the financial blood of a District's obligations. While the doses may prove bitter, they do not nauseate. The result in Nebraska was quite satisfactory.

The District showed its foresight in having provided a committee beforehand, to plan for a Golden Jubilee service, to take place at the regular 1919 District Conference which will convene next October.

Only one query was presented. This one, asking that the 1920 Annual Meeting be held in this Conference territory, was unanimously passed to Winona Lake Conference.

Eld. Geo. W. Hilton represents the District on Standing Committee, with Eld. S. G. Nickey, alternate.

That the Nebraska District has a distaste for debts was shown in the way a $1,200 obligation on the Omaha churchhouse was handled. The Conference simply stopped its business, when the Omaha Building Committee made a report, and called for donations and pledges. The full amount was raised without great effort and with much joy.

The whole meeting was most enjoyable. Of course, the entertainment was splendid. Our people always enjoy these privileges of association. This congregation has only one latchstring, and it surely "hangs out."

Nebraska District needs are similar to those of every other District we know about,—needs of an increased force of leaders. What she has are rendering faithful service, but more are needed. While our pastors will shift from one District to another, yet the only way our Brotherhood can ever have an adequate efficient leadership is for every District to contribute a quota large enough to supply its own District needs. This would be fairness to the whole body. But where are the men? We believe there are enough in the Brotherhood but they are "busy here and there."

Nor can we stop without emphasizing another fact, well worth mentioning, concerning the South Beatrice church. This country church is holding its young people through love and sympathy. It is willing to spend some money to do so. It supports its wide-awake pastors,—Brother and Sister Edgar Rothrock. Instead of a cemetery, a splendid, attractive parsonage is on the church grounds. The church shows growth in giving, membership and influence, for its sheep are being shepherded. If the wealthy men of our churches could be financially converted (and nearly every church contains a few of them) and would do as these brethren have done, it would not be long until there would be plenty of others to help share the burden. We are quite sure that pastors will be more plentiful when the spirit of building parsonages and affording comfortable supports to workers takes more complete possession of us. And our churches must do it, or many of them are surely going to die.

Elgin, Ill. J. H. B. Williams.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation

Be True to Your Ideals

Acts 26: 12-23

For Week Beginning May 18, 1919

1. Introductory.—Paul relates a bit of personal experience before King Agrippa, to show the paths by which he was led into the Kingdom and service of Jesus Christ. These and other facts he recites to the king, to call attention to the fact that, in proclaiming the truth as he had been doing, he was simply yielding "obedience to the heavenly vision," that the Gentiles might "receive remission of sins and an inheritance among them that are sanctified." Then he says to the king: "Wherefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision."

2. How May We Be True to Our Ideals?—In the declaration just named is couched the thought before us. The verses which precede, show us what should be the basis of our ideals. We should not only be true to our ideals, but we should have ideals that are in themselves true,—that rest upon the vision of Jesus of Nazareth whom Paul preached. It only requires a moment's thought to discover how very many ideals there are in the world and in society about us, that might lead us far astray. Men are every day following delusive will-o'-the-wisps which can only bring them to an evil end. No one wants us to be true to such ideals. A base ideal may lead to a base life. We will be no better than the models which we imitate and the ideals which we follow, and possibly we may be a great deal worse.

3. Our Ideals Being Right, We Must Necessarily Be True to Them.—At the very point of testifying to the reality of our ideals by our lives, many of us break down. A person may have the very best of teachers, but if he pays little attention to their instruction,—however superior it may be,—he will make no intellectual progress. The young painter may have the picture of the finest artist on his easel, and his instruction may be to copy it line by line, but he may fail entirely in reproducing it, notwithstanding the beauty and attractiveness of his pattern. How necessary, then, if anything is to be copied, to reproduce it as it is,—not as we THINK it ought to be!

4. Lofty Ideals in the Building of Character.—There must be no affiliation with that which is false, nor must we fail to be loyal to that which is true. David said: "I have set the Lord always before me." That explains a good deal of David's character. He had an ideal and he followed it. He had a model and he imitated it. That model was nothing else but Jehovah himself. Following or being true to that ideal, he became a man after God's own heart. There was no other way by which he could reach such an exalted stature of relationship with God. He kept the Lord always before him, hence he grew into high favor with God. And if we are to attain unto the loftiness of his relationship with God, we must choose the same lofty Model.

5. God Honors Faithfulness to High Ideals.—With this idea in mind, Paul urges that we should be "imitators of God as beloved children." He knew something of the splendid reward that is promised. When Peter followed the Lord "afar off" there was no blessing gained thereby. On the other hand, we are told of Caleb and Joshua, and their faithfulness to high ideals. They followed the Lord fully. Of all the thousands of adults who left Egypt for Canaan, they were the only two to enter the Promised Land. They were true to their ideals.

6. Suggestive References.—David's experience (Psa. 27: 4, 5, 6, 13). David's faithfulness in his relations toward God (Psa. 73: 28). Ideals found in the Christ-life (Gal. 2: 20). Paul's idealistic aspirations (Philpp. 3: 4-14). Faithfulness to an ideal life verified (2 Tim. 4: 7, 8). Leading essentials (1 Cor. 16: 13). Discard self and live unto Christ (2 Cor. 5: 9, 15). Stand fast in the Lord (Philpp. 4: 1).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, MAY 11

Sunday-school Lesson, Sin and Its Consequences.—Gen. 3: 1-24; Rom. 1: 18-23; James 1: 15.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Things Worth While as Seen in Mother—Father.—Luke 1: 6.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. J. C. Garber, of Staunton, Va., in his home church, —Staunton.

Bro. W. E. Baker, of Kansas City, in the Oakley congregation, Ill.

Bro. J. F. Britton, of Bristow, Va., in the Black Rock congregation, Md.

Bro. Milo Geyer, of Milford, Ind., in the Rock Run church, same State.

Bro. B. D. Hirt, of Huntington, Ind., in the Clear Creek church, same State.

Bro. H. E. Blough, of West Wichita, Kansas, in the Paradise Prairie church, Okla.

Bro. H. C. Early, of Penn Laird, Va., in the Peters Creek congregation, same State.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Three were baptized in the Flora church, Ind.

One was recently baptized in the Spray Mission, N. C.

One was recently baptized in the Mt. Morris church, Ill.

Four were baptized recently in the Shamokin church, Pa.

Six were baptized in the Fulton Avenue church, Baltimore, Md.

One was reclaimed recently in the Spring Creek congregation, Pa.

One was recently baptized in the Peters Creek congregation, Va.

Three were recently baptized in the Bethany church, Philadelphia.

Three were recently baptized in the Council Bluffs church, Iowa.

One has been baptized in the Hanover church, Pa., since the last report.

Eight were baptized in the Royersford church, Pa.,—Bro. E. G. Diehm, pastor, evangelist.

Three were added to the Miami church, N. Mex.,—Bro. Manly Deeter, of Milford, Ind., evangelist.

Thirteen were added to the South St. Joseph church, Mo.,—Bro. Wm. Lampin, of Polo, Ill., evangelist.

Ten were baptized in the Dayton church, Ohio,—Bro. Geo. W. Flory, of Covington, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Trotwood church, Ohio,—Bro. Chas. Flory, of Pleasant Hill, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Spring Grove church, Pa.,—Bro. H. M. Eberly, of Lititz, same State, evangelist.

Three were baptized in the Pleasant Hill congregation, Va.,—Bro. J. F. Britton, of Bristow, same State, evangelist.

Forty-seven accepted Christ in the Greensburg church, Pa.,—Bro. H. B. Heisey, of Rummel, same State, evangelist.

Seven were baptized in the Pleasant View church, Kans., —Bro. Wm. Thompson, of Conway Springs, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized and one reclaimed in the Centralia church, Wash.,—Bro. J. O. Streeter, of Chewelah, same State, evangelist.

Fifteen stood for Christ, twelve of whom have been baptized, in the Stonerstown church, Pa.,—Bro. J. P. Harris, pastor, evangelist.

Nine were baptized in the Union Chapel, W. Va.,—Brethren G. E. Shahan and N. H. Fike, home ministers, in charge of the meetings.

Twelve stood for Christ, ten of whom were baptized, in the Live Oak church, Calif.,—Bro. C. Ernest Davis, of Chico, same State, evangelist.

Seventeen were baptized, one reclaimed and two await baptism in the Hagerstown church, Md.,—Bro. A. B. Miller, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Five confessed Christ, four of whom have been baptized, in the Shepherd church, Mich.,—Brother and Sister Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, evangelists.

Four were baptized during the meetings in the Uniontown church, Pa.,—Brethren C. M. Driver and Carl S. Driver, evangelists. Two were baptized previous to the revival.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. A. L. B. Martin, of Baltimore, to begin May 11 in the Greenwood church, Md.

Bro. F. D. Anthony, of Falls Road, Baltimore, to begin May 18 in the Garrett church, Pa.

Bro. B. W. Smith, of Burlington, W. Va., to begin May 24 in the Peach Blossom congregation, Fairview house, Md.

Bro. M. S. Frantz, of Wichita, Kans., to begin May 11 in the Newton City church, same State.

Brother and Sister Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, to begin August 3 in the Selma church, Va.

Bro. C. H. Steerman, of Honey Grove, Pa., to begin June 1 in the Farmers Grove church, same State.

Bro. A. J. Beeghley, of Somerset, Pa., to begin May 11 in the Jacobs Creek congregation, same State.

Bro. Earl M. Bowman, of McPherson, Kans., to begin June 1 in the Rock Creek church, same State.

Bro. G. S. Batzel, of Everett, Pa., during September at the Mountain Chapel, a point in his home congregation.

Bro. W. G. Group, of East Berlin, Pa., to begin May 18 in the Mountville congregation, Manor house, same State.

Going Over the Top with the CONFERENCE OFFERING $150,000

Already signs are abundant that the Brotherhood is planning to make this the greatest Conference offering in our history. The churches that have been among the most liberal in the Armenian Drive, are likewise ready and willing to work at the Conference offering, with a firm desire to see it made a success. Our people are learning the joy of giving abundantly.

As a means toward accomplishing the desired results, the following brethren have been appointed as District Chairmen, to lend encouragement and aid to every church in their District:

Arkansas, B. E. Kesler; Northern California, J. Harman Stover; Southern California, J. P. Dickey; Idaho, J. H. Graybill; Northern Illinois and Wisconsin, P. R. Keltner, Elmer Bollinger, J. J. Johnson, J. S. Flory; Southern Illinois, G. W. Miller, E. A. Gibson, Noah H. Miller, S. S. Blough; Middle Iowa, J. Q. Goughnour, Dr. S. B. Miller; Southern Iowa, S. N. Garber; Northern Iowa and Minnesota, C. E. Kimmel; Northern Indiana, Manly Deeter; Middle Indiana, D. O. Cottrell; Southern Indiana, J. A. Miller; Michigan, P. B. Messner; Northeastern Kansas, Roy Kistner; Northwestern Kansas, G. O. Stutzman; Southeastern Kansas, Roy Neher; Southwestern Kansas, W. A. Kinzie; Eastern Maryland, J. Walter Englar; Middle Maryland, John S. Bowlus; Western Maryland, A. W. Auvil; First District of West Virginia, Emra T. Fike; Second District of West Virginia, J. B. Shaffer; Northern Missouri, G. W. Ellenberger; Southern Missouri, W. R. Argabright; Nebraska, G. W. Hilton; North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Western Canada, Frank Allen, G. C. Long, Geo. K. Miller; Northeastern Ohio, Geo. Strausbaugh; Northwestern Ohio, David Byerly; Southern Ohio, E. E. Brumbaugh; Oregon, S. E. Decker; Eastern Pennsylvania, John C. Zug; Southeastern Pennsylvania, L. R. Holsinger; Middle Pennsylvania, J. P. Harris; Southern Pennsylvania, J. A. Long; Western Pennsylvania, H. S. Replogle; First District of Virginia, A. S. Thomas; Southern Virginia, L. A. Bowman; Second District of Virginia, S. D. Miller; Northern Virginia, J. M. Kagey; Eastern Virginia, I. A. Miller.

We are not in position to announce the Chairmen for the other Districts, but hope to do so next week.

Local men are also being appointed, in practically every case using the same men that helped so splendidly in the Armenian drive.

Now let us work together in this great effort! May we all do our full share in coöperative effort! And we thank you for it all.

Most fraternally,
GENERAL MISSION BOARD.

Bro. E. J. Egan, of Greencastle, Pa., to begin May 19 at the Upton church, Back Creek congregation, same State.

Bro. J. F Britton, of Bristow, Va., to begin May 31 at Critton, W. Va., and soon thereafter at Braddock, same State.

Bro. Michael Flory, of Girard, Ill., to begin August 1 in the Mt. Pleasant church, Ind.; and the latter part of the month in the Noblesville church, Ind.

PERSONAL MENTION

Northwestern Kansas and Northeastern Colorado is to be represented at the coming Conference by Bro. G. O. Stutsman.

Sweden will be represented on the Winona Lake Standing Committee by Eld. J. F. Graybill, who is now in the homeland on furlough.

Bro. W. W. Gibson having taken up pastoral work at Auburn, Ind., has changed his address from 916 Eighth Street, Goshen, Ind., to 1111 South Main Street, Auburn, same State.

The Standing Committee delegate for the coming Conference, selected by Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York, is Eld. G. E. Yoder, of Norristown, Pa.

Eastern Maryland has selected Eld. John J. John as its Standing Committee delegate for the Winona Conference.

Bro. Ira E. Long has resigned from the pastorate of the Andrews church, Ind., and proposes to give his entire time to evangelistic work, beginning Aug. 1.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

Information is wanted by the Secretary of the District Temperance Committee of Northwestern Ohio. His announcement appears among the Notes.

On page 300 we publish the program of the Closing Exercises of Bethany Bible School, Chicago. Those who contemplate to be in attendance, will please note Bro. J. Hugh Heckman's announcement.

Sunday-school Bible Institutes are to be conducted by the Middle District of Pennsylvania as follows: Woodbury, May 3 and 4; Roaring Spring, May 10 and 11; Stonerstown, May 17 and 18; Altoona, May 24 and 25. See further particulars on page 302.

On the last page will be found an announcement by Bro. John R. Snyder, editor of the Conference Daily. Of course, every wide-awake member will want the Daily, and it is of the highest importance that an opportunity be given to every member to enter his subscription at as early a date as possible. Bro. Snyder's plan of setting aside a special Sunday for that work, is a reasonable request, and should be arranged for by every congregation of our Brotherhood.

MISCELLANEOUS

The Clay Creek church, Colo., is greatly in need of a minister. Intending applicants will please address Sister Susan Jarboe, Lamar, Colo., for further particulars.

Have you any relatives or friends residing in Bartlesville, Okla., or in that vicinity? Bro. James Hardy of that place generously offers to visit such, if he is given their names and addresses. Write Bro. Hardy at Box 36, R. D. 1, Bartlesville, Okla.

To District Meeting Officers: Has YOUR District any queries for the Conference? Have you sent them to the "Messenger" for printing in the Booklet? And the name of your Standing Committee delegate? If not, do it NOW. This is the last call.

Arrangements are being made to start a mission at Tampa, Fla., if the Mission Board can arrange for the successful carrying on of the work. Tampa is one of the strategical points of Florida for church expansion. Many tourists spend the winters there, and many families make it their home the entire year.

Announcement has been made by the Japanese Sunday School Association that the Graded Lessons for their Sunday-schools are now coming from the press. These, it should be remembered, are not simply routine translations, but are carefully planned to appeal to the Japanese mind. In that respect the Nipponese Sunday-school leaders have shown a remarkable degree of real skill. Westerners, who are fortunate enough to attend the World's Sunday School Convention in Japan, in 1920, will probably be surprised at the phenomenal progress that has been made in successful Sunday-school methods by the Japanese.

The pastor of a flourishing Arizona church recently held a very spiritual series of meetings, resulting in a large number of accessions. He did not rest content, however, with the mere reception of the new members into the church family. He makes it his special business to train all these recruits for active service. To that end he advises them to form the habit of early morning Bible reading and prayer, to attend the Sunday-school, preaching services, and other religious gatherings, regularly, and to do their part in the financial obligations incumbent upon every member. He has also mapped out a course of reading by which the New Testament is comprehensively covered. This phase of "after-revival" work is too often sadly neglected or wholly overlooked, but it is, nevertheless, of highest importance, to conserve the harvest that, by the grace of God, has been gathered in.

SEND IN THOSE REPORTS, PLEASE

Again we urge all local managers of the Armenian Fund Campaign, who have not already done so, to send to the Relief and Reconstruction Committee their reports on the recent "drive." Many most excellent reports have come in. We are greatly pleased. But many have not yet reported. We want to know just where we are. We think the "Messenger" readers want to know too. And we want to tell them. Fill out the blanks, showing both cash paid in and the amount pledged for later payment. Should you, for any reason, have failed to receive blanks, send us the information at any rate. Elders and pastors, will you each one please see that the matter is attended to in your congregation? Please do it NOW. Thank you.

The Committee.

We are now ready to consider applications from strong men and women who want to do relief work in Armenia. The American Committee has just received a cable from Constantinople asking for additional workers. Let us have your applications at once.

Relief and Reconstruction Committee.

AROUND THE WORLD

Vanishing Towns

During the progress of the war, many industries closely related thereto, had to be so abnormally extended that special towns sprang up, whose several thousand people were employed in the all-important powder or armament factories. With the discontinuance of these activities, towns of this sort are rapidly dwindling. The chances for employment being gone, there is no further incentive for the thousands of workers to remain. How vastly different are the more beneficial activities of peace! Their highest development insures permanent employment, and a fruitage of joy and happiness to all concerned. Humanity's greatest blessings are ever found in the realm of peace.

Feeding Starving Russia

While it is clearly incumbent upon humanity to feed the starving, some are seriously questioning the propriety of giving food to the Bolshevistic element of Russia, as long as those reactionaries persist in their pernicious career of terrorism and rapine. A recent cablegram announces that sixty American soldiers were killed by the Bolshevists. In view of this and other acts of violence it would seem eminently proper to make a close investigation of all those who desire to share America's bounty. It would be no more than right to help the orderly part of Russia in every way possible, but it would hardly seem proper to encourage the Bolshevists in their lawlessness.

Juvenile Delinquency Increasing

In Chicago, the other day, one of the judges had to deal with a most peculiar case. A boy of fifteen had been threatened with severe punishment by his father, because of some misdemeanor. During the night following, the boy shot his father, thus evading the threatened chastisement, but not weighing the consequences of his rash act. Further investigation revealed the fact that the boy was given to the use of cocaine, heroin and kindred drugs,—just as scores of other boys are doing despite rigid laws to the contrary. Quite recently it became known that attempts are being made to introduce the use of the deadly "hashish,"—long the bane of the Orient. Only the utmost vigilance will curb the use of these corrupting drugs.

Six Millions Died in Three Months

Influenza levied a heavy toll upon humanity even under the most favorable circumstances. It was to be expected that in countries with far inferior sanitary environments the death rate would be still greater. So far as now known, India leads the world in influenza fatalities,—the last three months of 1918 showing an aggregate of six million deaths. This is a greater mortality than has occurred from the plague during the twenty-two years it has been ravaging India. This most astounding showing in but three months nearly approximates the mortality in the armies of all the Allied nations during five years of the Great War. Official records claim that nearly eighty per cent of the total population of India was attacked by the ominous epidemic of influenza.

Simplified Chinese Writing

In order that the native churches in China may be given ready access to Bible knowledge, special attention has been given by Sunday-school workers in China to a system of phonetic writing. A complete alphabet has been arranged by the use of thirty-nine signs. Already several manufacturers of typewriters are arranging to introduce machines fitted with the special type. Only a small portion of the population,—perhaps not more than twenty-five per cent of the church members,—can read fluently even the simplest Scripture portion, written in Mandarin Chinese characters. The new system of phonetic characters can be mastered by the average person in a little while. Special efforts are now being made to teach the new system to all church members.

A New Sense of Responsibility

Many large employers of labor have seen a vision of higher and better things, so far as their relation to their workers is concerned. Only a few years ago, a pet proverb was: "Corporations have no souls." Big business was cold and remorseless. The worker had no real, personal contact with the company. In less than a generation America has experienced an industrial growth that is truly phenomenal, and a new and different spirit is in evidence. "Captains of industry" are now endeavoring to put the soul back into business. The specific aim now is to restore the human element which had been squeezed out by the complexities of intense business rivalry. Everywhere the tendency is, nowadays, to develop an industrial establishment as a living organism, instead of a bloodless machine. Close, sympathetic relations between employer and employé are striven for. A wealthy and well-known soap manufacturer has for some years given his workers an equitable share of the profits of the business, besides the wages paid them. When remonstrated with, by one of his business friends, he frankly replied: "I do it because it is right." Incidentally it may be of interest to add that this manufacturer has no labor troubles whatever,—his workers are his friends, just as he is theirs. It is an ideal relation,—very much like that of Boaz and his workers, as referred to in Ruth 2: 4.

Earthly Fame Is Fleeting

While our beloved Chief Executive richly merits all the honors that have been showered upon him, it is just a little surprising how small a pretext will suffice to change the felicitations, so graciously bestowed upon him, to downright abuse and bitter invective. A few months ago, while President Wilson stood high in Italy's good graces, a thoroughfare of the capital was named "Wilson Avenue." Then came the dispute about the awarding of Fiume to the Italians,—President Wilson contending at the Peace Conference, that in justice the Jugo-Slavs should have this outlet to the Adriatic. Strong sentiment was quickly aroused in Italy against the ruling, and now it is "Wilson Avenue" no longer, but "Fiume Avenue." Popularity wanes when self-interest is threatened.

Liquor Interests Lose on Pacific Coast

Oregon and California liquor men recently attempted to have the Supreme Court approve the action of the Legislature in each of these States, by which the Prohibition Amendment would be referred to the vote of the people. The court, however, sustained a demurrer by the Attorney-General, according to which a referendum on the Prohibition Amendment can not be entered into. The decision is of special importance to every advocate of prohibition principles from the fact that several other States were threatened by a like move, on the part of the "wet" element. Large amounts of money are at the disposal of the liquor interests, and we must expect that every means,—foul or fair,—will be employed in attempts to nullify the prohibition enactment.

The Orphanage of Lebanon

Some months ago the Moslems seized the buildings of a Christian College in the Mountains of Lebanon. Having a number of younger children of murdered Syrians and deported Armenians on their hands, they placed them in these buildings, hoping to rear them as Mohammedans. But by the coming of General Allenby their plans were thwarted, and now a real orphanage is being carried on by American Relief Workers, under the auspices of the American Committee for Relief in the Near East. And what a change for these hundreds of children! After years of always being hungry,—often very near starvation,—these little ones now have all they can eat. Though only 664 out of more than 6,000 in the Lebanon district are thus rescued, America's bounty is working wonders.

Keep Up the Acquaintance

In a great many American communities the people got better acquainted with one another during the war period than they had ever been before. Red Cross work and other activities brought the people in decidedly closer touch and gave them a better understanding of each other. It is a generally-admitted fact that the American people are not always as sociable as they ought to be. Most of us pursue our own way and confine ourselves to our own comparatively small circle. Now since, by reason of circumstances above referred to, new acquaintances have been formed, what should be done to make the most of them? Clearly, the thought of helpfulness to each other should be uppermost. And what more helpful act can we, as members of God's family, engage in, for our fellow-men, than to win them for the right,—make them travelers with us in the good old way? Let us keep in touch!

When Fear Becomes Torment

In a recent issue of "Capper's Weekly" a striking cartoon delineates the "Three Fears" which darken and even destroy the lives of men,—"Fear of Ill Health," "Fear of Unemployment," "Fear of Want in Old Age." In illustration of the fact that dire fears, unmitigated by deep-seated religious convictions, may become sinister and powerful factors in robbing man of all that is best, we were impressed by a recently-reported incident,—only one out of many: William J. Marwitz, late assistant postmaster at Hinsdale, Ill., had a record of excellent service. He had always been a hard worker, and his wife managed economically. They got along nicely until affliction, like a dark pall, settled upon their peaceful home. About a year ago the wife went to a dentist who, during an operation, happened to break a drill,—the broken portion being imbedded in the jawbone, where it caused intense pain. Then and there began a struggle that challenged the strongest endeavors of the husband. No expense was spared to secure the best medical skill, but seemingly without avail. Blood poisoning set in, causing the most excruciating pain to the suffering one. Mr. Marwitz, in an endeavor to secure further expert medical aid, mortgaged his home, pledged his salary ahead, borrowed where he could, and went deeper and deeper into debt, but with no apparent results for the better. Finally the problem of mounting bills, without resources to meet them, haunted him day and night. In a dark hour he was driven by his fears to seize his revolver, to kill his wife and his two children, and to end his own life. This is what two of the "Three Fears" did for Mr. Marwitz. His failure to resist the onslaught of these foes, and to seek the Refuge that never fails, may well be a lesson to others (1 John 4: 17, 18).

A Wonderful Experience

Few of us, perhaps, can realize what it would mean to a person born blind, to see the world in all its beauty for the first time, after twenty-four years of darkness. As a matter of fact, such an experience can hardly be imagined. It came recently, however, to a young woman in a Baltimore hospital, when the glories of nature, wholly unknown before, suddenly burst upon her, by the restoration of her eyesight. And so, it seems to us, will be the ecstatic joy of the believer when, through the grace of God, the promised vision of celestial glory is revealed unto him: "Eye hath not seen . . . the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." To every believer, however, the gracious promise is given that some day all will be revealed that the Father has in store for those that are his own.

A Momentous Question

At last the much-heralded constitution for the League of Nations is before the people of the United States. It comes to us in the revised form which, undoubtedly, is a great improvement over the one originally submitted. Several important essentials have been incorporated in the document. There are twenty-six articles to the constitution, and only a careful study will determine the full significance of each stipulation, and the bearing of one article upon another. Under the constitution, the Senate of the United States will now make a critical examination of the document in all its bearings, and possibly some changes may suggest themselves. In our opinion this is the time of all times when the prayers of God's people, throughout the nation, should be offered at a throne of grace, that due wisdom might be given to our Senators, to keep in mind not only the interests of our own land, but also the general welfare of humanity, by the well-devised provisions of the League of Nations.

Diplomacy's Devious Ways

To the unprejudiced observer of proceedings at the Peace Conference in Paris it is clear that the special interests of the respective nations are crowding lofty principles decidedly to the rear. We had been told that the Peace Conference would deal out evenhanded justice alike to foe and friend, and that a new era of disinterested fairness would be ushered in. The Peace Conference, as it really turns out to be, bears very little resemblance to the war-time vision of a better world. War has not allayed national ambitions, but rather inflamed them. The French insist on holding the Saar Valley for "military and economic reasons." Italy wants Fiume, which, if finally granted, can hardly be other than a concession by the conference under the compulsion of "peculiar conditions." Then there is the so-called settlement of "Japanese claims" on Shantung, China,—virtually nothing but a substantial recognition of Japan's power. Truly, diplomacy has ways and means peculiarly her own!

For Conscience' Sake

Untold suffering has been experienced by the little band in Great Britain who are conscientiously opposed to military service. The editor of "The New Statesman," London, gives a glimpse of actual conditions,—not as a sympathizer but merely as a journalist who gives his impressions: "Conscientious objectors are still dying in prisons, or are being sentenced to new terms of hard labor. Of 1,500, still incarcerated, 700 have served sentences amounting to two years' hard labor. Since the armistice 115 have been court-martialed, many of them being sentenced to a fresh term of two years' hard labor. Fifty-four men have died since their arrest, eight have died in prison, one in an asylum, eleven in home office camps. Six have committed suicide, and thirty-seven have become mentally affected. . . . We consider it disgraceful that this remnant,—including as it does, many of the most sincere of the objectors,—should continue to be persecuted long after hostilities have ceased. No good purpose can be served by continuing their imprisonment indefinitely. We do not suppose that most of the politicians care aught about them, but the very influentially-signed memorial, recently presented to the Prime Minister, might well suggest a change of policy. Unless the agitation is kept up, these wretched men will continue to receive new sentences until the last of them has been killed by his hardships." In the United States strong efforts are now being made to secure the release of all "conscientious objectors" still in prison. Their cases are to be investigated at an early date.

HOME AND FAMILY

"Rock Me to Sleep"

An Old Favorite, Republished by Request

Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight,
Make me a child again just for tonight!
Mother, come back from the echoless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore;
Kiss from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of my hair;
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep;—
Rock me to sleep, mother,—rock me to sleep!

Tired of the hollow, the base, the untrue,
Mother, O mother, my heart calls for you!
Many a summer the grass has grown green,
Blossomed and faded, our faces between;
Yet, with strong yearning and passionate pain,
Long I tonight for your presence again.
Come from the silence so long and so deep;—
Rock me to sleep, mother,—rock me to sleep!

Come, let your brown hair, just lighted with gold,
Fall on your shoulders again as of old;
Let it drop over my forehead tonight,
Shading my faint eyes away from the light.
For with its sunny-edged shadows once more
Haply will throng the sweet visions of yore.
Lovingly, softly, its bright willows sweep;—
Rock me to sleep, mother,—rock me to sleep!

Mother, dear mother, the years have been long
Since I last listened to your lullaby song;
Sing, then, and unto my soul it shall seem Womanhood's years have been only a dream.
Clasped to your heart in a loving embrace,
With your light lashes just sweeping my face,
Never hereafter to wake or to weep;—
Rock me to sleep, mother,—rock me to sleep.

—Elizabeth Akers Allen.

The Four Stars

BY OMA KARN

RUDOLPH RAYNOR is one of the great men of our town. His birthplace was Country Center, a quaint, old-fashioned wayside village, lying along a recently-improved highway. His mother still resides at this place, occupying the well-kept little old cottage in which her distinguished son was ushered into this world, near the close of the Civil War. The place is about twelve miles distant from the city. Every Sunday afternoon, the son, unless absent from home, motors out for an hour or so with his mother.

Recently we were privileged to witness one of these weekly meetings between mother and son. "Rudy," the mother joyously exclaimed, tottering down the cleanly-swept, bricked walk toward the tired-looking man approaching. And, oh, the mother-love and the mother-pride thrilling through the one word spoken. "Mother," he made reply, and we could scarcely comprehend that it was the distinguished man of business, the leader in civic matters and the dictator in political affairs, who was speaking, so great was the tenderness and the devotion with which he spoke. Leaning upon his strong arm, they passed on into the cottage. A touch from our man at the wheel, and our roadster shot forward, its several passengers better men and women for having witnessed the touching little scene. "Mothers such as she is should wear a silver star in this world, as well as in the world to come," one of the ladies of our party remarked, a very noticeable tremor in her voice.

We were down at the railway station, seeing a member of the family off on a journey. Among those waiting was a gray-haired, middle-aged woman, engaged in restlessly pacing the waiting-room floor. So pronounced was her nervousness that the attention of about every one in the room centered upon her.

The train drew into the station. In the confusion of looking after luggage, saying good-bye and so forth, we, for a time, lost sight of the object of our attention. Several of the boys from "Over There" alighted from the train. Among them was a giant in stature, a six-foot-two specimen of young manhood, whose eyes, as he descended the steps of the coach, were engaged in eagerly searching the faces of the crowd surging about on the platform below.

"Jim! Jim!" Oh, for the power to express in words the love, the longing, the immeasurable relief sounding through the words! More eyes than those of the writer of this article turned, to see from whose lips the cry had sounded.

It was the woman we had noticed in the waiting-room. The cause of her exceeding restlessness of manner was explained. She was one of the war-mothers waiting to welcome back home her safely-returned battle-scarred boy. No wonder her cry thrilled those who heard. Days, weeks, months of heartache, anxiety and travail of soul patiently and uncomplainingly borne, was in its utterance. Mingling with this was a pæan of gratitude, inexpressible and indescribable. There was a long, silent embrace, and then, arm in arm, they went away down the platform, leaving tear-dimmed eyes and more tender hearts among those privileged to witness the affecting scene. One among the witnesses was reminded of an exquisite little jewel she had seen,—a small gold cross and in the center a tiny white star. And she found herself wishing she had one like it to give to that mother.

John Harris was among the first to be stricken down by the deadly invasion of influenza. He was sick three weeks. At the conclusion of this time he arose from his bed and went downstairs. Three more weeks elapsed before he got any farther. The after-effects refused to let go. A racking cough set in. Its victim became thin and pale and listless. The physician dropped in on him unexpectedly, one day in February. He studied John's face silently for a time. One of the stern necessities of the medical profession is that of telling a patient he can not live. The best men of medicine are plain-spoken to bluntness, in the matter of imparting this information. Doctor Emory belonged to this class. "John," he tersely said, "you're developing tuberculosis."

John's mother heard. At the moment the words were uttered she was engaged in wringing a tea-towel from a vessel of clean water. With methodical precision she hung the towel on its rack to dry. Judging from her undisturbed demeanor no one would have suspected the force of the shock, sustained through the words just borne to her ears. "Tuberculosis! Her worst fears were confirmed!" At the thought her lips set in firm, grim lines. Very quietly and composedly she went about placing the dishes in the cupboard.

John sat silent. He took a long look through the window away over at the hills beyond the town. His lips too, contracted, but for a different reason from the one which had just locked his mother's together. "A sure thing, is it, Doc?" he asked.

The doctor gravely nodded. "A sure thing, my boy," he gently said. "I've tested the case."

Again John sat silent. Then he smiled. "As good a way as any, is it not, Doc?" he asked, almost humorously, but the trained ear of the physician detected a tremble underneath the firmly-spoken words. Sympathetically he followed John's eyes as they turned toward his mother. "But for her," the boy breathed. "I'm her one thing in life, you know, support and all." She did not hear this last for she had slipped away into another room. A few minutes later they heard her leave the house by a rear way.

She stayed away, what seemed to the stricken son, a long, long time. He was patient, though, respecting her desire for privacy to fight the inevitable out with herself alone. "It was hard on her, poor mother." For the first time, since the announcement had been made, John sighed. He wrote several letters and called up the office superintendent of the firm where he had worked, telling him that he need not keep his place for him any longer.

At four o'clock he watched his mother alight from an incoming interurban car. She came into the house the exact opposite of what John expected and dreaded to see. Her countenance was radiant, her voice jubilant as she announced to the pale-faced invalid at the window that she had been to the country, out at the Cooke place on the King road, and leased the little old, unused tenant-house there. "You remember it, John. It is up on the edge of the orchard back of the big house. There's a screened-in sleeping porch, a bit of a garden, a truck-patch, a chicken-house and a rabbit-hutch. We can have the use of all these helps. The rent? Oh, that's all settled. I'm to help Mrs. Cooke several days each week in return. And right glad Sara Cooke is to have such good luck come her way. While I'm doing at the big house you can take care of the little one and raise chickens and rabbits. It's nice out there, and you're going there, and you're going to get well, dear boy,—there's no other way about it."

And John, apparently, is getting well. One day, recently, when we were out at the Cooke place, he showed us a small red star he had come across somewhere. "I'm going to wear it on Mothers' Day beside my rose carnation," he boyishly confided, "in tribute to mother's courage. But for her I might now be very close, if not over, into the far country."

It so happened that I was held up by the railroad gates just as a troop train came by. Several hundred of our boys were on board on their way back from "Over There." A few months ago we had watched them go,—watched them with tears of sorrow,—our brave boys, the flower of our country, on their way to a fate of which we did not know. There were tears in my eyes again on this occasion as well,—only this time they were tears of joy. Our boys were coming home, happy, healthy and glad, as their somewhat hilarious actions proved.

The train was running slowly. A woman of middle age had come and stopped at my side. Moved by the emotion of the occasion we looked into each other's eyes in mute sympathy. She was a stranger, clad in plain, neat garments, with a black band on the sleeve of her dress. Gleaming against this dusky background was a gold star. The eyes of the woman were more than merely dimmed with moisture. Tears were literally raining down her cheeks. And yet she was smiling and waving gaily to the soldier boys, some of whom, quick to notice the star gleaming from the uplifted arm, ceased their noisy shouting and gravely lifted their hats. We walked together across the tracks. "My boy will never come back," she said through bravely-stifled sobs. "But I am so glad for the mothers who have boys to come back,—boys to meet." And I longed to write in golden letters a golden word above the gold star.

Sacrifice, unchanging love, courage, unselfishness, the four cardinal virtues of the human heart! We think of them and then we think of—MOTHER.

Ashland, Ohio.

Edna Garst Stauffer,—An Appreciation

[Note the Illustration on First Page]

When God created woman he gave to man a "helpmeet for him." It is especially fitting that a minister of the Gospel should have such a help, for she is an inspiration in his arduous work. Such a one was the subject of this sketch. She had high and holy desires for the success of her husband's ministry, believing this to be his highest calling.

Edna Garst Stauffer was the daughter of Brother and Sister Peter Garst, born at Watson, Mo., Jan. 17, 1889. She graduated from the Cabool high school at the age of sixteen, after which she taught, with marked success, one year in the rural schools and about four years in the Cabool schools. Having a desire for greater efficiency in the Lord's work, she attended Bethany Bible School in the winter of 1907-8. In 1912 she married Bro. Elmer J. Stauffer.

Sister Stauffer was baptized at the age of fifteen and was loyal and devoted to her Savior and her church. When the influenza was raging she was much concerned about some of her relatives. It was characteristic of her life to be always concerned for the welfare of others. Finally the disease came to her own loved ones and the entire family was stricken. Later, after about one week of illness, the wife and mother was called home. She leaves her husband, one son and two daughters, her parents and four brothers.

Sister Stauffer filled well the standard of God's ideal woman. She rejoiced in being a wife and mother and brought love and constant devotion to husband and home. It has seldom been my privilege to be in a home where such love and sympathy were portrayed and where there was such evident desire to bring up the little ones in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. These were ever first in her heart.

Thus has been called from us one of God's noblest and best, and we wonder at the providence. Why should one who kept her earthly as well as her heavenly house in order, be taken away from her life-work when she seemed to be doing it so well? This and all other like questions we leave with God, knowing that he "doeth all things well." Our sister had the right view of life and its realities, and expressed herself that these days of usefulness were her happiest days. With such wifehood and motherhood the Lord is well pleased and the world is made better. If only all could see the joy of such living! S. S. Blough.

Astoria, Ill.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

A WEEK OF EVANGELISM AT PING TING, CHINA

The first week of the Chinese New Year is observed by most of the missionary societies in China as a special week of evangelism. This week is selected because of the special opportunities it affords for reaching the people. During this week all business activities, as far as possible, are suspended, and the people who have business away from home put forth every effort to get home. It is a time of national leisure, in which the people are free to indulge in any pleasures that may appeal to them most. The restrictions, which at other times hold gambling and kindred vices somewhat in check, are removed and money changes hands very freely,—sometimes very much to the embarrassment of the loser. Taking advantage of this time of leisure, and attempting to get the people to see the folly and sin of their New Year celebrations, the missions observe this week of evangelism.

It was my privilege to join with the workers at Ping Ting in their evangelistic effort this year. We met on Sunday evening, Feb. 2, for special prayer and organization preparatory to our preaching tours, which were to begin on Monday morning and continue throughout the week. There had been a committee appointed to select a number of leaders, and to divide the territory immediately surrounding Ping Ting into districts, according to the number of leaders selected. The committee appointed seven leaders, and we were accordingly divided into seven different groups. After a short season of prayer, the meeting was dismissed, and all returned to their homes with an earnest desire to do their best for the Master.

After a season of prayer on Monday morning we started our visits among the villages. Each group had three or four villages to visit during the day. Owing to the fact that the Chinese do not eat their breakfast before half-past eight or nine o'clock, we did not think it expedient to start out before about half-past nine, and then we returned about two o'clock. This gave us nearly an hour to spend in each village. We met again in the evening, to give a report of the work of the day. We found that we had visited about twenty villages,—all within a radius of less than three miles from Ping Ting.

I wish each of the "Messenger" readers could have been with us to hear the reports given, and to feel the presence of God among us. There is nothing that gives life to a soul, like giving testimony for the Master. In our groups we had school-boys, school-teachers, evangelists, gate-keepers, business men, and any other class of people who desired to help in the work. It is a common thing for the Christians to give testimony among our own people, but to some of them it was a new experience to stand out on the street and testify for the Master. Some of them did it nobly, and as the meetings progressed during the week, they grew in their ability to speak.

Our purpose was to center our efforts upon the villages nearest Ping Ting. There are hundreds of other villages within the Ping Ting district that are just as destitute of a knowledge of the real God as the ones we selected, and that are just as open to work, but we desired to create an interest in church attendance among the people who live nearest the church. The villages, therefore, were visited in rotation, that is, Group No. 1 visited No. 1 villages the first day, No. 2 villages the second day, and so on, during the week. Thus, by Saturday evening, each village had had about six visits, and therefore six different messages. Each group treated the same subject on the same day, but all had a different subject each day. We used such subjects as sin, repentance, love, hell, heaven, faith, God. These may seem like rather abstract subjects for beginners to use among a people who know nothing about the Gospel, but with the aid of the Sunday-school picture rolls, which some of the missionary Sunday-schools have so thoughtfully sent out, and a few simple illustrations, the people were able to understand the subject rather clearly.

From the reports given we found that an average of fifty-five workers went out each day. We visited twenty-two villages, preached to an average of 891 people each day, and sold 204 Gospels, besides distributing a lot of Gospel tracts. We found twenty-three prospective inquirers. We noted also that as we continued to visit the villages, the interest among the people increased. On Monday we preached to 567 people, and on Saturday to 1,465. The people do not tire of the Gospel Story, and the better they become acquainted with it, the more they seem to hunger for it.

The work among the women, under the direction of Sister Horning, was conducted in very much the same manner as that among the men. The women workers were divided into four and five groups during the week, and went out into the different villages. Their meetings, however, were held within the courtyards or in the houses of the people. They held meetings in 150 different homes, including homes in Ping Ting and ten of the surrounding villages. Their meetings were well attended, the rooms, in many instances, being almost too small to accommodate all that came to hear. They also used the Sunday-school picture rolls and Sunday-school cards to illustrate their truths. In their messages they put special emphasis upon the harm done by drinking alcohol, smoking cigarets, and foot-binding.

Wherever we went in our work, both among the men and the women, we were received with a hearty welcome. China's millions are truly hungering for a message that can free them from their ignorance and superstition, and give them a sure hope beyond the grave. The faithful work of the early missionaries is bearing fruit. Your prayers are now proving their efficiency. The problem is no longer, how to get into the homes of the people, but how to teach them properly, and how to take care of the homes that are begging us to come to them. How our hearts long for the time when China's people will all have had an opportunity to hear the Gospel! The work needs your daily support in prayer and with finances.

Walter J. Heisey.

THE PASSING OF ELDER PETER ARNOLD

Bro. Peter Arnold was born Oct. 29, 1840, and died April 9, 1919, aged seventy-eight years, five months and eleven days. Zech. Arnold moved from near Frederick, Md., about 1785, to Burlington, W. Va. His son, Joseph, erected a home at Patterson Creek, near Burlington. In this home five sons and one daughter were born, one of whom was Peter Arnold,—the last of the children to pass over the river of death.

Elder Peter Arnold

In 1866 he married Miss Martha A. Kelly, who survives him. They joined the Church of the Brethren about three years later and he has lived a consistent and earnest life. He was elected to the ministry in 1873 and was ordained Sept. 2, 1895. He had charge of the following congregations for various periods of time: Little Capon, Knobley and Beaver Run. He served very efficiently on the Mission Board for twenty years and, with possibly one year's exception, was president of the Board. Bro. Arnold did quite a lot of work in the mission field, traveling many miles with horse and buggy. He seldom missed the District, Ministerial or Sunday-school Meetings.

He purchased part of his father's homestead where he spent all his life until several years ago, when he sold his farm and built a home in Burlington, W. Va. Here he passed quietly to the home beyond, after less than two hours of suffering from heart trouble.

Services at the church in Burlington by the writer, assisted by Eld. B. W. Smith and Rev. Grosscup, of the Methodist church. Text, John 17: 24. Interment in the family burying ground. Emra T. Fike.

Oakland, Md.

DISTRICT MEETING WEEK IN INDIA

This is the big annual event in the experience of our Christian community. It is looked forward to and planned for long in advance, and the effort and sacrifice made by many, in order to attend, is an index of their appreciation of the occasion. A group of fifty brethren and sisters, with their children, accompanied Sister Alice Ebey from their jungle home at Ahwa, traveling a distance of nearly fifty miles in their springless bullock carts, camping along the way and cooking their own simple meals. They slept under a large tree near the mission compound during the days of the meeting. Others came on foot from considerable distances, while many came on the train, involving an expense which, in this famine time, could hardly be afforded. In view of the stringent times, the attendance was surprisingly large, there being between three and four hundred present at some sessions.

Having missed seven consecutive Conferences, due to the prolonged stay at home, the writer was in a position to study the progress of the church in India in a unique manner. One could not help feeling the fine spirit of comradeship, such as is prevalent in many of the annual assemblies in the homeland. One could see also the marked growth in vision and mental grasp of the many problems of the church life upon the part of our Indian brethren. During the time of my absence from the field, several of the most worthy of our young men had been called to the ministry, and these, with others, are manifesting a decided development of mental and spiritual power. They are assuming larger responsibilities in the mission and church life,—which is an essential condition for the development of native capacities. Experience develops character.

Memories of the recent epidemic of influenza and the present heart-rending conditions, incident to the unprecedentedly high prices of food might have cast a spirit of dejection and sadness over the meeting, but such was not the case. There was joy in the Christian experience, which found expression in the usual "gayan sabha" or song service, each night, after the close of the regular sessions of the Conference. Too few of the native customs have been brought over and Christianized, and thus retained as a part of their experience. But this one, grown up among the members, is greatly appreciated and enjoyed. Songs with elevating sentiments have replaced the ordinary and too often debasing songs of their former lives. Late into the night they sit and sing, under the leadership of one of their own number, songs composed by Indian Christians, with an occasional translation and western tune.

The weather was ideal; the moon shone in all its Oriental splendor, the preparations for the meeting by the Vyara church were first-class. We met with a common purpose, having come from many different localities. All these conditions contributed towards making the meeting a most pleasant one. The program was carried out as prepared, with very few exceptions or substitutions,—a marked contrast with some District Conferences the writer has attended in the States. One brother had decided he could not afford to attend this year, but on finding his name on the program, for a testimony as to why he became a Christian, all hesitancy vanished and he was there for his part. Others, long in the service of Christ, or just recently brought to a saving faith, gave willing and glad testimony of their joy in Christ.

The Conferences, prior to the District Conference, were on Sunday-school, Christian Education, Evangelistic Work, Social Service (a new feature), and kindred topics. They were two days of inspiration and of vision. The Forward Movement in the homeland was explained and a call made to respond to this new impulse by a vigorous campaign in Sunday-school, educational and evangelistic work. The attitude of the Indian church, in this time of new visions and of undertaking large things for God, may be seen in the offering, taken at the close of the District Meeting session for mission work carried on under the direct supervision of the District, through its District Mission Board.

A large offering was sent in from the different churches by their delegates, larger than last year, but not content with this, a public offering was called for, which was heartily entered into and swelled the offering to a total of over 1,900 rupees, or the equivalent of the wage of the usual laboring man (in ordinary times) for 7,200 days. One brother, who is in Mesopotamia with the British army, sent a whole month's wage, and others did nearly as well. Some of the money came from families who, in order to give, had deprived themselves of the ordinary amount of food. A week of self-denial is observed by many, throughout the District. The Mission Board of the District employs three workers and will doubtless enlarge its work in the near future. This is a work worthy of the best effort of the Indian church. We hope it will grow and grow till it can take over much of the work now undertaken by the mission. We wish to foster every effort at self-expression, self-dependence and self-propagation on the part of the church in the mission field. With larger experience, greater ability is developed, more work can be undertaken and larger responsibilities will be assumed by our church members.

The business of the District Conferences had reference to the growth of work throughout the District. The territory of the District is composed of two language areas. This presents a barrier to free intercourse, which is felt at every meeting, and has become intolerable. All the business is transacted in the Gujerati, and those from the Marathi territory are unable to get much from it. This fact led the churches in the latter area to ask for a division of the territory into two Districts. The request is being sent to Annual Conference for approval. Another query to Conference is a request to grant voting powers to the Indian Christian ministers, along with the delegates and missionaries. This is to safeguard the interests of the church. We are still in the training stage of self-government along democratic lines, to which we are so used at home, and sometimes delegates are appointed who are scarcely able to exercise the necessary judgment in matters of importance.

There were reports from various committees,—Temperance, Sunday-school, Mission Board, and a committee

(Continued on Page 302)

CLOSING EXERCISES AT BETHANY BIBLE SCHOOL

Plans have been made for a fitting conclusion to a school-year which is distinguished for its banner attendance of students and their wholesome growth in interest and efficiency for the Kingdom. Six men are to be graduated from the seminary, three women from the training-school, and two women from the school of music. A digest of the closing plans follows:

Saturday, May 31, 7:30 P. M., Prayer Service.

Sunday June 1, 11:45 A. M., Baccalaureate Service, Eld. Emanuel B. Hoff; 3 P. M., Program by Chinese Sunday-school.

Monday, June 2, 9:00-4:00, Regular Class Sessions; 7:30 P. M., Illustrated Lecture, Eld. W. J. Horner.

Tuesday, June 3, 9:00-4:00, Final Class Sessions; 7:30 P. M., Student Volunteer Program.

Wednesday, June 4, 9:30 A. M., Commencement Address, Pres. D. W. Kurtz, of McPherson College; 1:00 P. M., Alumni Address, Eld. S. S. Blough, Astoria, Ill.

The faculty and students take pleasure in inviting our friends to enjoy these exercises with us. Brethren from the East and West will find it convenient to include this in their Conference journey. Afternoon trains from Chicago make it possible to arrive at Winona Lake in good time for the first session of the Life Work Program there, on the evening of June 4.

Strangers to Chicago should inform us of the date and time of their arrival, and over what railway, so that they may be met. It will be appreciated if all who contemplate being here will write in advance. J. Hugh Heckman.

3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill., May 1.

The Evolution of the New Order

(Continued from Page 293)

(5) It shall repress one treaty power from attacking another, and shall protect a treaty power against an outside power.

(6) It shall create an international legislature.

(7) It shall take aggressive action in the promotion of interests of international importance.

"When once the League has been formed the world will move forward from international anarchy toward international order under the protection of law. The new civilization will be so infinitely superior to the old that the wonder will be that we endured the old so long." ("Independent," Dec. 14, 1918.) Therefore let all the free peoples of the earth make this solemn declaration: We, the free peoples of the world, "in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this League of Nations for the United Nations of the world."

McPherson, Kans.

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Covina.—March 23 Bro. I. V. Funderburgh, with his two coworkers, officers of the District Christian Workers' Society, visited this church. They gave some helpful suggestions for the year's work. The church met in council March 29, with Eld. Geo. F. Chemberlen presiding. The Christian Workers' officers were elected for the year, with Bro. Lewis Smith, president, and Sister Elsa Overholtzer, superintendent of the Junior Society. Bro. E. S. Young, of Claremont, preached on the morning of April 6. Brother and Sister J. B. Emmert and family came to meet our people and while here a reception was given in their honor. April 20 Bro. Emmert gave an address which was an inspiration to us all. In the evening an Easter program was rendered which was not only entertaining but very helpful.—Mrs. S. W. Funk, Covina, Calif., April 21.

Golden Gate Mission.—Easter Sunday we met at 6:30 A. M. for a sunrise prayer meeting, with eighteen present. We had a good attendance at Sunday-school and an interesting program was given. Our mid-week prayer-meetings are always been well attended,—usually over thirty present. We are just beginning a series of doctrinal antides, instead of the usual prayer meeting topics, and they are proving very interesting.—Ivy Walter, Oakland, Calif., April 22.

Inglewood.—Easter was observed with a short program in the morning, followed by the "Decision Day" sermon. Our Easter offering amounted to over $60 for the war-stricken countries. In the evening a program was given by the Junior Christian Workers. It was one of the best ever given, due to the splendid talent of these younger folks, and to the efficient training they had received from their superintendent, Mrs. Wertenbaker, and her assistant, Mrs. C. C. Roberts. Our Junior Society is made up of earnest young people, of whom the church can well be proud.—Susan Stoner, Inglewood, Calif., April 23.

Pomona church met in council on the evening of April 29 and elected Bro. Frank Hartman as deacon. With the able assistance of his companion he will fill that position creditably. It was decided to hold our love feast May 4.—Mary E. Forney, Pomona, Calif., April 25.

DELAWARE

Greenwood.—Since our last report we have elected two deacons who will be installed in the near future. Our Sunday-school is growing. Our series of meetings began May 11, with Bro. A. L. B. Martin, evangelist.—Clara Selders, Greenwood, Del., April 24.

FLORIDA

Zion congregation met in council April 12. Bro. Felthouse was elected elder for another year; Sister Grace Cripe and the writer, "Messenger" correspondents. Sister Felthouse will represent us at Annual Meeting. Brother and Sister Felthouse are delegates to District Meeting. After the foregoing business was disposed of, the question which has been under consideration for some time,—that of starting a mission in Tampa,—was discussed. Through the efforts of Bro. Felthouse and others, the Mission Board has been asked for help. Bro. Garat, of Sebring, who represented that body at our meeting, is very much in sympathy with the cause here. All present expressed their willingness to help. If the Board approves of Tampa as being the place for a mission, it will mean a great thing for the cause, as this is the most central part of Florida and every year finds many tourists here, besides a number of families who live here the year round.—Carl Price, Tampa, Fla., April 23.

ILLINOIS

Oakley church met in council March 29, with Eld. D. J. Blickenstaff presiding. Several letters were received and a number were granted. Bro. Blickenstaff was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. I. D. Heckman, alternate. Sister Ida Garber was elected president of the Christian Workers' Meeting. We decided to hold a love feast May 25, at 8 P. M.—Jennie Wagner, Oakley, Ill., April 14.

INDIANA

Camp Creek.—A splendid home talent program was rendered on the evening of Easter Sunday in the place of the regular Christian Workers' Meeting. A collection of $168.72 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief. We were very much encouraged by going "over the top." The amount received is more than our quota,—a wholly free-will offering. The prayer meetings, which were closed for a while, have been resumed with renewed interest. The Sunday-school also is increasing in attendance and interest.—Laura Harley, Etna Green, Ind., April 25.

Goshen City.—April 27, during the Sunday-school hour, the children of the Primary Department, under the direction of their superintendent, gave a very interesting program of dialogues, recitations and songs, in the evening the Easter cantata, "The Conqueror" was rendered by a combined chorus of seventy voices from our church and Goshen College. Prof. Ebersole was the director. The program was given at the close of the afternoon hour, our total offering for Armenian-Syrian Relief is a little over $375. Our quota was $450. April 27 our pastor gave a talk to the children at our junior church service, which is held each month. In the evening Bro. T. E. Cronk, of North Manchester, gave a splendid temperance lecture.—Beulah Manahan, Goshen, Ind., April 28.

Mississinnewa.—Bro. Vernon Schwalm and wife were with us April 13. He preached both morning and evening. At the latter service his subject was, "The Worst Enemy and the World's Greatness." Sister Schwalm led some of the singing. Their services were greatly appreciated. April 20 our pastor preached a good sermon on the resurrection. An Easter program was given by the young people in the evening. We expect some of the Manchester Mission Band of North Manchester College to be with us May 4. Our love feast is appointed for May 10, at 7 P. M. Good attendance and interest was manifested at our services. We have been taking cash and pledges for Armenian-Syrian Relief and our fund amounts to $534.22.—Alice E. Miller, Gaston, Ind., April 28.

Mt. Pleasant church met in council April 5, with Eld. S. D. Stoner presiding. Bro. D. L. Miller was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. Scherer, alternate. A committee was chosen to make arrangements for preaching once a month. We expect to begin a series of meetings August 1, conducted by Bro. Michael Flory.—Lera Miller, Ladoga, Ind., April 21.

Nettle Creek church met in council April 12. Elders John A. Miller and Frank E. Hay were elected delegates to Annual Meeting. April 26 we held our love feast, which was much enjoyed by those present. Seven waiting ministers were present and gave us splendid talks. Eld. W. Barnhart, of Kokomo, preached Sunday morning, day, Eld. O. D. Werking, of Kokomo, Ind., conducted an interesting Children's Meeting, after which Eld. J. W. Rarick and Bro. Werking preached. The latter also had charge of the evening service.—Chas. W. Miller, Hagerstown, Ind., May 1.

Noblesville.—The interest in our Sunday-school is growing and the attendance is increasing rapidly. Other services are well attended. April 13 a collection of $247.45 was lifted for the Armenian sufferers. Bro. M. Flory, of Girard, Ill., will conduct a series of meetings the latter part of August.—Miss Dewey Bailiff, Noblesville, Ind., April 27.

Pine Creek.—April 13 was devoted to Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Orville Houser preached a splendid sermon, picturing to us, in a very vivid way, the conditions in the war-stricken countries. Over $600 and Bro. W. M. Summers was appointed to raise the amount. Several solicitors were appointed to canvass the congregation. April 19 Brethren Elmer Hoff, of Elgin, Ill., and Chicago, gave us an illustrated lecture. Sunday morning Bro. Claybaugh gave a splendid sermon, after which we took an offering for the Armenian Relief. The amount, including that received on the drive, was $722.18. Having previously sent in $51.50, the total is $773.68. Sunday evening the Christian Workers' Society rendered a splendid Easter program, after which Bro. Claybaugh gave another illustrated lecture, showing the work being done in Bethany Bible School.—M. S. Morris, North Liberty, Ind., April 28.

Rock Run.—April 13 we finished our drive for Armenian Relief. Our quota was $325 and we went "over the top." The total offering amounted to $405.50. April 27 was missionary day. Our District Secretary, Bro. H. L. Harnly, was present. Sunday evening Bro. Scherer's offering was $34. May 4 our series of meetings will begin. Bro. Milo Geyer will preach for us.—Mrs. Clarence R. Cripe, Goshen, Ind., April 29.

Topeka church met in council, with Bro. I. S. Burns in charge. Bro. Warren Bowman was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. A. J. Yontz, alternate. Eight letters were granted. Brethren Bowman and Yontz are to hold a meeting soon. Our Armenian offering amounted to $34, making a total of over $100. The membership is small and not so wealthy, but is trying to do its share.—Mrs. Sarah E. Yontz, Topeka, Ind., April 25.

IOWA

Council Bluffs.—After working through many discouragements for seven months the church decided to keep the "home fires burning" in our little church, the members were more than pleased to have Bro. C. E. Schrock and family return March 2. Considering the many difficulties,—quarantine, lack of teachers, etc.,—the Sunday-school kept up very well. We are glad for the help and inspiration of Brother and Sister Schrock. The interest is growing. Three have accepted Christ and new received into the church by baptism. Three were received by letter at our business meeting. The officers of both church and Sunday-school were retained for the remainder of the year and vacancies filled. Since Bro. M. R. Weaver is leaving for the East, Bro. W. D. Grove, member of our Mission Board, was chosen delegate. Bro. Weaver will be held in charge at 7:45 P. M. The Sunday-school rendered an interesting program on Easter Sunday. The offering for Armenian Relief was $18.53. Our offering January 1 was for the planning suitable exercises for Mothers' Day.—Mrs. Dora Hutchison, Council Bluffs, Iowa, April 28.

English River church enjoyed a spiritual love feast April 26. Quite a number from adjoining churches were present. Eld. D. P. Miller officiated. Our drive for the Armenian Relief netted a total of nearly $1,000,—about double our quota. Quite recently we have had lectures by Dr. Fred and Sister Wampler and Sister Anna Hutchison, which were appreciated.—J. D. Brower, South English, Iowa, April 29.

Franklin congregation met in council April 23. Eld. A. L. Sears presided over the meeting. All church officers were retained for the year. One letter of membership was granted. We raised about $50 for Armenian-Syrian Relief. We decided to hold a series of meetings some time during the summer. Our love feast will be held May 23.—A. L. Sears, Leon, Iowa, April 26.

KANSAS

Larned country church met in council April 19. The visiting brethren gave their report. A request to increase the membership of the Sunday-school Board to five was voted down. Bro. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., is to be here soon, to conduct an evangelistic meeting. An effort is being made to secure a chorister for the meetings. Our Sunday-school will be represented at the District Meeting at Hutchinson, and also at the State Sunday-school Convention, to be held at Wichita in May. Two letters of membership were granted. We are glad to welcome a minister, Bro. Ernest Markley, and his wife, of Eastern Kansas.—Anna Hylton, Larned, Kans., April 23.

Newton City church met in council April 4, with Bro. M. J. Mishler presiding. The annual visit preceded this meeting and the brethren gave an excellent report of the same. Bro. M. J. Mishler was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. The Mission Band from McPherson College will give us a program May 4. A midweek service was suggested and the same is now being held at the church. The time is spent with songs, prayer and the study of the book, "Christian Heroism in Heathen Lands." We also adopted the "Forward Movement" program. Bro. M. S. Frantz, of Wichita, Kans., begins our series of meetings May 11. At the close, our love feast will be held,—the date to be announced later. Since our last report sixteen have been added to our number by letter. We now have sixty members in the Newton City church. We are glad to report $381 contributed by this congregation for Armenian-Syrian Relief. April 13 Bro. W. H. Yoder and family, of Monitor, Kans., were with us. Bro. Yoder favored us with one of his inspiring sermons. An Easter program was given on Sunday evening and enjoyed by all. The church is to be commended for doing their part so well.—Mrs. Lizzie A. Lehman, Newton, Kans., April 24.

Pleasant View.—April 20 is a day that will he long remembered. Bro. Wm. Thompson closed a very successful series of meetings. Seven were baptized. Sunday morning we had communion. Lunch was served and almost every one remained. In the evening, just before communion, an election for two deacons was held. Brethren Samuel Emmert and Russell Showalter were chosen and will be installed soon. The communion, at which sixty were present, closed a very busy day. An offering of about $70 was taken for Bro. Thompson. April 12 we held our council, with Bro. O. H. Peiler, senior elder, presiding. Bro. Peiler was chosen delegate for the remainder of the year, also as delegate to Annual Meeting. We decided to try the envelope system of raising funds for the church.—Minnie Arnbroads, Badlow, Kans., April 22.

Rock Creek.—Bro. Earl M. Bowman, of McPherson, will begin our series of meetings June 1. Our love feast will be held June 14. A much appreciated program was given last evening at the church by the McPherson College Gospel Team, composed of Harry Gilbert, J. Howard Engle, C. N. Hoover, O. W. Trapp and Paul R. Yoder.—Frank Hoover, Sabetha, Kans., April 28.

MARYLAND

Baltimore (Fulton Avenue).—Our revival meetings closed April 6. Six have been baptized, one reclaimed and three received by letter and there is an increase in attendance and interest. March 23 Bro. Holsopple, president of Blue Ridge College, preached on the "Forward Movement," and 16 the evening on "Entering into Life." April 6 our elder, Bro. W. E. Roop, preached in the morning and in the afternoon we met for members' meeting, with our elder in charge. Brethren A. L. B. Martin and D. C. Angle were elected delegates to District Meeting. Bro. Martin was also elected delegate to Annual Meeting. Easter Day the Sunday-school rendered a splendid program and also had an offering of $94.86 for Armenian-Syrian Relief. The attendance at Sunday-school was 125.—D. C. Angle, Baltimore, Md., April 24.

Meadow Branch.—The two organized Sunday-school classes of which Misses Eugenia C. Lavenstein and Beverly Roop are teachers, held a joint meeting April 26, with about sixty present. The social bond is growing as well as religious enthusiasm and fervor, ever since the church has established itself in the privilege of class organization in the Sunday-school.—Wm. E. Roop, Westminster, Md., April 30.

Peach Blossom congregation, in Talbot County, has two churchhouses, eight miles apart, with a small band of members adjacent to each, numbering about one hundred in all. One of our churches is located in the town of Easton, which has been without a resident minister for years, until the first of this year, when Bro. Barry T. Fox, of Zullinger, Pa., moved into our midst, to take charge of the work at that point, much to the encouragement of the membership. However, our joy was turned into sorrow, when, on Feb. 6, he was thrown from a wagon, the wheel passing over his leg, breaking both bones and badly bruising the flesh, from which injury he has suffered very much. After spending six weeks in the hospital, he was able, about a week ago, to be moved to his home, and at this writing is getting along very well. Our quarterly council was held April 5, having been postponed one month, with the hope that Bro. Fox might recover sufficiently to be with us. Our membership was well represented. A committee of five was elected to serve as our Local Missionary, Educational and Ministerial Committee, to develop the interest of missions along lines suggested by the General Mission Board. The same committee is also to manage a fund, for the purpose of assisting young men and women in preparation for Christian service, and also other deserving. Our series of meetings, to be conducted by Bro. B. W. Smith, of Burlington, W. Va., will begin May 24, at the Fairview house. Our love feast will be held at same place June 7. Up to the present date the offerings of this congregation for the Armenian-Syrian Relief Fund has reached the amount of $703, with further amounts later on.—Norman J. Hutchison, Cordova, Md., April 23.

MICHIGAN

Hart.—Our young people gave an interesting Easter program. We remembered the work at Grand Rapids by donating two cases of eggs, to be distributed among the members there who are sick and needy. April 27 was a full day. Three ministers with their families visited here. Bro. Roy Miller preached at Hart in the morning and at the country church in the evening. Brethren D. Keiser and J. S. Masterson conducted services in the afternoon at Hart. Being somewhat isolated, we greatly appreciate these visits. Our Sunday-school and church services are increasing in attendance since the influenza has abated.—Dora Keiser Sprogum, Hart, Mich., April 30.

Long Lake church met in members' meeting April 12. Owing to the absence of Eld. D. E. Sower, Bro. Kreider presided. Two letters were granted and two received. Officers were elected for the year: Bro. Kreider, elder; Bro. Bussard, treasurer; Sister Ella Landis, clerk; Sister Dollie Shepherd, "Messenger" agent and correspondent; Brethren Boxwell and Landis, trustees. We are planning to have a series of meetings this fall.—Dollie Shepherd, Manistee, Mich., April 29.

MISSOURI

South St. Joseph.—Bro. Wm. Lampin, of Polo, Ill., came to this place April 6, to assist in our series of meetings which closed April 13. We had a splendid meeting and practical preaching, and we feel greatly encouraged. There were thirteen additions to the church.—Mary P. Ellenberger, St. Joseph, Mo., April 29.

MONTANA

Flathead Valley.—Bro. L. H. Eby, of Fruitland, Idaho, arrived in Kalispell April 16 and started preaching at Proctor April 18, where meetings are being held in the Methodist church. Seven are to be baptized. Our council meeting and love feast will be held May 3 at Proctor.—Mrs. Levi Learn, Proctor, Mont., April 21.

NEBRASKA

Beatrice.—The time for our love feast has been appointed for May 11. This is to be preceded by a week's series of meetings, conducted by our pastor. The attendance at Sunday-school, Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Meeting, $75.04 has been raised for Armenian-Syrian Relief. Bro. Blough and family expect to move to Omaha in May to take up the work there. Bro. Forest Eisenbise and wife, of Astoria, Ill., will take up the work here after June 1.—Pearl Reiff, Beatrice, Nebr., April 29.

NEW MEXICO

Miami church met in council April 12, with Eld. Wm. Mohler presiding. Bro. Manly Deeter was present, having just arrived with Sister Deeler, to begin the series of meetings. A number of letters were granted. Bro. Deeter worked faithfully for two weeks and three were added to the church. April 19 a very enjoyable communion service was held. April 20 a collection of $30 was lifted at Sunday-school for the second year's support of our French orphan.—Mrs. M. N. Mikesell, Miami, N. Mex., April 28.

NEW YORK

Brooklyn.—March 12 we were pleased to have with us Bro. A. J. Culler, of McPherson, Kans., and appreciated his talk on "The Brotherhood of Man." We contributed $85.78 to the Armenian Relief and Construction Fund, and our Sunday-school has decided to raise the necessary funds to support one or more Armenian babies this year. Our returned missionaries from Sweden, Brother and Sister Graybill, were with us March 26 and told some of their interesting experiences in Sweden. Our pastor, Bro. J. S. Noffsinger, has been giving us some very helpful sermons on "What Kind of a Christian Are You?" and at this time in the world's history this is a searching question to us all. At our council meeting April 16, we chose our pastor as delegate to the District Meeting held in the Bethany church, Philadelphia. On Easter afternoon, the rite of baptism was administered to six applicants, four of whom are Sunday-school scholars. We are glad to see the young folks taking this forward step. Following Bro. A. Philip Grub preached for us and also assisted our pastor at our love feast which was held in the evening.—Ada M. Didham, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 30.

NORTH DAKOTA

Cando.—Our council meeting convened March 29. Bro. Marvin Kensinger was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Geo. K. Miller, alternate. It was decided to hold our series of meetings during the latter part of June. Our church is giving very liberally toward the Armenian-Syrian Relief. April 20 an Easter program was rendered to a full house.—Mrs. Marvin Kensinger, Zion, N. D., April 23.

Golden Willow church met in council April 12, with Eld. W. J. McCann presiding. We decided to hold a series of meetings some time in June, if we can secure a pastor.—Nona McCann, Sykeston, N. Dak., April 25.

Surrey.—The Sunday-school rendered an Easter program on the evening of April 20, after which Bro. D. T. Dierdorff gave a very interesting talk on Armenia. An offering of $48 was taken.—Nora E. Petry, Surrey, N. Dak., April 25.

OHIO

Freeburg.—April 9 Bro. Sargent, of Bethany Bible School, gave us three splendid talks. Our collection for Bethany, including our mission point at Science Hill, amounted to $40. We are in the midst of a series of meetings here, conducted by our elder, Bro. A. H. Miller. These meetings will close with a love feast May 10.—Mrs. Otis V. Bowman, Faris, Ohio, May 1.

Hagarstown church has just closed a very interesting revival, held during Passion Week and conducted by our pastor, Bro. A. B. Miller. Seventeen have been received into the church and two were baptism. A special Easter service was held, consisting of appropriate anthems and songs by the music class of the Sunday-school. A powerful sermon was preached by the pastor on "The Power of the Resurrection." An offering of $67 was taken for Home Missions. This church has also reached its quota, $1,000,—for the Armenian-Syrian Relief.—Kathryn Yourtee Lindsay, Hagerstown, Md., April 24.

Maple Grove church met in council April 19. Bro. H. H. Heiman was elected delegate to Annual Conference. We decided to hold a series of meetings May 11, closing with a communion on the evening of May 25. We have recently organized a Christian Workers' Meeting and will meet every Sunday evening during the summer.—Mrs. C. L. Bowerize, Ashland, Ohio, April 30.

Notice to Northwestern Ohio.—The Secretary of the District Temperance Committee would like to have at once the name and address of one live temperance worker in each congregation. The committee expects to do work along aggressive lines. Any inquiries concerning speakers should be directed to Bro. J. D. Wampler, Lima, Ohio, R. D. 8, and for literature send to the secretary. Any information, for speakers and literature will be gladly received.—Leo Lillian Wise, Secretary-Treasurer, Tiffin, Ohio, R. D. 3, April 25.

Trotwood church enjoyed a short series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Chas. Flory, of the Salem congregation. They began April 14 and closed with a home communion April 20. Dec. 1 we organized the church by baptism. An interesting Easter program was given by the children, followed by a sermon by Bro. Flory. April 13 Bro. John Gump preached for us in the morning and Bro. John Beeghly in the evening.—Martha A. Coffman, Trotwood, Ohio, April 25.

OREGON

Ashland.—Bro. S. P. Van Dyke, of Newberg, Dregon, began a series of meetings April 7, preaching twelve spiritual and uplifting sermons. Although there were no accessions, the workers at this place were much encouraged and strengthened. April 6 Bro. Thos. Barklow, of Myrtle Point, Oregon, preached for us. Sunday-school Bro. S. E. Decker and wife soon leave us for a time, to work among the churches of California.—Laura E. Goetze, Ashland, Orégon, April 21.

Mabel congregation held her love feast April 19. Eld. Hiram Smith held one week's meetings for us and officiated at the feast. While there were none added to the church, we hope it will bring good after-results.—H. H. Rohrer, Mabel, Oregon, April 23.

Portland.—April 20 the four primary classes of the Sunday-school rendered a splendid Easter program. Instead of conducting the service in the usual way, the time was given over to the children, who sang their songs and gave recitations. It was a delightful time, as well as a beautiful lesson to all. It was, indeed, a "resurrection day" for our Sunday-school,—there being nearly 100 in attendance. We hope the interest will continue.—Grace W. Hewitt, Portland, Oregon, April 23.

PENNSYLVANIA

Back Creek congregation held a Sunday-school Meeting at Brandt's church. Members from surrounding Sunday-schools were present and sessions were very instructive and well attended. March 30 Bro. Emmert, of Waynesboro, spoke on "The Efficiency of the Sunday-school." Bro. Newcomer spoke of the use of Bibles in Sunday-school, and Bro. John S. Wallech, of Greencastle, gave a talk on how to reach the child. We took a collection and after our expenses are paid there will be a very nice offering left for home missions. Bro. Emmert was also with us in the morning and gave an interesting Easter sermon. The Missionary Conference added much to the interest of the meeting with their fine singing.—Pearl Heckman, Williamson, Pa., April 25.

Bethany.—April 13 three were received into the church by baptism. April 20 we had a reception for new members,—those who joined during and after the revival. Testaments and certificates were presented to each by the pastor. Easter Sunday we had appropriate services all day. Special music was rendered by the choir both morning and evening, under the direction of the chorister, Bro. J. W. Andrews. We had the pleasure of having with us Bro. Wilbur McKee, who gave the Easter message. In the afternoon a program was given by the children of the Home and Primary Departments, directed by Sister Keidnich. In the evening we had a preparatory service for our approaching communion. We met in council April 21, with our pastor presiding. The report of the treasurer showed the finances of the church to be in good condition. We endorsed the five-year program, as outlined by the Mission Board. The pastor and Sister Irwin were chosen delegates to Annual Meeting; Brethren C. G. Hesse and Robert Jones, delegates to District Meeting. The Missionary Conference convened at our church April 23. The missionary spirit was felt by all who attended, and the wonderful messages of the speakers helped to strengthen us all. The closing message of the day was given by Dr. C. C. Ellis. The District Business meeting convened on Thursday morning. On the same evening we had our love feast and communion service and were glad to have with us many members from neighboring churches.—Margaret E. Rogers, Philadelphia, Pa., April 28.

Big Swatara.—April 6 we were very much pleased to have with us four members of the Juniata College Volunteer Mission Band: Brethren Ezra Wenger and Nathan Meyer and Sisters Sarah Royer and Sarah Shisler. The program was well rendered, causing us to feel more keenly our responsibilities toward missions. Professors B. H. Meyer and H. K. Shisler conducted a very instructive Bible Institute, beginning April 13, giving us seven sessions in all. The meetings were very well attended. Sunday morning Bro. H. K. Dher spoke concerning Armenian-Syrian Relief. We have already contributed $50.00 and expect to give another offering. The Sunday-schools at East Hanover and Paxton were organized April 6.—Ulysses L. Gingrich, Palmyra, Pa., April 22.

Conewago.—Our Sunday-schools, in both the Bachmansville and Conewago church-houses, are progressing nicely and a greater interest is being manifested in the work than ever before. Our regular preaching services were held in the Bachmansville church on Easter Sunday, and a splendid sermon was delivered by our pastor, who served by letter. At the close of the services a collection of $189 was lifted for the relief of the suffering Armenians. Our love feast will be held May 24 and 25.—Lena H. Gruber, Bachmansville, Pa., April 25.

East Petersburg.—April we put in special council and elected Bro. Roy S. Forney to the ministry. He is a son of Eld. M. G. Forney. Less than a year ago Bro. Forney, with his wife, united with the church and proved to be a consecrated worker. He has since brought a season of sorrow. Three months ago, his wife died, but the prayer of the church is that God may strengthen him and that he may be a faithful minister of the Gospel. Eld. Yoder had charge of the installation services.—Ebares J. Forney, East Petersburg, Pa., April 24.

Farmers Grove church met in council April 5, with Bro. C. H. Steerman presiding. We reorganized our Sunday-school, with Bro. Ohio Bingaman, superintendent. Our letter was granted. We expect to begin a series of meetings June 1, and to close with a love feast June 14. Bro. C. H. Steerman will conduct the meetings.—Mrs. Effie J. Book, Path, Pa., April 28.

Garratt church met in council April 6, with Bro. B. F. Waltz presiding. Our pastor was our delegate to District Meeting. Sister L. A. Phenicie was elected delegate to Annual Conference. May 13 Bro. F. D. Anthony, of Falls Road, Baltimore, Md., will begin our two weeks' series of meetings, which will be followed by a love feast. Our pastor, Bro. B. F. Waltz, made a strong appeal for Armenia and the amount given was $302. A very interesting program was rendered by the Sunday-school boys and girls Easter evening. The pastor gave a splendid address.—Mrs. E. G. Fidler, Garrett, Pa., April 27.

Greensburg.—Bro. H. B. Heisey, of Rummel, Pa., was with us in a series of meetings March 16 to 30. Bro. Heisey is a very forceful and convincing. Forty-seven accepted Christ,—more than one-half of whom are adults. We closed the meetings with a love feast at which 235 were present. Our Sunday-school attendance on that day was a banner one for Greensburg, being 247.—M. J. Brougher, Greensburg, Pa., April 25.

Hanover.—The Volunteer Mission Band of Elizabethtown College rendered an interesting program April 13. Sister Royer gave a reading, "Bessie's Missionary Box." April 20 Bro. Ezra Wenger spoke on "An Address to the Heathen Not Yet Born," and Sister Royer presided, spoke on "The Idea of the Common Fatherhood." Sister Sarah Shisler told us of "The God-planned Life." Bro. Ezra Wenger spoke on "An Address to the Heathen was given the task of workiog out a plan whereby the churches, now organized, may secure the services of a pastor, aside from the help rendered by the missionary. Committees were instructed to undertake more aggressive work than has been done in the past. The temperance cause demands coostant and strenuous efforts. The newly-appointed Sunday-school Secretary, with the assistance of his committee, expects to visit all the Sunday-schools in the District, to help them to a larger sphere of usefulness.

DISTRICT MEETING WEEK IN INDIA

(Continued from Page 299)

The early dawn of the day following the District Meeting saw all astir, and by sunrise the camping ground was emptied of its occupants, the visitors departing on the early train. The missionaries, however, remained for the quarterly Field Committee Meeting. They spent two days of very strenuous labor, dealing with the various phases of mission work. Not the least of these was the consideration of famine relief, which is daily growing more imperative. Distressing stories of famine conditions are coming with increasing frequency and urgency.

The budget of expenditures for 1920 was a feature of this meeting. It is an expression of the desire of the mission, to offer to the church on the home base an outlet for the increasing liberality of the church, incident to the New Forward Movement. It is a statement of the actual needs of the field, in view of the greatly-eolarged opportunities. The world is astir with new life and impulses. And even backward India is responding to this spirit. It will be difficult for the mission to keep abreast of the rapidly-developing desire for education in our field. It is our duty to give to as many as possible a Christian educatioo, which is the only kind that will really help India to realize her true destiny. Hence the cablegram to the Board's office for eight men as the minimum of our needs for the present situation.

These five days were full of rich, spiritual experiences and social enjoyments. The writer felt deep emotions of joy, to be privileged to he among the people he loves and wishes to serve, aod again to assume some of the heavy burdens resting continually upon the shoulders and hearts of the little group of loyal workers, both native and foreign. The future is radiant with hope and overflowing with opportunity. E. H. Ehy.

Bulsar, India.

THE DISTRICT MEETING OF MIDDLE PENNSYLVANIA

This meeting convened in the Snake Spring Valley congregation April 15, with a good representation of delegates. The elders of the District occupied the first session, disposing of quite a few matters concerning their respective charges. The ordination of several of the brethren to the full ministry was reported, and committees were asked for and named to visit several of the churches, with a view of making further ordinations.

There being very little unfinished work for the District Meeting from last year, and no papers to he sent forward to Annual Meeting, a larger amount of time was available for the consideration of reports from the several departments of church activity, as well as for the plans of meeting the opportunities that are opening all around for more aggressive work.

A resolution was passed unanimously, by a rising vote, eodorsing and pledging our loyalty and support to the Five Year Forward Movement in behalf of the Brotherhood. This was emphasized in some strong speeches and much favorable comment.

The committee having in charge the preparation of the church's history of Middle Pennsylvania, report their work as going forward. They expect to publish the work by 1920. The Mission Board of the District made a report of their outlook for the year. The delegates pledged to raise $1,500 for Home Mission work the coming year.

Many of the churches observed Education Day last year by having sermons preached on Christian Education, and the committee urged the same plan again. Juniata College, in its report to the District, among other things presented the following principles of scriptural teaching, on which correct Biblical Interpretation must necessarily rest. In these she firmly believes, and these she emphasizes in her teaching:

1. The Divine Authority and the full and complete inspiration of the whole of the Old and New Testament Scriptures.
2. The Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ.
3. The doctrine of the Trinity.
4. The fall of man and his consequent depravity, and the necessity of the new birth.
5. The sinless life of Jesus Christ, atonement by means of his blood, which was shed for sin, and his personal resurrection.
6. Justification by faith in our Lord Jesus Christ.
7. Regeneration by the Holy Spirit.
8. The Personality of the Holy Spirit and, as the Divine Paraclete, the Comforter and Guide of the people of God.
9. Sanctification through the Word and the Spirit.
10. The personal return of our Lord Jesus Christ, the resurrection of the dead and the last judgment.

The report was unanimously endorsed and commended by the delegate body.

The Child Rescue Home was reported duly organized and at work.

All other departments of church work were heard from with commendable reports. Elections were held to fill vacancies.

Brethren John Bennett aod J. H. Cassady were chosen to represent the District on the Standing Committee.

The Brethren of the Snake Spring congregation gave hearty welcome and entertainment to the visiting members. While the weather was extremely inclement, the situation was met without inconvenience or disappointment to the visitors.

Brethren D. L. Miller and F. F. Holsopple were with us and gave helpful counsel and encouragement. In all it was a splendid meeting. J. C. Swigart.

Mattawana, Pa., April 21.

MIDDLE PENNSYLVANIA SUNDAY-SCHOOL BIBLE INSTITUTES

Third District

Woodbury (Replogle Church), May 3 and 4

Saturday, 7:30, The Worker and His Work.—A. Brown Miller. Address.—J. A. Myers.

Sunday, 10:30, Address.—J. A. Myers. 2:30, The Kingdom of God.—M. J. Weaver. Address.—J. A. Myers. 7:30, Address.—J. A. Myers. The Unshakable Kingdom.—M. J. Weaver.

The Third District includes the following Sunday-schools: Clover Creek, Martinsburg, Smithfield, Cross Roads, Fairview, Williamsburg, Replogle, Curryville, Holsinger, Snyder, New Enterprise, Koontz.

Second District

Roaring Spring Church, May 10 and 11

Saturday, 7:30, Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. A Separated People.—W. S. Long.

Sunday, 10:30, Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. 2:30, A Justified People.—W. S. Long. Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. 7:30, Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. A Triumphant People.—W. S. Long.

The Second District includes the following Sunday-schools: Carson Valley, Hollidaysburg, Leamersville, Claar, Queen, Albright, Roaring Spring, Dunnings Creek.

Sixth District

Stonerstown Church, May 17 and 18

Saturday, 7:30, Evidences in Growth.—A. E. Wilt. The Origin of the Church.—T. T. Myers.

Sunday, 10:30, The Word of the Church.—T. T. Myers. 2:30, Instructions in Prayer.—Ira C. Holsopple. The Worship of the Church.—T. T. Myers. 7:30, Intercessory Prayer.—Ira C. Holsopple. The Work of the Church.—T. T. Myers.

The Sixth District includes the followng Sunday-schools: James Creek, Riddlesburg, Raven Run, Stonerstown.

First District

Altoona Church, May 24 and 25

Saturday, 7:30, Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. The Master Teacher-Preacher.—T. T. Myers. Sunday, 10:30, The Beatitudes.—T. T. Myers. 2:30, Inside and Outside Religion.—T. T. Myers. Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. 7:30, Studies in Romans.—W. M. Ulrich. What to Do With the Word.—T. T. Myers.

The First District includes the following Sunday-schools: Tyrone, Warriorsmark, Bellwood, Riggle's Gap, Juniata, Twenty-eighth Street, Altoona.

Sunday-school Association of Middle Pennsylvania, A. E. Wilt, Field Secretary.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made at the time the notice is sent, and full address given.

Blough-Rosenberger.—By the undersigned, at the home of the groom, Johnstown, Pa., April 19, 1919, Eld. P. J. Blough and Sister Elizabeth D. Rosenberger, of Covington, Ohio.—E. Percy Blough, Johnstown, Pa.

Hengsteler-Swank.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, April 17, 1919, Mr. Omer J. Hengsteler, of Degraff, Ohio, and Miss Lulu M. Swank, of Bellefontaine, Ohio.—H. Z. Smith, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Karn-Garner.—By the undersigned, at his residence, April 9, 1919, Mr. Andrew Karn and Sister Ella Garner, of Wellbridge, Ohio.—L. I. Mohler, Prairie Depot, Ohio.

Ober-Lovelace.—By the undersigned, at the home of the groom's parents, near Clymer, Pa., April 17, 1919, Bro. Solomon W. Ober and Sister Rosie Mae Lovelace, of Clymer, Pa.—W. N. Myers, Clymer, Pa.

Resch-Michaels.—By the undersigned, at his residence, April 19, 1919, Bro. Otis Resch and Sister Letha Michaels, both of Muncie, Ind.—Geo. L. Studebaker, Muncie, Ind.

Starkey-Loutzenheiser.—By the undersigned, at his home near Paris, Ohio, Vernon E. Starkey and Mary E. Loutzenheiser, both of Paris, Ohio.—D. F. Stuckey, Paris, Ohio.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Berkebile, Mildred A., daughter of Brother and Sister Wm. Berkebile, died April 8, 1919, aged 11 years, 9 months and 22 days. She is survived by her parents, three brothers and two sisters. Services by Bro. A. L. Berkley in the Locust Grove church. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.—Elizabeth Ribblett, Johnstown, Pa.

Brown, David, born in Preble County, Ohio, died April 11, 1919, aged 90 years, 8 months and 28 days. He married Anna Beckner in 1852. To this union seven children were born, two of whom died in infancy. He united with the Church of the Brethren sixty-five years ago. He leaves four daughters, one son, six grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren and one brother.—I. E. Warren, Roann, Ind.

Brown, Sarah Belle, infant daughter of Brother and Sister Simon Brown, born March 19, 1919, died March 17, 1919. She leaves her father, mother, one brother and one sister. Services by the writer. Interment in Beech Grove cemetery.—Geo. L. Studebaker, Muncie, Ind.

Coffman, Sister Martha A., nee Campbell, born in Shelby County, Ind., died at Avery, Iowa, April 11, 1919, aged 88 years, 11 months and 4 days. She married Peter Coffman in 1850. To this union were born four children, one of whom, with the husband, preceded her. Early in life she united with the Church of the Brethren, remaining ever faithful. Services at the Methodist church in Avery by the writer, assisted by Bro. E. S. Fouts.—David H. Fouts, Fredric, Iowa.

Conover, Norma Faith, infant daughter of Brother and Sister N. A. Conover, of Kansas City, Mo., died April 17, 1919. Services at the home of the writer, after which the body was sent to Dayton, Ohio, for burial. The father died in December, 1918. The mother and a brother survive.—L. A. Weaver, Kent, Ia.

Dolloy, Bro. Elmer E., son of Brother and Sister Jos. H. Dolley, born in Miami County, Ind., died in the bounds of the Pipe Creek church, Ind., of cancer, April 9, 1919, aged 48 years, 2 months and 11 days. He married Rosa Stout in 1893. One son and two daughters were born to them. He united with the Church of the Brethren while a young man and ably superintended the Sunday-school in his home church for several years. He served in the deacon's office for about twenty years and was elected to the ministry in 1906. He was faithful to his calling, always willing to perform any duty assigned him. He stood high in the estimation of the church and community at large. He leaves his wife, three children and his parents. Services by Bro. Frank Fisher, assisted by Brethren Aaron Moss, Silas Fisher and Perry Coblentz. Text, James 4:14.—W. B. Dolley, Peru, Ind.

Duvall, Sister Susan (Johnson), died at the home of her son, near New Market, Md., April 14, 1919, aged 83 years and 7 months. She was the youngest daughter of Brother Peter and Sister Sarah (Stoner) Johnson, born in Carroll County, Md. In 1854 she married Charles T. Duvall. To this union were born five sons and one daughter. Her husband died some years ago. Four sons and the daughter survive. She was an exemplary member of the Church of the Brethren for about fifty years. Services in the Beaver Dam church by Eld. W. E. Roop, assisted by Eld. Jesse M. Burall. Text, Rev. 14:13. Interment in the Beaver Dam church cemetery.—Wm. E. Roop, Westminster, Md.

Filburn, Geo. W., son of Henry and Elizabeth Filburn, died at the Ohio State Sanitorium, April 14, 1919, aged 52 years, 10 months and 13 days. Death was due to pulmonary hemorrhage. Father, mother and two brothers preceded him. Services at the Bear Creek church by Bro. John W. Beghly.—Maude Filburn, Dayton, Ohio.

Foust, Raymond Kenneth, son of Brother Raymond and Sister Estella Foust, died of pneumonia, April 17, 1919, aged 1 year and 7 months. He leaves father, mother and one sister. Services by Bro. Newcomer at Bethel church. Interment in St. Thomas cemetery.—Pearl Heekman, Williamson, Pa.

Houston, Mary, daughter of Benj. B. and Mary Bashore, born near Bradford, Ohio, died at the home of her daughter, near Le Roy, Kans., March 25, 1919, aged 86 years, 4 months and 18 days. In 1850 she married Wm. O. Houston, who died sixteen years ago. To this union were born seven children, two of whom died in infancy and one son in 1908. She leaves 4two sons, two daughters, ten grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters. Services at the home of her daughter by Rev. Adamson of the Christian church. Interment near Eldorado.—Wm. Smith, Lake Odessa, Mich.

Hause, Sister Ida Elizabeth, died at her home in the bounds of the Hagerstown congregation, after an illness of about four months, aged 65 years, 4 months and 19 days. She has been a member of the Church of the Brethren for many years. She is survived by her husband, two daughters and two sons. Services by the brethren at the Broadfording church.—Kathryn Lindsay, Hagerstown, Md.

Herr, Bro. Amos, died at the home of his son, David Herr, Neffsville, in the bounds of the East Petersburg congregation, April 14, 1919, aged 84 years, 4 months and 2 days. He was a faithful member of the Brethren church for many years. His wife preceded him twelve years ago. He is survived by five sons, one daughter, thirteen grandchildren, one great-grandchild, one brother and a sister. Services at the Neffsville church. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.—P. J. Forney, East Petersburg, Pa.

Hoffman, Sister Elizabeth, wife of Adam Hoffman, died at her home, York, Pa., March 2, 1919, aged 80 years, 4 months and 27 days. Death was due to Bright's disease. She was a member of the church for many years. She is survived by her husband and one daughter. Services at the house by Eld. Daniel Bowser, and at East Berlin by Eld. J. A. Long. Text, Rev. 14:13. Interment in the cemetery adjoining the Mummert meetinghouse.—Alice K. Trimmer, York, Pa.

Kirkpatrick, Sister Frances Virginia, nee Beery, born at Edom, Va., April 3, 1853, died at Ft. Collins, Colo., March 31, 1919. Three sons survive. Services at the Brethren church near South English by Eld. W. D. Grove.—J. D. Brower, South English, Iowa.

Lehman, Sister Martha W., wife of Bro. Jos. P. Lehman and daughter of Brother and Sister Michael Wiley, died at her home at York, Pa., April 19, 1919, aged 47 years, 11 months and 17 days. Four months ago she was stricken with influenza, after which complications set in. She is survived by her husband, one son, one daughter, two stepchildren and seven sisters. She united with the church when quite young and lived a consistent life. Services at the house by Eld. Daniel Bowser, assisted by Bro. L. Elmer Lehman. Texts, Rev. 14:13; 21:4. Interment in Greenmount cemetery.—Alice K. Trimmer, York, Pa.

Lichty, Ethel Zerlina, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lichty, born near Barlow, N. Dak., died at their home near Zion, N. Dak., April 6, 1919, aged 16 years, 5 months and 20 days. In 1915 she united with the Church of the Brethren at Zion and ever since has lived a Christian life. In 1916 she entered the Cando high school, but during the winter her health failed, and the following year, with her mother and sister, she went to Long Beach, Calif., hoping to benefit by the change. April 5, 1918, she submitted to an operation for tuberculosis from which she never fully recovered. She leaves her father, mother and one sister. Services at the home by Brethren Geo. K. Miller and Marvin Kensinger, and in the South Waterloo church, Iowa, by Bro. A. F. Bosch, assisted by Bro. H. L. Goughnour. Burial in the cemetery near by.—Mrs. Marvin Kensinger, Zion, N. Dak.

Lohr, Paul, son of Brother and Sister W. E. Lohr, died April 19, 1919, aged 1 year, 11 months and 19 days. Pneumonia croup and complications were the cause of his death. Services by the writer at the family home, 822 Von Lunen Road, Johnstown, Pa. Interment in Singer cemetery.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

Mechling, Elmer E., son of Alfred and Sarah Mechling, born in Marshall County, Ind., died April 12, 1919, aged 47 years, 6 months and 9 days. He married Lillie B. Vandoren in 1904. To this union were born three children. He was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren. He had been in poor health for several years. He leaves his wife, three children, one sister and one brother. Services by Bro. J. F. Appleman.—Helen Mowiser, Tippecanoe, Ind.

Miller, Bro. Levi, died at his home in Hummelstown, Pa., March 25, 1919, aged 70 years, 1 month and 17 days. Seven years ago he died he was baptized and united with the Spring Creek congregation. Services in the Hanoverdale house by Elders J. H. Witmer and J. A. Landis. Interment in adjoining cemetery.—Ulysses L. Gingrich, Palmyra, Pa.

Miller, Sister A. W., wife of Bro. Albert Miller, born in Somerset County, Pa., July 7, 1854, died at her home, 628 Von Lunen Road, Dale Borough, April 22, 1919, aged 64 years, 9 months and 15 days. The cause of her death was apoplexy. Sister Miller is survived by her husband, to whom she was married Sept. 6, 1885, one son, four grandchildren, one sister and five brothers. Services by the writer at the Walnut Grove church. Interment in the Weaver Mcnnonite cemetery.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

Mussolman, Bro. Wm., died March 25, 1919, aged 65 years, 9 months and 19 days. He was in failing health for some time and met with an accident last summer, from which he never fully recovered. He is survived by his wife, three sons and three daughters. He has long been a member of the church. Services at the home by Bro. D. A. Foust. Burial in St. Thomas cemetery.—Pearl Heekman, Williamson, Pa.

Perry, Bro. Theo. M., died at the home of his son, C. K. Perry, Hagerstown, Md., of general debility, March 16, 1919, aged 66 years. He is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. Services at the home by Bro. A. B. Miller. The body was taken to the Pipe Creek church, where services were held by the brethren.—Kathryn Lindsay, Hagerstown, Md.

Petry, Dorothy Ellen, daughter of Clarence F. and Gertrude

Leckrone Petry, died at her home, York, Pa., March 9, 1919, aged 2 years, 10 months and 23 days. She is survived by her parents and one brother. Services at the house by Eld. Daniel Bowser. Text, Matt. 19: 14. Interment in Greenmount cemetery.—Alice K. Trimmer, York, Pa.

Rogers, Elias P., son of Byron and Lettie Rogers, born at Ft. Jefferson, Ohio, died near Converse, Ind., April 8, 1919, aged 67 years, 7 months and 21 days. He married Elizabeth Bausman in 1875. To this union were born two sons and two daughters, who survive with eleven grandchildren and one half-brother. Services by Bro. Ellis Brubaker and Rev. Can Camp.—Frances Hollinger, New Madison, Ohio.

Shank, Eliza A., daughter of Uriah and Sarah Caylor, born in Montgomery County, Ohio, died near Trotwood, Ohio, April 14, 1919, aged 69 years, 7 months and 15 days. She married Emanuel Shank in 1882. To them were born one son and two daughters. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1885, and was a great help to her husband in the work of the ministry. She leaves her husband, one son, one daughter, three grandchildren, four sisters and three brothers. Services at the Trotwood church by Bro. D. M. Garver. Burial in Lower Miami cemetery.—Martha A. Coffman, Trotwood, Ohio.

Shidler, Susan Elizabeth, nee Oglesby, born in Tippecanoe County, Ind., died at her home, near Monmouth, April 13, 1919, aged 56 years. She became a member of the Church of the Brethren in early life and was a devoted Christian. In 1871 she married Wm. Huffer, who died four years later. To this union were born three children, two of whom preceded the mother. In 1886 she married Eld. Henry Shidler. A son and a daughter were born to them. One son, Floyd, is with the Army of Occupation in Germany. Services from the home by the writer, assisted by Rev. Way of the Methodist church. Text, Heb. 13: 14. Interment in the McCune cemetery. —O. P. Neher, McCune, Kans.

Simmons, Noah E., son of Branson and Lillian Simmons, died April 21, 1919, aged 9 years, 3 months and 7 days. He leaves father, mother, three sisters and one brother. Services by Eld. Ezra Fike. Interment in Maple Spring cemetery.—Goldie S. Judy, Eglon, W. Va.

Stinebouse, Mary Jane, nee Wingard, died at her home in Flora, Ind., April 24, 1919, aged 75 years, 3 months and 9 days. Death was due to injuries received when she was struck by an auto. In 1884 she married Lewis Stinchcomb, who died twelve years later. In 1904 she became a member of the Church of the Brethren, to which she was faithful. Services at the church by Bro. Ira Kreider, assisted by Bro. Beery. Text, Psa. 31: 5. Interment at Rossville cemetery.—Mattie Welty, Flora, Ind.

Stuckey, Clyde O., son of Jacob and Sarah Stuckey, died of blood poison April 21, 1919, aged 36 years, 10 months and 11 days. His mother died six days ago. The father, two brothers and three sisters survive. Services at the home by the writer, assisted by Eld. O. F. Stuckey. Interment in Freeburg cemetery.—A. H. Miller, Louisville, Ohio.

Stuckey, Sister Sarah, wife of Bro. Jacob Stuckey, died at her home, near Paris, Ohio, April 15, 1919, aged 79 years, 6 months and 27 days. She spent almost her entire life within the bounds of the Freeburg congregation, of which she was a member for many years. Death came after a lingering illness of several months, caused by paralysis. She is survived by her husband, three sons and three daughters. Services at the home by the writer, assisted by Eld. D. F. Stuckey.—A. H. Miller, Louisville, Ohio.

Swinger, Emanuel, son of Samuel and Mary J. Swinger, born in Oarke County, Ohio, died of pneumonia, April 17, 1919, aged 44 years, 11 months and 19 days. His home was with his sister, Mrs. Ella Mills, near Blythesville, Ark. He leaves five brothers and two sisters. The remains were brought to Rutsonville, Ill., and interred in the Oak Grove cemetery. Services by the undersigned.—J. C. Stoner, Palestine, Ill.

Yoder, Sister Cora Weaver, wife of Bro. Milton C. Yoder, died at her home in Scalp Level, Pa., April 11, 1919, aged 31 years, 9 months and 19 days. Sister Yoder had been ill for a number of years. She leaves her husband, daughter, parents, three brothers and two sisters. Services at the home by Eld. H. S. Replogle. Interment in Grandview cemetery.—Amy Mangus, Scalp Level, Pa.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

FROID, MONT.—Report of Grandview Sisters' Aid Society for 1918: Number of meetings held, including those to do Red Cross work, 19; average attendance, 14. Receipts: Free-will offerings, $15.92; aprons, $1; comforters, $12.85; prayer-coverings, $4.10; clothes-pin aprons, 70 cents; quilts made and sold for Red Cross, $38; work done on quilts for member, $10; miscellaneous, $2.21; Minot Mission, $6; local church lighting plant, $5; neighborhood charity, $1; District Aid Secretary, 25 cents; Red Cross, $39.50; 100 garments for Red Cross, 5 pair bed-socks, 30 pajama suits, 30 pair of socks and 15 sweaters. Officers: Sister Lucy Wingert, President; Sister Mae Shoemaker, Secretary.—Mrs. W. E. Swank, Froid, Mont., April 19.

HOWE, IND.—Report of English Prairie Aid Society for 1918: We held 14 meetings, with a total attendance of 243, average attendance, 18. Amount of dues received, $4.60; total receipts, $46.25; total expenditures, $46.10; amount on hand, $0.15. We donated $53 to various causes and made up $25 for the Mary Quinter Hospital fund. Our work consisted of knotting 9 comforts, quilting 6 quilts, 2 days' sewing for the Red Cross and mission boxes and also miscellaneous sewing. Officers: Della Corper, President; Anna Light, Vice-President; Bessie Colwel, Treasurer; the writer, Secretary; Della Wingard, Assistant.—Mabel E. Light, Howe, Ind., April 20.

KINGSLEY, IOWA.—Report of Aid Society for 1918: We held 12 meetings, with an average attendance of 11; enrollment, 36. Balance on hand Jan. 1, 1918, $4.58; received for dues, $18.10; offerings, $13.07; comforts and quilt, $33.50; total, $69.25. Paid out for material, $15.10; balance, $54.15. We quilted 1 quilt, knotted 11 comforts, made 235 bandages for the Red Cross, 23 refugee garments, knit 56 sweaters, 48 pair of socks and several mufflers. The work is continuing this year. Officers: Sister Kathryn Wingert, President; Sister Hetena Vannorsdel, Vice-President; the writer, Secretary-Treasurer.—Gladys Kalson, Kingsley, Iowa, April 22.

NEW LEBANON, OHIO.—Report of Bear Creek Aid Society for 1918: We held seven all-day and fourteen half-day meetings, with an average attendance of eight. We quilted 7 quilts; made 24 sunbonnets, 8 prayer-coverings; pieced some quilts and comfort-tops; sewed one day for a sister; served lunch for one sale. Money on hand Jan. 1, 1918, $62; took in all sources for year, $210.88. We gave $100 to Mary Quinter Hospital; $10 to Cincinnati Mission; $10 to Hastings Street Mission for Thanksgiving; $10 to Bro. Helm; $5 to our evangelist's wife; one quilt to a family in Michigan; total expense, $168.50; balance, $42.38. Officers: President, Sister Sarah Eby; Superintendent, Sister Ella Dichl; Secretary-Treasurer, the writer.—Mrs. Grace O. Hudson, New Lebanon, Ohio, April 19.

SEBRING, FLA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society for the winter of 1918-19: Officers: President, Sister J. H. Garst; Vice-President, Sister Mary Stutzman; Superintendents, Sisters J. B. Kendall and Salome Fasnacht; Treasurer, the writer; Secretary, Sister Elsie Singer; Devotional Committee, Sisters Sadie Younce and D. H. Zigler. Number of regular meetings held, 15; aggregate attendance, 200; total enrolled, 32; average attendance, 14. Receipts: Free-will offerings, $10.50; other cash donations, $4; received for rafts sold, $1.80; pine needle baskets, $10.50; quilt, $13; clothes-pin aprons, $4; knotting comforters, $1.50; miscellaneous, $5.30; total, $80.10. Expenditures: General Secretary dues, 25 cents; material, $8.10; raffia and needles, $2; material for clothes-pin aprons, $1.87; charity, $18; India sufferers, $45; Mission Hospital in China, $10; District Fund for educating young ministers, $10; local Sunday-school library, $5; laundry, $2; World-wide Missions, $7.87; total, $80.10. The Society also did sewing for busy mothers. One quilt, worth about $12, is still on hand.—Mrs W. E. Swank, Sebring, Fla., April 19.

That talk to the Children ---oh dear, what shall I say?

Don't rack your brain trying to think up an experiment that may not work. Dr. Stall has a pleasant surprise for you in his book called, "With the Children on Sundays." It is a large, beautiful volume containing 52 illustrated talks for children.

Don't be a quitter! Teachers, superintendents, ministers and parents, you will get real help from Dr. Stall's book. He will show you how to talk to children about the most commonplace things. Here are a few of the titles of the 52 illustrated stories for children showing at a glance what Dr. Stall will enable you to do with ordinary subjects:

Bread—Universal Soul Hunger.
Banks—Gathered and Guarded Treasures.
Husks—The Disappointed Pleasure Seeker.
Nuts—God Means That We Must Work.
Ropes—Habits and How They Become Strong.
Reaping—The Harvest Time of Life.
Traps—Unsuspecting Mice and Men.

With the Children on Sundays

is bound in olive green vellum cloth. It contains 330 pages, 9 full page color plates by C. M. Burd, over 130 line drawings illustrating the text, and 52 talks to children. Originally sold by subscription at $2.00 per copy. Our special price on "With the Children on Sundays" is $1.20 postpaid.

Save Money By Ordering Today From

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

Do You Sing? Even if you don't sing you will appreciate a new song book---Kingdom Songs

KINGDOM SONGS NO. 2

Our newest and best Sunday-school song book is Kingdom Songs No. 2. It contains the best of the old and new favorites. The press work is unusually good; there are no hymns or songs in fine print. Either shaped or round notes may be had. Shaped notes sent if no preference is indicated.

Single copy, 35c postpaid; per 100, carriage extra, $25.00.

Leather Bindings

Many persons have ordered Kingdom Songs No. 2 in a leather binding with their name and address stamped on in gold. To all who wish a well-bound book for their personal use we are glad to say that either edition may be had in the following special bindings; Half leather, 85c per copy, postpaid; Stiff leather, $1.00 per copy, postpaid; Limp leather, $1.25 per copy, postpaid.

We can stamp your name or name and address in gold on any hymnal or song book for 20c per line. The charge for stamping name of church on hymnals is $1.00 for the first dozen and 50c for each additional dozen.

REVIVAL SONGS AND BEST HYMNS

In nearly every church extra books are needed for revival meetings. The songs in this book are numbered the same as those in Kingdom Songs No. 2, so they can be used together. 96 pages of the best revival songs tested in many campaigns. Bound in strong manila board. Price: Single copy, 15c, postpaid; 30 copies, $3.75, postpaid; 100 copies, carriage extra, $10.00.

THE BRETHREN HYMNAL

A book of 512 pages containing 742 of the best hymns. It is adapted for use in church, Sunday-school and sacred services.

Regular Edition: The regular edition for church use comes in the several bindings at the following prices: Half leather, single copy, 65c; per dozen, prepaid, $7.20; full leather, gilt edge, per copy (stiff back), $1.00.

Gift Edition: For gift purposes we have a special edition of the Hymnal in green, black, brown or maroon in full Morocco binding. Limp back, black kid lined, $1.50 per copy.

In genuine kid Morocco seal, limp, black kid lined, an extra quality of binding, in black only, $1.75.

SONGS FOR CHILDREN

A New Primary Song Book. A collection of songs and exercises, written and arranged by Carrie B. Adams and Lillie A. Faris. Many have never been used before, and all are adapted to the needs of the children in the different elementary grades. Price per copy, 45c, postpaid.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 1
SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 2

The best from the primary unions all over the country. It would take years for a worker to make collections like these. Price per copy, either No. 1 or No. 2, 30c, postpaid.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Illinois

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 301)

WEST VIRGINIA

Crummett Run church met in council April 18, with Eld. G. M. Poffenbarger presiding. Eld. J. D. Glick and Bro. Minor C. Miller were also with us. Bro. Berlin Bodkin was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Eld. G. M. Poffenbarger, alternate; Brethren J. D. Simmons and Elmer Crummett, delegates to District Meeting, with Brethren Kennie Bodkin and Loy Simmons, alternates. It was decided to have a Sunday-school Institute some time this summer. Eld. A. S. Thomas was selected to secure a minister to hold a series of meetings this fall. Our District Secretary, Bro. Minor C. Miller, was with us for several days and gave some very interesting talks along the line of Sunday-school work. Sunday morning Eld. J. D. Glick preached a very interesting Easter sermon. We appreciated the presence of these brethren very much.—Clara E. Bodkin, Sugar Grove, W. Va., April 24.

Union Chapel.—We have just closed a week's meeting which was held by our home brethren, G. E. Shahan and N. H. Fike. Nine were baptized and united with the church. We were expecting Bro. J. E. Shepler, of Benton's Ferry, W. Va., to be with us, but it was impossible for him to come before June. However, we feel very thankful for what has already been accomplished. During the meetings, $30.50 was made up for Armenian-Syrian Relief. We have preaching every second and fourth Sunday by the home ministers. Our council meeting will be held June 24, at which time we expect to elect two ur three ministers and one or two deacons.—Nelson A. Williams, St. George, W. Va., April 21.

The Conference Daily

Already a large number of subscriptions have been received for the Conference Daily. We are glad for this early response. It shows that our church people are becoming more and more interested in daily reports from the Conference. Letters, announcing the features of the Daily, together with blanks for subscriptions, have been sent to the elders, pastors or some one, directly connected with each congregation of the Brotherhood. At least we endeavored to get a letter to each congregation.

In this letter we urged that all subscriptions possible be mailed as soon after May 18 as possible. We also suggested that Sunday, May 18, be made "Conference Daily Sunday,"—public announcement to be made on that day of the Daily, and some one to be selected to receive the subscriptions and send them in. We trust that those to whom the letters were sent will see to it that they are given prompt attention.

As announced a few weeks ago, the Conference Daily this year will be entirely devoted to the Conference proceedings. There will be seven issues, with at least one big, double issue giving almost one-half more space to the Conference than ever before. There is but little increase in price,—single subscriptions being 30 cents for the period. Five or more subscriptions in one order, 25 cents each. A number have already availed themselves of the club price. It does not take much more time to care for ten subscriptions in one letter than it does one, hence the lower price. Remember that but you need not wait until that time to get up your club. Let the subscriptions begin rolling in at once. Early lists mean prompt mailing. Send all orders to

Sunday, May 18, is "Conference Daily Sunday"

JOHN R. SNYDER, Conference Editor,
809 North Main Street, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DISTRICT MEETINGS

May 13-15, Idaho, and Western Montana, in the Nezperce church.

LOVE FEASTS

California

May 11, Pasadena.
May 11, Los Angeles.
May 18, 7 pm, Inglewood.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Glendora.
May 18, Raisin.

Colorado

May 17, Haxtun.

Idaho

May 17, 7:30 pm, Nampa.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Moscow.
May 24, Boise Valley.
May 25, Twin Falls.
June 7, Nezperce.

Illinois

May 11, 5:30 pm, Mt. Morris.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Hickory Grove.
May 18, 8 pm, Hudson.
May 18, 8 pm, Polo.
May 18, 7:30 pm, Batavia.
May 23, 8 pm, Oakley.
May 24, 10 am, Franklin Grove.
May 24, 6:30 pm, Elgin.
May 25, 7:30 pm, Dixon.
May 26, 6 pm, LaPlace, LaPlace house.
May 31, 7 pm, Pine Creek.
June 1, 6:30 pm, Cherry Grove.
June 14, 15, Waddams Grove.
June 14, 15, 2:30 pm, West Branch.

Indiana.

May 11, 6:30 pm, South Bend, Second church.
May 17, Wawaka.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Rock Run.
May 17, 7 pm, Middletown.
May 17, Shipshewana.
May 18, 8 pm, Burnettsville.
May 18, 6 pm, White.
May 24, 6 pm, Elkhart Valley.
May 24, 7 pm, Eel River.
May 24, Upper Pell Creek.
May 24, 7 pm, Union Center.
May 24, 8 pm, New Bethel.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, Locu Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Pipe Creek.
May 25, Logansport.
May 25, Muncie.
May 29, Baugo.
May 31, 7 pm, Yellow River.
May 31, Beech Grove.
May 31, Middlebury.
May 31, 7 pm, Bethel.
May 31, 10:30 am, Cedar Lake.
May 31, Blue River.
May 31, 7 pm, Wakarusa.
June 1, Bremen.
June 1, Walnut.
June 14, 7:30 pm, Clear Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Camp Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Kilbuck, Antioch house.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

May 17, 6 pm, Prairie City.
May 17, Greene.
May 17 and 18, Des Moines Valley.
May 18, South Keokok.
May 18, 7:45 pm, Council Bluffs.
May 23, Franklin.
May 24, 25, 3 pm, Coon River, at Panora house.
May 24, Salem.
May 24, Kingsley.
May 25, Des Moines City.
May 31, 7 pm, Fairview.
May 31, Brooklyn.
May 31, 7:30 pm, Panther Creek.
May 31, June 1, Garrison.
June 14, 15, 7 pm, Dallas Center.
June 14, 15, Spring Creek.

Kansas

May 10, Salem.
May 12, Verdigris, at Madison home.
May 17, 10:30 am, Victor.
May 17, 5 pm, Chapman Creek.
May 17, Monitor.
May 17, Prairie View.
May 18, Lawrence.
May 18, Morrill.
May 24, 25, 6 pm, Abilene, at Hulland house.
May 24, 5 pm, Ramona.
May 31, 7 pm, Midland Center.
May 31, Belleville.
May 31, Quinter.
June 14, 10:30 am, Burr Oak.
June 14, Rock Creek.

Maryland

May 17, Meadow Branch.
May 25, 2:30 pm, Middletown Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Brownsville.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, 25, 2:30 pm, Beaver Creek.
May 24, 2 pm, Monocacy, at Mountaindale.
May 31, 3:30 pm, Beaver Dam.
June 7, Peach Blossom, at Fairview.
June 14, Bear Creek.

Michigan

May 17, 7:30 pm, Saginaw.
May 17, 6 pm, Herlan.
May 18, 6 pm, Detroit.
May 18, 7 pm, Onekama.
May 30, Grand Rapids.
May 31, 10:30 am, Crystal.
May 31, 7 pm, Lake View.
June 1, 8 pm, Sugar Ridge.
June 14, Woodland.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Haven.
June 21, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 14, Worthington.
June 28, Lewiston.
June 28, 29, Hancock.

Missouri

May 17, 6 pm, Dry Fork.
May 31, South Fork.
May 31, Carthage.
June 14, Pesce Valley.

Nebraska

May 11, Beatrice.
May 11, Lincoln.
May 17, 2:30 pm, Alvo.
May 31, 8 pm, South Bestrice.

New Jersey

May 11, 6:30 pm, Amwell, at Amwell house.

North Carolina

May 24, 5 pm, Spray Mission.

North Dakota

May 24, 6 pm, Surrey.

Ohio

May 10, Freeburg.
May 10, 2 pm, Ross.
May 10, 7:30 pm, Middletown.
May 11, Marion.
May 11, 7 pm, Mohican.
May 17, Harris Creek.
May 17, Logan.
May 17, 5 pm, Eversole.
May 17, 7 pm, West Charleston.
May 24, Lonamie.
May 24, Strait Creek Valley.
May 24, Painter Creek.
May 24, 10 am, Rome.
May 24, 10 am, Beech Grove.
May 24, 6 pm, Bear Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Oakland.
May 25, Maple Grove.
May 31, 10 am, Lick Creek.
May 31, 5 pm, Pleasant Valley, Valley house.
May 31, 7 pm, Cincinnati.
May 31, 10:30 am, Wyandot.
May 31, Pleasant View.
May 31, Blanchard.
May 31, 5 pm, Middle District.
June 1, Reading.
June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.
June 28, 10 am, Richland.

Oklahoma

May 17, Pleasant Plains.
May 24, Hollow.
May 24, Paradise Prairie.
May 31, Big Creek.

Oregon

May 10 (evening), Portland.

Pennsylvania

May 10, Green Tree.
May 10, 7 pm, Mississinewa.
May 10, 1:30 pm, Spring Grove, at Kemper house.
May 11, Albright.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Quemshoning, at Maple Spring.
May 11, 2 pm, Manchereek, at Friends Grove house.
May 11, Fairview.
May 11, Codorus, Fairview house.
May 11, Work, First church.
May 11, 6:30 pm, Pittsburgh.
May 11 (evening), Carson Valley.
May 11, 6 pm, Clover Creek.
May 11, 6:30 pm, West Johnstown.

New Jersey

May 11, 7:30 pm, Elk Lick.
May 12, 13, 1:30 pm, West Conestoga, Middle Creek house.
May 13, 14, 1:30 pm, White Oak, at Pennville house.
May 13 and 14, Tulpehocken at Heidelberg house.
May 14, 15, Chickies, at Chickies house.
May 15, 16, Pine Grove, at Big Dam house.
May 17, 6 pm, Upper Dublio, at Ambler.
May 17, 6 pm, Springfield, Springfield house.
May 17, 18, 2 pm, Lost Creek, at Good Will house.
May 17, 18, 1:30 pm, Upper Conewago, Mummert house.
May 17 and 18, 10 am, Falling Spring, at Hade house.
May 17, 18, 10 am, Maiden Creek, Mohrsville house.
May 18, Elizabethtown.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Altoona, First church.
May 18, Viewpoint.
May 18, Scalp Level.
May 18, 6 pm, New Enterprise.
May 18, Williamsburg.
May 20, 21, 9:30 am, Springville, Mohler house.
May 20 and 21, 1 pm, Mountville, Mountville house.
May 20, 21, 10 am, Fredericksburg, Meyer house.
May 22, 23, 9:30 am, Big Swatara, at Hanoverdale.
May 24, Sugar Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Welsh Ruo.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Antietam, at Welty house.
May 24, 2 pm, Akron.
May 24, Mechanic Grove.
May 24, 25, 1:30 pm, Conewago, at Bachmansville.
May 25, Ligonier.
May 25, 4 pm, Carlisle.
May 25, 6 pm, Rossing Spring.
May 25, Codorus, at Codorus house.
May 25, Manor, at Penn Run house.
May 25, Shade Creek, Berkey house.
May 25, 4 pm, Shamokin.
May 25, Jacobs Creek.
May 27 and 28, 1:30 pm, Conestoga, at Bareville house.
May 31, 1:30 pm, Manchereek, at Manchereek house.
May 31, June 1, Lower Cumberland, Mohler house.
May 31, 4 pm, Spring Run, Pine Glen house.
June 1, Meyersdale.
June 1, Chamberaburg.
June 1, Lancaster.
June 1, Harrisburg.
June 1, 6 pm, Rummel.
June 1, 2 pm, Smithfield.
June 1, 7:30 pm, Yellow Creek.
June 1, Middle Creek.
June 4, 5, West Greeotree, at Greentree.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Aughwick, at Germany Valley.
June 7, 2 pm, Mingo, at Mingo house.
June 14, 2 pm, Buffalo.
June 14, Perrys Grove.
June 29, Sipesville.

Tennessee

May 17, 3 pm, Beaver Creek.

Virginia

May 17, 5 pm, Peters Creek.
May 17, 4 pm, Texas Chapel.
May 17, 4 pm, Pleasant Valley, Second District.
May 17, Cook's Creek, at Hinton Grove.
May 17, Elk Run, at Moscow.
May 17, 4 pm, Midland.
May 17, Woodstock, Columbia Furnace.
May 17, 3 pm, Stuarts Draft.
May 18, 7 pm, Staunton.
May 18, 6 pm, Bridgewater, at the old church.
May 24, 6 pm, Rileyville.
May 24, 3 pm, Linville, at Cedar Run.
May 31, 5 pm, Unity, at Bethel house.

Washington

May 17, Yakima.
May 24, Outlook.

West Virginia

May 10, 2 pm, Spruce Run.
May 17, Pleasant View.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Berkley.
August 30, Maple Spring.

Large Type Bibles and Testaments Will Enable You to Read With Ease and Comfort

AUTHORIZED OR KING JAMES VERSION

Specimen of Type Holman Home Bible
AND it came to pass, that when Isaac was old, and his eyes were dim, so that
The exact size of Bible when closed is 9½ x 12 inches
Flexible Binding

THE HOME BIBLE shown at the left is printed from large clear Pica Type. It has all the advantages of a Family Bible in the way of Marginal References, Family Record, Maps, etc. At the same time it is compact and light in weight. It is especially adapted to the needs of older folks who wear glasses.

2014. French Seal, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, ... $4.15
2022. French Seal, divinity circuit, linen lining and fly leaves, head bands and marker, red under gold edges, ... 4.85
2002. Cloth Bound stiff boards, round corners, gold titles, burnished edges, ... 2.35

TESTAMENTS WITH LARGE PICA TYPE—Authorized Version

Self-Pronouncing, Size 5½x7¾ inches

2902. Grained Cloth, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red burnished edges, ... $0.75
2902P. With Book of Psalms included. Same binding as No. 2902, ... .85
2913. French Morocco, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 1.80

Specimens of Type.
THE book of Je'sus

LARGE TYPE BIBLES AND TESTAMENTS—American Standard Version

Our line of American Standard Version Bibles and Testaments are easy to read and convenient in size. They are not only adapted to home use but are ideal for ministers. The Bibles are 5⅝x8¾ inches in size; the Testaments are 4¼x7 inches and may be carried in the pocket.

Specimen of type used in Bibles and Testaments listed below:

unto Jehovah, and took of every clean beast, and of every clean bird, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar. 21 And Jehovah smelled the

Large Type Bibles—American Standard Version—Large Type Testaments

No. 150. Bound in Cloth, square corners, red edges, ... $2.25
No. 161. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 3.75
No. 182. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 4.50
No. 184. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, gros grain leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 7.00
No. 650. Testament, Bound in Cloth, round corners, red edges, ... 0.70
No. 650P. Testament, with Psalms, same binding as No. 650, ... $0.85
No. 653. Testament, Genuine Leather, Levant grain, flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 1.65
No. 653P. Testament, with Psalms, same binding as No. 653, ... 1.75
No. 654. Testament, Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... 2.20
No. 654P. Testament, with Psalms, same binding as No. 654, ... 2.30

NOTICE:—Thumb Index on Bibles 35 Cents Additional. Name, or name and address in gold, will be placed upon any of these Bibles and Testaments at 20 cents per line.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13 "Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4: 14.

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., May 17, 1919 No. 20

In This Number

Editorial,—

Correcting an Error in Calculation, ...305
A Call for More Gospel, ...305
Is It a Practical Doctrine? 305
The Gross Sins Named by Paul (D. L. M.), ...305
Can Any One Tell Why? 306
The Quiet Hour, ...311
Among the Churches, ...312
Around the World, ...313

Contributors' Forum,—

If the League of Nations Makes Good (Poem), ...306
Jesus and the New Tomb. By J. H. Moore, ...306
Christian Science,—So-called. By L. J. Rosenberger, ...307
Wide-awake Christians. By Galen B. Royer, ...307
Application of Matthew 18. By A. G. Crosswhite, ...308
Forgiveness. By G. L. Wine, ...308
Queries for Annual Conference, ...309

The Round Table,—

A Child's Idea of Giving. By Julia Grayden, ...310
"Sunshine Ward." By Nettie C. Weybright, ...310
One Tongue. By Oma Karn, ...310
Is This Your Kind of Prayer? By Marie L. Fabens, ...310
The Fullness of Jesus. By G. W. Tuttle, ...310

Home and Family,—

Kiss Him (Poem). By B. F. M. Sours, ...314
Alice Jane's Lesson. By Elizabeth Rosenberger Blough, ...314
Flowers for the Living.—Part Three. By Edna Violet Kerr, ...314

Excursions in Bookland,—

"Studies in Doctrine and Devotion." By H. A. Brandt, ...315

...EDITORIAL...

Correcting an Error in Calculation

It is easy to see why many Christians regard the enterprise of world evangelization as without any promise of large results, or why they look upon the whole conflict between good and evil in this world as hopeless.

They are counting the opposing forces man for man. They see how few are those who fight for righteousness compared with the hosts who march under Satan's banner.

Their arithmetic is at fault. They should take a few lessons from stalwart old Joshua. He did not underestimate the ranks of the enemy. But in measuring the chances of success he made use of this simple little formula: "One man of you shall chase a thousand."

That puts the whole problem in an entirely different light. If you want to know how the strength of the Christian forces compares with that of the enemy, you must multiply each Christian by one thousand. That is how "they that be with us are more than they that be with them." If you insist on further explanation, it is this: "For Jehovah, your God, he it is that fighteth for you."

Isn't it strange that so many people, Christian people, seem to attach no importance to the fact that God is on one side of this great conflict?

You see, our side is the right side, God's side. That is why we are going to win.

A Call for More Gospel

Not very long ago we received a letter from one of our readers, in which the writer expressed his desire for "More Gospel in the Gospel Messenger." "Can not the Gospel Messenger give us a little more Gospel doctrine?" he asks. And the way he underscored the words "Gospel Messenger" clearly shows that he thinks a paper with such a name ought to have plenty of "Gospel" in it, a sentiment with which any right-minded person would heartily agree.

It was an interesting letter, but what interested us most was the brother's idea of what the "Gospel" is. If he had not made this plain, we would have been puzzled by his request, for we have been under the impression all along that the Messenger has a considerable amount of "Gospel" in it every week. But other portions of the letter showed clearly what the writer had in mind. He was thinking of a certain group of doctrines which he felt should receive more emphasis, namely, those which constitute what we often speak of as our "distinctive features." In fact, it is evident that, to this reader's mind, the "Gospel" is practically synonymous with these special doctrines.

The General Mission Board, a good long while ago, adopted as a motto or slogan the phrase "The Whole Gospel for the Whole World." It seems to us that this expresses admirably what should be the policy of a church paper which calls itself the "Gospel Messenger."

We sympathize entirely with our correspondent's feeling that the doctrines which distinguish us as a people from some other organizations should not be neglected. (In this connection our readers will be interested to know that we have secured from one of our most competent contributors the promise of a series of articles, in the not far future, along these special lines.) We do not wish any Gospel doctrine to be forgotten. But we desire to observe, as nearly as possible, the same sense of proportion or emphasis, which is found in the Gospel itself. This is our ideal. We are well aware that we still come far short of it. But our aim is to proclaim the whole Gospel, making first and central what the Gospel makes first and central and making secondary and incidental what is made so in the Gospel.

May we suggest to any interested reader an exercise which he would find profitable, we believe, and which might also be used to help us in our editorial work. Let him look through his Messenger files for any considerable period, say six months or a year, making note of all articles which deal wholly or in part with our distinctive doctrines and practices. Let him estimate the proportion of space given to these subjects. Then let him also carefully examine the New Testament with a view of noting what proportion of its space is given to these features, not forgetting to observe what the rest of the story is about. Then let him compare ratios, and give us the result of his investigations, along with any suggestions he may feel to offer.

We want to make the "Gospel Messenger" worthy of its name. We solicit the kind help of our readers. We want to answer favorably this call for "More Gospel."

Is It a Practical Doctrine?

Does the doctrine of the Holy Spirit have some practical bearing on the life of the Christian, or is it merely something to be believed? Something essential to a sound creed, but not affecting Christian duty and soul culture one way or the other?

Are you never puzzled at all as to what you ought to do,—as to what it would be right for you to do? Do you never feel the need of light on the path of duty? Well, it is the function of the Spirit to convict men "in respect of sin and of righteousness and of judgment." Would not clear convictions on these subjects help out sometimes in handling the day's work?

Do you never have occasion to wonder about the meaning,—the meaning for you,—of some things that Jesus said? Would you like to know just how his teaching would apply in certain concrete situations? Well, that is exactly where the Spirit's help comes in. It is his business to take of what Jesus said and "declare it unto you." Isn't that practical? Doesn't that touch you exactly where you live?

Do you never have a great sense of unsatisfiedness without being able to tell exactly what the trouble is? Do you sometimes want to pray for something but can not put it into words,—can not just tell what your heart is longing for? Well, "the Spirit himself maketh intercession for us with groanings which can not be uttered." He "helpeth our infirmity" when "we know not how to pray as we ought." Isn't that something practical?

Do you never have a sense of depression, uncertainty and loneliness? That feeling which cries out for a friend to counsel with, to share your burdens, and cheer you up generally? Well, that is a big part of the Spirit's business. He is a Comforter, a "Paraclete," a Helper at your side, just an all-around Standby, able and ready for any situation that may arise. What could be more practical than that?

Elaborate dissertations on the Third Person in the Trinity are meaningless and worse than meaningless, unless the Spirit himself,—God himself,—is an Actual Power, the All-controlling Power in the life. There is no more practical doctrine in the whole New Testament, when it is made so.

The Gross Sins Named by Paul

In a very recent personal letter, received from a faithful member of the church, our attention is called to the gross sins, especially those named in 1 Cor. 5: 11, which reads as follows: "But now I have written unto you not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one no not to eat." A very plain, simple, Scriptural statement. No one can put a different meaning on it from that placed on it by the apostle.

Especial attention is called by the writer of the letter to the sin of fornication, mentioned among these gross sins to which the inspired apostle so pointedly and clearly calls attention. They are six in number and all are placed on exactly the same basis. Fornication, covetousness, idolatry, railing, drunkenness and extortion are all classed together, and with those who are guilty of these gross sins, we are not to keep company, and with such an one "no not to eat."

It was from this strong passage of Scripture that our Brethren, as well as a number of other churches, took the doctrine of avoidance, which was held for a number of years by our church. Any one guilty of either of these gross sins was placed in avoidance, and with such an one the members were forbidden to eat a common meal. Members of the church, of the same family, were not permitted to eat with the one in avoidance. He ate his meal alone, while the rest of the family surrounded the common table. In later years this rule of avoidance was entirely dropped. There are very few, if any, living now who knew that rule by personal experience.

The later rule was to expel any one who committed one of these gross sins, even if he did make a public confession and humbly asked to be forgiven. The rule was that he must be expelled. After expulsion, if he asked to be restored, this was done. We know of a case where two members, guilty of fornication, made their confession, and asked to be forgiven. They were expelled just before dinner. During the noon hour they requested to be restored, and this was done immediately after dinner. They had not been out of the church over two hours.

This rule of action did not appeal to the membership of the church generally as being for the best. Many held that if the one guilty of the sin made an honest, humble confession, and asked forgiveness, it should be granted in accordance with the teaching of Christ. For a number of years Conference was appealed to to change this ruling in the church, and this was finally granted. At the Conference of 1915 the following query with the answer of the Standing Committee was unanimously passed by the delegates:

Query: Whereas, our churches forgive, without expulsion, members who are guilty of some of the sins named in 1 Cor. 5: 11, when they are repentant, and whereas, all of those sins are named as belonging to the same class, and whereas, the culprit named in 1 Cor. 5: 1-5, that was expelled, was unrepentant, and whereas, the teaching of the Scriptures is forgiveness on repentance and confession, therefore we ask that the decision of Conference on this question be reconsidered and the churches be allowed to forgive without relieving of membership all who bring forth fruits meet for repentance, and make public confession for any of the sins named in 1 Cor. 5: 11.

Answer.—If the penitence and confession are satisfactory to the church, such may be retained.

This query and its answer in no way sets aside action against any one guilty of the sin set forth in 1 Cor. 5: 1-5. The guilty one must be brought before the church and if the confession of sin and the plea for forgiveness are satisfactory to the church, forgiveness is granted and membership retained. This is in line with the teaching of the Gospel. God promises, through Jesus Christ, to forgive, upon repentance and confession, all our sins, save the sin against the Holy Ghost.

The church can not, for a moment, condone sins of this gross character without bringing the guilty one to account. This must be done. The action of Conference does not give the least license for wrongdoing. It is the bounden duty of every elder to bring those, guilty of any one of these gross sins,—even if the guilty one should be a relative,—before the church, and hear the confession and plea for forgiveness. If these are refused, let the offender "be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican."

It is an absolute bemeaning of the decision of Conference, even to infer that it is intended to condone sin. It is simply taking the high ground of the Gospel on forgiveness, when repentance, confession and a plea for forgiveness are made. Those setting forth fruits meet for repentance and sorrow for sin must be accepted in accordance with the Word of God.

We confess that we were intensely interested in looking over the Report of Annual Conference, when the query, referred to here, was passed. I just read the speech made by Bro. Jno. Calvin Bright, in favor of the query. That godly man has recently been called home to his reward. He will be rewarded for the firm stand he always took for the truth as he saw it.

It has been intimated to the writer that some elders are not doing their duty in calling guilty ones to account before the church. If these statements are correct, it shows a sad neglect of duty, and the adjoining elders should at once look into such a case, and set such elders right. D. L. M.

Can Any One Tell Why?

Why do supposedly sensible people do so many foolish things? Why, for instance, will men of recognized soundness of judgment, men whose counsel on great issues is sought after, eat more than they want, —not merely more than they need, mind you, but more than their satiated appetites desire,—just to get the dish empty or to keep something from being "wasted"?

Is it because their minds are so completely occupied with large things that they can not give any consideration to such trifling questions as the right time to stop eating? So, in these routine matters, they are guided by the impulse of the moment, pure caprice,—just whatever sight or sound may happen to suggest.

Paul was a man with some large questions in his program, but he did not think eating and drinking were matters too small to be handled in a rational way. He did not think anything was too small to be handled in that manner. "Whatsoever ye do," he said, "do all to the glory of God."

But if eating for God's glory is too high a standard to begin with, can any one tell why men do not have sense enough to eat for their own comfort?

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

If the League Makes Good

Suppose it isn't perfect in its every single line!
Suppose it's only human—not a spark in it divine!
Suppose it's but a treaty full of faults for men to tell,—
If it helps to stop war's murders 'twill be doing very well!

Suppose it isn't worded just as you would like to see!
Suppose its every sentence doesn't quite appeal to me!
They may not jam together all the fiats that they should,
But if it stops the slaughter it will still be making good!

It may be shy on logic or it may be scant of wit,
But a few mistakes technistic will not worry me a bit.
It's the spirit of the nations that we want in that big pact,
And if it keeps us friendly for a while,—it's quite an act!

Suppose it isn't perfect,—no such compact ever was!
It's a move in the right direction of the greatest human cause.
If it stops mankind from fighting, and some brother-love awakes,
I don't care a continental if there are a few mistakes!

There can not be much error when a score of lands or more
Are bound to help each other in the settling of a score,
So if the League of Nations proves some day a paper scrap,
I'll feel a wee bit safer when I know it's on the map!

—Lurana Sheldon in New York Times.

Jesus and the New Tomb

BY J. H. MOORE

In the time of Christ, Jerusalem, as now, was inclosed by a strong stone wall, possibly ten feet thick and four times as high. The city could be entered by various gates, open during the day and usually closed at night. When Jesus was crucified, he was taken for execution to a point resembling a skull, outside of the wall, or "without the gate," as it is expressed in Heb. 13: 12. With this agrees what Matthew (28: 11) says regarding the soldiers placed in charge of the sepulchre, from which Jesus arose on the morning of the third day. "Now when they [the women] were going, behold some of the watch came into the city and showed unto the chief priests all the things that were done." The soldiers coming from the tomb into the city would indicate that Jesus had been crucified and buried outside of the city walls.

To the north of the present Damascus Gate, about 1,050 feet, there is a knoll, possibly twenty feet high, embracing not far from ten acres, that is pointed out by many scholars and travelers as the New Testament Calvary. In shape it resembles a skull, and it is without the city. At the foot of the hill, next to the city, there is a splendid place for a garden. Back of the garden, up against the knoll, there is a perpendicular rock ledge into which were cut a number of tombs for burial purposes.

In all probability Joseph of Arimathæa, a rich Jew and a member of the Jewish Senate, owned this garden at the foot of the knoll, or at least a part of it and hired workmen to hew out for him, in the rock, a tomb for burial purposes. Some of these rock-hewn tombs of ancient times contained several rooms. For some reason the workmen completed only the one room, to which we are now directing attention. It is not far from twelve feet square, and in one corner contains a stone-cut resting-place for one person. When completed, this tomb could be entered through an opening about three feet high and possibly twenty-eight inches wide. A large stone, rolled past the opening and fitting close to the ledge of rock, would close the tomb. This tomb, presumed to be the one owned by Joseph, was new, and completed at the time referred to in this article.

It was on Friday morning, not far from April 6, and near nine o'clock, that a band of soldiers were seen leaving the Roman castle in charge of three men on whom the sentence of death by crucifixion had been pronounced by Pilate, the Roman governor of the province in which Jerusalem was located. As they passed through the streets and out of the Damascus Gate and on to the knoll, above mentioned, they were followed by a howling mob, made up of religious fanatics and high ecclesiastical leaders, bent on the death of the most innocent-looking of the three.

In a little while the top of the knoll was reached. The prisoners were hastily and ruthlessly nailed to their respective crosses, which were reared and secured in holes dug for the purpose. The scene was an exciting one and could have been easily viewed by many more than two hundred thousand people lining the north wall of the city and occupying the open spaces around the knoll.

Two of the prisoners were robbers and had made a business of killing and robbing people. According to law and the prevailing code of justice, they doubtless deserved death. But the one, suspended on the middle cross, was a different type of man. He was a fine, manly-looking Jew, not yet thirty-four years old, and had never harmed a human being in all his life. He spent his time going about the country doing good and teaching the people a way of holiness far superior to that taught by the religious teachers of the day. It was this superior teaching that aroused the hatred of the religious leaders of Jerusalem, and so enraged did they become that they finally trumped up false charges against him and, aided by a mob demonstration, induced the governor, against his own better judgment, to pronounce the death sentence.

It was at the time of the Passover. The city was thronged with people from every part of the civilized world and the air was full of rumors concerning the young prophet, his teaching and his wonderful works. As a preacher, teacher and the expounder of the Jewish scriptures he easily, in the estimation of the public, outranked anyone in all Jerusalem and the regions round about. Hundreds confided in him. The masses loved and even admired him. But those higher up in church and state viewed his movements with fear and hatred. A half million people within a circle of a few miles were talking about him. The interest was great and now, since he could be seen hanging on a cross, and the cross guarded by soldiers, the excitement became intense. And to add to the intensity of the situation, and fill every soul with fear, darkness settled down over the country and remained for three long hours. Then, out of the midst of the scene, there came, from the agonizing young prophet, a never-to-be-forgotten declaration: "It is finished." He dropped his head, the earth quaked and a half million people were filled with superstitious fear.

It was three o'clock in the afternoon. To Joseph the governor granted permission to remove the body of the young prophet from the cross. Nicodemus, another member of the Jewish Senate, came to his aid, and the body was taken into the garden at the foot of the knoll, washed, embalmed with costly spices, wrapped in clean linen and laid to rest in the new tomb. The large stone was then rolled over the entrance, the burial process being watched by thousands of people. There was no funeral discourse, no music and no flowers. It was all done in silence,—profound silence. As the sun disappeared beyond the western hills the great mass of human beings,—men, women and children,—returned to their homes, saying: "The Galilean prophet is dead and buried." Some said: "The lowly Jesus is dead." Two sobbing sisters were heard to say: "The good man who raised our brother to life is no more." A saintly woman, as she leaned upon the arm of a strong young man, might have been heard repeating: "My son, O my son! What does all this mean!"

The night came. The moon shone brightly, but all was darkness in the souls of the hundreds who, in faith, had clung to the marvelous prophet. But with them it was all over. Their beloved Master was dead and buried.

Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, passed. The people rested. All shops and stores were closed. The disciples, the believing women, and others interested in the prophet, remained quiet,—probably most of them in hiding. Soldiers guarded the sealed tomb and not a soul ventured near the place. The wheel of time reeled off the hours of Saturday night.

Sunday morning came. Bright and early some people were astir. Since the quiet burial on Friday evening some of the more devout women had not been able to dismiss the awful tragedy of the day from their minds. Though dead they were still interested in their great Teacher. This led them to the tomb at early dawn. To their amazement they found it empty. Then rumors began to spread. Some said the body was stolen from the tomb. Not a few were circulating the report that Jesus the prophet had arisen from the dead, that he had been seen by several and that he had even conversed with some of his more intimate followers. As the hours went by, the conflicting rumors multiplied and we may well imagine that before the close of the day everybody was again talking about the prophet, wondering what would be the outcome of it all.

In the evening, behind closed doors, there was a little meeting, and Jesus was there, alive and his real self. One week later there was another meeting. And other gatherings followed, Jesus showing himself to Peter, James, some of the women, all the faithful apostles and as many as five hundred others. The old faith was revived, confidence took the place of doubt and we soon hear of these apostles and others going everywhere preaching the death, burial, resurrection and ascension of the Master. The good news has been caught up by others of many generations and the watchword,—the resurrection,—goes ringing on down through the ages.

As the outcome of what happened we have the church, the New Testament and all that goes to make this world better, to redeem men and women from their sins and to make eternal salvation possible, all because the Master, Jesus the Christ, the Son of God, came alive from Joseph's new tomb.

Sebring, Fla.

Christian Science,—So-Called

BY I. J. ROSENBERGER

THE phrase "Christian Science," as a title, sounds well. The name is euphonious, but its doctrine is appalling. Its teaching, in many instances, is in direct contradiction to the Bible.

Let us ascertain the facts of this doctrine. To get the facts of Mormonism we go to the "Book of Mormon." To get the doctrine of Mohammedanism we must go to the Koran. To get the facts of Christian Science, so-called, we must go to their standard work, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mrs. Baker G. Eddy. The book lies before me, and I will refer to the pages quoted by number.

God.—On page 449, Mrs. Eddy says: "God is a divine principle, supreme, incorporate being." Page 604, "God dwells in the realm of the mind." The Bible says: "In the beginning was God. . . . God made the world and all things therein. . . . He giveth all, life and breath and all things." Can a principle do all the foregoing? And as to God's dwellingplace, the Bible says that Stephen looked up into heaven and saw Jesus at the right hand of God.

Christ.—On page 29, Mrs. Eddy says: "Jesus was the Son of Mary. . . . Mary's conception of him was a divine principle. . . . He claimed no intelligence, action or life separate from God." I leave these statements for the reader to ponder.

Sin.—Mrs. Eddy says on page 459: "Man is incapable of sin." On page 464 we are told: "God or good, could not make man capable of sin." Paul says: "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3: 23). "The soul that sinneth it shall die" (Ex. 18: 4). Hence man is not only capable of sin but has sinned and does sin.

Satan.—Mrs. Eddy (page 81) calls Satan an "illusive personification." Page 507 tells us: "The first mention of evil, in Genesis, is the legend of the serpent." Job was tried by Satan in person, whom God permitted to so do, though bounds were set to his efforts. Matthew minutely relates Satan's tempting Christ: "Then the devil taketh him into the holy city." "Then the devil leaveth him," etc. These words speak of Satan's real person and not his personification. Paul says: "All scripture given by inspiration. . . . Holy men wrote as they were moved by the Spirit." To bring inspired Writ down to the low basis of legend, is dishonoring its Great Author.

Death.—Mrs. Eddy says on page 563: "Death is an illusion, for there is no death." On page 349: "Death will be found to be a mortal dream. It comes in darkness." The Scriptures are so abundant and our observation and experience so constant and so painfully setting forth the facts that death is real and not an illusion or a dream, that I will silently pass by this grave contradiction of Bible teaching.

Soul.—Mrs. Eddy says: "Soul is a Divine principle of man, and never sins" (page 465). Ezekiel says: "The soul that sinneth it shall die" (Ezek. 18: 4).

Mortality.—Mrs. Eddy says: "Mortality of man is a myth; for man is immortal" (page 576). Paul says: "This mortal must put on immortality" (1 Cor. 15: 53).

Judgment.—Mrs. Eddy says: "No final judgment awaits mortal; for . . . it comes hourly, continually." Paul says: "God hath appointed a day in which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained."

Prayer.—Mrs. Eddy says: "The danger from audible prayer is that it may lead us into temptation (page 331). It leads to wrong ideas of God" (page 635). I close by raising the question: "How can intelligent minds so say and so write, while pretending to believe the Holy Bible before them?"

Greenville, Ohio.

Wide-Awake Christians

BY GALEN B. ROYER

IT is in connection with instructions concerning so important a service as the communion that Paul talks about sleepy Christians, and his words are not exactly commendable to them either. At once they should raise the question for each one of us: "Am I a sleepy or a wide-awake Christian?"

Sleepy people are not only of little service but, when trusted with responsibilities, often are the cause of great disasters. Because a flagman is asleep at his post, a passenger train dashes to ruin and lives are lost. Because the lookout man in the "crow's-nest" of a ship is asleep, the ocean liner strikes the reef and is dashed to pieces.

Sometimes, however, boats run into a bank of fog and then the lookout man is helpless and the captain resorts to the foghorn. Its shrill, coarse, penetrating signals are sent out over the waters to warn other vessels that may be approaching. If the boat is near some signal station, answer may be given from that. But should the signal-station keeper be asleep, and not answer the foghorn, disaster impends again.

Not unlike these relations is every Christian life. How important, then, it is to be wide-awake and to sound the foghorn when there is real danger.

A foghorn is far from musical in its tone. Its shriek usually sends shivers through the passengers who hear it for the first time, yet its gruff, moaning sound gives the needed warning (Rom. 13: 11; Eph. 5: 14) against danger and death. At such times there is no need of symphonies for cultured ears. Soothing notes of this type would put people to sleep when they should be wide-awake and ready for action. What of it, if the appeals of the minister are too rough and noisy, if his cries are shrill and piercing? If thereby sleepers are awakened and prepared for judgment, we have reason to thank God.

Just one wide-awake man, in the strength of the Lord, can do wonders. There is Jonah marching alone through wicked Nineveh, a mighty city. Listen to his sharp, startling cry, so greatly at variance with the city's life: "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be overthrown" (Jonah 3: 4). When he entered the city, every one was careless, indifferent, absorbed in other things, asleep, with only forty days until their doom would be upon them. But Jonah's foghorn wakened them up, and repentance followed.

What made Jonah so powerful with his foghorn? He himself had just spent three days and nights at the very mouth of hell, where he felt God's righteous anger and the power of his judgment. When deliverance came, his whole soul entered into the cry of warning to Nineveh.

While Jonah has his remarkable experience, if today one would be wide-awake, he must be keyed to intensity by the Holy Spirit, to sound properly his warning note. Our own zeal is not enough. It is often misleading. "The zeal of thy house hath eaten me up" (Psa. 69: 9). Some well-meaning preachers apparently see nothing but danger all the time. Even when the sky is clear, when the sea is smooth and when the ship of Zion should go forward at her full speed, some are blowing their dismal foghorns, the engineer is running at low speed, and often,—too bad to admit it,—the boat is standing still.

What a pity to blow a foghorn all the time! I was trying to be a sympathetic listener at a funeral, while the minister was discoursing words of comfort from Psa. 23. Imagine my surprise when, in that hour of aching and torn hearts,—a time when the oil of comfort should be poured in at every opening,—the preacher's foghorn proclaimed "that the good Shepherd must chastise his sheep" though they already lie wounded and bleeding under the sore bereavement.

Zeal, "love for the cause," or "love for the other's welfare" is far from being an ample guide to blow a foghorn. Only the power of the Holy Spirit can send the blast rightly into erring hearts and save from death.

But, reader, are you sure you are awake? Sleep comes over one unconsciously. We don't make up our minds to sleep, but, placing ourselves in a comfortable position, we fall asleep without knowing it until we awake.

What! Do we not know we are asleep when we are!

In addition, what alarm this should give, when we know how pleased the devil is to have a Christian asleep. He understands human nature perfectly. He has been on his job for six thousand or more years. If he thinks he can not blight Christian life by the chilling winds of persecution, he may try more pleasing ones, and lull one to sleep through prosperity,—have him live on "Easy Street," in the city of "Comfort." Often he succeeds thus in soothing noble Christians into a sound sleep.

Then, too, Satan has some very effective narcotics and opiates to make people sleepy. There is one he calls "a liberal spirit." The poor, deluded "fool" makes his boast: "I can not be narrow. I can not make myself believe I am right and others are wrong. Surely, there are two sides to every question and it is wrong to ignore the other side." When one talks that way it may be depended upon that Satan has given him a narcotic,—he is asleep,—his vessel is in a dense fog and he is not blowing the foghorn (Gal. 1: 8, 9).

Of course, every question has two sides,—the right and wrong side,—and this is verily true of Christianity. Here is the right side: "He that hath the Son, hath life," and this is the wrong side: "He that hath not the Son of God, hath not life" (1 John 5: 12). The great question for each one to settle is: On which side of this grave question are you, your loved ones and your friends?

Another declares that he dare not be narrow. He comforts himself in his doubts rather than "to tie to some creed." Verily, creeds are poor things to tie to. Christ never commanded his disciples to tie to any of them. But one makes no mistake when he ties to his Lord, wakens up and arouses those about him to do the same thing. "Two blacks never made a white," and two objections to Christian life never saved a soul. If believers are so far wrong, all the more reason why the critic, by his right Christian life, should warn both saint and sinner, so that they may be saved.

Are you, dear reader, a murderer? "How dare you suggest such a thought?" is your quick retort, as you think how free from such a crime you are. But reflect for a few moments. If you have not yielded your heart and life to Christ, you are guilty of crucifying him (Heb. 6: 6). As long as you refuse to repent, you consent to his death.

Or if you are a Christian and asleep, are you not guilty of soul murder? "When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thy hand" (Ezek. 3: 18).

What an awful reckoning awaits those who have lived complacent, formal lives, who never warn any one of danger, who refuse to move out of their rut, who take no interest in any one but themselves!

Does God ever try to waken the sleeper? He surely does. Sometimes his call is loud and rough, like the rising bell in a college dormitory. It may come in the form of a crushing sorrow, a great loss, cherished hopes vanished,—our Ziklag destroyed (1 Sam. 30) to bring us back to true dependence upon God.

But such experiences are so painful, so undesirable! How much better had we heeded God's first call and obeyed his first command to go!

Beloved, the night of our Lord's absence is far spent, the day of his personal, visible and imminent returning is at hand (Rom. 13: 12). In order to be looking for his coming again as he went, we can not afford to be other than wide-awake Christians.

Huntingdon, Pa.

Application of Matthew 18

BY A. G. CROSSWHITE

As I read Bro. Moore's article of some weeks ago, referring to his eighteenth-of-Matthew man, I was forcibly reminded of an instance in my early management of church affairs which I hope will never be repeated.

A fine congregation had gathered to transact business the first of the year. Short devotional services, including an admonition to unity, were held, certificates of membership disposed of, and the program of business announced.

Before entering upon the "unfinished business," I made this statement: "Any member having troubles that have not been satisfactorily adjusted, and who has proceeded according to Matthew 18, by previously taking the first and second steps, may now proceed with the third step by 'telling it to the church.'"

Scarcely had the privilege been granted when an aged brother rose to his feet rather gingerly, and said he had a case. "State your case, brother," said I, feeling assured that it would be his maiden effort in speech-making,—that is, in congregational addresses.

Everything was as still as death. Many of those present were looking for something, and especially when they saw that he was well up in front,—an unusual occurrence.

He began by stating that he had rented a certain piece of land to Bro. B, to be cultivated in corn, and,—

"Beg pardon, Brother A," said I, "but I hardly think we are ready to hear your case. You have not taken the first step yet, unless you count that disturbance upon the public highway that step."

He suddenly became as pale as death, dropped into his seat and in a low murmur declared that there was a better way of settling such matters than through the church.

We proceeded with business and at the close of the session I made an effort to speak to this brother, but he was too quick for me, and so the matter rested for a few days.

At the first opportunity I inquired of him if a settlement had been made. "No," he said, "but it will be settled at the courthouse in due time."

I had had one version of the dispute, so now I said: "Let me hear your side. How much is there between you?"

He then related the whole transaction, identically as I had heard it. There was but little to it, and absolutely nothing to go to law about. Bro. B had raised a crop of corn on a certain field of his, and by some disagreement with his landlord, who was rather wealthy, by the way, had forfeited any farther rights on the farm.

Being rather slow in gathering the corn, the landlord had permitted the incoming tenant to go into the standing corn and drill wheat to the damage of the unhusked corn (sixteen rows) estimated to make that many bushels, and so the corn was not gathered until late in the spring.

At this little conference between us I asked him if he had been well acquainted with his tenant, and his manner of life before renting to him.

"Yes," he replied, "I knew him well."

I informed him that it made some difference in the disposition of the case. But he insisted that his case came under the provisions of Matt. 18 and should be settled at a future called business session of the church.

"Now, Bro. A, you are a good financier and I wish you to look at this matter from that view-point."

"Certainly," said he, "all I want is my own."

"Now, then, suppose I should call the members together the first of May, as busy as we all are, and we would succeed in getting one hundred together and a day would be spoiled in disposing of this case. How much is time worth? A dollar a day?"

"Yes, two of them," he quickly retorted. He saw the point. "But that is not the way to look at it," he finally ventured. "It's a personal grievance, and the church should judge between us."

"All right," I admitted, "let's reason from that angle then. How many people are now affected by your troubles?"

"Well, to be candid, only two of us."

"But when one member suffers, the whole body suffers. Is that scripture?" He admitted that it was.

"But disputes are both infectious and contagious, and I hereby establish a quarantine, thus hoping to protect the flock. You brethren must settle your differences between yourselves, for we can not afford to stir up the whole church and give occasion to party spirit and lasting differences for the paltry sum of eight dollars. You may have a committee of arbitration and what they decide must be final."

Both parties agreed to this, and, after a hard day's work and the loss of five busy men's time, the decision was rendered that Bro. B should pay Bro. A two-fifths of sixteen bushels of corn. The latter was very indignant at first and declared he would not stand to any such arbitration, but being previously bound and knowing what lawsuits usually cost, he finally submitted.

One day he hailed me thus: "Say, that was a great arbitration. Why, just think! They paid me in my own corn."

"Well," said I, "I suppose we must grin and bear it." But actually, it is the first literal fulfillment of the old maxim that I recall.

What became of the damaged corn? The sixteen rows in dispute? Well, on the principle of "the dog in the manger" the corn was doing nobody any good, and so a poor worthy brother was advised to go and husk it out and haul it home. So far as I heard, neither party said a word.

It is not the purpose of this article to throw a damper upon a long-established principle of church government, for it is fundamental and should meet with universal favor, even outside of our own church. But there is a danger line somewhere, between the second and third step, and it is possible that most of the failures in settling troubles have been due to a misapplication of the divine rule. Equally disastrous is the custom of presenting personal grievances on the annual visit. May God give us more brotherly love and a greater hungering for lost souls and for the coming King!

Rocky Ford, Colo.

Forgiveness

BY G. L. WINE

FORGIVENESS is the foundation of the Christian religion. Jesus Christ left his fellowship with the Father and took upon himself humanity,—not to lay down the terms of exactness and justice, with which we must comply, in order to be saved, but principally to make an atonement for sin, by which the Father might justify the sinner in forgiving him all his sins and trespasses. And as saints of God we are such today because of his forgiveness.

Practically all of the essence of the teachings of Christ, on the subject, is found in Luke 17: 3-5: "Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him. And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying: I repent; thou shalt forgive him. And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith."

"If"

In the first place, the Lord directs that we give heed to ourselves. Possibly we may think that an offense has been committed against us when there has been nothing of the kind. We may be "nearsighted by the sin of selfishness," so that we can not see our brother as he is. Or we may have a "warped vision," through strata of prejudice, and the actions of our brother, again, are not properly seen. Because of the sins of depravity we can not see as we ought to see, and our vision is blurred. It is clear, then, that because of our infirmity, introspection should be the first step in a supposed trespass. Let us come to him, the Great Optician, and have the lens of our spiritual eyes properly focused, through prayer and supplication, to see our brother as he is. If, then, the trespass remains, we may take the next step, but not before. Let us clear away the "if" first.

"Rebuke Him"

Now that my brother has wronged me, what shall I do? Our Lord said: "Rebuke him." How often have we heard the expression: "He will have to make that right." This is not forgiveness but the exacting of justice to the last farthing. Because my brother has sinned against me, does that put him in debt to me? Does it change my character because he has sinned? Am I not the same, in the sight of God, as I was before? Why, then, should I even go to him? Simply because he has "fallen out by the way." He has lost his fellowship with God and with men, and it becomes my privilege and duty to help to lift him out of the mire into which he has fallen, and to restore him to loving relationship. Then I will not go to him, gritting my teeth and clinching my fist in passionate outcries for justice, but with a countenance that is beaming with love. I will manifest a spirit of forgiveness that has already taken place in my heart. Then can I go to my brother as Paul said,—"full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish [or rebuke] one another."

A certain minister tells of an offense given in a sermon, which was rebuked by a sister in such a kind, loving way that he ever afterwards felt that the sister had paid him a compliment. A rebuke like this will, as the wise man has said, enter "deeper into a wise man, than one hundred stripes into the heart of a fool." This kind of rebuke touches the very fountain-head of life, changes the bitter waters into sweet, and makes the ever-flowing stream of life pleasant.

"Him"

"Go tell him his fault between thee and him alone." God said to the Israelites: "Thou shalt in any wise rebuke thy neighbor and not suffer sin to be upon him." How often we do it differently! We gather our friends about us and relate to them how we have been offended. If, perchance, the offending party should enter the room, we silently change the conversation to something else, and never mention it to him. Our Lord said: "Him." How many heartaches would be saved if we would follow the Lord's instructions!

"Forgive Him"

But this forgiveness, in order to be effective in the life of the offender, is conditioned upon the fact: "If he repent." And what shall I demand of my brother before I recognize that he has repented? Must he saturate his handkerchief with tears, in order to repent? "Godly sorrow worketh repentance." "A certain man had two sons; and he came to the first, and said, Son, go work today in my vineyard. He answered and said, I will not: but afterward he repented, and went." First he said: "I will not," but when he repented he said: "I will." "Right-face-about,"—that's repentance. And when the penitent has turned, for mercy, to God, who is gracious to forgive, we should recognize the same penitence and forgive.

But what is it to forgive? You have heard it said: "I can forgive, but I can never forget it," with such an emphasis on the forget that makes us believe they have not forgiven. Our minds are so constructed that it is not easy entirely to forget. We can not prevent the offense from coming to our minds, but we can prevent it from harboring there, and that with hatred. Some people talk about "burying the hatchet," but so many bury it with the handle sticking out. Then they can pull back the old grudge at the first convenience. But this is not forgiveness. The literal meaning of the Greek word used here is, to loose, to set free. This phrase is said to have been used by our Lord when, while in a boat, he wanted it loosed, so that it might sail out on the waters. This is true forgiveness,—"loose it," let the winds carry the offense out on the sea of oblivion to the uttermost coasts of the shore, from whence there is no returning wind to bring it back. The offense is gone from us and it is no longer held against our brother. But this is not all. Jesus said:

"Seven Times in a Day"

It may have seemed easy enough, by the grace of God, to forgive once, but how about oftener? "How oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven,"—practically no limit. Can I forgive until two, three, or even seven times, in one single day? Yes, "Thou shalt forgive him."

A tourist, on departing to see the Alps for the day, was told by the guide that, in order to get the scenery, it would be necessary to do "hand-and-knee-work." This almost caused the tourist to turn back, whereupon the guide exclaimed: "But what glorious scenes!" It may seem hard to forgive an erring brother seven times in a day, but what glorious scenes in the soul life of the saint, who has the grace of God thus to forgive! It is more to be desired than thrones and dominions, and the joy of it is known only to the possessor.

Again, how often we trespass against our Lord, and turn to him in penitence! He is ever gracious to forgive us. "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." We have been taught to pray: "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." So, then, to pray this prayer with an unforgiving spirit is to pray that our Father will not forgive us. Yes, we must possess the spirit of forgiveness, even if the offending one is not penitent enough to receive it. Read the parable of the debtor who was forgiven a large debt (Matt. 18), who, in turn, was not willing to forgive a small debt and was in judgment delivered "to the tormentors." "So likewise shall my heavenly Father do to you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother their trespasses." Is it too much to say that the gates of the eternal city stand closed to every one who will not so forgive?

"Increase Our Faith"

Is it any wonder that the "apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith"? His grace is sufficient to make this doctrine of forgiveness beautiful in our lives if we but have faith to receive it. May God grant it to each one of his saints!

Polo, Ill.

Queries for Annual Conference

1. From the General Mission Board

In view of the music interests of the church needing direction and development, rather than editorship, we therefore ask the Annual Conference of 1919 to appoint a committee of three to take charge of these interests, rather than an editor or committee appointed by our Board, as stated in the decision of Wichita Conference of 1917,—General Mission Board.

2. Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York

We, the District Mission Board of the District of Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York, of the Church of the Brethren, petition Annual Conference, through District Conference, to authorize the General Educational Board of the Church of the Brethren to raise funds, which may be loaned to approved young brethren and sisters who are preparing definitely to enter the work of the church,—said loan to be canceled after a period of satisfactory service. Details to be worked out by the General Educational Board of the Church of the Brethren.

3. Eastern Pennsylvania

The Spring Creek church asks Annual Meeting of 1919, through District Meeting of Eastern Pennsylvania, to authorize the committee on revision of Annual Meeting Minutes, to eliminate from the new book:

1. Minutes of a historical nature, e. g., Revised Minutes, page 186, Art. 5, 1891.

2. Minutes in which Conference made no ruling, but referred to some one of the various boards or committees, c. g., Appendix, page 61, Art. 10, 1906.

Answer by District Meeting: Request granted and the paper sent to Annual Meeting.

4. Second District of Virginia

1. Whereas the report of the committee on Fraternal Relations, adopted by the General Conference of 1916, when the committee was discontinued, provides that brotherly love should be cultivated between the Church of the Brethren and the (Progressive) Brethren and that effort should be made to bring the two bodies together into closer relations; and,

Whereas, The (Progressive) Brethren have maintained their Committee on Fraternal Relations, notwithstanding the discontinuance of the Church of the Brethren committee, which fact invites the consideration of close relations; and,

Whereas, It is the duty of the church to use all Gospel means to maintain unity against the sin of division, since the unity of the body of Christ is taught (1 Cor. 12: 12-14), and that believers should be one, even as the Father and Son are one (John 17: 11, 21, 22),

Therefore, we petition the General Conference, through District Meeting, to appoint a committee of three capable, faithful Brethren, whose duty shall be:

(1) To study more thoroughly the relations between the two bodies, and at the same time to labor to carry out the provisions of the report adopted in 1916.

(2) To assist our local congregations, in case there should be desire expressed by (Progressive) Brethren congregations to come as congregations and unite with the Church of the Brethren.

(3) To make full report annually to the General Conference.

2. In view of the urgent need of Christian work and workers in so many fields, challenging the best efforts on the part of our various church agencies,—the Sunday-school, our educational institutions, our missionary and evangelistic enterprises,—we, the Bridgewater church, through District Meeting, ask Annual Conference to give its earnest endorsement to the Forward Movement, and thus enable the various church boards to meet the enormous needs of the church and the world with a more generous spirit and in fuller measure.

5. Southwestern Kansas and Southeastern Colorado

1. The McPherson Church of the Brethren asks Annual Meeting, through District Meeting of Southwestern Kansas and Southeastern Colorado, to recommend that the pastoral year for the churches of the Brotherhood begin September 1.

Passed and sent to Annual Meeting.

2. We, the members of the Miami church, petition Annual Meeting of 1919, through District Meeting of Southwestern Kansas and Southeastern Colorado, to so change the present method of electing deacons and ministers that churches may elect their deacons and ministers by ballot.

Answer of District Meeting:

We decide that the ballot system be allowed, provided that the ballots are prepared in private and counted in private by brethren in charge of the election only.

Notes From Our Correspondents

"As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

ALABAMA

Fruitdale church held its semiannual love feast April 19, with about thirty members communing. Bro. W. E. White officiated. Other ministers present were Brethren Ralph White, Walter Redfoote and M. Wine. The following day, Bro. Ralph White preached to us. In the afternoon Bro. W. E. White gave a talk to the children which was very instructive.—J. Z. Jordan, Fruitdale, Ala., April 29.

CALIFORNIA

Reedley.—We met in council April 19. Five members were elected as a "Forward Movement" committee. Easter Sunday, Sister S. P. Noll's class of girls had charge of our opening exercises at Sunday-school. They gave a very interesting illustration on "The Bridge That Leads from Earth to Heaven." They also sang a special song and each offered a sentence prayer. Following this, Eld. S. F. Sanger gave a splendid Easter sermon. In the evening the Intermediate and Junior Christian Workers delivered an appropriate and interesting program, April 26 we met for our love feast. The first service was at 10 A. M., when Eld. M. H. Miller gave an excellent sermon on "Covered Sins." At noon we enjoyed an old-fashioned, sociable meal in the basement. The examination sermon was delivered by Bro. J. H. Stover, of Fresno. At this time also, Brother and Sister S. P. Noll were installed into the ministry. In the evening we had our communion service. Bro. P. E. Robertson, of Lindsay, was also one of the visiting ministers present. Bro. S. F. Sanger has been with us since April 20, each evening giving us sermons on Bible doctrine. The church is being strengthened and our faith is renewed by this sound teaching.—Mabel Armantrout, Reedley, Calif., April 29.

Santaa.—April 26 we enjoyed having with us Bro. J. B. Emmert, one of our missionaries in India, now on furlough, and Bro. Wm. E. Trostle, of San Gabriel. The former gave a fine lecture on the customs of India, the need of help and the work being done. A collection of $6.10 was taken for the India field. We decided to have Bro. G. H. Bashor, our elder, give us a series of talks, followed by a love feast June 22.—Anna R. Hyatt, Santaa, Calif., May 4.

CANADA

Redcliff.—The work at our mission is moving along very nicely. Several interruptions in church services on account of influenza somewhat discouraged the work but we are still having good attendance at our services. One brother was called higher; others have all recovered and we are very thankful. Several families have left town and gone back to their farms, to put in the crops. Two have been received into the church since our last report.—Catharine Hollinger, Redcliff, Alta., Can., May 5.

COLORADO

Bethany church met in council April 18, with Eld. H. F. Crist presiding. Officers were elected, with Bro. Crist, elder. Two letters were granted. Our Sunday-school is prospering, with Bro. J. E. Akers as superintendent. April 20 an offering was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief.—Eunice S. Akers, Limon, Colo., April 28.

Denver.—Our Gospel Workers' Sunday-school Class, composed of about thirty-five members, was recently organized for more systematic work. Our desire is to increase the class membership, to deepen interest in Bible study and to win souls. We have four committees, with a total of twenty members. A social and business meeting is held once each month, at which time programs are rendered, consisting of talks, special songs, debates, etc. Refreshments are served and a good, social evening is enjoyed by all. Our organized class of young people is doing splendid work. Our Sunday-school in general is continually increasing in number. We have a field ready for the harvest, an enthusiastic pastor and a wide-awake congregation. If any one is looking for a new location, a more pleasant and healthy climate can not be found. Farming advantages in this country are excellent, land is comparatively cheap and our market is the best. If more information is desired we would be glad to furnish it.—S. A. Miller, 109 S. Washington Street, Denver, Colo., May 7.

ILLINOIS

Coal Creek congregation met in council April 5. Three deacons were elected. Arrangements were made for our semiannual love feast, which was held April 26. Bro. Bucher and wife and Bro. Walters and wife, of Astoria, were with us at that time. The attendance was good. One has been received into the church through baptism since our last report. Our offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief was $300.—Susie Vanzyckle, Custer, Ill., May 4.

Girard.—Bro. D. W. Shock and family have now commenced their pastoral work at this place. May 4, after a few introductory remarks by Eld. W. H. Shull, Bro. Shock gave his first discourse. Good crowds were in attendance both morning and evening. Through sincere cooperation we hope to do our part in the great "Five-year Forward Movement." The Christian Workers' Society commemorated Easter Day by giving an Easter dawn "sing." Homes of the invalids and aged were visited. Our Children's Day will be held on the evening of May 23, at 8 o'clock. For the Armenian Relief Fund we raised $300, the church, Sunday-school and Sisters' Aid Society each contributing.—Ethel Harshberger, Girard, Ill., May 5.

Decatur was one of the several churches that enjoyed an inspiring program given by one of the Volunteer Mission Bands of Bethany Bible School. Bro. Floyd Ewing and Sister Mano Baker, of Bethany, and Sister Sadie Miller, on furlough from the India mission field, were with us April 26 and also the following Sunday morning. Bro. Ewing gave a convincing argument and drew some beautiful word pictures on the theme, "God's Triangle Completed." Sister Miller told of the good work being done in India and of the need of consecrated workers to give their all in the foreign field. She illustrated her lecture with picture slides of India life. Sister Baker gave two wonderful missionary readings, which filled us with a desire to be of service on the mission field. Three signified their intention of preparing for mission work and an offering was taken for the Volunteer Mission Movement. Our elder, Bro. J. W. Grater, has a class of about sixteen young people taking a course of mission study and to them the missionaries were quite an inspiration and help.—Rosa L. Etherton, Decatur, Ill., April 28.

Four Mile church met in council March 24, to make arrangements for the future pastoral work at this place. Our services, during the last few months, have been conducted by Bro. S. W. Payton, of Connersville, Ind., and Bro. Herschel Weaver, of West Manchester, Ohio. March 16 Bro. J. C. Flora, recently from Johnstown, Pa., preached. We held our regular quarterly council April 5. Eld. L. L. Teeter presided at each meeting. One letter was received and four were granted. We elected Silas Ohmit delegate to Annual Conference, with Sister Rose Druby, alternate. Our love feast was held April 19. Bro. S. W. Payton officiated. Eld. L. L. Teeter remained with us over Sunday and delivered the morning discourse. April 27 Bro. A. P. Musselman, of Batavia, Ill., preached both morning and evening. Our offering for Armenian-Syrian Relief was $365.45.—Edna Brower, Kitchel, Ind., April 30.

Milledgeville.—An all-day Township Sunday-school Convention was held in the Dutchtown church recently. We not only did we receive spiritual strength for greater work in our Sunday-school, but the social bond with our friends and neighbors was strengthened. The condition and needs of India were forcibly set before us very forcibly by the Mt. Morris Mission Band. Easter Sunday, Sadie Miller, from India, gave two splendid talks. These things are preparing us to do our part in the great "Forward Movement." April 19 four were received into church fellowship by baptism. The collection for Armenian Relief amounted to $547.28. Our communion will take place on the evening of May 25. We are already making preparation for the series of meetings, to be conducted by Bro. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., beginning June 22. Some splendid efforts have been put forth to beautify our church grounds.—Eva L. Whisler, Milledgeville, Ill., May 8.

INDIANA

Cart Creek church met in council May 1, with Elders E. S. Brubaker and Elsworth Weimer in charge. Two letters were received. Church officers were elected, with Bro. J. P. Wenger, clerk; Bro. M. D. Wenger, treasurer; Bro. Samuel Frantz, trustee; the writer, correspondent; Bro. Daniel Wenger, "Messenger" agent. The last-named brother was installed into the deacon's office. Our communion will be held Sept. 27, at 2 P. M. Bro. Daniel Wenger was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. J. P. Wenger, alternate.—Mahel Wenger, Marion, Ind., May 1.

English Prairie.—May 3 we held our love feast which was well attended. Bro. Swihart, of Elkhart, officiated and gave us two inspiring sermons, one on Saturday afternoon and one on Sunday morning. Our church raised $300 for Armenian Relief, our quota being but $250. April 27, we, with the five adjoining churches, Shipshewana, Middlebury, Pleasant Valley, Rock Run and Topeka, held our quarterly Christian Workers' and Sunday-school Meeting at this place, which was very well attended. Interesting subjects were discussed. At this meeting we collected $34 for the India sufferers.—Gertie McKenzie, Howe, Ind., May 8.

Lower Deer Creek church met in council May 3, with Eld. J. G. Stinebaugh presiding. Six letters were granted and two received. Sister Ella Dilling was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting, with Eld. J. G. Stinebaugh, alternate. We expect Bro. J. H. Fike, of Middlebury, to conduct our revival meeting, commencing about the middle of August. Our offering for the Armenians was $53.82.—Mary Dilling, Delphi, Ind., May 5.

Spring Creek church met in council May 8, with Eld. Geo. Mishler presiding. The reports of the annual visits were made. Two letters were received and five were granted. Our Children's Day will be held on the evening of June 29. We have decided to support a missionary on the foreign field. Our pastor, Bro. Moyne Landis, and wife, were ordained to the eldership. Bro. Loyan Landis will be our delegate to Annual Meeting. Our series of meetings is in progress now, with good attendance.—M. Amanda Rusher, Pierceton, Ind., May 5.

Tippecanoe.—For about six years our midweek prayer meeting services were held at the different homes of the community. In the hope of arousing greater interest, we concluded to use the Christian Worker Booklets and to meet each Sunday night at the church. We trust that the interest of this community may revive.—John H. Eberly, Pierceton, Ind., May 2.

IOWA

Beaver.—Our series of meetings is to begin soon, with Bro. Eikenberry, of Maxwell, Iowa, in charge. Our love feast will be held June 1, in the evening, but we will have an all-day meeting, the feast

(Continued on Page 317)

THE ROUND TABLE

A Child's Idea of Giving

BY JULIA GRAYDON

I WAS out collecting for our women's Welfare Work and in one home the small son and daughter of the house came into the parlor and entertained me while their mother was out of the room.

The little boy, about five years old, had a bag of crackers which he held tightly in one hand. Suddenly he turned to his sister, a sweet-looking child of about seven years, and, taking one cracker out of the bag, he said: "Here's one I don't want," and handed it to her.

She took it eagerly and exclaimed: "Oh, it's a bunny!" It was one of the animal crackers. The little girl was much pleased over the one cracker that her brother did not want.

How we show our characters, I thought to myself, even in our childhood! Then I thought of our gifts and especially of our gifts to our Lord who gave,—not what "he did not want," but of his very best for us.

"I gave my life for thee,
What hast thou given for me?"

Harrisburg, Pa.

"Sunshine Ward"

BY NETTIE C. WEYBRIGHT

IN a city hospital two of our young sisters were sick at the same time in the same ward. Without a doubt, they were fully as sick as others in the same institution, but their happy, sunny dispositions shone through their sickness. They appreciated the care of their doctors and nurses. They could not lessen their pain by complaining, so they smiled. Instead of talking of their sickness, they conversed on things worth while. Instead of remembering yesterday's suffering, they looked forward to "a better day tomorrow." They had little ones at home, about which they could have made themselves and others unhappy by worrying, but they trusted God to care for them in their absence as well as in their presence.

Their happy faces and pleasant ways were so noticeable in the hospital that they became proverbial. Their ward was called the "Sunshine Ward." It was known as such all over the hospital. A doctor told one of them he would like to have her go on his rounds with him, to help cheer up his gloomy, discouraged patients. Her answer was: "I have more important business." Others needed the sunshine she alone could bring them.

Habitual happiness is a powerful testimony to the world of the power of our Savior to sustain us even amid adversities. It is not an act of our physical mechanism, alone, nor a matter of mere will-power, but a heart at peace with God, and a life bent on doing God's will, that brings the smile and song and good cheer. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh."

Syracuse, Ind.

One Tongue

BY OMA KARN

THE REV. WILLIAM ARTHUR, in his excellent book, "The Tongue of Fire," relates the incident of a husband and wife driving together to market. Evidently the domestic relations between the two were not always of the most agreeable nature, for the wife remarked to the husband: "My dear, why can not we pull together as peaceably and as harmoniously as these two old horses do?" To this question the husband made prompt reply: "I will tell you why,—they have only one tongue between them."

The homely illustration contains a great truth. Too many tongues is the cause of much of the evil in the world today. The unrestrained liberty to which these many different tongues are privileged, is one of the greatest perils threatening the peace of the Christian church. The Apostle James, in his clear, practical way, plainly proves the truth of this statement; "Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth." One hour of work by an unbridled, malicious tongue will cause ruin that years of time will fail in restoring. It is a spreading conflagration,—one that does not stop with the place of its starting but reaches out, consuming as it goes, so long as there is anything on which to feed.

The one remedy against this wholesale devastating evil is the consecrated tongue,—the one tongue speaking one language only. Once let every individual adopt the use of the consecrated tongue, and there will be no further danger from disastrous conflagration. The consecrated tongue can not possibly speak anything to start a burning. It speaks only what is kind and just and loyal. It is formed of love and tipped with truth. It is fed and nourished by the Word of God, and therefore can not be guilty of anything unchristianlike in the way of conversation.

"Speak evil of no man," is a commandment that is sometimes hard to obey. But if the heart is pure, the words will not offend, for "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." To have the consecrated tongue, the heart must first be in a proper condition to furnish the qualifications that make it consecrated. A heart engaged in truly serving the Lord will have a oneness of purpose which can not fail to hold the tongue to silence. It is held by the restraining grace of God. Imagine the effect in general, should this restraining influence be more freely exercised among us! What a marked cessation of the endless war of words, the strife of tongues, and the fury of temper, marring the different phases of life today! Oh, for the consecrated tongue! It is possible to obtain. May we all strive to have it!

Ashland, Ohio.

Is This Your Kind of Prayer?

BY MARIE L. FABENS

"We beseech thee, O Lord, to send forth laborers into thy harvest. Amen."

MRS. JAMES, the chairman of the missionary meeting, rose from her knees and introduced the speaker of the afternoon, a slight young deaconess. The audience was the usual gathering of middle-aged women. A row of boys occupied the rear seats, bribed to come by the promise of refreshments which they were expected to serve. The deaconess spoke of China, the opportunities for service, and the lack of workers there. She had great magnetism, and every one listened attentively. The boys, before this, had hardly realized that the China of romance and the China of the missionaries were one and the same.

Missionaries were always entertained by Mrs. James. She was a widow with an only son,—one of the listeners. The boy, Caleb, was at the impressionable age. For years he had heard his mother pray for missions, but not until today had it entered into his head that these prayers might be answered through him. He was awake long that night, but when morning came his decision was made for China, although Caleb James, senior, had been an able lawyer, and his son was expected to succeed him.

Two years later, at the end of his Sophomore year, Caleb decided to tell his mother of his determination.

"Mother," said he, the first night of his vacation, "I have changed my plans; I hope to go to China as a missionary."

"Caleb," said his mother, "what has induced you to make this decision?"

"Do you remember the little deaconess who came here and told us of China?"

"Yes," said Mrs. James.

"Well, that day," continued Caleb, "I suddenly realized that your prayer might be answered by me; that, perhaps, you meant me."

"I did not," said Mrs. James, "and what is more I will not allow it. Your father would not have allowed it."

Caleb looked at her in amazement.

"Do you mean to say that you did not really pray those prayers, that you just said them because they were the things to say, and that you did not expect or want them to be answered?"

Mrs. James paused a moment before replying: "I certainly did want them to be answered, but not by you."

"You are willing, then," said Caleb, "that other mothers should sacrifice their sons and daughters but you, who have prayed for just this end, refuse to do your part. What were you praying for? Did you expect God to say: 'I will send laborers, but your son I will not take'? The one who prayed should be the first to make the sacrifice."

"If you persist in this foolish scheme, Caleb," said his mother, "I shall not give you one cent more of your father's money."

"Mother," said Caleb, "is there a God?"

"Of course."

"When you pray to him do you mean what you pray?"

There was no answer. Mrs. James had left the room.

Caleb spent another sleepless night. His faith in his mother was gone; his faith in his God, which he had learned from her, was gone.

At breakfast he said to his mother: "I have changed my mind. I will be a lawyer."

Mrs. James smiled, well pleased.

Salem, Mass.

The Fullness of Jesus

BY G. W. TUTTLE

THE evangelist says: "They did all eat and were filled." There is no emptiness when Jesus is the host. A hungry multitude! A wilderness-table! A satisfying Savior!. In this miracle of the loaves and fishes the Master might have miraculously multiplied the food just enough to take off the keen edge of hunger, so that none might faint by the way as they returned. That would have been a wonderful miracle, but it would not have been like our Master. When "his completeness flows about our incompleteness," there can be no emptiness, but we must stretch forth the arm of faith and take the satisfying portion. If there had been one hungry man among the thousands, who had refused to stretch forth his hand for the satisfying portion, he would have gone away hungry.

When Jesus was the host, the people were filled. When the Master healed, the healing was complete. When Jesus forgave sins, the soul was fully cleansed, and life became new. No sinners were half-forgiven; no half-healed were blind or crippled, no half-fed men were hungry when Jesus ministered. The seal of completeness,—of fullness,—was on all his works. "Incompleteness" can be written accusingly against much of our work, but over every earthly task of Jesus might be written those last luminous words of his own: "It is finished."

And shall we call ourselves followers of the Christ and give divided allegiance? Shall we offer half-hearted service? Shall we be content with half-finished tasks? Shall we say: "Master, thou didst give us fullness; we bring thee emptiness in return"? Will he write: "It is finished" against our task, or, "Alas, it was scarce begun"?

Slipshod Christian work,—unwilling service, half-hearted endeavor, giving the fag end of our time to God, taking hours for pleasure and then sandwiching in a few unwilling moments for God,—this is the highway of emptiness. The giving life, the responsive heart, the love that goes out to every needy soul,—love that would not only feed the body but would feed the soul with the Bread of Life, the life where the lure of the giving is ever stronger than the lure of the getting,—this is the highway of fullness. Here are the Master's footprints, for he walked this way.

Does not the Master long with unspeakable longing to have these words fulfilled in us: "And of his fullness have we all received, and grace for grace"? The shadows of half-finished tasks, of ill-done work, that so often mar our tasks, never fell upon the tasks of the Master.

Pasadena, Calif.

WHATEVER our place, allotted to us by Providence, that for us is the post of honor and duty. God estimates us, not by the position we are in, but by the way in which we fill it.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

MISSION WORK BY COLONIZATION

I was interested in the statement made by Secretary Lane, quoted in "Gospel Messenger" on page 169, issue of March 15, 1919, which reads as follows: "There is enough waste land, that ought to be producing, to make seven States the size of Virginia. Such an effort would provide work for all the unemployed and would mean farm-homes for thousands upon thousands of soldiers and others."

The writer addressed a letter,—in fact, several letters,—to Secretary Lane, asking for particulars, especially as to how private citizens could participate, and be able to secure farms under the bill as presented to Congress, and was advised: "Secretary Lane has received your letters, which I am asked to acknowledge. I note your interest in the Secretary's proposal for soldier settlements and your questions regarding the plans. These will be answered in part by the printed matter I am sending you, which discusses the proposal in some detail. Of course, you realize that the whole program awaits action by Congress, which has the last word not only as to details but whether the proposal be put into action at all."

What particularly interested me was, that the land in question,—now under consideration for these homes,—is located (so the printed matter states) in every State in the Union.

The Los Angeles papers this week published articles, stating that 36,000 soldier boys have made applications for these homes and published the list of 400 soldier boys whose homes, as shown by the list, are in Los Angeles.

Immediately after reading this list, the writer took the matter up with a member of Congress from Los Angeles, asking that he favor an amendment to the bill, now pending in Congress, that will permit private citizens to take up land on the same basis as the soldier boys. The object of this article is to suggest that the readers of the "Messenger" immediately write to Senators and Congressmen, asking them to favor or introduce an amendment, advocating the same thing. This will permit those of our people, who can never hope to get a farm otherwise, to secure one either in their home State, or in some State where they have relatives or friends.

Perhaps those of you who know me, will be surprised, when they read this, to find that the writer is not advocating "Mission Work by Colonization" for some particular State in the West. Geo. L. McDonaugh.

1109 S. Marguerita, Alhambra, Calif.

COLORADO'S NEW CHURCH

Fifty miles east of Pueblo, surrounded by one of the best agricultural sections of Colorado, is the growing town of Ordway. For about fifteen years we have had a meeting point in a country schoolhouse, three miles from town. Three years ago, Eld. A. G. Miller, of Darlow, Kans., moved into the community and took up the work. A number have been baptized and at present there are about twenty members. A new church is now under construction in town, and the District Mission Board is making arrangements to locate a pastor.

Any one desiring information about this new congregation and the opportunity for doing the Master's work, should write to Bro. A. G. Miller, Ordway, Colo. He will cheerfully answer all letters. David Hamm.

La Junta, Colo., April 25.

FROM DOUGLAS PARK MISSION, CHICAGO

The days and weeks of the winter, just past, have been busy ones at the Douglas Park Mission. Soon after our last report two more were received by baptism.

Aside from the regular services on Sunday,—Teachers' Meeting, Sunday-school, morning preaching, "Story Hour," Christian Workers, and evening sermon,—our home visitation groups conducted services in five or six homes of the neighborhood. These informal services were often marked by much warmth and power of the Spirit and elicited very earnest responses.

Through the generous offerings, both of money and clothing, from individuals and from Aid Societies and churches, we have been able to offer relief for the physical needs of many during the winter months. More than forty families are on our regular list for help. Some of the instances are touching indeed. In one basement home of three small, dark rooms lives a family of eight. Father and mother have both been sick for weeks, and none of the children are old enough to work. Examples could be multiplied. With the increasing difficulty of securing work and the prevalent high prices for provisions, suffering and need will continue to prevail.

Our Mothers' meetings, held every two weeks on Friday evenings, are proving of great interest and help. From fourteen to twenty mothers and daughters have attended.

A very impressive memorial service for Sister Montgomery, a faithful mother in Israel, who entered the beyond a year ago, was held on the evening of April 13. Bro. D. H. Keller brought to us strong lessons, appropriate to the occasion.

Our Sunday-school has continued to grow, in spite of much moving and an unusual amount of sickness. An Easter program, which was much appreciated, was given on Easter morning. An offering of $12.50 was given for Sister Garner's support in India and the famine relief there. Best of all, decisions were made for Christ, and several are now being taught, preparatory to baptism.

With the coming of spring our open-air meetings on the street have been resumed with unprecedented interest and attendance.

"Fresh-Air" time is approaching. We hope to be able to arrange for many of our children to spend a part of their vacation months in the country, in Christian homes, where their souls, as well as their bodies may grow. A widowed mother with four small children, who must go out to work, begs us to send her boys to the country, so they shall not become bad by reason of associations on the street and alley, while they are out of school. If any of you are moved to help in this great opportunity, will you write us?

We are looking forward to the spring love feast of the Chicago church, to be held here May 10. Mothers' Day will be observed May 11, at 10 A. M. Pray for the Lord's cause here! Marie Jasper.

1607 S. California Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Last Sunday we had possibly the best services ever held since starting the work in this city. The weather was ideal and our churchhouse was full to the door. Ninety per cent of our members were present as well as many strangers. The Sunday-school lesson was well taken care of by the teachers, and the offering was quite large. Our theme for the preaching period was: "The Five-year Forward Movement." We discussed the topics in the sequence of their appearance on the chart and in the Booklets sent out. The movement is an excellent thing and there is no doubt but that the wide-awake churches will enter into it with a strong determination and a mighty enthusiasm, and come out more than conquerors.

The Detroit church is determined to win out. The hearty acceptance of the plan is best explained by saying that in twenty minutes we had most of the money subscribed for the entire movement for the first year. This embraces our share for the raising of the $150,000 in the Annual Meeting offering, for the State District Mission Board, and for the additional $100,000, to be paid to the General Mission Board during the year. It also includes our share for the raising of $40,000 by the Sunday-schools, as well as our share from the Christian Workers' Meetings. We wound up the campaign with the best of feelings and every one determined to do his best.

Two weeks ago we baptized two fine young men. So we have already started on the necessary additions for the year. Our Sunday-school is growing nicely. There is no doubt but that we will far exceed the stipulated increase there.

We are planning to enlarge our churchhouse, so that it will be more commodious. If the present plan is carried out, it will have a seating capacity of from 250 to 300, with a gallery, thirteen Sunday-school rooms and a large room for the Sisters' Aid Society. The basement will be large enough for communion services, as well as council and other meetings. It will also be fitted and equipped so that the Chinese may use it for services.

We expect, sometime during the present year, to organize a Chinese church, as we already have the necessary number of members, and enough of them qualified, to effect a good organization. We also have a Chinese minister.

Detroit is a great and prosperous city, with more than 1,000,000 population and growing by leaps and bounds. The Housing Commission reports that we need 50,000 houses to take care of the present people and those coming in. We think that hundreds of our brethren and sisters could better their condition by coming here. All can get work at the highest wages paid anywhere. This is also a fine place to engage in business and make money.

Our love feast will be held May 18, beginning at 6 o'clock. The writer was chosen to represent the Detroit church as delegate to Annual Meeting. Jno. F. Dietz.

DISTRICT MEETING OF SOUTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA, NEW JERSEY AND EASTERN NEW YORK

The District Meeting of the above-named District met in the Bethany church, Philadelphia, Pa., on Thursday, April 24. There were delegates from fourteen congregations and two mission points,—the latter being the Italian mission, Brooklyn, N. Y., and the Wilmington mission, Wilmington, Del. There were thirty-two delegates, representing all the churches of the District. The work of the District is progressing, and encouraging reports were made by different officers and committees.

The District Mission Board made a few recommendations, one of which is that the District endorse the "Five-Year Forward Program," and the figures for this particular District would be as follows: 350 added annually to the churches by baptism; 7 aggressive, spiritual young men called to the ministry; $5,625 given to General Mission Board; two new missionaries sent to the foreign field in five years; $4,666 raised annually for the District Mission Board; every congregation organized for the greatest missionary efficiency.

The following petition goes to the Annual Conference: "We, the District Mission Board of the District of Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York, of the Church of the Brethren, petition Annual Conference, through District Conference, to authorize the General Educational Board of the Church of the Brethren to raise funds which may be loaned to approved

(Continued on Page 315)

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

How to Insure a Harvest

Psalm 126: 5, 6

For Week Beginning May 25, 1919

1. Introductory.—The thought of the inspired penman of this psalm is not of harvests on the hills of Judea. His mind rises to higher themes. His thoughts dwell upon fields where immortal sheaves are gleaned. It is a song of thanksgiving for Israel's return from captivity. Truly, the people had sown in tears! Hardship and unrewarded toil had been their lot. Now they were coming back home. The hill of Zion was precious to all of them. Joyously they were coming back, bringing their sheaves with them.

2. We Learn Wisdom by Misfortunes.—Our very tears water the soil out of which some of the rarest of life's blossoms spring. There sometimes comes to the soul a little cloud,—the shadow of some deep grief we have known. Yet we also see that, because of the cloud, the grass has grown greener, and the flowers seem brighter. The path out of the canyon becomes more attractive as we near the end of the trail, where the land of sunshine and home await us.

3. Sorrow Is Not Agreeable While Upon Us, But Beneficial Nevertheless.—There are few persons of mature years that have not felt at least some blessedness in the "afterward." It is not an hour of joy that we spend by the grave of a loved one, who has been snatched from us by the hand of the grim messenger. It is not an experience that we voluntarily choose. We prefer the path of joy and gladness. But the sowing has been ours. We have gone forth weeping. The seed has been precious and why should not the harvest be likewise? We have to bend low to gather the sheaves, and it is with sad hearts that we carry home the clustered memories. Though moistened with the crystal rain of tears, is there not, after all, a feeling of joy in the reaping? While you leaned upon the white marble, and wept for the days that will never come again, longing for the voice that will speak no more on earth, has there not come to you, at that hour, the comforting thought that you should look up and not down, and that in the home above there is prepared a resting-place, where just recently one from your home has found a safe refuge, where sickness and pain never come, and where there are no tears?

4. Our Joy in Anticipating the Lord's Reward.—As the years pass on, your heart is weaned more and more from the resting-place of your dead, and linked to the home beyond, where joy rules supreme, and where the weary toiler of earth is bountifully rewarded. With rapture you think of the sweet by-and-by. Hope takes on a thousand rosecate hues, and somehow you feel yourself just waiting at the outer gate for the time when it shall swing on its golden hinges, to usher you into the blessed fellowship of which you have been so long dreaming.

5. To Insure This Blissful and Hoped-for Harvest, We Must Sow the Seed.—The golden sheaves will not be our reward, if we have failed in the day of sowing. And remember, the sowing-time is today. By and by will come for us the glad day when God will call the sower and the reaper to the joys prepared for all those who love him. Then it will be light,—the dawning of the morning of our fondest dreams, our most eager hopes, and our most ecstatic faith. And we shall come up to the "Welcome" with our sheaves for the Husbandman. Let us serve him well in the days of sowing and reaping, and he will not fail us in the day of gathering in.

6. Suggestive References.—A harvest of blessings to the faithful (Psa. 32: 6, 7, 8, 10). "No want" to them that fear the Lord (Psa. 34: 9, 15, 17). Safety to those who trust the Lord (Psa. 37: 3, 4, 5, 9, 18, 23-29, 34). Cast thy burden on the Lord and be sustained (Psa. 50: 15). A harvest of Beatitude promises (Matt. 5: 3-12). Sowing to the Spirit brings a harvest of life everlasting (Gal. 6: 8, 9). God's grace within the heart, insures a harvest of salvation (Titus 2: 11-14).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, MAY 18

Sunday-school Lesson, The Grace of God.—Gen. 6: 8; Ex. 34: 6, 7; 2 Cor. 12: 9; Eph. 2: 4-10; Titus 2: 11-14.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Handicaps.—2 Cor. 12: 7-10.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. H. M. Mohler, of Sterling, Ill., in the Parsons church, Kans.

Bro. John R. Snyder, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, in the Plum Creek church, Pa.

Bro. Ray S. Wagoner, of East Enid, Okla., in the Elk City church, same State.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Five were baptized in the Annville church, Pa.

Four were recently baptized in the Milledgeville church, Ill.

Two have been received at the Douglas Park mission since the last report.

One has been received in the Muscatine church, Iowa, since the last report.

One has been baptized in the Jacobs Creek congregation, Pa., since the last report.

Three have been baptized in the First Church, Lebanon, Pa., since the last report.

Five have been baptized in the Woodworth church, Ohio, since the last report.

One has been baptized in the Coal Creek congregation, Ill., since the previous report.

Two have been received into the church at Redcliff, Alta., Can., since the last report.

One has been received by baptism in the Eagle Creek church, Ohio, since last heard from.

Twenty confessed Christ at Long Meadows, Md.,—Bro. Galen B. Royer, of Huntingdon, Pa., evangelist.

Eleven were baptized in the Pipe Creek church, Md.,—Brethren Wm. Kinsey and Oren Garner, evangelists.

Four were baptized in the Denton church, Md., the pastor,—Bro. Levi K. Ziegler, in charge of the meetings.

One was baptized in the Greenspring church, Ohio,—Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle, of Bellefontaine, same State, evangelist.

Two were added to the Sugar Hill church, Ohio,—Bro. Herschel Weaver, of West Manchester, same State, evangelist.

Seventeen were baptized in the Elizabethtown church, Pa.,—Bro. Frank Carper, of Palmyra, same State, evangelist.

Five were baptized in the Beans Chapel congregation, W. Va.,—Bro. J. F. Valentine, of Belington, same State, evangelist.

Six accepted Christ in the Polo church, Ill.,—Bro. P. B. Fitzwater, of Chicago, and Bro. G. L. Wine, pastor, evangelists.

Eight were baptized in the Baltimore, Woodberry church, Md.,—Brethren A. L. B. Martin and F. D. Anthony, evangelists.

Nine were baptized and one restored in the East Wichita church, Kans.,—Bro. A. G. Crosswhite, of Rocky Ford, Colo., evangelist.

Thirty-eight confessed Christ, sixteen of whom have been baptized in the Rockton church, Pa.,—Bro. H. A. Brubaker, of Akron, Ohio, evangelist.

Forty-nine were added to the church at Pyrmont, Ind., including those previously reported, forty-eight being baptized and one reclaimed,—Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe and wife, of Chicago, Ill., evangelists.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., to begin June 22 in the Milledgeville church, Ill.

Bro. O. E. Messamer, of Chicago, to begin June 15 in the East Nimishillen church, Ohio.

Bro. W. D. Keller, of Canton, Ohio, to begin May 18 in the Reading church, same State.

Bro. E. F. Caslow, of Grand Rapids, Mich., to begin May 18 in the Greene church, Iowa.

Bro. E. E. Eshelman, of Fostoria, Ohio, to begin June 15 in the Deshler church, same State.

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin June 15 in the Willow Creek church, S. Dak.

Bro. Calvin R. Wolfe, of Brandonville, W. Va., to begin May 25 in the Maple Glen church, Pa.

Bro. M. J. Brougher, of Greensburg, Pa., to begin Sept. 1 in the Maple Grove church, Md.

Bro. J. R. Smith, of Juniata, Nebr., to begin June 1 in the Silver Lake congregation, same State.

Bro. Obed Hamstead, of Oakland, Md., to begin the latter part of May in the Onego church, W. Va.

Bro. H. F. Richards, of Chicago, to begin about the middle of September in the Springfield church, Ohio.

Bro. D. L. Little, of Hanover, Pa., to begin May 18 in the Gettysburg house, Marshcreek congregation, same State.

Bro. J. H. Fike, of Middlebury, Ind., to begin about the middle of August in the Lower Deer Creek church, same State.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. D. G. Brubaker has moved from Nocona, Texas, to Taft, same State.

Bro. J. S. Masterson changes his address from Scottville, Mich., to Batavia, Ill.

Writing a Great Page in Our History of Giving

Conference Offering, $150,000

Next week the drive for $150,000 for Annual Conference World-Wide Missionary Offering in the Brotherhood will be reaching its climax. Never before has there been such a general response in our church to an offering as to this one. The pastors, in most Districts, have as their helpers in gathering the offering, special persons appointed for the task, and in many cases an active Local Missionary Committee. Organized Sunday-school classes, Sunday-schools, Christian Workers, Aid Societies,—all are cooperating in this great work of grace for the Lord's cause.

We shall, in this month, give our answer to the challenge of heathendom.

Most Districts of the Brotherhood have been organized for this drive with a District Chairman appointed through nine regional secretaries, and local chairmen in each church. Of course it has been impossible to get every single church organized in this way. Where this has not been done, the same material as has gone to local chairmen, has gone to the pastors or elders. Likewise material, to help the minister in his sermon, has been sent to each church.

In case our records are incomplete, and your church has been missed in this, rest assured it was unintentional. The mails miscarry, or our records may not be complete. But do your BEST,—not merely your bit,—and the credit will come to you and your church just the same.

We sincerely trust that you will labor with us in this, presenting the matter, or considering the matter, in the great proportions of need, immediacy and opportunity. We should like to see every District 100% efficient in churches contributing to the offering.

Liberty Bonds

A brother writes and asks: "Can you accept Liberty Bonds in the Conference offering? Some of our brethren can give considerably more, if you can." Most surely we can accept Liberty Bonds. Through them you have helped to free the world from autocracy. Now let us use them to free the world from the autocracy of sin. Send them in to us! We will put them to the Lord's use.

To the Isolated Ones

Once more we appeal to you, who are far away from your local church and are denied the privileges of frequent association with brethren and sisters. Will you not become sharers with us in sending the Gospel to a needy world, by sending in your offerings, either through your local church or direct to us?

Now, may we all work together in this supreme effort! Many young men of our land,—some of our own boys,—gave their lives in the great world conflict; we gave our money. Our missionaries are giving their all. Can we afford to deny them our fullest sympathy and cooperation?

May the Lord bless you in this great work which you are doing in these weeks, in behalf of missions!

Most fraternally,

GENERAL MISSION BOARD.

H. C. Early, Otho Winger, Chas. D. Bonsack, J. J. Yoder, A. P. Blough Southeastern Kansas is to be represented on the Winona Lake Standing Committee by Eld. D. P. Neher.

Bro. Roy E. Miller, who has been residing in Grand Rapids, Mich., should now be addressed at Onekama, same State.

Southern Ohio has selected Elders J. W. Fidler and D. M. Garver as its Standing Committee delegates for the coming Conference.

Eastern Pennsylvania has elected Elders J. H. Longenecker and S. H. Hertzler as its Standing Committee delegates at Winona Lake.

We are requested to say that Eld. J.H. Garst, of Sebring, Fla., and a member of the District Mission Board of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, is planning to attend the Winona Lake Conference, and would be pleased to confer, while there, with active and efficient mission workers, wishing to locate in the South as pastors on part or full support. There are openings in Florida and other parts of the South where the right kind of preachers can be used in the Lord's work to excellent advantage.

The Mission Rooms received word last week from Bro. John I. Kaylor, who is returning from India on furlough, that he hoped to reach America from Japan by the thirteenth of this month.

Bro. S. L. Cover, who has had charge of the church at Mt. Etna, Iowa, has removed to North Manchester, Ind., where he will attend school. He should be addressed at R. D. 1, Laketon, Ind.

We regret to learn that Bro. D. J. Lichty, our India missionary now on furlough, is not in good health. While he hopes to attend the Conference, he has asked that his place on the Standing Committee be filled by the alternate delegate, Bro. Jesse B. Emmert.

Writing from Port Said, under date of April 14, Bro. J. E. Miller says, among other things: "In the morning we start for Jerusalem. Run an hour and a quarter, then wait till eleven at night and get on without sleeper, to reach Jerusalem for breakfast if all goes well. . . . Bro. Culler may go to Aleppo from Jerusalem. . . . My places for work will doubtless be Sidon, Haifa, Beirut, Damascus and the environs of these places. . . . At Cairo we met Dr. Barton, the President of the Relief Committee. He gave us much information and helped us to readjust some of the work."

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

Sister Catharine Beery Van Dyke has a communication on page 316 that is of special interest to mothers and daughters who expect to attend the Winona Conference. Our sisters should be sure to give her communication careful consideration.

MISCELLANEOUS

The dedication of the Maple Glen church, Pa., is announced for May 25, Bro. Galen B. Royer, of Huntingdon, Pa., delivering the address for the occasion.

Our church at Detroit, Mich., has received into fellowship a number of Chinese, and hopes to organize them into a congregation some time during the present year.

The General Sunday School Board asks us to urge the Sunday-school officers to whom report blanks have been sent, to fill them out at once and mail them, as requested,—one copy to the District Secretary and one copy to the Board here at Elgin. Do not delay this, please. Do it NOW.

Next week the Relief and Reconstruction Committee will give a general report on the results of the recent campaign. The committee had intended to have the same ready for this issue but the labor involved was too great,—a fact which gives no grounds for discouragement, however. The report will be just as interesting next week as this.

Armenian Relief Workers.—A recent letter from the American Committee says: "We need men for relief distribution, men and women for orphanage and industrial relief work, and men for supervision of transportation, some stenographers and some business men." The Relief and Reconstruction Committee is ready to consider your applications.

Mount Morris College, we note, from a recent number of the "College Bulletin," is enlarging her Bible Department so as to provide the regular Seminary Course of three years, leading to the B. D. degree. This will require the addition of two members to the faculty. Bro. H. S. Randolph has been secured as one of these, and has already entered upon his work.

The Reading church, Ohio, has made arrangements by which each family of its members will receive a copy of the Conference Daily. Such a plan is a most excellent one. It puts each member in touch with the great gathering at Winona Lake, thus enabling them to gain at least some of the inspiration engendered by a representative assembly of the church's leaders. A good example to follow.

The American Committee for Relief in the Near East sends us the following: "A cable from Jerusalem, dated April 26, sends Easter greetings from the Sunday-school Commission to their friends in America. It is very gratifying indeed, to know that they were able to spend Easter Sunday in Jerusalem and will be able to proceed at once to the inspection of the relief work to which the Sunday-schools of America have been contributing so generously."

CONFERENCE DAILY SUNDAY

Bro. John R. Snyder, Bellefontaine, Ohio, who has charge of the Conference Daily this year, has suggested that Sunday, May 18, be made "Conference Daily Sunday" and that all elders, pastors, or those in charge of services on that day, announce the fact and invite all to subscribe for the Daily. Appoint some one to take charge of the subscriptions and send them in as soon as possible. Bro. Snyder guarantees prompt delivery of the papers if the mailing-list can be made practically complete before Conference begins. The price is 30 cents for single subscriptions, or 25 cents each in clubs of five or more. Don't forget to make the announcement on Sunday.

AROUND THE WORLD

Mexico to Oppose Wet Element

Reiterated statements concerning the contemplated move of the brewers and distillers of the United States, to transfer their establishments to Mexico, when prohibition takes effect here, has aroused opponents of alcoholic liquors in that country to active resistance. A determined propaganda has been started against the unwelcome intruders from the North. The National Board of Health, under the presideney of Dr. J. M. Rodriguez, has arranged for a campaign of tentative legislation against liquor. In the opinion of the Board, alcoholism is a national affliction which should be combated by every means authorized by the Constitution.

The World's Largest Gun Works

Those who had fondly hoped that, with the signing of the Peace Treaty and the eventual establishing of the League of Nations along safe and conservative lines, there would be at least a noticeable cessation of intense military activity, are doomed to considerable disappointment. Aecording to the recent announcement of Col. Mettler, of the Watervliet Arsenal, N. Y., the Government has authorized gigantic extension plans, which will convert the Gun Factory, opposite Troy, into the greatest plant of its kind in the world, not excepting that of the Krupps in Germany. The plans call for the expenditure of $14,000,000 and the purchase of thirty-five additional acres of ground in Watervliet. Militarism is still holding its own.

Child Labor Prevention

In order to enforce the provisions of the new revenue law, placing a heavy tax on child labor in industries, the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue is taking comprehensive measures. "Employment of one child for one day even, in conflict with the child labor tax provisions of the new revenue law," said Commissioner Roper, "will subject the employer's business to a tax of ten per cent of the net profits of the taxable year." This tax applies to mines and quarries where children of less than sixteen years are employed, and to factories and other industries where children less than fourteen years are actively engaged. The bureau is giving particular attention to States where adequate child labor laws do not exist,—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi and Texas.

When Spiritual Leaders Fail

Some reluctance is felt, at times, about entering the various countries of South America with Protestant missionary enterprises, because most sections are so fully covered by the Catholic hierarchy. On this point a recent statement by Dr. S. H. Chester, thoroughly conversant with actual conditions on the Southern continent, is most illuminating. He claims that the priests of Rome, in their make-up, are an explanation of all the corruption and superstition one finds in those countries. The relation of many of the priests to the people is similar to that of the Buddhist priesthood in China and Japan. In many sections the religious life of the people has degenerated to a mere form, wholly devoid of any real spiritual life. Those who should be leaders have failed to be real examples.

Great Suffering Among the Jews

No other body of people has suffered more, during the intense stress of war activities and the devastation resultant therefrom, than the Jews. Large finds have been raised throughout the United States for their special relief, but the amount thus secured has proved wholly inadequate. Hunger, disease, persecution and privation are levying a frightful toll on the Jews, according to latest reports by a Jewish Commission from the United States. They have found appalling conditions in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Greece, Serbia, Turkey, Syria, Palestine and Siberia. General disorganization, following the end of the war, is declared to have added to the war-time distress. Then, too, in many places there have been strong Anti-Semitie demonstrations, greatly aggravating the already critical situation.

The Peace Treaty

May 7 will be remembered among notable events of history as the date when conditions of peace were delivered to the representatives of the German republic. As might be expected, the document of about 80,000 words, with its stern and inexorable conditions, is likely to prove a bitter disappointment to the vanquished nation, but it should also be borne in mind that it does not wholly suit the representatives of some of the countries which had hoped to obtain more substantial gains by means of the peace covenant. Whether the close affiliation of the stipulations pertaining to the League of Nations, with those of the Peace Treaty, will he acceptable to the Senate, when presented for acceptance, remains to be seen. It is generally conceded that the Peace Treaty proper will pass our lawmakers without serious objections. It is altogether likely, however, that the various stipulations of the League of Nations covenant will be subjected to close scrutiny and possible improvements, in the interest of greater service to humanity in general.

Syria's Urgent Need of Clothing

According to a recent letter from Syria, received by the American Committee for Armeniah and Syrian Relief, the need of clothing is so great in that land that many people have to borrow garments before they ean appear on the street. Major James H. Nicol, at Beirut, writes: "When we came into Syria after the occupation, we found practically no clothing among the inhabitants of the Lebanon Mountains. In many cases women had to borrow clothing from each other, and this in spite of the committee's most strenuous endeavors to supply the most pressing needs. At least 500,000 additional garments should be distributed. This urgent need of clothing will be felt for some time yet. Very little cloth is available, and most of the people in the mountains have no means for the purchase of necessary supplies."

Mormon Sueeess in New York

With the recent dedication of the Brooklyn Chapel of the "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," Mormonism may be said to have gained an actual and potential foothold in the Empire State. Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, offered the dedieatory prayer and delivered the principal address on the occasion referred to. Future possibilities of the Mormon cult were dwelt upon in glowing terms. The Brooklyn congregation starts with 250 members, but there are seven smaller congregations in the State, aggregating 350 members. Mormon propaganda in the State of New York is thoroughly organized. Their workers get results, because they go about their proselyting activities in a systematic and efficient manner. Unless the Christian forces quickly hestir themselves, Mormonism will gain ground from which they will not readily be dislodged.

The Value of United Effort

Can there be aught but great possibilities when thirty-five thousand persons attentively read the same passage of Scripture on the same day, offering the same prayer, eherishing the same ideals, and then exemplifying them in daily life and business? Such a plan has been brought into effeetual operation by Christian leaders in Connecticut through the "Community Betterment Plan," sponsored by several religious organizations of New Haven. To promote a higher degree of personal spiritual life and better public order, the leaders of the movement realize that the fountains of spirituality must be kept full through daily contact with the Bible and the unseen world. To that end, definite material is provided through a series of community betterment booklets. Each of these contains a list of interesting daily Bible readings, as well as several prayers. Memory verses are also given from week to week.

Unealled-for Lawlessness

During the last thirty years, mobs in the United States have killed 3,224 persons,—2,834 of these living in the South. Colored people,—as might be surmised,—have been the chief sufferers of mob violence, which still persists in some communities of an otherwise civilized land. "Georgia heads the list with 386 victims," says the report, "followed closely by Mississippi with 373, Texas with 335, Louisiana with 313, Alabama with 276, Arkansas with 214, Tennessee with 196, Florida with 178, and Kentucky with 169." The North, with all its indignation against lynch law, is not wholly guiltless,—219 victims being charged to mob ruthlessness. President Wilson, some months ago, expressed the ardent hope that all lynching might cease during the progress of the war, but his request brought no appreciable diminution. During 1918 sixty-three negroes,—five of them women,—and four white men fell victims to lawlessness. None of those, guilty of these excesses, was convicted of his crime.

1,500,000 Slaves to the Drug Habit

We are told that native-born Americans possess less self-eontrol than foreigners in this country, so far as the use of narcotics is concerned. It is no matter for self-congratulation that of all white races, and indeed, of all races, except the yellow,—strongly given to the use of opium and hashish,—we are the greatest drug addicts in the world. All this is not a mere fancy of some one's unwarranted conception, but a fact established on the testimony of a competent committee appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury to make a national investigation of the drug habit. As a result of the revelations already made, it is quite likely that stringent measures will be added to the prohibition act, to discourage the use of all narcotic preparations. It has been found that in practically all of our cities liquor and drug habits are blighting their victims side by side. Taking Jacksonville, Fla., as an example, there are 800 victims of the drug habit in a population of 7,000. Registration being required in that city, the figures quoted may be regarded as being wholly dependable and indicating, measurably, the ratio of drug addicts in other cities. A conservative estimate places the total number of drug victims in the United States at 1,500,000, and possibly more. It is claimed that the unremitting energy of the American people and the consequent, intense nervous strain, have caused this demand for sedatives which, after all, are but a broken reed and even worse,—a real danger. Medical experts declare that millions are absolutely wasted each year for nostrums that purport to restore wrecked constitutions and shattered nerves,—the deluded victims being wholly oblivious of the fact that these noxious preparations rapidly undermine bodily strength and vigor. Mankind in general has yet to learn that restoration of jaded nerves depends upon rational ways of living rather than upon recourse to drugs.

Leprosy in South America

That the loathsome disease of leprosy is prevalent in many sections of South America, may not be generally known. We are assured, however, that many cases are found in Colombia, in Brazil, and in Argentina. The Mission to Lepers has already established stations in Dutch Guiana, and is anxious to do more, but is confronted by difficulties hard to overcome. The Protestant missionary bodies are comparatively few, and so far apart that definite organized effort is practically impossible for the present. In no other way have Christian missions shown their altruistic aims more fully than in earing for the loathsome lepers,—shunned and cast out by all save the amhassador of the Lord. He who ministers to the leper in his woeful plight, walks in the very footsteps of the "Man of Nazareth," who tenderly cared for even the vilest.

The Foolishness of Going to Law

More than fifteen years ago the pigs of a well-to-do Illinois farmer broke into the corn-field of a neighbor, doing much harm, as might readily be inferred. Heavy damages were asked hy the farmer whose corn had been invaded. The owner of the pigs refused to pay the amount asked, though quite willing to pay a reasonable sum. Right then and there a law-suit started that was continued from time to time for fifteen years, neither party being willing to give up. After both sides had paid out hundreds of dollars, they recently decided to settle the matter out of court,—the defendant paying the costs. The uselessness of a bitterly-contested law-suit was never illustrated more graphically. Had the two farmers confided their trouble to a level-headed board of arhitration, they might have saved time and money,—saying nothing of sparing ruffled feelings.

War's Effect on the Unborn Generations

We are well able to realize the loss of life during the progress of a sanguinary hattle. Not so easily do we realize another huge loss of life due to war,—the unborn. A writer in the "Yale Review" notes that in 1917 the hirths in England and Wales fell to the lowest level since 1858. Every day the war continued,—so a competent statistician estimated,—was a loss of 7,000 potential lives to the nations of warring Europe. The war not only filled the graves, but kept the cradles empty. The hirth rate dropped with frightful rapidity. These conditions will not readily be fully overcome,—in the opinion of the writer above quoted. "Life is cheap at present," he says, "but it will he dearer in the future, and we shall have to make it more worth living than ever before. Homes and home-life depend more than anything else upon satisfactory living conditions. That point should be kept in mind."

Constructive Efforts Must Win

A noted labor leader, convinced of the folly of strikes and lock-outs, recently exclaimed: "We shall progress hy the use of the machinery of representative government, or we shall not progress. To tear down is easy. Mere physical strength is required. Samson pulled down a great temple hy the effort of his arms. To build a temple requires great labor and skill." Ours has always been a nation of builders, and that, too, in the broadest sense of the term,—applicable alike to the industrial pursuits, the various domains of human progress, as well as the religious realm. From the very heginning, construction has heen the American aim and method. The people first huilt a government out of divided and often discordant States. New States and industrial communities were created out of the frontier wilderness and added to the already existing commonwealths. They built great cities, great industries. Most important of all, homes were huilt that, hy their cherished ideals, have become the very bulwark of the nation. Much credit is due to the early settlers of our land. They were men of visions,—greater possibilities. They had in mind a more aggressive and a more prosperous America,—a land of still better opportunities for the rising generation. It is not strange, therefore, that the American people, as time went on, found a vast field for their constructive energy in the improvement of social conditions. They hegan to build new conceptions of human rights in the social and industrial relations, and to provide appropriate safeguards. How true that American achievements are the results of using,—not of throwing away,—the only possible tools of progress!

HOME AND FAMILY

Kiss Him!

BY B. F. M. SOURS

Curly-headed little boy,
Tired of talk and tired of toy,
Upturned face, not clean, maybe,
Restless little fellow he;
Kiss the gathering tears away,
Let no rainfall spoil his day.

Do you know that just a kiss
In a weary world like this,
Given to a little child,
Thought to be so rough and wild,
May direct a lengthened life
From the paths of sin and strife?

See! the cunning little face
Looks at you with winsome grace;
Like a crocus in the snow
Does the brightness overflow
All the chill and gloom; and this
Is the harvest of a kiss!

Sunny-curled, with eyes of blue,
Heart of love, with spirit true,—
Don't say: "Red-head," don't say: "Bad,"
It would make the child's heart sad.
Love,—you can not love amiss,
Give the little one a kiss.

Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Alice Jane's Lesson

BY ELIZABETH ROSENBERGER BLOUGH

MOTHER'S spice cakes were always scalloped around the edge and most always had currants or raisins in them. Alice Jane thought she would rather have cloth-o'-gold cake; it wasn't scalloped but then it was as yellow as a dandelion. Only Alice Jane was not thinking much about the cake. Her thoughts were dwelling on the new tailored suit she wanted, and other things.

Mother was stirring the cake. She was large and cheerful and smiled a beautiful floury smile at Alice Jane. "I hope it'll be light and tasty," she said.

"Oh, no, it must be dark blue with some braid," answered Alice Jane earnestly. Then she added: "The suit, I mean. I want a dark blue tricotine."

Mother sighed. To think that only the suit would satisfy Alice Jane. Mother put the cloth-o'-gold cake in the oven with a heavy heart. The cake was light as a feather.

That evening mother talked to pa about it. "Seems as if them two and a half years at school have teetotally ruint Sis. She's plumb turned the house inside out. Nothin' here good enough for her. I never set out to keep up with the times. I know I couldn't do it, no more than they can make a churn dasher out of the north pole. For two weeks there ain't been a thing said or done in this house that ain't teched on that tailored suit in one way or another, an' she's mighty nigh quit speaking to the rest of us."

"'Tain't fair to Lemuel," father spoke slowly, as if he were thinking his way through this domestic problem. "Lem's a hard worker and he jest about would give the clothes off his back to Alice Jane. Lem's got to have his chanct at school, same as Sis. If I had more money I could git her all the frxin's she wants, and send Lem to school too,—but I hain't got it."

"It'll take mor'n a hundred dollars, for she's got to have a silk petticoat and silk stockings, and maybe ten dollar shoes for all I know. So does one thing call for another in this world of sin and woe, when you can't be satisfied. If we get a chill we're obliged to have a fever too."

But Alice Jane was not satisfied. She grew more sulky, more ill-natured and more determined than ever to have the new suit and other things. And because she acted so ugly about it, her parents felt as if she needed a lesson.

"She ought to learn to do without," said her mother, who was of a contented disposition. "I always said if I couldn't have butter, I'd eat gravy. An' if I couldn't have my rocking-chair, I'd be satisfied to set on a stool. It's powerful straight for settin'. Sis couldn't enjoy that frock now, noways. Things you have to fight for, leave a bad taste in the mouth."

Then the unexpected happened. Pa gave in. He got more for his corn and hay than he expected, so he gave Alice Jane one hundred dollars with which to buy clothes. Yes, the blue suit was a certainty now.

The blue suit, with all the fixings, was in a valise and Alice Jane was ready to go to Ferndale to a house party. Her mother begged her to wait. "The ford ain't safe since the rain."

Lem, the faithful and tried, had the horses hitched, so they started for the station. "She's whipped out the whole family and got her own way," her mother declared. Then, strangely enough, Alice Jane began to wonder whether it was worth it. For the first time she had no pleasure in her exploit.

They were off. Lem driving carefully, for the road was covered with water. At the ford Lem stopped. "It's not safe, Sis. I don't believe we should try to get across."

But Alice Jane was her own stubborn self once more. "You do as I tell you. Drive on. And whatever happens, keep that valisé from getting wet."

In a moment a number of things happened. The horses began to swim before they were ten feet from land. The water flowed over the wagon-bed. Lem was cutting the horses loose; then he held the valise on his head, while he tried to reach the opposite bank. The horses were swimming to shore, but Lem was losing out. He held on to the valise as he had been told, but he was carried along by the swirling waters. Then Alice Jane's voice reached him. "Drop that old valise and save yourself! Drop it. Do you hear?"

Knowing that only in this way could he save himself, Lemuel dropped the valise which went floating down the river, while Alice Jane watched his brave struggle to reach the opposite bank.

When Lem came to her, he said: "It's too bad for you to lose it after all." Then he had the surprise of his life. Alice Jane put her wet arms around his neck and began to cry.

"It never brought me the pleasure I expected and I wish you had the hundred dollars," she sobbed as she thought of her reckless waste of the money that would have given her self-sacrificing brother a chance to begin his course in school. It was the first time in weeks that she had spoken in her naturally affectionate way.

The mother said: "When you have to fight for a thing it's sure to be disappointing. What's good for us is always in reach."

Strange to say, Sis did not contradict her. She was so glad that they had escaped drowning, all her pride and discontent went floating with the valise down the river. She was happier than she had been for weeks. She would never again clamor for a suit or a dress as she had done. She mastered her lesson.

Sis had made the mistake of undervaluing her most precious things. She knew now that Lemuel's loving heart, and the sacrifice her parents were willing to make, were more precious than any tricotine suit of blue.

Johnstown, Pa.

Flowers for the Living

BY EDNA VIOLET KERR

In Three Parts.—Part Three

ONLY one look Sam Gallup had needed, at the figure before him, clothed in trailing white robes and a night cap set at a rakish angle on its head!

Only one fleeting glance had Sam given it and, dropping the baked ham he carried, he turned, his black face ashen and only the whites of his eyes visible, as he jumped over Varley Brockman who sat in his way. Then out of the door he flew and, ignoring the slow fifty-mile-an-hour car, was off down the road, leaving the astonished Brockman family petrified in their chairs, as Aunt Mary's voice came to them through the half-open door.

"What! Niggers in my house? Now you light right out of here! There's no money in this house anyway. If it's something to eat you want, you'll not get it either. You sneaking—" And Aunt Mary appeared at the door in nightgown and cap. At that the Brockmans began to bestir themselves! Flora and Varley were already at the outside door, while Mrs. Brockman could only scream, "Aunt Mary!" over and over again.

"Well, well, what's going on out here? First I find my house full of niggers and now it's Leonard Brockman's family, looking as if they were gone crazy! What makes you look like that?"

And Leonard Lee Brockman, the only brave one, whose hair even then was standing on end, and over whose spine rolled huge icicles, started to explain their presence.

"We have come to your funeral, Aunt Mary. You are dead, you know. Hadn't you better lie down?" he said, with chattering teeth. And it took a long time for Aunt Mary to convince them that she was not dead, but very much alive, and glad to see them. But not till she showed them her own telegram from Gibson Varley would they believe it was not she who had died: "Myra died last night. Funeral at ten Wednesday morning.—Gibson Varley."

Yes, it was plain now that a mistake had been made. Some one had juggled the letters to make "Myra" into "Mary" with the result that Sam Gallup and the Brockmans had had a ghost on their hands. Now Sam was gone, the gasoline supply was low and there would be no funeral that day for the Brockmans.

"And these wonderful, wonderful flowers! They are for Myra?" asked Aunt Mary, bewildered by the profusion of them and forgetting that she was supposed to be dead.

"No, Aunt Mary," spoke Ellen Brockman, "they are yours. Only we never expected that you would see them. We have neglected you so long and so terribly, and that was all we could do. Oh, Aunt Mary, I thought I could not bear it!" sobbed Ella Brockman. And the whole family wept in sympathy, while Aunt Mary for once had flowers, and yet more flowers, and her childish delight in them was a stinging reproach to the Brockmans.

It was a long while afterwards that Aunt Mary remembered her scant attire and happily slipped away to dress. Then all at once everybody became busy. Ella Brockman getting dinner,—funeral food is very festive,—Flora rearranging flowers that had been tied into funeral shapes, and placing them in water. Could she ever find vases, crocks and pails to hold them all? Varley Brockman started away in search of gasoline, and Leonard Lee Brockman, up at the Plummers', had, after much wild telephoning, located a breathless Sam Gallup miles up the road and still running until stopped by an accommodating farmer along the line.

"And come back here at once, and no more shenanigans! Understand?" exclained Mr. Brockman, after explanations of some length.

"Yas, suh,—no, suh,—yas, suh,—Mistah Brockman. Ah'll be theah suah, Mistah Brockman."

Then, up at Aunt Mary's, the funeral feast was ready, and Aunt Mary sat at the head of the table, wearing all the flowers she could possibly pin to the front of her dress,—very foolish for an old person,—and said grace, to which she added a long prayer of thankfulness for having restored to her, her loved ones, just as though it had been they who had been dead and not she!

"And to think, that all these flowers were for me! Why, I never dreamed that any one cared like that about me!" exclaimed Aunt Mary. "Poor Myra should have had some of these, but after all, she could not have seen them. I often wished I could have taken her some."

"Yes, and we should have taken you there with your flowers," said Ella Brockman, sorrowfully.

"But I'm sure Myra understands now. Maybe she often wondered about it, but I feel that she understands now," repeated Aunt Mary.

"Well, Aunt Mary, is there anything Sam and Varley and I could do for you this afternoon?" asked Leonard Brockman. "Don't be afraid to put us to work." But it was some time before he found what it was that Aunt Mary wanted most.

And that afternoon the borrowed Plummer wagon was used to haul Aunt Mary a great load of rich leaf mold from the woods, with promises of more and greater favors than mere loads of dirt. For now Aunt Mary was to have all the things that grief-stricken friends would fain press upon their beloved ones after they have suddenly slipped away, without guessing the love that was theirs.

But Aunt Mary was still here and living, and she had FLOWERS!

Ashland, Ohio.

EXCURSIONS IN BOOKLAND

"Studies in Doctrine and Devotion."—Fifty cents. Part I, Studies in Doctrine, D. W. Kurtz. Part II, Studies in Ordinances, S. S. Blough. Part III, Studies in Christian Living, C. C. Ellis.

The book of doctrine that dates back to the Conference of 1913 is now completed and published under the title: "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion." The issue of the book at this time is exceedingly fortunate, because of the way in which it fits in with the Sunday-school lessons of the second and third quarters of this year. It should be widely used as a reference book, and it is also particularly adapted for use as a textbook for class study.

"Studies in Doctrine and Devotion" is divided into three parts. A summary of the topics treated will still further emphasize the importance of the publication of the book at a time when it supplements the Sunday-school lessons. Part I covers the following subjects: "The Doctrine of God," "Man," "Sin," "Christ," "Salvation," "The Church," "The Holy Spirit," "Faith," "Christian Experience," "Future Things" and "The Scriptures." Part II treats of the ordinances under the following heads: "Baptism," "Laying on of Hands," "Feet-washing," "The Lord's Supper," "Communion," "Christian Salutation," "Reverence," "Anointing," "The Simple Life" and "Beginning the Christian Life." Part III is a study of the following topics: "Christian Living," "The Spiritual Life," "Christian Growth," "Bible Reading and Study," "Prayer and Worship," "Guidance," "Service," "Stewardship," "Self-Control," "Personal Purity," "Companionship," "Recreation," and "Loyalty."

While there is a special fitness in the use of "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion" in connection with the Sunday-school lessons, this fact in no way affects the permanent worth of the book. The original suggestion contemplated "a small book for converts, the object being to instruct and indoctrinate these converts in the principles and practice of true religion." But why stop with converts? It is true that every convert ought to be presented with a copy of this incxpensive book; and yet, the book is so packed with directions for true Christian living that most church members will profit by a reading of the volume. Thus, in a larger way, the issue of "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion" fits in with the Forward Movement program. It is a part of the broad plan to encourage a higher type of Christian living, and thus to lay the foundation of a real Forward Movement.

The three busy men who gave so generously of their time that "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion" might be written, and the Sunday School Board who planned and carried through the project, are to be congratulated upon the quality of the finished product. Of course, the book will not read like a story book, but it will do something vastly more important. "Studies in Doctrine and Devotion" will aid all those who read it carefully to grasp more perfectly the great doctrines of the Bible. It will show the reader something of the inner meaning and every-day helpfulness of the ordinances; finally, it will give a much needed knowledge of the great principles underlying real Christian living. H. A. B.

DISTRICT MEETING OF SOUTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA, NEW JERSEY AND EASTERN NEW YORK

(Continued from Page 311)

young brethren and sisters who are preparing definitely to enter the work of the church. Said loan to be cancelled after a period of satisfactory service. Details to be worked out by the General Educational Board of the Church of the Brethren. Respectfully submitted, J. C. Dettra, President, H. K. Garman, Secretary."

A specially-called meeting of the Sunday-School Association of the District had also a session during the District Meeting. They decided to establish a scholarship of $300 annually to help two young people through Juniata College, or some other approved school, in order to prepare them for the foreign mission field. Should they not go as missionaries, after their preparation, this help advanced is to be returned to the Sunday-School Association again, with interest.

There seemed to be a strong sentiment to help worthy young folks through school, which is, indeed, a noble spirit for any church District.

Pottstown, Pa. G. K. Walker, Writing Clerk.

SHEPHERD, MICHIGAN

Brother and Sister Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, came April 6 and conducted an excellent series of meetings of three weeks' duration, productive of much good. Much interest was manifested, although the attendance, at times, was not what we wished for. On Sundays the services usually brought a well-filled house.

Inasmuch as quite a number who attend our Sunday-school and church services are nonmembers, Bro. Rarick made an effort to put the doctrines of our church before the people. Many expressed their pleasure with this effort. Consecration services were held each evening just before the sermon.

At the close of the second week we were glad to see three little girls from the junior class of our Sunday-school and one from the adult class accept Christ. We all feel that the members have been much encouraged and that the good seed sown during these meetings is just the beginning of a still greater work for the Master. On the last day of our meetings, Bro. Rarick was ill, but Sister Rarick offered her services and presented the messages in an inspiring way. Nora Kindig.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA

On account of influenza, the District Meeting of Southern Virginia, to have been held Nov. 8, 1918, was deferred until April 18. April 15 the writer, in company with Bro. U. M. Reed, started for the Smith River church,—a distance of about thirty miles. The first evening we traveled about fifteen miles and spent the night in the hospitable home of Bro. Samuel Rakes. About 9 o'clock we resumed our journey, arriving about 1:30 P. M.

The time set for the organization was 3 P. M., but those coming by rail and in cars had not yet arrived, so we waited about two hours. By this time, fourteen elders had come together and the organization was effected by electing Eld. S. P. Reed, Moderator; Eld. H. J. Woodie, Reading Clerk, and the writer, Writing Clerk. Several committees were appointed, papers read and passed on to the open Conference. We then adjourned until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Others came late that evening and the next morning twenty-four elders and twenty-nine delegates were present, which constituted the official body. At 9 A. M., Friday, the Conference proper was opened. Some very interesting queries were brought before the Conference and discussed at some length. The meeting was much enhanced by the presence of Elders P. S. Miller and C. D. Hylton, of the First District of Virginia, and Brother and Sister Wampler, our China missionaries. The meeting closed at noon, when we bade farewell to each other and started for our homes.

Floyd, Va. Michael Reed.

SUSAN V. CRUMPACKER

Grandmother Crumpacker was born in Augusta County, Va., died April 18, 1919, aged eighty-one years, six months and ten days. She united with the church early in life and for the last nineteen years has made her home in the bounds of the Paint Creek church. She was the daughter of Jacob and Anna Sanger. In 1860 she married Jacob Crumpacker. Eight years later they moved to Illinois, then to Missouri and finally to Kansas. She and her husband served the church in the deacon's office for a number of years. Bro. Crumpacker died in 1900.

To this union were born eight sons, seven of whom survive, with twenty-eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. As a mother she wielded a mighty influence for the church. Five of her seven living sons have been called to the ministry, one of whom, Bro. Frank Crumpacker, is now on the foreign field. The other two sons are serving the church as deacons. Her desire and concern for her boys did not grow dim with age. Her presence in a congregation meant an inspiration to the speaker, for she was an exceptionally-interested listener and alive to the various activities of the church. The mission cause found a responsive chord in her heart and also her means. The aims of the Forward Movement would already be more than reached, if all of us were as willing to use our opportunities as she.

Services were conducted by the writer, assisted by Bro. T. A. Robinson, of Uniontown. Text, 2 Tim. 4:7, 8. Burial in the Marion cemetery, adjoining the Paint Creek church. J. A. Strohm.

Redfield, Kans.

DOES IT PAY TO HELP THE PREACHER?

God's Word says: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." We have no reason to doubt the statement,—in fact we have found it true occasionally. But if it is ALWAYS true, then the brethren and sisters of Brooklyn, Iowa, must be very blessed indeed!

On the morning of April 3 the members of the church, together with some of the neighbors, met at our home to spend the day. The brethren put in the time chopping down trees and hauling them in. There were ten working most of the day, so that by evening there was a large pile of wood ready to be sawed. The sisters brought well-filled baskets and at noon dinner was served in cafeteria style. Besides the dinner, they brought flour, sorghum, salt, potatoes, apples, canned beef, fruits and vegetables,—enough to last for many a day. Many of them brought chickens. We appreciated the supplies and the help, as well as the spirit of good-will, which prompted these acts of kindness.

During the course of the day, one brother made this remark: "We have found that it pays to help the preacher." Meditating upon this remark, we are made to wonder just how many of us have made this discovery. We were glad that he did not say: "Yes, we try to help the preacher. He usually has a pretty hard time of it, and needs a little help once in a while." And we are wondering if there might be any one to whom "helping the preacher" means just that. Why, bless you, dear reader, the minister does not desire help that bis life may be made easier. No one realizes, as does the minister, the magnitude of the work, and no one can realize as he does, how the support and encouragement of bis people make it possible for him to give himself more freely. The time that would be required to cut and haul ten loads of wood can now be used in the Lord's work.

Does it pay to help the preacher? If you have never tried it, it might prove an interesting experiment. May God bless the people of Brooklyn, who are standing by us so nobly, and may they never have cause to feel that it does not pay to help the preacher! Rose D. Fox.

Brooklyn, Iowa.

WEST DAYTON, OHIO

We met in council March 27. Brethren Warner, Hodgden and Wine were chosen delegates to District Meeting; Brother and Sister Warner, delegates to Annual Meeting.

These matters being disposed of, our attention was directed to the prospective revival, to be conducted by Bro. Geo. W. Flory. The entire congregation was organized into a band of workers, in order efficiently to carry on the meetings. Everyone showed a willingness to do his part.

Our revival closed with a great climactical sermon. Bro. Flory put forth his best efforts at West Dayton and, regardless of inclement weather, an intensely interested audience was present every night. We are sure that we had a great revival in spirit as well as in reclaiming souls for the Master. Prof. Yoder, of Philadelphia, led us in song. His thorough knowledge of music and his melodious voice charmed all, as he led the great audiences in inspirational singing.

The meeting was one of the most interesting ever held in the West Dayton church. Bro. Flory's well-chosen addresses were truly refreshing to the soul, and the church has been awakened to new ideas and a new vision. With our hope anchored in Christ, we hope to accomplish much for the Master.

We had a number of confessions. Ten have been baptized so far, with others still to come and a number reclaimed.

On Easter morning the young people magnified the Risen Lord by an impressive song service, led by Bro. Weimer, our song leader.

The young people are taking a greater interest in church affairs,—a sure sign of spiritual prosperity.

N. B. Wine.

SOUTHERN VIRGINIA

The various gatherings of the above-named District were held in Smith River congregation, April 16-18. This was the first time the District gatherings were ever held at this place. We were welcomed and cared for generously by the members and their friends.

The different speakers at the Temperance Meeting insisted that we aid the Government in securing the conviction of those who violate the prohibition laws, believing that if we make our State effectually dry, our influence will be beneficial to those States where the liquor traffic is more strongly entrenched.

In the Ministerial Meeting four elders were assigned to as many topics for discussion. "The Responsibilities and Duties of Elders" was discussed along the line of coöperation and association, especially where there are associate elders. The overseer will want to coöperate with his brethren in the eldership, and not lord it over God's heritage. "How Can We Best Keep Our Members Loyal to the Church," was a most important topic. The point was emphasized that as spiritual leaders we should be loyal ourselves, in order more impressively to teach the doctrine of loyalty. Create sentiment for the church and her work. Keep the members busy. When we call young men to the ministry, we should stand by them. It is important that more young men be called to the ministry, to fill up ranks that are being depleted. If possible, we must increase our force. If we are awake to our opportunities, we will know when we have material to fill this most important position.

The Missionary Meeting was splendid. It was urged that we catch our Lord's vision of the mission field of our District. Brother and Sister Wampler, returned missionaries from China, were present, and delivered much appreciated addresses. The latter is being supported by the Sunday-schools of this District, in connection with the Sunday-schools of the First District.

(Continued on Page 318)

NOTICE TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

The Committee on Arrangements has kindly assigned to our work at the Coming Conference the Westminster building on the hill, just south of the auditorium and near the college building. Our daily sessions will begin, if possible, on Wednesday at 4 P. M., and so continue each day for the week. It is desired that all former officers of the organization, and all interested in any particular way be present on Wednesday evening, to help in planning some details of the week's work.

On Sunday and on the last Wednesday the meetings will be for the public, when young men and women, as well as all parents, are most eordially invited to be present. Remember the time: 4 P. M. each day.

We are planning to carry on our Juvenile Department work again this year, where some competent mothers and some young girls will be given the care of the babies. Girls will be in charge of the three and four year olds, and we solicit the help of some good kindergartners for such of the children as belong to that class. This work will be in the same building and at the same time, and perhaps at another hour also, at which the mothers and daughters will meet.

Come with your children! Come with your friends and, above all, come with the love of God and humanity in your heart, and enjoy a part in this work of uplifting the home and sustaining its high mission.

Chicago, Ill. Catharine Beery Van Dyke.

PRE-COMMENCEMENT NOTES FROM McPHERSON COLLEGE

It is quite likely that there will be present, at our Commencement this year, a larger number than usual of the former students and alumni of the college. This is due to the fact that Annual Conference comes so soon after the close of school. We are glad to call the attention of our Western friends to the fact that by getting a rather early start to the Conference they may enjoy Commencement programs both at McPherson College and at Bethany Bible School.

At the last annual meeting of the Board of Trustees it was voted to erect a Science Hall at the approximate cost of $60,000. Further plans for this building are now maturing, the architect already being at work on the blue print. It has also become necessary to provide additional facilities in the way of rooms for the increasing number of students. To meet the growing demand, the trustees lately decided to build on the campus another dormitory, which will accommodate perhaps forty-five students, the intention being to provide quarters for several families. This building will be ready for occupancy by Sept. 15, next.

It is gratifying to the management to note that most of the students who are finishing courses are finding responsible positions awaiting them. This spring has witnessed an abnormal demand for teachers; insomuch that our department of education has been unable to present candidates to fill all the positions available.

Four members of the faculty will have the summer school in charge. Two members expect to pursue summer work in preparing their doctoral dissertations. Others will represent the college in field work. At the present time the prospects for students next year are exceptionally bright. E. L. Craik.

College Hill, McPherson, Kans., May 5.

MODEL ACCOMPANIED LECTURES ON THE JEWISH TABERNACLE

Several of our Northern Indiana churches, with some churches of other denominations in the city of South Bend, have had the benefit this spring of what is here announced.

Sister Cora Wise, of said city, has, with the coöperation of her large Sunday-school class of women, worked out the details and made an excellent model of the Jewish Tabernacle. In addition to a showing of the large model,—worth much in itself,—she speaks on points of interest connected therewith. What she has to say is best given in three lectures, but they are "boiled down" and presented in one when the circumstances admit of only one appearing.

The writer takes occasion to say that Sister Wise can and will be glad to serve others after Annual Conference. How would this be as a special program for your Christian Workers' Society? If interested, see her about it. Inquire for Sister Cora Wise in the Sunday-school Exhibit room, at Winona Lake. Ralph G. Rarick.

Covington, Ohio.

POLO, ILLINOIS

The Polo church enjoyed a series of splendid addresses given by Bro. P. B. Fitzwater, of the Moody Bible Institute, April 6-13, on "The Incarnation of God in Christ." Bro. G. L. Wine, our pastor, continued the meetings for two weeks. Six accepted Christ and were baptized.

We recently improved our audience room by redecorating and putting in a gallery, thereby increasing the seating capacity and giving us more Sunday-school room. Under our efficient superintendent, Sister Wine, the school is steadily progressing. At our recent County Convention, ours was one of the three "standardized" schools. This is the first time that we have attained this rank.

An Easter service, "The Pilgrim's Vision," was rendered by the young people, assisted by a chorus. A few Sundays ago we had a "Boys' Day." Every man and boy was to bring a boy. Some new pupils were secured in this way. Other ways to increase interest and attendance are being planned.

Much interest is being manifested in our song service. Special music is frequently rendered and our young people and children are being trained.

Bro. Wine is our delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Heckman, alternate. Our quota for Armenian-Syrian Relief is almost raised. We are preparing properly to observe Mothers' Day. Jane Stauffer.

SEBRING, FLORIDA

April 24 our members' meeting was held, with Bro. J. H. Garst presiding. Some good financial reports were made, and especially can this be said of the work done by the Sisters' Aid Society. During the winter, in various ways, and especially in piecing quilts and in making pine-needle baskets, the Society came into possession of $92.10. This was wisely disbursed and the sisters can feel that they have done a good work.

Using the money gathered at our morning offerings and at the Sunday-school, different sums were appropriated: Ten dollars went to the India sufferers; a like sum was set apart to aid in the education of a young minister; twice the amount was divided between the State District and our Sunday-school library. The Annual Meeting collection is to be remembered in a special offering.

At this meeting steps were taken to establish a Sunday school library, containing a collection of books suited to Sunday-school use and general reading. The idea is to have the library cover a wide range of reading. Any "Messenger" readers having books that they wish to have placed in this library, can send the same to the writer by parcel post, or otherwise, prepaid.

Bro. J. H. Garst will represent this congregation, as delegate at the Winona Lake Conference.

Several days after the close of this meeting, a gentleman who has spent several winters in Florida, came to us for baptism. He knew the Brethren in Pennsylvania years ago. Through the "Messenger" he got in touch with us, and it was a pleasure, after a little meeting in our chapel, to administer baptism. He is a man of more than ordinary modesty and a liberal giver. Even before his induction into Christ, he placed several hundred dollars where our Brethren can use it in carrying forward some lines of the Master's work. It was a case of bringing a splendid offering to the altar before baptism.

J. H. Moore.

DISTRICT SUNDAY-SCHOOL MEETING

April 24, at Bethany church, Philadelphia, a special session of the District Sunday-school Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York was held. After much interesting discussion the following decision was passed:

That the Sunday-schools of Southeastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Eastern New York establish two annual scholarships of $150 each at Juniata College, or such other school as the Association may sanction, to aid some brother or sister, educationally, for the foreign mission field,—the brother or sister to be approved by the Sunday-school Association of said District.

If the person so aided serves on the foreign field after his or her preparation, said scholarship, appropriated for this preparation, is to be considered a gift from the District. If, however, the person thus aided, does not go as a missionary, said money provided is to be returned to the Sunday-school Association of said District, with interest at 4%.

Many hopes were expressed that this might be an effective aid in securing more workers for the foreign field.

Norristown, Pa., April 28. Carrie W. Ellis.

DISTRICT MEETING OF EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The fifty-third regular District Meeting of Eastern Pennsylvania convened in the Spring Creek congregation, Lebanon County, Pa., April 30 and May 1. Every congregation in the District was represented by one or more delegates.

The following organization was effected: Bro. I. W. Taylor, Moderator; Bro. R. W. Schlosser, Writing Clerk; G. N. Falkenstein, Reading Clerk. The first day of the meeting was spent in several sessions of the elders of the District, in the organization, and in a very interesting missionary program in the evening. Bro. J. F. Graybill, of Sweden, spoke on the theme, "The Mind of Christ on Missions." He made a strong appeal that all appropriate, to their own lives, the characteristics of the Master, so as to be efficient workers in needy fields. Encouraging reports were given by the different representatives from our various mission points of the District.

The business session convened at half-past eight on Thursday morning. The devotional services were conducted by Bro. J. H. Cassady who is laboring in the State in the interests of the James Quinter Memorial Fund.

The various reports of our District organizations show intense zeal and devotion in the cause of the Master. The membership of the District of Eastern Pennsylvania is now over seven thousand. The contributions from the District have been generous, but are simply an indication of an awakened interest in suffering and sin-sick humanity, and a foregleam of still greater things that will be done.

Elizabethtown College, now the property of Eastern and Southern Pennsylvania, has entered upon its endowment campaign, and expects to raise $400,000. The congregations canvassed so far have reached their quota of forty dollars per member, and Spring Creek congregation has exceeded her quota by a thousand dollars. The imperative need of Christian education is being felt more and more, in view of present-day tendencies toward infidelity and materialism in many of our State institutions of learning.

One query was passed on to the Annual Conference.

The meeting was largely attended, in spite of the inclement weather. All who attended the meeting were filled with enthusiasm to labor for the best interests of the Kingdom. R. W. Schlosser, Writing Clerk.

Elizabethtown, Pa.

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The District Meeting of Western Pennsylvania was held in the Scalp Level church, April 21-23. A temperance program was given the first evening. Bro. A. U. Berkley, who was chairman, added much to the interest of the meeting. Helpful thoughts were given by Brethren C. W. Warstler, C. C. Sollenberger, Oran Fyock, D. R. Berkey and I. R. Pletcher. A special feature of the program was the singing of "A Saloonless Nation in 1920," by a chorus of some twenty voices from the Rummel church. Bro. A. G. Faust, of Rummel, a splendid leader of song, had charge of the chorus.

Tuesday morning and afternoon was devoted to the Elders' Meeting. Bro. M. Clyde Horst was Moderator; M. J. Brougher, Writing Clerk; E. M. Detwiler, Reading Clerk. Tuesday evening the District Mission Board had charge of the program. The five members of the Board constituted the speakers. Their names are: J. J. Shaffer, P. J. Blough, M. Clyde Horst, S. P. Early and H. B. Heisey. Five enthusiastic speeches, dealing with phases of the Five-year Forward Movement, were given.

Wednesday was District Meeting proper. A large amount of business was passed. The Old Folks' Home project took on very definite shape. Five trustees, empowered to incorporate, were chosen to establish and care for a home at Rummel, which shall be used for both aged ones and children. It was decided that each congregation's amount for District Missions should be at least fifty-two cents per member, and that, to secure this amount, weekly or monthly voluntary offerings be lifted for said cause. A ruling that no officer of District Meeting may succeed himself, was passed. Due to a new minute, the moderator for 1920 was elected. Bro. M. Clyde Horst was the one chosen. Two papers were sent to Annual Conference. Brethren E. M. Detwiler and H. B. Heisey were chosen to represent the District on Standing Committee. The officers in charge of the District Meeting were M. J. Brougher, Moderator; D. K. Clapper, Assistant Moderator; H. B. Heisey, Clerk; T. R. Coffman, Reading Clerk; A. S. Hoffman, Treasurer; Jerome E. Blough, Annual Meeting Treasurer for this District. After prayer by Eld. Solomon Bucklew, the meeting adjourned. There has been no call for the 1920 meeting as yet.

Rummel, Pa. H. B. Heisey.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Washington City church held its semiannual love feast on Sunday, April 27. The occasion was marked by the presence of the greatest number of communicants at the tables in the history of the church at Washington. That day was further notable in that the largest attendance at an ordinary Sunday-school session was recorded. At the close of the morning services two were baptized, one renewed her vows and two were received by letter.

Washington City responded readily to the call for relief funds. The quota assigned to us for relief work was $440. More than $1,100 has been given for various relief and missionary purposes since the beginning of the year. The amount given by the Sunday-school for the India Famine relief, which was $238, was reported several weeks ago. More recently $504 has been subscribed for French and Belgian orphans; $305 has been given for Armenian Relief; $41 was donated by a Sunday-school class for the Mary Quinter Hospital; and $25 was contributed to the fund for leper missions.

Our quota for the Conference offering is $330. A third of this has already been pledged by a few members, and all indications are that we shall "go over the top."

Even a casual look at our congregation reveals the fact that the large Sunday-school attendance, the additions to the membership in the course of the everyday worship and the amounts of money given, are a tangible evidence of an exceedingly vigorous growth.

May 5. Chas. E. Resser.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 309)

commencing about 7:30. The young people gave a fine program Easter Sunday at the evening meeting, followed by a sermon by Bro. Hoelle, our young minister. We took a collection for the Armenian cause. At our next business meeting we will take up the matter of redecorating the churchhouse.—Belle Ruth, Grand Junction, Iowa, May 5.

Dry Creek.—Feb. 16 and March 30 Bro. D. E. Miller, of Cedar Rapids, was present and delivered two fine sermons. April 13 Bro. M. W. Emmert, of Mt. Morris, spoke on the theme, "Definite Decision for Christ's Kingdom." April 18 we met in council, with Eld. S. B. Miller presiding. The church decided that the offerings of Easter Day be used for World-wide Missions. Our delegate to Annual Meeting is Bro. S. B. Miller, with Bro. A. W. Miller, alternate. Our love feast was appointed for June 14 and 15, with the thought of securing ministerial help of brethren on their way home from Annual Meeting. Easter morning we were pleased to have with us Sister Anna Hutchison, home on furlough from China. In her discourse she told of the great sacrifice of the early missionaries; then presented the need of today, closing with a plea for helpers to carry Christ's message of salvation to those who have not heard. Easter evening a joint program was rendered by our Sunday-school and Christian Workers.—Mrs. Jennie B. Miller, Robins, Iowa, April 25.

Franklin County.—April 13 our offering for Relief and Reconstruction Work amounted to $202.05. Then it was decided to give our Easter offering to the same cause. These two offerings, together with what has been reported previously, makes our total contribution $830.83. Our quota is $275. Our elder has placed our Annual Meeting offering goal at $500. Bro. Virgil C. Finnell came to us in a three-day Institute April 25, 26 and 27. His lectures were well attended and very much appreciated. On Sunday we had an all-day meeting, with a basket dinner at the church. Bro. Finnell's lectures are timely and practical, and our workers' conference is considering ways of placing both our Sunday-school and Christian Workers on a higher standard of efficiency. Our union Sunday-school rendered a very acceptable Easter program.—Harvey W. Allen, Dumont, Iowa, May 2.

Greene church reports a total offering of $938.15 for the Armenian sufferers. The Sunday-school has decided that an offering be lifted the first Sunday of each month to be sent to the support of a native worker on the India field. Bro. Virgil Finnell, District Sunday-school worker, gave three splendid lectures, April 22, 23 and 24. We are expecting Bro. P. H. Bowman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., with us in a series of meetings, beginning May 18, following our communion service Saturday evening, May 17. Mothers' Day will be observed next Sunday.—Elsie A. Pyle, Greene, Iowa, May 6.

KANSAS

Bloom church is beginning her revival campaign, with the pastor in charge. We expect Bro. O. H. Fetter to be with us May 11-18. Our correspondent, Sister Cassie Martin, is in the hospital, recovering from an operation. She is greatly missed from the varied activities in which she is usually so effecient. Our love feast will be held May 19.—J. S. Sherfy, Bloom, Kans., May 5.

East Wichita.—Our series of meetings, conducted by Bro. A. G. Crosswhite, of Roeky Ford, Colo., was very spiritual and edifying. Nine were baptized and one restored. We feel that much good was done in the three weeks' work. We will hold our love feast April 25, with Bro. Crosswhite officiating. About 100 members communed. East Wichita went "over the top" in the Armenian Drive, the total amount being $371.80. Bro. John Deeter, of McPherson, District Sunday-school secretary, recently gave us some very practical ideas to put into operation.—Grace Schul, Wichita, Kans., May 5.

Independence.—Easter Sunday was a day we all enjoyed. After a beautiful Sunday-school lesson, we had a fine sermon by Bro. John Denny on the subject, "A Risen Christ." That evening an Easter program was rendered by the Sunday-school scholars. May 4 Eld. Jas. Hardy and wife, from Bartlesville, Okla., were with us. Our home elder, Bro. W. H. Miller, organized the "Five-to-Forward Movement." Bro. John Denny and wife were called to the ministry and duly installed. Our love feast was held in the evening, with fifty-six present. Bro. Miller officiated, assisted by Bro. Hardy. We now have a Teacher-training class of twenty-five. Next Sunday we expect to observe Mothers' Day. May 17 the Gospel Team from McPherson will be with us. Our Christian Workers' Band has taken the "Story of Ida B. Ellis" and the India Mission field.—Pella Carson, Independence, Kans., May 6.

Larned City church met in council April 15, with Eld. E. S. Fox officiating. We decided to hold our love feast May 25. We received four letters. Two letters were granted. We elected Bro. E. S. Fox as our delegate to District Meeting. We collected $179 for the Armenion Relief Fund.—Mary Geiman, Larned, Kans., May 5.

Parsons.—Bro. H. M. Mohler, of Sterling, Ill., will assist us in a two weeks' series of meetings, to begin May 10 and to close with a love feast. Brethren John Campbell and S. S. Ames will represent the church at District Meeting; Sister Nettie Clark, the Sunday-school; Bro. Porter Amos, the Christian Workers. Bro. Frank is our delegate to Annual Conference.—Julia C. Jones, Parsons, Kans., May 1.

Washington Creek.—Since the influenza epidemic our services are revived. Sunday evening of May 4 Sister Lucy Shisler gave a talk about India, followed by a lecture on India. We gave $75 to Armenion Relief.—Mrs. Clyde E. Shively, Richland, Kans., May 5.

MARYLAND

Baltimore (Woodberry).—As a result of the three weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. A. L. B. Martin and our pastor, eight were received into the church through baptism. An interesting Easter program was rendered by the Sunday-school. April 27 was a joyous occasion, when about 120 communed. Bro. Martin officiated and a number of visiting brethren were also present. Our total amount for Armenian-Syrian Relief is $165.25. Two letters and membership were received May 4.—Flora A. H. Babylon, Baltimore, Md., May 7.

Denton church has enjoyed a week's revival meeting, conducted by our pastor, Bro. Levi K. Zeigler. Four of our Sunday-school scholars stood for Christ and were baptized. Our, communion was held May 4 and was largely attended,—about 150 communing. Visiting brethren officiating were S. F. Bowman, Bro. Hartzler and S. F. Raitigh. The Sunday-school had charge of the Christian Workers' Meeting for Easter Sunday and rendered an appropriate program.—Mrs. C. E. Deitz, Denton, Md., May 5.

Maple Grove.—April 27 Bro. A. C. Auvil, of Swanton, Md., preached for us and on Sunday morning, April 28, gave a leeture on the Armenian Relief. An offering of $139.29 was lifted for that purpose. In the afternoon, Bro. Auvil baptized at the Bethesda house. The offering there amounted to $6.43. Sept. 1st the Bro. W. J. Brumbaugh, of Greensburg, Pa., will begin a two weeks' series of meetings at Maple Grove, closing with a love feast Sept. 14.—E. Grace Yost, Grantsville, Md., May 3.

Pipe Creek.—April 9 we met for a Sunday-school business meeting and special prayer for our series of meetings. April 27 we closed a two weeks' series of meetings, consisting of Bible Institute and evangelistic services, conducted by the home ministers.—Bro. Wm. Kinsey, assisted by Bro. Oren Garner. The former's messages gave us a deeper vision of many texts and an inspiration for greater Bible study. Eleven were baptized. Our Teacher-training Class has completed the book, "Training the Sunday-school Teacher," and received their certificates. We organized a Christian Workers' Meeting, with the writer as president. We expect to hold a local Sunday-school Meeting at this place some time in June.—Carrie L. Garner, Union Bridge, Md., May 2.

Pine Creek church met in council May 4, with Eld. J. J. John presiding. A number of letters were granted and several received. The financial report of the church for the past year was given, showing a total of $1,800 raised for various purposes. The church decided to support a day-school at the present time are supporting one missionary and three native helpers in the foreign field. We also have raised about $800 for the Armenians. The church selected Eld. C. D. Bonsack as delegate to Annual Meeting, with Eld. D. E. Englar, alternate. We also elected two deacons,—Brethren Frank Shriver and Keener Bankard,—to be installed at some future time.—Ida M. Englar, Uniontown, Md., May 4.

MICHIGAN

Homestead.—Easter evening o large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the church to listen to a splendid program given by the Sunday-school. Our superintendent, Bro. Jos. Raichart, opened the services. The children appeared in recitations and dialogues and the choir rendered some fine songs. Our pastor, Bro. A. B. Hollinger, gave a short address.—Ray Sells, Benaonia, Mieb., May 4.

Marilla church met in council May 3, with Eld. J. Edson Ulery as moderator. Two letter were granted. The writer and Bro. Clark Williams were chosen as pastoral committee. Bro. Ulery was with us over Sunday and delivered two sermons, which we appreciated very much. Our next council will be Friday, June 28. We are greatly in need of a pastor. Any one wishing to change location, will please write the undersigned.—Beatrice Shideler, Marilla, Mich., May 4.

MISSOURI

Fairview congregation met for Sunday-school May 4. We had an interesting lesson on the creation and the work of man. Sister Dixie Robertson is the teacher of the Bible Class. We then organized a teacher-training class with an enrollment of twenty-seven. Nannie Letsinger was elected president and Sister Dixie Robertson, teacher. We decided to meet each Sunday at 3 P. M.—Belle Hylton, Mansfield, Mo., May 5.

Mound church met in council April 3, with Eld. Ira Witmore presiding. April 11 we held our love feast. Eld. G. W. Lentz, from Rich Hill, had charge of the services. Our Sisters' Aid Society was reorganized, with Sister Nannie Wagner, President, and Sister Ruth Enos, Secretary-treasurer. Our Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Meeting decided to save the money, ordinarily spent for rlings they could get along without. The collection amounted to $27, which went to the India sufferers. April 27 we took up a collection of $82.90 for Armenian Relief. We also took a collection for the China orphan whom the Christian Workers are supporting.—Mrs. Fern M. Wagner, Adrian, Mo., May 1.

Osceola church met in council April 19, with Eld. T. J. Simmons presiding. April 11 we held our love feast. Armenian-Syrian Relief Sunday-school is progressing nicely, with an average attendance of about thirty. We are very anxious for a revival meeting this fall, but so far we have been unable to secure an evangelist.—Mary K. Simmons, Osceola, Mo., May 3.

NEBRASKA

Octavia church will hold her spring love feast on Monday evening, May 26. Isolated members of the church are urged to be present and to those living away from the church we would say that, if notified, we will see that transportation and entertainment provided. —Elda Burkholder, Edholm, Nebr., May 3.

NEW YORK

Brooklyn Italian mission received one Italian brother by baptism on Easter Sunday. Each Friday a class of about fourteen Italian girls from Catholic homes meet to study the Book of Mark. The children enjoy their meeting very much. Sunday-school has been as many as sixty in the Sunday-school. Church services are held each Sunday evening. Brother and Sister Caruso attended the District Missionary Conference in Philadelphia.—Margaret Griffith, Brooklyn, N. Y., May 2.

NORTH DAKOTA

Kenmare church met in council March 28, with Eld. G. I. Michael presiding. Three letters were granted. We decided to have Bro. Geo. Studebaker come immediately after District Meeting, to give us two weeks of singing lessons, closing with a love feast. Easter Sunday our offering was a special one for Armenian Relief. "Who Is My Neighbor?" after which a collection of $161.86 was taken for the Armenian sufferers.—Elsie Larsen, Bowbells, N. Dak., April 22.

OHIO

Black River church met in council May 3. Eld. D. R. McFadden presided and was retained for another year. Two were received by letter. We expect to hold a series of meetings this spring, as soon as we can secure the services of Bro. Bagwell. Our love feast is to be held at the close of these meetings. Our apportionment for Armenian-Syrian Relief is $250. Sunday morning we had a call for our reports are not all in, we hope to add to this amount.—Mrs. Anna Nolt, Lodi, Ohio, May 5.

East Nimisbillen church met in council May 3, with our home ministers present as Eld. S. J. Shoemaker acting as moderator. We reelected Bro. H. Carper church trustee. Our delegate to Annual Meeting is Eld. S. S. Shoemaker, with Bro. E. W. Wolf, alternate. We decided to hold a love feast,—an all-day meeting, in connection with our regular meeting in June. We will hold this June 15, Bro. O. E. Messamer, of Bethany Bible School, evangelist. —A. J. Carper, Middlebranch, Ohio, May 7.

Ludlow church met in special council April 26, at the Pitsburg house, with Eld. W. Bell presiding. Elders Wm. Minnich, Peter A. Blessing and Wm. Royer were present. Two letters were received and six were granted. The amount of our apportionment for the Armenian-Syrian Relief was $250. April 27 our subscription list was solicited for that work. With what had been given by the Sunday-schools in January, the amount raised was $1,027.56. Our presiding elder offered his resignation. Eld. S. A. Blessing was chosen to finish the unexpired time.—Mrs. J. W. Eikenberry, Arcanum, Ohio, May 5.

Owl Creek church met in council, with Eld. G. S. Strausbaugh presiding. Arrangements were made for our love feast, preceded by a few meetings, beginning May 28, with Bro. Strausbaugh in charge. Two letters were granted and four received. Since the influenza epidemic, church services have been held every Sunday. As there are places near for Bible Study and Meeting, we decided, we decided to have preaching every two weeks and go to these other points to conduct services every other Sunday. Bro. G. S. Strausbaugh was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. J. H. Beehler, alternate. A number of church officers were elected. We decided to secure the services of Bro. Otho Winger at the earliest possible date. We also decided to hold a series of meetings some time after September. A collection was taken, signifying our desire to work with the Brotherhood in carrying out the "Five-year Forward Movement" as outlined. Sometime ago an offering of $75 was taken for the India sufferers. We have raised $200 for Armenian-Syrian Relief.—Zora Montgomery, Fredericktown, Ohio, May 7.

Potsdam.—May 4 we had the pleasure of having Brother and Sister Homer Bright with us. The latter gave an interesting talk on China and her needs. We welcome Brother and Sister Bright to West Virginia, who have lately moved into our midst.—Mary Weisenbarger, Laura, Ohio, May 5.

Prices Creek.—April 27 Bro. Norris, of North Manchester, Ind., closed a two weeks' series of meetings, giving us seventeen stirring sermons. We had large congregations and feel that much good will result. The membership was strengthened by Bro. Norris' work among us.—Alma Miller, Eldorado, Ohio, April 30.

Reading church met in council May 3, with Eld. A. I. Heestand as moderator. May 18 Bro. W. D. Keller, of Canton, Ohio, will begin a series of meetings, followed by a love feast June 1, at 6:30 P. M. Any one wishing to come by train, will please notify Bro. B. F. Roose, Homeworth, Ohio. Our quota for the Armenian-Syrian Relief is $405. Sunday morning we lifted an offering of $224.91; $60 has been sent in and the balance will be raised in the near future. We have recently organized a Sisters' Aid Society. Arrangements are being made for our District Meeting. Aug. 9 our next all-day council will be held. Sister Emma Rohrer and Bro. Sargent have visited us this spring. We have arranged to have the Conference daily paper sent to each home in our congregation. Our mission class is about to finish the first book.—Rena Heestand, Moultrie, Ohio, May 5.

Springfield church met in council May 3, with Eld. Adam H. Miller in charge. A report of the annual visit was given. A ministerial committee was appointed, a church trustee reelected and vacancies on various committees were filled. Bro. S. A. Kreiner was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Chas. Kurta, alternate. Delegates to the District Sunday-school Convention are one superintendents, Brethren Fred E. Young and I. R. Young. Bro. H. P. Richards, of Chicago, has been secured to condnet revival services for us after the middle of September. It was decided that the Springfield church entertain the evening Fourth of July meeting. Owing to rain, April 30, our communion was not so well attended as usual. Eld. Miller was with us, and Bro. O. P. Haines officiated. May 4 a memorial service was held at the home of Brother and Sister Wm. Etter, for their son, Clark, who was killed in action in France. Bro. Chas. Kurtz conducted the service. Our quota for Armenian Relief has been raised. We are adding to it by using the monthly missionary offerings.—Alice C. Munaw, Mogadore, Ohio, May 5.

Sugar Hill church met in council April 26, with Eld. J. Franklin Brubaker presiding. Five letters were read and one was granted. Reports on the annual visit were made. We have raised $200 for Armenian-Syrian Relief. We just closed a three weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Hershel Weaver. Two were added to the church,—one by baptism and one by former baptism. Bro. Weaver's sermons were a spiritual uplift. May 3 we held our love feast. Sunday morning Bro. Weaver held a Children's Meeting, which was followed by the regular meetings closed May 4.—Mary Bowser, West Alexandria, Ohio, May 6.

Woodworth church enjoyed a great spiritual blessing during the week beginning April 27, when Bro. F. Sargent, of Bethany Bible School, gave us three interesting lectures. Bro. D. W. McFadden, who is one of the committee of three, appointed by our District to perfect the organization of our church, was with us Tuesday. Thursday the other two members of the committee, Brethren W. D. Keller and Edw. Shepler, came. At our council meeting Bro. J. F. Kelsher was chosen elder for one year. Bro. Ed Arner was elected deacon. We also appointed our pastor, Bro. J. O. Byler, delegate to Annual Conference. Communion was held on Friday evening, with sixty-five present. Our church and Sunday-school work is progressing. Since our last report five have been baptized.—Ruth Garver, Poland, Ohio, May 8.

Wyoming.—Influenza has again been raging in this section, interfering with our services for a time. April 20 we again had services, when Bro. J. S. De Jean delivered an Easter sermon. April 27 our pastor, Eld. J. L. Guthrie, gave a forceful missionary address, setting forth the needs of Armenia and Syria. At the close of the service, an offering was taken for this work. Our quota was $66, but with what had previously been handed in, the total was $93.09. Two sermons have been arranged to present the Five-year Forward Movement,—one to be given May 4 and the other May 18. May 18 a missionary program will be given, and we hope to have our missionary secretary, Bro. W. D. Lundes, with us. Our love feast will be held May 31,—an all-day meeting.—Mary L. Cook, Nevada, Ohio, May 1.

OKLAHOMA

Red River church met in council April 24. Bro. Joseph Nill was elected elder; Sister Lizzie Hilbert, church clerk and treasurer. The writer, correspondent and "Messenger" agent.—Etta Nill, Frederick, Okla., May 5.

PENNSYLVANIA

Annville church had a very inspiring meeting April 13, when five were baptized. Our love feast was held April 26 and 27, with a good attendance. A number of visiting ministers were with us. Bro. W. K. Conner, of Harrisburg, Pa., officiated. We were also very much pleased to have Brother and Sister Ernest Lundquist, missionaries from Sweden, with us at that time. Our church is responding very well to the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Five letters have been received since our last report.—Fannie Kreider, Lebanon, Pa., April 30.

Elizabethtown.—Sister Ingeborg Lundquist and Sister J. E. Nill, returned missionaries from Sweden, were with us. The former preached both morning and evening. The following Monday he gave us a very interesting talk on the customs of Sweden. Our offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief is $1,038.50. Several Swedish-born young people were received into the church, all of whom stood for Christ during the late series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Frank Carper, of Palmyra. Bro. Jesse Ziegler, of Harrisburg, Pa., preached for us, using the Twenty-third Psalm as a basis for his discourse, which was an inspiration to all. In the evening the Volunteer Mission Band of our college rendered a fine program, instead of the regular preaching services.—S. P. Engle, Elizabethtown, Pa., May 5.

Lebanon (First Church).—One more was recently baptized, making three since the last report. We made an appeal in behalf of our work to the Elders' Meeting of Lancaster County, asking for the hope by next year to receive recognition as a congregation. We use the Brethren literature, preach Brethren doctrine and live Brethren lives; and we desire the prayers and help of the Brethren.—J. G. Francis, Lebanon, Pa., May 4.

Locust Grove church met in council April 30, with Bro. M. C. Horst presiding. It was decided to hold a series of meetings, beginning June 15 and closing with a love feast June 28. Beginning May 18, we will have preaching services every Sunday morning and every two weeks in the evening. April 27 an offering of $183.89 was raised for Armenian Relief.—Elizabeth Ribblett, Johnstown, Pa., May 5.

Maple Glen church met in council April 26, Bro. L. A. Peck presiding. The dedication of our remodeled church will be held May 25. Bro. Geo. B. Royer will be the dedicatory sermon. Our series of meetings, to be held by Bro. Calvin R. Wolfe, of Brandonville, W. Va., will follow the dedication and close with a love feast on June 8. —Mrs. P. S. Davis, Springs, Pa., May 7.

Plum Creek church beginning May 13, Bro. John R. Snyder will conduct evangelistic services at the Plum Creek church. Our love feast will be held May 25. We are planning for a children's service on Sunday morning, May 18. In the afternoon of May 4, a memorial service was held for Bro. Ellis Beachley, who was killed in France. Brethren Barney Miller and A. B. Replogle were our representatives at District Meeting. Our church has raised over $400 for Armenian Relief. Contributions are still coming in.—Mrs. A. B. Replogle, Shelocta, Pa., May 7.

Upper Conewago church met in council at the Mummert house May 3, preparatory to our love feast, to be held at this place May 17 and 18, with Eld. C. L. Baker presiding. Seven letters were received and four granted. We recently had our church duly incorporated; also the cemeteries of our congregation. The following offerings were made recently for Relief and Reconstruction work: East Berlin Sunday-school, $40; Conewago Sunday-school, $90.40, a total, with previous offering, of $1,013. An offering of $310 was given for our church home near Carlisle, as a donation.—Andrew Bowser, East Berlin, Pa., May 5.

Upper Cumberland church held her love feast May 3. Bro. G. N. Falkenstein, of Elizabethtown, and Bro. Miller, of Carlisle, were with us. Bro. Falkenstein preached on Sunday morning at Hunsdale and at the Brethren's Home in the afternoon. Our Christian Workers' Meeting is progressing very nicely. The attendance is good and the interest manifested is encouraging. Our collection for the Armenian sufferers at Huntsdale amounted to $1,538 and in the dia-

(Continued on Page 320)

SOUTHERN VIRGINIA

(Continued from Page 315)

The Sunday-School Meeting was interesting throughout. The main topic for discussion was: "The Possibilities of the Sunday-School." This was subdivided into four divisions: (1) "In Training Our Young People for Christian Service," (2) "In the Social Life," (3) "In Christian Educatioo," (4) "In Mission Work." These were ably discussed by one of our young superintendents, two of our elders, and by Bro. Wampler.

The day set for the elders to meet and organize being very rainy, only a few were present at the time appointed. Eld. S. P. Reed was chosen Moderator of the District Meeting; Eld. H. J. Woodie, Reading Clerk; Eld. Michael Reed, Writing Clerk. Several queries were presented to the meeting, which were disposed of unanimously. The writer was chosen Secretary of the program meetings, hence he gives this report. He was also chosen to represent this District on the Standing Committee, with Eld. H. J. Woodie as alternate.

Altogether the District gatheriogs were most enjoyable ones. We were well entertained and cared for. Large gatheriogs were present, and the discussions and deliberations manifested a fine spirit. Elders P. S. Miller and C. D. Hylton, of the First District, were present and rendered valuable assistance. As we were formerly one District, we are always glad to have the brethren with whom we were formerly associated, visit us in our aonual gatheriogs. They seem like homefolks. May the Lord graot that our District may be fully alive to her opportunity in the great Forward Movement for a greater Church of the Brethren in the world! L. A. Bowman.

Callaway, Va., April 23.

SPRING CREEK, PENNSYLVANIA

April 13 we were delighted to bave Eld. H. C. Early with us. He preached in the morniog at the Spring Creek house and in the evening at the Palmyra bouse. He delivered an inspiring sermon on "Seek for the Lost."

At Palmyra we have beeo enjoying mountain-top experiences,—feasting on good things. April 19 Bro. H. H. Nye, of Elizabethtown, preached on the theme "Keep Thyself Pure." On Sunday moroing following he spoke of the hope by the resurrectioo of Jesus Christ from the dead. Io the afternoon we had a semicenteoial talk by Eld. S. R. Zug, concerning the organization of the Spring Creek and Big Swatara congregations, fifty years ago last September.

In 1770 Spring Creek and Big Swatara were one organization,—thirty-nine members in all. In 1763 George Balshaugh was baptized, and some time after that he moved two miles east of Hanoverdale. Some years later his son, Valentine, took the farm and was called to the ministry. He held meetings in barns and houses. In 1865 Bro. S. R. Zug was elected to the ministry. The following year the first District Meetiog was held in the Tulpehocken congregation. Bro. Zug was present. He has attended every District Meetiog sioce theo. In 1868 the congregation was divided. Bro. Zug was present at that meeting. They took the Swatara Creek as the dividing line. Bro. Wm. Hertzler was elected elder for Spring Creek, Bro. John Etter for the Big Swatara. Bro. Zug also spoke about some of the hardships they had to endure at that time, how they traveled long distances oo horseback and on foot to hold meetings. At that time there were no colleges or Sunday-schools. In 1876 the first Sunday-school was organized in the Hanoverdale congregation. Bro. John Witmer was the first superintendent.

Bro. Zug is in his eighty-eighth year. His health is good and bis mind serves him well. He attended forty-five Annual Meetings. His talk was very much appreciated by all who heard it. The above-mentioned George Balshaugh was a grandfather of Bro. C. H. Balsbaugh, and a great-great-grandfather of the writer.

In the evening the children gave an Easter program, which was well reodered and enjoyed by all. Following this, Bro. H. H. Nye continued the Easter story and made it very interesting for the children. The meetings were well attended and we hope that many good results may follow.

April 21 we met in council at Palmyra, with Elders John H. Witmer and Samuel Hertzler in charge of the meeting. Ao election was beld for a minister. The lot fell on Bro. Benj. W. Ebersole. One member was reclaimed.

Elizabeth Blauch.

Palmyra, Pa., April 23.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Sunday-school Convention at the Fairview church, Douglas County, Mo., was well attended and was one to be remembered. April 20 we met for Sunday-school. After an interesting lesson, a collection of $22 was raised for Armenian-Syrian Relief, which makes $45, in all, for the month of April.

The program consisted of discussions of Sunday-school work. After dinner we assembled to finish the program. Quite a few members from adjoining churches were present. Bro. A. W. Adkins, of Osceola, Mo., District Secretary, was with us. At 7:30 we met for a missionary program. The Sunday-school scholars gave a program of music and recitations which was very interesting. Bro. F. E. Miller, of Enders, Nebr., preached an inspiring missionary sermon, after which a collection of $11 was taken for the missions of Southern Missouri.

We have decided to take up the work of the Teacher-training Course and hope to make a success of it. We also plan on taking up the cradle roll work. We have one organized class. Belle Hylton.

Mansfield, Mo., April 25.

WHY NOT AN AID SOCIETY "FORWARD MOVEMENT"?

The District Meeting of Northeastern Kansas was held at Ozawkie in April. The Aid Society work of this District was organized at the meeting the year previous. We find, by looking at the reports in the Program Booklet, that there are some banner Aid Societies.

Richland Center comes first in the raising of funds, with $488.27. Washington Creek comes second, and Sahetha, third, each having raised over $200. In average attendance, Richland Center, Ottawa and Rock Creek lead. Sahetha Aid Society gave the most to benevolences. The Olathe Aid Society has sent a check for Child Rescue Work about every quarter during the past two years. Since the last District Meeting, other societies also are helping in the Orphanage work.

Several churches have lately organized Aid Societies and we feel that our District is now a vital part of the great number of busy sisters and that we belong to the big Aid Society of our Conference.

Sister Emma Devilbiss, Ottawa, Kans., is the President, and Sister Sue Saylor, Ramona, Kans., is our Secretary-Treasurer. Why may we not be included in the "Forward Movement," along with the program for the Sunday-school, the Christian Workers, Educational work, periodicals and missions? Mrs. E. F. Sherfy, Retiring President of Northeastern District of Kansas.

McPherson, Kans.

IN MEMORY OF SISTERS MABEL WEAVER AND LULU STUNTZ

Like many other churches the Bremen congregation, Bremen, Ind., gave her quota to the dread disease—influenza,—during the scourge of this past winter. The two named above were among the most active in the church.

Sister Mabel Weaver, wife of Bro. Wm. Weaver, died Dec. 9, 1918, aged thirty-three years, nine months and sixteen days. She was the oldest child of Friend George and Sister Elizabeth Stuntz. In 1904 she married Bro. Wm. Weaver. To them were born five children, three of whom died in infancy.

She united with the church in 1904 and two years later, together with her husband, was called to the office of deacon. In her work for the church she served faithfully, especially as a teacher in the Sunday-school. Her Christian life and teaching wielded a large influence in the community, and though only in the prime of life, she was an example to the young. She leaves her husband, one daughter, a son, her father, mother, three brothers and two sisters.

Sister Lulu Stuntz, sister-in-law of the above-named, and daughter of Brother and Sister Levi Bollman, died Dec. 14, 1918, aged twenty-one years, three months and seventeen days. She was baptized on Easter Sunday, of 1908, when only ten years of age. Her life in the church was one of usefulness and inspiration to all who knew her. She was a teacher of the Sunday-school for several years.

In 1916 she married Bro. Sheron Stuntz. Since their marriage they have worked together in the deacon's office. She leaves her husband, father, mother, brothers and one sister.

All who knew these two sisters join in testifying to their beautiful Christian character, and their unreserved consecration to their Master. Each of them called for the anointing oil.

On account of illness in both families, private services were held and public memorial services April 6. The services were conducted by the writer, Text, Mark 14:8. Chas. C. Cripe.

Bremen, Ind.

DEATH OF BRO. D. H. MILLER

Bro. Daniel H. Miller, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., who died April 12, 1919, was the son of Joseph Miller, of Carlisle Springs, and was born June 3, 1843. His education was limited to that afforded by the District school, which was supplemented by the experiences of an active business life. At the age of twenty-five he was married to Elizabeth Grove. To them were born five sons,—William H., of Carlisle, Pa., Ira G. (now deceased), John A., of Tipton, Iowa, Daniel E., of Washington, D. C., and Harvey B., of Elgin, Ill.

He united with the Brethren church in 1869, having been baptized by Eld. Daniel Eekerman. The same year he was married, he began in business at what was then known as "Red Barn," near Shippensburg, Pa. He succeeded in building up a profitable grain business, also selling coal, lumber, etc. Later he built a grain elevator at Camp Siding. At the latter place he continued for a period of about twenty-seven years. He also was in partnership, for a time, with his brother, H. K. Miller, at Huntsdale, Pa., and John A. Miller, at Oakville, Pa., in the grain business.

His second marriage was to Leah T. Condry, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., to which union was born one daughter, Rhoda E. Miller.

After retiring from business, he moved to Elizabethtown, Pa., and later to Mechanicsburg, at which place he resided at the time of his death.

He served in the deacon's office for approximately fifty years, and three of the sons are also deacons in the Brethren church. He was a great-grandson of Eld. George Miller, of the Big Swatara congregation, Pa., tracing his ancestry in an unbroken line back to Switzerland, in 1740. He was a consistent member of the church, and always manifested the deepest interest, not only in the work of the local congregation but the General Brotherhood. During the later years he endeavored to attend the Annual Conferences whenever possible.

His death occurred after an illness of about two years, during which time he sustained several paralytic strokes. Services by Eld. William Murphy and Eld. S. M. Stouffer. Interment at the Huntsdale church. At his request, made many years before his death, his four surviving sons acted as pallbearers. The texts used by those in charge of the services were Job 14: 10 and 1 Thess. 4: 14. He is survived by the children above named, also the two brothers referred to, and one sister, Mrs. J. S. Gabel, of Lincoln, Nebr., as well as his wife, Mrs. Leah T. Miller. D. E. Miller.

Washington, D. C.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

ANKENYTOWN, OHIO.—Report of the Sisters' Aid Society of the Owl Creek church for the first quarter of 1919: Six meetings were held, with an average attendance of nine. We made 5 comforts, 1 quilt, 10 aprons and several sunbonnets. Balance of money on hand, Jan. 1, 1919, $55.29; sale lunch, $20.34; for comforters, quilt and aprons, $15.75; birthday offerings, $3.33; dues, $11.16. Paid out for material, $20.91; India Mission, $25; to Armenian Fund, $20; to Bethany Bible School, $10; to Manchester Mission Chapel, $10; to India Famine Fund, $10; balance, $9.94. Funds received from the sale of eggs, gathered on Easter Sunday and Monday, amounted to $58.46, which will go to the Annual Missionary offering at Conference. In our yearly report we failed to mention the $10 we gave to the Red Cross and $25 to Manchester College Endowment.—Della Leonard, Fredericktown, Ohio, April 30.

PARSONS, KANS.—Report of Doreas Society from June 1, 1918, to May 1, 1919: We held 40 all-day meetings, with an average attendance of 8. Our work consisted principally of quilting. We made 15 quilts, 3 comforts and 44 prayer-coverings. We gave $10 to Mary Quinter Memorial Fund; $10 to Red Cross; $10 to a worthy family; $5 for "Messenger" to different individuals; $10 to Old Folks' Home; $30 for Reconstruction Work. We served lunch at two sales and had one food exchange. We earned during the year $146.98; disbursements, $90.63; balance, $54.35.—Mrs. A. J. Murray, President; Julia Cornelius Jones, Secretary-Treasurer, Parsons, Kans., May 1.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Mathis-Burton.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's mother, of Slater, Iowa, March 26, 1919, Bro. Jefferson Mathis, of Ankeny, Iowa, and Sister Corda Burton, of Slater, Iowa.—J. F. Burton, Ankeny, Iowa.

Moon-Bates.—At the home of the undersigned, April 19, 1919, Mr. Howard Moon and Sister Iva Bates, both of North Liberty.—H. B. Dickey, North Liberty, Ill.

Rummel-Reger.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride, near Johnstown, Pa., April 20, 1919, Bro. Arthur L. Rummel and Geraldine Reger, both of Johnstown, Pa.—Wm. H. Rummel, Johnstown, Pa.

Warner-Hoke.—At the bride's home, in Abbottstown, Pa., April 26, 1919, by the undersigned, grandfather of the bride, Mr. William L. Warner, of Midway, Hanover, Pa., and Miss S. Lydia Hoke.—David H. Baker, Abbottstown, Pa.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which din in the Lord"

Ambroso, Daniel, born June 12, 1835, in Frederick County, Md., died at his home in Polo, Ill., March 31, 1919. He was married to Emaline Traverse Oct. 12, 1860, to which union one son and one daughter were born. Bro. Ambrosc was a member of the church for about thirty-eight years and lived a consistent life. Services by the writer and Bro. Wm. Lampin.—G. L. Wine, Polo, Ill.

Blosser, Bro. Isaac, born in Perry County, Ohio, died at his home, near Bronson, Mich., April 23, 1919, aged 82 years, 5 months and 1 day. He enlisted in 1862 and served till the close of the Civil War. In the fall of 1865 he married Emily O'Hare. To them were born three sons and one daughter. He is survived by one son, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. His wife preceded him three years ago. He was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for thirty-five years. Services by the writer at the Mennonite church near Bronson.—J. H. Fike, Middlebury, Ind.

Boek, Susanna, born in Montgomery County, Ohio, died April 25, 1919, aged 82 years, 6 months and 13 days. She married Daniel Bock in 1855. To this union seven children were born, five of whom survive, together with the father. Services at the home and in the Howard church, of which she was a member for twenty years, by Bro. Frank Fisher, assisted by Bro. Geo. Cripe. Text, Hos. 14:7.9.—Anna Davis, Kokomo, Ind.

Bouser, Wm. B., born in Schuyler County, Ill., died at his late home, near Crook, Colo., of pneumonia, April 13, 1919, aged 77 years, 3 months and 4 days. In 1870 he married Lydia J. Wright. Seven sons were born to them, two of whom preceded the father. He served in the 19th Illinois Cavalry. When a young man, he united with the Union Baptists, but about eight years ago became a member of the Church of the Brethren, being ever faithful. He leaves his wife, five sons, eight grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, four brothers and one sister. Services by the Christian minister, Rev. Simpson, and at Kearney, Nebr., by Eld. J. J. Tarver. Text, Job 5:26. Burial in the Kearney cemetery.—Mary F. May, Kearney, Nebr.

Campbell, Joyce Virgeline, infant daughter of Walter G. and Grace Campbell, died near West Alexandria, Ohio, April 26, 1919, aged 7 months and 27 days. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. J. F. Brubaker.—B. F. Petry, Eaton, Ohio.

Collier, Olive B., born in Coffee County, Kans., died at the home of her parents, Brother and Sister S. S. Lane, Holly, Colo., of influenza, April 25, 1919, aged 20 years and 23 days. She married Cletus H. Collier in 1906. She united with the church about eight years ago. Short services at the house and also at the country schoolhouse. Burial in near by cemetery. She leaves her husband, four children, her parents, two sisters and one brother.—Hattie Easig, Holly, Colo.

Derrick, David H., died at the home of his parents, Brother and Sister Geo. Derrick, Mechanicsburg, Pa., April 22, 1919, aged 15 years. Death was due to typhoid fever. The writer is Brother's pastor of our Sunday-school and will be greatly missed. He leaves father, mother and one brother. Services by Brethren Wm. Kulp and Ira M. Hart. Interment in the Mechanicsburg cemetery.—J. W. Galley, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Farneman, Bro. Jacob F., born near Delphi, Ind., died April 25, 1919, aged 87 years, 2 months and 24 days. His wife died about ten years ago. Five children were born to them, four of whom survive. Brother and Sister Farneman united with the Church of the Brethren in 1887. Services by the writer.—A. B. Lichtenwalter, Columbus, Kans.

Faust, Lois Elizabeth, daughter of A. G. and Maude Faust, born July 11, 1916, died March 15, 1919, of influenza, aged 2 years, 8 months and 4 days. She is survived by her parents and a brother. Lois was a lovable child,—patient and unselfish. Not being permitted to hold a public service on the day of the funeral, a memorial service was held March 30, conducted by the writer.—S. P. Early, R. D. 1, Windber, Pa.

Flagle, Robert Wm., infant son of Harry and Mary Flagle, born April 14, 1919, and died the same day. Short services at the Chapman Creek church by the writer. Burial in the cemetery near by.—U. S. Bollhart, Detroit, Kans.

Frankwina, Henry, born in Rockingham County, Va., died April 29, 1919, aged 79 years, 7 months and 1 day. He married Pannie E. Rife in 1868. To them were born four sons and four daughters, one of whom died in infancy. He leaves, besides the children, seventeen grandchildren, three brothers and three sisters. He united with the Church of the Brethren at Hagerstown, Ind., in 1871. Services by the writer. Interment in the Wakendo cemetery.—E. G. Rodobaugh, Norborne, Mo.

Herman, Edwin G., died at his home, near Hahnstown, Pa., April 14, 1919, aged 74 years, 3 months and 13 days. He is survived by his wife, two brothers and o sister. Services at the Mohler church, near Ephrata, by Brethren J. B. Brubaker und Amos M. Martin.—Florence L. Mohler, New Holland, Pa.

Landis, Bro. Michael A., son of Henry Landis, died ot the home ol his son, Michael, at Boiling Springs, Pa., March 25, 1919, aged 99 years, 6 months and 13 days. He was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren lor over fifty years and continued to attend services until a year ago. Services by Brethren Wm. Kulp, Wm. Murphy and W. K. Conner. Interment in the Mt. Zion cemetery.—J. W. Galley, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Leatherman, Bro. Roy B., son ol Conrad and Susan Leatherman, born near Milford, Ind., died ot his home in the bounds of the Pine Creek congregation, near North Liberty, Ind., April 29, 1919, aged 40 years, 2 months and 26 days. In 1905 he married Margaret Blough. To them were born three daughters and three sons. In 1913 he and his wife were received into the Church ol the Brethren. From that time until his death he was a true and loyal follower of his Master. For the last ten years he had declined in health, being afflicted with cancer. He leaves his wife, six children, lother, mother, three brothers and three sisters. Services in the Methodist church of North Liberty by Eld. Daniel Wysong, assisted by Bro. Arthur Long. Text, Job 14:10.—M. S. Morris, North Liberty, Ind.

Minser, Bro. Leroy, eldest son ol Brother and Sister Jesse Minser, died of hydrophobia, April 25, 1919, aged 29 years, 9 months and 26 days. In 1911 he married Sister Mabel Kerner. To them were born four children who survive with the wife, his father, one brother and a sister. The family resided within the bounds of the Freeburg congregation, where Bro. Minser was chosen deacon in November, 1918, being a faithful worker. He also served as Sunday-school superintendent at a preaching point in the congregation. Services in the East Nimishillen church by the writer, assisted by Elders D. F. Stuckey and S. S. Sheaffer. Burial in the adjoining cemetery.—A. H. Miller, Louisville, Ohio.

Myers, Mathias, born in Franklin County, Pa., Jan. 10, 1841, died at his home in Polo, Ill., April 28, 1919. July 6, 1865, he was married to Nancy E. Davis, who preceded him about two years. He was the second of a family of fourteen children and the father of eight, of whom one died in infancy. Almost all of his life was lived in the Church of the Brethren, in which faith he peacefully and triumphantly passed to the world beyond. Services by the writer.—G. L. Wine, Polo, Ill.

Nauman, Samuel, son ol Bro. Elmer M. Nauman, born in Rapho Township, Lancaster County, Pa., died April 2, 1919, aged 11 years, 6 months and 16 days. Samuel being suddenly taken ill with peritanitis, was taken to the Lancaster Hospital, where he died. He is survived by his father, stepmother, one brother and two sisters. His mother preceded him in death. He was a very bright boy and admired by all who knew him. He was a regular ottendont of the Fairview Sunday-school. Services at the Fairview church by Elders J. B. Brubaker and George Weaver. Interment in the cemetery adjoining the church.—H. A. Mercy, Manheim, Pa.

Rexrode, Sister Mary A., wife ol Bro. Martin Rexrode, born in Highland County, Va., died April 9, 1919, aged 74 years, 3 months and 12 days. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren lor many years. Surviving are her husband and two daughters. Services at the home by Eld. D. B. Gorber, assisted by Eld. G. M. Pufnsharger. Text, Psa. 39:4 and 5. Interment in the home cemetery.—Clara R. Bodkin, Sugar Grove, W. Va.

Ropp, Bro. Samuel S., born in Harding County, Ohio, died April 24, 1919, aged 67 years and 24 days. Death was caused by heart, failure. He is survived by his wife, son, daughter, three grandchildren, two brothers and four sisters. He united with the Brethren church thirty-eight years ago and was a faithful member. Services at his home, near Pingree, by Rev. Collier.—Fred Ropp, Pingree, Idaho.

Ruff, Bro. David, horn in Wayne County, Ohio, died in the bounds of the Pine Creek church, at his home, near Lakeville, Ind., April 24, 1919, aged 69 years, 2 months and 21 days. He was the son of David and Eliza Ruff. In 1872 he married Mary Lower. To them were horn two daughters and two sons. His wife preceded him over five years ago. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1895 and the same year was elected to the deacon's office, where he served faithfully. He leaves four children, four grandchildren, five brothers and one sister. Services in the Pine Creek church, at the East house, by Eld. Daniel Wysong, assisted by Brethren John Stump and Orville Houser.—M. S. Morris, North Liberty, Ind.

Shenk, Sister Annie, nee Henninger, died at her home, Huntsdale, Pa., April 27, 1919, aged 70 years, 7 months and 1 day. She has been a faithful member ol the church for a number of years. Her husband died some years ago. Three daughters and one son survive. Services at the Huntsdale church by Eld. J. A. Miller, assisted by Eld. Peter S. Lehman and Bro. Flohr. Interment in Huntsdale cemetery.—A. A. Evans, Carlisle, Pa.

Shively, Joseph M., horn Sept. 24, 1836, in Stork county, Ohio, died April 17, 1919, in Glendale, Calif., aged 82 years, 6 months and 26 days. He moved to Lawrence, Kans., in 1857, married Mary Ulrich Sept. 24, 1862. To them were born one son and five daughters. He moved to Glendale, Calif., in 1905, where he resided until his death. He has been a consistent member of the Church of the Brethren for over thirty years,—all of his family having united with the church. In his last moments he urged upon each member of the family to serve the Lord in all his appointed ways. He leaves his wife, one son, three daughters, fifteen grandchildren, and eleven great-grandchildren. Services in the Tropico church by the writer, assisted by Eld. H. R. Taylor. Text, Num. 23:10. Interment in Grand View cemetery.—W. H. Wertenbaker, Los Angeles, Calif.

Stoudt, Lizzie, nee Moyer, born July 14, 1859, died March 25, 1919, aged 59 years, 8 months and 11 days. She was married to Daniel Stoudt Dec. 18, 1890. Her husband, four sons and one daughter survive. Services at the Spring Creek house by Eld. J. H. Longenecker, assisted by Bro. F. S. Carper. Text, Psa. 102: 11-12. Interment in the Spring Creek cemetery.—Elizabeth Blauch, Palmyra, Pa.

Uncapher, Bro. Wm., died at his home in Robinson, Pa., of paralysis, April 14, 1919, aged 76 years and 9 months. He married Miss Stouffer in 1878. To them were born ten children. His wife died about twenty-five years ago. He afterward married Sister Nan Rarigh who, together with two daughters and four sons, survives. He united with the Church of the Brethren about thirty-five years ago and remained faithful. Services at the Robinson church by Eld. M. J. Brougher. Burial in Bolivar cemetery.—Carrie Bowser, Robinson, Pa.

Weaver, Bro. Peter P., horn in Ohio, died at the home of his son, near Bremen, Ind., April 27, 1919, aged 72 years, 5 months and 8 days. In 1869 he married Nancy Troup, who preceded him seventeen years ago. To this union were born nine children, eight of whom survive. He also leaves two brothers and one sister. He united with the church many years ago and remained faithful. Services by the writer. Burial in the cemetery near Bremen.—Chas. C. Cripe, Bremen, Ind.

Wise, Sister Susan, nee Heckman, widow of Bro. Moses Wise, born in Darke County, Ohio, died in Wakarusa, Ind., April 18, 1919, aged 73 years, 4 months and 22 days. Her husband preceded her a little over a year ago. She is survived by four sons and four daughters. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for about fifty years. Services by Elders Frank Kreider and Christian Metzler.—Bertha Moyer, Wakarusa, Ind.

Zook, Sister Rachel, died at her home, Huntingdon, Pa., April 12, 1919, following a stroke of paralysis. Sister Zook was a daughter of Jacob and Rachel Brumbaugh, of James Creek, Pa., and was born July 4, 1848. She married Rufus A. Zook in 1876; he died ten years later. She is survived by two sons, one sister and one brother. Services at the James Creek church by Bro. Irvin B. Brumbaugh. Burial in the cemetery on the Brumbaugh homestead.—A. Herbert Zook, Huntingdon, Pa.

Bargain Book Counter

Good Books for the Home or Sunday-School Library

The books on this counter are to be closed out at prices that will interest you. Look them over and see how much you can save! When ordering give second choice.

Copies for sale	Title of Book	Present Market Price	Our Special Price
6	Practical Mechanics for Boys	$ .75	$ .60
3	Electricity for Boys	.75	.60
	The two books listed above are from the "How to Do It" series written especially for boys in language they can understand. Cloth bound. Illustrated.
10	oets Life and Works of Lincoln	$3.00	$2.00
	The Life and Works of Lincoln is a set of six convenient volumes bound in rich red cloth, gold stamped. Vol. I Life of Lincoln, Vol. II Early Speeches, Vol. III Speeches and Debates, Vol. IV Speeches and Debates, Vol. V Addresses, Vol. VI State Papers.
8	The Victery of the Gospel	$1.50	$1.00
	A $500.00 prize essay on missions by Rev. J. P. Lilley, M. A., D. D.
2	Elsie's Leved Ones	1.25	.75
1	Elsie and Her Namesakes	1.25	.75
1	Elsie at Ion	1.25	.75
1	Elsie's Vacatien	1.25	.75
1	Elsie en the Hudsen	1.25	.75
2	Elsie's Winter Trip	1.25	.75
1	Elsie at the World's Fair	1.25	.75
1	Elsie's Yeung Folks	1.25	.75
	These are all that we have left of the famous Elsie books. Note our special price.
1	The Castawaya	.75	.60
2	The Conquest of Savages	.75	.60
1	The Tribesmen	.75	.60
1	Treasures of the Island	.75	.60
1	Capture and Pursuit	.75	.60
	These are capital books for boys. They tell the experiences of two boys and an aged professor who were cast away on an island, and who without tools or outside help, were compelled to raise or make everything they needed. An informing and intensely interesting series.
1	His Will (leather)	1.50	1.00
2	His Will (cloth)	1.00	.75
	This volume classifies all the references in the Bible bearing upon the Commands, the Warnings and the Premises of God. A storehouse of suggestion for ministers. Printed on Bible paper, 668 pages.
1	John Calvin: The Statesman	1.00	.60
1	Savenarola: The Prephet	1.00	.60
2	Peter: The Hermit	1.00	.60
4	Fenelen: The Mystic	1.00	.60
3	Cryptian: The Churchman	1.00	.60
3	Athanasius: The Here	1.00	.60
1	Augustine: The Thinker	1.00	.60
	These are valuable books of abiding interest. Every one interested in Church history will find them an important addition to the library. Uniformly bound in cloth.
9	Self-Made Men in American Life	.35	.25
11	Straight Shots at Yeung Men	.35	.25
10	Tell Jesus	.35	.25
4	The Path of Duty	.35	.25
3	Miss Teosey's Missien	.35	.25
9	The King of the Golden River	.35	.25
5	Jessica's First Prayer	.35	.25
2	In Perfect Peace	.35	.25
8	The Greatness of Patience	.35	.25
3	Family Manners	.35	.25
4	The Face of the Master	.35	.25
1	Character the Grandest Thing In the World	.35	.25
1	Friendly Counsels	.35	.25
	The books listed just above are from the well-known "What is Worth While Series." Every one is a little masterpiece. Beautifully bound.

Order these and all other books from

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptioos fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor — EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
J. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 317)

trict of Upper Cumberland to $1,700.—A. A. Evans, Carlisle, Pa., May 6.

Woodbury.—We had the pleasure of having with us Bro. Ralph Holsinger, of Agra, Okla., who preached for us March 23. Bro. Holsinger is a son of Eld. John L. Holsinger, former presiding elder of the Woodbury church. We held our quarterly council April 19, with Eld. J. R. Stayer presiding. Eld. D. T. Detwiler was also with us. Our love feast was appointed for May 25, at 6 P. M., with a preparatory service in the morning. Eld. Detwiler is expected to be with us. Eld. J. R. Stayer will represent us at Annual Meeting.—J. C. Stayer, Woodbury, Pa., April 29.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Willow Creek church was closed from Oct. 14 until April 6, on account of the influenza epidemic. Our church council was held March 28, with Eld. Grant Tooker presiding. The work for the coming year was planned. Bro. Jas. Miller was elected Sunday-school superintendent. The Sisters' Aid Society was reorganized, with Sister Ellen Haridsoo, President. After working with the Red Cross for a year, we now expect to take up our regular work again. June 3 Capt. Owen O. Ward, one of the world's greatest detectives, will begin a series of illustrated lectures, closing June 8. June 15 Bro. Root, from Mt. Morris, Ill., will begin a series of revival meetings, with Sister Nora Shively to assist in the song service. Our love feast will be held July 5, and services will close on Sunday evening, July 6. We held special services April 28 and received $45.60 for Armenian Relief.—Lizzie C. Tooker, Wetonka, S. Dak., May 4.

TEXAS

Taft.—The prospects for the Lord's work at this place are encouraging. Bro. J. W. Wampler, of San Antonio, rendered us splendid instruction in vocal music. Bro. D. G. Brubaker, of Nocona, has also been with us and has decided to locate here. Some four or five other families of members have decided to locate and make their home here. Bro. J. H. B. Williams was with us last winter for a few days. We have been here ten years. We find that, as an agricultural proposition, this country is second to oooe in the South. The neighborhood in which we are working is not occupied by another church. Those wanting an agricultural location, with prospective church privileges, are heartily welcomed.—H. D. Blocher, Taft, Texas, April 20.

VIRGINIA

Beaver Creek church met in council April 26, with Eld. N. S. Mannon presiding. Interesting talks were given by Brethren Mannon and Jesse Bootbe. Four letters were granted. Bro. Richard Reed preached the following Sunday.—Bessie Mannon, Sowers, Va., May 1.

Flat Rock.—Dr. Fred J. Wampler was with us at the Flat Rock church and gave his much-appreciated illustrated lecture. May 3 the church met in special council. Brethren J. G. Roller and J. D. Hufiman were with us to assist in the work. Brethren David B. Good and Raleigh Good were elected to the ministry. As both were absent, the installation had to be deferred. The church decided to select its presiding elder annually, save the first term, which is to expire at the November council, in 1920. Eld. D. P. Wioe was chosen for that work. The regular quarterly council will be held at Liberty on Saturday, May 24. Topic for the forenoon session is: "What Constitutes a Christian?"—J. D. Wine, Forestville, Va., May 6.

Roanoke city church was glad to welcome home, April 13, Dr. and Sister Wampler, our returned missionaries from China. The services of the morning and evening were taken charge of by them and were exceedingly interesting and instructive, especially the illustrated lecture on the conditions in China and their work there. Easter Sunday we had two very fine services. In the morning we had special music, reading and a strong sermon; in the evening the program by the Young Men's and the Great Bible Classes. An offering of $20 was given for the Armenian sufferers. May 2 our members' council was held. Three letters were received. The reading of a letter from the District Missionary Secretary, in regard to the "Forward Movement," resulted in the appointment of a committee of five, to formulate plans for the work. The feasibility of opening up a mission to the southwestern section of the city was favorably discussed at this meeting. The offer of the Ladies' Aid Society to supply the church with individual cups for the communion services, was gladly accepted. Our communion service will be held on Sunday, May 25, at 6 P. M. Our pastor and wife are delegates to Annual Meeting. May 4 Bro. H. Alico Flora had charge of the preaching services. His subject was, "The History of and Our Relation to Armenia." As a result of his very earnest appeal an offering of $258 was given for this cause, in addition to our Annual Meeting offering.—Mrs. John H. Shickel, Roanoke, Va., May 5.

WEST VIRGINIA

Beans Chapel coogregation begoo a series of meetings April 11, with Bro. J. F. Valentine, of Bellogton, W. Va., in charge. Five were added to the church through baptism. The members were greatly encouraged by seeing the young people come into the church.—E. G. Bean, Beans Mill, W. Va., May 5.

Onego.—April 26 Eld. Obed Hamstead came to this mission point and preached three very inspiriog and helpful sermoos. This was our first preaching service since last October. Bro. Hamstead promised us a series of meetings the last week in May. Our Sunday-school and Sunday night services were closed during January and February on account of influenza, but are progressing again with new interest. The children rendered an Easter program and are looking forward anxiously to Children's Day, June 1. There are but few members of the church here, but we know that our labor is not in vain. Our Sunday-school gave an offering of $7.50 for Armenian Relief.—Blanche Hewitt, Onego, W. Va., May 3.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

LOVE FEASTS

California

May 18, 7 pm, Inglewood.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Glendora.
May 18, Raisio.
June 22, 7 pm, Santee.

Colorado

May 17, Haxtun.

Idaho

May 17, 7:30 pm, Moscow.
May 24, Boise Valley.
May 25, Twin Falls.
June 7, Nezperce.

Illinois

May 18, 8 pm, Hudson.
May 18, 8 pm, Polo.
May 17, 7:30 pm, Rock Run.
May 17, 7 pm, Middletown.
May 17, Shipshewana.
May 17, 8 pm, Barnettsville.
May 18, 6 pm, White.
May 24, 6 pm, Elkhart Valley.
May 24, 7 pm, Eel River.
May 24, Upper Fall Creek.
May 24, 7 pm, Union Center.
May 24, 8 pm, New Bethel.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, Loon Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Pipe Creek.
May 25, Logansport.
May 25, Muncie.
May 29, Bourgo.
May 31, 7 pm, Yellow River.
May 31, Beech Grove.
May 31, Middlebury.
May 31, 7 pm, Bethel.
May 31, 10:30 am, Cedar Lake.
May 31, Pine River.
May 31, 7 pm, Wakarusa.
June 1, Bremen.
June 1, Walnut.
June 14, 7:30 pm, Clear Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Camp Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Hillhuck, Antioch house.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

May 18, South Keokuk.
May 18, 7:45 pm, Council Bluffs.
May 23, Franklin.
May 24, 25, 3 pm, Coon River, at Panora house.
May 24, Salem.
May 24, Kingsley.
May 25, Des Moines City.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Iowa River.
May 31, 7 pm, Fairview.
May 31, Brooklyn.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Panther Creek.
May 31, June 1, Garrison.
June 1, Beaver.
June 14, 7 pm, Dallas Center.
June 14, 15, Spring Creek.
June 14, 15, Dry Creek.

Kansas

May 17, 10:30 am, Victor.
May 17, 5 pm, Chapman Creek.
May 17, Smith.
May 17, Prairie View.
May 18, Lawrocce.
May 18, Morrill.
May 19, Bloom.
May 24, 25, 6 pm, Abilene, at Holland house.
May 24, 5 pm, Ramona.
May 24, 10 am, Xabetha.
May 31, 7 pm, Richland Center.
May 31, Belleville.
May 31, Quinter.
June 14, 10:30 am, Burr Oak.
June 14, Rock Creek.

Maryland

May 17, Meadow Branch.
May 17, 2:30 pm, Middletown Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Brownsville.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, 25, 2:30 pm, Beaver Creek.
May 24, 2 pm, Monocacy, at Monteindale.
May 25, 5 pm, Ridgely.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Beaver Dam.
June 7, Peach Blossom, at Fairview.
June 14, Bear Creek.

Michigan

May 17, 7:30 pm, Sagiosw.
May 17, 6 pm, Harlan.
May 18, 6 pm, Detroit.
May 18, 7 pm, Ooekama.
May 31, Grand Rapids.
May 31, 10:30 am, Crystal.
May 31, 7 pm, Lake View.
June 1, 8 pm, Sugar Ridge.
June 14, Woodland.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Haven.
June 21, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 14, Wortbington.
June 28, Lewiston.
June 28, 29, Hancock.

Missouri

May 17, 6 pm, Dry Fork.
May 18, Rockingham.
May 31, South Fork.
May 31, Carthage.
June 14, Peace Valley.

Nebraska

May 17, 2:30 pm, Alvo.
May 24, Alton.
May 24, Arcadia.
May 31, 8 pm, South Beatrice.

North Carolina

May 24, 5 pm, Spray Missioo.

North Dakota

May 24, 6 pm, Surrey.

Ohio

May 17, Harris Creek.
May 17, Logan.
May 17, 5 pm, Eversole.
May 17, 7 pm, West Charleston.
May 18, 7 pm, Fostoria.
May 24, Loramie.
May 24, Strait Creek Valley.
May 24, Painter Creek.
May 24, 10 am, Rome.
May 24, 10 am, Beech Grove.
May 24, 6 pm, Bear Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Oakland.
May 25, 10 am, Eagle Creek.
May 25, 6 pm, Lima, city church.
May 25, Maple Grove.
May 31, 10 am, Lick Creek.
May 31, 5 pm, Pleasant Valley, Valley house.
May 31, 7 pm, Cincinnati.
May 31, 10:30 am, Wyandot.
May 31, Pleasant View.
May 31, Blanchard.
May 31, 5 pm, Middle District.
May 31, Owl Creek.
June 1, Reading.
June 14, 10 am, West Nimishillen.
June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 28, 10 am, Swao Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspriog.
June 28, 10 am, Richland.

Oklahoma

May 17, Pleasant Plains.
May 24, Hollow.
May 24, Paradise Prairie.
May 31, Big Creek.

Pennsylvania

May 17, 6 pm, Upper Dublin, at Ambler.
May 17, 6 pm, Springfield, Springfield house.
May 17, 18, 2 pm, Lost Creek, at Good Will house.
May 17, 18, 11:30 pm, Upper Conewago, Mummert house.
May 17 and 18, 10 am, Falling Spring, at Hade house.
May 17, 18, 10 am, Maiden Creek, Mohrsville house.
May 18, Elizabethtown.
May 18, 6:30 pm, Altoona, First church.
May 18, Viewpoint.
May 18, Scalp Level.
May 18, 6 pm, New Enterprise.
May 18, Williamsburg.
May 20, 21, 9:30 am, Springville, Mohler house.
May 20 and 21, 1 pm, Mountville, Mountville house.
May 20, 21, 10 am, Fredericksburg, Meyer house.
May 22, 23, 9:30 am, Big Swatara, at Hanoverdale.
May 24, Sugar Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Welsh Run.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Antietam, at Welty house.
May 24, 2 pm, Akroo.
May 24, Mechanic Grove.
May 24, 25, 1:30 pm, Conewago, at Bachmanville.
May 25, Ligooier.
May 25, 6 pm, Woodbury.
May 25, Plum Creek.
May 25, 4 pm, Carlisle.
May 25, Codorus, at Codorus house.
May 25, 6 pm, Roaring Spring.
May 25, Manor, at Penn Run house.
May 25, Shade Creek, Berkey house.
May 25, 4 pm, Shamokin.
May 25, Jacobs Creek.
May 27 and 28, 1:30 pm, Conestoga, at Bareville house.
May 31, 1:30 pm, Marshereek, at Marshereck house.
May 31, June 1, Lower Cumberland, Mohler house.
May 31, 4 pm, Spring Run, Pine Glen house.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Ridge.
June 1, Meycredale.
June 1, Chambersburg.
June 1, Lanraster.
June 1, Harrisburg.
June 1, 6 pm, Rummel.
June 1, 6 pm, Smithfield.
June 1, 7:30 pm, Yellow Creek.
June 1, Middle Creek.
June 4, 5, West Greentree, at Greentree.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Aughwick, at Germany Valley.
June 7, 2 pm, Mingo, at Mingo house.
June 8, Maple Glen.
June 11, 2 pm, Buffalo.
June 14, Farmers Grove.
June 29, Sipesville.
June 29, Locust Grove.

Tennessee

May 17, 3 pm, Beaver Creek.

Virginia

May 17, 5 pm, Peters Creek.
May 17, 4 pm, Texas Chapel.
May 17, 4 pm, Pleasant Valley, Second District.
May 17, Cook's Creek, at Hinton Grove.
May 17, Elk Run, at Moscow.
May 17, 4 pm, Midland.
May 17, Woodstock, Columbia Furnace.
May 17, 3 pm, Stuarts Draft.
May 18, 7 pm, Staunton.
May 18, 6 pm, Bridgewater, at the old church.
May 24, 6 pm, Rileyville.
May 24, 3 pm, Lioville, at Cedar Run.
May 25, 6 pm, Roanoke City.
May 31, 4 pm, Unity, at Bethel house.

Washington

May 17, Yakima.
May 24, Outlook.

West Virginia

May 17, Pleasant View.
June 7, 2 pm, Berkley.
August 30, Maple Spring.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 317)

trict of Upper Cumberland to $1,700.—A. A. Evans, Carlisle, Pa., May 6.

Woodbury.—We had the pleasure of having with us Bro. Ralph Holsinger, of Agra, Okla., who preached for us March 23. Bro. Holsinger is a son of Eld. John L. Holsinger, former presiding elder of the Woodbury church. We held our quarterly council April 19, with Eld. J. R. Stayer presiding. Eld. D. T. Detwiler was also with us. Our love feast was appointed for May 25, at 6 P. M., with a preparatory service in the morning. Eld. Detwiler is expected to be with us. Eld. J. R. Stayer will represent us at Annual Meeting.—J. C. Stayer, Woodbury, Pa., April 29.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Willow Creek church was closed from Oct. 14 until April 6, on account of the influenza epidemic. Our church council was held March 28, with Eld. Grant Tooker presiding. The work for the coming year was planned. Bro. Jas. Miller was elected Sunday-school superintendent. The Sisters' Aid Society was reorganized, with Sister Ellen Haridsoo, President. After working with the Red Cross for a year, we now expect to take up our regular work again. June 3 Capt. Owen O. Ward, one of the world's greatest detectives, will begin a series of illustrated lectures, closing June 8. June 15 Bro. Root, from Mt. Morris, Ill., will begin a series of revival meetings, with Sister Nora Shively to assist in the song service. Our love feast will be held July 5, and services will close on Sunday evening, July 6. We held special services April 28 and received $45.60 for Armcoian Relief.—Lizzie C. Tooker, Wetonka, S. Dak., May 4.

TEXAS

Taft.—The prospects for the Lord's work at this place are encouraging. Bro. J. W. Wampler, of San Antonio, rendered us splendid instruction in vocal music. Bro. D. G. Brubaker, of Nocona, has also been with us and has decided to locate here. Some four or five other families of members have decided to locate and make their home here. Bro. J. H. B. Williams was with us last winter for a few days. We have been here ten years. We find that, as an agricultural proposition, this country is second to oooe in the South. The neighborhood in which we are working is not occupied by another church. Those wanting an agricultural location, with prospective church privileges, are heartily welcomed.—H. D. Blocher, Taft, Texas, April 20.

VIRGINIA

Beaver Creek church met in council April 26, with Eld. N. S. Mannan presiding. Interesting talks were given by Brethren Mannon and Jesse Bootbe. Four letters were granted. Bro. Richard Reed preached the following Sunday.—Bessie Mannon, Sowers, Va., May 1.

Flat Rock.—Dr. Fred J. Wampler was with us at the Flat Rock church and gave his much-appreciated illustrated lecture. May 3 the church met in special council. Brethren J. G. Roller and J. D. Hufiman were with us to assist in the work. Brethren David B. Good and Raleigh Good were elected to the ministry. As both were absent, the installation had to be deferred. The church decided to select its presiding elder annually, save the first term, which is to expire at the November council, in 1920. Eld. D. P. Wioe was chosen for that work. The regular quarterly council will be held at Liberty on Saturday, May 24. Topic for the forenoon session is: "What Constitutes a Christian?"—J. D. Wine, Forestville, Va., May 6.

Roanoke city church was glad to welcome home, April 13, Dr. and Sister Wampler, our returned missionaries from China. The services of the morning and evening were taken charge of by them and were exceedingly interesting and instructive, especially the illustrated lecture on the conditions in China and their work there. Easter Sunday we had two very fine services. In the morning we had special music, reading and a strong sermon; in the evening the program by the Young Men's and the Great Bible Classes. An offering of $20 was given for the Armenian sufferers. May 2 our members' council was held. Three letters were received. The reading of a letter from the District Missionary Secretary, in regard to the "Forward Movement," resulted in the appointment of a committee of five, to formulate plans for the work. The feasibility of opening up a mission to the southwestern section of the city was favorably discussed at this meeting. The offer of the Ladies' Aid Society to supply the church with individual cups for the communion services, was gladly accepted. Our communion service will be held on Sunday, May 25, at 6 P. M. Our pastor and wife are delegates to Annual Meeting. May 4 Bro. H. Alico Flora had charge of the preaching services. His subject was, "The History of and Our Relation to Armenia." As a result of his very earnest appeal an offering of $258 was given for this cause, in addition to our Annual Meeting offering.—Mrs. John H. Shickel, Roanoke, Va., May 5.

WEST VIRGINIA

Beans Chapel coogregation begoo a series of meetings April 11, with Bro. J. F. Valentine, of Bellogton, W. Va., in charge. Five were added to the church through baptism. The members were greatly encouraged by seeing the young people come into the church.—E. G. Bean, Beans Mill, W. Va., May 5.

Onego.—April 26 Eld. Obed Hamstead came to this mission point and preached three very inspiriog and helpful sermoos. This was our first preaching service since last October. Bro. Hamstead promised us a series of meetings the last week in May. Our Sunday-school and Sunday night services were closed during January and February on account of influenza, but are progressing again with new interest. The children rendered an Easter program and are looking forward anxiously to Children's Day, June 1. There are but few members of the church here, but we know that our labor is not in vain. Our Sunday-school gave an offering of $7.50 for Armenian Relief.—Blanche Hewitt, Onego, W. Va., May 3.

1719-THE BECKER BICENTENNIAL-1919

Conference Notes

will be eagerly read by everyone as they appear from week to week in "THE GOSPEL MESSENGER." Not since 1908 has there been anything quite so ambitious in the way of a Conference program. There will be more than a score of strong addresses, besides special meetings and the business sessions to report. This is a year when everyone will want to read the CONFERENCE NOTES as they appear in "THE MESSENGER."

How to Get the Notes and "The Messenger"

The regular price of "THE GOSPEL MESSENGER" is $2.00 per year, but in view of the special interest in the Conference "THE MESSENGER" may be had for seven months—June to December—for only $1.00. That is, for the price of a regular six months' subscription you get the extra month with the issues containing the Conference Notes. At this rate many may wish to send "THE MESSENGER" to some poor brother or sister who cannot attend Conference, or to neighbors and friends.

The Messenger for 7 Months for $1.00

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Illinois:

I desire to take advantage of your special rate on the "Messenger"—the seven months from June to December, 1919, for $1.00. Please find enclosed .....dollars for which you may send the "Messenger" to the following persons:

Name	R. D. or Street	Town	State

If You Wish the FULL REPORT Add 35 Cents

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13 "Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4: 14.

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., May 24, 1919 No. 21

In This Number

Editorial,—
Is Man Nothing but a Worm? 321
Not New, but Mightier, ...321
Making Education the Handmaid of Religion, ...321
The True Test of Spirituality, ...321
The Quiet Hour, ...327
Among the Churches, ...328
Around the World, ...329

Educational Forum,—
Educational Day in the Churches. By the General Educational Board, ...322
The Relation of Christian Education to the Present Crisis. By D. W. Kurtz, ...322
Why Our Educational Work Is Included in the Forward Movement. By John S. Flory, ...322
Hints to Parents, ...323
A Long Stride Forward in Religious Education. By Merlin G. Miller, ...323
Shall We Educate? If So, Where? By J. W. Lear, ...324
A Church Education. By Leander Smith, ...324
More Agriculture in Our Colleges. By John Woodard, ...325
Our Colleges Were Not Listed. By W. Arthur Cable, ...326

The Round Table,—
A Day of Rejoicing. By L. H. Prowant, ...326
The Art of Conversation. By Ezra Flory, ...326
Thoughts on Prayer. By D. D. Thomas, ...326
Society's Need. By Chester F. Schroyer, ...327

Home and Family,—
Why Are You Standing Outside (Poem)? By Myra Welch, ...330
Unconscious Teaching in the Home. By Ida W. Hoff, ...330
A Realistic Dream. By Lee W. Pollard, ...330

...EDITORIAL...

Is Man Nothing But a Worm?

EVEN the most important truths can be overemphasized. Or, if not that, exactly, they can be so exclusively emphasized as to crowd out of consideration other equally important truths.

For instance, man is a creature much given to pride and vanity. He often yields to the temptation to think of himself more highly than he ought to think. Yet it is not good,—it is very harmful,—to make that fact an excuse for ignoring another one. We mean the fact that God created man in his own image and destined him for dominion over the earth and companionship with himself.

Read the thirty-eighth chapter of Job occasionally. It will help to take the conceit out of you. It will give you your proper measure in comparison with the mighty forces of Omnipotence.

But do not overlook the eighth psalm. And a certain verse or two in the first chapter of Genesis. And the passage from Ephesians, which is printed each week near the top of this page. These will teach you something about your dignity and worth. And make you not proud, surely, but humbly grateful, and ashamed to be anything less than what God meant you to be.

Not New But Mightier

"DOES the world need a new church?" That depends. Please come forward and explain.

If you mean a church with a new remedy for sin, it does not. If you mean a church with some other foundation than Jesus Christ, it does not.

If you mean a church with a new sense of its responsibility and mission, it probably does. If you mean a church better equipped for its job and more intent upon doing it, we think it does.

The world certainly does need a more efficient church. It needs a church with a new measure of power. It needs a church more successful in the regeneration of men.

Whether this will require a new organization depends entirely upon what existing organizations do with their opportunity. Christ's promise of perpetuity was made with reference to his church. That is the church which is doing his work.

How does this answer the question? "Not a new church but a mightier church is the church for the times."

Making Education the Handmaid of Religion

IT is the duty of a handmaid to serve the interests of her mistress. To seek her comfort and well-being, to know her wishes and to do them, to be constantly at her call, to be, in very truth, her "hand" maid,—this is her whole business.

Perhaps this simple figure will help us a little in understanding the proper relation between education and religion.

A few wise (?) philosophers have discerned in the distant future the breaking of the day when education will have done away with religion entirely. Religion, according to them, is only a bit of superstition which the light of increasing intelligence will dissipate as the morning mists disappear before the rising sun.

At the opposite pole of human thinking is that old notion that education may be a very handy thing for secular success, but it has no connection with the religious life at all. It has to do with "this world" only and with only the material side of it at that. In fact, according to this view, the material side of life in this world is about all there is. The interests of religion lie wholly in the next world. Its only connection with the present life is this: We must make preparation in this world for the world to come. But religion is not supposed to have any direct relation to life's ordinary activities.

A proper understanding of the scope of both religion and education is the corrective for such extreme theories. As for the alarming prospect indicated in the first, we need not lie awake nights over it. Man is too "incurably religious," ever to have religion educated out of him. And the second conception quickly yields to a little actual experience with education itself, if this is anything at all worthy of the name.

Religion, the mistress of your life and education her handmaid,—isn't that the conception which sets them in their right relation? Consider what it means.

"Religion is the chief concern of mortals here below." If it is the real thing, it is the controlling factor in every interest of life. Nothing can be settled until the fundamental thing has been settled. Why am I here? Where am I going? What is my relation to the universe of which I am but an atom, to the forces which brought me into being, to the laws which I can not control but whose operation upon me I can not escape? What should I try to make of my life? Why should I do this or that? No question can be answered until these questions have been answered. No enterprise can be safely undertaken until its bearing on the main issue has been determined.

One of the most mischievous of modern conventionalities is the arbitrary distinction between secular and religious things. It tends to encourage that narrow and utterly false conception of religion which limits it to a part, and usually a very small part, of our life activities, namely, those which are supposed to be necessary to insure our happiness in the next world. The worst thing about it is its mechanical theory of the nature and conditions of salvation. But we can not go into that now. What we wish to emphasize is the fact that religion,—true religion,—is absolutely unlimited in the scope of its influence upon human life. It includes everything. Anything in which human beings may legitimately engage,—and that is anything necessary to human welfare,—is subject to the control of religion. The religious spirit must dominate it. For it must have a real place in the establishing of the Kingdom of God, which is the supreme business, the only business, of man.

Wherefore, to assist in this noble enterprise, is the supreme function, the only function, of education. It is the business of education to serve the interests of religion. It is the business of everything to serve the interests of religion.

How may education fulfil its high mission? In part, surely, by providing religion with efficient tools,—men and women with all their powers of mind and body trained to top-notch strength and skill. This education does. Not mere learning, but education, for it gives practice in the use of these powers, practice in the doing of hard things. And this is useful,—very useful,—for the task of religion, the establishment of the rule of God in human lives, is not an easy one. It requires skilled hands and toughened sinews.

But the nature of education is an expanding concept in the minds of men. It's growing, like all other live things. So now we would stress chiefly another point. Education will serve religion most, not through the development of power, important as that is, but through the cultivation of discernment and worthy purpose. To open up the world to the eye of the soul, to see what is worth while, to learn to love the loveliest, to measure things at their just rating, to get right ideals of life and to make out a program for yourself that will appeal to the best and worthiest in you,—this is education.

It is because we believe these things, and believe they are important enough to deserve attention, that we come to you this week with a number devoted largely to our educational interests. You can easily see that the various writers have put no small amount of earnest thought and labor into their contributions. And though they write upon a common general theme, you will find a surprising variety in subject matter. Read and ponder, pray and act.

Our schools are striving earnestly to give to education her rightful place. They solicit and they need our continued help. They want to make education a faithful handmaid to religion.

The True Test of Spirituality

"HE does not seem to be very spiritual, does he?" said one church member to another on the way home from prayer meeting. The reference was to a certain brother who seldom spoke at the meeting, but that evening had offered a few words not very coherent or edifying.

"He is not much of a talker, surely," replied the other, "but he puts a lot of grace into his work."

It would be interesting to know whether the conversation was continued and if so, just what was said. They had a good topic, better than was promised by the first remark.

Prayer meeting testimonies are a useful means of spiritual culture, and all possible encouragement should be given, especially to the timid ones, not to neglect this means of grace. As in every good thing the practice may be abused. And perhaps most of us have yielded to the temptation to gauge the spirituality of Christians by the frequency or fluency or emotion with which they speak in the prayer meeting.

We can afford to be careful here. Some very undemonstrative people, when it comes to making an impression before a public assembly, do nevertheless "put a lot of grace into their work." Isn't that something to be taken account of? Isn't that a fairly good test of one's spirituality? Exactly what is the thing called spirituality?

EDUCATIONAL DAY IN THE CHURCHES

Sunday, June 29, 1919

THE last Sunday in June,—the 29th by the calendar,—has been set aside as Educational Day for this year. It is a day when all of the services will stress some aspect of the educational needs of the church. The Sunday-school lesson for the day is entitled: "Preparing to Live." The Christian Workers' topic is: "God's Need of Men and Women." The 29th of June is a day, too, when the sermons should be especially educational. To this end literature will be sent out to all pastors and elders, explaining the Forward Movement in Education, and at the same time these brethren will be asked to see that an address is delivered on this subject. It will be impossible for the churches, the schools, and the Board, to coöperate to the fullest extent unless what is meant by the Forward Movement in Education is generally understood.

The Educational Board suggests that the offerings lifted on Educational Day be sent to the local schools. That is, any given church should send its offering to the school owned by the State District in which the church is located. It is further suggested that the schools use these offerings to assist young ministers and missionaries to get their education. Past experience shows that some splendid things can be accomplished in this way.

June 29 ought to be a red letter day, so far as coöperation between the churches and the schools is concerned. It is a day on which the churches can give very concrete expressions to their appreciation for all that the schools have done for the Brotherhood. In this connection it may not be amiss to note a few reasons why the churches and the schools should seek to labor in the fullest possible harmony. We are not assuming that any proof of such a proposition is needed, but rather simply suggest a few points "lest we forget."

So far as the historical relationship between the church and Christian education is concerned, it is clear that the first is the mother of the latter. Indeed, the relation between religion and learning has always and everywhere been very intimate, but no religion is so truly the mother of scholarship as is Christianity. In view of the close relation between the Christian church and education, it is a pity that some folks make so much of the little differences in viewpoint that naturally characterize the so-called churchmen and the schoolmen. So far as we can see, there is no difference in aim, but only in viewpoint, and, perhaps, in method. Whatever differences of this sort exist need not be deplored, but rather welcomed as a means of arriving a little nearer the truth through mutually helpful criticism.

The church and the schools are not only bound together by historical ties, for in addition there is a similarity in aim that is not always as fully recognized as it ought to be. Let us stop for a moment to see what the aim of the church is, and how that aim compares with the real purpose of the schools. The simplest and clearest statement of the aim of the church is found in the life and teachings of the Founder of Christianity, for the church is Christian in so far as she measures up to the standards of Christ. Of himself the Master said: "I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly." He was concerned especially over man's prospect of a future life, for he gave his life that none might perish, and that whosoever believeth might have eternal life. The great aim of the church, most briefly put, is life, eternal life. Now what is the purpose of the training that the schools give? Some folks act as though they thought an education was just a key to an easy living, or an open way to social position, or the door to power. Unfortunately, like most good things, an education may be used to just such ends by selfish, short-sighted people. But the abuse of an education does not determine its real aim. Henry Cope suggests that education is not simply a personal process, but a social and moral process as well. It is a process seeking to make men efficient to live; that is, it aims to cause knowledge, feeling and judgment to issue in right conduct. In the last analysis the aim of education is life, a richer and saner life. If the church and the schools are really one in aim why should they not make every effort not only to understand each other, but to effect the fullest possible coöperation? Fill up the baskets on Educational Day if you are thrifty Christians, for every dollar given to the schools is twice a blessing; first, it helps the schools to educate the young people; second, it helps to train the leaders of the church of tomorrow.

Fraternally yours,
General Educational Board.

The Relation of Christian Education to the Present Crisis

BY D. W. KURTZ
Chairman General Educational Board

THE war has raised more problems than it has solved. The Peace Conference was confronted by many problems that did not exist before the war. The one extreme of autocracy has brought about another extreme,—anarchy or Bolshevism. Society has not yet stabilized itself, and there is but one outlook that it will, and that is the hope of the Gospel of Christ in a revitalized church.

The leaders of religion and education are trembling at the unrest and threatenings in every corner of the globe. Governments that seem stable today are shattered tomorrow. The ancient loyalties are gone, and no new loyalties are made that bode for permanence and peace.

It is evident to the thinking person that laws have no power without a public spirit that is law-abiding; governments have no stability without a culture of the governed that produces loyalty to the social gospel. Economics can not solve the world problem, for economics is at the basis of ninety per cent of our troubles.

There is only one solution for the world-problem,—the Kingdom of God through Christian education.

Christian education is absolutely essential for an enduring civilization. Democracy is the only form of government that fulfills the Christian principle of Brotherhood. But democracy can not be created without intelligence, justice, and unselfish service in the spirit of brotherhood and equality.

Political democracy, which means a "government of the people, and by the people, and for the people," or in other words, self-government, is based on Christian education. But political democracy is not enough. There must also be social democracy, and economic democracy, and religious democracy. These ideals are essential for the future world. Without them there can be no peace and harmony among the peoples of the earth. There will be no permanent civilization unless the Christian forces of today succeed in educating the coming generations in the ideas of the Christian Gospel.

Germany has demonstrated that a nation can change her ideals and sentiments in two generations. "What you want in the nation, you must put into the schools," said Humboldt. "The school-teacher has won," said Von Moltke in 1871. The child is born into this world with capacities for many things, either good or bad; education determines what they will be. If we want a decent world, a world of peace and harmony; of happiness and brotherhood,—we must put all these ideals into our educational policies of the home and school and church.

The Christian college is the hope of the world. There is no hope without Christian education, neither is there hope without leadership. The Christian college combines or creates these two essentials. In the first place, history shows that the great leaders in all ages have been the young men of vision; the college students with a deeper insight into life and religion, who have reformed our institutions and lifted humanity upon higher planes of living. Statistics show that at present the leaders in all walks of life are college bred in the proportion of five hundred to one who is not college bred.

The Christian college gives the young people the vision, the training, and the character that are essential in building a new world. If the Christian college fails, then the cause will fail. But the Christian college must not fail. She must have the united support of the church for which she exists. She needs students, and money, and spiritual support, as well as the self-sacrifice of her teachers.

Statistics show that since 1892 the State schools have increased their enrollment 600%, while the church colleges have increased only 100%. It is also true that some State universities have more students belonging to a certain church, than a half-dozen church colleges and universities of the same denomination. This means that if the church is not more loyal to her own colleges, the cause can not succeed. It is also true that over 90% of all ministers and 94% of all missionaries come from the Christian colleges, in spite of the fact that State institutions have grown six times as rapidly and contain many more students.

The conclusion is clear: The work of Christian education rests upon the Christian college for leadership, and the Christian college must have the full support of the church.

The world problem can not be solved by European nations. Their young men are killed by the war; their institutions are disorganized; and their local problems are demanding all their strength. America must shoulder the responsibility of foreign missions. We can do it if we will. We have the schools, the men and women, the money, and the organizations to do the work. All that is needed is vision, consecration, preparation and organization. We must get the vision of the world's need and of our ability to meet the need. Then we must consecrate our children and dedicate our money to make the Kingdom of God real in the lives of men. Our church colleges have been created to give the special preparation that is needed. Our organizations,—churches and Mission Board,—can direct the energies for efficient service.

It is very clear that there can be no forward movement anywhere without intelligent and consecrated leadership. This leadership in all Christian statesmanship depends upon Christian education in the church colleges.

Just as our college faculties are giving their lives in living sacrifice for the cause of Christian education, so must the entire church coöperate to meet the present crisis of the world. None of the colleges are sufficiently supported. No investment in the world counts more for the Kingdom of God than an investment in Christian education. Christian education is the one creative force in society for the building up of a permanent civilization. Loyalty to this cause is the highest patriotism and the purest expression of religion.

McPherson, Kans.

Why Our Educational Work Is Included in the Forward Movement

BY JOHN S. FLORY

AT the request of the editor of the MESSENGER I make this brief statement on the topic he proposes, and will present the reasons under three heads.

First, Similarity of Aim.—The work entrusted to the three great church boards is fundamentally the same. They are all aiming to get the Gospel of Jesus Christ into the hearts and lives of people. While this ultimate object is the same, each has its own particular sphere of work and its distinctive methods of accomplishing it. The fundamental idea of our mission work centers in the foreign field, with work among heathen people. Of course, there are many phases of this work and many degrees of heathenism, and home mission work is, not among the heathen, as such, at all. But everywhere the one purpose is to have men know the Gospel Message and live it. The work of the Mission Board is to organize, with reference to accomplishing this result, whether at home or abroad.

The aim of our Sunday-school work is the same, but deals with a different class of people in a different way. Primarily the Sunday-school is organized to teach God's Word in our churches. Its chief aim, therefore, is to implant the Gospel Message in the hearts of the people with the idea of having them accept it as the rule and counsel of their lives. Consequently the first objective of Sunday-school work is to make Christians of all the people. Beyond this it aims to establish them in Christian character and develop them in line with the principles of the Gospel. It also aims to prepare teachers to help others to better living and to a saving knowledge in Christ. The organization of this work is different from that of missions. It works largely in a different field. It works with different people. It seeks to attain this object by different methods. And yet the ultimate purpose of the two is the same,—to teach God's revealed will to men and induce them to accept it and live it in their lives.

The educational ideals of the church are not different from these in kind. The work differs again only in method and with a change of emphasis on the immediate end sought. When we speak of education in the church we mean Christian education. This seeks the same object as our mission and our Sunday-school work,—the education of the people in the knowledge of the truth. The change of emphasis lies in the fact that in our educational work we stress the importance of training in a larger way than does either missions or the Sunday-school. While these two endeavor to enlighten the masses (in their respective fields) with regard to their highest duty and privilege, our educational work stresses the point of preparing teachers and other Christian leaders to carry on our missionary, Sunday-school and other church enterprises. The aim of the three is essentially the same,—the development of Christian character,—although all differ in the method of conducting their work.

Second, Basic Nature of Our Educotional Work.—Our educational work is fundamental to all of our other church enterprises. One of the loftiest conceptions of the human heart is the desire to give one's self in unselfish service for the good of others. This is the prompting missionary impulse, and is a divine inspiration. But these lofty feelings alone can never convert the world to Christianity. Without careful training and a systematic development of the faculties with which God has endowed us, all our efforts at foreign mission work would be a dismal failure. The missionary needs the very best and most thorough training that our colleges can give him, and this needs to be intellectual as well as moral and spiritual. Many of the best-trained men and women of the Christian church are found on the foreign mission fields. Anything less than the most thorough training is found to be inadequate for their needs. To provide this ripe culture and rich scholarship is the distinctive work of our colleges.

The same thing is, to a large measure, true of Sunday-school work. The weakest place in the Sunday-school today is in the class-room,—the weakness of unqualified teachers. When we demand half the efficiency of those who teach the Bible to our children that we demand of those who teach them arithmetic and grammar, we will have made a long step forward. Our Sunday-schools have been poorly manned and have accomplished only a fraction of what they should have accomplished. When we once work up to the full importance of religious education, we will demand at least as great efficiency of our religious teachers as we do of our secular teachers. Our colleges are destined to play an increasingly important part in preparing our future Sunday-school teachers, even for the local schools. So fundamental is the relation of our educational work to all the larger church enterprises, that none of them can hope to succeed without the aid of our colleges.

Third, There Con Be No Forword Movement of the Church Without Educotion.—This is true because of the similarity of aim in these three great fields of enterprise and because of the fundamental relation sustained by education to the other two. We cannot have a forward movement in missionary work, in Sunday-school work, or in any other line of aggressive endeavor, without a trained leadership, and without such Christian scholarship as our colleges provide.

Our hearts are sometimes touched by suffering or want, and our generous promptings seek to render immediate relief. But any charitable or philanthropic work that performs a lasting good must recognize those basic facts of economic and social life upon which all permanent achievement depends. And any forward look of the church that fails to reckon with sound educational training in the development of mind, soul, and character, is doomed to miserable failure. The goal of our aim as a church can never be reached without a recognition of the fact that, basic to every important activity of the church, is our educational work.

Bridgewater, Va.

Hints to Parents

1. Begin to talk education to your children as soon as they can talk. Keep right on talking until your children have grown up. Children will do about what their parents wish if it is wished hard enough.

2. Encourage your children to earn money and to save it. Help them start a savings bank account. If this is done, your children will learn sound business methods, as well as lay up treasure with which to get an education.

3. Help your children to become acquainted with your college. Visit the college with them on important occasions, keep the college catalog on the reading table and a picture of your college upon the walls of the living-room.

4. Try hard to give your children the highest ideas of education. Help them to understand that an education should be the door to a richer, happier and more unselfish life. Think education, talk education, help your children to get an education.

SELECT YOUR COLLEGE FROM THIS LIST

Bethany Bible School,	Chicago, Ill.
Blue Ridge College,	New Windsor, Md.
Bridgewater College,	Bridgewater, Va.
Daleville College,	Daleville, Va.
Elizabethtown College,	Elizabethtown, Pa.
Juniata College,	Huntingdon, Pa.
La Verne College,	La Verne, Calif.
Manchester College,	North Manchester, Ind.
McPherson College,	McPherson, Kansas.
Mt. Morris College,	Mt. Morris, Ill.

A Long Stride Forward in Religious Education

BY MERLIN G. MILLER

The Lack in Our Present System

A system of education is not merely a system of schoolhouses. If it were, the Sunday-schools of America might pass as a system of religious education. But a system of education requires, in addition to buildings,

(1) Teaching material (books, pictures and the like), correctly graded to the ability of the pupils;

(2) Teachers naturally endowed and scientifically and thoroughly trained for the task of teaching;

(3) Sufficient time for the instruction.

Let us examine the Sunday-school system and see how it compares with the public school system in these essentials. First, as to teaching material, the Sunday-school floundered on for nearly half a century without graded lessons for children. That lack is rapidly being supplied as our Sunday-schools adopt the graded lessons. It is true, there yet remains much to be done in the amplification of supplementary material, but we are well started on the solution of the problems of teaching material.

And yet,—have we begun to do justice to the realm of knowledge which belongs, by right, to religious education? Where do we take time to teach our boys and girls the whole of the Bible stories, the whole of Biblical history, and the history of the church? Where, in our Sunday-schools, do children have time to commit to memury that wealth of Bible verses which, in times past, has been the stay of Christian character? And where do we make a consistent, patient, and prolonged effort to aid our children in the memorization of those magnificent hymns which form so large a part of our worship? And when do we have time to tell our children, or give them to read, the scores of stories of heroic pioneers of the Christian religion, whose lives are more fascinating than fiction?

Is it any wonder that in this day, when we take plenty of time to teach everything else except the Bible, that Biblical knowledge is fast becoming obsolete and with it much of heart Christianity?

But how does the Sunday-school measure up to the second requirement,—trained teachers? Far be it from me to cast any reflections upon that earnest and self-sacrificing body of Christian men and women,—our Sunday-school teachers. Yet their very self-sacrifice is an impeachment of our system. We are willing to pay forty to four hundred dollars a month for the services of some one to teach Johnnie and Susan geography and spelling, or history and French; and we demand of that teacher years of special training. But any conscientious (and untrained) Christian may teach Johnnie and Susan the Bible! What a comment on the reality of our interest in religion! Nor can we dodge the issue by our teacher-training classes of today,—good as they may be. Our public school teachers must be able to pass thorough examinations in every subject they expect to teach, and besides must spend months or years in special training in that finest of all arts,—the art of teaching. But we attempt to give our Sunday-school teachers their review of the Bible and their training in the art of teaching in fifty-two hours,—more or less,—or the equivalent of two weeks of a "Teachers' Institute."

The reason why we fail so completely in the training of our Sunday-school teachers is that we expect so little of them after they are trained,—or rather so much. We expect them to teach for nothing (which is good in its place), and we expect them to teach one hour, or more often only half an hour, each week. But in this half-hour, or hour, a week we expect them to teach all the Bible stories, survey Biblical history and eventually deduct all the important Biblical teachings about life and conduct, God and Christ, spirituality and the hereafter. Johnnie spends five hours a day or twenty-five hours a week learning to read and to write, to spell and to "figure," but one hour or less will suffice for Johnnie to learn the Bible and all its teachings! In other words, whatever we may think we believe about it, in practice we believe that religion is about 4% of life's valuables, with geography and history and the like for the other 96%.

The result of such an insignificant effort at religious education is that Johnnie takes Sunday-school on the 4% basis. He may be a good pupil in the public schools, but he never thinks of studying his Sunday-school lesson,—it isn't important enough! He may have perfect deportment in the public school, but he will cut up in Sunday-school,—it's not a real school, you know! In short, we are playing at religious education and Johnnie knows it.

Religion in the Public Schools

Now there are several additional ways of giving a religious education to children beside the Sunday-school. We might combine religion with public school instruction, as do the Catholics, in a system of parochial schools. Ninety-five per cent of our congregations, however, would not have enough children to organize and equip a thorough, modern school, and it would be an injustice to our children to compel them to accept poorer instruction, in the elementary branches of knowledge, in our own schools, than they could get in the public schools. Moreover, the parochial school is undemocratic. It fosters the feeling of caste the division of the democracy into hostile religious camps. Any system is undesirable that will make of our children poorer citizens while attempting to make them better Christians.

As an alternative, there are many who will suggest that we reinstate the reading of the Bible in the public schools, and let this suffice. Desirable as this might be, where children are of Protestant extraction, the State is undoubtedly right in forbidding anything savoring of religious teaching in the public schools as a violation of the constitutional right of freedom in religion. We dare not seek religious freedom for ourselves and force religion upon others. Church and State are and must be separate. If we ask the State to teach religion, even in a slight and superficial way, we are in one act committing two unpardonable blunders. In the first place we are reuniting Church and State and thereby annulling the freedom of religious thought at the most vital point in the nation's life,—the nation's schools. More than this,—we are shifting upon others,—and perhaps upon the godless at that,—the sacred duty, the God-given obligation of rearing our children in all the beauty of Christ's religion.

The Movement for Community Religious Schools

How, then, shall we provide for the religious education of our children in a way more adequate than that which we now have? The answer is: "Only by week-day schools of religion."

Schools must be provided that will give children instruction in the essentials of Christian religion. These schools must meet on the regular school-days of the week, as do the public schools. There must be the same high standard of training demanded of the teachers as is now demanded of public school teachers. There must also be high standards of Christian faith and life demanded,—as high as we would now demand of our best Sunday-school teachers. They who teach our boys and girls the vital truths of religion, must be the best Christians and the best teachers of the entire community. Nothing less will be worthy of the enterprise.

An hour of every school-day, from the kindergarten to the college, ought to be given to religious education. Week-day schools of religion are the missing link in the greatest educational system in the world today,—the American public schools! Few there are among us who realize what marvelous characters, what devout and sensible Christians such a system would produce. The few who have had such training in those exceptional homes where godliness and culture reign together,—they alone know what the fruits of such a system of education for all would mean. The Church of Jesus Christ in America will continue to be a church of infant Christians,—until week-day church schools are established the country over.

Now this is no idle dream. In the first place a number of States have, by legislation, granted varying portions of the school-hours to religious education, to be conducted voluntarily by the churches where the parents so desire. The rest of the States will gladly set aside time for religious education when once the churches demonstrate that they want the time and will use it profitably. To speak plainly: The pitiful lack of real education in the typical Sunday-school has prejudiced educators against the Sunday-school, but once we set up a system of week-day schools, with competent and trained teachers, with satisfactory equipment, with a sane and thorough curriculum and under real educational leadership, the State will gladly permit the children of Christian parents, and all others who so desire, to attend such schools a given amount of time each week, during school hours.

Let me repeat it: This is no dream. It is coming as sure as God lives, and his sons and daughters in America live up to the visions they now see. The International Sunday School Association is solidly back of a movement for community week-day schools of religion under interdenominational control. Read these quotations from their bulletins:

"An adequate program of religious education for the American people demands more time than can be secured on Sunday. A system of week-day church schools must be established in every community. This step involves—

"(a) An adequate supply of trained lay-teachers.

"(b) A curriculum suited to the needs of the various grades and properly related to the program of Sunday instruction.

"(c) An enlightened public sentiment which will insure the necessary moral and financial support, and prevent misunderstanding and partisan controversy.

"It is clear that religious week-day schools must come, but they must come slowly, as the result of careful experimentation and statesmanlike direction." (Educational Bulletin 1918, No. 8.)

"The largest harmony can be secured through the common acceptance of the principle of non-denominational control of inter-denominational coöperative community work in religious education and the principle of denominational control of religious education within the local church." (Educational Bulletin, 1919, No. 1.)

"Some agency must do for religious education what the nation and State governments do for secular education. It is precisely this service which the world, and International Sunday School Associations and their auxiliaries propose to render the American people through their projected $20,000,000 financial campaign." (Educational Bulletin 1919, No. 1.)

The italics above are not ours but are in the original Bulletins, which may be secured from the International Sunday School Association, 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

Our Part in the Movement

The community week-day school of religion is coming, but it is not coming today or tomorrow. There is yet time for preparation. What shall be our part in the movement? Shall we sit idly by and let others assume the leadership and the burdens of this, the greatest forward movement in all the religious life of our own nation and generation? We can not stay outside the movement. If we do we are lost.

The first and most vital thing for us, as a denomination, to do, is to examine our own position and see upon what basis we can coöperate with other Christians in such community schools. If a Methodist, a Presbyterian, a Baptist, and I, can read the same Bible and sing the same songs to the same God, each out of his own full heart, surely my boy and their boys can learn those same songs and those same Bible passages together under the teaching of whichever one of us is most competent to teach them. This doesn't mean that my boy needs to learn predestination of the Presbyterian, or that the Presbyterian boy needs to learn feet-washing from me. The points on which we differ can be taught, and must be taught, only in the respective churches. But the great bulk of the material of Biblical instruction,—the Bible narratives, the Biblical history, the great Christian hymns, the stories of missionary heroism,—these are the common property of Christendom. This will be the basis of coöperation in community schools, and upon such a basis we can conscientiously and whole-heartedly unite with other Christians.

The project of community week-day schools of religion must remain in the experimental stage for some time. There are too many problems in the working out of such a system to be hasty. While the experimentation proceeds, there are several things we can do by way of preparation.

First, we can spread sentiment for such schools. Let the wide-awake pastor, the alert Sunday-school worker, the earnest parent, study the question, spread literature and pave the way for what will be the greatest thing we have ever undertaken in religious education.

Second, we can seek out and encourage talented young people to prepare to be teachers in the church schools of tomorrow. Particularly, experienced public school teachers should be encouraged to secure Biblical training with this in view.

Third, there are a few communities where our own people, by virtue of being the most numerous denomination in the community and the leaders in the public school districts, could launch the movement for an experimental school of the type we have discussed. Such a school ought not to begin, however, until there has been a thorough study of all the available literature on the subject; and not even then should the project be launched without prayer and the employment of the best educational and spiritual leadership to be had at any cost.

And finally, let every one who reads this article, who is also a lover of the children whom Christ loved, breathe a prayer for the hastening of the day when we may make a more worthy effort to rear all the children of our nation in "the nurture and admonition of the Lord."

Chicago, Ill.

Shall We Educate? If So, Where?

BY J. W. LEAR

Some folks tell us that education is dangerous, that educated people are heady and proud, and that Jesus put a ban on education by choosing uneducated men to preach his doctrine. We will admit that education is dangerous and that of all of the rascals in the world, the educated rascal is the most dangerous. But it might occur to us, by a little reflection, that, after all, education is not so much to blame. Every virtue may be degenerated into a vice and thus become a menace to society. It is dangerous to ride in an automobile or in a railroad train, nevertheless the majority prefer that method of locomotion to walking. One is willing to take the risk, because of the advantages gained in the faster mode of travel.

So it is with education. While it is true that occasional wrecks are found along the educational road, the practical, liberalizing, cultural, social, and spiritual values of education impel us to take that course in spite of the losses incurred. On the other hand, one must not overlook the fact that ignorance and superstition have worked havoc with society. Who would like to go back to the pow-wow days for medical help? What parents would desire to send their children to the schools of two hundred years ago? Or who would prefer membership in the church of mediæval days? Yes, education is dangerous, but very few people are willing to exchange what little stock they have for a full market of ignorance.

Maybe, if we were better acquainted with the meaning of education we would find less cause for condemnation. I can remember the time when, as a boy, I was afraid of a threshing-machine, but later I stood, day after day, before a separator and fed the grain into its mouth. Of course some people have been seriously injured by the swiftly-revolving cylinder, but that did not deter me from making it do service, for somehow, I argued that the carelessness of the individual and not the machine was to blame for the accident. It was just a lack of proper adjustment.

Several years ago I labored in a neighborhood where lived a people that condemned the telephone. They advanced many arguments to prove its perniciousness, and condemned all of the people who had one in their homes. Of course, this instrument may be used to drive sharp bargains or to enlarge the possibilities of the public gossiper. However, it is not the fault of the telephone but just another case of improper adjustment. It might be advantageous, therefore, to reflect on the meaning of education before we censure too severely.

Some one has said: "To educate a person means to adjust him to those elements of his environment that are of concern in modern life, and to develop, organize, and train his powers so that he may make efficient and proper use of them." To some this may seem a little too secular. I will venture a statement of my own: "To educate a person means to so introduce him to the objective world and its Creator that his possibilities may function, unfold, and ripen physically, mentally, socially, and spiritually to his own satisfaction, to the advantage of his fellow-men, and to the glory of God." Did not the Creator incorporate all of this in his statement to man in the beginning when he said: "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it"? The best farmers are educated men. They may not have attended college but they have busied themselves discovering the laws governing soils, crops, stock, markets, etc. They have read books and farm journals, conversed with other farmers, and organized institutes in order to familiarize and adjust themselves to the best methods in their particular section. What is true of the farmer may be said of any other vocation.

There may have been a day when this matter of adjustment was more easily accomplished, but now the race of life is growing more and more intense. Competition is constantly growing keener. The survival of the fittest is the law in business. Experience is a splendid teacher, but often going that road takes a lifetime to perfect a little knowledge. Every generation has added a little to the stock in trade. Investigations in agriculture, commerce, political economy, banking, engineering, arts, and religion have been made from time to time, and the results tabulated; so the student of today may profit from the experiences of others. If every generation had to make all of its inductions and deductions, there would be very little increased development in one generation over the preceding generation. Our public schools, colleges, and universities are institutions where the latest tabulations may be found, where the potential possibilities of the mind are wisely functioned, and where the knowledge obtained may be classified and organized for service. The complexity of life has demanded division of labor, and division of labor requires specialization, so the person who divorces himself from the schools, who decides to make his own discoveries and deductions, will soon find himself outclassed, outdistanced, and bewildered as he is jostled about by the passing crowd.

Now, a serious question arises in our minds: Can we accept all of the information passed out over the counters of the educational institutions? Here is the crux of the matter. Several years ago I watched a plasterer plying his trade. I noticed that he had two sieves with meshes of different sizes. The one with the coarse mesh answered pretty well for coarse work, but when the plasterer desired to do finished work he used a finer sieve. It is true that some of the instruction, in the higher schools of learning, are not conducive to a well-rounded life. A finer sieve must be used. Here lies the necessity and value of our denominational schools. Materialistic evolution ruined Germany. The product sent out from such schools is too coarse and brutal, and sad to say that many of the schools of our own country are teaching the same doctrines. While we need, and must have, education, if we are to turn out a product that will honor our Lord and bless humanity, we must have schools that will thoroughly test the modern ideas and throw out the elements that would mar the beauty of the soul, and would destroy the simple faith, without which no one can please God. This is the place our schools should occupy and if the professional sieve in our schools does not eliminate the dangers that lurk in the State and other educational institutions, they have no ground for an existence, and as such they place an unnecessary burden upon their constituency.

The church, then, should see to it that her schools provide a wholesome moral and religious atmosphere, that the instruction prepare her young people ably to take their place in the business and social world, and, above all, the schools should train them "as children of God for the family of God" for the work of God. Our schools should foster the religion of the Book, in accord with the general interpretation of the church through the Spirit. If our schools refuse to do this, they are disqualified to hold the place of Brethren schools. On the other hand, to make the educational sieve that fine, means endless competition for our schools, and if the church demands this standard, she is under obligation to make it possible. The schools that come up to this requirement should not go begging for the financial means to make possible our claims. Our people have the money to finance our schools and they should do it promptly and gladly. We need, we must have, these finer sieves, so let us make them and keep them in good repair.

Mt. Morris, Ill.

A Church Education

BY LEANOER SMITH

We believe that an education is a good thing, and that a Christian education is a better thing, but that a church education is the best thing,—in education. If church ideals and principles are worth anything, then education, plus these ideals and principles, is worth just that much more. This means that when you send to the Brethren's schools, you get not only an education,—a Christian education,—but that you get a Christian education plus our church ideals and principles, which you can't get elsewhere.

Muscatine, Iowa.

More Agriculture in Our Colleges

BY JOHN WOODARD

The Church of the Brethren is a rural church. Of course we have quite a number of congregations in cities and the number will probably increase in the future, but it is quite likely that the greater part of our membership will always reside in the country.

In the past, many of our young people, who were reared in the country, have gone to cities. In the future, this movement from the country to the city will continue to some extent, but the most of our country boys should, and we believe they will, remain on the farm. On the other hand, some who were reared in the cities and towns will go to the country and farm. These young people who are going to live in the country need an education just as much as those who will live in the cities, and they need an education which will fit them for their life-work. Where shall these young people get their education? In the Brethren colleges or in the State institutions? All will agree that they should be educated in our own colleges. It is necessary, then, that one or more of our colleges give a college course in agriculture.

There may be some who think that our colleges should confine their attention to a Bible course or a Liberal Arts course. If there are such, they should be reminded that our colleges were not founded merely to train ministers and missionaries, but to educate all of our young people under conditions most favorable for their spiritual development. Our young people who will become farmers, engineers, physicians and teachers, need the spiritual environment of the Brethren colleges just as much as those who are to go into foreign lands as missionaries or to become ministers in the homeland. We need active, consecrated lay-members, just as much as we need active, consecrated ministers, and our young lay-members are less likely to become active in church work if they go to State schools for their education, than if they go to our own church schools.

In the past our colleges have not been able to give courses in either engineering or medicine, and most of them have done very little in agriculture. Even at the present time they can not give courses in either engineering or medicine. All they can do is to give pre-engineering and pre-medical courses, that include a large part of the sciences which are found in engineering and medical courses. But a college course in agriculture, which will rank with the courses found in some of the smaller State schools, can be developed in some of our strongest colleges at the present time. Of course, it will be impossible to give all the work found in an agricultural course during the first year. At first there will be no students for the advanced courses, but the start can be made, and advanced work added as the students become prepared for it.

In the Brethren schools, some of the students who want agriculture are in the college, others in the academy. It seems likely that the academic students who want agriculture will be mainly those living on farms near the college. These young men come to college during the winter months, when work is slack. On this account it seems probable that the academic work in agriculture should be arranged as a short course in agriculture beginning late in the fall and continuing until the spring work opens up. The college students who want to study agriculture expect to complete a full college course and our colleges should make it possible for them to remain until they graduate.

If our young people, who want an agricultural course, can not get it at the Brethren colleges, they will go where they can get it. A large number of these young people who go to the State schools will be less useful to the church after they graduate than if they had attended one of our schools.

Some will say that it is useless for our schools to try to give college courses in agriculture. They will look at the equipment that is found at institutions such as the University of Illinois and the Iowa State College and they will say: "We can never compete with these schools." It is true that we can not provide as good equipment as they, but that is not necessary. The State institutions give post-graduate instruction, and that requires costly equipment, while our colleges are under-graduate institutions and such costly equipment is not necessary. There are a large number of small State colleges in the South and West. Their equipment is rather meager, yet their graduates are as well prepared for farming as the graduates of the large State institutions.

It is true that our schools will have to provide more teachers and better equipment before they can give a complete college course in agriculture, but these additional facilities are not beyond the reach of any school which has attained the rank of a standard college. Everybody realizes that an endowment of $200,000 is only sufficient for present needs and that further endowment must be provided from time to time if our schools are to retain their rank. The program of our Educational Board calls for an annual increase in endowment of $300,000. That means $30,000 for each of our ten schools. The chairman of the Board, in discussing the Forward Movement in Education, has emphasized the fact that this is the minimum which is necessary for the schools to do good work. Some of the colleges, at least, ought to do better.

If our schools are to serve the church as well in the future as they have in the past, they must improve their facilities for instruction in the natural sciences, social sciences and Bible. This is necessary whether agriculture is taught or not. In most small colleges,—those in charge of other denominations as well as our own,—the natural sciences should receive more attention. Provision should be made for advanced courses in geology, physics, chemistry, botany and zoölogy.

The agricultural course includes work in the above sciences and in the agricultural sciences proper, which fall naturally into four groups: Farm mechanics, animal industry, plant industry and soils. If there are sufficient teachers in the other sciences, three additional teachers could handle all the agricultural work in a satisfactory manner. There should be one teacher for animal industry, another for plant industry and the third for soils and agricultural engineering. For a time two teachers could handle the work, but eventually three would be necessary. Farm management could be taught by either the professor of plant industry or the professor of animal industry. Agricultural economics and rural sociology could best be taught in the department of social science, if the teacher is acquainted with rural conditions.

Of course, there are other groupings which might be more satisfactory. Soils and geology under one man, and physics and agricultural engineering under another, would probably be better than the arrangement previously mentioned, but that would not change the number of teachers. Six teachers in agriculture and other sciences are sufficient to give the agricultural course. As there should be at least three science teachers, the agricultural course will need the addition of only three more teachers. Is that possible?

But what about the physical equipment? It is expensive? Laboratory equipment for agriculture is no more expensive than for physics and chemistry. If the latter can be provided, the former can. A farm is not essential but is a great help, especially for the work in animal industry. The fact that the agricultural department has a farm as part of its equipment, will draw many students who would otherwise go to the State schools.

Can one or more of our schools develop a college course in agriculture? It is not a question of can but will. It will take money, of course, but our people have money and they will support our schools if they realize their needs. We want to save our young people for the church and we can save more if they are educated in our schools than if they go to State schools. If we are to educate the greatest possible number in our schools, we must teach agriculture as well as all other subjects for which there is a demand.

Mt. Morris, Ill.

Our Colleges Were Not Listed

BY W. ARTHUR CABLE

TODAY there came to my desk, from the Bureau of Education at Washington, Bulletin No. 30, 1918, entitled "Resources and Standards of Colleges of Arts and Sciences." It is a report of a committee representing the associations of higher educational institutions. Among other values, this study "should help college officers in one part of the country to evaluate credentials presented by students from institutions in other parts. It should assist parents to select wisely the institutions to which they shall send their children. Above all, it should enable college authorities to compare their own institutions with others and to strive for the most necessary improvements."

Turning to a table giving a list of colleges, with detailed data about each, I ran down the list to California and was disappointed not to find LaVerne College. As I continued, I failed to find Mt. Morris, Manchester, McPherson, Blue Ridge, Elizabethtown, and Juniata. Bridgewater was on the list. Daleville was not.

However, the list included both State and private schools, non-sectarian and denominational, Catholic and Protestant. In it were colleges that do not make as good a showing as the Brethren colleges. With one exception, the 1919 Yearbook of the Church of the Brethren indicates our college department faculties as numbering from 6 to 12. Yet the Government list includes 49 colleges maintaining a college faculty of from 6 to 12. And with only one exception our colleges have from 26 to 189 students enrolled. The list includes 57 colleges with enrollments in the college department of from 30 to 188. The income and productive endowments of our colleges are quoted in the Yearbook as from $9,550 to $60,819.56, and from $5,000 to $238,961.84, respectively. In the bulletin appear 96 colleges with an income of from $7,500 to $60,784, out of a total of 255 institutions, 23 of which do not quote; and 83 colleges with a productive endowment of from $1,000 to $236,786, out of the total, 55 of which do not quote.

The foregoing facts would indicate that, from the point of view of the committee of eleven educators who compiled the report, there was no objection to including the Brethren schools. The report states that, early in 1916, the committee sent a questionnaire to 500 colleges, and in the course of a year received replies from 252. The Educational Directory of the Bureau of Education for 1915-16, which may have been used as a basis, lists 620 colleges and universities, including McPherson, Juniata, and Bridgewater. Of course none, possibly, of the Brethren colleges received the questionnaire.

But I wonder if the infrequency with which the activities and institutions of our church are known, outside the Brotherhood, is not illustrative of our general attitude in times past. Have we not lived too much to ourselves? Have we not largely neglected to make ourselves known as an integral part of the leavening influence in the world in which we are living? Have we not sometimes hesitated to join forces with other organizations working to a common end with us?

I have just heard of a Brethren Sunday-school in Michigan that appears to be about ready to resign from the Sunday School Association. And in the face of the Forward Movement, which is just gaining momentum, and which should spur all to increased effort! Now is an opportune time for each one of us to ask himself this question: Am I willing to sit on the curbstone and watch the world go by, or am I going to take a man's share in the responsibilities and resultant joys of this old world of ours? And, by the same token, let the Church of the Brethren ask the same question of itself. Not until we have threshed out the answer will we be ready to lend our shoulder to the aid of the Forward Movement.

5515 Ingleside Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

THE ROUND TABLE

A Day of Rejoicing

BY L. H. PROWANT

"This is the day which the Lord hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it" (Psa. 118: 24).

THIS Easter Day it is rather gloomy and rainy but within many hearts there is a feeling that it is a day of rejoicing. No doubt many experienced that feeling in their worship, in various places, because it "is the day which the Lord hath made."

The Jews rejected the stone which later on became the head of the corner, and consequently are not rejoicing this day. Not so it is with Christians. No other message has brought them such great joy and comfort as the resurrection of Christ. This fact led Peter to exclaim: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again to a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead" (1 Peter 1: 3).

Our future happiness depends wholly upon the resurrection (1 Cor. 15: 12-20). No wonder that in every sermon delivered by the apostles, as recorded in the Acts, the history of the early church, the climax is reached in preaching the resurrection (Acts 1: 22; 2: 32; 2: 24; 3: 15; 3: 25; 4: 2; 4: 12; 4: 33; 5: 31; 10: 40; 13: 30-34; 17: 31. A number of other Bible references will show how different the sermons of the primitive church were from much of the preaching we hear now.

Associated with the event is the day. Surely, if the event is of such great importance, the day upon which the event took place should be a day of service and rejoicing, for it is not a day that we have made but a day which the Lord has given us, hence it is the Lord's Day (Rev. 1: 10), just as the Lord's supper of 1 Cor. 11: 20 is the Lord's because he gave it to us.

The great sermon, on the Day of Pentecost, made great because of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, was no doubt preached on this day. The believers at Troas met on this day in worship, and broke bread in remembrance of the Lord's death. They also listened to Paul's farewell address (Acts 20: 7). Upon this day John was in the spirit on the isle of Patmos (Rev. 1: 10). Jesus first met with his disciples on Sunday after his resurrection.

Let us be glad and rejoice in the day which the Lord hath made!

Hamler, Ohio.

The Art of Conversation

BY EZRA FLORY

TALKING is certainly a very potent agency for good. When we see how earnest and persuasive some men are in business, we can but wish that the same eloquency might be employed in the service of Christ. Whatever one may think of women speaking in meeting, certainly out of meeting women have a fluency and fervency which would make them valuable allies of any cause they might espouse.

Talking is one of the things for which many people do not consider themselves responsible. It costs so little and is so common that the world does not appreciate its value. But if our Savior's words be true,—that for "every idle word that men shall speak they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment,"—talking is a serious business.

Paul is rich in admonition in this particular: "Let the word of Christ dwell richly in you in all wisdom" (Col. 3: 16); "Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth, but such as is good for edifying" (the word edify means house-building) (Eph. 4: 29); "Let your speech be always with grace seasoned with salt" (Col. 4: 6); "Let your conversation be as becometh the Gospel of Christ" (Philpp. 1: 27).

It is said of Samuel that "the Lord let none of his words fall to the ground." That means that none of them were lost, but that all found their way to their proper destination, did their appropriate work, and returned laden with blessing to the God who gave them.

A single word, fitly spoken, has often changed man's whole career. When the early Christians were persecuted, and driven out of Jerusalem, they went everywhere "talking" about Christ. Christian conversation is almost a lost art now. How seldom does one hear such conversation in the parlor, when visitors arrive! The conversation lags, grows heavy, and dies for want of a proper subject (?). Why do we not talk like Christians? Why do ministers not talk about that for which they should be devoting their lives? This is a constant surprise to the unconverted, and often the occasion of their doubt.

Recently, at a meeting where forty church members were present, the talk ran for three hours upon other subjects, and not once was the name of Christ mentioned. There must be a great deal of sham about professional Christian people. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." "Speak that I may see you." "Tell me what you like to talk about, and I will tell you what you are."

On the other hand, how refreshing it is to meet those who, like Peter and John, say: "We cannot but speak the things we have seen and heard." Suppose you are invited to ride with a man. You consent and expect the conversation to be about the weather, or politics or about crops. It is none of these. He begins with: "Well, how is religion at your place?" How some would be startled by such a direct question and what a profitable conversation would follow! How much might be accomplished by each of us, if our hearts were warm and glowing with the love of Christ, and our minds alert to improve every opportunity that God sets before us.

It will require skill to carry on religious conversation successfully. But it will be worth while to study the art until we become proficient in it. If we follow Paul's advice to the Colossians we shall always have something to say. It might be well to begin the day with David's prayer: "Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer." If we watch for souls as those who shall give account, we shall find many opportunities to make the conversation both profitable and a real pleasure, at the same time that it will be a blessing to others.

Chicago, Ill.

Thoughts on Prayer

BY D. D. THOMAS

THE subject of prayer is one of much concern to me. Its study should engross the attention of God's people everywhere. It is the direct avenue to God. No promise is made plainer than the one that God will hear prayer. No assurance is clearer than the one that God wants us to pray. No practice gives more comfort. Truly, it is a great privilege to talk to the Father of all things! And, since we know that he answers our prayers, it is one of the most practical subjects of the Bible.

Recent experience has proved to me that our prayers are too formal. Mostly we pray for things in general,—nothing is specific, nothing is thought of until we get on our knees. It seems to me that this is not well. The burden of our prayers ought to be great,—things that we have thought of much before we came to service. Whatever we have prayed for much, is sure to come forth from our hearts,—things that are specific. Pray not only for men in general, but pray for a definite person, whom one has learned to love. Pray not only for things in general, but for a thing,—an object, a goal.

Sometimes the worshipers use the same prayer,—or nearly the same prayer,—each time they pray. It shows that they had not thought much about it before they fell on their knees. They have gotten in the ruts, and their worship will be formal if they are not careful. We should study our prayers, as much so as a minister needs to study his sermons. The things we long for ought to be the things we pray for. Sometimes, however, a little study will prove to us that the things we long for are not the things we should have.

The things for which we pray are very often not the first things in our minds. When we work six days for ourselves, we are apt to occupy a part of our thoughts on the Lord's Day with our weekly subjects, if not careful. Such a tendency is apt to grow, until, after a while, we will have little or no interest in spiritual things.

Much grace may be gotten by not forgetting to pray every day. Because of a failure on this very point one can not get some people to pray in public. They never pray at home, at their work, in the secret chamber. Some may not express themselves as well as others, but all can pray.

When one prays, one ought to think of the brotherhood of men and the Fatherhood of God. One's prayers ought to be as broad as the universe. Then he will take in the heathen. A true child of God will not leave any one out. But one's gravest concern is for one's own field. One can particularize there.

A great many things may crowd themselves upon one's mind during the week, too many upon which to concentrate in a single prayer. Then choose only the most important and present them in the Spirit. Yes, in the Spirit, for it is by the power of the Spirit that we pray. If we have not the Divine Spirit within, our prayers will be lifeless. Our efforts will be futile, our labors will be in vain.

I am glad the Spirit aids us in prayer. "We know not how to pray as we ought; but the Spirit himself maketh intercession for us with groanings that can not be uttered." Notice the yearning that seems to be expressed in this language! It does not commend eloquence and versatility, but the things that we can not utter. You that say you can not pray, is there not a fund of knowledge in this for your edification? Let the Spirit help you with "groanings that can not be uttered" and rest assured that it will be acceptable with God. And the same Spirit that intercedes for us will give us voice to utter our burdens of heart. Like Moses, the one who is slow of speech may become the most eloquent in addressing God.

One of the things that should concern us is that God answers our prayers. Some, perhaps, think nothing about God answering their prayers. They pray because it is the fashion, and were it not for the people about them, they would not concern themselves as to what they say. One thing would be as good as another. The answer is what one should seek after. God wants us to seek after the answer. Jacob cried out to the angel: "I will not let thee go except thou bless me." He was seeking after the answer. It was God's will that Jacob receive a blessing. His prayer was answered.

Then, too, God knows one's motive in the petitions offered. He who can "discern the thoughts and intents of the heart," knows why we are asking certain things, and it is well to study our own hearts, to see whether we are sincere or not. One ought to labor to discern the difference between weakness and hypocrisy, and not to mistake the one for the other. God will bear with weaknesses but will not put up with hypocrisy.

There is no special time set for prayer. The Jews had an hour for prayer, and it is said that the disciples went up to the temple at that hour. Daniel prayed three times a day. The Gospel writers give no special time. Paul says: "Pray without ceasing." That sums up the matter. Every act should be a service, and every service should be accompanied with prayer. A man loses nothing in taking time to pray. His health is not impaired by it and the little time he loses by it, is abundantly made up by the riches of God's grace.

Do not forget that prayer is a fertile soil for the growth of grace. Its strengthening power is very great, and the most timid spirit will become bold when nurtured by prayer. Its consummation is praise. We may not need to pray in heaven, but we shall praise. The one grows naturally into the other. The objects of our prayers are all consummated, and we praise the Lord fully because he is worthy.

Latty, Ohio.

Society's Need

BY CHESTER F. SCHROYER

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay;
Princes and lords may flourish, or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied."

WITH the insight of a prophet, Goldsmith read in the signs of the times a verification of the truth which men must learn over and over again,—that individual character is the basis of society. Man must be the proper study and highest concern of mankind. The regeneration and reformation of the individuals who compose the proletariat still is the logical solution for the social ills which are so prevalent.

Only recently George Landsbury, a labor leader, said in London: "I still retain some faith in religion. You agnostics are not going to build up a new world by mere organization and machinery. It is new hearts, a new inspiration and a new spirit breathed into mankind that you want." The first man who advocated that doctrine was crucified. Men are being crucified anew by public opinion today for holding that doctrine. It is not popular but it is the only way to a better world.

Thinking men, with an eye to the future, view with grave concern the growth of our urban population. We have gone a long way since the world was called a field by the Great Teacher. The world has been commercialized. Human life, in the eyes of the world, has decreased in value. We are losing our sense of individuality and of responsibility to our fellow-men. The world is being regarded as merchandise and machinery, to be possessed and exploited. Men have become mere numerals, with which leaders of commerce and industry calculate projects. Instead of a peasantry who, in God's pure air and sunshine, assist God's laws in the production of the fruits of the soil, we have a large and rapidly-growing proletariat who are but cogs in the wheels of a factory age.

This is an experimental age of society. What have we not tried and found wanting! We tried large armaments to prevent war,—but the nations with the greatest armaments were the first in war. We tried shorter hours and higher wages for the discontent of the workingman,—but here in America, where conditions of the workman are best, we have more labor troubles than in any other country, with anarchy and Bolshevism rampant. With the Great Teacher the world is a field; with us it is a factory. We must finally come to realize that his teaching was, and still is, fundamental; that the trouble is not with God's field,—the world,—but with its farmers; not with the wages, but with the workers.

Social betterment can not be attained by external, mechanical and economical change alone. Spiritual, ethical and personal change is needed. Permanent reconstruction can come only when the teachings and Spirit of Christ are applied to social problems in greater measure than they have been in the past. His are not ways of redeeming society as a whole, but by changing individuals to make a people susceptible to social redemption. First we must have better men, and a better world will come as a natural sequence. First let us build character which will result in usefulness, not in a material and selfish way but in unselfish, social service.

This teaching goes to the root of the difficulty. Not what we must do for men but what men must do for themselves is the need. To improve the world as God's field, we must improve ourselves in grace toward God and man.

We dare not lose sight of human values. Man must be our first concern, despite the fact that commerce, industrialism and materialism bulk high on our horizon. We must realize more fully the worth of childhood as a time for determining the future of society. One-fourth of our population who are workers in poorer circumstances will become the parents of three-fourths of the next generation. If anarchy, Bolshevism and unchristian ideals become prevalent in that working class from whose homes the bulk of the next generation will come, it will be a condition most deplorable.

If society would turn to Christ's method of social reconstruction with an energy and unity which it showed in the war, every valley would be exalted and every hill brought low.

Lynbrook, N. Y.

Goo's way of forgiving is thorough and hearty,—both to forgive and to forget; and if thine be not so, thou hast no portion of his.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

Joys of the Christian Life

1 Peter 1: 3-12

For Week Beginning June 1, 1919

1. Introductory.—The first joy of the believer, here referred to, is the hope that comes to us all through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. He is "the first-fruits of them that slept." The assurance of his rising from the dead is the guarantee of our own resurrection. That, certainly, is a great joy as well as a glorious hope. When we lay our dear ones away, joy comes in the knowledge that they are in the glory land, that their bodies will rise again, and that we shall see them anew when God will wipe away all tears from our eyes.

2. A Blessed Promise.—It is something truly worth while: "An inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away." Our inheritance on earth, if it is neither corruptible nor defiled, will certainly "fade away." It will come to an end. This is a defiled world. Sin has everywhere left its mark. The trail of the serpent is over it all. The hope of the Christian is that he shall be done forever with this sort of thing. He shall be free from the contagion of sin, its corruption and defilement, and the surroundings of his eternal residence shall henceforth be incorruptible, undefiled and unfading. That hope is worth living for,—worthy of life's most supreme service. Herein is one of the great joys of the Christian life.

3. Faith Is Sometimes Put to the Test, But Nevertheless Victorious.—God always has a purpose in his testings,—"that the proof of your faith, being more precious than gold that perisheth, though it is proved by fire, may be found unto praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ." The joy does not come during the testing, perhaps, but it certainly is the eventual result of it. The "manifold trials" may, for the time being, cause grief, but we may have the joyful assurance that out of it will come a clearer vision and a brighter hope. We can endure as seeing him who is invisible. We can bear all trials because of the joy which Christ has sent into our hearts in helping us to bear the burdens. Like Paul we know that it will work out for us "a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

4. The Joy of Real Service.—In helping and befriending those in real need, a wonderful joy comes to us. The cup of cold water, given in the name of Jesus, has its reward. We all know, possibly, something of the joy of doing good, and it ought to inspire us to greater effort. None but the one who has brightened another's pathway, knows the unspeakable delight to the soul. God brings the reward home to the heart that truly serves him by blessing the lives of others. The Loving Father always has a blessing to be dropped into the outstretched palm of him who serves "one of these little ones." No one will charge us with being guilty of extravagance of expression when we say that there is no joy equal to that which comes from unselfish, beneficent work done for others in Christ's name. We do not have to look forward to the hereafter, to receive a reward for "the deeds done in the body." The greater rewards, the supremest joys, are held in waiting, but there is a joy that God gives to the one who does his best to serve him in kindness to the poor and needy. Nothing on this earth is more sure than that. Seedtime and harvest will come, for God has so decreed. The righteous shall not fail of their reward.

5. Suggestive References.—Rejoicing in hope of the glory of God (Rom. 5: 2, 11). Joy and peace in believing (Rom. 15: 13). One cause of our rejoicing (2 Cor. 1: 12, 24). Sorrowful, yet rejoicing (2 Cor. 6: 10). Joyful even in tribulation (2 Cor. 7: 4). Joy abounding (2 Cor. 8: 2). Rejoicing always (Philpp. 4: 4). Joy of the Holy Ghost (1 Thess. 1: 6). Joyful under suffering (Heb. 10: 34). Joy in time of temptation (James 1: 2). Rejoice while suffering (1 Peter 4: 13).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, MAY 25

Sunday-school Lesson, Repentance.—Jonah 3: 1-10; Luke 13: 1-5; Acts 2: 37, 38.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Contending for the Faith.—Jude 3.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., in the Rummel church, Pa.

Bro. J. L. Mahon, of Van Buren, Ind., in the Lima church, Ohio.

Bro. Jas. A. Guthrie, of Spencerville, Ohio, in the Sand Ridge church, same State.

Bro. S. E. Thomas, of Garden City, Kans., in the Ottawa church, same State.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Two were recently baptized in the Detroit church, Mich.

Three were baptized April 20 in the Spring Creek church, Pa.

Three were baptized May 11 in the Canton Center church, Ohio.

Five have been baptized in the Midway church, Pa., since the last report.

Two were baptized on Easter Sunday in the First church, Philadelphia.

One has been added to the West Nimishillen church, Ohio, since the last report.

Two more, making five in all, have recently been baptized in the Virden church, Ill.

One has been baptized and one reclaimed in the Schoolfield church, Va., since the last report.

Eleven were baptized in the Valley church, Va.,—Bro. J. S. Roller, of Timberville, same State, evangelist.

Four were baptized in the Bellefontaine church, Ohio,—Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Twenty-two were baptized in the Everett church, Pa.,—Brethren Ira Holsopple and Edgar Diehm, evangelists.

Five were baptized in the Pottstown church, Pa.,—Bro. M. C. Swigart, of Germantown, same State, evangelist.

Five accepted Christ in the Salamonie church, Ind.,—Bro. E. L. Heestand, of Plymouth, same State, evangelist.

Twenty-six have been baptized in the Glade Run church, Pa.,—Bro. C. O. Beery, of Pleasant Hill, Ohio, evangelist.

Nineteen have been baptized recently in the East Fairview church, Pa., as the result of meetings held last winter.

Twelve have been baptized in the Fostoria church, Ohio,—Bro. E. E. Eshelman, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Forty-nine have been baptized in the Pyrmont church, Ind.,—Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe, of Marshalltown, Iowa, evangelist.

Fourteen were baptized in the Shippensburg church, Pa.,—Bro. Galen B. Royer, of Huntingdon, same State, evangelist.

Twelve were baptized, six reclaimed and two await baptism in the Anderson church, Ind.,—Bro. R. N. Leatherman, of Cincinnati, evangelist.

Twenty confessed Christ, fourteen of whom have been baptized, in the Long Meadow church, Md.,—Bro. Galen B. Royer, of Huntingdon, Pa., evangelist.

Forty-three were baptized and nineteen restored in the Buena Vista church, Va.,—Bro. Saylor Greyer, of Toledo, Ohio, evangelist. Five were baptized previous to the meetings.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

One has been received in the Ottawa church, Kans., since the last report.

Bro. W. C. Detrick, of Bryan, Ohio, to begin August 24 in the Wabash church, Ind.

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin Oct. 26 in the Big Creek church, Okla.

Bro. A. P. Musselman, of Batavia, Ill., to begin June 15, in the Sheldon church, Iowa.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

Two Conference queries, received too late for earlier publication, will be found on page 332.

Bro. John R. Snyder, editor of the Conference Daily, gives a message to our members on page 332. His arduous efforts deserve the whole-souled support of all.

In addition to the announcement on page 332, concerning railroad fares to the Conference, our Transportation Agent, Bro. P. S. Miller, calls our attention to the published newspaper statements to the effect that "special rates of two-thirds of the usual round-trip charges will be put into effect soon by the Railroad Administration for travel to religious, fraternal and educational meetings." Bro. Miller did not have time to secure detailed information from the railroad authorities, as it was Saturday evening and the offices were closed. We suggest that our readers present the matter to their local agents and request them to secure complete information. Many who had not thought of attending the Conference will no doubt be induced to do so by the prospect of lower fares.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. Thos. C. Ecker has moved from Taneytown to Kump, Md.

Bro. E. E. Joyce, late of Leslie, Idaho, announces his change of address to R. D. 3, Nampa, same State.

Bro. B. D. Kerlin changes his address from 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill., to R. D. 1, Garrett, Ind.

The Oregon representative on the Standing Committee for the Winona Lake Conference is Eld. Geo. C. Carl.

Bro. Wm. E. Thompson expects to leave his charge at Conway Springs, Kans., to locate at Ottumwa, Iowa, Aug. 1.

The Standing Committee delegate for Western Colorado and Utah, at the coming Conference, is Eld. A. A. Weaver.

Idaho and Western Montana has chosen Eld. B. J. Fike to represent the District on the Winona Lake Standing Committee.

This Is the Week

Yes, this is the week in which our brethren and sisters, loyal to the cause of world-wide evangelization, are actively at the task of lifting their Conference offering. Every section of the Brotherhood is engaged in it. We are very hopeful that the Brotherhood may show itself 100% efficient in this Bicentennial year, by lifting an offering in every church we have in this country. May there be one from every church!

Just this week there came to us the estimates from India for 1920. The call of India is for more than $140,000 for this one year. This shows that the Forward Movement is being applied in that mission, and this is but indicative of what the future demands may be. But there is not the need to raise the offering unless the places are there to use it.

This note, therefore, is intended as an expression of thanks for those churches that have done their best for the offering and likewise is an appeal to those who have done little, or have neglected the call. Please do not allow others to do the work which you should do, for the efforts of all are necessary.

We have helped to free the world from autocracy; let us help to free it from sin. Let us "FINISH THE JOB."

Hoping that you may not, by failing to give on this great day, miss the blessing which will accrue to you and your church, and appreciating your every effort of helpfulness, we are,

Most fraternally yours,

GENERAL MISSION BOARD
Church of the Brethren.

Northern Virginia will be represented on the Standing Committee at Winona Lake by Elders H. C. Early and J. Carson Miller.

The Second District of Virginia is to be represented on the Winona Lake Standing Committee by Elders A. S. Thomas and Jno. S. Flory.

Southwestern Kansas and Southeastern Colorado has selected Eld. Jacob Funk as Standing Committee delegate for the coming Conference.

Bro. F. M. White, of Trevilian, Va., would like to get in touch with a brother who knows how to combine repairing automobiles with helping to build up a church.

Bro. D. L. Miller, writing from Hagerstown, Md., under date of May 16, says: "I shall hold meetings here a few days and then go to Altoona, Pa." Bro. Miller expects after that to return to Mount Morris before the Conference.

Bro. J. F. Valentine, of Belington, W. Va., who was recently engaged in evangelistic work in Upshur County, same State, is now in position to assist other West Virginia congregations who may desire his services in a series of meetings.

Bro. Jas. M. Moore, of Lanark, Ill., was a recent visitor at the "Messenger" rooms. Bro. Moore spent several days in Elgin last week, making final disposition of books and other personal belongings of his father, Bro. J. H. Moore, former Office Editor of the "Messenger."

Bro. Ira J. Lapp, of Miami, N. Mex., writing of his recent visit to Pecos Valley, that State, reports that the missionary offering of the eight members there is $370. He says, "To them the Forward Movement means business." Does it mean that kind of business to you?

A message from Bro. Geo. L. McDonaugh, of Alhambra, Calif., brings us the sad news of the death of his wife in Los Angeles, at 7 P. M., Sunday, the 18th. Bro. McDonaugh is widely known among our people and all will join in extending him their deepest sympathy in his bereavement.

Bro. J. H. Moore and wife, of Sebring, Fla., are planning to attend the Winona Conference, if all goes well. This will be a special pleasure to them and their many friends, in view of the fact that Bro. Moore has not been permitted to attend a Conference since he left the editorial chair of the "Messenger."

Writing from Jerusalem under date of April 17 Bro. A. J. Culler says: "We are packing up and preparing to separate. I guess I will not get to remain over Sunday, but leave tomorrow, to go directly into the interior of Armenia. Conditions are worse than we expected, so far as many things are concerned. Owing to censorship I shall not send any remarks about political conditions here. I shall not even make any about religious conditions, owing to the extreme delicacy of the situation. My safety depends on being non-committal on such things."

MISCELLANEOUS

The Poplar Valley church, Mont., has decided to change the date of the Sunday-school Convention, announced for July 4, to July 6.

The new house of worship, at Oklahoma City, Okla., is to be dedicated at 11 A. M., Sunday, May 25. For about a year past Bro. J. H. Morris has been pastor of the congregation.

THANK YOU

Of course, every one is very anxious to know the results of the Armenian and Syrian Relief Drive. We are giving herewith, by States, the amount of cash and pledges that have come into our hands up to April 30. There is much money coming in at this time and this will be reported later, through our publications.

The results of this great campaign will go into our church history as one of our great works during reconstruction days succeeding the world war; and we know that joy and satisfaction will come to you because you have had a part in it.

We take this means of thanking every Regional Secretary for the splendid part he has played in this drive. We thank the District Chairmen for what they have done; and the local Chairmen, who have been right on the firing line, collecting the money and furthering the cause. How blessed it is when we work in unity! To the givers themselves we wish to give an expression of our gratitude. We have not been able to write a warm letter of thanks to every church that has given so magnificently. Some have sent in really wonderful offerings. And they have been happy in it. May God reward them for this!

Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund

December 1 to April 30, Inclusive

Alabama,	$ 37.37	Montana,	$ 126.43
Arkansas,	96.50	Nebraska,	1,171.26
California,	2,488.99	New Jersey,	4.00
Canada,	512.19	New Mexico,	46.53
Colorado,	728.59	New York,	85.78
Cuba,	282.00	North Carolina,	133.88
Delaware,	18.00	North Dakota,	1,203.13
District of Columbia,	46.04	Ohio,	16,690.61
Florida,	379.50	Oklahoma,	141.54
Idaho,	945.53	Oregon,	268.77
Illinois,	6,942.54	Pennsylvania,	20,427.40
Indiana,	16,259.17	South Dakota,	36.50
Iowa,	7,163.46	South Carolina,	2.50
Kansas,	6,132.89	Tennessee,	351.60
Louisiana,	388.70	Texas,	646.44
Kentucky,	36.00	Virginia,	4,291.17
Maryland,	4,004.31	Washington,	941.87
Michigan,	1,043.36	West Virginia,	815.02
Minnesota,	58.56	Wisconsin,	274.09
Missouri,	1,860.97
		Total,	$97,663.10

Relief and Reconstruction Fund

December 1 to April 30, Inclusive

California,	$ 75.25	New Mexico,	$ 6.00
Canada,	30.00	North Carolina,	124.00
Colorado,	233.30	North Dakota,	55.42
Idaho,	5.50	Ohio,	200.03
Illinois,	180.25	Oregon,	48.00
Indiana,	360.85	Pennsylvania,	294.94
Iowa,	107.03	South Carolina,	21.10
Kansas,	146.80	Tennessee,	11.50
Maryland,	288.80	Texas,	8.40
Michigan,	30.00	Virginia,	176.35
Minnesota,	395.00	West Virginia,	59.89
Missouri,	16.00	Wisconsin,	50.00
Nebraska,	61.90
		Total,	$3,476.59

Summary

Total receipts Armenian and Syrian Relief,*	$ 97,663.10
Total receipts Relief and Reconstruction,*	3,476.59
Approximate total unpaid pledges,	5,208.20
Total reported to date,	$106,347.80

*These two funds will be used for Armenian Relief, but have been acknowledged according to request made when money was sent in.

Much credit must be given Bro. Geo. W. Flory for his splendid help in organizing this campaign. He threw his whole personality and force into this cause and by reason of this was able to persuade or conscript men for the great work itself. He deserves much credit.

But more thanks than we can extend, will be the expressions of gratitude that we shall never hear until, in heaven, we meet those countless starving women and children of Armenia, who, through the efforts of our church, will be fed. How the tears come, as we think of the joy that these thousands of dollars will bring!

And we can truly say in their behalf, "We thank you!"

Executive Committee of Relief and Reconstruction Committee.

Bro. J. H. Moore and wife, of Sebring, Fla., are planning attend the Winona Conference, if all goes well. This ill be a special pleasure to them and their many friends, view of the fact that Bro. Moore has not been permitted to attend a Conference since he left the editorial air of the "Messenger."

Writing from Jerusalem under date of April 17 Bro. J. Culler says: "We are packing up and preparing to parate. I guess I will not get to remain over Sunday, t leave tomorrow, to go directly into the interior of rmenia. Conditions are worse than we expected, so far many things are concerned. Owing to censorship I all not send any remarks about political conditions here. shall not even make any about religious conditions, ving to the extreme delicacy of the situation. My safety pends on being non-committal on such things."

MISCELLANEOUS

The Poplar Valley church, Mont., has decided to change e date of the Sunday-school Convention, announced for ly 4, to July 6.

The new house of worship, at Oklahoma City, Okla., is be dedicated at 11 A. M., Sunday, May 25. For about year past Bro. J. H. Morris has been pastor of the ngregation.

THANK YOU

Of course, every one is very anxious to know the results the Armenian and Syrian Relief Drive. We are giving rewith, by States, the amount of cash and pledges that ve come into our hands up to April 30. There is much oney coming in at this time and this will be reported er, through our publications.

The results of this great campaign will go into our urch history as one of our great works during reconuction days succeeding the world war; and we know t joy and satisfaction will come to you because you ve liad a part in it.

We take this means of thanking every Regional Secrey for the splendid part he has played in this drive. We nk the District Chairmen for what they have done; l the local Chairmen, who have been right on the firing e, collecting the money and furthering the cause. How ssed it is when we work in unity! To the givers themves we wish to give an expression of our gratitude. e have not been able to write a warm letter of thanks every church that has given so magnificently. Some ve sent in really wonderful offerings. And they have n happy in it. May God reward them for this!

Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund

December 1 to April 30, Inclusive

bama,	$ 37.37	Montana,	$ 126.43
ansas,	96.50	Nebraska,	1,171.26
fornia,	2,488.99	New Jersey,	4.00
ada,	512.19	New Mexico,	46.53
rado,	728.50	New York,	85.78
a,	282.00	North Carolina,	133.88
ware,	18.00	North Dakota,	1,203.13
rict of Columbia,	46.04	Ohio,	16,690.61
ida,	379.50	Oklahoma,	141.54
o,	945.53	Oregon,	268.27
ois,	6,942.54	Pennsylvania,	20,427.40
ana,	16,259.17	South Dakota,	26.50
a,	7,163.46	South Carolina,	2.50
sas,	6,132.89	Tennessee,	351.60
isiana,	388.70	Texas,	645.44
tucky,	26.00	Virginia,	4,291.17
yland,	4,004.31	Washington,	941.87
higan,	1,043.36	West Virginia,	815.02
nesota,	558.56	Wisconsin,	274.09
souri,	1,860.97
		Total,	$97,663.10

Relief and Reconstruction Fund

December 1 to April 30, Inclusive

fornia,	$ 75.25	New Mexico,	$ 6.00
ada,	30.00	North Carolina,	124.00
rado,	223.20	North Dakota,	55.42
o,	5.50	Ohio,	200.03
ois,	180.25	Oregon,	48.00
ana,	360.85	Pennsylvania,	794.94
a,	107.03	South Carolina,	21.10
sas,	146.80	Tennessee,	11.50
yland,	288.89	Texas,	8.40
higan,	30.00	Virginia,	176.55
nesota,	395.00	West Virginia,	59.89
souri,	16.00	Wisconsin,	50.00
aska,	61.90
		Total,	$3,476.50

Summary

l receipts Armenian and Syrian Relief,*	$ 97,663.10
l receipts Relief and Reconstruction,*	3,476.50
roximate total unpaid pledges,	5,203.20
otal reported to date,	$106,347.80

*These two funds will be used for Armenian Relief, but have been acknowledged according to request made when money was sent in.

Much credit must be given Bro. Geo. W. Flory for his kindid help in organizing this campaign. He threw his ble personality and force into this cause and by reason this was able to persuade or conscript men for the ut work itself. He deserves much credit.

AROUND THE WORLD

Sensible Advice

At the recent convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, held at Atlantic City, N. J., it was urged that wide skirts for women, long-sleeved waists, with high neck, and a positive ban on dancing are necessary to preserve the morals of the youth of our land. Dr. Florence N. Richards, medical director of William Penn High School for Girls, Philadelphia, said: "Waists, exposing the shoulders, should be discarded. Let evening gowns be equipped with small sleeves, at least, and let there be a high-cut corsage." More and more are the women of our land taking safe and sane views on the question of dress. It is decidedly heartening to note this evident trend toward simplicity and modesty.

At the Parting of the Ways

At times, the necessity of making an instant decision for the right is forced upon us in a wholly unexpected way, and happy is he who chooses quickly and wholeheartedly. The press relates that Miss Eva Tanguay, a vaudeville actress, coming to her room in a hotel, recently, found a Gideon Bible, and noted this advice: "If discouraged or in trouble, read John 14." Right there the arrow of conviction found its mark, for Miss Tanguay says: "From that moment I read and read. Now my one aim and desire is to go before the people of our American cities and impart to them a knowledge of the Bible." After gaining a complete mastery of the Sacred Volume, Miss Tanguay hopes to make use of all her ability in the evangelistic field.

Unifying Public Instruction

Strong efforts are being made by the Department of the Interior, in the furtherance of Americanization. To that end, according to Dr. P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, all instruction must be carried on in the English language, and private and parochial schools must teach the same subjects taught in the public schools. In the past, many of the parochial schools have not only made use of the various foreign languages, in the work of instruction, but also had courses of study peculiarly their own. This has resulted in creating a sphere of action and manner of life wholly at variance with established principles of Americanism. Dr. Claxton truly says: "Without a knowledge of English no one can truly become an American."

Bolshevik Iniquity

Pernicious attempts by the Bolsheviki in the Caucasus, as elsewhere in Russia, seek to destroy religion by bringing it into contempt. The most sacred functions of religion are made ridiculous by being perverted into irreverent and even obscene parodies. The better elements of Russia are becoming greatly alarmed over the disastrous influences thus being excrcised, and well they might. If the sacred tenets of religion are wholly ignored and even ridiculed, the morals of the people are bound to decline most alarmingly. Never before, in the history of the Russian people, have there been as many instances of shocking offenses against sexual propriety and decency as at present. As a ship without a rudder, so the Bolshevik-controlled part of Russia is drifting toward imminent destruction.

A Formidable Foe

According to medical experts, cancer is increasing, and now destroys one out of every twenty persons in the United States. In New York City about 5,000 persons die of cancer every year. The alarming malignancy of the disease strongly suggests the propriety of treatment in the earliest stages, when a permanent cure is said to be quite feasible. The earlier a suspected lump or pimple is removed, the more certain is the prevention or cure. Cancer usually occurs in middle life, or among persons who have passed the forty-year mark. In many ways the dread disease most significantly typifies the stealthy approach of sin. Apparently harmless at the beginning, the sinister influence of even the smallest sin soon asserts itself. How watchful we should be to destroy the cancer of sin at the earliest possible moment!

Dangers Ahead

According to the prediction of Abraham Bowers, Immigration Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., two million foreigners will have to come to this country for some years, in order to supply the urgent demand for labor. He thinks that most of these will be Chinese and Japanese. Should his prediction come true, it will constitute a serious who prize the uplifting ethics of the Gospel, to be more active than ever. If this country is to be preserved, the church must come to the rescue.

The People Rule

More and more is representative government of and by the people coming to the fore. The king business is going to the rear so fast that the world's republics now exceed the monarchies in the ratio of twenty-nine to twenty-one. Before the great war, kingdoms and republics were about equally divided. Now the number of republics is constantly being augmented by the creation of new states. The largest republic is China, with 400 million inhabitants, and the smallest is San Marino, with only 11,000. The grievous fault of the monarchical system is the most serious one that if the people get a bad king, they have to put up with him for a lifetime. A republic that happens to be afflicted with an inefficient president, can promptly discard him after the first term, and get a more efficient man.

Prohibition for African Tribes

It is a matter of profound gratification that the world treaty of peace has a prohibition clause in it. In speaking about the mandatory systems, applying to the weaker nations, it is declared: "Communities like those of Central Africa . . . where equal opportunities for trade will be allowed to all members, certain abuses, such as trade in slaves, arms, and liquor, will be prohibited." The sale of liquor to the African tribes has long been the shame of Christendom. The crimes, committed by untutored savages under the influence of liquor, have long cried for the vengeance of High Heaven. Whole regions have been depopulated by liquor. Prohibition will doubtless be a great blessing to those sections. But why would it not be equally good for Great Britain and France?

Europe's Urgent Need

According to American business men, who have completed tours of close investigations throughout Europe, American machinery is the only thing that can bring quick and lasting peace to Europe. The vast army of unemployed is being increased daily by the demobilization of the military forces. In England more than a million people are receiving regular grants from the Government, amounting to a total of more than $5,000,000 a week, because of their unemployment. In Belgium 800,000 are out of work. Holland also has her hands full. Conditions are worse as one goes from Italy to Poland, and then to Czechoslovakia. Roumanian farmers have no horses to till their fields, and the same is true of other lands. The whole industrial world in Europe, now largely idle, lacks machinery, and America is the only country to supply it. Her task is humanitarian rather than commercial.

When Things of Earth Recede

Recent visits of aviators to Elgin gave opportunity to several of our citizens to get their first experience in aëronautics. It was interesting to listen to the narration of feelings and sensations experienced. One of them said he was chiefly impressed by the way things on earth dwarfed as he sailed skyward. At an elevation of 3,000 feet the city looked very small indeed, and farm lands became a mere checker board. The higher the machine climbed, the more diminutive and insignificant seemed things here below. To remove undue conceit about things terrestrial, on the part of any one, that amateur aëronaut recommends a trip by airplane. We were made to wonder whether most Christians, also, might not get a clearer conception of right values,—so far as things terrestrial and celestial are concerned,—were they occupying the high plane of spiritual life that is the God-given privilege of every devoted child of the Father.

Armenians and Turks Since the Armistice

In times past the Turks have never been regarded as kind masters, and there is no reason to suppose that their real nature has changed with the signing of the Armistice. One has only to read of the horrors of the Armenian massacres, to know that men who committed such atrocities, would not change materially because of a cessation of hostilities. The leopard "does not change his spots." Expediency, for the moment, while the discussions of the Peace Conference are going on, makes the Turk put his best foot foremost, hoping thus to escape with lighter war terms. With a great show of repentance the Turkish authorities in Constantinople every now and then sentence and put to death some of the men whom they consider the ring leaders in the massacre of hundreds of thousands of innocent Armenians. Ostensibly they are doing this disciplinary work to prove their sin-

HOME AND FAMILY

Why Are You Standing Outside?

BY MYRA WELCH

Within the fair gates of the city,
Whose Builder and Maker is God,
A life-giving river is flowing,
Where Christ, the Redeemer, hath trod.
He lived upon earth and he suffered
The death on the cross, for he died
To open the door of salvation,
Then why are you standing outside?

Chorus

Why are you standing outside,
Why are you standing outside?
The door is ajar,—there's naught to debar,
Then why are you standing outside?

The prodigal son is returning
From the far-away country of sin,
The sheep on the mountains are weary,
The Shepherd is bringing them in,
The feast is all spread, and the Bridegroom
Will soon come to earth for his bride,
The call may be given at midnight,
Then why are you standing outside?

The winds from the desert are chilling,
The storm-clouds are dark in the sky,—
The mists are obscuring your vision,
But all will be clear by and by.
The bride and the Spirit are calling,
And now is the time to decide,
It may be too late on the morrow,
Then why are you standing outside?

La Verne, Calif.

Unconscious Teaching in the Home

BY IDA W. HOFF

A CHILD is an impressionable being. He is a very imitative creature, having a strong tendency to observe and perform new acts. Imitation is an important means of widening his experience and fitting him for his surroundings. Before school age the process of imitation is his largest asset in learning about his environment and in gaining knowledge.

After school-age, and even throughout the entire life, it is difficult to estimate how much the silent influence of the home has to do with the destiny of character. What is true of the teacher, applies also to the parent. "We are taught, and we teach by something about us that never goes into language at all. This is the very highest kind of teaching,—most charged with moral power, most apt to affect conduct, because it is spiritual in its character, noiseless in its pretensions, and constant in its operation." The silent influence of the parent gives an unconscious revelation of his acquired and inward character.

Parents may not realize the unconscious teaching and training that takes place in the home, but this powerful influence is wielded for good or evil, whether they are cognizant of the fact or not. From healthy, intelligent and Christian families emerges a new crop of healthy, intelligent and Christian beings for service to humanity.

How does this unconscious teaching take place in the home? As parents, we teach in terms of no uncertain sound by means of the voice, by the temper, by the expression of the face, by manners, by the attitude of the parents toward each other, and by the hidden influences, shown in sympathy, love and all the finer feelings of soul-touch which emanate from the Divine.

How interesting to think of the quality and tone of the voice as disclosing a disposition in the heart! Children soon distinguish between the kind, gentle voice and the harsh, repulsive tones. How the voice might be improved by the exercise of it in song! The slogan of the day, "Sing and the world sings with you," is just as true in the home as it is in the world at large. How much more good cheer and radiance emanates from the home where song and music are enjoyed than from the home where the cheery influence of music is unknown.

Too often ill temper is displayed by the parents, and it always has a harmful influence. Temper is termed "an effectual revealer of our real stuff." It lets out the hidden man and pulls off his mask. Parents exhibit to their children some sort of temper. When they least suspect it, the influence keeps going out. Whatever temper we have suffered to develop within us, may we not control it by the grace of God?

How can the child be taught unconsciously by the expression of the face? By reading the lessons of the countenance he sees many pleasurable emotions of joy and love, with cheery smiles, as well as anger, shame and sorrow.

The child's insight is more far-reaching and heart-searching than the lessons from the face. Long before he can read the printed page, does he read and feel the influence of the parents' good nature. This force is unconsciously at work, whether natural or aequired, and is a constant source of supply. The child can grow into a cheery good nature as easily and surely as otherwise, with the proper influence constantly before him.

What is the unconscious tuition in the home? What teaching does the child receive before he emerges from the home into the larger world of experience,—school and community life? We are told that a child learns more the first six years of his life than during any six subsequent years. He is very active in crowding into these six years as much as possible. No one can learn for him; others can furnish the material, but he must do the learning himself. How eager he becomes to see, to hear and to do what others are doing! His little world is carefully scrutinized. Nothing escapes his notice. The home is the child's first small world; the parents are his first guides in leading to an appreciation of his God.

Whatever spirit is manifest in the parents, or is daily demonstrated by them,—be it physical, mental or spiritual,—the same appears in the child. He can not, as yet, discriminate between right and wrong. Good to him is as contagious as the bad. He imitates correct language as readily as incorrect language; good manners as readily as bad manners; careful habits as easily as careless habits.

Before he has studied grammar or rhetoric, he has laid the foundation for proper language. Where the right use of language is constantly employed, he knows no other. It is worth while for parents to use correct language. Then the child does not need to spend years in school, correcting faulty language.

Another unconscious influence of the home is a taste for reading and study. In some homes parents are so absorbed in a search for wealth or worldly pleasure that there goes forth no silent impulse for the study of God's Word and other good books, while in other homes there are shelves of good books and such a devotion to study that there is an impelling influence,—unconscious as it may be,—that impresses every member of the family.

Another means of unconscious teaching in the home is the pictures and mottoes on the wall. The mother who lamented that all her boys became sailors, was greatly shocked to learn that they had received this desire from the picture of an ocean scene hanging in their own room. She did not realize that this ocean scenery, constantly before the boys, would influence them to such an extent as to determine their life work.

The same is true of girl-life. When a girl is taught simplicity in dress from God's Word, as well as by the example of her mother, while pictures, calendars, etc., are allowed to suggest gaudy, stylish and scantily-clad figures for daily imitation, the latter are sure to have a large controlling influence in her life. Why not place before your daughter pictures of the Madonna and other ideal characters, which speak loudly, even though no voice is heard?

Children unconsciously learn lessons in religion very early in life. Prayer at the family altar, asking a blessing at the table, the spirit of worship and love of God are seen and imitated by the child. We can not expect, however, that the spiritual life should be more real to the child than it is to the parent. It has been said that a flower does not sing about the sun; it grows toward it. That is the test of the child's religion: Is he, with the parent, growing Godward in thought, action and character?

As we think of the imitation of children and how susceptible they are to the many unconscious influences of the home, how necessary and important that the very best ideals be placed before them! As our children imitate us, as parents, may we, in turn, imitate Christ! Just in proportion as we follow Christ, will it be safe for them to be guided by us. May we live such beautiful, exemplary Christian lives that it will be safe and helpful for our children to imitate our example.

Maywood, Ill.

A Realistic Dream

BY LEE W. POLLARD

A MAN whom we shall call Earthly Pilgrim once had a dream. In this dream he thought he had passed from this life and arrived at the outer pearly gates, which opened wide. Peter, standing there, with solemn mien, said: "Enter."

Earthly Pilgrim raised his head in wondrous admiration. "Why," said he, "words have not been sufficient to describe this."

"Yes," quoted St. Peter, "those beautiful pearls you see are the crystallized tears of the ones who underwent persecutions for his sake. But let us pass on. Others will soon follow you."

Earthly Pilgrim could not withhold his admiration. "Look, even the streets are gold, and everything seems to be new. Nothing looks worn."

St. Peter remarked: "Not so very new. Abraham once came through this street. Now, let us go through this door."

Earthly Pilgrim followed him, talking rapidly all the while. People who know him said that talk was his strong point.

The interior of this room was magnificent. The most exquisite pictures were hanging on the beautifully-decorated walls, but his attention was attracted to a familiar figure among the crowd gathered there. Yes, it was one of his old neighbors. Earthly Pilgrim was thinking.

St. Peter fixed a stern eye upon him and said aloud: "This is the one whom you criticised in his holy work and humble efforts down there. You tried to blame some little act of his for keeping you away from church. We will now pass on."

Yet a little way, and a radiant light came through an open door. Therein were many beings whose faces reflected the glory of the King (cf. Rev. 7:9).

Yes, Deacon Smith was there. Earthly Pilgrim again looked into the dim past. St. Peter's countenance was stern as he said: "When Deacon Smith, in his earnest efforts, tried to help the cause along, you made sport of him and said you would not attend church that had a hypocrite in it."

At another place, a multitude were singing heavenly songs. Again, Earthly Pilgrim reflected. St. Peter answered his thoughts: "Yes, that is the unfortunate one who withstood the gibes, the jeers and the scornful looks from you people who thought you were better than she. You never held out your hand, nor did you say a helpful word to a yearning heart. Yet her soul was pure and now she rejoices with the downtrodden and faithful (cf. Rev. 7:14). But we can not tarry here."

A group of children of various hues and colors was gathered together at one place. Ah, Earthly Pilgrim had another mental picture brought to him from the dim past. St. Peter said: "Several of these little children starved to death in a foreign land because your pocketbook was tied so tightly to a stony heart the day the preacher made an eloquent appeal for funds. You told those around you it was all a game of graft anyway. Look at that little curly-headed fellow. He would have been a great teacher for the Master, had your ten dollar bill fallen into the offering basket that day. Instead, you went down to the store and paid your tobacco bill with it,—but time passes." With these words he led the way onward.

Here were gathered women with infants,—seemingly of all ages. Again, Earthly Pilgrim started. He seemed to know some. St. Peter noticed this and replied: "They passed away prematurely from lack of proper nourishment because their husbands and fathers spent their money for drink, sold legally be-the home, how necessary and important that the ery best ideals be placed before them! As our chil- en imitate us, as parents, may we, in turn, imitate hrist! Just in proportion as we follow Christ, will be safe for them to be guided by us. May we live ch beautiful, exemplary Christian lives that it will safe and helpful for our children to imitate our ex- mple.

Maywood, Ill.

A Realistic Dream

BY LEE W. POLLARD

A MAN whom we shall call Earthly Pilgrim once d a dream. In this dream he thought he had passed om this life and arrived at the outer pearly gates, hich opened wide. Peter, standing there, with lemn mien, said: "Enter."

Earthly Pilgrim raised his head in wondrous ad- iration, "Why," said he, "words have not been fficient to describe this."

"Yes," quoted St. Peter, "those beautiful pearls u see are the crystallized tears of the ones who derwent persecutions for his sake. But let us pass . Others will soon follow you."

Earthly Pilgrim could not withhold his admiration. Look, even the streets are gold, and everything seems be new. Nothing looks worn."

St. Peter remarked: "Not so very new. Abraham ce came through this street. Now, let us go through is door."

Earthly Pilgrim followed him, talking rapidly all e while. People who know him said that talk was s strong point.

The interior of this room was magnificent. The ost exquisite pictures were hanging on the beauti- lly-decorated walls, but his attention was attracted a familiar figure among the crowd gathered there. es, it was one of his old neighbors. Earthly Pilgrim as thinking.

St. Peter fixed a stern eye upon him and said oud: "This is the one whom you criticised in his ly work and humble efforts down there. You tried blame some little act of his for keeping you away om church. We will now pass on."

Yet a little way, and a radiant light came through open door. Therein were many beings whose ces reflected the glory of the King (cf. Rev. 7:9). Yes, Deacon Smith was there. Earthly Pilgrim ain looked into the dim past. St. Peter's counte- nce was stern as he said: "When Deacon Smith, in s earnest efforts, tried to help the cause along, you ade sport of him and said you would not attend urch that had a hypocrite in it."

At another place, a multitude were singing heavenly ngs. Again, Earthly Pilgrim reflected. St. Peter swered his thoughts: "Yes, that is the unfortunate e who withstood the gibes, the jeers and the scorn- l looks from you people who thought you were tter than she. You never held out your hand, nor d you say a helpful word to a yearning heart. Yet r soul was pure and now she rejoices with the wntrodden and faithful (cf. Rev. 7:14). But we n not tarry here."

A group of children of various hues and colors was thered together at one place. Ah, Earthly Pilgrim d another mental picture brought to him from the n past. St. Peter said: "Several of these little ildren starved to death in a foreign land because ur pocketbook was tied so tightly to a stony heart e day the preacher made an eloquent appeal for nds. You told those around you it was all a game graft anyway. Look at that little curly-headed low. He would have been a great teacher for the aster, had your ten dollar bill fallen into the offering sket that day. Instead, you went down to the store cause people like you said a church member had no business meddling in politics."

And so they traveled from place to place. At last they came to an immense space, but no one was there. The silence was oppressive to Earthly Pilgrim. St. Peter's gaze was piercing as he fixed his wondrous eyes on him and remarked impressively: "You wonder why such a beautiful place is deserted. It is because of the bad example set by people like you. Others so influenced were led astray. They are not where they would have been, had all been true to the Master."

They now came to a massive iron door, bolted on the inside. St. Peter unlocked it with keys hanging at his girdle. When the door swung open, a chilling darkness was disclosed. As St. Peter began to close the door, he remarked: "No guide is needed here. An impelling force will take charge." Clang went the door and Earthly Pilgrim was on the outside (cf. Rev. 21:8).

Dear reader, this was only a dream, but too true in many instances. May we all labor to spread the glory of God's Kingdom!

Garrett, Pa.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

SOUTHERN OHIO ELDERS' AND DISTRICT MEETING

May 7 and 8 of this month the Elders' Meeting and District Meeting were held in the Pleasant Hill church.

At 10 A. M. the elders were called to a season of worship by the Retiring Moderator, Eld. D. M. Garver.

To the roll call sixty-two elders responded, twenty-two were absent and four passed over the river during the year,—H. Baker, J. H. Christian, D. Leatherman and J. C. Bright. These we greatly missed, especially Eld. Bright, who was always very active in these conventions.

During the year the following were ordained to the full ministry: J. H. Root, Van B. Wright, J. A. R. Couser, O. Royer, U. R. McCorkle and D. D. Funderburg.

We planned to ordain four more during this year. The meeting was a very pleasant one.

The evening service was a Missionary Meeting. Eld. L. A. Bookwalter delivered the message. This was full of enthusiasm and spirit, as is characteristic of his sermons.

At eight o'clock the next morning the District Conference convened. The large, splendid church was soon filled. Four hundred autos were reported present. You can have some idea of the size of the audience. Surely, weather conditions have little to do with our people,—it rained the entire day.

We were glad to welcome the following brethren from other Districts: Eld. D. G. Blickenstaff, J. W. Lear, D. H. Keller, —— Wysong, of Indiana, J. Homer Bright, of China. To these were extended the courtesies of the meeting.

The organization of the meeting resulted as follows: Eld. J. W. Fidler, Moderator; Eld. L. A. Bookwalter, Reading Clerk; Bro. C. L. Flory, Writing Clerk.

Eld. J. W. Fidler and D. M. Garver will represent our State District at the Winona Conference.

We planned an "Assembly" of several days' duration for the summer, to take the place of our Ministerial and Sunday-school Meeting, thus providing more time for the most interesting subjects of discussion.

The report from our missions shows splendid work, notwithstanding the effect of the war and the influenza epidemic.

There were no queries for the Annual Meeting.

The meeting was splendid and spiritual throughout. The singing was especially good, being in charge of Sister Marguerite Bixler Garrett, of Indiana,—she being in a Musical Institute at this place, just then.

The Pleasant Hill church knows how to entertain a very large meeting of this kind. The organization of forces seemed almost perfect. The auto committee, lodging, cooking and dining-room management, ushers and all made us feel welcome and happy.

Our next meeting will be held in the Salem church, the Lord willing. Chas. L. Flory.

Union, Ohio.

ANNUAL MEETING OF NATIONAL CHRISTIAN

ning on Thursday evening, June 5, and continuing through Friday, the 6th.

The tokens of God's blessing on the work and the workers of the Association were never more numerous nor more encouraging than this year.

We hope that our readers will take a prayerful interest in this meeting and make it a point to attend if possible. Rev. A. B. Bowman, prominent in the United Brethren Church, Rev. Thos. A. Maxwell, an evangelist from Lincoln, Nebr., Rev. P. B. Fitzwater, D. D., of the Moody Bible Institute, "Lizzie Woods" Roberson, and others, are among the speakers.

If you can not attend, send your testimony and questions by mail at once to Secretary Wm. I. Phillips, 850 West Madison Street, Chicago, and secure a full program.

CONWAY SPRINGS, KANSAS

The work here has been greatly hindered during the past winter on account of influenza. We had planned a revival meeting last October, to be conducted by Eld. O. H. Feiler, of Hutchinson, this State, but our city was quarantined early in October, and we did not think it advisable to attempt holding the meeting until in March.

Bro. Feiler began the meetings March 2, with a good interest and a bright outlook. We only had three meetings when the quarantine was again placed on us, compelling us to close. Bro. Feiler was only with us a short time, but his many kind words and his loving disposition won for him many friends, and will cause him to be long remembered. Three young people were baptized while he was with us, and we are sure that if the meetings could have continued, many others would have come into the fold.

The writer was away two weeks in April, in revival work in the Pleasant View church of this State. Bro. J. R. Wine, of Wichita, filled the pulpit in our absence, and his work was much appreciated.

Our Sunday-school is doing good work under the leadership of Sister Cora Frantz. We also have a live Christian Workers' Band, with John Stauffer as president.

We had our communion service on Sunday evening, May 4, after a week's meetings, conducted by the pastor. Bro. V. K. Meek was with us over the Sunday of our feast, and officiated at the service.

The writer has accepted the pastorate of the Ottumwa church, Iowa, under the direction of the Mission Board of that District, beginning Aug. 1.

Any minister, in a position to accept the pastorate of the Conway Springs church, should write to J. M. Obenchain. We have a few over one hundred members, with a new and modern church, nicely located in Conway Springs, a city of 1,200 population.

Wm. E. Thompson.

FAMINE CONDITIONS IN INDIA

That the reader may know how other parts of India are affected by famine conditions, I will quote from a letter of Dr. R. A. Hume, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Bombay Representative Council of Missions, to John R. Mott, appealing for famine relief money in behalf of all India. In part he says: "I have been an active administrator in three serious Indian famines. But I speak with restraint when I say that in forty-five years of mission service I have never known a time of so painful economic distress as the present. Not only were the rains of the last rainy season, on which India depends for the production of food, very insufficient in many parts of the country, but several causes have combined to make the cost of grain very much higher than in the worst days of the worst famine. One cause was the war. Another cause was the heavy exportation of grain to Mesopotamia and the West. Another cause was a very, very serious epidemic of influenza. . . . This dread calamity has taken off many bread-winners and left helpless widows and children without means of support."

In this connection the following statement from "The Indian Witness" of March 5 will be of interest: "Major Norman White, sanitary commissioner with the Government of India, says it is a conservative estimate to say that India lost more than 6,000,000 by influenza." That is two per cent of population, while in America it was one half per cent. and only one-twelfth the number of deaths.

Dr. Hume's letter, printed in the paper mentioned above, continues: "In many parts of India ordinary grains cost from three to four times as much as in the most trying days of the worst famine.

"All that the excellent Government of India can be expected to do is to keep people from dying by opening relief works, at which just enough money can be earned to keep soul and body together. But such relief is not of the kind to which widows and children of Indian Chris-

Monitor.—Bro. Deeter was with us March 2 and gave a very inspiring sermon on missions, after which an offering of $400 was taken for home missions. The Ladies' Glee Club from McPherson College was here on the same Sunday, furnishing splendid music. Rally Day was observed April 23. Bro. W. H. Yoder, our former pastor, who is now at Morrill, Kans., gave the address in the morning. The children rendered a program in the evening, followed by a short sermon by our present pastor, Bro. Sherfy. The sixth annual Community Day was observed April 30. Capt. Ward, from Camp Funston, gave three lectures during the day. Miss Anderson, from McPherson, gave several good readings. The day was well spent and long to be remembered.—Mrs. Laura Murrey, Conway, Kans., May 10.

Morrill.—Ed. W. H. Yoder, who has been chosen to take up pastoral work at this place, preached his initial sermon on Sunday morning. His subject was a timely one, very practical, and attentively listened to by a large audience. His sermon in the evening was a wonderful appeal for a pure life. We feel that we are indeed fortunate in having secured the services of Bro. Yoder, and pray that the work at this phee may continue to grow.—Mrs. Delilah A. Maxey, Morrill, Kans., May 10.

Navarre.—May 4 the Gospel Team from McPherson College, composed of Brethren Yoder, Stover and Neher and Sisters Cullen and Davis, rendered inspiring programs both morning and evening. In the morning Bro. Paul Yoder talked on "Reconstruction." In the evening, talks were given by the brethren on "Purity," telling of the anti-tobacco movement. Musical numbers were rendered by the quartette at both services. A collection of $20.66 was taken, which was used to pay the expenses of the team. To date we have raised $235 each for the Armenian Relief, and more is promised. Our spring love feast will be held at the Holland house May 31 at 6 P. M. Bro. C. A. Shank was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, representing the Abilene church.—Bessie Enterprise, Kans., May 10.

Ottawa.—Since our last report one has been received into the church by baptism. A few weeks ago Bro. W. B. Devilbiss preached a sermon on "Giving," making a strong appeal for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. At the close of the sermon an offering of $83 was taken. Previous to this, our church had sent in $83.15. Our Teacher-training Class meets one evening of each week. We are studying, "Training the Sunday-school Teacher," Book 1. Each department of the church is trying to do its part in the "Forward Movement." Our communion was held May 10, with 199 members present. Bro. S. J. Heckman, of Overbrook, officiated and we enjoyed the presence of a number of visiting members of neighboring churches. Sunday morning C. M. Thomas delivered a splendid sermon on "Motherhood Parallel With Christ." Special songs were appreciated both morning and evening. Occasionally, on Sunday night, we have stereopticon views of Bible scenes and characters. Bro. S. J. Thompson, of Garden City, to begin a series of meetings. A Child'dren's Day program is being prepared by our young people.—Olive M. Wheeler, Ottawa, Kans., May 12.

Parsons.—Mothers' Day in a short but very impressive program was rendered, followed by an excellent sermon on "Mother," by Bro. H. M. Mohler, who is now conducting a revival here. In the evening the theme was continued in the Christian Workers' Meeting, with another instructive sermon by Bro. Mohler on the subject of "Home." Our love feast will be held Saturday evening, May 24. Our offering for Armenian Relief was $222.40.—Julia C. Jones, Parsons, Kans., May 12.

Sabetha church met in council May 5, with Eld. R. A. Yoder presiding. Four letters were received and three were granted. Bro. R. A. Yoder was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. Roy Kistner, alternate. Our love feast will be held Saturday, May 24, beginning at 10 A. M. The Gospel Team from Goshen will visit us April 26 and 27. Those who attended heard a very interesting program. Sunday morning Bro. Paul Yoder, who was with the team, preached a very interesting sermon.—Mrs. John Helkes, Sabetha, Kans., May 8.

MARYLAND

Brookside.—Bro. E. T. Fike began a series of meetings at the Brookside church April 26 and continued until May 4. The meetings were well attended. Bro. Fike preached fifteen minutes each evening to the children, showing Bible pictures and telling stories about them. We all enjoyed these very much.—Prema R. Bittinger, Oakland, Md., May 8.

Long Green.—We have just closed a very interesting revival. Bro. Galen B. Royer and wife came April 20 and remained until May 9. The attendance and interest grew from the beginning. Twenty confessed Christ, fourteen of whom have been baptized and five young people but one, Miss Ruth, have been received by letter recently. Our contribution for Armenian-Syrian Relief was $242.83.—K. Mae Rowland, Hagerstown, Md., May 14.

Ridgely church met in council May 7, with Eld. A. C. Reber presiding. Plans have been agreed upon for our love feast, services to begin at 5 P. M. Officers were elected for the Sisters' Aid Society, with Sister Sadie K. Harley, President. The report of the missionary committee was read. The amount of $75 for the support of a native worker in India has been forwarded, and also $25 for the support of an orphan in school. April 20 Bro. L. R. Brumbaugh spoke of the Armenian-Syrian Relief work, after which a collection of $37 was taken. Together with our former offerings, will take us over the top. In the evening, an Easter program was rendered, which was well attended.—Debora K. Reber, Ridgely, Md., May 8.

MICHIGAN

Rodney church wishes to announce that the time of our love feast has been changed from June 21 and 22 to June 28, Monday, May, as a time of our minister, Bro. John C. Jehnzen, with well-filled baskets for dinner. Sister Jehnzen is unable to attend church. Services will long be remembered. Present and absent were Bro. Jehnzen's father and mother, and Sister Jehnzen's aged father, Eld. J. E. Predrick.—W. E. Tombaugh, Rodney, Mich., May 12.

Vestaburg church met in council May 10, with Eld. Joseph Robinson presiding. Sunday-school has been in session for one year, being organized July 1, with Bro. John Krabill, superintendent. At the same meeting, Eld. John Krabill was anointed by Elders Joseph Robinson and Samuel Bollinger.—B. F. Switzer, Vestaburg, Mich., May 12.

MINNESOTA

Montlecllo.—Since our last report we have organized two Mission Study Classes, one made up of young ladies, the other of adults. The Sunday-school sent an offering to the India Famine Fund. The Sunday-school also gave an interesting program on Easter morning. Our business meeting was held May 8, and at that time we decided to have our communion service June 16. Mothers' Day was observed by appropriate readings and songs, followed by a discourse by our pastor, Bro. A. J. Nickey. Recently Bro. Fred Sherland, of Condo, N. Dak., and Bro. Lee Hoff, of Nebraska, gave us some fine discourses.—Mrs. W. S. Sink, Monticello, Minn., May 12.

MISSOURI

Deepwater church enjoyed a fine sermon May 4 by Bro. Geo. Leatz, of Rich Hill, Mo. May 11 Bro. Earnhart, from Osceola, Mo., gave us two good talks. We had lunch at noon and spent the day pleasantly together. Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely. We hope the ministering brethren will not forget the Deepwater church when passing this way.—Lizzie Weigle Fairnestock, Montrose, Mo., May 11.

Dry Fork church met in council May 10, with Eld. D. W. Teeter presiding. Arrangements were made for our love feast, which is to be held May 17. Eld. Henry Sunderland was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting, with Eld. D. W. Teeter, alternate. The writer was elected correspondent.—Mrs. Earl Harvey, Jasper, Mo., May 12.

Rockingham church met in council May 3, with Eld. E. G. Rodabaugh presiding. Bro. Oscar Early was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. We decided to continue the present organization of the Christian Workers' Band, with Bro. E. E. Brunk, president. We, with the Wakenda church, have called Bro. Slater, of Springfield, as our pastor for the coming year. Our love feast will be held on Sunday evening, May 18. Brethren Evert Clemens, Willie Falls and Irl Nicholson were sent as delegates to the Ray County Sunday-school Convention, held in Hardin, May 7 and 8. With the new Sunday-school rooms added to our church and attendance at Sunday-school and preaching services increasing, we are looking forward to greater work for the Master in the future.—N. S. Rhodes, Hardin, Mo., May 8.

Shoal Creek.—May 10 we met at 4 P. M. and listened to a sermon by Bro. J. H. Argabright, after which we held our love feast, with 75 members present. Sunday evening, the Bible Class of the Sunday-school had charge of the Christian Workers' program, with the teacher, Bro. E. J. Reese, as leader. The subject was, "Things Worth While As Seen in Mother—Father." We had special music and were also favored with two appropriate selections by the male quartette of the town. Bro. W. R. Argabright preached two inspiring sermons on Sunday. His subjects were, "Sowing and Reaping," and "The Contests of Sin, As Transmitted from the Parent to the Child." We have ordered books for the first course in teacher-training, and expect to organize a class soon.—Virgie Argabright, Fairview, Mo., May 13.

NORTH CAROLINA

Melvin Hill (N. C.) church met in council May 10, with Eld. Geo. A. Branscom in charge. We listened to an instructive talk on the duties of members by the elder in charge. We will be represented at Annual Meeting by Eld. George A. Branscom—Jennie M. Robb, Campobelle, S. C., May 13.

OHIO

Ashland (Pleasley Church).—Mothers' Day was observed by an appropriate service of recitations and song followed by a talk by our pastor, Bro. W. L. Desenberg, on the subject, "Father and Mother." Through the kindness and thoughtfulness of several members of the Ladies' Bible Class was our sick and aged were remembered with flowers. At the suggestion of Sister Lavina Workman, a birthday offering of at least a penny for each year will be taken each Sunday and the money used for missions. The interest in Sunday-school grows and the attendance increases as the weather improves. Our collection for Armenian-Syrian Relief was $446.35. Our quota was $400.—Esther Zimmerman, Ashland, Ohio, May 13.

Bellefontaine church recently enjoyed a revival, conducted by the pastor, Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle. Three accepted Christ and were baptized, with one other who had formerly been baptized for baptism. The Christian Workers' Society was reorganized, with Sister Burl Kaylor, president. Bro. C. S. Lehman, of Lima, was recently chosen elder. An offering of $46.50 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief, $125 having previously been given. The Sunday-school continues to grow.—Lula R. Tinkle, Bellefontaine, Ohio, May 12.

Canton Center church met in council May 10, with Eld. Taylor presiding. The report of the yearly visit was given and elders chosen. Spring is the Sunday-school convention were also chosen. Spring is the time for our superintendent, Bro. Homer, and the writer. We observed Mothers' Day with an appropriate program of songs, readings and talks. At the close of the morning worship, three were received through Baptism.—Mrs. Lydia Conrad, Columbia, Ohio, May 12.

Eversole church met in council May 1, with Eld. John Root presiding. Elders Henry Eby and J. O. Garst were also present. Seven letters were granted and four received. Easter Sunday our young people rendered a splendid program. A collection was taken to help equal for the Armenian-Syrian Relief with an offering of $319. Our Sunday-school is increasing in attendance and is doing good spiritual work.—Hattie Kreitzer, New Lebanon, Ohio, May 11.

Fostoria church has just closed a three weeks' series of meetings. Though results have not been as favorable as could have been desired, yet the attendance and interest were good throughout. The membership has been blessed, and twelve have been received into the church by baptism. Two have been received by letter, and Bro. Eld. Bro. E. E. Eshelman, our pastor, did the preaching and Miss Eva Byerly, our chorister, directed the music. The series began with a splendid Easter program, given by the Sunday-school at the Christian Workers' Society. The theme of it was "Jesus Only." The first Mission Study class of 1919 finished its work and rendered its graduating program several weeks ago. They are repeating the program in Bascom on the two of May 11, to assist in a series of meetings. Our love feast will be held May 25.—Mary E. Roberts, Lima, Ohio, May 9.

Marion church met in council May 10, with Bro. J. L. Guthrie presiding. The annual visit from the elder was given out to this meeting. A good report was given by the brethren. Bro. Geo. L. Deardorff was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. Arrangements were made to hold an all-day Fathers' and Mothers' Meeting on Sunday, May 25, and a committee was appointed to make out a program. There will be a joint Sunday-school Meeting of the Marion and Wyandot schools at this place July 6. Sunday morning, May 11, we had the pleasure of hearing Bro. Jacob Hoover, of Plainfield, preach a splendid sermon on "Citizenship." In the evening we held our love feast and communion service. A number of ministers and members from our neighboring churches were present. Brethren's members from our neighboring churches were present. Brethren's meeting were given up to the Armenian-Syrian Relief, with an offering of $50.—Rachel Bowman, Marion, Ohio, May 12.

New Carlisle.—April 26 and 27 Sister Eva Trostle, of Bethany Bible School, was with us. Saturday she gave a splendid talk to the mothers. Sunday morning she gave two splendid talks which were appreciated by all. In the morning her subject was, "Christian Attire," and in the evening, "How to Be True and Happy." Both times she had a large audience.—Ruth B. Shroyer, New Carlisle, Ohio, May 10.

Pleasant View.—An offering of $1,257 was taken for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. A short time ago $89.33 was given by the Sunday-school, making a total of $1,346.33 to date. There are six young girls in our teacher-training class, of which Sister Blanche Beverly is the teacher. Recently four of the number completed Book I, and are now studying Book II. May 10 we expect the Glee Club of Manchester College to give us a program. Our Christian Workers' Society will give a Mother's Day program May 11.—Ada Miller, Lima, Ohio, May 7.

Sand Ridge.—We are expecting Bro. Jas. A. Guthrie, of Spencerville, Ohio, to be with us in a few months, commencing May 20, and continuing until May 25. Our Sunday-school is increasing in interest and attendance. We are arranging for a Children's Day program in the near future. Bro. Geo. Deardorff is to conduct a series of meetings in September of this year.—Mary E. Prowant, Hamler, Ohio, May 12.

Sugar Creek congregation met in council at the Bunker Hill house May 3, with Bro. W. D. Fisher presiding. We decided to have a short series of meetings some time after harvest, if we can secure an evangelist. A love feast will also be held at that time. We granted three letters and received two. May 7 Bro. Frank Sargent, from Chicago, gave us an interesting lecture in the interest of the Bethany Bible School, which we enjoyed very much.—Sarah Middaugh, Berlin, Ohio, May 10.

West Nimishillen church met in council April 26, with Eld. R. E. Shroyer presiding. Various items concerning the interest of the church were considered. We decided to hold our communion June 14, at 10 A. M. One has been added to the church since our last report. Steps were taken to secure an evangelist to hold a series of meetings during the summer or fall.—L. W. Hall, North Canton, Ohio, May 13.

OKLAHOMA

Guthrie.—May 4 we were pleased to have with us our elder, Bro. F. E. Marchand, of Thomas, Okla., who gave two inspiring sermons, —one in the morning after the Sunday-school lesson, and one in the evening. March 26 we had the pleasure of listening to Sister Lydia Taylor who gave a lecture on Dress Reform. While she was all appreciated very much. Our Sunday-school is moving along nicely and is increasing in attendance.—M. A. Nininger, Guthrie, Okla., May 10.

Hoyle.—Our series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Ray Wagoner, of Enid, Okla., closed April 13. We intended to continue for a longer time, but Bro. Wagoner was taken ill,. Our love feast, which was held April 12, is one to be remembered. Only twenty-eight were present. Bro. H. Booze officiated. Visiting ministers were Brethren H. Booze and George Prentis, of the Pleasant Plains congregation. They returned to their homes after services, but their words of explanation and encouragement were much appreciated. The last lecture, recently given by Sister Lydia Taylor on Dress Reform, was a most acceptable one.—Mary E. Root, Ames, Okla., April 26.

OREGON

Newberg church held her love feast May 4, with most of the members in attendance, and with visitors from Portland and Albany. Bro. G. C. Carter, of Portland, and Bro. Hiram Smith, of Albany, our District Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Secretary, remained over Sunday, giving us a very helpful message in the morning and in the evening spoke to a workers' conference, which was full of help and instruction. Our church and Sunday-school contributed $40 for Armenian Relief.—Eliza J. Moore, Newberg, Oregon, May 4.

Portland church held a love feast service on Saturday evening, May 10, with fifty-four present. We were glad to have with us so many of our neighboring churches. Bro. Hall all were likened by coming together. A number of visitors remained with us over Sunday. Being Mothers' Day, the service was turned over to the sisters and mothers, who rendered a very interesting program. The ladies' choirs sang "Mother Mine." A white carnation was given to all mothers present. After the service, dinner was served in the basement. The theme of the morning was continued during the evening service.—Grace Hewitt, Portland, Oregon, May 12.

PENNSYLVANIA

East Fairview.—May 7 and 8 we held our love feast, which was well attended, Eld. Hiram Kaylor officiating. One hundred and eighty members partook of the sacred emblems. Nineteen young people have been received recently as a result of our revival, held last winter. Our offering for reconstruction work amounted to $273.65. Five letters of membership have been granted since my last report. —H. A. Merkey, Manheim, Pa., May 13.

East Petersburg church enjoyed a spiritual love feast at the East Petersburg home, beginning Tuesday noon, May 6, and closing the following day. Eighteen ministers from adjoining congregations were present. Eld. H. B. Yoder presided. Remarks were made by various brethren of the ministerial force. Bro. Hiram Strickler conducted the evening services.—Phares J. Forney, East Petersburg, Pa., May 10.

Ephrata.—Our love feast was held May 4 and was largely attended. Bro. J. F. Graybill and wife, returned missionaries from Sweden, were present, also Brethren Geo. Weaver, Rufus Hershey, Wm. Gehman and Amos Martin. Sister Graybill gave a talk to the children at the close of the Sunday-school period. May 5 Bro. Graybill gave an address on Sweden, the people, habits and church work. He also illustrated some of the subjects discussed. The talk was very interesting and many were in attendance. May 18 eleven, who completed the Mission Study Course recently, will render a program in the evening. Each member of the class will have a part in the program, which will consist of addresses, recitations, readings and songs, along missionary lines.—Gertrude R. Shirk, Ephrata, Pa., May 9.

Everett church held a two weeks' revival service, beginning April 20. The first week Bro. Jacob Hoover, of Plainfield, Ohio, assisted, and the second, Bro. Edgar Diehm, of Royersford, Pa. Twenty-two were received through baptism, one reclaimed and two await baptism. They were nearly all boys and girls from the Sunday-school, which is growing both in numbers and interest. These meetings closed May 4 with a love feast which was largely attended.—Nancy Lashley, Everett, Pa., May 10.

Glade Run church is rejoicing over the three weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. C. O. Beery, of Pleasant Hill, Ohio, which closed May 11 with a love feast. Bro. Beery did considerable visiting among the members. Seventy-five have been baptized and united with the church. Our Sunday-school attendance is increasing.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa., May 14.

Hatfield.—April 19 a meeting was held in the Hatfield congregation for the purpose of electing members into the official body. Elders James Beery and Jacob Hoover were present. Brethren were present,—the latter presiding. Bro. Wm. M. Delp and his wife were elected to the ministry. Bro. Geo. K. Henning and his wife, and the writer and his wife were elected to the deacon office. Brethren Hoover and his wife were elected Mission Band of Elizabethtown College gave us a very interesting talk on missions. May 3 we enjoyed a very spiritual love feast,—one of the largest ever held in this place. Bro. Wm. Overholtzer, of Myerstown, with other brethren and sisters of neighboring churches were present. May 17 our Mission Study Class will render a program in the Hatfield churchhouse.—J. Herman Rosenberger, Souderton, Pa., May 12.

Midway.—Our Easter Sunday Bro. Nathan Martin, our District Sunday-school Secretary, who has recently moved into our District, preached a very impressive sermon at the Cornwall house. His text was "Peter Reasoned." He also spoke at the Sunday-school at that place. We held our love feast May 6, with Bro. Levi Mohler officiating. The attendance was large and quite a number of ministering brethren were with us, which we appreciated. Among them were Bro. J. F. Graybill, of Ephrata, Sweden, who preached the examination sermon. We were glad to have him with us. He is the missionary supported by this church. Six letters were received. Five have been baptized since the last report and one was received through former baptism.—Lizzie B. Nolt, Midway, Pa., May 10.

Philadelphia (First Church).—April 6 our pastor, Bro. C. C. Ellis, preached for us. In the evening Bro. H. W. Rohrer, our District Missionary Secretary, delivered a splendid address on Easter Sunday two were baptized. In the afternoon the children gave an appropriate Easter program, interspersed with special music. April 27 Bro. J. H. Cassady preached for us both morning and evening. Two were received by letter. Eld. J. M. Fogelsanger, Mrs. J. L. Markley, Mrs. Harry Alderfer and the writer.—Mrs. Wm. H. B. Schnell, Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.

Pleasant Hill congregation had her love feast May 10, with about 190 members present. Eld. J. A. Long, of York, was with us and officiated. Others present were Brethren Nathan Eshelman and Samuel Lehigh.—Amanda K. Miller, Spring Grove, Pa., May 12.

Pottstown.—Our series of meetings, conducted by Bro. M. C. Swigart, of Lancaster, closed May 4. During the three meetings, Bro. J. A. Connell, our church chorister, assisted by our pastor, Bro. G. K. Walker, ably conducted the song services. The attendance throughout the meetings was fairly good. Five were received into the church by confession and baptism. Our Sunday-school, too, is increasing in numbers and a deep interest is being manifested in the work.—Evelyn R. Kulp, Pottstown, Pa., May 7.

Rummel.—Our offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief amounted to $339, with $19 pledged. May 4 we enjoyed a splendid program by the Volunteer Mission Band of Juniata College. An offering was taken for their work. Our pastor gave two special sermons May 4

(Continued on Page 336)

Moultor.—Bro. Decter was with us March 2 and gave a very inspiring sermon on missions, after which an offering of $400 was taken for home missions. The Ladies' Glee Club from McPherson College was here on the same Sunday, furnishing splendid music. Rally Day was observed April 23. Bro. W. H. Yoder, our former pastor, who is now at Morrill, Kans., gave the address in the morning. The children rendered a program in the evening, followed by a short sermon by our present pastor, Bro. Shesly. The sixth annual Community Day was observed April 30. Capt. Ward, from Chicago, gave three lectures during the day. Miss Anderson, for McPherson, gave several good readings. The day was well spent and long to be remembered.—Mrs. Laura Murrey, Conway, Kans., May 10.

Morrill.—Ed. W. H. Yoder, who has been chosen to take up pastoral work at this place, preached his initial sermon Sunday morning. His subject was a timely one, very practical, and attentively listened to by a large audience. His sermon in the evening was a wonderful appeal for a purer life. We feel that we are indeed fortunate in having secured the services of Bro. Yoder, and pray that the work at this place may continue to grow.—Mrs. Delilah A. Maxey, Morrill, Kans., May 10.

Navarre.—May 4 the Glee Club Team from McPherson College, composed of Brethren Yoder, Stover and Neher and Sisters Cullen and Davis, rendered inspiring programs both morning and evening. In the morning Bro. Paul Yoder talked on "Reconstruction." In the evening, talks were given by the brethren on "Purity," telling of the anti-tobacco movement. Musical numbers were rendered by the quartette at both services. A collection of $20.66 was taken, which was used to pay the expenses of the team. To date we have raised $235 cash for the Armenian Relief, and more is promised. Our evening love feast will be held at the Holland house May 31 at 6 P. M. Bro. C. A. Shank was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, representing the Abilene church.—Orpha Hartzler Enterprise, Kans., May 10.

Ottawa.—Since our last report one has been received into the church by baptism. A few weeks ago Bro. W. B. Devilbiss preached a sermon on "Giving," making a strong appeal for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. At the close of the sermon an offering of $91 was taken. Previous to this, our church had sent in $83.15. Our Teacher-training Class meets one evening of each week. We are studying, "Training the Sunday-school Teacher," Book 1. Each department of the church is trying to put on a "Go Over the Top" movement." Our communion was held May 10, with 109 members present. Bro. S. J. Heckman, of Overbrook, officiated and we enjoyed the presence of a number of visiting members from adjoining churches. Sunday morning Bro. G. M. Myers gave a splendid sermon on "Motherhood Parallel With Christ." Special songs were appreciated both morning and evening. Occasionally, on Sunday night, we have stereopticon views of Bible characters. Last night Bro. S. E. Thompson, of Garden City, to begin a series of meetings. A Children's Day program is being prepared by our young people.—Olive M. Wheeler, Ottawa, Kans., May 12.

Parsons.—Mothers' Day was a short but very impressive program was rendered, followed by an excellent sermon on "Mother," by Bro. H. M. Mohler, who is now conducting a revival here. In the evening the theme was continued in the Christian Workers' Meeting, and another instructive sermon was delivered by Bro. Mohler on the subject of "Home." Our love feast will be held Saturday evening, May 24. Our offering for Armenian Relief was $222.40.—Julia C. Jones, Parsons, Kans., May 12.

Sabetha church met in council May 5, with Eld. R. A. Yoder presiding. Four letters were received and three were granted. Bro. R. A. Yoder was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. Roy Kistner, alternate. Our love feast will be held Saturday, May 24, beginning at 10 A. M. The McPherson Glee Team was with us April 26 and 27. Those who attended heard a very interesting program. Sunday morning Bro. Paul Yoder, who was with the team, preached a very interesting sermon.—Mrs. John Heikes, Sabetha, Kans., May 8.

MARYLAND

Brookside.—Bro. E. T. Fike began a series of meetings at the Brookside church April 26 and continued until May 4. The meetings were well attended. Bro. Fike delivered twelve splendid sermons to the children, showing Bible pictures and telling stories about them. We all enjoyed these very much.—Prema R. Bittinger, Oakland, Md., May 8.

Long Meadow.—We have just closed a very interesting revival. Bro. Galen B. Royer and wife came April 20 and remained until May 9. The attendance and interest grew from the beginning. Twenty confessed Christ, fourteen of whom have been baptized. All are young people but one. Others have been received by letter recently. Our contribution for Armenian-Syrian Relief was $242.83.—K. May Rowland, Hagerstown, Md., May 14.

Ridgely church met in council May 7, with Eld. A. C. Reber presiding. May 25 has been appointed for our love feast, services to begin at 5 P. M. Officers were elected for the Sisters' Aid Society, with Sister Sadie K. Harley, President. The report of the missionary committee was read. The amount of $75, for the support of a native worker in India, has been forwarded, and also $25 for the support of an orphan in school. April 20 Bro. L. R. Brumbaugh spoke of the Armenian-Syrian Relief work, after which a collection of $137 was taken. Then, with our former officers, will take us over the top. In the evening, an Easter program was rendered, which was well attended.—Dehora K. Reber, Ridgely, Md., May 8.

MICHIGAN

Rodney church wishes to announce that the time of our love feast has been changed from June 21 to June 28. On Mothers' Day, as a surprise, the members of the Rodney church gathered at the home of our minister, Bro. John C. Johnzen, with well-filled baskets for dinner. Sister Johnzen is unable to attend church. This gathering will long be remembered. Among those present were Bro. Johnzen's father and mother, and Sister Johnzen's aged father, Eld. J. E. Fredriek.—W. E. Tombaugh, Rodney, Mich., May 12.

Vestaburg church met in council May 10, with Eld. Joseph Robinson presiding. Sunday-school officers were chosen for one year, beginning July 1, with Bro. John Krabill, superintendent. At the same meeting, Eld. John Krabill was anointed by Elders Joseph Robinson and Samuel Bollinger.—B. F. Switzer, Vestaburg, Mich., May 12.

MINNESOTA

Monticello.—Since our last report we have organized two Mission Study Classes, one made up of young folks, the other of adults. The Sunday-school sent an offering of $10 to the India Famine Fund. The Sunday-school also gave an interesting program on Easter morning. Our business meeting was held May 8, and at that time we decided to have our communion service June 15. Mothers' Day was observed by appropriate readings and songs, followed by a discourse by our pastor, Bro. A. J. Nickey. Recently Bro. Fred Sherland, of Cando, N. Dak., and Bro. Nickey, of Nebraska, were at home and discourses.—Mrs. W. S. Sink, Monticello, Minn., May 12. some fine discourses.—Mrs. W. S. Sink, Monticello, Minn., May 12.

MISSOURI

Deepwater church enjoyed a fine sermon May 4 by Bro. Geo. Lentz, of Rich Hill, Mo. May 11 Bro. Earnhart, from Osceola, Mo., gave us two good talks. We had lunch at noon and spent the day pleasantly together. Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely. We hope this ministering brother will not forget the Deepwater church when passing this way.—Lizzie Weigle Fahnestock, Montrose, Mo., May 11.

Dry Fork church met in council May 10, with Eld. D. W. Teeter presiding. Arrangements were made for our love feast, which is to be held May 17. Eld. Henry Sunderland was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting, with Eld. D. W. Teeter, alternate. The writer was elected correspondent.—Mrs. Earl Harvey, Jasper, Mo., May 12.

Rockingham church met in council May 3, with Eld. E. G. Rodabough presiding. Bro. Oscar Early was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. We decided to continue the present organization of the Christian Workers' Band, with Bro. E. E. Brunk, president. We, with the Wakendo church, have called Bro. Slater, of Springfield, as our pastor for the coming year. Our love feast will be held on Sunday evening, May 18. Brethren Evert Clemens, Willie Falls and Irl Nicholson were sent as delegates to the Ray County Sunday-school Convention, held in Hardin, May 7 and 8. With the new Sunday-school rooms added to our church and attendance and Sunday-school and preaching services increasing, we are looking forward to greater work for the Master in the future.—N. S. Rhodes, Hardin, Mo., May 8.

Shoal Creek.—May 10 we met at 4 P. M. and listened to a sermon by Bro. J. H. Argabright, after which we held our love feast, with thirty-six members present. Bro. W. R. Argabright officiated. Sunday evening following, the Bible Class of the Sunday-school had charge of the Christian Workers' program, with the teacher, Bro. E. J. Reese, as leader. The subject was, "Things Worth While As Seen in Mother,—Father." We had special music and were also favored with two appropriate selections by the male quartette of the town. Bro. W. R. Argabright preached two inspiring sermons on Sunday. His subjects were, "Sowing and Reaping," and "The Effects of Sin As Far Away from the Throne As the Earth." We have ordered books for the first course in teacher-training, and expect to organize a class soon.—Virgie Argabright, Fairview, Mo., May 13.

NORTH CAROLINA

Melvin Hill (N. C.) church met in council May 10, with Eld. Geo. A. Branscom in charge. We listened to an instructive talk on the duties of members by the elder in charge. We will be represented at Annual Meeting by Eld. George A. Branscom.—Jennie M. Robb, Campobello, S. C., May 13.

OHIO

Ashland (Dickey Church).—Mothers' Day was observed by an appropriate service of recitations and songs followed by a talk by our pastor, Bro. W. L. Eisenbise, on the subject, "Honor Thy Father and Mother." Through the kindness and thoughtfulness of several members of the Ladies' Bible Class our sick and aged were remembered with flowers. On the suggestion of Sister Lavina Workman, a birthday offering of at least a penny for each year will be taken each Sunday and the money used for missions. The interest in Sunday-school grows and the attendance increases as the weather improves. Our collection for Armenian-Syrian Relief was $46.86. Our quota was $400.—Esther Zimmerman, Ashland, Ohio, May 13.

Bellefontaine church recently enjoyed a revival, conducted by the pastor, Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle. Three accepted Christ and were baptized, with one other who had previously applied for baptism. The Christian Workers' Society was reorganized with Earl Taylor, president. Bro. C. S. Lehman, of Lima, was recently chosen elder. An offering of $40.50 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief, $125 having already been given. Our Sunday-school continues to grow.—Lula R. Tinkle, Bellefontaine, Ohio, May 12.

Canton Center church met in council May 10, with Eld. Taylor presiding. The report of the yearly visit was given and proved gratifying to all. We decided to hold our communion services June 28, at which time Bro. Ira Holsopple will conduct a series of meetings that fall. Our delegate to Annual Conference is Eld. M. M. Taylor. Delegates to our Sunday-school Convention were also chosen,—these being our ministering brethren, Bro. Holsopple will have charge of the Mothers' Day with an appropriate program of songs, readings and talks. At the close of the morning worship, three were received through baptism.—Mrs. W. M. Mohn, Louisville, Ohio, May 12.

Everoale church met in council May 1, with Eld. John Root presiding. Elder Levi Ray and J. O. Cover were present. Two letters were granted and four received. Easter Sunday our young people rendered a very interesting program. Our church met on appeal for the Armenian-Syrian Relief with an offering of $38. Our Sunday-school is increasing in attendance and is doing good spiritual work.—Hattie Kreitzer, New Lebanon, Ohio, May 11.

Fostoria church has just closed a three weeks' series of meetings. Though conditions have not been as favorable as could have been wished, yet the meetings were well attended and much interest taken. The membership has been blessed, and twelve have been received into the church by baptism. The meetings were conducted by local talent. Bro. B. F. Sellman, our faithful pastor, and the visiting evangelist, Bro. Byerly, our chorister, directed the music. The series began with a splendid Easter program, given by the Sunday-school at the Christian Workers' Society hour, the theme of it was "Jesus Only." The first Mission Study class of 1919 began its work and rendered its graduating program several weeks ago. They are repeating the program in the near future in two of our adjoining churches. The Christian Workers' Society is expecting to conduct a social campaign with an adjoining congregation the last Sunday of May. About thirty of our members are planning to attend the Winona Lake Conference.—Mrs. Anna Eshelman, 1126 N. Union Street, Fostoria, Ohio, May 13.

Lima church met in council May 8. Bro. G. A. Snider was chosen elder and Bro. C. S. Lehman, delegate to Conference. We expect Bro. J. L. Mohon on Sunday morning, May 11, to assist in a series of meetings. Our love feast will be held May 25.—Mary E. Roberts, Lima, Ohio, May 9.

Morion church met in council May 10, with Bro. J. L. Guthrie presiding. The annual visit having been made just previous to this meeting, a good report was given by the elder in charge. Bro. L. C. Beardorff was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. Arrangements were made to hold an all-day Fathers' and Mothers' Meeting on Sunday, May 25, and a committee was appointed to make out a program. Three members by letter were received. Bro. Guthrie and Bro. and Wyandot schools at this place July 6. Sunday morning, May 11, we had the pleasure of hearing Bro. Lester Heisey, at Mansfield, preach a splendid sermon. The attendance and interest were good for our love feast and communion service. A number of ministers and members from our neighboring churches were with us. Our church went above its quota for the Armenian-Syrian Relief, with an offering of $50.—Rachel Bowman, Marion, Ohio, May 12.

New Carlisle.—April 26 and 27 Sister Eva Trostle, of Bethony Bible School, was with us. Saturday she gave a splendid talk to the mothers. Sunday morning and evening she gave talks which were appreciated by all. In the morning her subject was, "Christ Is Risen," and in the evening, "How to Be True and Happy." Both times she had a large audience.—Ruth B. Shroyer, New Carlisle, Ohio, May 10.

Pleasant View.—An offering of $1,237 was taken for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. A short time ago $89.33 was given by the Sunday-school, making a total of $1,346.33 to date. There are six young girls in our teacher-training class, of which Sister Blanche Byerly is the teacher. Recently they studied the organization of the church and now studying Book II. May 10 we expect the Glee Club of Manchester College to give us a program. Our Christian Workers' Society will give a Mothers' Day program May 11.—Ada Miller, Lima, Ohio, May 7.

Sand Ridge.—We are expecting Bro. Jas. A. Guthrie, at Spencerville, Ohio, to be with us in a few meetings, commencing May 20, and continuing until May 25. Our Sunday-school is increasing in interest and attendance. We are arranging for a Children's Day program in the near future. Bro. Geo. Deardorff is to conduct a series of meetings for us in September of this year.—Mary E. Prowont, Hamler, Ohio, May 12.

Sugar Creek congregation met in council at the Bunker Hill house May 3, with Bro. W. D. Fisher presiding. We decided to have a short series of meetings some time oiter harvest, if we can secure an evangelist. A love feast will also be held at that time. We granted three letters and received two. May 7 Bro. Frank Sargent, from Chicago, gave us an interesting lecture in the interest of the Bethany Bible School, which we enjoyed very much.—Sarah Middaugh, Berlin, Ohio, May 10.

West Nimishillen church met in council April 26, with Eld. R. R. Shroyer presiding. Various items concerning the interest of the church were considered. We decided to hold our communion June 14, at 10 A. M. One has been added to the church since our last report. Steps were taken to secure an evangelist to hold a series of meetings during the summer or fall.—L. W. Hall, North Canton, Ohio, May 13.

OKLAHOMA

Guthrie.—May 4 we were pleased to have with us our elder, Bro. F. E. Marchand, of Thomas, Okla., who gave two inspiring sermons, one in the morning after the Sunday-school lesson, and one in the evening. On March 25 we had the pleasure of listening to Sister Lydia Taylor who gave a lecture on "The Simple Life" which we all appreciated very much. Our Sunday-school is moving along nicely and is increasing in attendance.—M. A. Nininger, Guthrie, Okla., May 10.

Hoyls.—Our series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Ray Wagoner, of Enid, Okla., closed April 13. We intended to continue for a longer time, but Bro. Wagoner was taken ill. Our love feast, which was held April 12, is one to be remembered. Only twenty-eight were present. Bro. H. Boose officiated. Visiting ministers were Brethren H. Horner, George Prentis, of the Pleasant Plains congregation. They returned to their home after services, but their words of explanation and encouragement were much appreciated. The lecture, recently given by Sister Lydia Taylor on Dress Reform, was a most acceptable one.—Mary E. Root, Ames, Okla., April 26.

OREON

Newberg church held her love feast May 4, with most of the members in attendance, and with visitors from Portland and Albany. Bro. G. C. Carl, of Portland, officiated. Bro. Hiram Smith, of Albany, our District Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Secretary, remained over Sunday, giving us a very helpful message in the morning and in the evening holding a workers' conference, which was full of help and instruction. Our church and Sunday-school contributed $50 for Armenian Relief.—Bessie J. Moore, Newberg, Oregon, May 4.

Portland church held a love feast Saturday evening, May 10, with fifty-four present. We were glad to have with us so many of our neighboring brethren, and feel that all were blessed by communion. A number of visitors remained with us over Sunday. Being Mothers' Day, the services were turned over to the sisters and mothers, who rendered an impressive program. Sister Vertie Myers sang "Mother Mine." A white carnation was given to all mothers present. After the communion we enjoyed a social movement. The theme of the morning was continued during the evening service.—Grace Hewitt, Portland, Oregon, May 12.

PENNSYLVANIA

East Fairview.—May 7 and 8 we held our love feast, which was well attended, Eld. Hiram Kaylor officiating. One hundred and eighty members partook of the consecrated emblems. Nineteen young people have been baptized recently as the result of our revival, held last winter. Our offering for reconstruction work amounted to $273.65. Five letters and membership have been granted since my last report. —H. A. Merkey, Manheim, Pa., May 13.

East Petersburg church enjoyed a spiritual love feast at the East Petersburg house, beginning Tuesday noon, May 6, and closing the following day. Ministers present from adjoining congregations were present. Eld. H. B. Yoder presided. We were glad to have our various brethren of the ministerial force. Eld. Rufus Bucher conducted the evening services.—Pbrea J. Forney, East Petersburg, Pa., May 10.

Ephrata.—Our love feast was held May 4 and was largely attended. Bro. J. B. Graybill and wife, of Lancaster, were here Sunday, were present, also Brethren Geo. Weaver, Rufus Bucher, Wm. Conner and Amos Martin. Sister Graybill gave a talk to the children at the close of the Sunday-school hour, May 4. Sister Graybill gave an address on Sweden, the people, habits and church work. He also exhibited some of the national costumes. The talk was very interesting and many were in attendance. May 16 eleven, who completed the Mission Study Course recently, will render a program in the evening. Each member of the class will have a part in the program, which will consist of addresses, recitations, readings and songs, along missionary lines.—Catharine Ephrata, Pa., May 12.

Everett church held a two weeks' revival service, beginning April 20. The first week the pastor, Bro. Ira Holsopple, had charge, and the second, Bro. Edgar Diehm, of Royersford, Pa. Twenty-two were received through baptism and seven by letter, with await baptism. They were nearly all boys and girls from the Sunday-school, which is growing both in numbers and efficiency. These meetings closed May 4 with a love feast which was largely attended.—Nancy Lashley, Everett, Pa., May 10.

Glade Run church is rejoicing over the three weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. C. O. Beery, of Pleasant Hill, Ohio, which closed May 11 with a love feast. Bro. Beery did considerable visiting among the members. Twenty-six have been baptised and united with the church. Our Sunday-school attendance is increasing.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa., May 14.

Hatfield.—April 26 and 27 were days in the Hatfield congregation for the purpose of electing members into the official body. Elders James Schisler, Levi Ziegler and Samuel Hertzler were present,—the latter presiding. Bro. Wm. M. Delp and his wife were elected to the ministry. Bro. Wm. M. Delp was ordained to the eldership, and his wife were elected to the deacon's office. April 26, four members of the Volunteer Mission Band of Elizabethtown College gave us a very interesting talk on missions. On Sunday we had considerable visiting among the members. Twenty-six have been baptised and united with the church. Our Sunday-school attendance is increasing.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa., May 14.

Hatfield.—April 26 and 27 were days in the Hatfield congregation for the purpose of electing members into the official body. Elders James Schisler, Levi Ziegler and Samuel Hertzler were present,—the latter presiding. Bro. Wm. M. Delp and his wife were elected to the ministry. Bro. Wm. M. Delp was ordained to the eldership, and his wife were elected to the deacon's office. April 26, four members of the Volunteer Mission Band of Elizabethtown College gave us a very interesting talk on missions. On Sunday we had considerable visiting among the members. Twenty-six have been baptised and united with the church. Our Sunday-school attendance is increasing.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa., May 14.

Midway.—On Easter Sunday Bro. Nathan Martin, our District Sunday-school Secretary, who has recently moved into our District, preached a very impressive sermon in the Conewago Valley. His theme was "The Resurrection." He also spoke to the Sunday-school at that place. We held our love feast May 6, with Bro. Levi Mohler officiating. The attendance was large and quite a number of ministering brethren were with us, which we appreciated. Among them was Bro. J. F. Graybill, of Malmö, Sweden, who preached the examination sermon. We were glad to have him with us. He is the missionary supported by this Sunday-school in Sweden received. Five have been baptized since the last report and one was received through former baptism.—Lizzie B. Nolt, Midway, Pa., May 10.

Philadelphia (First Church).—April 6 our pastor, Bro. C. C. Ellis, preached for us. In the evening Bro. W. J. Rothen, our District Missionary Secretary, gave a stirring missionary sermon. Easter Sunday two were baptized. In the afternoon the children gave an appropriate Easter program, which was enjoyed with spirit. April 27 Bro. J. H. Cassady preached for us both morning and evening. Our delegates to District Meeting were Bro. J. M. Fogelsanger, Mrs. J. L. Markley, Mrs. Harry Alderfer and the writer.—Mrs. Wm. H. B. Schmidt, Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.

Pleasant Hill congregation held her love feast May 10, with about 130 members present. Eld. J. A. Long, of York, was with us and officiated. Others present were Brethren Nathan Eshelman and Samuel Lehigh.—Amanda K. Miller, Spring Grove, Pa., May 12.

Pottstown.—Our series of meetings, conducted by Bro. M. C. Swigart, of Germantown, Pa., closed May 4. During these meetings, Bro. J. A. Connell, our church chorister, assisted by our pastor, Bro. G. R. Wolfley, rendered the song services. At the attendance throughout the meetings was fairly good. Five were received into the church by confession and baptism. Our Sunday-school, too, is increasing in numbers and a deep interest is being manifested in the work.—Evelyn R. Kulp, Pottstown, Pa., May 9.

Rummel.—Our offering for the Armenian-Syrian Relief amounted to $339, with $19 pledged. May 4 we enjoyed a splendid program by the Volunteer Mission Band of Juniata College. An offering was taken for their work. Our pastor gave two special sermons May 4 (Continued on Page 336)

FAMINE CONDITIONS IN INDIA

(Continued from Page 331

March 26. There was pressure from our Indian Christians that the Mission do more to relieve distress among them. Many who have land or property desire to get a loan to tide them over. A list of those needing such loans was considered. In British territory where such loans can be secured from the Government, our Christians will be encouraged to get it from that source, but in Raj Pipla State the Government does not grant these loans, heuce the Committee set aside fifteen hundred rupees for the need there. Help is to be given to Ahwa, Anklesvar and Bulsar also, where our Christians seem to have the greater need of assistance. In some cases, where there will be no possibility of the recipient ever being able to pay back the funds loaned him, outright gifts will be made. In the Dangs there is plenty of work for all who desire it, hence relief measures are needed only for children and those unable to work. All the mission workers were granted a monthly increase to meet present high prices. We have six "one-meal-a-day" village boarding-schools in our Vali field, two at Anklesvar, three at Vyara, and several in the Dangs. For the most part all are quite successful. Twenty-two are reported in the Children's Home at Vali. Bro. Arnold is giving work to fifty people daily at that place.

The committee desires to express thanks to the Home Board and the church for the granting of $10,000 for famine relief. Furthermore, it should be stated that they feel the amount granted will be sufficient to bridge us over this time of stress and need. A. T. Hoffert.

Anklesvar, India. March 28.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN

The progress of our work, since the first of the year, has been very gratifying. While many of our faithful members have left us, others have come to this city. Our membership remains about the same. We are glad to have Brethren Galen R. Dietz, Archie Backus, S. A. Summers, and others, who were in the military service, with us again. The church missed the assistance of these young men while they were away.

March 11 Bro. Charlie Yee, assistant superintendent of the Chinese Sunday-school, sailed from San Francisco for his home in China, where he expects to spend a few months visiting relatives and friends, and to return with his family to the United States. We miss him very much in our Chinese Sunday-school work.

March 29 was our first quarterly council of the year. A good attendance was present and the business of the evening was disposed of quickly. May 18, at 6 P. M., was decided upon as the date of our love feast.

Easter Sunday was a very good day for us. Two of our Chinese scholars were baptized at 5; 30 P. M. A number of the boys saw the baptism and were much impressed with its meaning, when explained to them. Our morning Sunday-school was well attended. An offering of $20.72 was taken at this service. The total Sunday-school offering to date, since Jan. 1, 1919, is $198.06. Bro. John F. Dietz, our pastor, delivered an excellent Easter sermon at 11 A. M.

Bro. John P. Guthrie, our energetic and aggressive Sunday-school superintendent, is putting forth every effort to make our school a first-class one in every respect.

A recent announcement was made by the mayor of this city, to the effect that, during the years 1922 and 1923, the World's Peace Fair will be held here under the supervision of Mr. Charles M. Schwab. Great preparations will have to be made for this event, which will mean that thousands of skilled and other workmen will come to Detroit. Many of our young men and women will possibly come here for employment and other reasons. We, as a congregation, hope to be equipped so as to take care of them in the way of church privileges. Our services are held as usual: 10 A. M., Sunday-school; 11 A. M., preaching; 5 P. M., Chinese Sunday-school; 7 P. M., Christian Workers' Meeting; 8 P. M., preaching. The address of the church is 751 Cadillac Avenue, Detroit, Mich.

973 Holcomb Avenue. M. B. Williams.

WOODBERRY CHURCH, BALTIMORE, MARYLAND

Sunday morning, April 13, the writer began a series of evangelistic meetings in the above named church and continued until Sunday evening, May 4. In these meetings he was assisted by Bro. A. L. B. Martin, pastor of the Fulton Avenue church, this city, and Bro. H. Carroll Yingling, a resident minister. April 21 the latter preached on the theme, "The Origin, Activity and End of Satan," and on the following evening, "The New Jerusalem." Bro. Martin, in his characteristic, happy manner delivered seven splendid sermons, and the writer twelve. Eight were received by confession and baptism. Six of these are heads of families.

At our church business meeting, April 6, Brethren C. D. Bonsack and E. C. Bixler were with us,—the former presiding and the latter preaching for us in the evening, choosing for his subject, "The Sufferings of Christ." At this meeting one was reclaimed and since that date three have been received by letter.

April 27 we held our semiannual communion service, with about 125 members communing. Ministers present were Brethren A. L. B. Martin, C. D. Bonsack, J. H. Lau, S. F. Rairigh, H. Carroll Yingling and the writer. Bro. Martin officiated and also conducted the morning preparatory service.

April 20 the Sunday-school rendered an Easter program. In this connection the Program and Decorating Committees are entitled to honorable mention for the interest taken in these little ones to bring Easter joy and good-will to every heart.

Instead of an Easter gift to the lower grades, an offering of $103.50 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief. In addition to this the Christian Workers' Society contributed $22.65, the church $30.11, and the Junior Aid Society $5,—a total of $161.26. The apportionment assigned to this church by our State District Secretary was $110. Our school is going upward, in point of attendance and enthusiasm, and at present we have an enrollment in the main school of 180, with an average attendance of 136. Bro. S. F. Rairigh, a resident minister, is our wide-awake and efficient superintendent and back of him are faithful officers and teachers in support of the work.

The finances of the church, for the year 1918, show an increase of $883.61 over the amount raised for the year 1917. The total amount paid in by the church and the various auxiliaries, for the year 1917, was $1,558.14; for 1918, $2,441.75. About seven years ago the church here had a struggle to meet local expenses, even though at that time no financial obligations to any considerable extent were required to supply ministerial aid. However, as time passed, it became apparent to the church that some more effectual plan must be adopted to insure the maintenance and growth of the work. Accordingly, a pastorate was established and the writer was called to take charge of the work. Our State District, upon request, came to our aid, and during the intervening years contributed liberally in a material way to bring the work up to the present standard of efficiency. During the same time the church steadily and commendably developed her talent in the grace of giving, until now we are glad to say that in a few months the District will be relieved of furnishing further support. We greatly appreciate what the churches of the District have done for us, when we could not help ourselves, and we take this opportunity to thank them for their coöperation and interest in building up the cause here. In return we purpose showing our appreciation of this and other helps and blessings, by aiding the Lord's work elsewhere in our State District and in the world at large.

May 18 the writer begins a series of meetings in the Garrett church, Somerset County, Pa., after which he will proceed to Annual Conference as the delegate from his church.

720 Falls Road. F. D. Anthony.

REVIVAL AT ROCKTON, PA.

The epidemic having prevented the meetings scheduled for last October, the same were begun April 15, with Bro. H. A. Brubaker, of Akron, Ohio, as evangelist. Four days later Sister Alice Tippy Klinger, from the same church, came to take charge of the song service. These loyal, consecrated workers labored whole-heartedly and faithfully until May 4, when the meetings closed with a love feast. Thirty-eight confessed Christ; sixteen were received through baptism, four others await the rite, some have united with other churches.

Five of the important human factors in the success of the meetings were: (a) Bro. Raymond Hollopeter, who was instrumental in opening the way for Bro. Brubaker to come. (b) Bro. H. A. Brubaker, the evangelist, who preached twenty-four Gospel sermons in a spirit of love that draws and convinces. (c) The fervent, effectual prayers of the saints,—not alone here but in Akron and other places. (d) Sister Klinger, who, as leader of song, did much to add to the inspiration of the services. (e) The people who were so faithful in attendance upon these meetings.

A deacon, Bro. J. D. Minser, and wife, was received by letter. May God bless the workers in Akron for their prayers and labors in behalf of souls here! More laborers are needed. A minister and a doctor (who is a Christian) would find a welcome here, where opportunity for service is great. J. P. Hollopeter.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

BEAVER, IOWA.—Our Mission Circle has been recently organized, with fourteen charter members. Officers: Zona Diebl and Katie Powers, Presidents; Mamie Powers and Gertie Elliott, Superintendents; Mary Stradle, Secretary; the writer, Treasurer. So far only three meetings have been held, the weather and roads hindering, but we intend to meet every two weeks.—Belle Ruth, Grand Junction, Iowa, May 5.

MAPLE GLEN, PA.—Since our organization, May 2, 1918, we have held 23 meetings, with an average attendance of 9. Our work consisted of making 23 prayer-coverings, 8 clothes-pin aprons; preparing rags for 4 rugs; piecing 3 quilts and quilting 17. We knotted 2 comforts, stitched 12 quilt-blocks, sewed one day lar poor children. We also did some sewing for which we received pay, and made 16 garments for the Red Cross. Offerings received, $82.10; donations, $4; for quilting, sewing and rugs, $48.0. We donated one quilt to the Red Cross; paid for material, $30.08; for sewing-machine, $22; for church carpet, $50.40; to Red Cross, $4; to Sister Ida C. Shumaker, $5; balance, $22.64. Officers: Sister Mary E. Davis, President; Sister Lucy Peck, Vice-President; the writer, Secretary-Treasurer.—Olive M. Peck, Fort Hill, Pa., May 5.

LOWER MIAMI, OHIO.—Report af Sisters' Aid Society, organized March 6, 1918: Number of regular meetings held, 15; called, 2; largest attendance, 27; smallest, 5; average, 13; largest offering, $3.20; smallest, 60 cents; total, $29; paid in for dues, $35. We made 27 sunbonnets, 27 prayer-coverings, 6 aprons, 3 comforts, 1 quilt-top, 2 clothes-pin bags. We received for articles sold, $27.80; for sewing, $2.35; total, $94.15. Paid far material, $21.91. We donated 1 comfort and 1 prayer-covering. We gave to the boys in Camp, $10; Mary Quinter Hospital, $10; Chicago Mission, $30; World-wide Missions, $15; total, $76.91; balance, $17.24. We made for the Red Cross 98 garments, bemmed 10 dozen napkins, and collected 119 pieces of linen. Officers: President, Alice Swope; Vice-President, Naomi Garst; Superintendent, Emma Stebbins; Assistant, Maud Shank; Treasurer, Leura Baker; Secretary, the writer.—Luella M. Stebbins, Dayton, Ohio, May 7.

PETER'S CREEK, VA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society: President, Mrs. Levi Garst; Vice-President, Mrs. Sallie Baon. We held 12 all-day meetings, with an average attendance of 12. Money received: lunch sale, $13.75; 3 comforts, $15; tacking comforts, $13; donated to Society, $15.25; 44 prayer-coverings, $13.20; membership fees, $64.30; expenses far material, $12.85; aid given to home congregation, $54.87; to India Famine Fund, $15; to Armenian-Syrian Relief, $10; to the poor, $10; balance on hand from 1917, $32.40; total received during the year, $138.13.—Mary Webster, Salem, Va., May 5.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied on a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Flary-Thomas.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, Brother and Sister D. S. Thomas, April 2, 1919, Bro. Galen D. Flory and Sister Eva Thomas.—John S. Flory, Bridgewater, Va.

Frick-Rayer.—By the undersigned, at the residence of the bride's parents, May 4, 1919, Bro. Elmer E. Frick and Sister Nora Rayer, of Louisville, Ohio.—A. H. Miller, Louisville, Ohio.

Jenkins-Franklin.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. H. Cross, Washington, D. C., April 18, 1919, Bro. Wm. Jenkins, of New Windsor, Md., and Miss Muriel Franklin, of Woodbine, Md.—J. M. Henry, Washington, D. C.

Masener-Kunkle.—By the undersigned, in the Washington City church, D. C., May 1, 1919, Mr. Jesse Masener and Miss Salome Kunkle, both of Washington, D. C.—J. M. Henry, Washington, D. C.

Slaan-Spaerer.—By the undersigned, at the parsonage, April 4, 1919, Lieut. Lewis W. Sloan, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Miss Anna Spaerer, of Baltimore, Md.—J. M. Henry, Washington, D. C.

Styers-Trutt.—By the undersigned, at his residence, March 13, 1919, Mr. William E. Styers and Sister Catharine R. Trutt, both of Hartleton, Pa.—Isaiah Beaver, Mifflinburg, Pa.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Athey, Michael, born in La Fayette, Ind., died April 23, 1919, aged 81 years. He was twice married. Eleven children and his second wife survive. He united with the church one year ago, and yet his church relationship, short as it was, brought him much joy. Services by the writer.—F. E. McCune, Lawrence, Kan.

Bare, Bra. Nathan Albert, born in Rockingham County, Va., died April 29, 1919, aged 69 years and 3 months. In 1878 he married Mollie Snyder, who, with one son, one daughter and twelve grandchildren, survives. He was a member of the Church of the Brethren for a number of years. Services at the church in Timberville on Sunday, May 4, 1919, conducted by Bro. Noah Wampler and Bro. Mary Hitchcharger, Laura. Burial in cemetery near by.—Mary Hitchcharger, Laura.

Barnhart, Cuba Irene, infant daughter of Brother Herbert and Sister Clara Barnhart, died April 26, 1919, aged 4 months and 10 days. She leaves her mother, father, brother and sister. Services by Eld. D. D. Funderburg, assisted by Bro. Roy Leach. Burial in the New Carlisle cemetery.—Ruth B. Shroyer, New Carlisle, Ohio.

Badey, Mary J., daughter of Jacob Rohrer, born at Mossbull County, Ind., died at the Woodlawn Hospital, Rochester, April 24, 1919, aged 54 years, 4 months and 12 days. She had undergone on operation, but failed to recover. She married Arley Badey in 1886. To this union three sons were born. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1887 and lived an exemplary Christian life. She is survived by her husband, two sons, one granddaughter, father, one brother and one sister. Services at the church by Eld. J. F. Appleman. Interment in near by cemetery.—Helen Mowiser, Tippecanoe, Ind.

Brubaker, Ralph Franklin, son of Noson and Caro Brubaker, died March 27, 1919, aged 15 days. Services from the home by the writer.—L. J. Yoder, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Clingenpeel, Dale Ewing, son of Brother and Sister O. F. Clingenpeel, born near Flora, Ind., died May 6, 1919, aged 16 years, 11 months and 15 days. He had undergone an operation for appendicitis. He leaves his father, mother and one sister. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. Wm. Angle at the Bochelor Run church. Interment in the Maple Lawn cemetery.—Ira Kreider, Bringhurst, Ind.

Cans, Florence Mable, daughter of Charles and Milo Newcomer, born near Sidney, Ind., March 5, 1885, died at her home in Richland Township May 3, 1919, aged 34 years, 1 month and 28 days. While in her usual health, a sudden attack of sickness came upon her, and about eight hours later she passed away. April 6, 1910, she was married to Fred Cone. To this union were born one daughter and one son. Nov. 17, 1901, she became a member of the Church of the Brethren, and lived a devoted Christian life until the end. She was exemplary active in every avenue of church work. She is preceded by one brother. She is survived by her husband, one daughter and one son, her father and mother, one sister and one brother. Services at the Spring Creek church in charge of the writer. Burial in the Boonsville cemetery.—Moyne Landis, North Manchester, Ind.

Denney, Mary Elisabeth, daughter of William and Elizabeth White, born in Hancock County, Ind., died April 23, 1919, aged 64 years, 10 months and 5 days. She married Isom W. Denney in 1881. To this union were born two sons and one daughter, who survive, with a stepdaughter, one brother, two grandchildren and one step-grandchild. Her husband preceded her. She united with the Methodist church in her youth but later became a member of the Brethren church. Services by Eld. M. Smeltzer. Interment in Gravel Lawn cemetery.—Vernie Beaver, Fortville, Ind.

Dispaut, Bro. Amos, died at his home within the bounds of the Lost River congregation, of heart failure, aged 86 years, 2 months and 27 days. He was a faithful deacon in the church of the Brethren at which he had been a member for many years. Services by the writer at the home, assisted by Eld. J. C. Kahne. Interment in the family cemetery.—S. W. See, Mathias, W. Va.

Fetters, Perry, born Sept. 7, 1851, near Salem, Ohio, died April 7, 1919, near Pitsburg, Ohio. He was the son of Joseph and Elizabeth Petters. In 1909 he married Sarah Funderburg, who survives, with his mother, two brothers and two sisters. Services by Rev. Jos. Mohler, of the Old German Baptists, and Eld. N. W. Binkley.—Mrs. J. W. Eikenberry, Arcanum, Ohio.

Hull, Andrew Alfred, son of John and Margaret Hull, born in Highland County, Va., died April 9, 1919, aged 76 years. In 1867 he married Mary J. Campbell. To this union were born three sons and two daughters. He united with the Brethren Church in 1882 and has lived a consistent Christian life. He leaves his wife, five children and thirteen grandchildren.—Mrs. Jennie Hull, Jeffersonville, Ohio.

Krabill, Melissa, wife of Eld. John Krabill, born in Wyandot County, Ohio, died at her home at Vestaburg, Mich., April 29, 1919, aged 54 years. She was a member of the Brethren church. Besides her husband she leaves three sons and one daughter. Services at the Church of Christ by the writer. Interment in the Ferris cemetery.—Samuel Bolliuger, Vestaburg, Mich.

Kreider, Sister Pearl Viola, daughter of George and Sarah Beseckcr, born in Painter Creek, Ohio, died April 30, 1919, aged 41 years, 2 months and 10 days. She married Willis C. Kreider in 1895. To this union were born two sons and one daughter. In 1900 she and her husband united with the Church of the Brethren. She leaves her husband, who is in the ministry, a son, her mother, two sisters and one brother. Services at the Painter Creek church by Brethren B. F. Sharp and Reuben Boomershine.—Martha Minnich, Greenville, Ohio.

Landis, Bro. Chas. Edw., son of David D. and Sarah E. Landis, born near Gettysburg, Ohio, died of pneumonia resulting from influenza, March 24, 1919, aged 40 years, 3 months and 4 days. Bro. Landis has been a member of the Church of the Brethren for about seveoteen years. He leaves his father, mother, four brothers and two sisters. Services at the Painter Creek church by Brethren Lawrence Kreider and Wm. Royer.—Martha Minoich, Greenville, Ohio.

Loughine, Bro. Christopher, died in the hounds of the Buffalo Valley congregation, Pa., April 9, 1919, aged 79 years, 9 months and 16 days. Interment at the Pike cemetery. Services at the home by the writer, assisted by Bro. Samuel Steorok.—Isaiah Beaver, Mifflinburg, Pa.

McCuen, Merle J., daughter of Brother and Sister W. A. Young, died April 22, 1919, aged 28 years, 10 months and 22 days. In 1910 she married Elmer McCuen. One daughter was born to them. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1911 and has lived a devout Christian life. She leaves her husband and little daughter, her father, stepmother, three sisters and one brother. Services at the Prairie City church by Eld. W. I. Buckingham.—Nellie L. Bowie, Prairie City, Iowa.

Melke, Alta Mae, died April 27, 1919, aged 13 years, 1 month and 4 days. Aaron L. Melke died April 28, 1919, aged 5 years, 2 months and 28 days. Both of these children died from burns received. Services at Beatrice by the writer. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.—W. W. Blough, Beatrice, Nebr.

Montzer, Maggie, nee Forney, born in Penn Township, Pa., died at her home at Ephrata, of influcuza, May 4, 1919, aged 52 years, 8 months and 2 days. She was an active member in the Church of the Brethren, especially in Sunday-school work. She is survived by her husband, one daughter and one son. Services at the home by Elders David Kilheiner and Samuel Kulp. Interment in Bowman's cemetery.—Gertrude R. Shirk, Ephrata, Pa.

Milleson, Roscoe, son of Brother Frank and Sister Dora Milleson, died April 26, 1919, aged 16 years, 8 months and 15 days. Death was due to the accidental discharge of a gun. He united with the Church of the Brethren when but twelve years old. He leaves his parents and one brother, who is in service. Services at the Prairie City church by Eld. I. W. Brubaker.—Nellie Bowie, Prairie City, Iowa.

Niswonger, Mary Ann, nee Coffman, born July 29, 1838, at Little York, Ohio, died April 25, 1919, at Pitsburg, Ohio. In 1859 she married Eli Niswonger. To them were born nine children, five of whom are living. About fifty years ago she and her husband united with the Church of the Brethren. She was an active, devoted worker. She leaves her husband, five children, fifteen grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and a sister. Services at the Pitsburg church by Elders D. M. Garver and N. W. Binkley.—Mrs. J. W. Eikenberry, Arcanum, Ohio.

Peterson, Sister Miranda, nee Gockley, born in Lancaster County, Pa., died April 16, 1919, aged 64 years, 3 months and 21 days. Death was due to the effects of influenza. She married Andrew Peterson in 1876. To these were born eight children. She leaves two daughters, one son, two brothers and two sisters,—five children and the husband having preceded her.—Retta Baker, Weiser, Idaho.

Rairigh, Sister Margaret, born near Covington, Ohio, died April 6, 1919, aged 71 years, 10 months and 13 days. She was the daughter of Samuel and Catherine Mohler. She married Eld. Isaiah Rairigh, who preceded her. She is survived by a brother and a sister, with whom she made her home. She was stricken dropsy for over a year, but through it all was patient and cheerful.—E. M. Fox, Covington, Ohio.

Rochester, Martha Rupard, nee Templeton, born in Webb City, Mo., died April 16, 1919, aged 36 years. She married Jos. Rochester in 1899. She was a devoted member of the Church of the Brethren. She is survived by her husband, four brothers and three sisters. Services at the home by the writer. The body was taken to Carterville, Mo., for burial.—O. H. Feiler, Hutchinson, Kans.

Roop, Sister Easter Ann, daughter of the late Daniel and Lydia Roop, died of paralysis at her home near Uniontown, Md., April 3, 1919, aged 69 years, 5 months and 22 days. She is survived by one sister and several nieces and nephews,—all members of the Church of the Brethren. Services at the Pipe Creek church by the writer, assisted by Eld. J. Walter Englar. Burial in the Pipe Creek cemetery.—W. P. Englar, Uniontown, Md.

Sager, Sister Minnie Haines, daughter of Bro. A. V. and Sister Hannah Sager, born near Maxwell, Iowa, Dec. 25, 1889, died at Fairfax, Va., Feb. 1919, after a short attack of influenza. She united with the Church of the Brethren when quite young and took great interest in it. She is survived by her father, mother, one sister and one brother. Services at the house by Bro. B. F. Miller. Interment in the Fairfax cemetery.—Myrtle Mathias, Fairfax, Va.

Shuttleworth, Glenna, daughter of Brother James and Sister Pearl Shuttleworth, died March 30, 1919, aged 10 years, 5 months and 18 days. She leaves her father, mother, three brothers and three sisters. Services at the home by Eld. Lawrence Kreider.—Mrs. J. W. Eikenberry, Areanunt, Ohio.

Thoroman, Wm. T., son of John and Rosanna Thoroman, born at Whent Ridge, Ohio, died at Peebles, Ohio, May 1, 1919, aged 75 years, 2 months and 15 days. He was a veteran of the Civil War. In 1872 he married Harriet C. Elliott. Four children were born to them. he married Harriet C. Elliott. Four children were born to them. Two sons, the wife, one sister and six grandchildren survive. In 1883 he united with the Methodist church and lived a life consistent with that faith. Services at the home by the writer, assisted by Rev. Elliott. Interment in the Treber cemetery.—Van B. Wright, Peebles, Ohio.

Zeigler, Nerlin Henry, son of Brother and Sister Harvey Zeigler, died May 4, 1919, aged 1 year, 8 months and 13 days. He leaves died father, mother and one brother. Services at the South Annville house by Brethren H. B. Hollinger and A. B. Gingrich. Burial in the South Annville cemetery.—Fannie Kreider, Lebanon, Pa.

Zumbrun, Sister Sarah E., nee Ott, died at her home near Churubusco, Ind., April 29, 1919, aged 77 years and 8 months. She married Daniel Zumbrun in 1866. To this union were born one son and five daughters,—all surviving. Her husband died in 1915. She united with the Church of the Brethren about forty years ago. Services at the Blue River church by Eld. Jesse Gump, assisted by Eld. Walter Swihart. Burial in Merriam cemetery.—Laora Frick, Churubusco, Ind.

Teachers' and Students' Bibles

Containing Concordance, Maps, Etc.

American Standard Version Bibles

The American Standard Version Group of Teachers' Bibles is the most up-to-date in text and helps obtainable. The text is the American Revision of 1901, conceded by all scholars to be the clearest and best translation yet made. This series of Bibles contains a Concise Bible Dictionary alphabetically arranged, a Combined Concordance and Word-Finder, 12 Indexed Colored Maps, and 25 New Outline Maps placed through the Bible where most needed.

This India Paper Bible compared with one of ordinary paper, containing the same number of pages and same size type.

Authorized (King James) Version Bibles

Group I. The Teachers' Bibles in this group contain a splendid new series of helps prepared by Rev. F. N. Peloubet, D. D., author of Peloubet's Select Notes on the Sunday-school Lessons. These helps include Driontal Light on Bible Mannors and Customs, A Treasury of Biblical Information, a New Sorios of Colored Maps, a Practical Comparative Concordance, and 4,000 Questions and Answers. These Bibles may be had in either Black-Face or Bourgeois Type.

MINIDN BLACK-FACE TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Self-Pronouncing. Size 4⅝x7 inches

Specimen of type used in these Bibles

40 For I̱ lift up my hand to he'
And say, As I live for ever,
41 If I whet my glittering sword,
And my hand take hold on
ment;

No. 2152. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$3.00

No. 2153. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divioity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.00

No. 2154. Genuine Persian Levant, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$5.00

INDIA PAPER EDITION

Only ⅞ of an inch thick

No. 2152X. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.00

No. 2153X. Genuine Leather, Morocco graio, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$5.50

No. 2154X. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, rouod corners, red under gold edges, $7.00

BDURGEOIS TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Non-Pronouncing. Size 5¼x8 inches

Specimen of Typa

22 And David spake unto Jehovah the words of this song in the day that Jehovah delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of
Saul: 2 and he said,

No. 2172. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$3.75

No. 2173. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.75

No. 2174. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ..$6.50

INDIA PAPER EDITIDN

Only 1½ inches thick

No. 2172X. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divioity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$6.00

No. 2173X. Genuine Leather, Levant graio, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$7.00

No. 2174X. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $6.00

No. 2175X. Genuine Levant, divinity circuit, calf lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $12.00

DNYX BLACK-FACE TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Self-Pronouncing. Size 5⅝x8¼ inches

Sample of type used in these Bibles

24 a ram on every altar. 1 And when Ba'laam saw that it pleased Je-ho'vah to bless Is'ra-el, he went not, as at the other times, to

No. 2252. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$3.50

No. 2253. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.50

No. 2254. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$6.00

NELSDN'S INDIA PAPER EDITION

Only ⅞ of an inch thick

No. 2252X. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$6.50

No. 2253X. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divioity circuit, leather lined to edge, round corners, red under gold edges, silk sewed, ...$7.00

No. 2254X. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, round corners, red under gold edges, silk sewed, $8.00

BLACK-FACE TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Noo-Pronouncing. Size 5⅛x7⅝ inchea

Specimen of type used in these Bibles

20 For every beast of the forest is mine, and the cattle upon a thousand hills.
21 I know all the fowls of the mountains: and the wild beasts of the field are mine.

4412. Egyptian Morocco, divinity circuit, head bands and marker, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$3.35

4430. Same as 4412 with extra leather-lined covers, ...$4.00

INDIA PAPER EDITION

Only ⅞ of an inch thick

433X. Algerian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lining to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, extra quality binding, ...$5.65

BDURGEOIS TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Self-Pronouncing. Size 5½x7⅞ inches

Specimen of Typa

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Ti-bē'ri-as nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks:)

4712. Egyptian Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, head bands and marker, ...$3.75

4730. Same as 4713, with extra leather-lioed covers, ...$4.50

INDIA PAPER EDITIDN

Only ⅞ of an inch thick

733X. Algerian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lining, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges. Extra quality binding, ...$6.50

Group II. This series of Bibles is the Authorized Version have the same helps as the Americao Standard Version Bibles described in the opposite column; that is, Concise Bible Dictionary, Combined Concordance and Word-Finder, 25 Outline Maps, etc. These Bibles have Self-Pronouncing, large Brevier Type.

Self-Pronouncing. Size 5⅝x8¾ inches

Sample of type used in these Bibles

26 And to Sēth, to him also there was born a son; and he called his name Ē'nōs: then began men 'to'

No. 8052. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.00

No. 8064. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.75

No. 8074. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit leather lined to edge, silk sewed, rouod corners, red under gold edges, ..$6.00

NELSDN'S INDIA PAPER EDITIDN

Only 1¼ inches thick

No. 8052X. Genuine Leather, Levant graio, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$7.00

No. 8064X. Genuine Leather, Levant graio, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$7.50

No. 8074X. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, rouod corners, red under gold edges, $8.00

NOTICE:—Thumb Index on Bibles 35 Cents Additional. Name, or name and address in gold, will be placed upon any of these Bibles and Testaments at 20 cents per line.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 333)

and May 11. His subjects were, "A Greater Church of the Brethren for the World" and "The Gospel for the Whole World,"—the first being a boost for the "Forward Movement" and the latter for the Annual Meeting offering. Bro. Leonard Root, evangelist, is with us in a two weeks' campaign, which closes with our love feast June 1.—Mrs. James E. Murphy, Rummel, Pa., May 12.

Shippensburg church enjoyed an interesting series of meetings March 30 to April 13, Bro. Calvin B. Royer and wife, evangelists. Fourteen were received into the church by baptism and one by letter. Many homes were visited and the attendance and interest were excellent throughout. A love feast was held at the close of these meetings. A large number of members were in attendance at a sunrise prayer meeting on Easter morning. A special Easter sermon was preached by our pastor at the morning service. May 4, four members of the Juniata College Mission Band rendered a very interesting program in behalf of mission work. A liberal offering was taken for their benefit.—Mrs. Katie Railing, Shippensburg, Pa., May 12.

TENNESSEE

Pleasant View congregation met in council, with Bro. J. B. Clark presiding. Brethren R. G. Edwards and John Garst were also present. On Sunday the latter delivered a sermon that will long be remembered. His subject was, "Obedience." Recently a collection of $30.06 was taken for World-wide Missions.—W. T. Larimer, Jonesboro, Tenn., May 12.

VIRGINIA

Barren Ridge church met in council May 9, with Eld. N. W. Coffman presding. A committee was appointed to devise plans and ascertain the cost of arranging Sunday-school rooms. We decided to take an offering for Annual Conference, to be used for the support of a home missionary on the foreign field. Our council will be held May 31.—J. Walter Crickenberger, Waynesboro, Va., May 10.

Bethel church met in council April 5, with Eld. I. N. H. Beahm presiding. We elected officers for Sunday-school, with Bro. W. B. Cunningham superintendent. Bro. Cunningham will represent us at the Ministerial and Sunday-school Meetings.—Mrs. Maggie Cunningham, Shipman, Va., May 10.

Buena Vista.—Bro. Saylor Greyer, of Toledo, Ohio, our former pastor, came April 6 and began a series of meetings, lasting two weeks. Interest was fine from the beginning and large crowds assembled every night. On the second Sunday night, the ushers reported that more than a hundred were turned away from the church. Forty-three have already been baptized and nineteen restored to full fellowship. Five were baptized previous to the series of meetings, making a total of forty-eight received into the church by baptism and nineteen restored since the last report. Our love feast will be held on Sunday evening, June 1.—Thelma Humphreys, Buena Vista, Va., May 8.

Pleasant View church met April 6 and organized the Sunday-school, electing Brethren J. F. Good and J. D. Harpine, superintendents. April 27 Bro. Wm. Peters preached for us. He is in his eighty-ninth year,—possibly the oldest preacher in our Brotherhood. On the same day we took an offering of $3.82 for the Armenian-Syrian Relief. Sister Mary Kagey is our delegate to the District Sunday-school Convention.—Mrs. J. Wm. Harpine, Mt. Jackson, Va., May 10.

Roanoke.—At the Tinker Creek Mission, on Sunday evening, April 27, Bro. H. Allen Flora conducted the services. The subject for his sermon was "The Armenian People." An offering of $42 was given for Relief Work. The Roanoke church will have a Vacation Bible School as the result of the very earnest effort of Bro. H. Allen Flora in carrying out the plans of Bro. Virgil C. Finnell. Already $300 has been subscribed to carry on the work. The school will begin June 30 and last five weeks. Very capable teachers have been secured to take charge of the work.—Mrs. John H. Shickel, 703 Third Avenue, N. W., Roanoke, Va., May 8.

Roanoke City.—By special request our love feast has been postponed one month, to be held on Sunday evening, June 29, beginning at 6 o'clock. May 8 one sister was received into the church by baptism. Mothers' Day was observed in a manner befitting the day in the Roanoke church. In the morning, after a short program of music and recitations, Pastor Garber delivered a masterful sermon. He paid a wonderfully fine tribute to mothers. The Young Men's Bible class presented a white carnation to each mother and father present. In the evening the program was rendered by Sister Pernie Hylton Faw's class, assisted by others. The climax of the evening was an address by Bro. Walter M. Kahle, of Troutville. His subject was "Ruth." He addressed the future mothers. Three outstanding traits of character he found in Ruth,—constancy, modesty and love. He did not spare the evils that are endangering our young girls, or fail to give warning, and yet he did it in that fine way of his that would inspire higher ideals and instill a desire for ideal womanhood and motherhood. At both morning and evening services the congregation was favored with a solo by Bro. Edmond Layman. Pastor Garber is conducting a series of services at the Southeast Mission this week.—Mrs. John H. Shickel, 703 Third Avenue, N. W., Roanoke, Va., May 13.

Schoolfield church met in council May 3, with Bro. H. J. Woodie presiding. He also preached an encouraging sermon on Sunday morning. Our communion service was held in the afternoon, with forty-four members present. Our elder in charge was elected delegate to Annual Meeting. One has been baptized and one reclaimed since our last report.—A. T. Prather, Schoolfield, Va., May 14.

Trevilian church met in council April 19, with Eld. L. M. Neff presiding. Bro. Neff spent several days visiting among the members and especially the isolated ones. He lives some sixty miles away and this was his first opportunity to visit in the congregation since being chosen elder. April 25 we again met in council, at which time Brethren A. G. Snyder and L. A. Shumaker were elected to the deacon's office and installed. Our Teacher-training Class is growing in interest. We have preaching at the Trevilian house now four times a month.—Rebecca Glick, Trevilian, Va., May 14.

Valley church met in council May 10, with Eld. S. H. Flory presiding. Officers for the year were elected: Bro. S. H. Flory, elder; Bro. J. T. Flory, clerk; Bro. Luther Miller, "Messenger" agent; the writer, correspondent. Bro. D. B. Showalter was elected as a member of the Home Mission Board. Bro. S. H. Flory is our delegate to Annual Meeting, with Brethren U. E. Garber and D. B. Showalter, alternates. As a result of a series of meetings, held in December by Bro. J. S. Roller, eleven were added to the church through baptism. During the year eight letters were received and fifteen were granted. We had one death, leaving a membership of 124.—Mrs. D. B. Showalter, Bristow, Va., May 12.

WASHINGTON

Seattle.—We held our regular communion and love feast April 28. We had a very good meeting but not a very large attendance. May 3 communion was observed at Olympia and a number of our people attended. Consequently we had a small Sunday-school here and no preaching services at all.—Cora Weimer, Seattle, Wash., May 5.

Spokane church met in council March 29, with Eld. C. F. Rupel presiding. Bro. Jacob A. Eby, of Sunnyside, Wash., and Bro. M. F. Woods, of Tonasket, Wash., were present also, in the interest of the ministerial work of this place. We just closed a series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Rupel. An offering of $27.05 was taken for Armenian Relief. We have no regular preaching at present.—Truman Aschenbrenner, Spokane, Wash., May 16.

WEST VIRGINIA

Mount Union.—Bro. Obed Hamsted came to us May 3 and commenced a series of meetings, preaching in all ten fine sermons. May 10 we held our love feast. The church seems to be revived and strengthened by the meetings. We held an election for two deacons who will be installed soon. Mothers' Day was observed with songs and talks, which were interesting to all.—S. Buckiew, Morgantown, W. Va., May 13.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

LOVE FEASTS

California

June 22, 7 pm, Santee.

Idaho

May 24, Boise Valley.
May 25, Twin Falls.
June 7, Nampa.

Illinois

May 24, 6 pm, Rockford.
May 24, 10 am, Franklin Grove.
May 24, 6:30 pm, Elgin.
May 25, 7:30 pm, Dixon.
May 25, Milledgeville.
May 29, 6 pm, LaPlace, LaPlace house.
May 31, 7 pm, Pine Creek.
June 1, 6:30 pm, Cherry Grove.
June 14, 15, Waddams Grove.
June 14, 15, 2:30 pm, West Branch.

Indiana

May 24, 6 pm, Elkhart Valley.
May 24, 7 pm, Eel River.
May 24, Upper Fall Creek.
May 24, 7 pm, Union Center.
May 24, 8 pm, New Bethel.
May 24, 2 pm, Pleasant Hill.
May 24, Loon Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Pipe Creek.
May 25, Logansport.
May 25, Bunker.
May 29, Bango.
May 31, 7 pm, Yellow River.
May 31, Beech Grove.
May 31, Middlebury.
May 31, 7 pm, Bethel.
May 31, 10:30 am, Cedar Lake.
May 31, Blue River.
May 31, 7 pm, Wakarusa.
June 1, Bremen.
June 1, Walnut.
June 14, 7:30 pm, Clear Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Camp Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Killbuck, Antioch house.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

May 24, 25, 3 pm, Coon River, at Panora house.
May 24, Salem.
May 24, Kingsley.
May 25, Des Moines City.
May 30, 8 pm, Cedar Rapids.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Iowa River.
May 31, 7 pm, Fairview.
May 31, Brooklyn.
May 31, 7:30 pm, Panther Creek.
May 31, June 1, Garrison.
June 1, Beaver.
June 14, 15, 7 pm, Dallas Center.
June 14, 15, Spring Creek.
June 14, 15, Dry Creek.

Kansas

May 24, 3 pm, Larned, country church.
May 24, Parsons.
May 24, 5 pm, Ramona.
May 24, 10 am, Sabetha.
May 31, 6 pm, Navarre, Holland house.
May 31, 7 pm, Richland Center.
May 31, Belleville.
May 31, Quinter.
May 31, June 1, Abilene, at Holland house.
June 14, 10:30 am, Burr Oak.
June 14, Rock Creek.

Maryland

May 24, 25, 2:30 pm, Beaver Creek.
May 24, 2 pm, Monocacy, at Mountaindale.
May 25, 5 pm, Ridgely.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Beaver Dam.
June 7, Peach Blossom, at Fairview.
June 14, Bear Creek.

Michigan

May 31, Grand Rapids.
May 31, 7 pm, Crystal.
May 31, 7 pm, Lake View.
June 1, 8 pm, Sugar Ridge.
June 14, Woodland.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Haven.
June 28, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 14, Worthington.
June 15, Monticello.
June 28, Lewiston.
June 28, 29, Hancock.

Missouri

May 31, South Fork.
May 31, Carthage.
June 14, Pesce Valley.

Nebraska

May 24, Alton.
May 26, Octavia.
May 31, 8 pm, South Beatrice.

North Carolina

May 24, 5 pm, Spray Mission.

North Dakota

May 24, 6 pm, Surrey.

Ohio

May 24, 6 pm, Painter Creek.
May 24, 10 am, Beech Grove.
May 24, 6 pm, Bear Creek.
May 24, 6 pm, Oakland.
May 25, 10 am, Eagle Creek.
May 25, 6 pm, Lima, city church.
May 25, Maple Grove.
May 31, 10 am, Lick Creek.
May 31, 5 pm, Pleasant Valley, Valley house.
May 31, 7 pm, Cincinnati.
May 31, 10:30 am, Wyandot.
May 31, Pleasant View.
May 31, Blanchard.
May 31, 5 pm, Middle District.
May 31, Owl Creek.
May 31, 7 pm, New Philadelphia.
May 31, 6 pm, Chippewa, at Beech Grove house.
June 1, Reading.
June 14, 10 am, West Nimishillen.
June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.
June 28, 2 pm, Richland.
June 28, Canton Center (all-day meeting).

Oklahoma

May 17, Pleasant Plains.
May 24, Hollow.
May 24, Paradise Prairie.
May 31, Big Creek.

Pennsylvania

May 24, Sugar Valley.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Welsh Run.
May 24, 1:30 pm, Antietam, at Welty house.
May 24, 2 pm, Akron.
May 24, Mechanic Grove.
May 24, 25, 11:30 pm, Conewago, at Bachmanville.
May 25, Ligonier.
May 25, 6 pm, Woodbury.
May 25, Plum Creek.
May 25, 4 pm, Carlisle.
May 25, Codorus, at Codorus house.
May 25, 6 pm, Roaring Spring.
May 25, Manor, at Penn Run house.
May 25, Shade Creek, Berkey house.
May 25, 4 pm, Shamokin.
May 25, Jacobs Creek.
May 27 and 28, 1:30 pm, Conestoga, at Bareville house.
May 31, 1:30 pm, Marshereek, at Marshereek house.
May 31, June 1, Lower Cumberland, Mohler house.
May 31, 4 pm, Spring Run, Pine Glen house.
May 31, 2:30 pm, Ridge.
May 31, June 1, 3 pm, Spring Creek, Spring Creek house, at Hershey.
June 1, Meyersdale.
June 1, Chambersburg.
June 1, Lancaster.
June 1, Harrisburg.
June 1, 4 pm, Rummel.
June 1, 6 pm, Smithfield.
June 1, 7:30 pm, Yellow Creek.
June 1, Middle Creek.
June 4, 5, West Greentree, at Greentree.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Aughwick, at Germany Valley.
June 7, 2 pm, Mingo, at Mingo house.
June 13, Maple Glen.
June 11, 2 pm, Buffalo.
June 14, Farmers Grove.
June 14, Albright.
June 29, Sipesville.
June 29, Locust Grove.

Virginia

May 24, 6 pm, Rileyville.
May 24, 3 pm, Linville, at Cedar Run.
May 25, 6 pm, Roanoke City.
May 31, 5 pm, Unity, at Bethel house.
May 31, 4:30 pm, Barren Ridge.
June 1, Buena Vista.

Washington

May 24, Outlook.

West Virginia

June 7, 8, 2 pm, Berkley.
August 30, Maple Spring.

1719-THE BECKER BICENTENNIAL-1919

Conference Notes

will be eagerly read by everyone as they appear from week to week in "THE GOSPEL MESSENGER." Not since 1908 has there been anything quite so ambitious in the way of a Conference program. There will be more than a score of strong addresses, besides special meetings and the business sessions to report. This is a year when everyone will want to read the CONFERENCE NOTES as they appear in "THE MESSENGER."

How to Get the Notes and "The Messenger"

The regular price of "THE GOSPEL MESSENGER" is $2.00 per year, but in view of the special interest in the Conference "THE MESSENGER" may be had for seven months—June to December—for only $1.00. That is, for the price of a regular six months' subscription you get the extra month with the issues containing the Conference Notes. At this rate many may wish to send "THE MESSENGER" to some poor brother or sister who cannot attend Conference, or to neighbors and friends.

The Messenger for 7 Months for $1.00

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Illinois:

I desire to take advantage of your special rate on the "Messenger"—the seven months from June to December, 1919, for $1.00. Please find enclosed .....dollars for which you may send the "Messenger" to the following persons:

Name	R. D. or Street	Town	State
.....	.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....	.....

If You Wish the FULL REPORT Add 35 Cents

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14.

"STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13

"Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4: 14.

Vol. 68 | Elgin, Ill., May 31, 1919 | No. 22

In This Number

Editorial,—

Teach and Preach Doctrine Now, ... 337
"Are We to Surpass Christ?" 337
Winona Lake and the Becker Bicentennial, ... 337
Among the Eastern Churches (D. L. M.), ... 337
The Quiet Hour, ... 343
Among the Churches, ... 344
Around the World, ... 345

Contributors' Forum,—

Prayer of Dedication (Poem), ... 338
The Lord's Prayer. By H. C. Early, ... 338
An Appeal from the Christian Workers. By I. V. Funderburgh, 338
Westminster Abbey. By J. E. Miller, ... 339
Giving and Getting the Windows Open. By Mrs. Ralph C. Rarick, ... 340
A Typical Armenian Refugee Camp. By A. J. Culler, ... 341
Why Some Are Not Saved. By H. J. Beachley, ... 341
Who Prays? By Zach Neher, ... 345

The Round Table,—

A Child Comforts. By Julia Graydon, ... 342
Do You Know? By William J. Tinkle, ... 342
The Garden. By Norman W. Twiddy, ... 342
The Christ Cross. By Lizzie Shirk, ... 342
Only an Immigrant Girl. By Rebecca C. Foutz, ... 342
"Infant Consecration" Reviewed. By I. J. Rosenberger, ... 343
"A Man's Need of Christ." By G. W. Tuttle, ... 343

Home and Family,—

"Call Back!" (Poem), ... 346
Is It Going to Rain? By Elizabeth Rosenberger Blough, ... 346
Sex Discipline. By Lula R. Tinkle, ... 346

...EDITORIAL...

Teach and Preach Doctrine Now

PLEASE look carefully at this list of subjects: God, Christ, The Holy Spirit, Man, Sin, Grace, Repentance, Faith, Obedience, Prayer, Love, The Church, Baptism, The Lord's Supper, Fellowship, Worship, Evangelism, Missions, Social Responsibility, Temperance, The Kingdom of God, The Future Life, The Bible.

To be sure, a mere list of topics stated in such general terms as these may seem like rather dry reading, but if the reader would allow his imagination to supply a few predicates, adjectives and interrogation points, in connection with the above-named nouns, he would suddenly find them throbbing with life and interest. Or if his imagination is not sufficiently fertile for that, the Sunday-school lessons for the present and next succeeding quarters will do it for him, provided he has energy enough to give them a little serious attention.

The point is that our International Lessons are just now providing us with special inducements for the study of Christian Doctrine, and the purpose of this reminder is to urge teachers, preachers and everybody else to make the most of them. The doctrines covered include those which are most fundamental to Christian faith, and in several instances splendid opportunity is given to emphasize some of those which are distinctive of the Church of the Brethren.

It is not a good practice for a preacher to make his sermon a rehash of the Sunday-school lesson, but the fact that we are studying these themes in the Sunday-school creates an atmosphere especially favorable to doctrinal preaching and our ministers should not fail to take advantage of it. Add to this the fact of the publication at this time of Studies in Doctrine and Devotion by the General Sunday School Board, and we have a rare chance indeed to do some important and much needed work in indoctrination.

"Are We to Surpass Christ?"

No, the question was not meant in jest. It was proposed seriously. Any remarks?

If not, we should like to entertain a motion that the question be deferred indefinitely. Or, until the questioner himself shows very distinct signs of catching up with Christ.

Or, if you prefer, "till we all attain unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

Winona Lake and the Becker Bicentennial

IT is almost time to start for Winona Lake. In fact, it is time if you are one of the young people and have very far to go. For remember that the Life Work Conference begins on Wednesday evening, June 4.

Of course, you are planning to be there. If you have been hesitating, perhaps the recent announcement of the Railroad Administration, removing all war-time restrictions on travel, together with that of our own Transportation Agent, to the effect that reduced rates may be had at least from many places, will help you to make up your mind. Get there in time to take it all in. It is a great feast that the program committee has provided. The new inspiration it will give you will make the cost seem small. It may be the turning point of your life, setting your feet in the right road, helping you to find your place in God's great Kingdom-building program.

If you are not one of the young people, you will do well to get there reasonably early anyway. For by Thursday afternoon there will be something on the program especially for you. Besides this, you will certainly want to drop in on one of the side seats and see what these young people are about. And maybe drink in a good deep breath of youthful freshness. It might do your whole soul and body good. So, if your grip needs fixing or you have any other preparations to make, you have no time to lose.

This Conference is the Becker Bicentennial, you know,—the two hundredth anniversary of the transplanting of the Brethren to America. It's just two centuries since Peter Becker and his little company turned their faces westward, seeking more congenial spiritual soil. For us that was a very significant event. We are to celebrate it this year at Winona Lake,—whatever that word "celebrate" may mean. Which gives us opportunity to say that this is just the question we wish to raise. What do we mean by "celebrate"? What is it we intend to do?

Talk, isn't it? Or listen, or get sleepy, while others talk? We shall hear some fine addresses, no doubt. The achievements of these hardy pioneers will be recited and our hearts will thrill with admiration. But is that all we expect to do about it?

We have noted with much satisfaction that the program committee, while inviting us to take a backward look, as is fitting, have put the emphasis upon the look ahead. In doing this we think they give evidence of having hit upon the right idea of celebrating past events. To plan and purpose to do ourselves such things as they did, whose memories we seek to honor, is a worthier celebration than the most eloquent oratorical tributes to their greatness. So that is what we are to talk about in the main. We look backward only long enough to get our proper bearings, only long enough to catch the spirit of those men of two centuries ago,—the spirit with which we must then look forward. They were forward-looking men, most emphatically so. We shall not show them the respect which is their due by trying to solve their problems over again. We have plenty of our own. What we want is a double portion of their spirit as we face our own responsibilities.

But we must not exhaust our energies in laying plans and passing resolutions, however good. To get a purpose so deep-set that it will stick, to catch a spirit of consecration that will stay with us when we get back home and carry us through the long hard pull, all by ourselves, in our own little corner of the big world field,—this is the real thing when it comes to "celebrating."

To get filled up with that kind of a spirit should be our supreme purpose at Winona Lake this year. Merely to go off on an emotional spree for a few days or a week, has about the same value that the other kind of a spree has. It feels fine while it lasts and leaves you weaker and worse fitted for work than before. The purpose that has conviction back of it as well as feeling is what we want. That is the kind Peter Becker had. That is the kind the Peter of Pentecost had. That is the kind all Spirit-filled souls have.

We must get a new start this year. This is the year when the whole religious world is seething with feverish desire to make a new start in getting the will of God done on earth as it is in heaven. This bi-centennial anniversary, this first year of our Five-Year Forward Movement, this double nineteen year must be a notable year in our history. It must be the year when the Church of the Brethren got a new start toward usefulness in extending the Kingdom of God.

As it happens, the Conference strikes the Pentecostal season again this year. God grant that the true Pentecostal Spirit may overwhelm the Conference and the whole church, and abide with her forever.

Among the Eastern Churches

DURING the months of April and May the Lord granted us the privilege of holding meetings in several churches in Pennsylvania and Maryland. It was a most enjoyable experience to visit again the East, where my childhood, boyhood and young manhood were spent. It was a blessed privilege, and was intensely enjoyed from first to last.

Huntingdon, Pa., was our first stopping-place and here several meetings were held. Juniata College is flourishing. The Quinter Memorial Endowment Fund has passed the $100,000 mark and the entire endowment of the Institution will soon reach the half million mark for which they are earnestly striving.

We also had the privilege of attending the District Conference of Middle Pennsylvania, in the Spring Creek congregation, Bedford County. The meeting was largely attended. Bro. W. J. Swigart was Moderator. He wrote up the meeting for the MESSENGER, and we refer to it only briefly. You have read his good article. The Conference was ably conducted. A missionary sermon was given in the evening. Elders J. H. Cassady and John Bennett serve the District on the Standing Committee.

Our next stop was Hagerstown, Md. A six-mile drive in an auto brought us to the old home church, Broadfording. The drive filled the memory with many incidents of the past. Among these were the first sight of Hagerstown. My good mother took me with her to the town on horseback. I sat in the rear and clung to her. This occurred seventy years ago. She carried a large basket, filled with butter, on her arm and lap. A mile from town is a rise in the road, and from this hill-top I had my first view of the city. The high spires of the churchhouses made the deepest impression on the mind of the little fellow sitting astride the horse in the rear of his mother.

Two weeks were spent in the old home church. The meetings were well attended. On several occasions, all who came could not gain admittance. There were five applicants, some of whom were ready to come before the meetings commenced. These should have continued longer. But the dedication of the San Mar Chapel, at the Old People's Home, came as a duty and the meetings were closed reluctantly.

While in this church we had our home with Eld.

(Continued on Page 340)

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

Prayer of Dedication

The following poem, from "The American Friend," may appropriately be used in the dedication of a church. The sentiment is inspirational and uplifting.—Ed.

Today our hearts we raise with one accord
In fervent prayer and praise unto our Lord,
Thou God of majesty, and love, and power,
Oh, let thy gracious favor crown this hour.

Unto thy worship now we dedicate
This building, framed by human hands, and wait
Thy benediction as our labor's seal,
Within these walls in coming days reveal

Thyself a conscious Presence ever nigh,— Fulfill the promise, "In their midst am I
Where two or three are gathered in my name,
And may this church in righteousness proclaim

The life and power of him who spent his time
In "doing good," and teaching truths sublime.
A blessing on this building, Lord, we pray,
As we in dedication meet today.

Oh, may it be indeed a "house of prayer"
Where weary hearts shall find relief from care;
May needy souls here meet thee face to face,
Accept thy wondrous love and pardoning grace,

And as the years shall pass, and memories here
Shall cluster, and affection close and dear,
May this the glory of these altars be,
That sinful lives have found true peace in thee.

* * * * * * *

The temples of our hearts help us to give Unto thy service, Lord,—within them live
And through thy "grace sufficient" for each need,
Teach us thy will to fully know and heed.

Amid the clamor of earth's weary strife
Cause us to lead a pure and blameless life.
To be an instrument for working good
To souls whose wants themselves ne'er understood,

Each day endeavoring some life to bless,
The inward love which we for thee profess
We fain would manifest in outward deeds
Of kindly service to our brother's needs.

Help us, our Father, that when life is done
And all the sands of Time for us are run,
Not one shall stand in the great judgment day
And hear the solemn word,—"a cast-away."

May all who gather in this sacred place
So know of Christ's redeeming love and grace
That he shall say, "My Father, these are Mine, Kept through thy Name, and all of Mine are Thine."

The Lord's Prayer

BY H. C. EARLY

It is recorded by Matthew, sixth chapter, and Luke, eleventh chapter. Luke does not record the ascription of honor nor the Amen, as given by Matthew, and there are slight differences in wording, but the meaning is identical. Turn to both chapters and read it carefully, going to the limit of your strength, to comprehend its meaning in the light of its setting. It is important that the prayer be studied in the light of its setting.

In one of the general divisions of the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus discusses motive at some length. The discussion covers the first eighteen verses of the sixth chapter of Matthew. He states the general proposition for discussion in the first verse, saying: "Take heed that ye do not your righteousness before men, to be seen of them." For the Pharisees and hypocrites would sound a trumpet to attract attention, to be seen and commended of men, speaking figuratively. Now, to make the general proposition of the first verse clear, exposing false motive and teaching right motive, Jesus used three illustrations.

The first is the doing of alms. Gifts shall be made quietly, without effort to attract attention, with the purpose of relieving the needy; not to bring glory to the giver. The second is praying,—that prayers be not offered on the corners of the streets, with ostentation, inviting the notice and praise of men; but we shall pray from the "inner chamber," in sincerity, without the vanity of repetition, whether it be in public or private. The third is the fast,—that it be not with sad countenance and disfigured face, that we appear unto men to fast; but we shall fast with anointed head and washed face, with gladness, when the passion for the Kingdom of God overcomes the appetite for bread, and food is loathed for the glory of God. So it is seen that unless we do alms and pray and fast from the right motive, we have the reward of the Pharisees and hypocrites. The Lord's Prayer by Matthew is given to teach the value of right motive.

The first verse of the eleventh chapter of Luke gives the setting of the prayer from Luke's point of view. When Jesus ceased praying in a certain place, one of the disciples said unto him: "Lord, teach us to pray, even as John also taught his disciples." Jesus then said, "When ye pray, say, Our Father," and so on. These poor men,—the disciples,—like us, felt they should be taught to pray, which means, no doubt, that they had the desire to pray, but felt the need of teaching as to the how and what of prayer. To meet this need, the prayer was given. It is the model prayer.

From the view-point of Matthew the prayer was given as an illustration in the teaching of right motive, and from Luke's view-point it was given to teach the disciples to pray, showing how to pray, and what to pray for, embracing both the relations and matter of Christian prayer. No one can pray the Lord's Prayer from an improper motive, and no one can pray it without imbibing the spirit and knowledge of prayer.

To analyze the prayer in a general way, it is composed, first, of the address: "Our Father which art in heaven." Then come the seven petitions, then the ascription of honor: "For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever." Finally there is the closing and sealing of the prayer with the "Amen." The petitions divide themselves into two classes or groups. The first three relate to the Kingdom of God, and the last four to man's needs. First things, or the weightier matters, are put first, and the things of smaller importance come second. The great petition of the first group is: "Thy kingdom come," while the first petition, "Hallowed be thy name," and the third petition, "Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven," pray for conditions making possible the coming of the Kingdom. In fact, the weight of the whole prayer hangs upon the second petition. Hallowing God's name, the doing of his will, daily bread, forgiving, bringing us not into temptation, delivering from evil, are but contributory conditions to the coming of the Kingdom in its largest sense, when it shall fill the whole earth and God's reign shall be universal. So, when we pray, the coming of the Kingdom should be put first, or, rather, that the Kingdom should so absorb our thought and purpose and affection that we naturally remember it and pray about it first, and then for such human needs as we desire as conditions to the end that the Kingdom may come.

So, to sum up briefly, it is seen that acceptable prayer must spring from right motive, that the Lord's Prayer, in its nature, forbids wrong motive, that the Lord's Prayer teaches men to pray, for it was given for this express purpose, and so it embodies the relations and principles of prayer.

What does it mean, then, to pray the Lord's Prayer? First of all it must mean to pray honestly, without thought or effort to play upon the public ear, according to Matthew. In the second place, it must mean an effort to learn to pray,—an effort to grasp the things that belong to prayer, and, in the order of their relative values, to think them out, and present them in the relation of a child to its Father in heaven,—according to Luke and the content of the prayer. It must mean more than the repetition of the words of the prayer. There is hardly a doubt but that the prayer has been much abused by a mere repetition of its words. The thing to do is to think out the meaning of the several parts of the prayer, to live in them for the time, doing our utmost to comprehend them, as we pray. Following set phrases does not force thinking. It hardly invites it. It would be much more profitable, therefore, and much more in harmony with the purpose of the prayer, to do our best to think out and pray out one part of the prayer after another, until the ground is covered. For it is scarcely possible to take in the scope and sweep of the several parts of the prayer as the words are repeated. The prayer is so tremendously big in meaning and scope that when we pause at the several parts at length, we fail to comprehend them fully. And the prayer, without the most vigorous effort to comprehend it, and to be in harmony with it, is to no purpose. It is but mockery.

The common practice, in public worship, of praying almost everything, near and foreign, and then repeating the Lord's Prayer,—repeating it only mechanically in many cases, apparently,—is far from the thought of Jesus. As a model prayer, in view of its brevity in words, and yet its wonderful scope and reach in thought, covering the field of prayer, its thought must be developed in our thought and life. That's the idea. As the foundation of our prayer-life, let its thought and spirit be absorbed to the extent of our capacity, giving ourselves the utmost freedom in speech when we pray. Then, perhaps, the Lord's Prayer would not be repeated word for word at each prayer service. A better thing has been done, if its thought and life have been comprehended, measurably at least, and worked out in our own words whose meaning is more readily comprehended. Then, at another time, when all are thoughtful and in spiritual mood to comprehend things, it might be well to pray the Lord's Prayer, using only its words, and letting that suffice. That seems much nearer the idea as I see it.

Penn Laird, Va.

An Appeal From the Christian Workers

BY I. V. FUNDERBURGH

Christian Workers' Secretary of Southern California and Arizona

The Christian Workers' Society of the Church of the Brethren finds itself confronted with this important question: "During the past few years, has the Christian Workers' Society of the Church of the Brethren accomplished what it should?" Let us look at ourselves a moment.

What is the Christian Workers' Society? It is not the Sunday-school. It is not the church. It is not the prayer meeting. It is not a Bible class, social club, or a literary society. Then, what is it? It is a religious organization, for it has in it the elements of worship,—prayer, praise, and service. It is a Christian organization, for it is founded upon the principles of life as lived and taught by Jesus Christ. May we say: "It is the church"? Yes, if we go a step farther and say: "It is the church organized for work." The Christian Workers' Society is the "Service Department of the Church." Witness its name.

What is the purpose of the Christian Workers' Society? Certainly its purpose is not that of Bible study. The Sunday-school takes care of that. Is its purpose to afford an opportunity for people to talk? Has it ever been used as an exhaust-pipe in the church? Do we have Christian Workers' Societies merely to take up part of the time on Sunday evenings? I am wondering if some of us have the conception that the Christian Workers' Society is organized as a sort of safety-appliance, to be used as a plug or cork to stop the leak of the young people from the church. None of these constitutes the object or purpose of this organization, but the primary and fundamental purpose of the Christian Workers' Society is Service, with the motto: "Saved to Serve."

In consideration of this introduction, let us take an inventory and see what we have. Counting every member of the church as a member of the Christian Workers' Society, as we do now, we have an organization with less than twenty per cent of its membership in average attendance. We have an organization, primarily for young people, with no provision for definite, practical work. We have an organization with infinite power and opportunity, with no unity of purpose or plan of action. We have an organization with no head of its own; no central organizing or directing power. We have an organization with no general secretary to study its problems, to give it inspiration, and to plan its work and standards. We have an organization seemingly organized as an end in itself, rather than as a means or agency for spiritual development and practical Christian service.

Now let us count our assets. The Christian Workers' Society of the Church of the Brethren has a number of valuable resources. First, an unlimited amount of ability among the best group of young people on earth. Second, an overflowing enthusiasm from not less than 5,000 courageous, noble, loving-hearted young men and women. Third, a theology based upon sound, fundamental Gospel truth. Fourth, an unshakable confidence in God. Fifth, a firm belief in the principle of right. Sixth, an extraordinary opportunity for practical Christian work. With these resources, what may the Christian Workers' Society of the Church of the Brethren accomplish in the world?

There is no limit to our possibilities. There is no power under the hand of God that can successfully resist the progress of Christian idealism, backed by the aggressive, constructive, spiritual forces which we are able to muster. By intelligent conservation of our resources, and a wise and considerate direction of them, the Christian Workers of our loved church may strike a telling blow for peace, justice, and right, in a world that has been torn with anger, despotism, and murder.

The greatest need of the Christian Workers of the church is more efficient leadership and direction. This statement in no way reflects upon the General Sunday School Board, which now has supervision of the Christian Workers' activities. This Board has done well,—the best that it could under the circumstances,—but with its hands already full to overflowing of Sunday-school and other problems, it is unreasonable to suppose much could be done for the Christian Workers. The appeal of this article and of hundreds of young Christian Workers throughout the Brotherhood is for something in the nature of a Christian Workers' Board, to study the problems of our church from the young people's view-point, to unify and systematize the organization and work of all the societies in the church.

We ought to have some individual, or group of individuals, whose particular function it is to study the field represented by the Christian Workers of the Brotherhood. A study should be made of the conditions found in the various churches, the needs, the opportunities for service. There ought also to be a study of the resources,—human resources,—of our church. If the Christian Workers' Society is the service department of the church,—the expressional medium through which she delivers her message of practical service to the world,—there ought to be some central authority or power to take an inventory and gain information concerning the young people of the Church of the Brethren. We ought to know who our young folks are, what they are doing, their ambitions, aspirations, their preparation for various lines of Christian work, etc. Thus being in a position to place its hands on competent and efficient young people, and having an adequate knowledge of the field of service, this central board could act as a clearing-house for the church, placing young men and women in the fields for which they have special training, thus interesting them in the work of the church, and at the same time making the influence of our Fraternity felt in the world.

This is merely suggestive of the field open to such a Board. The details, of course, must be worked out by the Board itself. The Christian Workers of the District of Southern California and Arizona have especially felt the need of more direction and systematization of our work from a General Committee or Board, who is in close touch with other societies, and is in a position to offer suggestions and help along the various lines of work. This feeling has resulted in the formation of a petition which goes to Annual Conference this year from this District, asking for the creation of a General Christian Workers' Board.

The time is here when the Church of the Brethren must take care of her young people. That we have recognized this is evidenced by the prominence given in recent Annual Conferences to the problem of "Saving Our Young People to the Church." I believe this problem would be partially solved if we were to organize more efficiently our young people's interest in church work. At the Seattle Conference, when this question of reorganizing the work of the Christian Workers was up for consideration,—the result of queries from four different Districts,—Eld. J. Harman Stover made this statement: "We have a great church, and a great work to do, and we must have a great plan to do a great work." Bro. Stover was speaking in favor of a General Christian Workers' Board at that time, and he spoke the truth.

I believe there is a large opportunity and an unlimited field open to the Christian Workers of the Church of the Brethren. Let us give our young people a bigger chance than they have ever had, by providing for them an authoritative body which shall devote its time and effort especially to the problems of the younger people.

La Verne, Calif.

Westminster Abbey

BY J. E. MILLER

I FIRST saw Westminster Abbey in August of 1911. But I saw it only from the outside. King George V. had been crowned, and all coronations to the English throne now take place in this historic cathedral. Though the coronation had taken place some time before, the Abbey had not yet been open to the public, because of the necessary changes that had to be made for that great event. One of our party then remarked that if that coronation had taken place in America the place would have been cleared and ready for business the next morning. That was rather a strong assertion, but there is a wonderful difference between American push and English deliberation.

Westminster Abbey

On our recent stop at London a number of us attended services in the Abbey. Like all cathedrals, it is built in the form of a cross and one does not necessarily see those in charge of the services. The Episcopal services,—impressive rather than spiritual,—were gone through with. The formality of the English church does not readily appeal to one reared in the free churches of America. On this occasion there was a short sermon. There was nothing especially striking about the sermon, but the speaker did have fine terminal facilities, which he used after speaking fifteen or twenty minutes.

Westminster was long the burial-ground of kings and queens and their families. At present they are buried at Windsor. Queen Victoria, however, is buried in a mausoleum of her own. Her husband, Albert, could not be buried with kings and queens, and the English people wondered what they could do about it. The queen solved it by building a tomb near the palace at Windsor and arranging for two bodies, that of Albert and her own. She could not bring him into the place where she was entitled to lie, but she could have herself laid to rest by his side, and she did.

Personally, I was less interested in the long lines of royalty, resting in Westminster, than I was in the line of distinguished celebrities who have found this the place where they repose in their long sleep. To mention Livingstone (though his heart is buried in Africa), Darwin, Dean Stanley, Gladstone, Disraeli, and others, famous as statesmen and great leaders, will tell you that this is not a mean place.

The place of greatest interest, as a burial-ground, is "Poets' Corner." Here lie the great English writers. Though Shakespeare is not buried at Westminster, but at Stratford, he has been remembered, as are many others, with a figure of himself. In this one part of the building one can put in all the time at his disposal, reading the names of famous writers, and reviewing in mind their works and the influence they exerted. To think that you are really walking over the graves of these men, as you pass through the aisles and chapels, causes you to feel that you are in a sacred place. And to see large statues of them, representing them in their accustomed position, helps you to realize a little more fully what a powerful nation England is and has been. Nothing so impresses me with the newness of times and dates in America, as to go over historic grounds that were old even before America was discovered.

The old coronation chair in which kings and queens are and have been crowned, with its stone hanging beneath the seat, is beautiful because of what it has stood for, rather than because of its looks. No, visitors are not allowed to sit in it. But they all pay for the privilege of seeing it, as they also do for seeing the chapels that are cut off from the larger part of the building, which is open to the public.

Here is the little chapel or room in which the first session of the first Parliament of the English and Irish met. How strange that it has become the English and not the Irish Parliament. No, it is not strange in the least. The English have developed a trait for ruling other nations and ruling them justly, while the Irish have not even been able to get together to rule themselves. Whatever may be said against the British Government, this much is true, it knows how to take people not highly civilized and bring them to a point where they may become capable of at least partial self-government.

The Germans did their utmost to reach the buildings in this section with their air bomb raids, but they always failed. One of the bombs fell in the river near by, others fell in other sections not far away. But none of them damaged these historic buildings. Every Britisher swells with pride as he points out to you what the Germans failed to do, both in making their attacks in these raids and in establishing colonies such as have made England great.

For me the place of greatest interest was Jerusalem Chamber. Here the crown jewels are kept for a few days prior to their use by the king and queen. During this time they are securely guarded. He who could steal them and make way with them afterwards, would have a fortune for the rest of his life. But it was not as a depository for the jewels that Jerusalem Chamber had its interest for me.

Leading to the chamber is a small room which is still used as the place for small business meetings in work connected with the Abbey. The room is low, is furnished with old furniture, and though all else breathes of age, electric lights may be seen. These do seem out of place in such old surroundings, but modern man will not have it otherwise.

It was in this Jerusalem Chamber that the King James Translation was made. And it was in this same Jerusalem Chamber that the committee met and labored that gave us the Revised Version. These two events have made this chamber one that all Bible students aim to see when they stop in London. I failed to get the dimensions of the room, but think it must be about thirty feet wide and sixty feet long. I may be mistaken in this, and do not give it as authentic.

The King James Translation was made to furnish a text that would more nearly conform to the language then in use. Besides it was thought that improvements could be made in the way of bringing out the original more clearly. The Revised Version was made partly to give us an English text that would conform more fully to the English in common use, partly to correct some mistranslations and partly because the discovery of manuscripts since the days of King James had furnished us with better texts from which to make a translation.

The King James Translation met with bitter opposition. Many claimed that it was an effort on the part of scholars to insert their own ideas. After a long contest it became the commonly approved text. The older people will remember the opposition that was at first made against the Revised Version. But in these days, while many do not use it, practically no one finds fault with it, or considers it a corruption either in text or in motive.

The Jerusalem Chamber is the one place above all others that I wish to remember in Westminster Abbey.

London, England.

Among the Eastern Churches

(Continued from Page 337)

Cadmus Hicks, and a most pleasant and comfortable home we had. It is only half a mile from the old home where the writer was born.

At San Mar, Md., is a Brethren's Old People's Rest Home, second to none in the Brotherhood. Eld. Abram Barnhart, the founder of the Home, has his abode here, and a pleasant home he has. He did a noble work for the church when, with the assistance of others, he established the Home. A chapel was recently built, and this was dedicated on Sunday, May 4. I was told it seats about three hundred people. It was crowded inside and out. Some one said there were more people outside than inside. Bro. Galen B. Royer preached an able sermon in the afternoon. Several evening meetings were held, and then an auto and train ride brought us to the Pipe Creek congregation, in Carroll County, Md. Here, at New Windsor, is located the flourishing Blue Ridge College.

Pipe Creek is among the old churches in Maryhouse of worship, four miles in the country, and a large chapel in the college, serve them well. In the country we attended the feast of love. Eld. Caleb Long, of Boonsboro, preached and officiated at the feast. At the morning service two deacons were installed.

Pipe Creek is one among the old churches in Maryland. Eld. Ephraim Stoner, of sacred memory, was elder here for many years. Eld. D. P. Sayler's home was not far distant. He was a prominent church leader in his day. Four sermons were preached in the College Chapel. On Sunday evening the Methodists dismissed their services and attended ours. The large chapel was full. At the close an invitation was given and the only male student in the College not a professing Christian, stood for Christ. There was manifest joy. Like all our schools, Blue Ridge suffered the loss of some students on account of the war. They are gaining now and the prospects for the future are very good.

Waynesboro, Pa., is, perhaps, the largest organized congregation in our Brotherhood. There are over one thousand members, eight preachers, among whom are two elders. Twenty-five deacons answer to roll call. There are seven appointments for services. The congregation is doing well but might do better if it were divided into about three congregations, thus making three important centers of activity instead of one. The Conference committee wisely suggested a division. It has not yet been accomplished.

Eld. Hugh Mitchell Stover, brother of our India missionary, is now bishop of the church. Eld. C. R. Oellig was bishop for a number of years but earnestly requested to be relieved and Bro. Stover was appointed in his place. Like many other churches, Waynesboro has its difficulties. These were common in the days of the Apostolic church and they will be common until Christ comes again. We had a most pleasant stay of four evenings at Waynesboro. Bro. Stover's home was indeed a home to us.

Hagerstown, Md., and Altoona, Pa., were our next stopping-places. Hagerstown has a membership of some eight hundred. Bro. W. S. Reichard is bishop of the church and has been closely connected with it from the start. He may be called its founder. At first they worshiped in a rented hall, then in a larger one. Then they built a small house of worship and now they have a fine, large house, in which to accommodate their large congregations. Bro. A. B. Miller, the pastor, was in Virginia, holding meetings. When a bishop has charge of a church, growing from its infancy to a membership of over eight hundred all told, it shows that good work has been done. Bro. Reichard has been a hard worker, and in recent years has had an energetic assistant in Bro. Miller. The latter becomes pastor at Bridgewater, Va., in September.

Altoona, Pa., has a membership of about 750. Bro. Walter S. Long has been pastor and bishop here for fourteen years. When he came, the membership numbered 150. Since then there has been a continuous growth. Altoona has perhaps the most costly house of worship in our Brotherhood. Including the lots and the building, the cost is placed at $65,000. The building alone cost $55,000. It has a seating capacity of 1,160. In connection with it, and under the same roof, a good parsonage was erected, so that the cost really includes both buildings. The building cost much more than it otherwise would had it not been for the coming on of the world war while it was being constructed. We had a pleasant visit at Altoona and we shall not soon forget the kindness shown us by the members at this place, and also in the good home of Bro. Long.

Other calls came to hold meetings, and we would have gladly filled them all, but a season of rest was demanded before our Conference. So we are now homeward bound. The Lord has been so very good to us. Thank him, the Giver of all good! D. L. M.

Giving and Getting the Windows Open

BY MRS. RALPH G. RARICK

When Jesus was on earth "he sat down over against the treasury, and beheld how the multitude cast money into the treasury." Be it remembered that he is as much there now, watching the gifts of his people with deep discernment and with much appreciation, especially as pertains to those gifts which are given out of sacrificial obedience to his last command.

From the early days of the human race giving has been a cardinal factor, for the "in deed and in truth" worship of our God. There is, for instance, the early mention of an offering of this type by Abel. "Abraham divided a tenth part of all" to Melchizedek, the "priest of God Most High." Jacob exemplified the giving grace of his grandfather. The children of Israel, when building the tabernacle, were generous to the extent that Moses had finally to restrain them.

The liberality of David, when preparing to build the temple, causes some of our apparently noble gifts to pale into less significance. Exemplary acts of giving glow here and there, and much everywhere, on the pages of our Good Book.

Giving is a necessity for our gain. Paradoxical as this may seem, it is a fact, not to be gainsaid, that giving is a necessary means for our own spiritual development. Here, then, is argument enough why we should cultivate the graces of liberality and charity.

Moreover, there is another good reason why giving is necessary, and it is an exceeding big reason, as every man and woman of vision and love most assuredly knows. It is necessary to bring about the good on this earth which our Lord wills. He has designed that we properly improve and appropriate the money which, for convenience's sake, we call ours, but which is, in reality, no closer related than exchange intrusted to our stewardship. We need to give to keep our accounts square with God. "Will a man rob God?"

We need to give to carry on the work of the Gospel. The Lord has promised, in Mal. 3: 10, to open the windows of heaven and pour out a great blessing to those who bring in the whole "tithe,"—a blessing so great "that there shall not be room enough to receive it." How often have congregations said "Amen" to their leader's fervent prayer for a fulfilling of this promise, and then marveled because the windows did not open! The trouble was that all the time the leader and the congregation had the key, that opens the windows, in their pockets, but never thought, or else were plainly indisposed, to take it out and use it. Bringing in "the whole tithe" would have brought down the blessing. It will do it yet. Giving,—satisfactory giving,—will get the windows open.

Now the giving that "gets open" is the giving which bears the insignia of cheerfulness and liberality. We have 2 Cor. 9: 7 for the truth that "God loveth a cheerful giver." So, then, it follows that if a man desires this love which God has for the cheerful giver, he would better be one. If a man loves God he will be a cheerful giver. He will give because he wants to give. To him it will be a delightful service, an inherent part of his religion. By giving liberally we are laying up abundant treasures in heaven. Let us inspire one another with this precious verity!

"But just how much shall I give?" asks one. Here is the answer: "Give as the Lord hath prospered you." What wonderful results would be obtained if every one were to follow this instruction! There are grounds for believing that there are a few people, at least, who are giving the same amount annually to missions that they gave five, ten or even twenty years ago, although, in the meantime, they have succeeded in becoming much better "fixed" financially,—fixed with an ill-advised percentage of God's money. Unfaithful stewards, these!

I once read the noteworthy story of a man who began for himself on a small farm with a large mortgage to pay off. He was a capable man and prospered. He added field to field and barn to barn; his herds and flocks multiplied; his bank account grew. So did his mortgages, only now, instead of being mortgager he was mortgagee. When he started for himself, in those first years, he gave two dollars per annum for missions, and no doubt this was for him, at that time, a fairly generous gift. But unlike his acreage, flocks, herds and bank account, it did not grow. He still gave two dollars a year for missions,—two dollars a year to save the world.

Candidly, do we keep sufficiently conscious of the fact that we are stewards? What kind are we proving to be? If the professing followers of Christ were separately weighed in the balances on this test, would there be any found wanting? Yes. Is this much the reason for empty treasuries, struggling churches, mission boards in debt and persons waiting to be sent to spread abroad the "good tidings"? Yes. Is this the reason why many of "the fatherless and widows in their affliction" are not visited? Yes. Is this the reason why cherished dreams for our church colleges and Bible schools are painfully slow to materialize? Yes, alas!

It is feared that some of us stand in great danger of some day being confronted with the words that Christ used when speaking to the rich young ruler. Those unwelcomed, but nevertheless fitting, words were: "One thing thou lackest." This young man had not made proper distribution of his goods. Brother, sister, let us not be foolish and do the same. Never forget that "he that soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he that soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

And then we hear some well-meaning one say: "Why, I can hardly get along now, even when I don't give to missions." Now that one has himself, though unconsciously, suggested one factor in the reason why he "can hardly get along now." He would gain by giving. "Give and it shall be given unto you," says Christ. Does the above-mentioned man believe it? Obviously, no. Yet it is true, very true. God judges our giving, not as to whether it is in itself large or small, but with reference to its accordance with "as much as in us is." More than the amount of the money, it is the amount of the heart; and more than the weight of the coin, it is the weight of the love. As Lowell, in his well-known poem, gives to the saying of Christ:

> "Not what we give, but what we share,
> For the gift without the giver is bare;
> Who gives himself with his alms feeds three,
> Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me."

Suppose your tenant retained a part of the rent at the end of the year because he felt he couldn't spare it for you; or suppose he should say he wouldn't properly cultivate the land because it didn't matter so very much after all. What would you think of him? Would you praise him or cast him out? And yet, are not some rendering similar service to the Lord? They have not given him his full share, his whole "tithe." Much of the money that should be signed over is still in their pockets. Is there any in ours? If any, let us come out with it and be honest! Our accounts are open to the All-seeing Eye.

Beloved, the hour has struck for us severally to decide upon, and get ready our sacrificial sum for the one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, or more, to constitute the fast-approaching Becker Bicentennial Missionary Offering. The "windows" are now ajar because of what we have given for the relief of the Armenians.

Now, as one man, let us give again. Giving of the right sort will get the windows open. It will please our gracious Lord to pour out the promised blessing. The only place where it is proper to place a question mark is after ourselves. Will we give and get the windows open? May an affirmative answer be given to this by a hundred thousand strong!

Covington, Ohio.

A Typical Armenian Refugee Camp

BY A. J. CULLER

ONE of the best established and most successful of the camps for Armenian refugees is on the sands of the desert, just south of Port Said and along the Suez Canal. It is easily reached from here by either sail, motor or ferry boat. We visited the camp a few days ago and were treated to our first experience in the work of Armenian Relief.

This is one of the first camps for the poor unfortunates deported by the Turks, it having been established in 1915. Its beginning reads like a romance. The Turks had driven a large number of Armenians from their villages up into the mountains, among the wild peoples of the Taurus range. This particular group were huddled together on a mountain top near Mersine, a port on the Mediterranean. They were threatened that they would have only three days to live, when they should all be killed. Almost hoping against hope, they constructed a distress signal and hoisted it as high as they could. This signal was detected by a French warship which lay off the harbor. At first they thought it was a decoy and sent out an investigating party to determine the facts. This party found the destitute and hopeless mass of Armenian refugees,—mostly women and children. They were then asked to come down from the mountain and get on board of the French warship, which was accomplished without any serious mishaps, and one can imagine the happy crowd, snatched just in time from the jaws of a horrible death.

There are many interesting little side details which we can not relate. One of them, however, has to do with a little baby, now over three years old, which was born at the time of the descent to the warship. It is the child of the governor of one of the provinces, who, with his wife, was among the refugees. For a few days the mother had been hid in a cave to save her from the Turks until the rescue came. The child is named after the captain of the ship and the name of the ship itself, though we are not permitted to mention names in either case.

The French warship landed the refugees at Port Said, where they were herded together without much relief in sight. "The Friends of Armenia," a relief society of London, sent workers to arrange for their care. The American Red Cross also, at the first opportunity, sent relief and workers to help. The Egyptian Government gave valuable aid also. The present camp, two miles south of Port Said, was established and has been operated ever since, with many additions from other sources. At present it is still operated by the American Red Cross, but is to be taken over by the American Relief Committee in a few months.

The number of occupants fluctuates from time to time, as some are taken back to their homes and others arrive, but on last Sunday, April 6, the number was 7,499. There were 2,249 men, 3,137 women, 957 children over 12 and 805 under twelve, while there were 351 infants under two years of age. Since coming over here we find there are not as many orphans as had been supposed, for the death rate among the orphans has been very high. It is estimated that of the Armenians alone there are one hundred thousand orphans. More than that number have perished.

The camp consists of large buildings, constructed of Egyptian date-palms, and small white tents for the families. If possible, families are kept together in the small tents, or even several families in one tent. It is interesting to note that most of them have little gardens which they water and tend, so as to have some fresh vegetables. The buildings for the orphans, and all the work-rooms and school-rooms are cool, and fitted for their respective tasks. The refugee camp is a veritable beehive of industry. Whole buildings are devoted to making shoes, carpentry and cabinet-making, the manufacture of combs, spoons, and varied household articles out of wood and bone, as well as to various other occupations for the men. The work of the women consists largely of spinning and weaving. They work in wool, flax and silk. Some are making silk articles of every description. Others weave fine Oriental rugs, and others are doing the finest lace and crochet work. No woman could go through the camp without wanting to buy a lot of the things they make, and even a number of our men have overloaded their already burdened baggage with large and varied purchases. I can only say that we were amazed at the skill shown, for their work is equal to that of the best Oriental artisans.

Tent Life in an Armenian Refugee Camp

The cooking is all, or at least mostly, done in the central bakeries and kitchens. They bake about twenty-three thousand little loaves of bread a day, for each person is rationed three little loaves, and other food in proportion. One is surprised at the remarkable cleanliness and the apparent good order of everything. Schools are held for children of all grades, from the kindergarten to about the ninth grade, all of them taught by native Armenian teachers. They also have a dispensary and hospital, with all the fixtures simple but efficient for the work to be done. On Sunday, services are held in the native Gregorian worship, and also in the Protestant and Catholic manner, for there are some of each faith in the camp.

A Scene in a Refugee Camp.—The Spinner

We were very warmly received by the workers in attendance. Eight American and English workers are organizing and overseeing this work. We were received into their cozy date-palm homes, and served to the delightful Oriental afternoon tea, which is quite refreshing after one has stamped about in the hot sun.

Externally the place seems very happy. They look well, and sickness is rather remarkable for its absence and one can hardly see a child that is undernourished. There is not very much of the eastern skin disease, and comparatively little eye disease. A happier, more cheerful lot one could not meet anywhere.

But they hide the sorrow that rests in their bosoms. In the life of almost every adult there is a tragedy. Perhaps the thing that touched me most is that so many of them do not know where their friends are. When they learned we were on our way to Armenia, they wanted us to inquire for husband, wife, child, parent, or loved one. It has been two or three years since they heard. Nearly all of them mourn the loss of one or more of their family. One woman with a small baby was driven from her home. She took a bunch of clothes and the baby. When driven like a beast she had to drop one bundle, and so dropped what she thought was the bundle of clothes, only to find later that in her mad excitement she had dropped the baby.

The exiles tell of their pleasant homes, which are now broken up, and no one of the family knows where any of the others are. Women that look to be eighty years old are only fifty or sixty, so unnaturally have they aged. They sit there quietly, doing their work, but when they tell you their story, tears will come in spite of all their efforts to restrain them. One of the things that the relief work must lead to is to get these people back to their homes, eventually to reunite the scattered fragments of broken families.

It is all so inexpressibly sad. We feel that we have had our first baptism of that sorrow which will engulf us with its briny waters more and more, as today we turn our footsteps to Jerusalem and the North.

Port Said, Egypt.

Why Some Are Not Saved

BY H. J. BEACHLEY

WE are often greatly disturbed and many times are at a loss to know, why sinners do not turn to the Lord for salvation. We set a date for a series of meetings, engage an evangelist, and when the time comes we go to the church to see the new preacher.

After weeks of laboring we talk it over together, and find that only a few have "come out." Then we blame the evangelist, find fault or maybe say: "We can not see why certain ones failed to come."

Have we ever made an honest effort to see the matter from the sinner's standpoint? Maybe, if we would turn on the great searchlight, some things would be revealed that would startle us. After the great plan of salvation has been revealed by men of God, who declare the truth in no uncertain tones; after the testimony of thousands of men and women has been given to the saving grace of God; after centuries of history have told us of martyrs who gladly sealed their testimony with their lives,—we still have hundreds, yea, thousands, who are either indifferent or refuse to accept salvation. There must be some reason.

Men and women of the world do not read the Bible and, as a rule, know but little of its teachings. They look around and see many denominations, cults, isms and parties who claim to base their teaching on the Bible. They see some hundreds of churches differing to the extent that some debate and even quarrel over their doctrines. They see Christian Science, Russellism, Theosophy, Free-loveism and many others who claim to find their truth (?) in the Bible. Then the unconverted one listens, goes his way, feeling he wants but little of religion, if the versions shown him be religion. Can you blame him?

But, my dear fellow traveler to the judment bar of God, I want to bring this thing close home. Though the worldly man does not read his Bible, he reads you. Let us see what he finds in these "living epistles": He goes into the bar-room and there finds, alongside of him, Mr. Church Member, with his foot upon the brass rail, gulping down the vile stuff. He goes over to the theatre and finds Officer Deacon occupying a choice seat in the pit. He goes into a Christian (?) home and finds its members engaged in

(Continued on Page 348)

THE ROUND TABLE

A Child Comforts

BY JULIA GRAYDON

It came to me the other day, this little instance of what a child can do to comfort sometimes in a dark moment.

Her father had died and as they stood about the grave, while the remains of that precious one were being lowered, she, who was the oldest of three children, herself only eleven, said to her mother: "Don't look down there, mother. Daddy is not there, he's up with Jesus."

And a strong man standing there said afterward: "It was the best sermon I have ever heard."

Shall we not, then, keep our eyes turned upward to the things which are above, looking for this same Jesus who shall come in like manner as he went up?

Harrisburg, Pa.

Do You Know?

BY WILLIAM J. TINKLE

Yes, do you know that Rupert Blue, Surgeon General of the Army, reports more days lost from venereal diseases in the army than from poison gas, wounds, other sickness, or any other cause?

Do you know that five cases of venereal disease were brought into the army, for every case that developed in camp?

Do you know that venereal diseases are easily spread but very hard to cure?

Do you know that many a young man has considered himself cured of the results of "sowing wild oats," only to have the disease break out again and make his wife an invalid and his child blind?

Do you know that many parents say nothing to their boys and girls about the most dreadful diseases and the foulest sins?

Do you know that many a young man, who would not think of stealing a horse, thinks nothing of stealing a young lady's virtue?

Do you know that these lamentable conditions are the result of a lack of teaching, training, and watchfulness on the part of ministers, teachers and parents?

What Are You Going to Do About It?

Let us teach our boys and girls to think of reproduction as being normal and pure. We must have that attitude ourselves before we can instill it in their minds.

Let us teach them the truth about the origin of life in a pure way before they learn half truths clothed in vile language. It is well to tell them stories about baby plants and baby animals first, then the story of their own origin.

Parents should keep close to their children as they grow up, taking an interest in the things which interest the children. Thus the parents can guide them in the choice of books, associates, and all activities.

In addition, well informed speakers should address young men and young women separately in every church.

If the plans of one State District are carried out, at the coming Conference, the Temperance Committee will be intrusted with the organization and direction of the above work. This will be a long step in the right direction.

Bellefontaine, Ohio.

The Garden

BY NORMAN W. TWIDDY

Easter Day has passed, but the joy of the Easter season abides. Springtime sees the immortality of the flowers. Springtime brings a consciousness of the immortality of man. The hope of that immortality is a universal instinct. But the hope does not depend purely on such instinct. We know that One rose from the dead, that One conquered death and that One removed forever the victory of the grave. "If Christ he not risen then is our preaching vain and your faith also vain." But the glorious Easter message, which flames through the centuries, is that Jesus Christ, our Savior and our King, rose again from the dead and brought "life and immortality to light through the gospel."

In John 19: 41 appear the words: "In the garden was a tomb." This was the tomb in which our Master was laid,—the tomb whose bonds he burst asunder. Did you ever meditate on the truth that all the beautiful hopes of life are summed up in those few recorded words?

First was the garden, with its grass and its flowers, and in it,—a mere incident of the garden,—was a tomb. The important part was the garden. The garden stretched its grassy fingers all about the cold, rock-hewn tomb. Does that not paint a picture of a life which is hid with Christ in God?

Through the suffering which seems to engulf us, and our sorrow which draws the tear, we ascend to the greater stretches of the Eternal Garden. "When our work on earth is ended and we cross the swelling tide," it will be to walk in the garden of God's love. The tomb is but a passageway to a life more abundant. "Death is the gateway of life." Christ burst forever the seal of the tomb.

In this life, even, it is possible to walk in the garden with him, and the glorious beauty of the roses. Even though sorrow presses hard and grief seems about to overwhelm, we have the garden of the love of Christ. Ah, Christian, to walk with him and to talk with him!

Outside of, and around the ruins of your hopes and your might-have-beens, buried in the tomb of yesterday, lies that garden where the flowers ever bloom as we walk by his side. The cold blackness of the tomb is dispelled by the sunshine of his love, the clammy dampness yields to the glorious fragrance of the roses.

Is it not life,—the life of a Christian,—because of Jesus Christ?

Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Christ Cross

BY LIZZIE SHIRK

During the past few years the organization of the Red Cross has been quite effectively implanted in the hearts of men. The work is far-reaching and as we pass up and down our streets, we are constantly reminded by the emblem that hangs in a window of nearly every home, that many people support the movement. We are glad to see the sign, and we instinctively count the number of crosses to ascertain how many members of the home are enrolled. All this has a greater effect upon the passer-by than we at first suppose. It tells that the home stands for mercy and temporal help to our fellow-men everywhere.

This is commendable, but I wonder if the Christ cross is beneath it all as it should be. While we are giving so much attention to the temporal needs of men, are we giving corresponding attention to the spiritual needs of the masses, whose souls have been wounded and torn by Satan?

The efforts of the Red Cross have been directed chiefly to the sufferers in the war, or from the effects of war. The suffering for want of food, medical attention and temporal needs is extremely great. This great war has given us a realization of what comes to humanity as a result of war.

The undesirable effects of the war, which Satan and his hosts are waging upon the souls of men, is not so apparent, but is more deadly and constantly going on. The sin sufferers are infinitely more in number than the war sufferers. The outburst of war was only the great storm that had accumulated by years of the sin conflict in those countries that waged the war.

Now, since the war storm has subsided and the Red Cross is performing its mission, will the church carry the Christ cross to these same nations with a corresponding zeal and rapidity? War has torn a great gap into humanity, and the Christ cross should fill that gap ere the adverse power gain control.

But we can not stop with the war-ridden nations, because the work for the Christ cross goes farther than that. Every nation has its untold numbers of sin sufferers. So-called Christian nations have too many of them, and when I come to the vast army of the helpless in the heathen nations, I stand almost appalled at the magnitude of the work for the Christ cross,—China, India, Africa, South America and the islands of the sea,—all stretching out their hands for help.

Sin is just as effectively doing its deadening work upon the world of humanity as the late war did upon the bodies of men. We have been so slow to bear the Christ cross to this greater number of sufferers that I sometimes wonder if God had to send the war to spur us on to duty, ere too many souls pass beyond earth's help.

The Christ cross calls for greater activity and speed than even the Red Cross. Every person who professes Christ's name should help in some way. An emblem of the Christ cross should hang in a window of every Christian home, as well as the Red Cross emblem. Stars could surround it to show how many members of the home are enrolled for God. That would have its effect on the unsaved members of a household, as well as the passer-by.

In this day, when there is so much enthusiasm for the Forward Movement along so many lines, and large sums of money are needed for various purposes, let us not fail to keep pushing the work of the Christ cross foremost. When we are told that only thirty-five per cent of the world's population is Christian and that sixty-five per cent are yet without the life that the Christ cross seeks to bring them, can we not form some little idea of the stupendous work we have yet on hand?

The war swept men into eternity at a very rapid rate, but now influenza, famine, starvation and threatening cholera are even more rapidly sweeping thousands beyond our help. Would we not feel better if we knew they had had a chance to know God and prepare to meet him before their lives went out?

A recent writer says: "We have lately become accustomed to an atmosphere surcharged with the desire to dare and to do big things." While this is true, let the biggest thing attempted be to carry the news of the Christ cross as rapidly as possible to the multitude of poor souls who know it not.

This task is preëminently the work of the Christian. While they need to help in the relief for the body, yet men who do not profess Christ will aid that cause, so that the Christian's highest duty lies in bearing the Christ cross forward to bring about better conditions on the earth, that hunger, famine and wars may be no more, and that Christ may put an end to all these distressing conditions, and take home those of every nation who have been cleansed and made pure by the Christ cross message.

Mt. Morris, Ill.

Only an Immigrant Girl

BY REBECCA C. FOUTZ

She was brought into a city hospital one summer day, suffering from the effects of the heat and strong drink. She seemed morose and uncommunicative, troubled no one and asked for no attention. Her very attitude was that of one who felt herself an outcast,—not willing to intrude on those who she thought might not want to associate with her.

In a few days she was able to be up, and at once, in a very quiet and unassuming way, she began to lend a hand in the work of the ward. She was deft, and quite willing to carry out suggestions given by the nurses. Soon the other patients began to have a friendly regard for her,—yes, even a feeling of respect,—and would speak kindly to her. They were really sorry to see her leave when she was dismissed, some days later, for she had so eagerly ministered unto them.

But in the stress of seeing other suffering unfortunates, she was almost forgotten, until one day, about a week later, when one of the nurses, returning after having had her afternoon hours off, stepped into the ward with this query: "Whom, do you think, I saw while out?" As no one could guess, she went on: "Miss B., the immigrant girl, who was brought in here ill from a factory, the other week. I was going down F Street and a woman standing in a doorway called to me. I was quite surprised to learn that it was she and that I had been recognized. She seemed as overjoyed to see me as if I had been a long lost friend.

"To me, she possesses splendid possibilities if she could have a little help. She seems so responsive to right influences, and it is not for us to judge or censure. I wonder if we had landed in a strange country and the first, to make friends with us, had been those who planned our downfall, if we would have done differently or been any better?"

Yes, we wondered too, and thought much more charitably still of her, as we meditated on who was responsible that the forces of evil are permitted to be the first to hold out open arms in pretended help and friendliness to the lonely, strange language-speaking souls who come to our land, seeking better things, but who, instead, are all too often soon ensnared.

Now, since the great drink evil is to be removed, do not let us, as Christians, rest easy, or think that there are no other soul-destroying influences to fight. Let us help to save not only the immigrant but also our native-born.

Waynesboro, Pa.

"Infant Consecration" Reviewed

BY I. J. ROSENBERGER

"INFANT CONSECRATION" is receiving some attention, having first appeared in GOSPEL MESSENGER No. 8, and then being heartily endorsed in GOSPEL MESSENGER No. 17. I have met with teachings and doctrines which, if you but listen to them and bring no test to bear, seem full,—seem to have a mission,—but, when analyzed under the X-ray of the Gospel, fade like vapor beneath the rays of the rising sun. When "infant consecration" is weighed in the great balances, it is found wanting. Let us calmly and prayerfully examine the question. Truth is a jewel of priceless worth.

It is said: "Infant baptism" is absurd. Why? Because it lacks precept or example of either Christ or the apostles. I affirm that the same thing is true of "infant consecration," hence, I hang it on the same hook with infant baptism, asserting that there is not a vestige of Scripture in support of the doctrine.

We are asked: "What is the relation of my child to my church?" I answer: "If your church has two classes in its membership,—voluntary (adults) and involuntary (infants), then your child may sustain the relationship of membership to your church. But your child, until duly received, is not a member of Christ's church, and sustains no relation to it.

We are further asked: "Are our children strangers, heathens or outsiders?" I stoutly affirm that they are not classified as being any of the three. When we speak of strangers, heathens and outsiders, we mean adult men and women,—responsible beings. Our children are redeemed, royal guests in our homes. They need the watchful care of pious parents to give them the early teaching that will help them to see the beauty of piety,—as pious Hannah did for little Samuel, and sainted Eunice did for Timothy. Let it be remembered that the little soul of that heathen mother's child will be clad with a robe just as white as the robe that adorns your child or mine. "God is no respecter of persons."

I was at some loss to know what this "infant consecration" service was like, as the Scriptures are wholly silent on the question, but here we have it: "This consecration service is much like the baptismal service, except that there is no baptism. Instructions are given to the father and mother . . . that the child should be brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. . . . The child is dedicated and consecrated to God. . . . The child then is received by the church with open arms. . . . There is now a vital spiritual bond between the church and the child."

There are a number of things claimed in the foregoing, but some of them hang in the scale of doubt. Let us look at them:

1. We are told: "In this service, parents are instructed to raise this child in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." The Scriptures are ample in teaching along these lines, hence, it is a fixed duty of Christian parents to so do, and it is the duty of ministers so to teach. My parents so taught, and I have heard it all my life, but they never once called it "infant consecration."

2. Another claim is: "The child is dedicated and consecrated to God." I inquire: Is that true? You can dedicate a house to the Lord. You can consecrate a piece of ground. You can consecrate funds, that is, you can appropriate them to sacred use. You can consecrate yourself, but you can not consecrate your neighbor, neither can you consecrate your wife, and for the same reason you can not consecrate your child. You can only consecrate and dedicate that to the Lord over whose use, life and service you have absolute control. Parents have no such control over their children, hence they can not consecrate them. To consecrate a thing, there is a future assurance of use and devotion. I seriously ask the reader: "What special assurance can any parent give of the future of his child?" I place such an assurance in the same class with the one of a godfather, and pronounce it vain, if not worse.

3. "The child thus is received by the church with open arms." This language well nigh implies that it becomes a member of the church. If not, I'm wondering what relation that child now sustains to the church?

4. "There is now a vital spiritual bond between the child and the church." I have shown that this service is unscriptural, hence not vital at all. This service being unscriptural, it is not dictated by the Spirit, therefore can not be spiritual. There may be a bond there, but it is neither vital nor spiritual. Let us suppose that in that service sat a sainted mother with her child, taking no part in the service. Are not the obligations of that mother towards her child just as binding as those of the mother whose child has just been consecrated? Do not the obligations of the church, the Sunday-school and the ministry apply equally to the two children? Suppose both children die, will not that mother's child wear as bright a crown as the child that was consecrated? Will not those receive the same consolation in the funeral service? So I am compelled to conclude that the doctrine of "infant consecration" is vain and idle,—that it is as "a sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

Greenville, Ohio.

A Man's Need of Christ

BY G. W. TUTTLE

SAD, sad it is to see a man who is blind. The wonderful beauty of the flowers, the living green that carpets the hillsides, the cool ferns by the friendly water courses, and the trees which nod to us with every passing breeze, alike appeal to him in vain.

He perceives neither the beauty of the sunrise nor the golden glory of its setting, while the face of friend or enemy is alike hidden from his view. When the stars appear in their beauty, in the infinite meadows of heaven, he sees them not, neither knows when the moon is at its full. Darkness is before his eyes instead of the beauty spread before our vision. Careful, faltering steps in the darkness, while we walk in the light. Who does not pity him in all sincerity?

But such blindness is but a light affliction, compared with blindness of soul. The man who says he has no need of Christ is more blind than the man from whose earthly vision friends, enemies, the flowers, the trees, and all the wonders of this beautiful world, are shut out.

Those who are blind of soul look to material things for the satisfaction that only Christ can give. He who said: "I am the Bread of Life." They weary themselves with recreations and amusements, and make themselves uncomfortable by reason of strenuous seeking after the comforts of life. Life should be simple; they make it complex. Where it might be easy, they make it hard,—and all life is hard without Jesus Christ.

The man without Christ often knows not that he is naked,—clad only in the filthy garments of his own righteousness, while the Master is longing to cover him with the spotless robe of his righteousness. Would that his blind eyes might be opened, his weary soul awake out of its sleep, for the Master's waiting has been long and patient, and his ears are ever attentive to the slightest cry of the penitent soul.

Of many a soul the angels might say today: "He goes about with unseeing eyes; he is hungry and thirsty, yet knows it not; he holds out covetous hands for the husks of this world, while the Master is longing to feed him with the Bread of Life." All the resources of earth can never satisfy soul hunger.

The most beautiful thing in this world is a soul that feeds on the Master's bounty; that basks in the sunshine of his presence, and mirrors forth, in some small degree, his virtues. Very luminous are the Master's words: "The Kingdom of God is within you."

Pasadena, Calif.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

Looking at the Unseen

2 Corinthians 4: 15-18

For Week Beginning June 8, 1919

1. The Transitory and Unsatisfactory Character of the "Things That Are Seen."—Solomon—the one man who seemed to be most signally favored with temporal blessings—made the discovery that the things to which great men aspire, are but a striving after wind. He tried mirth and found it a failure. He said of laughter: "It is mad." He, sought relaxation in beautiful gardens and fruitful vineyards. He planted extensive orchards and revelled in their luscious fruits. He builded great reservoirs, whose sparkling waters smiled upon thirsty vegetation and caused it to flourish in luxuriant verdure. He had, in fact, all that heart could wish. "Of the things that are seen" he had more than any other man in the world, but in spite of it all he threw himself on his luxurious couch surfeited and unsatisfied.

2. The Soul Is Not Contented with Earthly Things.—If Solomon was compelled to exclaim: "All is vanity," after testing all the delights within his reach, which great riches only can procure, what is the use of us, with our few dollars in the bank, or our few acres, to think that we can satisfy our souls with temporal things? Even though we accomplish our ambitions, and realize all the dreams we have cherished, our final conclusion must be: "It is all a striving after wind."

3. The Fleeting Nature of This Earth.—Looking away from ourselves, and our possible possessions, to the good and beautiful world in which our Mereiful, Heavenly Father has placed us, what do we find? Only change and decay—all is "vanity of vanities." "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth." Forests disappear. Treasures, which God has placed in the earth, are quarried from their recesses, leaving but emptiness in their places. Earthquakes and tidal waves play havoc with our old earth and, as we look upon it, we sometimes wonder: "What, after all, is enduring?" Even the earth itself shall "wax old as a garment, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat." What is there, in the visible things, that is worth all the striving usually seen? Even if these things should endure, we ourselves must bid goodbye to them all, and mingle our dust with that of the field, and be at last as though we had not been.

4. The Things That Are Unseen.—Now, if there were not things other than those referred to above, this old world would, indeed, have a dreary outlook for us all. So we are brought back, by the sacred writer, from this profitless excursion, to contemplate the things that are unseen, "for the things which are not seen are eternal." Here we find something to build on. What is hope? It is unseen. What is faith? It is unseen. What is love? It is unseen. The most precious things referred to in Holy Writ are unseen. Paul speaks of "the innumerable cloud of witnesses." These faithful ones are all unseen. We read of the praise of the redeemed and the glory of the transfigured multitudes about the throne—all unseen and yet all are eternal We think of life itself, but life is unseen, and yet it is, undoubtedly, eternal. There is that within us that belongs to the eternal—the unseen things. With wings, as those of an eagle, our faith flies away toward heaven, to the unseen domain of the unseen hosts, standing about God's throne. May he help us to rise above the things seen, and to realize that things really worth living for are beyond the veil!

5. Suggestive References.—The unseen building (2 Cor. 5: 1). The unseen peace and the riches in glory (Philpp. 4: 7). The unseen inheritance of the saints in light (Col. 1: 11,12). The unseen reward of a chastened life (Heb. 12: 10, 11). We are kept by the unseen power of God (1 Peter 1: 5-8). The unseen reward of the faithful (Heb. 11: 25, 26). The unseen but abundant entrance into the Kingdom of our Lord (2 Peter 1: 10, 11).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 1

Sunday-school Lesson, Faith: What It Is and What It Does.—Heb. 11: 1-40; 12: 1, 2.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Origin of the Church of the Brethren.—Rom. 1: 16.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe and wife, of Chicago, in the Thornapple church, near Lake Odessa, Mich.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Three have been baptized at Burnham, Pa.

One accepted Christ in the Chico church, Calif.

Nine were recently baptized in the Beatrice church, Nebr.

One was baptized recently in the Bremen church, Indiana.

One was recently baptized in the Armourdale Mission, Kansas City.

One has been baptized in the Macoupin Creek church, Ill., since the last report.

Four have been baptized in the Pittsburgh church, Pa., since the previous report.

Two have been baptized in the Long Green Valley church, Md., since the last report.

Eight accepted Christ at Naperville, Ill.,—Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, same State, evangelist.

Twenty accepted Christ, four of whom have been baptized, in the First Church, Minneapolis, Minn.

Eight were baptized in the Salamonie church, Ind.,—Bro. E. L. Heestand, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Thirteen have been baptized in the Middletown Valley church, Md.,—the home ministers in charge of the meetings.

Sixty-one were received into the Covington church, Ohio,—Bro. Geo. W. Flory, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Nine were baptized at Rouzerville, Antietam congregation, Pa.,—Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized at the South Fulton house, Astoria congregation, Ill.,—Bro. S. S. Blough, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Ten were baptized at Pennersville, a mission point in the Antietam congregation, Pa.,—Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, same State, evangelist.

Ten stood for Christ, five of whom were baptized in the Columbia Furnace church, Woodstock congregation, Va.,—Bro. J. Wm. Harpine, of Mt. Jackson, same State, evangelist.

Six were baptized and one awaits baptism in the Fredericksburg church, Pa.,—Brethren J. W. Meyer and S. G. Meyer, evangelists. One has been baptized at Rankstown, in the same congregation, since the last report.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. W. F. Haynes, of Virden, Ill., to begin Sept. 6 in the White church, Ind.

Bro. B. F. Waltz, of Elk Lick, Pa., to begin June 14 in the Bear Creek church, Md.

Bro. Earl Bowman, of McPherson, Kans., to begin Aug. 3 in the Wakenda church, Mo.

Bro. Glen Montz, of Ramey, Minn., to begin June 15 in the Morrill church, same State.

Bro. J. U. G. Stiverson, of Oaklaud, Calif., to begin June 15 in the Sterling church, Ill.

Bro. Jesse Shull, of Chicago, to begin about the middle of August in the Hurricane Creek church, Ill.

Bro. Ezra Flory, of Chicago, to begin June 15 at Browns Mill church, Falling Spring congregation, Pa.

Bro. Wm. Kinsey, of New Windsor, Md., to begin about July 27 in the Long Green Valley church, same State.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. Earl L. Flora, formerly located at Turtle River, Minn., should now be addressed at Tenstrike, same State.

Bro. J. R. Smith, late of Juniata, Nebr., has accepted a call from the Lincoln church, same State, and will enter upon his new duties June 1.

Bro. Noah M. Shideler, late of Greencastle, Ind., has accepted the pastorate of the New Hope church, and should hereafter be addressed at R. D. 2, Seymour, same State.

Blue Ridge College is the first of our church schools to favor this office with a copy of the Catalog Number of the "College Bulletin" for the current year. We shall be glad to be remembered in like manner by all our educational institutions as the new catalogs are published. It is of mutual advantage to the "Messenger" and the colleges, to have the catalogs on file.

Bro. Charles Walter, Summum, Ill., has several open dates for series of meetings this fall. Those who may desire to secure his services, should communicate with him at their earliest convenience.

Bro. Ralph G. Rarick and wife, who are now giving their time to evangelistic work, have placed their membership with the Pleasant Hill church, Ohio. This means a change in their permanent address from South Bend, Ind., to Covington, Ohio.

It was a pleasure much appreciated,—that of an interview with Bro. Jesse B. Emmert, our missionary lately returned from India, who stopped off a while at Elgin last week, as he was on his way eastward to attend a missionary conference at Clifton, N. Y.

Owing to tubercular trouble it became necessary for Bro. S. P. Berkebile, of Bellefontaine, Ohio, to have his left foot amputated. The operation was performed May 12. It will be remembered that Bro. Berkebile and wife, after having served a term of seven years as missionaries in India, came home on furlough in 1911 and were unable to return to the field on account of the condition of Bro. Berkebile's health. His misfortune will elicit the sincere sympathies of our readers, and their prayers in his behalf that he may be granted, in spite of this handicap, still many years of useful service in the Master's vineyard.

The Conference Booklet

If you can not go to Conference you can still follow the progress of the meeting by sending at once for a Conference Booklet. Price, 10 cents per copy, by return mail.

All who attend Conference will find the Booklet on sale at 10 cents per copy. You will save time and worry by getting a Booklet. It gives the full program with the place, time, speaker and subject indicated. The Booklet also contains the items of business, together with the reports of Boards and Committees. You will find the Conference Booklet indispensable to the fullest enjoyment of the meeting.

The Full Report

Advance orders for the Full Report should be sent in as soon as possible. Why not keep in touch with the work and aims of the church? The Full Report will help you to do this. The price will be the same as last year,—35 cents per copy, postpaid. Order from the Brethren Publishing House, Elgin, Ill.

Bro. I. N. H. Beahm, of Nokesville, Va., sends us the following, which will explain why he can not attend the Conference this year,—a disappointment, doubtless, to his many friends: "The approaching General Conference at Winona Lake, Ind., is full of good work, radiant hope, and sweet fellowship. It is with profound regret that I mention my inability to attend, on account of having to look after my simple daily duty. I am still not strong, but I am most grateful for the many blessings that come to me. I rejoice also in the fact that Sister Beahm is hoping to be at the Conference. She has so often stayed 'by the stuff,' while I went, that it would seem but fair now that I should stay. I pray and hope that the Conference may be singularly blessed and prospered in the onward march of spiritual growth and evangelization!"

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

The programs for the various District gatherings of Northeastern Ohio, to be held in the Akron church, June 24-26, appear on page 348.

On page 348 Sister Lydia E. Taylor gives information of special value to our sisters who will attend the Conference at Winona Lake. Be sure to read her communication, and make full use of the opportunity.

MISCELLANEOUS

La Verne Church, Calif., reports $2,223.79 for the Conference Missionary offering.

All subscriptions and correspondence for the Conference Daily should now be addressed to Bro. John R. Snyder at Winona Lake, Ind., where he will give these matters his full and immediate attention.

All Sunday-school librarians are urged to come to the Winona Conference. A trained librarian will be located at the Missionary Exhibit and will be glad to talk over your library problems with you. Samples of books will also be on display. Come and learn how to increase the interest in your library.

Since the Conference Booklet went to press we have been informed of a change of speakers for the last topic in the Saturday afternoon session. Under the general theme, "The Church of the Brethren," the sub-topic, "Its Present and Future Educational Work," is to be discussed by Bro. D. C. Reber, of Manchester College, instead of Bro. J. J. Yoder, of McPherson College, as printed in the Booklet.

The Ministerial Board of the First District of West Virginia is anxious to get in touch with a wide-awake minister who wishes to devote his time to pastoral work. A pastor is needed in Keyser, W. Va., and it is hoped that those interested will confer with Eld. B. W. Smith, Burlington, W. Va.

We note that the Elizabethtown College endowment campaign is making good progress. In order to raise the amount planned for,—$400,000,—the quota of each member in the two affiliated Districts has been fixed at $40. One of the wide-awake churches,—Spring Creek,—has already reached its allotment, with $1,000 to spare.

The ministers or Missionary Committees of those churches that prepared special material to help in the $150,000 Conference Offering are asked to mail samples of such to the General Mission Board. An exhibit of such material, including Church Yearbooks, is being prepared for use in connection with the missionary exhibit. The Board welcomes any material along these lines. By visiting this exhibit, while at Conference, you may get some ideas that will work splendidly in your church.

Just as we go to press we have word from Bro. P. S. Miller, transportation agent, saying that the Assistant Director General of Railroads has informed him "that while it has recently been concluded to authorize reduced rates for conventions of a religious character, it is impossible to print and file tariffs and to complete other arrangements early enough to take care of your particular convention." Rates will not be effective, he states, till about June 9. One road has announced rates beginning June 1. There is evident confusion among the railroad people themselves. Bro. Miller exceedingly regrets the situation but he has done his best to clear matters up. Later: Telegram from Bro. Miller says: "The summer tourist fare is promised us for Annual Conference."

SINGING AT WINONA

Sister Cora Stahly, who so ably directed the singing at Winona Lake three years ago, will again have charge of the Conference music. She requests us to announce that "Kingdom Songs No. 2" will be the book used, and all persons attending the Conference should supply themselves with this book. Sister Stahly will conduct all song services or provide leaders. She will conduct a Musical Institute each morning in the Auditorium from 7 to 8 o'clock.

The special musical feature of the meeting will be the Oratorio "Esther," on Saturday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock in the Auditorium.

Special musical numbers provided are as follows: Thursday morning, Daleville College, by Dorothy Moherman. Thursday afternoon, Bethany Bible School. Thursday evening, Mt. Morris College. Friday morning, Mt. Morris College. Friday afternoon, Manchester College Girls' Chorus. Friday evening, Bethany Bible School. Saturday morning, Manchester College Boys' Chorus. Saturday afternoon, Bethany and Dalcville. Saturday evening, Mt. Morris College. Sunday afternoon, Manchester College. Sunday evening, Mt. Morris and Bethany.

STANDING COMMITTEE FOR 1919

1. Arkansas, First District and Southeastern Missouri,	Not reported
2. California, Northern,	J. U. G. Stiverson
3. California, Southern and Arizona,	W. F. England
4. China, First District,	Not represented
5. Colorado, Western and Utah,	A. A. Weaver
6. Denmark,	Not represented
7. Idaho and Western Montana,	B. J. Fike
8. Illinois, Northern and Wisconsin,	Jas. M. Moore
9. Illinois, Southern,	W. T. Heckman
10. India, First District,	J. B. Emmert
11. Indiana, Middle,	Frank Fisher, Otho Winger
12. Indiana, Northern,	Manly Deeter, J. W. Grater
13. Indiana, Southern,	D. W. Bowman
14. Iowa, Middle,	L. L. Royer
15. Iowa, Northern, Minn. and S. Dakota,	A. P. Blough
16. Iowa, Southern,	W. N. Glotfelty
17. Kansas, Northeastern,	Geo. Manon
18. Kansas, N. W. and N. E. Colorado,	G. O. Stutzman
19. Kansas, Southeastern,	D. P. Neher
20. Kansas, S. W. and S. E. Colorado,	Jacob Funk
21. Maryland, Eastern,	John J. John
22. Maryland, Middle,	John S. Bowlus
23. Maryland, Western,	A. C. Auvil
24. Michigan,	C. L. Wilkins
25. Missouri, Middle,	Ira Witmore
26. Missouri, Northern,	E. G. Rodabaugh
27. Missouri, S. W. and N. W. Arkansas,	J. B. Hylton
28. Nebraska and E. Colorado,	Geo. W. Hilton
29. North and S. Carolina, Ga. and Fla.,	J. V. Felthouse
30. North Dak., E. Mont, and W. Can.,	Luther Shatto
31. Ohio, Northeastern,	D. L. McFadden
32. Ohio, Northwestern,	J. L. Guthrie
33. Ohio, Southern,	J. W. Fidler, D. M. Garver
34. Oklahoma, Pan. of Tex. and N. Mex.,	J. R. Pitzer
35. Oregon,	Geo. C. Carl
36. Pennsylvania, Eastern,	J. H. Longenecker, S. H. Hertzler
37. Pennsylvania, Middle,	John Bennett, J. H. Cassady
38. Pennsylvania, S. E., N. J. and E. N. Y.,	G. E. Yoder
39. Pennsylvania, Southern,	C. L. Baker, D. A. Faust
40. Pennsylvania, Western,	H. B. Heisey, E. M. Detwiler
41. Sweden,	F. J. Graybill
42. Tennessee,	Jesse D. Clark
43. Texas and Louisiana,	J. F. Hoke
44. Virginia, Eastern,	D. M. Glick
45. Virginia, First District,	P. S. Miller
46. Virginia, Northern,	H. C. Early, J. Carson Miller
47. Virginia, Second District,	A. S. Thomas, Jno. S. Flory
48. Virginia, Southern,	L. A. Bowman
49. Washington,	F. L. Whisler
50. West Virginia, First District,	Emra T. Fike
51. West Virginia, Second District,	W. J. Row

AROUND THE WORLD

War Prohibition to Stand

President Wilson's recommendation that the ban against the manufacture of beer and light wines be lifted, is not striking a very responsive chord. Temperance workers are wholly and determinedly opposed to a repeal of the war prohibition act, and at present prospects Congress is likely to oppose any such move. Already efforts are being set on foot to line up the forces in favor of the prohibition enactment, as originally planned, and hopes are entertained that the desperate endeavors of the liquor men will not avail in an overthrow of the ban on liquor. Arrangements are also being made, looking to the thorough enforcement of the law in every State of the Union.

In Darkest Africa

To the white people of South Africa the following message has been sent: "Chief Khama and other heads of the Bamangwato tribe desire to place on record their determination, to have the rulers of the white people understand, that they are strongly opposed to supplying the native laborers with wines or beers, either by purchase or free gifts. They hear with sorrow that white people allow the native workers to buy these drinks. They respectfully ask your serious consideration of this, their strong protest, for they do not desire to see their people become drunkards." How such a modest appeal should touch the heart of every temperance promoter! The influence of liquor in heathen lands has debased the people to an alarming extent. They should be set free.

India, Too, Is Aroused

Recently, in the Imperial Legislative Counell for India, the Hon. Rao Bahadur N. Sarma moved a resolution recommending that the Government should accept and declare total prohibition of the use of all alcoholic and intoxicating liquors and drugs to be the aim and object of its policy, and so to direct its administrative methods as to achieve the end in view at an early date. While Mr. Sarma did not succeed in seeuring the passage of his well-meant measure at this time,—owing to the determined opposition of the British members of the Council,—the enactment will doubtless pass later on. It is to be regretted, however, that against the formal protest of Indian legislators, liquor is foreed upon India in much the same spirit in which the opium eurse was inflicted upon China.

More Battleships

It is somewhat disconcerting to note that, amid the clamor for disarmament, the raee for naval supremacy goes merrily on. Great Britain, of course, is not to be eclipsed by any one, so all that the United States can hope to achieve, will be to stand as a close second. Recently the Government asked for bids to construct two battleships of the most approved pattern. When the bids eame in, the prices were found to be practically double the previous quotations. One of the "patriotic" conecrns offered to construct a superdrcadnought "with a guarantee of a fixed profit of $1,800,000, under eertain conditions." The cheapest bid, so far received for a big fighting ship, is something over twenty-one million dollars. Quite a sum, considering the faet that these complex battle-machines of the sea become obsolete in just a few years.

Church Advertising

Much is being said in the religious press on this subject, but as a preliminary to all advertising in the public press or the bulletin board, the church should back up its widespread invitation by the fact that it uniformly has a service well worth attending. If a minister will take special pains to arrive at a friendly understanding with the editors of the local press, he can get a great deal of valuable advertising without expense, provided the matter furnished is newsy and kept within proper limits. Then, too, a good bulletin board has been found of great value by many of the churches, but this, like all else truly worth while, should be attractive and contain all the announcements for the week,—special and regular. It has been the experience of the most wide-awake churches that good advertising always brings results to correspond.

Applying Christian Principles to Business

A business man in a leading city, who aims to apply "Golden Rule" principles to all his transaetions, was unable to arrive at a satisfactory adjustment of a business matter with one of his customers. Correspondence on the question being seemingly without avail, the wholesale dealer called upon this customer when happening to be in his city. When asked what he would do regarding the claim, the dealer said: "I don't knowingly propose to do anything in my business that is at variance with the practice of Jesus. You tell me, therefore, what is the Christian thing to do in this case and I'll do it." Surprisedly the customer said: "That's the strangest way of doing business I ever heard of." The dealer, however, persisted in leaving the matter to the fair judgment of his customer, and the upshot was that the customer, knowing himself to be at fault, when it was thus put up to him, wrote a check for the full amount. The "Goldeo Rule" appeals to men of fair minds.

Attempts to Cross the Atlantic

While all hindrances to a complete conquest of the air have not yet been overcome by the eouraeous aëronauts, notable progress is being made along that line. Most remarkable was the recent venture of Henry G. Hawker and MacKenzie Grieve, two British airmen, who, with eool and deliberate contempt of death, attempted to cross the great Atlantic Ocean, well knowing that success meant immortal fame, while failure would mean certain and sudden death. The attempt to fly across 1,950 miles of sea, in a frail, single-engined biplane, without a landing-sulky or a pontoon boat, was ill-advised, to say the least. For six days the bold aviators were given up as lost. May 25 their rescue hy a Danish steamer was reported,—the aireraft having been wrecked while 1,100 miles from Newfoundland.

Noah's Ship-Building Vindicated

Bible critics have taken delight, every now and then, in questioning Noah's skill and eraftsmanship in general, as exemplified in the building of the ark. They have argued that a vessel of the dimensions as given would be impraeticable, and that it could not carry so large a cargo of animals and sufficient food for all of them. Experts, connected with a prominent British ship-building journal, have looked into the matter, and tell us that Noah's ark was 460 feet long, 80 feet wide and 48 feet deep. This would supply accommodations for one thousand persons, and give plenty of room for pairs of all the distinct speeies of animals that, as classed by the naturalist Buffon, number 244. There would be left, besides, plenty of storage plaee for food supplies. The journal also says that many ships, built in recent years, follow closely the dimeosions of the ark.

"Uncle Sam" Will Be Kept Busy

Aecording to recent reports it seems quite likely that the United States will be entrusted with the "mandatory" control of Turkey. The Sultan is merely to be the spiritual head of the Mohammedan cult. As the diplomats at Paris figure it, something must be done to retain the goodwill of the millions of Mohammedans, who might resent the complete humiliation of the Ottoman ruler. It is becoming more and more apparent that policy, rather than principle, is the chief factor in many decisions of the august council at Paris. Great Britain is greatly interested in conciliating the Moslem population in its large dependencies, and the action above referred to is deemed to be expedient, rather than the complete elimination of Turkey in Europe, as some suggested. Just why the United States, however, should be saddled with the task of Turkish control, is somewhat puzzling.

To the Dead Sea by Aëroplane

Upon the invitation of Major C. E. H. Medhurst, Commander of the British Flying Squadron in Palestine, Lincoln Wirt and G. R. Carrier, of the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, made on April 11 a two hundred mile flight from El Ramleh to the Jordan and return, cireling Jerusalem three times. From an altitude of 8,000 feet above the ancient city, they rose to an elevation of 11,000 feet over the Dead Sea. A message dropped from the plane, while passing over the historic city, read in part as follows: "Peace be within thy gates and prosperity within thy palaees, O Jerusblem! From the skies that look down upon the Holy City and on the advent of the first Easter in 1,000 years, upon which those who bear his Name may freely approach the tomb of our Lord without reproach, two Amerlean members of the relief expedition drop this expression of their joy in the triumphant redemption of the Holy Land, and the promise of human brotherhood and religious freedom here and everywhere."

Appalling Conditions

Mr. Louis Edgar Browne, writing for the "Chicago Daily News," deseribes conditions in parts of Armenia that are heartrending, and were it not that his testimony is wholly dependable, one would hardly believe that human beings could be driven to the extremity which he describes. From his very full description we give a few of the most salient points: At Igdir, nine miles from the Persian frontier, Mr. Browne found two women boiling grass in a copper kettle and, expressing his surprise, he was told: "There is nothing else to eat,—no bread, no meat, no vegetables. We must eat grass or die. Three months ago there were nineteen people in this house. Now two remain." A tragic story, summed up in a few words. But the most ghastly scene presented itself to Mr. Browne when his guide took him to a refugee graveyard. Here scores of graves had recently been opened. Mutilated corpses, human bones, etc., were strewn about in confusion. Shreds of flesh still clung to some of the bones. There was every evidence that the rumored charge of cannibalism was only too well substantiated. Pointing to a recently-disinterred corpse, the guide called attention to the fact that only one thigh bone was left of the lower limbs. The bones of one arm yet remained. The skin and flesh of the other arm, and the face, head and abdomen, were unbroken and intact, but the flesh, yet remaining on the thigh, and also on the armbooe, bore unmistakable evidence that the rest of the flesh had been removed by human hands. There were other similar exhibits in profusion. Interviewing the people of a near by village, several testified emphatically regarding the use, by the refugees, of human corpses as food. The evidence seems to be conclusive. Ghoulism appears to erop out sporadically, in these wild countries, when protracted want has reduced the population to starvation. Assuredly, Armenia sorely needs help.

When Theories Are at Fault

According to all reports, Bolshevism is not proving a panacea for all the ills that befall humankind in political, economic or social ways. Like its close kin,—socialism,—it is a charming theory on paper, but fails to work out in practice. Lenine and his followers promised the Russian people more food, more clothing and more liberty under Bolshevik rule. As a matter of fact, the people are in dire want of both food and clothing,—almost at the point of desperation,—and as to freedom, there is less of it today than under the autoeratic rule of the Czar, because the present leaders are even greater despots. How strange that humanity forgets the age-old rule that only labor under orderly eonditions, gives assurance of food and all else that is necessary, and, beyond all, that stable government, as ordained by God, must be at the helm of affairs!

Utilizing War-Time Devices

In various ways are the achievements of war-time research and discovery now being utilized in the promotion of general welfare. Large quantities of nitrate of soda, originally intended for the manufacture of explosives, are being distributed to the farmers, and will materially assist in the soil-fertility and in the production of larger crops. "Camouflage,"—the art of concealing the true nature of things during war times,—is now employed in a wholly different way. Ships are being painted in a way by which their true eourse will be readily recognized, and their visibility vastly enhanced. Microphones and geophones, which so successfully revealed the enemy's guns, will now help to find entombed miners. Radiophones, which during the war afforded a ready means of communication with aëroplanes, are now to be adapted to the requirements of modern business aetivities.

When Napkins Served a Novel Purpose

Sister Lydia E. Taylor sends us the following utterance by Wilbur F. Crafts, Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau. His remarks will be read with interest: "At an elite dinner of leading women of the National Capital, to meet the 'Mother of Russia,' who was very plainly and modestly dressed, many of the guests were fashionably 'undressed,'—in bare shoulders, though it was a bitter night of winter. Two of the guests, unequal to the Spartan test of loyalty to fashion, spread the soiled napkins that they had used through the first part of the banquet, over their shoulders, like capes, during the last courses, as an accompaniment of the ice cream. Surely, this is the 'reductio ad absurdum' of decollete. And those same women will cover their necks with furs in August. If any despot, save fashion, bade them shiver in winter and sweat in August, it would be published as a cruelty too hard to bear. When will American women make a declaration of independence against the commercialized discomforts of changeful fashions by adopting comfortable and comely standardized dress?"

What Relief Workers Are Doing

Measures for the care of the thousands of Christian women and girls who have been released or rescued from Turkish harems since the signing of the Armistice, have been taken by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief. A cablegram from Constantinople to the committee in New York announces that homes for the women and girls, and for many children, also taken from the harems, have been started in fifteen cities in Asia Minor, and that preparations have been made for the industrial training of the women and girls under the direction of a committee of experts. In the homes of the Turks, these Christian women and girls were treated as slaves, and were not permitted to study, or to aequire any useful accomplishments. After the signing of the Armistice, many of the Turks, believing that by so doing they might escape punishment, set free the Christian women in their harems, turning them out on the streets to starve. Hundreds of these have been wandering over the country, here and there, and many have been crazed by their experiences. Many other Christian women were rescued from harems by the Allied troops. Another cablegram refers to an epidemic in the Armenian provinces, and appeals for medical supplies in the largest quantities as quickly as possible. Great distress exists in the province, according to latest reports. In response to a cablegram from Constantinople for abont sixty additional relief workers, the committee is preparing to send another expedition to Asia Minor. It will inclnde men and women for all the varied needs of the field.

HOME AND FAMILY

"Call Back!"

Selected by Mrs. Adaline H. Beery, Elgin, Ill.

If you have gone a little way ahead of me, call back,—
'Twill cheer my heart and help my feet along the stony track;
And if, perchance, Faith's light is dim, because the oil is low,
Your call will guide my lagging course as wearily I go.

Call back, and tell me that he went with you into the storm;
Call back, and say he kept you when the forest's roots were torn;
That, when the heavens thundered and the earthquake shook the hill,
He bore you up and held you where the very air was still.

O, friend, call back, and tell me, for I can not see your face;
They say it glows with triumph, and your feet bound in the race;
But there are mists between us and my spirit eyes are dim,
And I can not see the glory, though I long for word of him.

But if you'll say he heard you when your prayer was but a cry,
And if you'll say he saw you through the night's sin-darkened sky,—
If you have gone a little way ahead, oh, friend, call back,—
'Twill cheer my heart and help my feet along the stony track.

Is It Going to Rain?

BY ELIZABETH ROSENBERGER BLOUGH

"I THOUGHT we might go to District Meeting tomorrow, but it looks like rain, so I guess we'll have to give it up." Deacon Coleman looked sorry as he said this. He seldom missed the meetings at the Salem church, his old home. He particularly wanted to go to this District Meeting.

"Now, Pa, don't you go to fret and worry about the weather. It ain't going to rain tomorrow. Why, there's no clouds anywheres." His wife followed him out to the back porch, where they looked at the blue skies and felt the warm south wind blow in their faces.

"It's that wind that's goin' to bring rain, Melinda," said the deacon argumentatively. "You just wait and see if it don't bring rain tomorrow."

"Well, if it rains, it's just got to rain, we can't stop it," answered Melinda philosophically, hurrying into her kitchen to rescue some potatoes that were burning, or boiling dry at least.

The next morning dawned bright and clear. Though the wind was still from the south, it did not rain for a week. "I thought sure we'd have rain today, but it must have cleared off through the night." The deacon was guiding his car over a smooth road at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour. As he peered for a moment at the distant horizon, he added: "I wouldn't be surprised if we'd get in a storm going home tonight."

Melinda had lived with him long enough to know that he always did worry about the weather and was likely to keep on doing so. She was going to enjoy the District Meeting, unperturbed by thoughts of a coming storm, or fears of a downpour of rain. Worrying about it never helped any, so far as she could see. Her husband was like many other people, who have a habit of thinking that the weather is going to interfere with their plans or their pleasure.

If in July the weather is extremely hot, we have heard men and women complain as if they had been confidently looking for frost about this time, and even a fall of snow would not have been unexpected. They go about saying: "Oh, what weather this is!" "I shall have to get out of this somehow, I really can't stand it!" "I can't work in such weather as this!" They talk as if a man who enjoys his work had time to stop for weather and seasons. If his work is paramount, he does not watch the barometer. The figures on the thermometer mean less to him than the figures on his cash-book.

What's the gain of worrying? The man who suffers least from the extreme heat or the extreme cold is the man who takes it all as it comes, knowing well that there is little else to do. The girl who went to her office, looking trim and neat on a broiling August day, said: "The women on the verandas, who talk about the heat and lounge and complain, all suffer more than I do. I go to my work and forget about the hot day."

It should help us to remember that the men who have the best health and the clearest minds and the most vigorous manhood and womanhood, are to be found in those regions where there are the widest extremes of heat or cold,—where the winters are uncomfortably cold and the summers are uncomfortably hot. Our cold winters have their compensations. Read Whittier's "Snowbound" for an account of the cold which made home a refuge from the storm without:

> "Shut in from all the world without,
> We sat the clean-winged hearth about,
> Content to let the north wind roar
> In baffled rage at pane and door,
> While the red logs before us beat
> The frost line back with tropic heat;
> And ever with a louder blast
> Shook beam and rafter as it passed,
> The merrier up its roaring draught
> The great throat of the chimney laughed.
> The house-dog on his paws outspread
> Laid to the fire his drowsy head;
> The cat's dark silhouette on the wall
> A couchant tiger's seemed to fall;
> And for the winter fireside meet,
> Between the andirons' straddling feet,
> The mug of cider simmered low.
> The apples sputtered in a row,
> And close at hand the basket stood
> With nuts from brown October's wood."

Then, while the north wind blew high, blew low, the cruel cold was shut outside, the family around the fireplace were happy.

There are many people who go to the South, or go anywhere to escape the winter's cold. In summer time they go to the Adirondacks or to the seashore or Alaska, so that they need not suffer during the sweltering and ripening season. But that does not change the fact that the men and women who take the weather as it comes are of the highest type physically, mentally and morally. The less worrying there is, in any temperature, the greater the gain to him who endures seasonable weather without complaining and chafing impatiently.

We must say a word about the church member who allows the clouds and the winds to overrule his attendance at church. There is little dependence to be placed in him who stays at home waiting for the south wind to bring rain, while his brethren are assembled around the mercy-seat praying for God's presence among them. If we could see how important it is to meet God on Sunday morning, we would do what Jimmy did when the snow had drifted badly. Jimmy just went to church. Mr. Hartley saw him go. He turned to his wife and said: "Guess I'll go to church. The snow isn't deep enough to make it bad going." Myra Wine said: "Why, there goes Jimmy in time for church. If he can get through, I'll wear my old rubbers and go too." A half dozen boys, who saw Jimmy wading through the snow, decided it was fun, and they, too, went to church. Jimmy was a real live boy, the snow was real snow, but that morning the minister had a good congregation because Jimmy went to church through the drifts.

Johnstown, Pa.

Sex Discipline

BY LULA R. TINKLE

ONE of the greatest problems of the present day, which confronts every father and mother of our land, is that of sex discipline. However, the problem is no greater today than in the past, but the day of the new birth of proper sex discipline has dawned. There is a star in the sky, and wise parents seek it.

Occasionally we hear a short-sighted parent, whose children have already entered school, say: "I have not talked to my children as to how they came into this world, because they are too young. I do not believe children should know about such things."

Oh, parent, what a crime you have committed! It is not a question of whether children should know such things. The question is: "Who shall tell them?" Shall they hear it in the back alley, behind the barn, on the playground or in some secluded place, from those whose every thought is impure, and whose every word vulgar and full of evil suggestion? Where, dear parent, did you hear the story of life,—the beautiful story of life, too sacred to be uttered in any but the purest and cleanest words, and only by those who are nearest and dearest? Do you want your child to learn the sacred truths in the way you learned them? Your child has a right to know the truth from your lips. We can not hope for a purer nation if we neglect so great a thing, which affects the character of our boys and girls. God has entrusted you with those precious lives, and you, parent, are the one to feed their bodies with wholesome food, and their minds with pure and sacred truths.

The question is asked: "When should I tell my child about its birth and about the functions and care of the sexual organs?" When the little child starts to school the teacher does not try to teach it the multiplication tables, or about the Civil War, or the discovery of America. Why? Not because they are secrets to be concealed from the child, but because the mind is not yet developed enough to comprehend such facts. The men who outline the course of study are aware that there is a gradual growth of the mind, as well as of the body, and they outline the subject material with such in mind.

The same thought must be recognized in the teaching of sexual truths. The child of four or five years can not understand the deeper and scientific truths, but there are fundamental teachings which the child needs at this age. The questions the child asks are an index to the development of the mind, and are a guide to the parent who will heed. Very, very early in life the child asks: "Who made the moon? Where is God? Does God make everything? How does he make everything?"

The child likes the flowers, the fish, the birds and his pets. He is delighted when he can learn something about them. Watch the child's eyes grow with wonder and interest as you show how the dust or pollen from the father part of the flower is deposited on the mother part of the flower, and is carried to the little nest at the bottom, where it will grow into a seed which has life within.

Again, notice the interest as you tell how the mother fish swims around to find a cozy place to lay her eggs, and how the father fish very soon follows her and deposits a fluid which fertilizes the eggs and starts the little fish to grow within the fish eggs.

The development of the chick or birdies within the egg is very interesting, and furnishes a good foundation for the later teaching of mother's love and father's protection. It is very important to teach the father's part along with that of the mother's. By teaching the sex relations and functions of male and female organs in plants and animals, we lay a good foundation for teaching the sacredness, the function and care of the most sacred organs of both man and woman. In all things the child should be told the truth, and at no time should he be turned away without an answer to his question.

If your child is not asking questions, there is need for alarm. Your child is abnormal, or has already learned what he wants to know from sources of which you know not. If it is abnormal, seek skilled advice. If the latter condition exists, waken up. Already you are losing the confidence of your child. By all means win his confidence, and find out the source of his knowledge, correct the false teachings and let him hear from your lips the things he desires.

Prepare yourself and the child for the question "Where did I come from?" when it comes. Don't be guilty of the crime, as some are, of turning your boy or girl away with a slap or a "hush!" It is a beautiful story, sacred, and needs no myth or fairy tale for a covering.

When the critical age comes and your boy and girl develop into maturity, be prepared to go with them every step of the way. They need you then. Are you going with them? Are you keeping their confidence? Are you giving them the sacred truths in a sacred way that they may be clean, strong characters? May God hasten the day when the Church of the Brethren will be organized to work more efficiently in the purity cause and enabled to give to the parents the help and information they seek!

Bellefontaine, Ohio.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

DISTRICT MEETING OF THE SECOND DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA

This meeting was held at the Elk Run church May 1 and 2. Although the weather was extremely inclement the first day, the attendance was large and the Elk Run congregation proved a generous host in providing for all who came.

The organization of the meeting resulted in electing Bro. A. S. Thomas, Moderator, Bro. John T. Glick, Reading Clerk, Bro. Jno. S. Flory, Writing Clerk. The first day's business consisted chiefly of reports of church boards and committees. Encouraging reports were made by the Trustees of Bridgewater College, the District Mission Board, the District Sunday School Secretary, the District Secretary, the District Treasurer, the Temperance Committee, the Trustees of the Orphanage, the Sisters' Aid Society, and a few others.

In connection with the educational report earnest addresses were made by Brethren Jno. S. Flory and Paul H. Bowman, president and president-elect of the college, respectively. In connection with the report of the District Mission Board, Bro. J. W. Hess, Secretary of the Board, made a stirring address, after which the usual missionary offering was taken which resulted in raising $996.56. The Sunday School Board was reorganized with a view of enlarging its activities. It is the plan of the organization to employ a director of religious education, who shall give his entire time to the Sunday-school interests of the District.

There were eight queries before the meeting. One of these asked the Conference to endorse the Forward Movement in Education in the District. Another asked similar endorsement of the Sunday-school interests. Two papers were passed to General Conference. Brethren A. S. Thomas and Jno. S. Flory were chosen to represent the District on Standing Committee.

The finest Christian spirit prevailed in all of the discussions. The meeting was in every way pleasant and the work constructive. Visiting brethren from adjoining congregations were present both days. Their presence was enjoyed. Next year's meeting is to be held in the Mt. Vernon congregation. Jno. S. Flory, Clerk.

Bridgewater, Va.

WEST JOHNSTOWN CHURCH, PENNSYLVANIA

Following the regular Sunday-school period, on Easter Sunday, a splendid Easter program was rendered by the children and young people. In the evening the cantata, "The King of Glory," was given by the choral society. Immediately preceding the cantata, a young brother was baptized. Appreciative audiences attended these services. The following Sunday, April 27, was Anti-Saloon Field Day in our city. We had the pleasure of listening to a strong sermon by Eld. T. T. Myers, of Huntingdon, Pa. In the afternoon of the same day a number of us heard Rev. Sam Small on "Uncle Sam Sobering Up."

In the campaign for the Armenian-Syrian Relief our aim was to see every member. We raised, in cash and pledges, over $680, which, with what we had previously given, makes our total $740, with more expected.

May 8 we met in council, preparatory to our approaching communion. As a means of carrying out the Forward Movement a committee on evangelism, consisting of five brethren and sisters, was elected. Our Sunday-school is also planning how to do its share of the work. It was decided to provide individual communion cups by next fall. Elders N. W. Berkley and Jerome E. Blough were elected delegates to the Annual Conference, with Brethren J. C. W. Beam and Edward Livingston, alternates.

May 11 we enjoyed our semiannual love feast. Our pastor, Brother Detwiler, led in the services, assisted by our five home ministers. Our elder, N. W. Berkley, has gone for the summer to his farm, near Norristown, Pa., whither his companion had gone several months ago. We felt sorry to have them leave us.

We are now planning to do our best for the Annual Conference offering. A letter from the Mission Committee, accompanied by envelopes for the offering, and a tract on "Tithing," is sent to every family of members.

A missionary program will be given June 8, a temperance program June 15, and a Children's Day service June 22. Bro. J. H. Cassady is engaged for the temperance address.

The influenza plague seems to have wholly disappeared from our community, and we are thankful to the Heavenly Father that, though many of our members were afflicted with it, we lost none by death. We have, however, lost four of our number from other diseases since New Year, and a like number is seriously ill now. Jerome E. Blough.

1309 Franklin Street, May 16.

IN MEMORY OF ELD. JOHN H. CHRISTIAN

Eld. John H. Christian was born Dec. 5, 1850, in Montgomery County, near Phillipsburg, Ohio. He died at his home in Bradford, Ohio, Jan. 16, 1919, aged 69 years, 1 month and 11 days. Jan. 22, 1871, he was married to Sarah Jane Waitman by Eld. James Quinter. One child was sent to bless their home,—Nina Belle,—who preceded her father nearly eight years, having left her earthly home, April 1, 1911. Of his immediate family there remain his loving wife, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Eld. John H. Christian

In November, 1880, he, with his wife, united with the Church of the Brethren in the Oakland church, Darke County, Ohio, and both lived consistent to their baptismal vows.

Feb. 20, 1884, the church placed upon his shoulders the burden of the Christian ministry, advancing him Aug. 18, 1897, and gave him the highest honor and responsibility in her power at his ordination to the eldership Aug. 17, 1898. For eighteen years he had the oversight of the Oakland church. To all the duties and responsibilities, which the church placed upon his shoulders, Bro. Christian responded faithfully. He gave freely as the Lord blessed him, with talent and strength. Many sad homes have been comforted by his loving ministry in times of sorrow, he having officiated at 307 funeral services. Often has he responded at the midnight hour to the call of the sick and suffering, to administer the consolation of the sacred anointing service. Because of these many duties, which he so cheerfully performed, and of his genial, kindly spirit and disposition, Bro. Christian will be sadly missed by the large circle of friends who have learned to love him and to rely on him for counsel and help.

Realizing that his days on earth were drawing to a close, he obeyed the injunction of the Apostle James, and called for the elders of the church, who administered to him the sacred and solemn anointing service Jan. 4, 1919. Services were held in the Harris Creek church by the writer and Eld. S. E. Porter. Text, Dan. 12: 13: "But go thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days."

Bradford, Ohio. John M. Stover.

A SAD STORY

May 10 the writer went to Chimney Run, about eight miles from Hot Springs, Va. Here we have between forty and fifty members scattered among the mountain valleys. We had communion services that same evening.

On Sunday night, just as we closed the services, a report came to the church that Bro. Walter Beard had wandered away from his home. He was for a number of years a faithful deacon and active Sunday-school worker. Over three years ago he lost his health and was unable to work. Being in limited circumstances the nature of his disease seemed to prey upon his mind. He was at times very melancholy, and often wondered what would become of his wife and children.

As soon as the news reached the church, nearly all the men started in search, and continued all night. Monday morning messages were sent over the phone in all directions. Everybody seemed anxious, and large numbers of men searched the mountains and valleys for two days, but found no trace of the lost man. At the time of this writing, no trace of his whereabouts has been found, and parties are still out searching. All seems to be enveloped in mystery.

The sister craves the prayers and sympathies of the church in this hour of deep sorrow. We still hope that Bro. Beard may be found and restored to the family. Sister Beard's address is Warm Springs, Va.

Warm Springs, Va., May 16. Geo. A. Phillips.

IRRICANA, ALTA., CANADA

It has been a busy spring for this congregation, both in our spiritual and in our temporal work. The season has been unusual, and farm work has rushed the farmers at times. But this has not very seriously lessened our church attendance. The interest has been good, and our present house could scarcely hold the congregation many times.

Besides our regular services at the churchhouse, eight miles from Irricana, we are assisting with a Sunday-school and preaching in Irricana. We also will open work at Kathryn, a small village on the Grand Trunk Railway, several miles south of our church. Other points seem accessible and we intend to reach out in our work as fast as is expedient.

Owing to our being in another country, we have a number of problems to solve, which are very different from those in the States. The most important one now is to get a correct standing with the Government, so that our church property and our ministers get proper recognition. Even with the heavy expense of building our new churchhouse, we overreached our apportionment for the Relief Work. The amount of the collection is $275. However, we feel this is sharing rather than giving.

March 29 was our regular council. Several papers were sent to the District Meeting, relating to problems we are facing now. The District Meeting is to be held this summer in the Bow Valley church, which joins us on the south.

Several new families have moved here this spring. There is practically no new land to be had in this locality now, and the country is rapidly assuming the aspect of a well-settled community. Until the first of May the season was dry, but a big snow-storm visited us then and we have had several showers since, so moisture is plentiful, and the crops are growing rapidly.

May 13. Pearl Cawley.

ANTIETAM CHURCH, PENNSYLVANIA

At the solicitation of Bro. M. A. Jacobs, one of the young elders of the Antietam church in Southern Pennsylvania, we consented to labor in a series of meetings in Rouzerville, beginning March 8 and continuing two weeks. We found a band of earnest members, willing to work for the Master. Nine were baptized.

While laboring at the above-named place, arrangements were effected by which the writer was to assist in a similar meeting at a mission point of the same congregation, near Blue Ridge Summit, in a village called Pennersville. For several years a live Sunday-school, under the care and direction of Bro. H. J. Bare, of Waynesboro, was held here and quite an interest was manifested on the part of the citizens of the town. They pressed their claims upon the Brethren in a call for these meetings. The Sunday-school is held in a rented dwelling-house, one-half of the lower story being fitted for such work. For about a year the brethren have been preaching at the same place every second Sunday evening also,

The meeting began April 6 and continued until Easter,—the attendance and interest being all that could be expected, with the available room at hand. Ten were baptized one week later. By actual count there had been, up to the time of beginning these meetings, only eleven members of the Church of the Brethren living in the town and vicinity who could be considered as belonging to that section, the mountains causing a natural divide, and several of these held their membership at Silverdale. By these additions,—almost doubling their number,—the project of building a house of worship on a lot formerly purchased, is made more feasible. Once this project is consummated, the work there is bound to grow, supported by an active membership and guided by those who have thus far given of their time and means.

The writer remembers with pleasure many happy experiences with the members at both of the above-named places. John C. Zug.

Palmyra, Pa., May 17.

DISTRICT OF SOUTHEASTERN KANSAS

Our District Conference was held in the Osage church at McCune, Kans., May 6-8. The attendance was very good, considering the busy season, and all present were very enthusiastic about the needs and future growth of the District. We feel that our District is growing stronger very rapidly. The spirit of the meeting was the best ever known.

Bro. W. O. Beckner, of McPherson College, was with us and presented the Forward Movement in such a way that the District rallied to the cause with great enthusiasm. This was shown in the missionary meeting on Wednesday evening. Bro. Beckner gave an address, after which $1,200 was pledged for the purpose of starting a new mission in the District.

We also decided to organize for mission work. The District was divided into groups, each to give a missionary program at one of the churches in their territory June 9. We believe this to be a very wise step in the line of missions and also toward the Forward Movement.

Tuesday was the day for our Christian Workers' Society and Temperance Meetings. A collection of $15 was taken for the District temperance work.

The Sunday-school Meeting was held Wednesday morning. The reports of the different schools were encour-

(Continued on Page 350)

ANNOUNCEMENT OF COMMITTEE ON DRESS REFORM

Book Counter.—Our regular Conference "Book Counter" will be again maintained in connection with the Brethren Publishing House Office. Various sisters will help us in this work. Be sure to get a supply of our literature. Examine the new books on our "List."

New "Book List."—This "booklet" is just off the press. It contains many things of interest and value to you. It is yours for the asking.

Suit Standardization.—Representatives of the Doff tailoring firm will be on the grounds, with an office at "The Inn," to answer your questions, and take orders, per measure, for these sensible suits for women. The "Suit Booklet" will be furnished free here, and also at our "Book Counter."

Conservation for the great world need is our imperative duty. Loyalty to the church and obedience to the Word will enable us to "glorify God" in all we do,—even in what we wear to Conference. Our conduct, our eating, our very appearance should show our willingness to sacrifice for the promotion of a deepened spiritual life among us, without which, the "Forward Movement" would be in vain. Brethren, sisters, will you help us in this? Let us do only those things which become "men and women professing godliness."

Lydia E. Taylor, Secretary.

SUMMER STUDY AT BETHANY BIBLE SCHOOL

The summer sessions of study at Bethany Bible School have occupied a unique place in the programs of a large number of church workers and students during the past five years. They have found that these summer studies afford ideal avenues for spending profitable vacations among wholesome environments, as well as affording advance credit in Biblical and College Courses.

For the summer of 1919 we are planning a series of courses which shall make the coming quarter the equal of any previous term. The dates of opening and closing are Monday, June 16, and Thursday, August 28. Between these dates it is intended that there shall be twelve weeks of positive and earnest instruction in Biblical subjects, and those which ally themselves closely to Christian equipment.

Courses in prospect are: New Testament Parables, Doctrinal Survey of Acts, Hebrews, Prison Epistles, Hebrew Prophecy, Sunday-School Survey, Social Problems, Sermon Building and Practice Preaching, Missions of the Church of the Brethren, and Church Music.

These studies will be in charge of regular members of the faculty. Credit is equivalent to that of any quarter of the school-year.

Prospective students will confer a favor by writing in advance of their coming. J. Hugh Heckman.

3435 Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill., May 16.

A COMMUNITY UPLIFT

Early last year the members of the Salem church unanimously agreed to put on a lecture course for the benefit of the entire community. A committee was appointed and an excellent program was arranged. All seemed to be enthusiastic over the venture and voluntarily pledged their full support.

The first number was given by Dr. D. W. Kurtz, of McPherson, on the subject, "German Kultur." Despite the influenza scare a large audience anxiously awaited the appearing of the speaker, and eagerly listened to this great message as it proceeded from a soul burning for the cause of humanity.

The remainder of the course had to be postponed indefinitely because of influenza. However, as spring appeared, health conditions improved, and a series of lectures was promised by Capt. O. O. Wiard for the first eight days of May.

Corn-planting being a work of the present, to some of us it seemed as though we had "hit" the wrong time, but the loyal enthusiasm of last fall revived, and we were glad to start with a full house. Capt. Wiard manfully "held his job" with interest, which increased as time passed on. He gave us twelve strong lectures, including two all-day meetings,—the latter being the inauguration of our Community-Day. The inspiration of this day was materially increased by the excellent music with which the Glee Club of McPherson College favored us.

Sin in its worst form was exposed and the cause of righteousness was exalted. The outstanding purpose of each lecture was "that this world might be a better place in which to raise boys and girls." The success of this series was shown, in a measure at least, by the multitude of people who came from far and near to hear the great detective.

While this,—only a beginning of what we hope to enjoy as years come and go,—has meant an outlay of money, time and energy, yet we feel that it has been a paying investment from which we expect to reap a harvest of higher ideals and a stronger citizenship.

Nickerson, Kans. W. A. Kinzie.

FIRST DISTRICT OF WEST VIRGINIA

May 15 the District Mission Board Meeting was held, followed by the Elders' Meeting. Since our last District Meeting five elders have been ordained and seven or eight ministers elected. In the evening Eld. Geo. S. Arnold preached on "Church Government."

May 16 District Meeting convened. Eld. B. W. Smith was Moderator; Eld. Ezra Fike, Reading Clerk; Eld. Jeremiah Thomas, Writing Clerk. A request for assistance in building a house of worship in the city of Keyser was favorably considered and the members have the privilege to solicit aid throughout the District. A request for a pastor for the same place was placed in the hands of the Ministerial Board. The German Settlement congregation was granted the privilege of changing its name to the Eglon congregation. The report of the Mission Board showed a deficit of over $100. Along with doing considerable ministerial work, the Mission Board is supporting several sisters in the field, who are doing a splendid work.

Hereafter our District Meeting will be held on Saturday before the second Sunday in October. Our delegate to Annual Meeting is Bro. Emra T. Fike; alternate, Bro. Jeremiah Thomas. There were fifteen delegates, but there were five congregations not represented. In the evening Bro. J. F. Britton, of Bristow, Va., preached for us.

May 17 was our Ministerial Meeting. Twenty-one of our sixty ministers were present and several from other Districts. We had a splendid meeting and Bro. C. R. Wolf preached the same evening.

The next day was the Sunday-school Meeting. All seemed enthused. On that evening Eld. Jeremiah Thomas preached a stirring sermon on missions, after which an offering of over $100 was taken.

Our next District Meeting will be held in the Capon Chapel congregation, and our next Ministerial and Sunday-school Meeting in the Old Furnace congregation.

Eglon, W. Va. Goldie Judy.

DISTRICT OF NORTHEASTERN OHIO

The Christian Workers' and Sunday-school Convention of the above-named District will be held in the Akron church, Ohio, June 24-26.

Tuesday, June 24, 7:30 P. M.

Sermon.—A. H. Miller.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' MEETING

Wednesday, June 25, 9 A. M.

Some Things We Lose by Not Having Christian Workers' Meetings.—Chas Kurtz. The Open Door of the Christian Workers' Organization in the World's Reconstruction.—Ira Moomaw. To Whom Can We Look for the Establishment, Growth and Development of Christian Workers' Organizations in Northeastern Ohio?—H. H. Helman.

MISSIONARY MEETING

Afternoon, 1:30

A program is being arranged, in which a returned missionary will participate. Offering.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING

Evening, 7:30

Educational Work of India.—J. I. Kaylor. The Forward Movement of the Church of the Brethren.—W. D. Keller.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

Thursday, June 26, 9 A. M.

What Constitutes True Success in the Sunday-school?—Kathryn Porter. What Does the Home Owe to the Sunday-school?—Martha Morse.

Afternoon, 1 o'clock

Some Things I Hope to Find When I Visit Your School.—Emma Rohrer. The Rewards of the Consecrated Sunday-school Teacher.—J. I. Byler, Reading.—The Teacher's Dream.

Special Meetings for the Children Each Afternoon.—In Charge of Zuma Heestand.

Why Some Are Not Saved

(Continued from Page 341)

a social game of cards. He meets many of the professing Christians at the dance, at the club, the race-track and other places that godless, worldly, pleasure-loving church members frequent. The men with whom he works, that claim salvation because of profession, drink, swear, laugh at filthy jokes and deal selfishly. He goes into the court-room and finds the respectable gentleman that is an influential member of a prominent church of his city, defending the crookedest, vilest criminal. He sees him taking advantage of every technicality, bulldozing witnesses, and by every cunning device, known to his shrewd profession, attempting to paint a black scoundrel white. He looks about him and sees church members,—deacons, Sunday-school superintendents and preachers,—using and selling the filthy weed. He sees the men professing godliness planting the rich soil of God's fields in this same stuff that robs it of its fertility, despoils the youth of our land, wastes labor, producing poison instead of food to feed the hungry, and violating the law of love. Seeing men thus defiling the temple of the Holy Ghost, and giving the lie to their profession, we do not wonder that he dwells upon the word "hypocrite" and turns away from what such have to offer.

In the name of Jesus why not wake up! When Jesus is rejected, when the Holy Ghost is ridiculed, and when a great Niagara of souls is pouring into the abyss of eternal night, why not cry aloud and strive to stay the tide that is sweeping over our land like a cyclone of moral ruin?

Harrisburg, Pa.

Who Prays?

BY ZACH NEHER

Only the righteous? Surely there is none but that has an ardent wish (a prayer) for something,—a god or something to make a god out of, whether it be false or true, dead or alive. Most of us are true to our God, our Maker, exactly like him,—even Brother X, recently spoken of in the Messenger editorial, in his prayer. His words went upward in space to fade away, but his thoughts went down where his heart is, his treasure, his energy, his life.

Does not the saloon-man have an ardent wish,—a prayer? Separate the miser from his money, his god, and mental agony will follow. Even the fashion-monger goes to the very limit to support her god,—Fashion. It would be utter folly for her to pray for fashion,—her god,—and then not support it. It's rather expensive, as the editorial says, to support our prayers, but we must do it or give up our God and quit praying.

At least we should be consistent and let our word prayer be with our thought prayer,—our ardent wish. Then our God, if he is alive, will hear us. Then, with our support and coöperation, the good work goes on.

Brother X's prayer is much like some of ours. He did that which he was most fluent in,—making money and praying,—and let the others do the paying with the help of their God, to whom he prayed in word. We do not usually pray unless we want something,—it may possibly be an evil want, or we may worship a false god. Our prayer always corresponds to the one we worship, whether false or true, dead or alive. And so our prayer words should correspond to our heart wish, or else we should not pray at all.

Who prays? Everybody. To whom? Our God, of course. What for? Things we want. Have you the price of your want? No. Then give up your want and live. Call to the true God for help!

Reeds, Mo.

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Chico church has been enjoying some spiritual blessings of late. Brother and Sister S. E. Decker, of Ashland, Oregon, came to us April 27 and remained until May 12. Bro. Decker gave us fifteen splendid sermons. The members were greatly strengthened and encouraged. One accepted Christ. May 10 we held our communion. A few visiting members were present.—Sarah E. Rife, Chico, Calif., May 14.

Fresno.—An excellent program was rendered by the younger Sunday-school scholars on Easter morning. A special council was called May 2. Bro. Stover, our pastor, was chosen to represent Fresno church at Annual Meeting. The building committee reported various plans for the contemplated new church and will present a unified plan at an early date. May 4 we held our love feast with seventy-eight present. The Christian Workers' Meeting properly observed Mothers' Day.—Mrs. O. N. Whitlow, Fresno, Calif., May 12.

McFarland.—We are glad to report an increase in our membership. Several new families are locating among us. The Sunday-school shows a marked growth in interest and attendance. We have just furnished a comfortable rest-room. To the many calls for charitable and relief work our church has responded liberally. The following is a report of the contributions to the Armenian Relief since last Christmas: Sunday-school, $184.11; county quota, $76.69; church, $167.66; total, $428.46.—J. Ross Hanawalt, McFarland, Calif., May 15.

Pasadena.—Our love feast was held May 11, with Bro. J. B. Emmert officiating. About 125 members were present. Monday morning the Emmert family left us, starting on their journey east. They have been a great inspiration to us and have endeared themselves to all with whom they came in touch.—Mrs. Alice Vaniman, Pasadena, Calif., May 12.

South Los Angeles.—The children of our Sunday-school rendered a splendid program on Easter morning, a large crowd being present. In the evening the District Christian Workers' officers met with us, and gave some excellent addresses, outlining the Forward Movement which they intend to establish among the several Christian Workers' Societies of this District. Mothers' Day was observed with an appropriate service. The pastor delivered a very impressive sermon, special music was rendered and many beautiful flowers were distributed. Our midweek prayer meetings are increasing in interest, and those attending express themselves as being very much benefited.—Lena I. Swank, 1156 E. Forty-fifth Street, Los Angeles, Calif., May 13.

CANADA

Pleasant Valley church met in council May 10, with Eld. Peter Brubaker presiding. We reorganized our Sunday-school, with Brethren E. J. Brubaker and Elmer Frantz, superintendents. The latter was chosen delegate to District Meeting, with Bro. E. J. Brubaker, alternate. We decided to hold our love feast June 14, beginning at 7 P. M.—Dora E. Brubaker, Medicine Hat, Alta., Can., May 16.

ILLINOIS

Astoria church met in council May 3, with Eld. A. H. Lind presiding. Three letters were received. One was baptized in April, at the end of a two weeks' series of meetings, held by our pastor at the South Fulton house. An enjoyable and well-attended love feast was held May 10. Our church was visited by one of the Volunteer Mission Bands of Bethany Bible School, composed of Bro. Wenger, Sister Pauline Eisenhise and Sister Anna Hutchison, on furlough from the North China mission field. The latter gave an illustrated lecture on China. The whole program was along the line of missionary work and was much enjoyed by the listeners.—Goldie Eichenberg, Astoria, Ill., May 21.

Big Creek church met in council May 3. Sister Bertha E. Ridgely was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Howard Ridgely, alternate. We expect Bro. J. D. Heckman, of Cerro Gordo, Ill., to be with us in a series of meetings some time during the summer or early autumn.—Dow A. Ridgely, Parkersburg, Ill., May 15.

Hudson.—May 18 we enjoyed another communion service, with thirty members present. Bro. T. J. Blackburn, our elder, officiated. Bro. Henry Forney, of Chenoa, was anointed. We expect to have services twice a month now, until we can secure a pastor.—Rebecca L. Snavely, Hudson, Ill., May 17.

Hurricane Creek church met in council May 18, with Bro. M. Flory presiding. Bro. Flory was elected elder for another year, and the writer, church correspondent. We decided to hold a revival, to begin about the middle of August and to be conducted by Bro. Jesse Shull, of Indiana. A love feast will be held at the close of the meetings.—Pearl Parker, Mulberry Grove, Ill., May 19.

Naperville.—Our church held a series of meetings April 13 to 27. Eight accepted Jesus as their Savior. Bro. Leonard Root, of Mount Morris, Ill., was our evangelist.—A. J. Yohn, Naperville, Ill., May 19.

Nilwood.—We met in council May 3, with Bro. J. A. Smeltzer as moderator. Bro. Smeltzer was elected elder for one year, also delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Ed Nunes, alternate. Five letters were granted. Our Sunday-school pupil has been baptized since our last report. Our annual love feast was held May 10, with a good representation of members present. Bro. D. W. Shock officiated. We have raised $185 for the Armenian sufferers.—Clara B. Brubaker, Nilwood, Ill., May 20.

Romine church met in council May 3, with Eld. Urias Blough presiding. One letter was received. One brother was reinstated into the deacon's office. We have decided to hold a series of meetings in October, but the time and the evangelist have not yet been set. In addition to our Sunday-school and preaching services, each Sunday, we expect to have meetings Sunday evenings beginning May 18, and continuing throughout the summer.—Stella Baker, Salem, Ill., May 12.

Sterling church met in council May 5, with Eld. C. M. Suter presiding. Brother and Sister H. B. Mohler were elected delegates to Conference. Our love feast is to be held June 22, at the close of a week of services, conducted by Bro. Silverman. Sister Mohler, Bro. H. B. Mohler, is now conducting a series of meetings in Parsons, Kans. On Mothers' Day the Junior and Senior Christian Workers' Societies gave a fine program. A special missionary program is to be given June 1, at the time our missionary offering will be taken.—Mrs. Olive Dearmie, Sterling, Ill., May 20.

Virden.—For some weeks our Sunday evening services, our pastor has been giving some rich spiritual sermons along evangelistic lines. Five of our Sunday-school girls have accepted Christ through baptism. Mothers' Day we had special services. Through the kindness of some of the young men of our Sunday-school who have autos, a goodly number of our Home Department and Cradle Roll mothers were permitted to attend. Sister Ryan gave a touching address, at the close of which each mother was presented with a souvenir. In the evening the Christian Workers rendered an inspiring program in honor of the mothers. Our pastor has already launched the Annual Conference offering and a large chart, explaining the "Forward Movement," hangs in the front part of the church, as a silent message.—Stella Bruhaker, Virden, Ill., May 14.

INDIANA

Bremen.—March 29 Sister Eva Trostle, of Bethany Bible School, gave us a series of very helpful talks. On Saturday afternoon she held a special Mothers' Meeting. Sunday morning she spoke on "Christian Culture." In the afternoon she held a Girls' Meeting, and in the evening her subject was, "How to Be Happy." April 26 and 27 Sisters Anna Hutchison and Ruth Forney and Bro. Baxter Mow, members of the Mission Band at Bethany Bible School, gave us some interesting missionary talks. The messages were highly appreciated by the church. Our congregation met her quota of $300 to the Armenian-Syrian Relief Fund. May 4 one was received into the church by baptism. We have a series of meetings now, preparatory to our communion service, to be held June 1.—Emma Kauffman, Bremen, Ind., May 19.

Manchestor.—May 18 was a day especially enjoyed by all. The attendance at Sunday-school was nearly 450. Two classes of twenty-five boys and girls from the Primary Department gave a missionary recitation exercises, consisting of the recitation of hymns and Scripture passages. Bro. T. E. George, who is now our pastor, had charge of the preaching service. We are glad to welcome Bro. George and family with us. The baccalaureate sermon of Manchester College was preached by President Otho Winger in the evening, his subject being "Know Thyself."—Iva M. Grossnickle, North Manchester, Ind., May 22.

Middletown.—Bro. Spitzer is now in the midst of a series of meetings. The weather being unfavorable, our meetings are not as largely attended as they might be. Three were received into the church through baptism. The citizens of Middletown are liberal in assisting us with a furnace for the church. We hope to have it installed some time in September. We are looking forward to a love feast on Saturday evening, as this will be the first ever held at this place.—Florida J. E. Green, Middletown, Ind., May 12.

Osceola church met in council May 9, with Eld. Hiram Rooze presiding. He was assisted by Brethren H. M. Schwalm and Frank Kreider. Bro. Wm. Angle-yer was elected deacon and, with his wife, duly installed. We also elected Bro. Wm. Hammond delegate to Annual Conference. Bro. Jacob Meta was elected Sunday-school superintendent for six months.—Mrs. Cora Conaway, Elkhart, Ind., May 17.

White church held her love feast May 18, with a good attendance, several visiting members being present. Bro. E. N. Gosborn, of Ladoga, and Bro. John W. Root, of Fairview, conducted the services, which were much enjoyed by all present. We have raised $85 more for the Armenian-Syrian Relief, making a total of $385. Our revival meetings, beginning Sept. 6, will be conducted by Bro. W. F. Haines.—Roy Coyner, Clarks Hill, Ind., May 19.

KANSAS

Garden City.—The revival at this place, held by the writer, recently closed. One was received by baptism. Since that time five letters have been granted, two are to be received by letter and received on their former baptism. We are now beginning to prepare for a meeting to be held next fall. At our recent business meeting, plans were laid for needed church repairs and conveniences. We are glad we could go over the top in the Armenian Relief.—H. D. Michael, Garden City, Kans., May 17.

Kansas City (Armourdale Mission).—We have been here just a little over a year. We have seen some very discouraging conditions in the work but we feel to thank the Lord that a decided improvement is noticeable. At no time, since we have taken up the work, has there been such a missionary spirit shown as in the recent months. Attendance is increasing rapidly. Last Sunday there were seventy-four present at the morning services. Appropriate services were held in honor of the mothers of the land. A short but interesting program was rendered, after which a short address was given especially for the mothers. In the evening an appreciative audience listened to an address by Bro. Park Strole. At our regular Sunday evening service, May 4, one of our Sunday-school girls came forward for admission into the church by baptism. Our school has arranged for an outing on June 1, in beautiful Swope Park. Following the plan of last year, we will have a special car, which will convey the entire school to and from the park without change. A Ladies' Aid Society has been organized. The following officers were elected: Sister Anna Miller, President; Sister Rose Whitmer, Secretary; Mrs. Flossie Wooden, Treasurer.—Chas. A. Miller, Kansas City, Kans., May 12.

Morrill.—May 11 was devoted to the Armenian Relief cause. Our pastor, Eld. W. H. Yoder, preached a splendid sermon, making a wonderful appeal for suffering Armenia. An offering was lifted and, with a previous donation, amounted to $1,203.80. May 12 Capt. Owen O. Wiard lectured on "Mormonism, a Menace," professing this with a timely and instructive talk on the anti-tobacco cause. May 18 we were favored with a very interesting report from our delegate to the State Conference, Sister Mary Hutchison. Reports were the examination services, preparatory to our love feast which was held in the evening.—Mrs. Delilah A. Maxey, Morrill, Kans., May 20.

Protection.—May 7 our elder, Bro. O. H. Feller, gave us three inspiring sermons. We met in council May 9, when church officers were elected. Bro. Feller was chosen elder for another year. Our love feast was held May 11, with Bro. Feller officiating. Any one wishing to change location will be more than welcome here. This is a fine country and we are greatly in need of workers. The prospects for crops never were better than at present.—Clara Frantz, Protection, Kans., May 15.

MARYLAND

Bear Creek church has postponed her love feast one week, as we could not get a brother to officiate on the days at that time. Bro. B. F. Waltz will hold our meetings, beginning June 14, with the love feast June 21.—Bertha Speerlein, Accident, Md., May 19.

Long Green Valley church held its regular spring council April 26, with Eld. W. E. Roop presiding. The love feast was held May 10, with Eld. S. H. Hertzler officiating. Elders W. T. Miller, J. M. Pfrigel and Wm. E. Roop assisted in the services. The presence of those from the Shady-school pupil has been realized since our last report. Bro. Wm. Kinsey, of the Blue Ridge College faculty, will hold a series of meetings at this place to begin about July 27 and continue for two weeks.—Bertha Weishaupt, Glenville, Md., May 12.

Meadow Branch church held its semiannual love feast May 17, with the usual large attendance,—about 350 communing. Eld. B. F. Lightner officiated. Elders Lemon Fouts, T. S. Fike, Harry Roland, E. C. Bixler, John Kline, Aaron Kline, Jacob Wolfe and Jacob Wolfe, of Black Rock congregation, assisted in the services. The presence of many brethren and sisters from other congregations was much appreciated. Bro. Lightner preached a very acceptable sermon in the evening of the same day in our Westminster house. An offering of nearly $300 was lifted after the morning service at Meadow Branch, toward the Annual Conference offering for World-wide Missions.—W. E. Roop, Westminster, Md., May 18.

Middletown Valley.—We held our love feast May 17. Bro. Caleb Long officiated and remained with us until Sunday. His services were acceptable. Bro. Long has conducted a series of meetings in the Harmony house previous to our love feast. Thirteen have been baptized and several more await the rite.—C. N. Firnhour, Myersville, Md., May 19.

Notice.—The Ministerial Board of the First District of West Virginia is anxious to get in touch with a wide-awake minister who wishes to give his time to the church, as we need a pastor in the city of Keyser, W. Va. It interested, confer with Eld. B. W. Smith, Burlington, W. Va. There is also a fine church and city of about 8,000 inhabitants, on the main line of the B. and O. R. R., at the foot of the Alleghany Mountains. About sixty members are in the city. Prospects are bright for a live, energetic worker and all who have been granted the privilege to canvass the District for funds to build.—By order of the Ministerial Board, Emra T. Fike, Secretary of the Board, Oakland, Md., May 19.

Pipe Creek church held her annual love feast May 10. We were glad to be with us Bro. D. S. Miller, of Mt. Morris, Ill., and Bro. Caleb Long, of Washington County, Md. Sunday morning Bro. Miller installed Brethren Frank Shriver and Keener Bankard, with their wives, into the office of deacons. Bro. Long taught the Sunday-school lesson. Bro. Miller gave us a brief outline of the growth of the mission work, from its beginning to the present, and called for greater work from our young men. A collection of $350 was taken for missions. Bro. Long made a splendid tribute to mothers.—Rachel A. Pfoutz, Linwood, Md., May 12.

Upper Codorus.—April 26 Eld. J. F. Britton, of Bristow, Va., began a series of meetings in the Upper Codorus congregation at the Black Rock house. Bro. Britton preached eight interesting sermons. The attendance was good throughout the meetings.—N. S. Sellers, Linchoro, Md., May 19.

Winterville.—At present the writer is at this place for a two weeks' series of meetings, which is held in the Baptist church. The meetings began with good attendance and interest. There are only a very few members at this place. The work is supported by the Home Mission Board, and pastor's salary is paid by them. A well-attended Sunday-school has been organized recently with Sister Jacob Fahrney as superintendent. The Locust Grove congregation, with Bro. David Klein as elder in charge, heartily cooperates with all of the activities of the mission, and supplies most of the regular preaching appointments.—W. E. Roop, Westminster, Md., May 20.

MICHIGAN

Saginaw church held her love feast May 17, with about forty communicants present. Eld. David Sowers officiated. Other ministers present were Eld. Samuel Bollinger, of Vestaburg; Bro. Spencer, of Shepherd, and Bro. A. P. Sanders, who, with his family, has just moved here from North Manchester, Ind. Bro. Spencer gave a talk to the children on Sunday morning, after which Bro. Sowers gave an able address. Our Sunday-school work is encouraging and is growing in attendance.—Mrs. Myrtle French, Elsie, Mich., May 20.

MINNESOTA

Bethel.—We have been very much pleased to have with us Bro. Virgil C. Finnell, one of the church's Sunday-school workers. He gave us many good suggestions that will help our Sunday-school greatly. We had an unexpectedly large collection, which was helpful in making his point clear to us. We hope to have Bro. Finnell with us again.—Florence Miller, Hines, Minn., May 16.

Minneapolis (First Church).—April 20 was arranged for our Decision Day in the Sunday-school and several weeks previous we were definitely planning and praying toward that end. Easter morning we gave a program, at the close of which our pastor extended the invitation. Twenty stood for Christ, four of whom have been baptized. The whole service was indeed a Pentecost and made a splendid beginning for our week's meetings which were conducted by Brethren Nicodemus and Dilling, of Chicago, who gave us splendid instruction. We feel that we are entering into a new period in the growth of our church. Our pastor will represent us at Annual Conference.—Mrs. Sophia Leatherman, Minneapolis, Minn., May 17.

Morrill church met in council April 12, with Eld. I. N. Wagner presiding. Two letters were granted. Bro. Wagner will represent this church at the Annual Conference. We expect Bro. Glen Monts to begin a series of meetings June 15, closing with a love feast June 28. April 6 a collection of $73.60 was taken for the Armenian sufferers. May 10 Bro. Virgil C. Finnell was with us, giving his lectures on Sunday-school work. Mothers' Day was observed with recitations and song. A basket dinner was served at the church and all enjoyed the day.—Mrs. Effie Johnson, Ramey, Minn., May 19.

MISSOURI

Fairview congregation met May 10 in council, with Eld. J. B. Hylton presiding. Six letters were granted. We decided to hold a series of meetings in the near future. May 4 we met for Sunday-school, after which Bro. Hylton gave us a talk on "Christian Duty." In the afternoon we met for Bible study, or teacher-training. We also have begun the home department work.—Belle Hylton, Manafeld, Mo., May 19.

Kansas City (First Church).—Our love feast will be held Sunday evening, June 1, preceded by a week's meetings, with Bro. O. A. Miller in charge. We extend an invitation to those passing through Kansas City to stop over from Annual Meeting, to stop over. Our church is located at 6236 Hughe Street, in the eastern part of the city. From down town take a Fifteenth Street car, come east to Fremont Avenue and walk three blocks south. Should you know of any members or members' children moving into the city, notify us, and we will look them up. We have services every Sunday morning and evening, and prayer meeting each Thursday evening. Our Sunday-school rendered a very nice Easter program. Bro. Ira Wimmer, our elder, was with us in our prayer service and gave us much encouragement. We regret to have some of our devoted workers move from us the past month. The needs of the city mission work are so great that one can not enumerate the extent of them. We thank those who have shown an interest in our church in this big city in the past, and ask for a continuance of it.—J. Arthur Wyatt, 6236 Hughe Street, Kansas City, Mo., May 14.

Rockingham.—May 18 Bro. J. H. B. Williams, of Elgin, Ill., gave us a splendid missionary sermon, which was much appreciated. Afterward a Conference offering of $291 was received. Our love feast was held to-day evening, with Bro. Williams officiating. The attendance was larger than usual, and we enjoyed the services throughout the day.—N. S. Rhodes, Hardin, Mo., May 19.

Wakenda church met in council May 10, with Eld. Frank Van Pelt in charge. One letter of membership was received and two were granted. Sister Emma Van Trump was elected delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Van Pelt, alternate. Our revival meetings are to begin August 3, with Bro. Earl Bowman, of McPherson, Kans., as evangelist. During the last two months our church has sent $140.18 to the Armenian-Syrian Relief.—Mary Bowman, Hardin, Mo., May 16.

Warrensburg church enjoyed a spiritual love feast May 2, with our elder, Bro. I. L. Mohler, officiating. Fifteen members were present. On the following Sunday Bro. Mohler gave us a splendid sermon on "Love." The sermon was greatly enjoyed by every one present.—Rowena Wampler, Warrensburg, Mo., May 21.

MONTANA

Kalispell church met in council May 3, with Eld. L. H. Eby presiding. Sister J. W. Fox was chosen delegate to District Meeting. It was decided to change the name of the Flathead Valley church to Kalispell church. Bro. L. H. Eby had charge of a two weeks' series of meetings, which closed with a love feast. The members have decided to tithe during the coming year, the money to go toward building a churchhouse.—Mrs. Levi Learn, Proctor, Mont., May 14.

Troy.—Eld. L. H. Eby, of Fruitland, Idaho, came to this place May 6 and preached four sermons. The meetings were appreciated and enjoyed by all who attended. Sister J. W. Fox will represent us at District Meeting. We are very much in need of a minister at this place.—Mrs. A. A. Cripe, Troy, Mont., May 12.

NEBRASKA

Beatrice.—Sunday, May 11, at the close of our week's series of meetings, three were baptized, and two received by the rite. Our love feast was held on the evening of the same day.—Pearl Reiff, Beatrice, Nebr., May 16.

Lincoln church met in called council May 5, with Bro. Hersh presiding, in the absence of Eld. J. H. Stair. Eld. E. H. Smith, of Juniata, Nebr., has accepted a call from this church and will begin the work June 15. One letter was granted. An offering of $200 was given for Relief and Reconstruction work.—Mary A. Hargleroad, Lincoln, Nebr., May 20.

NORTH CAROLINA

Pleasant Grove.—Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely. Our superintendent has been absent for some time on account of sickness in his home, but his assistant is carrying on the work. At this writing we have five enrolled in the home department.—Emma Bryant, Brummett, N. C., May 14.

OHIO

Ashland (First Church.)—We admired, then worshiped, when, on the morning of May 11, singly, in couples, groups and families, we entered our new sanctuary on Third Street, and beheld the scene presented to view. Making free use of the cheerful-looking dogwood bloom, loving hands had tastefully decorated the audience room in honor of Mothers' Day. Appropriate songs and recitations filled the entire charge of the hour of the morning preaching service. A program that was touching to the emotions, and inspiring to the soul, was rendered. At the close of the exercises we went forth into the world again with a deeper love for the Heavenly Father and an increased love and respect for mother.—Oma Karn, 908 Orange Street, Ashland, Ohio, May 15.

Covington congregation enjoyed a series of inspiring services, lasting from April 20 to May 4, with Bro. Lee Haggard in charge, largely devoted to evangelistic singing, directed by Prof. Yoder, of Philadelphia. April 27 our pastor, Bro. Geo. W. Flory, began a series of ten sermons. We had 60 in attendance at Sunday-school that day and the house was filled to overflowing that evening. Sixty-one were received into the church during the meetings.—Mrs. Forrest Honeyman, Covington, Ohio, May 16.

Logan church held her love feast on Saturday evening, May 17. We were pleased to have with us Bro. E. E. Eshelman, of Fostoria, Ohio. On Sunday morning Bro. Eshelman preached for us, at which time our missionary offering was taken.—Mrs. Lealie Yoder, Bellefontaine, Ohio, May 20.

Painter Creek church met in council May 17, preparatory to our love feast, to be held May 24, with Eld. Lawrence Kreider presiding. One letter was received and two were granted. May 4 Bro. J. Homer Bright and wife, returned missionaries from China, were with us. Sister Bright gave a very interesting address to the Sunday-school and also at the preaching hour. May 18 Bro. I. J. Rosenberger preached for us.—Martha Schmidt, Greenville, Ohio, May 19.

Pleasant View.—The splendid program, given by the Manchester College Glee Club May 10, was very much appreciated. Since our last report $54 has been added to our Armenian-Syrian Relief fund, making a total of $1,400. We have nearly doubled our quota, which was $726. Our love feast will be held May 31.—Ada Miller, Lima, Ohio, May 21.

Potsdam.—The combined councils of the Ludlow and Salem congregations were held May 17, with Eld. S. S. Blickenstaff presiding. Eight letters were received. Bro. Ed Miller was elected a member of the ministerial committee. Bro. Harry Delk was elected president of the Christian Workers' Meeting. An offering was taken for the "Messenger" fund.—May Weiserberger, Lena, Ohio, May 19.

Salem.—We are in the midst of a series of meetings, conducted by Eld. B. F. Petry. The church met in council May 15, with Eld. Wm. Minnich presiding. We decided to hold our love feast June 1, commencing at 7 P. M. Our congregation met her quota of the Armenian-Syrian Relief call, giving a total of $1,450, going over the top by $450. We decided to take the same plan for raising the missionary offering. We have a well-organized Sunday-school of nineteen classes. The attendance last Sunday was 200; collection $27. We have fourteen young people in the teacher-training class.—Mabel Wenger, Union, Ohio, May 16.

Troy Mission is glad that the remodeling of our church is nearing completion. We have put in a gallery, which gives us six Sunday-school rooms, besides the main room. We have been holding our services in the school auditorium, but expect soon to be back in our own house. Our dedication will be held June 22, with Bro. Otho Winger, of Manchester College, to deliver the address.—Mrs. E. S. Petry, Troy, Ohio, May 20.

PENNSYLVANIA

Connellsville Mission.—Bro. Irwin R. Pletcher, our new pastor, was recently tendered a reception at his home at Greenwood. The affair was planned by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church and was a

(Continued on Page 352)

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Austin, Sister Malinda F., nee Barnhizer, born in Maryland, died at the home of her daughter in the bounds of the Big Creek church, Okla., May 8, 1919, aged 77 years, 1 month and 24 days. Death was due to the effects of a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered last October. In 1865 she married A. W. Austin. To this union were born ten children. Her husband and five children preceded her. Brother and Sister Austin were among the first members to locate in this vicinity and were instrumental in establishing a church here. Services by Eld. N. S. Gripe.—Oma Holderread, Cushing, Okla.

Chapman, Catharine, wife of John Chapman, born in New York, died at the home of her son, Wm. Chapman, Berrien County, Mich., May 7, 1919, aged 96 years, 2 months and 27 days. She was the mother of nine children. Brother and Sister Chapman were charter members of the Berrien church. Services in the Methodist church in Bridgman, Mich., by the writer, assisted by the home minister, Bro. Louis Howard.—Eli Koontz, Nappanee, Ind.

Chrystler, Sister Sarah J., died at her home near Middlebury, Ind., May 6, 1919, aged 60 years, 1 month and 18 days. In 1878 she married Eugene Chrystler. To this union were born six children, three of whom survive, with four grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers. A number of years ago she united with the Church of the Brethren and lived a faithful life. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. J. L. Mishler.—J. H. Fike, Middlebury, Ind.

Dillman, Sister Catherine, nee Brown, wife of Bro. Jacob Dillman, died at her home in Richland, Pa., May 7, 1919, aged 83 years, 1 month and 22 days. Services in the Richland house by Eld. John Herr and Bro. Michael Kurtz. Interment at Tulpehocken cemetery.—H. F. King, Lebanon, Pa.

Oltmer, Anna Lucile, daughter of Harley and Susie Ditmer, died May 7, 1919, aged 11 years, 11 months and 10 days. She never enjoyed good health, yet with all her illness manifested a cheerful disposition. She was desirous of obtaining an education and although not permitted to attend school regularly, kept up her studies at home. She leaves father, mother and sister. Services by Eld. N. W. Binkley at Pitsburg.—Mrs. J. W. Eikenberry, Arcanum, Ohio.

Fisher, Mary Catherine, nee Barklow, died at the home of her son, in Freeport, Ill., May 10, 1910, aged 70 years, 2 months and 16 days. She married Geo. M. Fisher in 1869. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for forty-six years. She leaves six daughters, one son and thirty-two grandchildren. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. A. Kuhleman. Burial in the cemetery near by.—I. E. Weaver, Kent, Ill.

Heaston, Lewis, born near Huntington, Ind., died at his home, McPherson, Kans., April 17, 1919, aged 70 years, 9 months and 28 days. When he was thirteen years of age, his father, with his entire family, crossed the plains with ox-teams, and located in Salt Lake Valley. Here for ten years they were engaged in gold-mining and operating sawmills, after which they returned to the State of Iowa. When twenty-three years old he united with the Church of the Brethren, of which he was a faithful member. In 1871 he married Mary Teeter. To this union were born eight children. He leaves his wife, four sons, two daughters and eleven grandchildren.—J. J. Yoder, McPherson, Kans.

Lentz, Bessie Elizabeth, daughter of Brother Warren and Sister Altha Lentz, died May 14, 1919, aged 1 year, 2 months and 7 days. She leaves her father, mother and sister. Services at the Bear Creek church by Bro. J. W. Beeghly, assisted by Bro. Parker Filbrun.—Maudie Filbrun, Dayton, Ohio.

Londeis, Sister Emma Clare, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Londeis, born near Troutville, Va., died at her home near the same place, April 6, 1919, aged 18 years, 3 months and 16 days. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for three years. She leaves her father, mother, two sisters and two brothers. Services at the Troutville church by Eld. J. A. Dove, assisted by Dr. George Braxton Taylor. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Mrs. E. L. Showalter, Roanoke, Va.

McQuate, John G., born in Lebanon County, Pa., died May 1, 1919, aged 65 years, 4 months and 17 days. In 1877 he married Elmina Weaver. Six sons and three daughters were born to them, all of whom are living, except one son. Bro. McQuate and his wife united with the Church of the Brethren about 1881. Services at the Maple Grove church by Bro. H. H. Helman. Interment in the Maple Grove cemetery.—Mrs. C. L. Bowerizc, Ashland, Ohio.

Meyers, John M., son of Michael and Elizabeth Meyers, of Somerset County, Pa., died at his home, in Enid, Okla., April 15, 1919. He leaves his wife and five children. Services by Rev. Potter, of the Baptist church.—Mrs. W. H. Sell, Perdido, Kans.

Miller, Mary, nee Schrock, born in Somerset County, Pa., died near Brookside, W. Va., March 4, 1919, aged 69 years, 1 month and 18 days. She married C. J. Miller in 1872. To this union were born one daughter and one son. She and her husband joined the Church of the Brethren about 1885 and lived consistent lives. She is survived by her husband, son, daughter, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Services at the Maple Spring church by Eld. E. T. Fike. Interment in Maple Spring cemetery.—Goldie Judy, Eglon, W. Va.

Patten, John, born in Howard County, Ind., died at his home in the bounds of the Worden church, Stanley, Wis., March 22, 1919, aged 72 years, 10 months and 2 days. About two years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. In 1870 he married Mary Keyes. To them were born seven children, four of whom are living. His wife died when the children were small. He later married Maggie Studebaker. To them were born three children. Bro. Patten was the first minister of the Worden church, coming to this part of Wisconsin when the country was a dense forest. He traveled on foot or horseback to preach the Gospel. Services by Bro. J. M. Myers at the Worden church. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Mollie Patten Turner, Stanley, Wis.

Rau, Solomon P., born in Snyder County, Pa., died May 8, 1919, aged 61 years and 9 months. He married Miss Mary Ayres in 1884. To this union were born eight children, three of whom preceded him. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1916. Services by Eld. D. P. Weller. Interment in the Palview cemetery.—Edna Weller, Continental, Ohio.

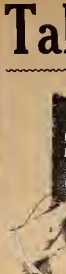
Rhoades, Ralph Monroe, son of Earl and Alma Rhoades, died near Brookville, Ohio, May 12, 1919, aged 2 years, 11 months and 2 days. Services by the writer.—C. Perry Union, Ohio.

Steel, Susannah, daughter of Joseph and Eliza Cripe, died April 29, 1919, aged 69 years, 9 months and 14 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren about fifty years ago, and lived a faithful Christian life. She was born in Elkhart County, Ind., and always lived in the bounds of the Rock Run church. She leaves her husband, Jacob Steel, one sister and six brothers. Services in the Goshen City church by Eld. I. L. Berkey, Goshen, Ind.

Steinberger, Sister Henrietta, nee Miller, died in the bounds of the Lewistown congregation, Pa., of heart failure, April 14, 1919, aged 71 years, 10 months and 14 days. She married Eld. Albert Steinberger in 1864. To them were born three sons and five daughters. The husband, one son and four daughters survive. Sister Steinberger united with the church soon after her marriage and was a devoted Christian. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. W. J. Swigart. Burial in the cemetery at Dry Valley.—S. J. Swigart, Lewistown, Pa.

Swigart, Bro. Abraham, died of cancer, April 28, 1919, aged 78 years, 9 months and 8 days. He leaves his wife, four sons, two daughters and several grandchildren. One son is in France. Services in the Glade Run church by Bro. C. O. Beery, assisted by Bro. A. B. Replogle. Interment in the church cemetery.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa.

Take a New Bible to Church



Most of the Bibles listed on this page are Text Bibles, and therefore contain no references or helps. The Text Bible represents the utmost economy in space, consequently they are convenient to carry and reasonable in price. Teachers will find Text Bibles especially fitted for gifts to scholars.

RUBY TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION

Our Ruby Type Text Bibles are ideal for Sunday-school use because they combine readable type with small size in the book. Size 3½x5½ inches.

Specimen of Type used steps, which is gone down on the dial of Ahaz with the sun, so return backward ten steps. So the sun returned ten steps on the dial whereon it was gone down. 21

9 The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and

No. 40. Bound in Cloth, round corners, red edges, ...$0.55

No. 47. Genuine Maroon Leather, Morocco grain, flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.50

No. 51L. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, with 31 full page illustrations in sepia, ...$1.85

MINION TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION

Size, 4x6 inches, 1½ inches thick

These Bibles are printed from large Minion Type and make excellent books for Sunday-school and church use and for gifts to scholars.

No. 101. Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, round corners, red edges, ...$0.70

No. 112. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$2.10

No. 113. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$7.70

SMALLEST TEXT BIBLE

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

This is our smallest complete Bible. It contains the entire Bible and is small enough to carry in your pocket. Is not as large as an ordinary Testament. Just the Bible to carry with you. Diamond Type, Printed on India paper. Size, 4½ x2⅝x⅝ inches.

Specimen of Type
St. LUKE 8.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.
16 And he with drew himself

No. 01103X. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$2.50

No. 01112X. Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $3.00

PEARL TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Pocket Size, 3⅛x5⅜ inches

Furnished in strong durable bindings at prices within the reach of all.

Each Bible contains Bible Atlas, comprising handsome colored lithographic maps.

Specimen of Type.
6 AND the LORD appeared unto him by the plains of Mamre; and he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day;

1008. Divinity Circuit Binding, overlapping covers, durable Morocco cloth, burnished edges, gold titles, each in a box, .$1.15

1001K. Same as No. 1008, Flexible Limp Binding, without divinity circuit, ...$1.10

Size 3⅛x5⅜, with 6 Maps only

No. 010. French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.40

No. 012. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.60

NOTICE:—Thumb Index on Bibles 35 Cents Additional. Name, or name and address in gold, will be placed upon any of these Bibles and Testaments at 20 cents per line.

AGATE TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Size, 3⅝x5⅜ inches, with Maps

1103K. Grained Morocco cloth, flexible limp, gold edges, gold side and back titles, ...$1.25

1106. Grained Morocco cloth, red burnished edges, divinity circuit, gold titles, ...$1.30

1111. Seal Grain Genuine Leather, divinity circuit, round corners, gold edges, ...$1.75

Button Flap Binding

The Button Flap Binding gives an added advantage for slipping in and out of the pocket.

The leather cover extends completely over the front edge and is fastened on top with a button clasp as shown on illustration.

Size, 3½x5½ inches. Self-Pronouncing

No. 1115F. French Seal, divinity circuit, button flap, gold titles, silk head bands and silk marker, round corners, red gold edges, ...$2.05

India Paper Edition

Weighs 7½ ounces, ¾ of an inch in thickness

No. 1115XF. French Seal, divinity circuit, button flap, gold titles, silk head bands and silk marker, round corners, red gold edges, ...$2.50

MINION TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Self-Pronouncing, Maps in Colors. Size 5¼x3¼ inches

1303K. Grained Morocco cloth, flexible limp, gold edges, ...$1.55

1309. Grained Morocco cloth, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, gold edges, ...$1.60

1311. Morocco Grained Genuine Leather, overlapping covers, gold edges, ...$2.00

India Paper Edition

1315X. Egyptian Morocco, overlapping covers, red under gold edges, silk head bands and marker, ...$2.75

BLACK FACE TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Size, 4½x2¾ inches

1502. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, ...$1.45

1515. Seal Grain Leather, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, ...$2.65

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd not want.
He maketh me to lie d green pastures: he leadeth m the still waters.

India Paper Edition

1515X. Egyptian Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, silk head bands and marker, ...$3.50

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES

Words of Christ Printed in Red

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION—BOURGEOIS TYPE

No. 2182. Teachers' Bible with standard helps, but words of Christ in red. Large Bourgeois Type, Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.00

MINION TYPE

AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Specimen of Type

15 BUT GOD will redeem my soul from the power of the grave: for he shall receive me. Selah.
16 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, when the glory of his house is increased;

graveyard a habitation him in every one of them.
1 Job 20. 27.
2 Hos. 13. 14.
3 Ps. 61. 7.

No. 85453. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.20

India Paper Edition

No. 85453X. French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$7.20

BOURGEOIS TYPE

812RL. French Seal, divinity circuit, grained lining and fly leaves, head bands and marker, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$4.25

830RL. Same as 812RL, with extra leather-lined covers, $5.00

India Paper Edition

833XRL. Algerian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lining, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, extra quality binding, ...$6.75

Brethren Publishing House

Elgin, Illinois

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Austin, Sister Malinda F., nee Barnhiser, born in Maryland, died at the home of her daughter in the bounds of the Big Creek church, Okla., May 8, 1919, aged 77 years, 1 month and 20 days. Death was due to the effects of a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered last October. In 1865 she married A. W. Austin. To this union were born ten children. Her husband and five children preceded her. Brother and Sister Austin were among the first members to locate in this vicinity and were instrumental in establishing a church here. Services by Eld. N. S. Gripe.—Ora Holderread, Cushing, Okla.

Chapman, Catharine, wife of John Chapman, born in New York, died at the home of her son, Wm. Chapman, Berrien County, Mich., May 7, 1919, aged 96 years, 2 months and 27 days. She was the mother of nine children. Brother and Sister Chapman were charter members of the Berrien church. Services in the Methodist church in Bridgman, Mich., by the writer, assisted by the home minister, Bro. Louis Howard.—Eli Rosser, Nappanee, Ind.

Chrystler, Sister Sarah J., died at her home near Middlebury, Ind., May 6, 1919, aged 60 years, 1 month and 18 days. In 1878 she married Eugene Chrystler. To this union were born six children, three of whom survive, with four grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers. A number of years ago she united with the Church of the Brethren and lived a faithful life. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. J. L. Mishler.—J. H. Fike, Middlebury, Ind.

Dillman, Sister Catherine, nee Brown, wife of Bro. Jacob Dillman, died at her home in Richland, Pa., May 7, 1919, aged 82 years, 1 month and 22 days. Services in the Richland house by Eld. John Herr and Bro. Michael Kurtz. Interment at Tulpehocken cemetery.—H. F. King, Lebanon, Pa.

Ditmer, Anna Lucile, daughter of Harley and Susie Ditmer, died May 7, 1919, aged 11 years, 11 months and 10 days. She never enjoyed good health, yet with all her illness manifested a cheerful disposition. She was desirous of finishing an education and although not permitted to attend school regularly, kept up her studies at home. She leaves father, mother and sister. Services by Eld. N. W. Binkley at Pitsburg.—Mrs. J. W. Eisenberry, Arcanum, Ohio.

Fisher, Mary Catherine, nee Barklow, died at the home of her son, in Freeport, Ill., May 10, 1910, aged 70 years, 2 months and 16 days. She married Geo. M. Fisher in 1869. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for forty-six years. She leaves six daughters, one son and thirty-two grandchildren. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. A. Kuhleman. Burial in the cemetery near by.—I. E. Weaver, Kent, Ill.

Heaston, Lewis, born near Huntington, Ind., died at his home, McPherson, Kans., April 12, 1919, aged 70 years, 9 months and 28 days. When he was thirteen years of age, his father, with his entire family, crossed the plains with ox-teams, and located in Salt Lake Valley. Here for ten years they were engaged in gold-mining and operating saw-mills, after which they returned to the State of Iowa. When twenty-three years old he united with the Church of the Brethren, of which he was a faithful member. In 1871 he married Mary Teeter. To this union were born eight children. He leaves his wife, four sons, two daughters and eleven grandchildren.—J. J. Yoder, McPherson, Kans.

Lentz, Bessie Elizabeth, daughter of Brother Warren and Sister Altha Lentz, died May 12, 1919, aged 2 months and 7 days. She leaves her father, mother and sister. Services at the Bear Creek church by Bro. J. W. Beegbly, assisted by Bro. Parker Filbrun.—Maudie Filbrun, Dayton, Ohio.

Londeis, Sister Eunice Clare, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Londeis, born near Troutville, Va., died at her home near the same place, April 6, 1919, aged 18 years, 3 months and 16 days. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for three years. She leaves her father, mother, two sisters and two brothers. Services at the Troutville church by Eld. J. A. Dove, assisted by Dr. George Braxton Taylor. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Mrs. E. L. Showalter, Roanoke, Va.

McQuate, John G., born in Lebanon County, Pa., died May 1, 1919, aged 65 years, 4 months and 17 days. In 1877 he married Elmina Weaver. Six sons and three daughters were born to them, all of whom are living, except one son. Bro. McQuate and his wife united with the Church of the Brethren about 1881. Services at the Maple Grove church by Bro. H. H. Helman. Interment in the Maple Grove cemetery.—Mrs. C. L. Bowerize, Ashland, Ohio.

Meyers, Jacob M., son of Michael and Elizabeth Meyers, of Somerset County, Pa., died at his home, in Enid, Okla., April 15, 1919. He leaves his wife and five children. Services by Rev. Potter, of the Baptist church.—Mrs. W. H. Sell, Predonia, Kans.

Miller, Mary, nee Schrock, of Conemaugh, Somerset County, Pa., died near Brookside, W. Va., March 4, 1919, aged 69 years, 1 month and 18 days. She married C. J. Miller in 1872. To this union were born one daughter and one son. She and her husband joined the Church of the Brethren about 1885 and remained faithful. She is survived by her husband, son, daughter, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Services at the Maple Spring church by Eld. E. T. Fike. Interment in Maple Spring cemetery.—Goldie Judy, Eglon, W. Va.

Patten, John, born in Howard County, Ind., died at his home in the bounds of the Worden church, Stanley, Wis., March 22, 1919, aged 72 years, 10 months and 2 days. About two years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. In 1870 he married Mary Keyes. To them were born seven children, four of whom are living. His wife died when the children were small. He later married Maggie Studebaker. To them were born three children. Bro. Patten was the first minister of the Worden church, coming to this part of Wisconsin when the country was a dense forest. He traveled on foot or horseback to preach the Gospel. Services by Bro. J. M. Myers at the Worden church. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Mollie Patten Turner, Stanley, Wis.

Rau, Solomon P., born in Snyder County, Pa., died May 8, 1919, aged 61 years and 9 months. He married Miss Mary Ayres in 1884. To this union were born eight children, three of whom preceded him. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1916. Services by Eld. D. P. Weller. Interment in the Fairview cemetery.—Edna Weller, Continental, Ohio.

Rhoades, Ralph Monroe, son of Earl and Alma Rhoades, died near Brookville, Ohio, May 12, 1919, aged 2 years, 11 months and 2 days. Services by the writer.—B. F. Henry, Union, Ohio.

Steel, Susannah, daughter of Joseph and Eliza Cripe, died April 29, 1919, aged 69 years, 9 months and 14 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren about fifty years ago, and lived a faithful Christian life. She was born in Elkhart County, Ind., and always lived in the bounds of the Rock Run church. She leaves her husband, Jacob Steel, one sister and six brothers. Services in the Goshen City church by the writer, assisted by Bro. L. Berkey.—Goshen, Ind.

Steinberger, Sister Henrietta, nee Miller, died in the bounds of the Lewistown congregation, Pa., of heart failure, April 14, 1919, aged 71 years, 10 months and 14 days. She married Eld. Albert Steinberger in 1864. To them were born three sons and five daughters. The husband, one son and four daughters survive. Sister Steinberger united with the church soon after her marriage and was a devoted Christian. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. W. J. Swigart. Burial in the cemetery at Dry Valley.—S. J. Swigart, Lewistown, Pa.

Swigart, Bro. Abraham, died of cancer, April 28, 1919, aged 75 years, 9 months and 8 days. He leaves his wife, four sons, two daughters and several grandchildren. One son is in France. Services in the Glade Run church by Bro. C. O. Berry, assisted by Bro. A. B. Replogle. Interment in the church cemetery.—Ida B. Bowser, Kittanning, Pa.

Take a New Bible to Church

Most of the Bibles listed on this page are Text Bibles, and therefore contain no references or helps. The Text Bible represents the utmost economy in space, consequently they are convenient to carry and reasonable in price. Teachers will find Text Bibles especially fitted for gifts to scholars.

RUBY TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AMERICAN STANDARD VERSIDN

Our Ruby Type Text Bibles are ideal for Sunday-school use because they combine readable type with small size in the book. Size 3½x5½ inches.

Specimen of Type used steps, which is gone down on the dial of Ahaz with the sun. so return backward ten steps. So the sun returned ten steps on the dial whereon it was gone down. 9 The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and

No. 40. Bound in Cloth, round corners, red edges, ... $0.55

No. 41. Genuine Maroon Leather, Morocco grain, flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $1.50

No. 51L. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, with 31 full page illustrations in sepia, ... $1.85

MINION TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AMERICAN STANDARD VERSIDN

Size, 4x6 inches, 1½ inches thick

These Bibles are printed from large Minion Type and make excellent books for Sunday-school and church use and for gifts to scholars.

No. 101. Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, round corners, red edges, ... $0.70

No. 112. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $2.10

No. 113. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $2.70

SMALLEST TEXT BIBLE
AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

This is our smallest complete Bible. It contains the entire Bible and is small enough to carry in your pocket. Is not as large as an ordinary Testament. Just the Bible to carry with you. Diamond Type, Printed on India paper. Size, 4¼ x2⅝x½ inches.

Specimen of Type
St. LUKE 5.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.

8 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 * And he withdrew himself

No. 0103X. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $2.50

No. 0112X. Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $3.00

PEARL TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

Pocket Size, 3¼x5⅝ inches

Furnished in strong durable bindings at prices within the reach of all.

Each Bible contains Bible Atlas, comprising handsome colored lithographic maps.

Specimen of Type.

AND the Lord appointed unto him by the plains of Mamre: and he sat in the tent door about the heat of the day;

1098. Divinity Circuit Binding, overlapping covers, durable Morocco cott, burnished edges, gold titles, each in a box, ... $1.15

1003X. Same as No. 1098. Flexible Limp Binding, without divinity circuit, ... $1.10

Size 3½x5⅛, with 6 Maps only

No. 010. French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $1.40

No. 012. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $1.60

NOTICE:—Thumb Index on Bibles 35 Cents Additional. Name, or name and address in gold, will be placed upon any of these Bibles and Testaments at 20 cents per line.

AGATE TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Size, 3⅝x5⅜ inches, with Maps

1103K. Grained Morocco cott, flexible limp, gold edges, gold side and back titles, ... $1.25

1105. Grained Morocco cott, red burnished edges, divinity circuit, gold titles, ... $1.50

1111. Seal Grain Genuine Leather, divinity circuit, round corners, gold edges, ... $1.75

Button Flap Binding

The Button Flap Binding gives an added advantage for slipping in and out of the pocket. The leather cover extends completely over the front edge and is fastened on top with a button clasp as shown on illustration.

Size, 3⅝x5⅜ inches. Self-Pronouncing

No. 1115F. French Seal, divinity circuit, button flap, gold titles, silk head bands and silk marker, round corners, red gold edges, ... $2.05

India Paper Edition

No. 1115XF. Weighs 7⅛ ounces, ⅜ of an inch in thickness French Seal, divinity circuit, button flap, gold titles, silk head bands and silk marker, round corners, red gold edges, ... $2.50

MINION TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AUTHORIZED (KING JAMES) VERSION

Self-Pronouncing, Maps in Colors. Size 5¾x8¼ inches

1303K. Grained Morocco cott, flexible limp, gold edges, ... $1.55

1309. Grained Morocco cott, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, gold edges, ... $1.80

1311. Morocco Grained Genuine Leather, overlapping covers, gold edges, ... $2.00

India Paper Edition

1315X. Egyptian Morocco, overlapping covers, red under gold edges, silk head bands and marker, ... $2.75

BLACK FACE TYPE TEXT BIBLES
AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

Size, 4½x7¼ inches

1502. Black Silk Finished Cloth, gold titles, round corners, red burnished edges, ... $1.45

1516. Seal Grain Leather, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, ... $2.65

Specimen of Type
THE LORD is my shepherd not want.
2 He maketh me to lie down green pastures: he leadeth me the still waters.

India Paper Edition

1515X. Egyptian Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, silk head bands and marker, ... $3.50

RED LETTER TEACHERS' BIBLES
Words of Christ Printed in Red

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION—BOURGEOIS TYPE

No. 2182. Teachers' Bible with standard helps, but words of Christ in red. Large Bourgeois Type, Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.00

MINION TYPE
AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

Specimen of Type

25 BUT God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave: for he shall receive me. Selah.
26 Be not thou afraid when one is made rich, when the glory of his house is increased; growing old in Author-ness to every eye of Hym.

† Job xx. 27.
‡ Rom. 13. 14
§ Ps. 80. 7.

No. 0543. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.20

India Paper Edition

No. 0543X. French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $2.70

BOURGEOIS TYPE

812RL. French Seal, divinity circuit, grained lining and fly leaves, head bands and marker, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.25

830RL. Same as 812RL, with extra leather-lined covers, ... $5.00

India Paper Edition

832XRL. Algerian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lining, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, extra quality binding, ... $6.75

Brethren Publishing House
Elgin, Illinois

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 349)

complete surprise to Brother und Sister Fletcher. About forty members attended, bring with them various provisions. Refreshments were served by the ladies. The young women have organized a class, of which Bro. Beahm was elected teacher, and Sister Fletcher, president. Bro. Fletcher is holding evangelistic services, which will close with a love feast on the evening of May 25,—the first to be held in Connellsville. The Sunday-school observed Mothers' Day by giving an excellent program. Brethren Beahm and Fletcher gave very interesting talks. We expect to have Children's Day in June.—Anna L. Cogan, Dawson, Pa., May 19.

Falling Spring.—May 17 and 18 we held our spring love feast at the Hade meetinghouse, with a good attendance, about 200 communing. Visiting ministers were Brethren C. D. Bonsack, B. F. McCoy, S. D. Vistine, John Flohr, Aaron Newcomer, Jacob Myers, J. O. Butterbaugh, who officiated, and C. S. Byers. Brethren Bonsack and Myers are both holding meetings in adjoining congregations, the former at Mercersburg and the latter at Welty's church. Bro. Byers preached along missionary lines on Sunday morning. At the close of the services an offering was taken, to be sent with our delegate to Annual Meeting for World-wide Missions.—H. N. M. Gearhart, Shady Grove, Pa., May 21.

Fredericksburg.—April 13 a series of meetings was opened at Rankstown, with two of our home ministers, Eld. J. W. Meyer and Bro. S. G. Meyer, as evangelists. The meetings were well attended. Six young people were baptized and one awaits baptism. Since our last report one has been baptized besides those at Rankstown. Easter Sunday four members of the Elizabethtown College Volunteer Band were with us and gave a much appreciated program.—Annis B. Wenger, Fredericksburg, Pa., May 15.

Harrisburg.—May 11 a very interesting Fathers' and Mothers' Day program was rendered by the Sunday-school. Bro. Beachley giving the address of welcome. The children gave a number of recitations. Bro. Harold Conner gave a splendid talk on "The Father's Part." Eld. John Whitmer, from the Big Swatara congregation, addressed the school. May 18, Bro. Beachley preached in the county prison. Bro. J. F. Graybill, returned missionary, filled the pulpit both morning and evening. Brother and Sister Graybill favored the Christian Workers with a special song in the Swedish language.—Sallie E. Schaffner, Harrisburg, Pa., May 19.

Lower Claar church has again had a great awakening, after having its doors closed for almost six months on account of the epidemic. We have had a week's meeting, which began May 3 and closed with our semiannual love feast. Eld. J. B. Miller, of Curryville, conducted the meetings, and delivered some inspiring sermons, which built up the church spiritually. The meetings were largely attended, many from adjoining churches assembling with us. We had with us at our feast the following ministers: Brethren James Brumbaugh, Peter Knavel, F. C. Dively, Taylor Dively, Samuel Weyant and J. B. Miller, who officiated.—J. A. Claar, Queeo, Pa., May 20.

Maiden Creek.—We had a very spiritual love feast May 17 and 18. Many members of other churches were present. Visiting ministers with us were Brethren Allen Bucher, Wm. Oberholtzer, H. S. Kline, J. W. G. Hershey, Linn Longenecker, Jacob Peiffer, Ira Gibble, Benj. Zug and Simon Bucher. Eld. Allen Bueher officiated. Brethren Simon Bucher and Ira Gibble addressed the Sunday-school the second day. We hope to go over the top with our Conference offering.—Edwin S. Ermel, Berwille, Pa., May 19.

Pittsburgh.—Easter Sunday we combined our Sunday-school and church services and enjoyed a well-rendered program by the children. May 11 we observed Mothers' Day with appropriate readings and solos. In the evening we held our communion service. We were glad to have with us Eld. Jas. A. Sell, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., who officiated. We had a larger number of communicants than the Pittsburgh church has had for some time past. We are also pleased to report that Sunday morning was a banner day in our school, with the largest attendance we have ever had. Since our last report four have been baptized and one letter has been received. Sunday morning, May 25, we expect to observe as Missionary Day.—Mrs. A. O. Horner, Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.

Tulpehocken.—Since the last report fourteen have been baptized, as a result of meeting held by Brethren Nathan Martin and Harrison Gips. May 13 and 14 our love feast was held at the Heidelberg house. The exceptionally fine weather was favorable for a large crowd of people. The visiting ministers included Brethren S. E. Zug, Jacob Hertzler, Martin Heisey, Hiram Kaylor, I. W. Taylor, Allen Bucher, Nathan Martin, Ira Gibble, Abram Royer, Bitzer Johns and S. S. Meyer. Eld. Hiram Kaylor officiated.—H. F. King, Lebanon, Pa., May 17.

West Conestoga congregation held her love feast May 12 and 13, which has been a spiritual feast. Twelve visiting brethren of various congregations were with us, who labored for us in the preaching of the Word. Bro. A. S. Hottenstein officiated. The evening meetings, at the Lexington house, are well attended and the interest is good.—A. G. Fahnestock, R. D. 1, Lititz, Pa., May 16.

VIRGINIA

Daleville church met in council May 10, with Eld. T. S. Moherman presiding. Four letters were granted. Our church heartily indorsed the "Five-year Forward Movement" and will do all in its power to carry out her part of the program. A committee was appointed to take steps to open a Sunday-school and to have other religious services in a neglected community near us. Bro. L. C. Coffman will represent us at the Annual Meeting. Our District Meeting will be held in the Salem church this year. Our delegates are Brethren G. O. Reed, B. R. Ikenberry and D. V. Shaver; alternates, Brethren C. S. Ikenberry, J. T. Layman and W. K. Coffman. Immediately after the council meeting we held our love feast, at which Eld. J. W. Ikenberry officiated. The fourth Sunday of April Eld. D. C. Moomaw was with us and preached a very interesting sermon to a large audience. Recently we had the pleasure of having with us Brother and Sister Fred Wampler. Each gave a talk on their work in China. They promised to return to us later and give their illustrated lectures.—Mrs. D. V. Shaver, Daleville, Va., May 16.

Pleasant Hill church assembled in council May 10, with Eld. A. N. Hylton in charge. One letter was received. We have an excellent Sunday-school at this place, with good attendance and interest, under the superintendence of Bro. Jas. F. Hylton. Sunday, May 11, Mothers' Day was observed at this place. Eld. A. N. Hylton preached an able sermon to a large and attentive audience.—Perule Dickerson, Willis, Va., May 15.

Red Oak Grove church met in council May 10, with Bro. J. F. Keith presiding. One was received by letter. We made an effort to raise our money for World-wide Missions and hope to reach the desired amount. Bro. W. F. Vest was chosen elder and Bro. Asa Bowman, assistant. May 11 we met for Sunday-school, after which the home brethren spoke in memory of our late elder, Bro. W. H. Naff.—Sarah Ella Bowman, Floyd, Va., May 15.

Texas Chapel congregation met in council May 17. Bro. Floyd Akers was elected to the ministry and Brethren James Wimmer and Archie Wright were chosen deacons. Brethren W. F. Vest, C. E. Williams and Daniel Shaver, visiting ministers, assisted Eld. Asa Bowman. Following this, our love feast was held, with Bro. W. F. Vest officiating. This was our first time to enjoy a feast at this place, as the church is newly organized. The following day we had both Sunday-school and preaching services.—Dessie Rakes, Alleghany Springs, Va., May 18.

Woodstock.—Bro. S. I. Bowman, of Harrisonburg, Va., held a two weeks' series of meetings at the St. Luke church, beginning April 23. The members were much strengthened by his preaching. Bro. C. H. Wakeman, from an adjoining congregation, had charge of the song services, which were enjoyed by all.—Zella M. Hoover, Woodstock, Va., May 19.

Woodstock.—Bro. J. Wm. Harpine, of Mt. Jackson, Va., began a series of meetings at the Columbia Furnace church May 11, closing May 19, preaching in all nine sermons. Ten stood for Christ, five of whom were baptized during the meetings and five await baptism. The song services were conducted by Sister Mary Kagey, which was very much appreciated and enjoyed. May 17 we held our love feast, with eighty-three members present. Our meetings were very interesting from beginning to end, and the attendance was splendid. Eld. H. R. Mowry was with us during this time and we appreciated his presence.—Mrs. Simon Hollar, Edinburg, Va., May 21.

WEST VIRGINIA

Crab Orchard church met in council May 10. We had services on Sunday with quite a large attendance. Bro. E. L. Clower was with us the second Sunday of last month, for which we were glad. Bro. J. S. Zigler will be our elder for another year. The church called Bro. B. J. M. Crouse as our minister. Bro. M. P. Snuffer was chosen delegate to the District Meeting and Annual Meeting. The church decided to call for the District Meeting for the coming year. A Sunday-school Institute will be held here June 28. The following Sunday, June 29, a meeting will be held at the Pleasant View church. We have had few meetings here during the past winter, on account of the epidemic, and we are very anxious to get the work started again. The writer was appointed "Messenger" agent and church correspondent.—Josie Snuffer Montgomery, Viscova, W. Va., May 13.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

LOVE FEASTS

California

June 22, 7 pm, Santee.

Canada

June 14, 7 pm, Pleasant Valley.

Idaho

June 7, Nezperce.
July 12, 8 pm, Winchester.

Illinois

June 1, 6:30 pm, Cherry Grove.
June 14, 15, Waddams Grove.
June 14, 15, 2:30 pm, West Branch.
June 22, Sterling.

Indiana

June 1, Bremen.
June 1, Walnut.
June 14, 7:30 pm, Clear Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Camp Creek.
June 14, 7 pm, Killbuck, Antioch house.
June 15, Huntington City.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

June 1, Beaver.
June 14, 15, 7 pm, Dallas Center.
June 14, 15, Spring Creek.
June 14, 15, Dry Creek.

Kansas

May 31, 6 pm, Navarre, Holland house.
May 31, 7 pm, Richland Center.
May 31, Belleville.
May 31, Quinter.
May 31, June 1, Abilene, at Holland house.
June 1, Kansas City, First church.
June 14, 10:30 am, Burr Oak.
June 14, Rock Creek.

Maryland

May 31, 2:30 pm, Beaver Dam.
June 7, Peach Blossom, at Fairview.
June 21, Bear Creek.

Michigan

June 1, 8 pm, Sugar Ridge.
June 14, Woodland.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Haven.
June 28, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 14, Worthington.
June 19, Monticello.
June 28, Lewistou.
June 28, 29, Hawcock.
June 28, Morrill.

Missouri

June 7, Bethany.
June 14, Peace Valley.

Montana

July 5, Poplar Valley.

Nebraska

May 31, 8 pm, South Beatrice.

Ohio

May 31, 7 pm, New Philadelphia.
May 31, 6 pm, Chippewa, at Beech Grove house.
May 31, 7 pm, Pleasant Hill.
June 1, 7 pm, Salem.
June 1, Reading.
June 14, 10 am, West Nimisbillen.
June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.
June 28, 10 am, Richland.
June 28, Canton Center (all-day meeting).

Oklahoma

May 31, Big Creek.

Pennsylvania

May 31, June 1, Lower Cumberland, Mohler house.
May 31, 4 pm, Spring Run, Pine Glen house.
May 31, June 1, 3 pm, Spring Creek, Spring Creek house, at Hershey.
June 1, Chess Creek.
June 1, Meyersdale.
June 1, Chambersburg.
June 1, Lancaster.
June 1, Harrisburg.
June 1, 6 pm, Rummel.
June 1, 6 pm, Smithfield.
June 1, 7:30 pm, Yellow Creek.
June 1, Middle Creek.
June 4, 5, West Greentree, at Greentree.
June 7, 8, 2 pm, Aughwick, at Germany Valley.
June 7, 2 pm, Mingo, at Mingo house.
June 8, Maple Glen.
June 11, 2 pm, Buffalo.
June 14, 2 pm, Licking Creek, at Pleasant Ridge house.
June 14, Farmers Grove.
June 14, Albright.
June 29, Sipesville.
June 29, Locust Grove.

South Dakota

July 5, Willow Creek.

Virginia

May 31, 5 pm, Unity, at Bethel house.
May 31, 4:30 pm, Barren Ridge.
June 1, Buena Vista.
June 14, Free Union.
June 22, 6 pm, Roanoke City.

West Virginia

June 7, 8, 2 pm, Berkley.
August 30, Maple Spring.

Notice to A. B. Graduates

Your A. M. Degree in Bible can be secured by doing one year's work in the Bible Department at McPherson College.

Just the thing for these preparing for the Mission Field and the Ministry.

Come to McPherson College to Complete Your Training.

Send for our latest catalog describing courses. Address

McPHERSON COLLEGE
McPherson, Kansas

(Watch this space two weeks from today.)

Do You Sing? Even if you don't sing you will appreciate a new song book---Kingdom Songs

KINGDOM SONGS NO. 2

Our newest and best Sunday-school song book is Kingdom Songs No. 2. It contains the best of the old and new favorites. The press work is unusually good; there are no hymns or songs in fine print. Either shaped or round notes may be had. Shaped notes sent if no preference is indicated.

Single copy, 35c postpaid; per 100, carriage extra, $25.00.

Leather Bindings

Many persons have ordered Kingdom Songs No. 2 in a leather binding with their name and address stamped on in gold. To all who wish a well-bound book for their personal use we are glad to say that either edition may be had in the following special bindings; Half leather, 85c per copy, postpaid; Stiff leather, $1.00 per copy, postpaid; Limp leather, $1.25 per copy, postpaid.

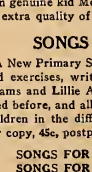
We can stamp your name or name and address in gold on any hymnal or song book for 20c per line. The charge for stamping name of church on hymnals is $1.00 for the first dozen and 50c for each additional dozen.

REVIVAL SONGS AND BEST HYMNS

In nearly every church extra books are needed for revival meetings. The songs in this book are numbered the same as those in Kingdom Songs No. 2, so they can be used together. 96 pages of the best revival songs tested in many campaigns. Bound in strong manila board. Price: Single copy, 15c, postpaid; 30 copies, $3.75, postpaid; 100 copies, carriage extra, $10.00.

THE BRETHREN HYMNAL

A book of 512 pages containing 742 of the best hymns. It is adapted for use in church, Sunday-school and sacred services.



Regular Edition: The regular edition for church use comes in the several bindings at the following prices: Half leather, single copy, 65c; per dozen, prepaid, $7.20; full leather, gilt edge, per copy (stiff back), $1.00.

Gift Edition: For gift purposes we have a special edition of the Hymnal in green, black, brown or maroon in full Morocco binding. Limp back, black kid lined, $1.50 per copy.

In genuine kid Morocco seal, limp, black kid lined, an extra quality of binding, in black only, $1.75.

SONGS FOR CHILDREN

A New Primary Song Book. A collection of songs and exercises, written and arranged by Carrie B. Adams and Lillie A. Faris. Many have never been used before, and all are adapted to the needs of the children in the different elementary grades. Price per copy, 45c, postpaid.

SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 1
SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS, No. 2

The best from the primary unions all over the country. It would take years for a worker to make collections like these. Price per copy, either No. 1 or No. 2, 30c, postpaid.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Illinois

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13 "Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4: 14.

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., June 7, 1919 No. 23

In This Number

Editorial,—

"Some Big Things Were Undertaken," 353
They Don't Walk Single File, ...353
A Personal Letter to the Folks at Home, ...353
Rights or Duties First,—Which? 353
The Vine Must Have Branches, ...353
The Quiet Hour, ...359
Among the Churches, ...360
Around the World, ...361

Contributors' Forum,—

The Bugle Call (Poem), ...354
The Elders and Deacons. By J. H. Moore, ...354
The New Gish Fund Books. By H. A. Brandt, ...354
General Conference the Only Means to Preserve General Church Unity. By L. W. Teeter, ...355
Things Primary and Secondary. By Floyd M. Irvin, ...355
The Sodom of France. By J. F. Miller, ...356
The Ceremony of Feet-washing in the Greek Church. By A. J. Culler, ...356
Redeemed People. By Ida M. Helm, ...357
The Forward Movement. By Ezra Flory, ...357

The Round Table,—

Be a Missionary. By Zach Neher, ...358
Parent Consecration. By U. J. Fike, ...358
"Look Out for the Bright." By Julia Graydon, ...358
How Kind! By Oma Korn, ...358
How to Be Approved by God. By Rebecca C. Foutz, ...358
A Word to College Students. By B. M. Flory, ...358

Home and Family,—

My Flowers (Poem). By I. H. Miller, ...362
How Uncle Si and Aunt Susan Passed It On. By Lula R. Tinkle, ...362

...EDITORIAL...

"Some Big Things Were Undertaken"

THAT is what my correspondent said in a recent letter. He was referring to a meeting of the executive board of a certain organization, at which some very important measures were considered and decided upon. If the organization is engaged in a good cause,—and it is, namely that of operating one of our church colleges, —why shouldn't it undertake big things?

"Despise not the day of small things" is excellent counsel, for people and institutions that despise little things are never likely to have a chance to do anything big. We happen to know that this counsel was faithfully followed in the case of the institution referred to above. So now it is able to lay larger plans.

Our church has not despised the day of small things, which is well. But we are thinking in larger figures now, which is also well. How are we to accomplish big things if we do not undertake them?

The work committed to the church by its Head is a big thing. The Kingdom of God is a big thing. The need of the world is a big thing. The time for undertaking big things is at hand.

They Don't Walk Single File

IT is interesting,—just as a matter of diversion from the strenuousness of constant toil,—to take a minute or two off to note the difficulty some people have in keeping faith and repentance in their proper order. What if somebody would practice one of them too soon? Anxieties on this point seem to have been increased by the fact that the International Sunday-school lessons recently treated both subjects and, it is feared, got the wrong one first!

Logically you must have some faith before you can repent. But you can never have much faith until you do repent. You can believe some things without repentance and you can be sorry for some things without faith, but there can be neither a true faith without repentance nor a true repentance without faith. Either one involves the other. They are not the same thing but they are so interdependent that anyone who tries to put either one of them far enough ahead of the other to see between them is likely to kill them both.

Faith and repentance are very dear friends. Don't try to separate them. Just let them walk together, arm in arm.

A Personal Letter to the Folks at Home

BY the time these words meet the reader's eye, the Becker Bicentennial will be on. The Conference of 1919 will be in progress. Some of the speeches will have been made. But many of them,—I am moving forward in my thought to the time when you read this,—are still to come. And the business sessions are yet to be held.

I am writing this to ask you what you are thinking of these days. Is tomorrow Pentecost or perhaps today? Where are your thoughts? You, I am supposing, stayed at home. You did not go to Winona Lake. That is, your feet did not, and your hands and eyes and ears. But your heart,—what did you do with that?

Am I right in assuming that the one all-absorbing concern of your life just now,—yesterday, today, and tomorrow,—is that the Conference this year may be a real, epoch-making event in the history of the church? And that you can find time for little else than praying to this end? For surely, you see, do you not, how big and wonderful the opportunities are which confront the church at this time?

You remember how it was a year ago when the Conference met at Hershey. How very critical the world situation was! With what anxious forebodings we watched the newspapers. And how we prayed that the war might end. And that the cruel designs of conscienceless, would-be world conquerors might be confounded. Indeed, it seemed to us then that if peace would only return to the earth again, our troubles would be ended.

Our prayers were answered, even more quickly than we hoped for. And our hearts were filled with praise. For this glorious fact we shall never cease to be grateful. But we already see how childishly foolish we were in our dreams of what the return of peace would mean. We thought everybody would be so happy and unselfish and everything in the world so harmonious that all care would be gone and we should have nothing to do but enjoy the heavenly Jerusalem come down to earth. But now, that the period of reconstruction is upon us, it seems as if the call to world service was never so insistent and so loud.

Can the Church of the Brethren ever be the same after this Conference? Will she, by reason of it, get such a vision of her mission and such a baptism of conviction and determination that she will seem to all of us like a new church? Not new in foundation principles or purpose but new in "demonstration of the Spirit and of power."

I am writing this to ask you whether you are praying earnestly that such may be the outcome. Don't you think there is room for it? Room, I mean, for a church so bent on justifying her existence, so bent on doing something these next years that it will actually make a difference, actually bring the Kingdom nearer? Will you pray that those who are yet to bring their messages to the Conference will do so with their souls on fire with such a purpose? And that those who hear may likewise be set on fire, the kind of fire that never can go out? So that, when they go back home, everybody in the home church will catch fire too? Everybody but you, of course, because you will already be on fire.

And in your praying you will not forget the business sessions, will you? Will you pray that the Spirit of God may have absolute control? That everything may be decided right? Especially that, in the discussion of ways and means, the central things may not be lost sight of in a multiplicity of detail? That things may be kept in the right proportion, with nothing lost but with first things always first? And that such a spirit of unity may seize the delegates as will bind the whole church together in a common purpose, making her absolutely proof against every divisive and weakening tendency?

And when you pray, you will not just say the words, will you? Do you know what it means to pray? Do you know it costs something to pray effectively? Do you realize that you must actually mean what you say? And that God is very quick at detecting any insincerity? And that even your neighbors can tell by the way you act, whether your prayers are likely to amount to anything?

Don't you want this to be a truly great Pentecostal Conference? One that will be pointed back to in the years to come as the Conference which gave the church a new start? A new start in usefulness to God in the establishment of his Kingdom among men? You can help to make it so.

Rights or Duties First,—Which?

WHAT do you think of the doctrine that "no man can have any duties till he is given all his rights"? Does that slogan suggest the true remedy for our social ills? Suppose we all adopt that motto! Each one, of course, being his own interpreter of his rights! Wouldn't we soon have a fine mix-up?

But every such distortion of the truth has some truth hanging around the edges. It is always well to look for that. So if anyone comes at you with that doctrine as an excuse for non-performance of his obligations to you, before beginning to argue the matter with him, you will do wisely to make sure that you are not responsible for the withholding of any of his rights. See that he has no just claims on you. That will put you in position to show him the absurdity of his contention.

For it is utterly absurd. It is bad policy and bad ethics. Refusing to recognize any duties to others until you have secured from others all your rights, is a poor way to get your rights. And it is directly contrary to the spirit of Christianity.

To be just, even when justice is denied you, is the Christian way. Your duty is your duty, whether others do their duty or not. It would be nearer the truth to say: "No man can have any rights till he has performed all his duties."

The Vine Must Have Branches

THE vine, it is true, can get along without the branch much better than the branch can get along without the vine. Cut off from the vine, the branch dies at once, while the vine can live on.

But to what purpose, if all the branches were cut off? The vine exists for the sake of its fruit and the fruit is borne on the branches. A branch without a vine is soon dead, but a vine without branches is useless.

A Christian who loses his contact with Christ will soon die. But if he thinks that is nobody's concern but his own, he errs greatly. His is the greater loss, to be sure, but Christ is also the loser. His mission is realized in the perfected fruit of Christian lives. When that fruitage fails, his mission fails proportionately.

Fellow-branches, we must abide in the Vine, for the Vine's sake as well as our own.

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

The Bugle Call

A bugle note is sounding from over plain and hill,
Is calling you, is calling me, to do our Captain's will.
Oh, there's a battle raging on every sea and land,
Our Captain is the Lord of hosts. Oh, hear his great command!

Obey his marching orders, the victory to win,
To fight the deadliest foes of all, of unbelief and sin.
He calls for heroes, brave and strong, to hear his battle-cry,
And we must fight to right the wrong and some must even die.

It may take much of sacrifice to leave our loved ones dear,
To give up all ambitions for a future great career;
Yet thousands made a sacrifice to heed our country's call.
Shall we, the Lord's own soldiers, do the very least of all?

A challenge comes for volunteers to heed his great command,
To carry his own banner bright to every foreign land;
And though there may be dangers and the way seem dark and drear,
Our mighty Leader guides us. Oh, who will volunteer?

The Elders and Deacons

BY J. H. MOORE

PAUL, in his letter to the church at Philippi, has this greeting, as we find it in the Authorized Version: "Paul and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons." In the Revised Version the rendering is slightly different: "Paul and Timothy, servants of Christ Jesus, to all the saints in Christ Jesus that are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons." Those having a copy of the Revised Version will observe that the marginal rendering for bishops is "overseers." In fact, in every instance where the word bishop occurs, "overseers" will be found in the margin, showing that, in the judgment of the revisers, overseer is the more exact rendering. It is interesting to note the Syriac rendering of this verse: "Paul and Timothy, servants of Jesus the Messiah, to all the saints that are in Jesus, the Messiah, at Philippi, with the elders and deacons."

The translation in which the Greek was rendered into the Syriac language, was made not far from A. D. 250, and upon the part of the translator the term bishop was studiously avoided, being employed only once in the entire New Testament, and then in Acts 20: 28. In a measure, this may be said of John, the last of the New Testament writers to make use of the inspired pen. Though he refers to those in charge of the Master's work, time and again, he never has any use for the official title bishop, but makes frequent use of elder and angel, even referring to himself as an elder. And if we can be excused for diverting at least slightly, we may add, that while the term bishop has been frequently employed, in a general way, in our Conference Minutes for 140 years, we can not recall an instance where it, as a title, has ever been attached to the name of a brother, definitely designated. In these Minutes we often read of "Elder So-and-so," but never of "Bishop So-and-so."

But to the subject in hand. Paul names two sets of officers in addressing the saints at Philippi,—bishops, or elders, and deacons. In the New Testament, elder and bishop mean one and the same official. It is simply two names for the one officer, the former Jewish usage and the latter Greek or Gentile. In the first century church there was no church official known as elder, and a still higher one known as bishop. This distinction, as a corruption or innovation, came into existence in later centuries, but was unknown to the churches planted by the apostles.

So we have left for consideration two sets of officers for the apostolic churches,—bishops or elders, and deacons. What is said elsewhere in the epistolary writings about pastors, evangelists, teachers, shepherds, etc., is fully covered by these two sets of officials. Since Peter and John, though both apostles, refer to themselves as elders, while Paul has much to say about elders and their work, we will in this article refer to the official board of a well-organized apostolic church as elders and deacons.

For each cougregation there was a plurality of elders as well as a plurality of deacons. This is made clear by Paul's greeting to the saints composing the congregation at Philippi. We learn, from Acts 20: 17, that there were several elders at Ephesus, and in delivering his charge to the elders of this church, Paul addressed all of them. Titus (1: 5) was instructed to ordain, not one elder but "elders in every city." Here we have the plurality of elders for each church too clearly stated to be misunderstood. So far as we can understand the New Testament, this was the apostolic plan. Men of the required qualifications were selected, ordained and placed in charge of the churches. Each group of elders, for any city or congregation, may have had a foreman, or leader, but in looking after the flock, over which the Holy Ghost made them overseers, they all took part. They counseled and worked together. How they divided up their work we are not told, but being of one mind and influenced by the same Spirit, they found it an easy matter to make themselves helpful to each other.

As assistants in their work they had deacons, who doubtless performed their duties as officials under the direction of the elders. Just how much they did may not be especially clear, but they were of sufficient importance in looking after the affairs of the church to make it advisable for Paul to associate them with the elders when writing the saints. We may not go far wrong in saying that to the deacons was assigned the temporal side of the work, pertaining to the congregations they served. And even into this entered a large, spiritual element, hence the importance of the spiritual qualifications laid down for them and their wives. As workers and examples in doctrine and manner of life, they were the wheel-horses of the congregation. They held things steady and gave solidity to the church as a body.

With the counsel, influence and help of the deacons the elders were the rulers, shepherds, pastors and spiritual fathers of the flock. They fed the flock, instructed, encouraged, edified, and even rebuked, when it became necessary. By studying to prepare themselves for their work, taking the oversight of the church and exercising in their office in a discreet manner, they naturally became the pillars of the church or body of members entrusted to them. The members, young and old, learned to love, respect and look up to them. We might well say that among all the saints they were held in high regard and that on every hand their work was appreciated.

In association with the deacons and the church as a body, the duly chosen elders had a degree of authority that the faithful ones were not negligent in exercising. Among other things they were to rule well, firmly and fairly. Under no circumstances were they to lord it over God's heritage, nor were they to be lax in performing their full duty. They were not only to feed the flock, but they were to teach the members their duty and see to it that they lived up to these duties in their lives. One has only carefully to read what was said to the elders or angels of the Seven Churches of Asia, to understand what was required of the overseers of congregations. It was not a mere matter of holding the office, but they were made to feel the importance of earnestly performing the duties for which the office called. We are probably safe in saying that when elders of the apostolic time taught members that their adorning should not be the wearing of gold, they did not fail to apply the necessary discipline when their instructions were willfully ignored. In short, the elders of divine appointment ruled loyally, firmly, wisely and lovingly. They took the oversight of churches not for money and honor, but because they felt that it was their duty, as servants of God, to look after the part of the work entrusted to them.

And what we need today is the same conviction upon the part of those entrusted with the care of the flock of God. They need to be men who understand their work, men of faith, and men who are willing faithfully to perform their duty in full. In the time of the apostles much depended upon the elders and deacons, and the same is true in this age of the world. With properly-trained and fully-indoctrinated elders and deacons,—men full of the Holy Ghost,—no popular evil, no innovation and no false leaders ueed be greatly feared. Given a faithful and an efficient body of church officials, standing together, the church will be held steady under the most trying circumstances, souls will be saved and God's cause honored. Talk about training men for efficiency! There is no department of church interest where thorough training and preparation will produce better results than right in the official body. Give the churches of the Brotherhood a good set of efficient, loyal, prudent and sympathetic elders and deacons,—men who have the faith to accept the teachings of the New Testament, as understood by the Brethren, and nerve to perform their duties in full, and it will take more than an occasional unfaithful pastor to poison any considerable number of the household of faith. Looking at the subject in the light of what we are saying, it must be evident that we are not making enough of the elders and deacons of the modern congregation.

Sebring, Fla.

The New Gish Fund Books

BY H. A. BRANDT
Secretary of the Gish Fund Committee

AT the recent meeting of the Gish Fund Committee six books were added to the list and five were discontinued. The new books on the list are as follows:

77. Things to Live For.—J. R. Miller. This little book is by one of the best known devotional writers. It puts needed emphasis on striving for the things that are really worth while. The retail price of the book is $1.

78. The Character of Jesus.—Charles E. Jefferson. A volume containing twenty-six studies of the characteristics of Jesus Christ that were prepared for a congregation containing a large number of young men. The hearty reception given these studies indicates at once both the nature and the value of this book. Do not confuse this book with a little volume with the same title by Horace Bushnell. Retail price, $2.

79. Pedagogy for Ministers.—Alvah Sabin Hobart. The author insists that the work of the minister is as much teaching as it is preaching. In this he goes back to the example of the Lord Christ, who, in his relations with men, was more at home in teaching than in preaching. This little volume is a new book in a new field. Retail price, $1.

80. The Call of a World Task.—J. Lovell Murray. "The Call of a World Task" has been widely and effectively used at student conferences and on ministers' reading courses. As the title indicates, the book calls attention to the work and opportunity of the church on a scale commensurate with our present knowledge of the world's need. Retail price, 60 cents.

81. Quiet Talks With World Winners.—S. D. Gordon. By some this volume is considered the best of the well-known "Quiet Talks Series." In any case it is a book that is well worth making one's own. Retail price, $1.

82. The Training of the Twelve.—A. B. Bruce. "The Training of the Twelve" is a truly remarkable book. It is primarily a study of Christ's material and methods, while training the twelve disciples. But ministers who read the book will find in addition that it contains a wealth of suggestive material for sermons. It is the largest and most scholarly book on the list of books added this year. Retail price, $2.

It may be interesting to note that the six books put on the list this year have a total value of $7.60. Some fortunate purchases before increases in price took place, makes it possible for the Gish Fund to put these books on the list at a cost to ministers of only $1.80 for the six books. This fact is not mentioned to encourage ministers to send for the books because they represent a bargain, for the Gish Fund is now handling all of the books that its income will permit; and therefore the committee feels that ministers who send for the books should feel under obligation to make the best use possible of them. But the figures given above do show how much the James R. Gish Fund is really doing for our ministers, if they will but make the most of the opportunity. The fact that the Gish Fund has practically reached the limit of its power to distribute books, unless its income is increased, is of importance, in connection with the Forward Movement of the Church. The Gish Fund represents a worthy cause that ought to be remembered along with other valued undertakings now before the church. The Gish Fund can not join in the Forward Movement unless those who have funds come to the rescue.

The list of books now on the list and available to ministers of the Church of the Brethren are as follows:

2. Doctrine of Brethren Defended, ... 20c
5. Seven Churches of Asia, ... 20c
11. Bible Dictionary, ... 25c
15. Eternal Verities, ... 20c
19. Modern Secret Societies, ... 15c
20. Alone With God, ... 15c
23. Cruden's Concordance, ... 30c
26. Bible Atlas, ... 60c
31. The Twelve Apostles, ... 15c
32. Edersheim's Life of Jesus, ... 75c
33. The Sick, the Dying and the Dead, ... 10c
36. Universalism Against Itself, ... 20c
37. Problems of Pulpit and Platform, ... 15c
39. Bible Readings and Bible Studies, ... 10c
43. Blaikie's Bible History, ... 30c
55. Preparation and Delivery of Sermons, ... 35c
56. A Man and His Money, ... 25c
64. Life of St. Paul, ... 15c
67. The Boy Problem in the Home, ... 25c
68. Archæology and the Bible, ... 75c
70. Schaff's History, Vol. V, Part II, ... 90c
71. Manhood of the Master, ... 15c
72. The Christ We Forget, ... 30c
73. Gospel for a World of Sin, ... 30c
74. Little Talks to Little People, ... 30c
75. The Minister as Shepherd, ... 25c
76. When Home Is Heaven, ... 25c
77. Things to Live For, ... 25c
78. The Character of Jesus, ... 50c
79. Pedagogy for Ministers, ... 25c
80. The Call of a World Task, ... 15c
81. Quiet Talks With World Winners, ... 25c
82. The Training of the Twelve, ... 40c

Elgin, Ill.

General Conference the Only Means to Preserve General Church-Unity

BY L. W. TEETER

In the Church of the Brethren, the New Testament of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ is held as its organic Law. By each of its individual members it is also held as his "Perfect Law of Liberty." In the former sense, every New Testament principle is a constituent part of the essence of the church-body as a whole. In the latter sense, every New Testament principle centers itself in the heart of every truly converted soul, and abides there as an ever-present stimulus to move him out into every righteous activity, and as an ever-present monitor against all unrighteousness. Thus we can see that all truly converted souls are essentially alike, and that each individual convert has within himself the same Divine Essence that the whole church-body has within itself. The origin of this Divine Essence is in God the Father. It was transmitted to men by God the Father, through his Son, Jesus Christ. The Son established that Divine Essence on this earth among men in the organization of his church, and committed his Gospel to his apostles by the Holy Spirit who, in turn, would commit it to other faithful men, to keep them in the unity of the Eternal Godhead forever (John 17: 20, 21).

On this point Jesus says: "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word: That they all may be one; as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one: I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me."

Reader, will you take the time to think very carefully over what Jesus prayed for here? Let me help you to think: (1) His prayer includes even us, if we believe on him through the word of the apostles, which he gave to them. We may be one in him and the Father, and our oneness in him and the Father may be a testimony to the world in our day, that the Father hath sent the Son into the world. (2) He has not only prayed that we may be one with him and the Father, but that we "may be made perfect in" that oneness, that the world may not only "believe" but "know" that the Father hath sent the Son into the world, and that the Father loves us now, as he loves the Son. Now, in the light of this prayer of our Great High Priest, how very important it is that we utilize every lawful means to hold intact that intense ONENESS, so completely prayed for, and which he so soon after sealed with his precious blood!

This oneness with the Father and the Son truly exists in the heart of every truly converted member of the church of Christ. Paul, writing to the Ephesians, states clearly the attitude and graces that each one should cultivate among his fellows, and the relation he sustains to the church as a whole and to the Godhead, as follows: "I . . . beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love, endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and in you all" (Eph. 4: 1-6).

In accordance with the foregoing statement of primary principles as the Divine basis, our General Conference has been formed, taking the Apostolic General Conference of Acts 15 as its precedent.

Now, supposing that in the Church of the Brethren there are 1,000 organizations. Each organization is supposed to be founded upon New Testament principles, and all of its activities are to be governed thereby. It, then, logically follows, that each such organization is authorized, and expected to be, a part of General Conference of the 1,000 churches. The territory, occupied by the 1,000 churches, is, for convenience, divided into State District Conferences. Each church is accorded the right to represent at its District Conference, so the several District Conferences are composed of the delegates from its several churches. Each District Conference is accorded the right to represent on Standing Committee at General Conference. Then, again, each of the 1,000 individual churches is accorded the right to represent at the General Conference, where the delegates from the State District Conferences, together with the Delegates from the several churches, become the voting power of it. Then, again, any member of any church has the right to take part in the discussion of any question, in his home church, in his District Conference, or in the General Conference, and so utilize all the power that he can command, to influence the voting body to make the decision of any question his way.

The Formation of Answers to Questions at General Conference

In 1883 the following was adopted: "All queries sent to Annual Meeting for decision shall in all cases be decided according to the Scriptures, where there is any direct 'thus saith the Lord' applying to the question, and all questions to which there is no express scripture applying, shall be decided according to the spirit and meaning of the Scriptures, and that decision shall be the rule of all the churches for such cases as the decisions cover, and all members who will hinder or oppose such decision shall be held as not hearing the church, and shall be dealt with accordingly. The decision shall not be so construed as to prevent the Annual Meeting from giving advice when it deems it proper to do so, and that given as advice shall be so entered upon the minutes."

Now, in conclusion, I will say that all decisions, made in this manner, must be regarded by all the churches as Scriptural, and as strictly binding upon every member of the 1,000 churches and especially so because all members helped to make them, or had the opportunity to help. Each one had the opportunity, at least three times, to have decisions go his way. If, after spending all of his efforts to have decisions go his way, he fails, he can still be loyal to the General Conference by submitting to its decisions. But, if any individual member or church will not submit, and will deliberately disregard General Conference decisions, the member or the congregation will be guilty of insubordination,—incurring liability to be dealt with accordingly.

Again, all General Conference decisions having been made by all the churches participating in their making, become at once the property of the General Brotherhood, hence, any violation of them by any member or congregation is a very grave offense against all the rest of the church, because such violation attempts to destroy that which is the rule,—the property of all the churches. If I were to do so, I surely would feel that I would deserve the severe condemnation uttered by Jesus: "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea" (Matt. 18: 6).

Hagerstown, Ind.

Things Primary and Secondary

BY FLOYD M. IRVIN

The above caption was the subject of the closing address of the first African missionary, accorded the honor of presiding over a Scottish General Assembly. Dr. James Stewart was a man "great in heart and mind." His great life was poured out for Christ in such a wise and devoted manner and with such telling results that few names in the list of missionary heroes can compare with his. He talked little but did much. As is said in a Minute of the Kafarian Synod: "He came to be regarded by statesmen and missionaries, as well as by the native people, as the chief representative of the mission cause in South Africa." The man behind the message made his words weighty. A part of his closing address to the Synod, twenty years ago, is very appropriate and worth considering by the Church of the Brethren today, when, if ever, in the history of the world, Christianity should and is moving forward with a united and mighty bound. It is as follows:

"My appeal and earnest request is: 'We hang the trumpet in the hall, and study war no more.' In unity there is strength. Why not apply this principle also to our service in the church? We are like men in a mist; or like sections of an army in the darkness, mistaking each other, and attacking each other because we have not the same regimental facings on our coats, or have a slightly different regimental flag.

"Amongst the causes which keep churches apart, it is possible or probable, I think, that mistakes have been made by exalting, to the rank of primary duties, and raising to corresponding primary places in belief, CERTAIN THINGS,—call them ideas, views, opinions, or deductions from Scripture,—ABOUT WHICH JESUS CHRIST SAID NOTHING. These ideas may concern church government,—that perpetual bone of contention,—church ceremonial, or even doctrine itself, or the special duties of individuals. It is possible also,—seeing the width and general freedom of Scripture statement,—that some of these views may have evolved from the church's inner consciousness rather than from another and safer source. It is not that such things or ideas themselves are wrong or unimportant, but that they are put in wrong places, and are exalted to positions which they do not deserve, and which belong to something very much higher and greater,—and that is the true spirit of Christianity itself, and the practice and exhibition of that charity which we are solemnly assured will live, long after these things have vanished away.

"In our estimation of the value of these things, and in our decisions as to what shall be regarded as primary and what as secondary in the church's testimony and activity, it is possible that our judgments, and the judgments of those who have gone before us, may also have been affected by the inevitable narrowness and weakness which clings to the human mind. It is possible, nay, it is historical, as it is the saddest chapter in the history of religion, that at times even human bitterness and the feelings and jealousy of sect or church have played their parts. These feelings may come to us in the guise of angels of light, though they are not that at all, but angels of darkness, and they may have told us this lie, that by the intensity, zeal, and perhaps even bitterness, with which we fight for these secondary things, we are making ourselves more really the defenders of Christ's truth. These false counselors did NOT tell us that some of these things were the secondary laws of Christ's church and kingdom; and that, THE MORE TIME is spent on lifting them up to the rank of first importance, THE LESS TIME AND STRENGTH the church has for its primary duty,—the care and conversion of souls at home, and the spread of the knowledge of Christ among the millions of men abroad, who hardly know they have souls at all; to whom LIFE is great darkness and a great perplexity, and DEATH a still deeper darkness and a more baffling mystery. These false angels did NOT tell us that whole centuries of the church's existence have been spent in dealing with such controversies, and that the energies of some of the strongest minds and most loving hearts with which God has blessed the church have been consumed in this, I will not say internecine, but inter-ecclesiastical war, with the result of leaving the hostile camps more hostile than before. Our one Teacher, Master, and Commander, is Jesus Christ, and that to which he mainly directs our attention should be by us mainly attended to, and yet we have learned some of his lessons and attended to his commands so badly.

"In this connection, and as an illustration, I wish to quote a single sentence, bearing on this great question, of what is primary and what is secondary in a church's life. They were spoken to a church society in reference to the present controversy, agitating the whole of the great historical Church of England. The sentence is this: 'Is it possible to conceive of Jesus Christ being deeply occupied with questions of the ceremonial use of incense, or of lights on the altar, or of the wearing of copes, albs, and vestments, or of any other question of an ornamental rubric?'

"We shall all agree, I think, that such a conception is absolutely impossible. Jesus Christ, we know, was deeply occupied with entirely different things,—with human hearts and human sin, and with the sorrows of those hearts because of that sin, and mainly he tried to help those sore, overburdened hearts to a better state. What Christ did is the primary work of his church,—to which all the strength and time and energy of every minister of his and every member of his church should be mainly devoted while life's short day lasts. That a question of this kind should be at this hour convulsing the greatest and most powerful church of the Reformation, only shows how far the attention of a church may be distracted and its energies wasted on things of secondary importance. The blame lies entirely with those who insist on making these things of primary importance. But these things have no more to do with the real work and primary duty of any church than the coat I have now the honor to wear, and the triangular hat I wear when I go outside, have to do with my personal Christianity. These externals and secondaries may be useful, and are all right in their own places as the accidents or ornaments of work or office; they are all wrong when they take the place of things essential and indispensable to a church's life and efficiency.

"If you ask why I have so occupied your time I will answer thus: Let nothing but what is of primary importance keep this, or any other church apart from other portions of Christ's church which are willing to work along with us. And, second, let us be perfectly sure that what we class as of primary importance is really so. There is so much to do of the real primary kind,—the care and conversion of souls at home, the finding of souls without number abroad!"

Chicago, Ill.

The Sodom of France

BY J. E. MILLER

IN olden times Sodom grew so wicked that it was destroyed from the face of the earth. God does not settle all his accounts in one day. Some wicked cities have long escaped the destruction to which they have been hastening with all their might. But the day of reckoning will come, and their accounts will be settled.

Marseilles is famous because of its great harbor. We approached the city by rail, coming from Paris through Lyons. It was a night-run up to eleven in the morning. We had the delightful (?) experience of riding all night in a day coach. Fortunately we had reserved seats and went first-class, which made the annoyances a little less annoying than they would otherwise have been. Most of our party managed to sleep some, though few rested much.

We had purchased tickets for breakfast on the train. The ticket, as well as the bill of fare, was printed in French. The breakfast we had purchased was the French continental breakfast, but we had not noticed it at the time. We took what they brought us. Now our regular breakfast should have consisted of a cup of tea, coffee, or chocolate and a roll. To our surprise they also brought us a homeopathic allowance of meat. Naturally we took it. Our breakfast was to cost us two and a fourth francs. We presented our tickets in payment, only to find that they would not satisfy our waiters. We were asked to pay each two and a half francs more because we had eaten meat! Of course there was nothing to do but to pay it. That was paying forty-seven cents for a very little bit of meat, but at the same time we learned to look out for the future and so charged it to profit and loss.

Before the war Marseilles had a population of about 600,000. Now the population is about a million. The United States has four military camps here. Some of us went out to Camp Covington, where we found 6,000 men, all eager to return to America. Some had already been in waiting for a whole month. Later we saw one boat leave for the States with a thousand boys bound for home.

Off in the distance is a German prison camp. We saw some of these prisoners at work, loading our ship. Each prisoner wore the mark "33" on the back of his coat. Two men stood guard over them. The prisoners were fine-looking fellows, well fed, well clothed, and were happy in their work.

All nationalities meet in Marseilles. The war has made this port a great place for embarking and disembarking. The city has its fine, clean quarters, with wide streets and all modern appearances. It also has its older sections, with narrow and filthy streets, where the inhabitants have little to look forward to. A stroll through the older sections is full of interest. One should not make this trip too near his meal-time, as it will cause unpleasant thoughts to arise in his mind.

Saloons abound everywhere. It seems that all the people drink and smoke. To this neither women, girls nor little boys are an exception. So many people are seen with sores on their faces. Filth and disease and sin are the triumvirate that hold absolute sway. There is no attempt to apologize for indecency and sin. The streets swarm with women, aged from twelve to fifty, who do not hesitate to accost any man whom they may chance to meet. In the tougher districts one must not go alone at night and he will do well to avoid such streets even in daytime. The residents do not value your life, your money or your character as something they are bound to respect.

Marseilles is an old city. The Phœnicians left their marks in this city and the Romans set up their monuments, remains of which may yet be seen. Its favorable location on the coast made it a target in commerce and in war. But one does not need to stay more than a day to see all that there is to see. In fact, it contains much in the way of modern life that one does not want to see. Select the very worst you can find in the worst part of the worst city of the States and you will have what is very common in Marseilles. Having said this much, it is not necessary to say more.

This old city is a living example of the truth that when an individual, a community, a city, a nation drives God out of its thought and life, morality ceases to be, and religion, as a vital force, ceases to exist.

I was told by one of the natives that women and girls in stores were paid a dollar a day. On the other hand, an officer on the "Canberra" said that the pay was only fifty francs, which is only nine dollars and fifty cents, a month. He also said that even then it was not poverty that has produced these frightful conditions, but the lack of a living religion.

While we were there, we witnessed a strike parade. The carpenters were asking for an increase in pay and for an eight hour day. A long line marched through the streets, but they were quite civil in their demonstrations. The next morning I read in the papers that the theaters dropped the curtains five minutes that evening out of sympathy with the striking carpenters. The spirit of unrest may be seen everywhere. It remains for nations and capital and labor to decide whether we shall pass through an evolution or a revolution. A willingness, to deal justly on all sides, alone can save us from a revolution. Personally, I believe that evolutions are to be preferred to revolutions because they disturb existing conditions more reasonably and cause the least loss to all. But if men will not listen to reason, revolutions must follow.

Our Government has spent large sums in building docks at Marseilles. These are well built and will stand for years. I am told that for years there will be no occasion for expenditures for this purpose. Now, since the war is over, the docks will be abandoned by our Government and it is only reasonable that we will realize nothing further from them. They can not be moved and there is no law requiring the French to buy them. They were erected as a war necessity and with the close of the war, their end will have been served.

On the S. S. Canberra for Port Said.

The Ceremony of Feet-washing in the Greek Church

BY A. J. CULLER

IT is the experience of a lifetime to visit Jerusalem, the mother of our religion. But it is to be thrice blest to visit it during the Passion Week. It was our good fortune to arrive in Jerusalem on Wednesday, April 16, and to remain for the few momentous days of the events in the life and death of our Lord. On Wednesday evening we walked to the top of the Mount of Olives. The moon was full, shining in all its splendor, bathing the eternal city in a golden sheen of light. From the top we could see the Dead Sea, nearly twenty miles away and almost four thousand feet beneath us like a shimmering silver sheet in the clear night air. Jerusalem lay below us, sharply outlined but dimly discernible as to details. We went into raptures and I suppose I shall declare, as long as I live, that it was the most inspiring sight of my lifetime. We walked about on the top for an hour or more, looked toward Bethany and followed the paths, somewhere near where our Lord often walked from the quiet retreat to the surging city.

On Thursday morning we witnessed the feet-washing ceremony which represents the entire Greek Catholic Church. It was held in the courtyard of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, which, according to their tradition, represents the place of the last scenes in the life of Christ. We arrived before 7 o'clock and found that already the roofs of all surrounding buildings, the belfry of the church, all possible grottoes and places to sit in sight, and much of the best standing room had been taken. We, however, managed to get rather close, on some steps, so as to get a fairly good view. We had been there about half an hour when the servant of the American Consul, Dr. O. W.

Glazebrook, came, inviting us to come to his private room. As there were only six of us in the party, we did so and were ushered into a nicely-furnished room, with a balcony window immediately overlooking the scene of the ceremony. The American Consul is a well-educated and most charming man. During the war he had charge of all the interests in Jerusalem, rationed out all food, and took care of the many delicate religious situations in this "very religious" city. He gave us a most illuminating talk on war conditions in Jerusalem.

The crowd in the courtyard below was a most interesting one to study. It flashed with the most variegated coloring I have ever seen. It seemed as if the different types of dress were innumerable, and each of them represented some fact of religion, race or tribe. Moslems and Jews, Armenians and Copts, Greek and Roman Catholic, Druses, Beduins, Persians, Egyptians, Turks, Arabs, Hindus, peoples "from every nation under heaven," each speaking in his own tongue, even as it was in Jerusalem on Pentecost. It was a good-natured group, somewhat noisy, though but little so, for an Oriental crowd, and showing great reverence and respect.

The feet-washing took place on a platform with the Patriarch's throne chair placed on an elevation and seats for twelve,—six on each side of the platform. At the corners were candles burning and in the center of the side, above the steps, was a huge cross. The ceremony began at about 8:30 with reading by a priest from a pulpit on the side of a building near by. The procession marched from the church through a file of soldiers to the platform. In the procession marched a priest with a candle, another with a beautiful gold cross, choir boys in white and purple, four bishops with the Patriarch and the twelve oldest priests of the community, whose feet were to be washed. After they had taken their places, there was a long service of chanting, reading and antiphonal singing, preceding the ceremony itself.

The Patriarch of Jerusalem, who, of course, represented Christ, was the dominating figure of the situation. He is a noble-looking old man, with silvery white hair and beard, and his face has the tender touch of sainthood. He is large of body, has the bearing of a king, and impresses one with a quiet dignity. He wore a most brilliant crown, richly bejeweled, had his golden scepter and a most richly gold-decorated robe and cope. The twelve apostles wore rich, red robes, finely inwoven with gold and the usual black cap and flowing veil of the Greek priests. The four bishops, who attended and assisted the patriarch, wore yellow robes with silver inwoven. The laver and pitcher, also most highly ornamented, were quite large.

When the ritual was through, the Patriarch stepped to the middle of the platform, between the two rows of apostles, and gave up his scepter and crown. The four bishops then removed his beads, Patriarchal cross, cope and robe, and then, clad mostly in white, they tied a large silk towel about him. The bishops poured the water from the large golden pitcher into the beautiful laver. He then proceeded to wash the feet of the twelve, kneeling in front of them as he did so. I think this was simply to be in an easy posture for a large and aged man. He quickly wiped their feet, not with the silk towel with which he was girded, but with another which he threw over his shoulders.

After the washing of the feet, the Patriarch went from the platform to the stone pavement, and there knelt and uttered a prayer. He then returned to the platform and assumed the symbols of his dignity and authority. When he had ascended to his chair, the reader came down from his pulpit, on the side of the wall, and brought the gold-decorated service book to the Patriarch who kissed it. The Patriarch read some scripture and there was some more singing. At this point the private secretary of the Patriarch,—a priest who graduated from Oxford and who, I am told, is a most likable and cultured man,—ascended the pulpit and gave a short address in English on the significance of the ceremony. We could understand only a word now and then, owing to the hubbub of the crowd below. The Patriarch then waved the benediction, took his sceptre and a bouquet of flowers. The flowers were dipped into holy water and, as the procession descended from the platform and passed through the crowd, he smiled and sprinkled the people on each side. The procession did not go back into the church but to the Greek convent, in another part of the city. This is the celebration which each year on Thursday of Holy Week is performed by the Patriarch of the Sacred City in the interests of the millions of this faith who doubtless, this morning, turned their thoughts to this spot.

Jerusalem, Palestine.

Redeemed People

BY IOA M. HELM

"And it shall be when Jehovah shall bring thee into the land of the Canaanite, . . . that thou shalt set apart [cause to pass over] unto Jehovah all that openeth the womb, and every firstling which thou hast that cometh of a beast; the males shall be Jehovah's. . . . And all the first born of man among thy sons shalt thou redeem" (Ex. 13: 12, 13).

All Israel was holy unto Jehovah,—they were the covenant people,—but the firstborn, as representatives of the nation, were specially consecrated. The salvation of the firstborn of the Hebrews, when the firstborn of Egypt were slain, was not without price. Substitution or death was the inexorable rule.

Jehovah instructed the Israelites that when their sons should ask: "What is this?" they should explain that when they were in Egypt, in the house of bondage, Pharaoh was stiff-necked and hardened his heart against letting them go from Egypt. "Jehovah slew all the firstborn in the land. . . . Therefore I sacrifice to Jehovah all that openeth the womb, being males; but all the firstborn of my sons I redeem." Human sacrifices were forbidden, but the lives of the firstborn being forfeited, they were redeemed by the substitution of a lamb that died in their stead.

The sacrifice was to be the best,—a male of the first year without a spot or blemish. Israel might plainly see that the merciful God, who had come down to save them from the tyrant, was not saving them simply because they were descendants of Abraham, but was pointing out a way of salvation. The life of a creature must be given as a ransom.

The Old Testament doctrine of salvation by substitution is typical of the Great Antitype, Christ Jesus,—the Lamb that taketh away the sins of the whole world. Isaiah, in prophetic utterance, could say: "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him and with his stripes we are healed. . . . Jehovah hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. . . . As a lamb that is led to the slaughter, . . . so he opened not his mouth. . . . When thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin [trespass offering], he shall see of the travail of his soul and shall be satisfied."

Sin is a violation of God's rights and honor, and the life of Jesus Christ,—the Lamb without spot and blemish, the Lamb slain, as foreordained from the foundation of the world,—is the satisfaction paid for it to God's justice. "Without the shedding of blood, there is no remission of sins," and Jesus, the Son of God, voluntarily took on himself flesh and blood, that he might give his priceless life-blood that we might live and not die. "For the life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that maketh atonement by reason of the life" (Lev. 17: 11).

The life or soul of the flesh is in the blood, and the blood maketh atonement by reason of the soul life. 1 Cor. 5: 7 reads: "For our Passover also hath been sacrificed, even Christ." Realizing that the cost of our Passover Lamb was beyond reckoning value, Paul says: "Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God with your bodies and your spirits, which are God's."

While Jesus gave his life-blood a ransom to God's justice for our redemption, and took away our condemnation to punishment, he placed upon us a new obligation to obedience. Dummalow's Commentary beautifully paraphrases 1 Cor. 6: 20: "For ye were bought with a price; glorify God therefore in your body." "You must not argue that the existence of appetite proves the lawfulness of their gratification; you must take care that what is lawful is also wise, and the appetite does not make you its slave. Both food and the organ which digests it are perishable. But the body has an eternal element, and unchastity harms that eternal element, designed, as it is, for the service of Christ and participation in the resurrection. You know that your bodies have a part in the mystic union that exists between Christ and his people. How shameful it is, therefore, to violate this union by acts of immorality! . . . The Christian should be united to Christ in a spiritual union. The immoral union is destructive of the spiritual union. . . . Remember that you are not your own possession. You have been purchased by Christ, who has given his life for you. Therefore see that you honor him by consecrating your very bodies to his service."

Ashland, Ohio.

The Forward Movement

BY EZRA FLORY

The Forward Movement is not a new thing. Life is perpetually a forward movement. All the outstanding characters of the Bible were persons who moved forward. God was not pleased to have Moses stand still. A forward movement was ordered in the face of apparent impossibilities. After a year's stay at Mount Sinai, the march again proceeded toward the Land of Promise.

As the procession was about to move from Sinai, Moses invited his father-in-law to go with them, that the blessings in store might be shared with him. Moses' entreaty was: "Come thou with us and we will do thee good." A splendid motto! But the great man of the desert decided to remain in his own land and with his own kindred. He preferred the tangible to the intangible. He was not willing to leave his well-known paths for the alluring prospects of pooling good things to be turned over to his account without arduous effort.

Unwilling to leave his relative, Moses made another proposition: "Thou shalt be to us instead of eyes" and the blessings we receive shall be shared with you. What an appeal! "You can help us." The first appeal was, "We will help you." In these two proposals lie the fundamental principles of two different programs in the forward movement of Moses.

Which of these methods works best for you in winning souls, to follow and coöperate in the Lord's work? Have you tried them out? Think how many persons you have heard say: "I tried to do him good, but he will not accept the offer. He wills to be indifferent and I shall let him have his own way." Did it occur to you that the appeal to a soul to be your pathfinder is a stronger appeal than that of doing him good? The Master asked a sinner to give him a drink of water, and in that approach succeeded in bringing the Water of Life to a parching soul. The surface may be sandy and undesirable, but veins of value lie deep beneath. If these are tapped, abundant resources will enrich you and make the surface most promising.

A minister was recently asked to preach a sermon at Thanksgiving time. That evening he asked a lay member to assist him in the preparation of the sermon. The lay member declared he could not do it; that he was no preacher. But at last he gave one suggestion after another, until the sermon was ready. When the minister spoke, that lay member was for one time occupying the front seat in the church, attentive throughout the entire service. And when the services were concluded the lay member came to that minister, laid his hand upon his shoulder and remarked: "Say, Jake, that was the best sermon I ever heard you preach." What had happened? Henry had done something in preparing that sermon, and thus unconsciously he had prepared himself to receive its message. How can we, in our Forward Movement, enlist the inner activities of our constituency and neighbors? We need to reach more men, more Reuels. How shall we do it? The undertaking is a

(Continued on Page 364)

THE ROUND TABLE

Be a Missionary

BY ZACH NEHER

RIGHT where you are,—in the harvest field with the threshing crew, the section gang, whatever your work. Show the boys that through seven days in a week there is something to Christianity.

Are you discouraged because of your humble position? And do your efforts count for so little, because you can't go across the sea and be a great light? Perhaps you are just a kitchen servant. Keep your little light burning! Some one may be just outside, groping in the dark. They see your light,—your pure life,—and thus you may be the means of their safety.

Perhaps you are needed at home, to take care of an invalid mother. You can't even go to school. Be a missionary there and bring heaven near to earth for her. Don't say: "Sometime I will be a missionary." Now is your opportunity,—right where you are.

Possibly your husband is not a Christian. He needs a pleasant home and a true Christian woman to live with far more,—shall I say?—than strong sermons from the pulpit.

What really melts hard hearts, moulds sentiment and forms the destiny of nations, is a missionary spirit in mothers and homes. That creates a heaven on earth.

Reeds, Mo.

Parent Consecration

BY U. J. FIKE

I READ two articles in these columns on "Infant Consecration" which prompt me to head this article with a title that appeals to me as being far more important, and yet productive of the same results.

In the articles referred to, the term "infant" was used; therefore, I understand it to be used in its common designation. Such a service would, indeed, be beautiful and right, but it seems to me superfluous. Would it not resolve itself into a "parent consecration" meeting? The child would not understand the service; therefore it would be the parents receiving the instruction.

It may be urged that the child could not be told later that he was consecrated to the service of his Master. Truly so. But I am not so sure that such information carries much weight with it. Do I believe in "Infant Consecration"? Indeed I do. I agree with it in principle; but it is multiplying ceremonies to make a public, individual service of it. Care for the child is obligatory as well as to the church's best interest. The foundation of the future church is, of necessity, laid in the present rising generation. In the context of "Suffer little children to come unto me," I do not find evidence of "infant baptism" or "infant consecration." All three evangelists use it in connection with the story of the rich young ruler to illustrate the conditions of entering Christ's Kingdom.

Many of our congregations have a "Children's Day" once a month during the preaching hour. Such a service may be made very impressive, and one that will do the child great good. Better still, a short children's service may be given each Sunday by the pastor, prior to the regular sermon. At any rate, we must not neglect the child; but let us keep it out of the realm of formal ceremonies.

I am sure that the best way to consecrate the child is to consecrate the parent. Any amount of services will profit the child but little if the home is not properly conducted, or if the deportment of the parent is not in harmony with the teaching of Christ. Consecrate the parent and you consecrate the child.

Heredity is a great and fundamental law in nature; and so, I believe, it is in a spiritual sense. The offspring, we are told, does not inherit tuberculosis from the parent; but just the physical conditions that are favorable for this particular bacterium to thrive. Thus it is evident that the physical condition of the parent and the atmosphere in which the progeny is reared largely determine whether the latter will be tubercular. Even so spiritually. You show me a godly father and mother rearing a child in a godly atmosphere at home, and I shall venture to show you, in the child, a godly man. I mean, not "having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof"; but a genuine "godliness" that "is profitable unto all things." Does not each sermon, if heeded, make for a deeper consecration? It is a splendid idea, however, occasionally to have a parents' meeting to remind them of their duty toward their children. My appeal is for deeper spirituality and a more righteous daily life in us all; and I am sure God will abundantly bless.

Clarence, Iowa.

"Look Out for the Bright"

BY JULIA GRAYDON

IT stands on my desk,—just a plain square of ecru and brown cardboard, with a small country scene at the bottom. But it is the verse which catches my eye and that is why I keep it there.

It reads thus: "Look out for the bright, for the brightest side of things, and keep the face constantly turned to it."

A few Sundays ago, we had as our Sunday-school lesson subject, "God Our Heavenly Father," and one of the verses in that lesson was: "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof."

So, if we keep our eyes constantly toward the bright side, we will not see the "evil thereof."

The brightest side of things! Has not everything two sides? Even in the material world we find the bright side and the dull side. Turn over a leaf and notice the dullness of the under part.

Is there a disagreement between two persons? We hear others say: "There are two sides." And this we know to be true, for every question, every argument, has two sides.

However, the main point is: Look at the bright side and do not, for a moment, look away from it. Tell this to the people who are always looking at the dark side, the dull side and seeing the flaws and imperfections which make life so unhappy.

I leave them with you, these words which I see every day: "Look out for the bright, for the brightest side of things and keep the face constantly turned to it."

Harrisburg, Pa.

How Kind

BY OMA KARN

"'It isn't right to waste the light,'
Said Nurse,—and puffed it out!
'Now go to sleep, the stars will peep, no doubt.'"

* * *

"Geof's curly head went down in bed,
'How kind of God,' said he,
'To waste his light all through the night for me.'"

WHAT charming philosophy! What a pearl of truth from the mouth of a babe! Well might the hearts of men and of women be touched by the sweet, winsome gratefulness contained in the expression: "How kind of God." Yes, how very kind of God to lavish upon his children the care that he does. And how indifferent we are to any adequate regard for its abundant protection. Verily, it appears to be wasted, so often is the gift of it passed unnoticed by the favored recipient. It is so quietly and inconspicuously given that we accept it as a matter of course, as our natural right, with but small thought of gratitude for the Giver. It is in this passive acceptance that we lose sight of what the gift conveys. "In thy light shall we see light."

A keen appreciation of the care that is guarding and guiding our way means an open vision for the blessing that God wants us to have. Without this power of perception we are no more aware of what is within our reach than a blind man, passing at noonday through the Grand Canyon, can grasp the beauty and the wonder around him. Neglect,—not lack of sustenance,—is the cause of much of the impoverishment of spirit from which we are prone to suffer. Every grateful thought breathed forth from our heart ascends as sweet incense to the throne of heaven. Appreciation of his care means returns rich and rare,—heaven's choicest gifts, unlabeled, to be had for the asking.

"Ah! little lad, we, too, are glad
God is so wondrous kind.
His gifts are free, for you and me to find!"

Ashland, Ohio.

How to Be Approved by God

BY REBECCA C. FOUTZ

"Study to show thyself approved unto God, . . . rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Tim. 2: 15).

THIS is a plain and direct command. It is to be a matter of study and thought on our part as to whether we measure up to God's standard for us and are thus approved by him.

And how can we do this unless we know and understand his Word? And this we can only do by study and prayer under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, to aid us in "rightly dividing the word of truth." Then it should be our one and only aim so to live by the help and instruction he so freely gives us that his approval can be given.

Neither should we feel that so doing is either a burden or a hardship. It is reasonable to conclude that God, as our Father, is the object of our love and devotion. Now it is natural for us to want to please those whom we love here in the flesh. We try to do the things they wish us to do, so as to be approved by them. We do not want or like to hurt them by going contrary to their wishes. We should feel the same way towards our Heavenly Father.

But often it seems, from the lives and conduct of far too many professing Christians, that this command reads thus: "Study to show thyself approved unto man, lightly dividing the word of truth." For all too often much of God's Word is so lightly regarded, yes, even entirely passed over, and we do most things to please our fellow-man instead of God.

Now none of us can draw our garments about us and with a Pharisaical expression declare that we are never guilty of so doing, because we are all more or less influenced by those about us and do the things of which they would approve because we want to be well thought of and liked by them.

This is one of the great weaknesses of human nature. Israel was constantly falling prey to it and later generations have not changed or improved much.

We are always more influenced by the visible than the invisible, and since we can only see God by faith, but others in the flesh, we are much more prone to follow the latter.

But to know and rightly divide God's Word, then to have the courage and conviction to live by it, constantly trying to do only that of which God will approve, should be our highest aim and whole endeavor.

Waynesboro, Pa.

A Word to College Students

BY B. M. FLORY

During the recent turmoil the enrollment in some of our colleges was greatly decreased. It is gratifying to notice that during the school-year just closing the enrollment gradually increased until about the usual average has been reached. This shows that the temporary hindrances did not thwart the original purpose of securing an education. Such men will likely return with renewed determination to make the best use of their time and also be influential in helping younger students to realize that time is a wonderful gift. During school-days some may feel that there is an abundance of time. The days appear long and there is often a tendency to allow an hour or two to pass unimproved by any degree of advancement. The twenty-four hours of the day must be used today or never. Each day brings its golden opportunity.

It is during college days that many decisions are made. The selection of a definite vocation for life is generally made during these years. Each individual must stand at the forks of the road. This decision is almost invariably influenced by parents and very often wisely directed by a sympathetic professor in the small college, such as you are attending. Still the burden largely and properly falls upon the individual. This step should be taken carefully and prayerfully. God has a plan for each one. Consult him and get the facts first-hand in your individual case. Then use your time and talent in preparation for, and in doing, creditable work for him.

Since in China, just a few words to those who have decided to work in the foreign mission field, or who may so decide later.

1. The Lines of Work Now Available

In China the people are approached from three different angles,—medical, educational, and evangelistic. Though different lines of work, the three, taken as a unit, form a solid front and aim to lead the people to Christ and into a larger field of usefulness.

Medical.—In this useful field primary attention is given to administering to the needs of the body. Since the body is the dwelling in which the soul resides, medical attention opens a direct pathway to the inner man. In the mission field, as elsewhere, there is a great struggle for human existence. The mind is also rather primitive. Successful medical attention is looked upon as a direct administration of the gods. In fact, a doctor is sometimes worshiped as a god. The people endeavor to show the most sincere appreciation. The doctor is considered an angel of mercy, performing deeds of kindness. The individual thus attended will generally respond to the teaching of the Word. The work thus affords an opportunity for evangelistic efforts. A direct Christian influence is created. Many souls are by this means led to accept Christ. Not only this, but it also opens the door of many homes to the evangelistic missionary and his work. Since the Chinese live behind walls and closed doors, the evangelist, when first approaching a city or village, must be content with street preaching. Should it happen that some one of the villagers had been away to the hospital and received kind attention he will most likely step forward with an invitation to his home. He may also arrange a preaching point and call the people together. Therefore the work is seed-sowing, preparatory to the harvest. It may also be classed as sowing in the evening, as the majority of hospital patients are old—the body well worn. They thus enter the vineyard at the eleventh hour.

Educational.—This department is sowing seed in the early morning. It lays the foundation for manhood and develops an educated citizenship. Since the strength of any nation or people lies in its young men, this department is indispensable. Strong and dependable leaders do not spring up in a day,—they must be trained from boyhood. What is true in governmental departments is likewise true in the church. Old men may accept Christ and enter the church in all sincerity, but they soon pass beyond, and their work, at best, is only temporary. An indigenous church must be built from the foundation up, and develop within well-trained young men and women who, when they pass beyond, will have firmly established the Christian church. In China each of the mission boarding-schools is located in the center of a community of about 500,000 people. There are other communities, equally as large, awaiting the introduction of Christian schools. The missionary in charge of such a school, in connection with the out-station schools, has an unlimited opportunity of training a stable citizenship and developing consecrated and energetic Christian leaders. It is very likely that in the near future the mission school will be recognized by the natives as the leading educational factor in the community. At present the need is great, in China, for Christian education. The Government schools are non-Christian and are rapidly tending toward materialism. Students who graduate from such schools and such an influence will go to the West for higher training in vocational lines, and not seek Christian institutions or Christian influence. Upon returning to China they are really an obstacle to Christian forces. The remedy is easily foreseen, but requires money and energy, to be put into operation. The Christian school must be taken to the home community of the young men, to develop and direct their lives into the sphere of greatest usefulness.

Evangelistic.—The evangelist is a messenger of light on the mission field. His Bible under his arm, a smile upon his face, and a jolly "good morning" are three essential requisites. The department, properly organized and worked, is sowing and reaping from morning until evening. The evangelist must enter the door opened by the hospital, and cultivate the seed sown by the school. In this work there is no summer vacation. The pioneer missionary, in opening the cities and villages, must preach simple and first essentials, and be content with street and house-to-house preaching. Later the chapel is opened and finally the church is built and organized. At the same time a group of substantial native evangelists are being trained who will teach their own people. At this stage the work becomes more regular and the results more noticeable. It all takes years, and much patience and tenacity are required. The evangelists in China, at present, each have a field of several hundred thousand people assigned to them. There are still other such fields untouched. At present the evangelist's services are most urgent, since the Government is being reorganized, the social customs reformed, and the old religion set aside, especially by the younger classes.

In all of the departments, along with efficient skill, personality is the factor that counts for most. Personal work will reach the heart when all formal means have failed. The missionary must speak the language and be a good mixer, to do the best work. He must live and be one with the people. A study of the characteristics of the people, until they are understood, their point of view appreciated, and their confidence gained, are first essentials to administer to the needs of the soul.

2. The Preparation

Each volunteer should study the different departments of work thoroughly and make a selection. After so doing, preparation can be definitely and properly directed. The missionary, of all persons, should be well trained. Otherwise the Board's funds are misappropriated and the field remains unworked, to a large extent. A standard college course, as a foundational essential, should be looked upon as a reasonable requirement. If any part of the preparation must be postponed, let it be the advanced training. Some boards are already advocating a short first term of service upon the field, followed by the professional preparation at the time of the first furlough. In any case the foundation should be well laid. If for no other reason, our colleges should be properly endowed to give the best opportunity. The courses should be made thorough, and more strictly adhered to, for the special benefit of the missionary. Some enthusiastic men and women desire to finish their preparation quickly, in order to enter the field. They feel that they can not complete the college and a Bible course in addition, and some such are allowed to substitute a great amount of Bible for the ordinary college work. This is a mistaken view, and results in a weak structure. Better add an additional year and carry some Bible subjects along. The student who can not master the whole college curriculum is not the best candidate for the mission field.

The work of the medical missionary is definitely specified and nothing need be said, save that it be done in a first-grade school. The candidates should complete the college and the professional work, if possible, before coming out for the first term of service. In China, at present, the educational department is needing some M. A. and Ph. D. men to direct the work. But along with higher education, primary methods should be given close attention. In our own mission, up to the present, almost all of the work is primary and the larger part will likely be for some years to come. Those who desire to do the preaching, likewise should have their A. B. degree, and all the Biblical knowledge possible, in addition. Get a good foundation and then build upon it. Some one may ask: "Is it impossible for a missionary to make good, without adhering strictly to the above suggestions?" No. There are many good men and women on the field who were unable to complete their preparation, as above suggested, and are doing good work,—some of them excellent work. Still, any student knows, and we must all remember that there is a great difference between a passing mark and a grade of 98%.

3. Selection of Your Field

Careful attention should be given to this important point. Just as we, as individuals, are differently constituted, likewise the people of one nation differ in mental makeup and temperament from those of another. A ride across the ocean does not change the missionaries' likes and dislikes. He may discover that the thing which irritated him most at home is an inherent characteristic of the people among whom he is to labor. Adaptability must not be ignored. The most capable missionary in India may be obliged to take second or even third place in China, and vice versa. Schoolmates and relatives are a great factor in leading their fellows to the field. At the same time misfits may occur occasionally. Since the members of the Mission Board have not had extensive first-hand experience in the field, and are not personally acquainted with all of the applicants, and since most any of us can get a recommendation from our relatives and friends, the matter of locating the field for which one is best fitted is largely up to the volunteer. Here the Mission Study Class should serve a large purpose. It would be well and wise for each volunteer to select good books and make a careful study of the different fields to which he may be appointed, with the view of ascertaining the mental make-up of the people. At the same time, he should put himself to a severe test and learn just where his physical propensities would be least disturbed and his mental make-up fall in proper line, thus placing no more obstacles than necessary in his field of usefulness. The volunteer who applies for a certain field, as a result of thorough study to locate himself, should, if at all possible, be sent to the chosen field.

* * *

These lines have been written because of the deep realization of the burden resting upon the missionary's shoulders. The constituency at home gives freely and hopefully for his support, supporting all departments of work. Thousands of souls are passing by his door. Whether the funds are properly appropriated and most of all, whether souls are led to the light and love of Jesus, depends largely upon the worker's preparation, and his adaptability to the community and work to which he has been appointed. The preparation and the degree of fellowship with the Master make the inner man and, in connection with his adaptability to his people, create the influence which surrounds and influences his work.

Ping Ting Hsien Shansi, China.

Special efforts are being put forth, in some of our churches, to make the Sunday-school library a real factor of helpfulness for the entire congregation. Of course, the children are remembered with an ample selection of books adapted to their special requirements, but the needs of older readers are also cared for. Sunday-school teachers and ministers find volumes fully suited to their special lines of work. The great value of a library, carefully selected to meet the various needs of the congregation, is obvious to all wide-awake members. Any of our Sunday-schools or churches that feel the need of assistance in making the proper selection of books, as above outlined, are invited to address our Book Department.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

A Christian's Power

Acts 1: 8

For Week Beginning June 15, 1919

1. Introductory.—Power is one of the things for which an ambitious man strives. Rightly used, it is something well worth acquiring. A Christian's power runs out along other lines than those followed by one who lives merely for this world. The Kingdom of God is "righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." Three view-points of the Christian's power naturally suggest themselves,—the inward, the upward and the outward.

2. The Inward Look.—We find that there is an influence within us that is at war with the high and holy longings of the soul. We see sin there. We see the evil of our natures,—that our energies are, in some way, out of touch with the loftiness of which we are capable. Sometimes the most exalted visions may present themselves, and hopes may spring up, only to lose themselves in the mist and fog of our carnal nature. Too often "the good that we would, we do not, and the evil that we would not, that we do." Our real self, therefore, must be brought "in tune with the Infinite" to be an instrument of God's power.

3. The Upward Look.—It is, indeed, a most blessed realization that with absolute assurance we may see Jesus, who is the "author and finisher of our faith." By trust in his redeeming grace we can experience that "old things pass away and all things become new." When we become "new creatures in Christ Jesus," a new experience is ours. The vision changes, the horizon widens, and we begin to feel a new power stirring within us,—a power that is heaven-inspired. This is the power that worked so mightily in the apostles at Pentecost. It is the power of which Christ spoke when he said: "All authority [power] hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye therefore." Because he had power, they would have power. They would have his power, and therefore they could go boldly and make disciples of all nations.

4. The Outward Reach of This Power.—As an all-influencing manifestation, the Christian's power is without limit. It is world-wide,—"all the world." There is no colony, no principality, no dominion, no empire, no confederacy that can claim a monopoly of this power, or arrogate to itself the exclusive exercise of the Christian's influence. It is not hedged in by mountains or seas. It is not affected by either poverty or riches.

5. The Universality of This Power.—This wondrous power is the heritage of all those who believe in the Lord Jesus, and have placed themselves under his authority. It is the mightiest influence in the world today. It lays hold upon God, and places itself in alliance with his omnipotence. "Because I live, ye shall live also." We live by the exercise of the Divine Power working within us, and therefore we are made mighty to the pulling down of the strongholds of Satan, and the overthrow of systems of iniquity of every sort. But to realize the utmost benefit of this power, it should be cooperative. There should be an alliance of forces that will work in unison with God. If we would have victory over Satan and all his hosts, there must be a strong and united effort of all who are the Lord's followers. If the treasures of the church are freely given, the world's evangelization will be speedily accomplished, and God's name glorified.

6. Suggestive References.—The Source of power (Isa. 40: 29-31). Stephen's experience (Acts 6: 8). Paul's experience (2 Cor. 12: 9). When power is in control (2 Tim. 1: 7). How Christ's power may be with us (Matt. 28: 20). Jacob's experience (Gen. 32: 28). How the disciples received power (Acts 2: 2). "The exceeding greatness" of God's power "to us-ward who believe" (Eph. 1: 19).

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 8

Sunday-school Lesson, Obedience.—Gen. 12: 1-4; Matt. 7: 16-29; John 14: 21-24.

Christian Workers' Meeting, Our Great Bicentennial Commemoration.—Psa. 126: 3.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., in the Smith Fork church, Mo.

Bro. Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, in the Middlebury church, Ind.

Bro. C. H. Brown, of Lowell, Ark., in his home church, Springdale congregation.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Five were recently baptized in the Altoona church, Pa.

Three were recently baptized in the Beachdale church, Pa.

Two were recently baptized in the Pleasant Hill church, Ind.

Five were recently baptized in the Spring Creek church, Ind.

One was recently baptized in the Bellefontaine church, Ohio.

One has recently been baptized in the Cedar church, Iowa.

One was recently baptized in the First Church, Philadelphia.

Three were recently baptized in the Germantown church, Pa.

One was restored and three baptized in the Troutville church, Va.

Five have been baptized in Ahwa, India, since the beginning of the year.

One accepted Christ in the Haxtun church, Colo.,—Bro. E. G. Hoff, of Chicago, evangelist.

Six were baptized in the Fairview church, Ind.,—Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe, of Chicago, evangelist.

Four were baptized in the Parsons church, Kans.,—Bro. H. B. Mohler, of Sterling, Ill., evangelist.

One confessed Christ in the Greenwood church, Del.,—Bro. A. L. B. Martin, of Baltimore, evangelist.

Nine were baptized in the Viewmont church, Pa., Bro. P. J. Blough, of Johnstown, same State, evangelist.

Seven were baptized in the Rock Run church, Ind.,—Bro. Milo Geyer, of Milford, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Elk City church, Okla.,—Bro. Roy Wagoner, of East Enid, same State, evangelist.

Three were baptized in the Clear Creek church, Ind.,—Bro. B. D. Hirt, of Portland, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Garden City church, Kans.,—Bro. H. D. Michael, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

One was received into the Chippewa church, Ohio,—Bro. J. W. Fidler, of Brookville, same State, evangelist.

Eight were baptized in the Connellsville Mission, Pa.,—Bro. Irwin R. Pletcher, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Six accepted Christ in the Sangerville church, Va.,—Bro. J. W. Hess, of Bridgewater, same State, evangelist.

Seven were baptized in the Paradise Prairie church, Okla.,—Bro. H. E. Blough, of Wichita, Kans., evangelist.

Fourteen were baptized and three await the rite in the Mt. Joy church, Pa.,—Bro. A. J. Beeghley, of Somerset, same State, evangelist.

Four accepted Christ, two of whom have been baptized in the Peters Creek congregation, Va.,—Bro. H. C. Early, Penn Laird, same State, evangelist.

Five were baptized and one reclaimed at the Welty house, Antietam congregation, Pa.,—Bro. J. L. Myers, of Loganville, same State, evangelist.

Three were baptized and one restored at the Chickies house, Chickies congregation, Pa.,—Bro. W. G. Group, of York Springs, same State, evangelist.

Two were restored, two await baptism and six have been baptized in the Shank church, Back Creek congregation, Pa.,—Bro. D. K. Clapper, of Meyersdale, same State, evangelist.

Seventeen confessed Christ, sixteen of whom were baptized in the Norristown church, Pa., and one in the Greentree church,—Bro. M. J. Brougher, of Greensburg, same State, evangelist.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. Jonas Fike, of Eglon, W. Va., to begin June 14 in the Tear Coat church, same State.

Bro. Jesse Shull, of Chicago, to begin the latter part of June in the Yellow Creek church, Ill.

Bro. Ed Hoffman, of St. Joseph, Mo., to begin about July 13, in the Brantford church, N. Dak.

Bro. A. M. Dixon, of Parker Ford, Pa., to begin June 14 in the Dunnings Creek church, same State.

Bro. Edgar Diehm, of Royersford, Pa., to begin June 14 in the Montgomery church, same State.

Bro. D. R. Murray, of Manchester College, to begin Aug. 17 in the Cedar Lake congregation, Ind.

Bro. D. H. Walker, of Somerset, Pa., to begin June 15 in the Summit Mills congregation, same State.

Bro. L. I. Moss, of Portage, Ohio, to begin the last of October in the Black Swamp church, same State.

Bro. Geo. Deardorff, of Marion, Ohio, to begin some time in September in the Sand Ridge church, same State.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. J. G. Harris, formerly residing at Murdock, Kans., should be addressed at Amoret, Mo.

Bro. J. Harman Stover has moved from 2045 Harvey Avenue to 2330 White Avenue, Fresno, Calif.

Bro. J. R. Smith, of Juniata, Nebr., changes his address to Lincoln, same State, having recently accepted a call to serve the church at that place.

A cablegram, received by the Mission Board on Monday of last week, sent from Gibraltar by Bro. J. M. Blough, stated that he expected to land at Boston, June 1.

Interpretation of the Forward Movement

An interpretation of the Forward Movement, along Missionary, Sunday-school and Educational lines, will be given in the three addresses that come Monday morning, June 9. These important addresses will be included in the "Full Report of Annual Meeting." This feature alone is worth the price of the Report, 35 cents.

There are yet other reasons why every one should get the "Full Report" this year. The Missionary Meeting, scheduled for Monday afternoon, June 9, promises to be an unusual service. A report of this meeting will appear in the "Full Report." In the evening of the same day the publishing interests of the church will be discussed by Bro. F. F. Holsopple and R. E. Arnold, General Manager of the Brethren Publishing House.

As usual, the "Full Report" will contain the detailed record of the business sessions, reports of boards and committees, a list of the delegates, etc. There are many reasons why every one should have the "Full Report" this year. It costs only 35 cents postpaid. Order now from the Brethren Publishing House, Elgin, Ill.

Bro. A. C. Daggett, of Covert, Kans., and Bro. A. L. Gorham, wife and daughter, of Payette, Idaho, visited the Publishing House last Monday as they were on the way to the Conference.

Bro. Charles Oren Garner, of Union Bridge, Md., who has been making special preparation for the work, is open to evangelistic engagements from the middle of July to the middle of September of the present year.

Bro. A. O. Brubaker, pastor of the Raisin church, Calif., visited the Publishing House and extended his greeting to the "Messenger" rooms on Monday morning of this week, as he was on his way to Winona Lake.

Bro. D. G. Brubaker, of Nocona, Tex., informs us that his recently announced removal to Taft, same State, was somewhat premature. While he anticipates moving to his new home Jan. 1, 1920, he expects to remain at Nocona until the expiration of the term for which his pastoral activities have been engaged.

Bro. Fred A. Flora, chosen at the late District Meeting of Idaho and Western Montana to represent the District on the Standing Committee for 1920, is undoubtedly the earliest appointment to the Committee for that year. By reason of a change, in the time of holding the District Meeting, it will not convene again until after the 1920 Conference. Hence the selection, at the late meeting, of Standing Committee delegates for both 1919 and 1920.

Bro. A. J. Culler is now located at Aleppo, Syria. That is, his headquarters are there. Writing from that place under date of April 23, he says: "I am to do organization work and tomorrow I go to Marash with a group of workers and supplies, and will be there several weeks. It will be a large distributing center and we are going there to get ready to meet the refugees who are coming back to their homes. It is going to be a gigantic task, for all supplies must be hauled 100 miles by truck. . . . Yesterday I visited one camp where about 5,000 refugees are sheltered. Several hundred arrive each day from the deserts, and others are continually leaving, going up to their homes. Our hope is to get these centers in the interior organized, so as to take care of them. We shall give each family $50 to build their little house, or to fix it up. This seems very little, but stone is in abundance on the ground. Of course, we have to feed them while they do the work of building. These refugee camps are scenes of concentrated poverty and sadness. A family has a space that would be filled by a bed. Some have bedding, others have not. Clothing is often the same as that with which they left their homes two or four years ago. Every one of the refugees has a sad story, and one of the saddest things is that the families are scattered." Mail for Bro. Culler should be addressed in care of American Red Cross, Aleppo, Syria.

Writing from Jerusalem under date of April 25, Bro. J. E. Miller says: "Tonight we leave for Haifa. Tuesday we leave for Tiberias and see Nazareth, Cana and the Sea of Galilee. Then we go to Damascus, and about May 5 we expect to be in Beirut, and work from there around. We plan to sail by boat for Smyrna about May 20-25." Soon after that he hopes to start for London. "But our plans are often changed," he adds, "owing to conditions."

Bro. J. I. Kaylor, our India missionary, just returned from the field on furlough, spent a very few minutes in the "Messenger" rooms on Monday of last week, as he was on his way eastward. Bro. Kaylor reports an unusually pleasant voyage homeward. There was one very sad feature of it, however. We refer to the fact that he could not be accompanied by Sister Kaylor, whose life, as our readers will remember, was laid down in service on the field. Bro. Kaylor, of course, expects to be at the Winona Conference.

MISCELLANEOUS

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the June "Daleville College Bulletin," an eighty-page issue,—the same being the catalog number for 1919-20.

The members at Gratis, Ohio, greatly desire that some faithful brother and earnest church worker may be secured as principal of the public school at that place. Inquiries should be addressed to Mrs. M. L. Kiracofe, R. D. 1, Box 20, Camden, Ohio.

Bro. I. M. McCune, of Irricana, Alta., Can., wishes to reach the members of his State District with the following announcement: "To the churches of North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Western Canada: All those desiring to have any queries or notices in the District Conference Booklet, must send the same to I. M. McCune, Irricana, Alta., Can., at once."

Any minister who wishes to offer his services to the Bellefontaine church, Ohio, should write to Sister Bessie Kaylor, 713 S. Detroit Street, Bellefontaine. The church is said to be in a prosperous condition, the Sunday-school having more than doubled during the past year. Bro. Wm. J. Tinkle and wife, who have been serving this congregation, have decided to secure further preparation for pastoral work and are planning to enter Bethany Bible School next autumn.

The Paradise Prairie congregation, Okla.,—we are informed,—is looking for a live pastor to take charge of the work there. The members are putting forth a courageous effort to keep up the interest and attendance through the Sunday-school and special religious programs. During the two weeks of special revival effort, under Bro. H. E. Blough, of West Wichita, Kans., seven splendid young people took a stand for Christ. The interest is good and coöperation is awaiting the leader. The church is strictly rural and is looking for some one who has a practical knowledge of rural conditions. The church is not able, at present, to give full financial support, but is able to make a very reasonable proposition. Any one interested should write at once to Bro. W. H. Carrier, R. D. 1, Coyle, Okla.

ARMENIAN RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION

In our issue of May 24, a report was given of cash received up to April 30, under the two funds, "Armenian and Syrian Relief" and "Relief and Reconstruction." These funds have now been combined into one, since all is being used for the relief work in Armenia and Syria. We give below a statement by States, of cash received during the month of May:

Liberty Bond Coupons,	$ 11.21	Nebraska,	887.59
Unknown,	.25	New Mexico,	589.39
California,	2,719.24	New Jersey,	6.00
Canada,	204.25	North Dakota,	329.00
Colorado,	303.43	Ohio,	8,889.28
Idaho,	435.80	Oklahoma,	124.81
Illinois,	3,295.07	Oregon,	73.00
Indiana,	6,581.33	Pennsylvania,	18,803.22
Iowa,	3,407.85	South Dakota,	45.60
Kansas,	3,496.71	Tennessee,	137.50
Louisiana,	14.10	Texas,	131.25
Maryland,	3,445.83	Virginia,	2,325.16
Michigan,	371.86	Washington,	132.80
Minnesota,	608.04	West Virginia,	255.55
Missouri,	330.54	Washington, D. C.,	305.35
Montana,	121.93

Total for month of May, ... $ 58,515.94

Total reported May 24, under Armenian and Syrian Relief Fund, ... 97,663.10

Total reported May 24, under Relief and Reconstruction Fund, ... 3,476.50

Total cash reported to date, ... $159,655.54

Again we thank you for your generous response to this great need. The money continues to come in. We are well on the way toward that $250,000 set as our goal for 1919. We judge you intend to reach it before the year has closed.

Executive Committee.

s a space that would be filled by a bed. Some have dding, others have not. Clothing is often the same as t with which they left their homes two or four years o. Every one of the refugees has a sad story, and one the saddest things is that the families are scattered." ial for Bro. Culler should be addressed in care of erican Red Cross, Aleppo, Syria.

Writing from Jerusalem under date of April 25, Bro. E. Miller says: "Tonight we leave for Haifa. Tues- y we leave for Tiberias and see Nazareth, Cana and Sea of Galilee. Then we go to Damascus, and about y 5 we expect to be in Beirut, and work from there ound. We plan to sail by boat for Smyrna about May 25." Soon after that he hopes to start for London. But our plans are often changed," he adds, "owing to nditions."

Bro. J. I. Kaylor, our India missionary, just returned m the field on furlough, spent a very few minutes in "Messenger" rooms on Monday of last week, as he s on his way eastward. Bro. Kaylor reports an un- ally pleasant voyage homeward. There was one very l feature of it, however. We refer to the fact that he uld not be accompanied by Sister Kaylor, whose life, as r readers will remember, was laid down in service on field. Bro. Kaylor, of course, expects to be at the nona Conference.

MISCELLANEOUS

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the June Daleville College Bulletin," an eighty-page issue,—the ne being the catalog number for 1919-20.

The members at Gratis, Ohio, greatly desire that some thful brother and earnest church worker may be secured principal of the public school at that place. Inquiries uld be addressed to Mrs. M. L. Kiracofe, R. D. 1, Box Camden, Ohio.

Bro. I. M. McCune, of Irricana, Alta., Can., wishes to ch the members of his State District with the follow- announcement: "To the churches of North Dakota, stern Montana and Western Canada: All those desir- to have any queries or notices in the District Confer- ce Booklet, must send the same to I. M. McCune, icana, Alta., Can., at once."

Any minister who wishes to offer his services to the llefontaine church, Ohio, should write to Sister Bessie ylor, 713 S. Detroit Street, Bellefontaine. The church aid to be in a prosperous condition, the Sunday-school ving more than doubled during the past year. Bro. n. J. Tinkle and wife, who have been serving this ngregation, have decided to secure further preparation pastoral work and are planning to enter Bethany ble School next autumn.

The Paradise Prairie congregation, Okla.,—we are in- med,—is looking for a live pastor to take charge of the rk there. The members are putting forth a courageous ort to keep up the interest and attendance through the nday-school and special religious programs. During two weeks of special revival effort, under Bro. H. E. ough, of West Wichita, Kans., seven splendid young ople took a stand for Christ. The interest is good and operation is awaiting the leader. The church is strictly al and is looking for some one who has a practical owledge of rural conditions. The church is not able, present, to give full financial support, but is able to ke a very reasonable proposition. Any one interested uld write at once to Bro. W. H. Carrier, R. D. 1, yle, Okla.

ARMENIAN RELIEF AND RECONSTRUCTION

n our issue of May 24, a report was given of cash re- ved up to April 30, under the two funds, "Armenian d Syrian Relief" and "Relief and Reconstruction." ese funds have now been combined into one, since all being used for the relief work in Armenia and Syria. e give below a statement by States, of cash received ring the month of May:

erty Bond Coupons, ..$	11.21	Nebraska, ...	887.59
known, ...	.25	New Mexico, ...	589.39
fornia, ...	2,719.24	New Jersey, ...	6.00
ada, ...	204.25	North Dakota, ...	329.00
orado, ...	303.43	Ohio, ...	8,889.28
no, ...	435.80	Oklahoma, ...	124.81
ois, ...	3,395.07	Oregon, ...	73.00
iana, ...	6,581.33	Pennsylvania, ...	18,823.22
a, ...	3,407.85	South Dakota, ...	45.60
sas, ...	3,406.71	Tennessee, ...	137.50
isiana, ...	34.10	Texas, ...	131.25
yland, ...	3,445.83	Virginia, ...	2,325.16
higan, ...	371.86	Washington, ...	132.80
nesota, ...	608.04	West Virginia, ...	355.55
souri, ...	333.54	Washington, D. C., ...	305.25
tana, ...	121.93

AROUND THE WORLD

Armenia's Need Is Still Urgent

Dr. G. H. T. Main, president of Grinnell College, Iowa, now serving on the Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, has appealed to the American Government to save what remains of the nation, and is fervently hoping that his plea will not be in vain. He writes: "At this last moment, can Christian civilization do something to restore and heal? In the emergency I have told the officials of the Armenian Republic that our committee would take over the orphanages until some mandatory power is given authority to assist in establishing order and giving financial stability to the peoples concerned. This move on my part, I firmly believe, is demanded by the conditions and by the most elementary principles of humanity."

Pensions for Needy Mothers

About eight years ago the first mothers' pension law was adopted by the State of Illinois. It was argued that the average mother can take better care of her fatherless children than any institution, and that, by being given a little help from the State, the children could be brought up at comparatively slight additional expense to the State. Results achieved have amply demonstrated the wisdom of the originators of the plan. The best testimony to the effectiveness of the plan, however, is seen in the fact that already thirty-three States have followed the example of Illinois, and vigorous campaigns are being launched in the remaining States for legislation to the same end. Real mother love, after all, provides the best care for a fatherless child.

Socialist Sunday-Schools

Wholly intent upon impressing their principles on the minds of the rising generation, the Socialists of New York are making use of so-called Sunday-schools. Thousands of children are gathered from Sunday to Sunday, and taught that it is their sacred duty to rebel against the existing constitution of our national life as soon as they are grown. The New York "Call,"—a Socialist magazine, boasts that the flourishing state of the schools is "responsible for the growing fear in the churches and employers' associations that the young generation will not grow up the 'easy marks' that their fathers are." It is understood, of course, that there is no attempt to teach religion in these schools. The whole aim is the promotion of Socialism.

Safe Arrival of U. S. Seaplane NC-4

May 8 the NC-4 left Rockaway Beach, L. I., but started from Trepassey, N. F., on the actual flight across the Atlantic at 6:07 P. M., May 16. It arrived at Lisbon, Portugal, May 27, at 4:01 P. M. (Washington time), being the first craft to cross the Atlantic by air. The actual flying time, in crossing the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Spain, was twenty-six hours and forty-one minutes. The arrival of the NC-4 at Lisbon marks the completion of the first transatlantic air-flight in history, with the coveted honor going to a machine designed, built and manned by Americans. The plane covered the distance at a speed of more than eighty miles an hour. As a triumph of American skill, the achievement bids fair to be cherished in future days as one of the world's notable events.

Universal Education for Russia

Much has been said about the present administration of Russian affairs, but if we may depend upon recent reports the Lenine regime has stumbled upon at least one factor of real national progress,—a comprehensive educational program, based on the American public school system. Without schools, there can be little true progress in Russia. Then, too, there will be no real freedom in that vast realm until the schools are a reality. Beyond all question it will require a generation or two to produce a transformation truly worth while. The Russians thought they could be given freedom and all it implies by merely reaching out for it. Now they are beginning to see that the choicest blessings can not be theirs until the darkness of anarchy is displaced by the light of knowledge, the possession of which must be gained by arduous effort.

Volcanic Disturbances in Java

Recent press reports bring the news of fifteen thousand persons killed by a volcano in Java. Appalling as such a loss of life is, under ordinary circumstances, the newspapers devote but little space to the happening. The gigantic occurrences of the last few years have seemingly relegated all lesser calamities to the realm of triviality, ing full well that destruction may come upon them at any time. Dangerous? Yes, to be sure, but it is their home. That explains the whole story. Go where you will,—north, south, east, west,—home is ever dear, though the gaunt shadow of imminent danger be ever present.

China Still Unreconciled

There is still great dissatisfaction voiced by Chinese statesmen at home and abroad, against the delivery of Shantung to Japan. Vividly remembering the lofty sentiments expressed by the leaders of public opinion in America, they have formulated an insistent appeal, addressed to the nation in general, with this leading declaration: "To give up Shantung means that, while Prussianism has been destroyed in every other region of the world, America and her allies have decided to perpetuate it in China, in the interest of Japan. If the tragic settlement stands unaltered, either China's man-power and resources must pass under Japanese dominion, or China must forthwith abandon the pursuits of peace and arm herself." Surely a sad plight for a nation wholly in favor of peace!

Daniels Against Large Navy Plan

Latest news reports assure us that President Wilson's proposed program for the "biggest navy in the world," which Secretary of the Navy Daniels said was "intended to frighten the powers into disarmament," is not likely to be realized. Appearing before the House Committee on Naval Affairs May 27, Mr. Daniels formally withdrew his previous recommendation for a second three-year battleship building program, designed to make the American navy equal or superior to that of Great Britain. Explaining this change of attitude, the secretary said that the United States should demonstrate its confidence in the efficacy of the League of Nations, which will make unnecessary the maintenance of such a big navy. Promoters of peace will rejoice in noting the sensible attitude of Secretary Daniels. The "strongest armament" is not a factor that insures peace.

Churches Are Not "Declining"

Strange, indeed, it is that in some people's opinion the churches are always "declining." These would-be critics look with pity on the section of the public who "stick by the church through thick and thin, who shut their eyes to its shortcomings, believing that the good in it is bound, under all circumstances, to more than offset any bad there may be in it." What are the facts in the case? A table prepared by Dr. H. K. Carroll for the Federal Council of Churches of Christ, shows the growth in membership, of the thirty-three Protestant denominations represented, to be 740,000 for the year 1917. Statistics by the Census Department at Washington show an increase of about twenty-five per cent for the eight leading denominations. Taking into account, furthermore, the sums raised for benevolence,—greater in volume as well as per capita,—the showing is a most commendable one.

A Reassuring Report

Endeavoring to set at rest possible misapprehensions, Bro. A. T. Hoffert, of Anklesvar, India, sends us the following: "Perhaps something came out in the papers at home, of the riots in the larger cities of India. None of our missionaries was molested, nor was our work hindered in any way. At Surat the mission high school of the Irish Presbyterians was broken into, and the furnishings badly damaged. At Amritsar five Europeans were killed and at Ahmedabad one. Many buildings and much other property were destroyed, but after a few days the Government got the upper hand, and now there is quiet. The trouble started in a 'Passive Resistance' movement against the Rowlatt Bills, which were passed to give the Government needed power to put down sedition. But things soon got out of control of the leaders of the movement, and active resistance of the most serious character was offered. It has been an expensive lesson to India, but it is to be hoped she has learned her lesson well."

A New Era for the Bible Lands

When the Turkish armies were decisively defeated on the plains of the Near East, a new era dawned for the people of Palestine. Islamism sustained a defeat from which it will not readily recover. Jerusalem, Bagdad and Constantinople,—the three great centers of Moslem propaganda,—have fallen under control of Christian nations. The immediate result of this will naturally be absolute freedom of all religious worship in the conquered lands of the Turkish territories. While the Mussulman will, of course, still be permitted to cry out to Allah as ever he was, nevertheless the dethronement of the Moslem rulers

HOME AND FAMILY

My Flowers

BY I. H. MILLER

If you have flowers, sweet flowers, for me
Oh, let me now their beauty see,
That I may share them while I'm here,
But do not save them for my bier.

Oh, bring me flowers while here I roam,
That they may cheer my humble home,
And you will prove your love sincere;
But do not save them for my bier.

A gentle act, a word of love,
A kindly blessing oft may prove,
And oft an aching heart may cheer;
Then do not save them for my bier.

Have you a word of cheer to say,
Put it not off until the day
When I am dead, and then revere;
Oh, do not save it for my bier.

When I am dead, the flowers you place
Above my unresponsive face,
Shall cheer me not; it seems so queer
That you should save them for my bier.

I need your love, I need your aid,
I need your words, so kindly said,
I need them now, these acts of cheer,
Then do not save them for my bier.

Your noble acts will aid afford
That I may serve my gracious Lord,
And worship him with holy fear,
Then do not save them for my bier.

Nash, Okla.

How Uncle Si and Aunt Susan Passed It On

BY LULA R. TINKLE

Uncle Si and Aunt Susan Dawson were getting old. Already they had passed the seventy mark, but nobody ever spoke of them as being old. They were just Aunt Susan and Uncle Si. Even the young folks saw the smile and gaiety of youth beneath the grey hair and wrinkled faces. The Dawson home had always been a center for social affairs of the community while the children were at home; and now, after they were married and gone, it was none the less attractive, for Uncle Si was still spry and jolly, though he had a hobble in his walk and a crack in his laugh. Aunt Susan's charms seemed to increase as her black, wavy hair turned to silvery grey, and her graceful form bent with age, for there was always a cheery smile and a warm heart full of sympathy and love. The young folks called the Dawson home the "Partnership Home," for they all wanted a claim on the cheerful fireside, the good things to eat, the jolly stories and the warm friendship of Uncle Si and Aunt Susan.

It was an ideal winter morning. Uncle Si came hobbling in from the barn, after having finished the morning chores. He swung the kitchen door open wide and called for Aunt Susan to sweep the snow off his back. Aunt Susan dropped her knitting into the work basket and hastened to help him. When they were seated by the fire, Uncle Si looked up, as he stroked his long white beard, and leaning forward, with one hand on his knee, he said slowly: "Mother, this is New Year's Day, and I had been thinkin' we'd spend it at home together and enjoy our warm fire. But I notice smoke rolling up over at Widow Carr's, so I know they must be fixin' to butcher. As I sat here I was thinkin' how thankful I am our butcherin' is all done, and our wood in the shed, and our 'taters' and fruit all in the cellar. Then I thought about Widow Carr and her son James, who is only seventeen years old. And you know, mother, that boy don't know how to go ahead with butcherin', though I 'low he'll do his best tryin'. And mother, if you don't mind spendin' New Year's Day alone, I believe I'll go over and help the boy along. They are new in this neighborhood and folks may not think about offerin' their help."

"Now, pa, you know I'm not one that'll hinder you doin' good. I was just thinkin' this morning about Mrs. Carr's apples. She says they're rottin' in the cellar, and bein's her fingers are so stiff with rheumatism she can't peel them to dry. It's a pity for all them apples to waste; and I'd just like to dry them for her. So, if you don't mind hitchin' up, I'll just go along over and dry apples for her while you help James to butcher."

Mrs. Carr and James were wonderfully surprised. It was so seldom that the neighbors took any notice of their hardships. But their surprise was soon overcome by joy, and there was laughter and song throughout the day, as busy hands performed many tasks. As Uncle Si and Aunt Susan drove away that evening, there was a warmer feeling between the two families. Widow Carr's face seemed brighter and James whistled louder. It was a happy New Year to them.

"Pa, it ain't much farther round by the schoolhouse, and bein's it's about time for school to dismiss, why couldn't we drive past and take a load of children that go our way? Them Dixon children have most two miles to walk, and this is a mighty sharp wind. Besides, I 'low they don't have any woolen stockin's or mittens."

The old folks had to wait a few minutes for dismissal, but they didn't mind that. When the door opened, out rushed a bunch of shouting children. They had heard Uncle Si say "whoa" to old Dixie, and they knew he was waiting for them. Uncle Si was soon giving orders.

"You boys pile in behind, and you gals can ride here in front. Everybody ready? Get up, Dixie." And off he went with a spring-wagon full of boys and girls.

The next day was Saturday, and Uncle Si was up early, hustling with the morning work, so that he might get an early start to town,—a trip he made every Saturday.

"Mother, you might fill this sack with potatoes, and put some eggs and butter in this basket, and I'll leave them at the preacher's house. I know every little bit helps there, for they are trying hard to live on a small salary. We have blessings heaped upon us, and it's no more than right that we should share them with those who sacrifice so much for others."

"Yes, pa, and I filled this sack with some raisin cookies for the Smith children. Mrs. Smith has her hands full without baking cookies, and I know the little tots like cookies. Don't forget them."

Aunt Susan sang as she did her Saturday work; and after she had written a card to each of her grandchildren, she rekindled the kitchen fire, saying to herself: "Pa will be cold and a good hot soup will warm him up. I hope he's back by noon."

The next day was Sunday and a fine day too. Uncle Si tried to whistle as he curried and harnessed old Dixie and Fred. When his chores were done he hurried to the house to help Aunt Susan.

"Mother, better peel a few extra 'taters.' The young folks may take a notion to come with us for dinner. I'll bring in a ham ready to cut when we get home. Then I'll bring up a pan of apples, and polish them ready for the folks. They all like apples, and not many folks have them this year."

It was a fine day for sleighing, so Uncle Si hitched the two horses to the sled and they were off to church. The sermon was good,—just the kind that suited Uncle Si and Aunt Susan. The minister preached on the needs of the sufferers in Bible Lands, and made a strong appeal for help. "Just five dollars a month to support a hungry, homeless child. Who would support a child for six months? A starving face stares at you and pleads to be kept alive!"

Uncle Si stroked his beard and studied hard. Then leaning over he whispered to Aunt Susan: "Mother, we used to feed six at our table and it cost more than five dollars. Can't we feed six of these little ones now? The Lord has blessed us wonderfully this past year. What do you say?"

Aunt Susan's mother heart was touched by the need of the suffering ones, and she wiped a tear away as she nodded "yes" to Si. So Uncle Si wrote out his check for $180 and dropped it into the basket.

The young folks needed no second invitation that day, and when Uncle Si drove home he had a sled load of jolly young folks, all bound for the "Partnership Home." A happy day, indeed, it was, but Uncle Si said: "We must not be selfish today. We are having a good time, but just down the road lives old Grandpa and Grandma Still who never get out. I 'low they are lonesome today. Suppose we go over and cheer them up."

"Good," "Good," "Sure," came from all the group.

"Well, you boys come along and help me feed, and you gals help mother, and we will start early to church, so we can stop there on our way. We'll take our song books and sing for them."

That evening when Uncle Si and Aunt Susan were alone they kneeled by the fireside and thanked God for the many blessings that they could pass on to others.

Bellefontaine, Ohio.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

A SAD MOMENT

Not long since, on a beautiful Sunday morning, when all Nature was smiling, I started very early to join a company of Christian workers at Daleville, Va. En route, I turned aside to the beautiful cemetery on the sunny slope.

I stood at the grave of my departed comrade, schoolmate, college-mate, a splendid chum, and a fellow-teacher. I said to myself: "Here lie, awaiting the trump of God, the remains of one of Nature's noblemen. He was a great man. He was great in patience and in goodness. He was exceedingly useful in life. He deserves the rich reward which awaits the faithful."

He leaves, as a rich legacy to his devoted family, his loving friends, and his admiring fellow-men a monument of lasting esteem and delightful memory. Long live the influence of David Newton Eller!

I. N. H. Beahm.

Nokesville, Va.

EARS TO HEAR FOR GOOD CHEER

Christ said: "Let him that has ears to hear, hear and understand." If there is no heed, there can be no understanding.

On Sunday, May 18, we had a good lesson on "Grace." The class gave heed and got good cheer. A sermon was given by the writer on "Cost of Preaching the Gospel" (Luke 4). Christ in the synagogue read from Isa. 11,—words of good cheer. Then he spoke on the bad condition of Israel during the days of Elijah and Elisha. The audience of those days got wrathy, instead of having good cheer, but my audience had good cheer, for the people had ears to hear or understand with joy.

On my porch I listen to footsteps of men and women, as they pass by on the cement sidewalks. Their steps bring cheer. Boys and girls play, laugh and talk as they run by, and bring me good cheer. When I awake at night a busy mocking-bird on the roof or in a tree trills his sixteen variations and gives me good cheer because I have ears to hear. During the day I sit on my porch, facing the east. Automobiles and trucks, with open mufflers, crash by, or electric cars one block west, and steam cars, one block east, run and roll with loud noises,—a cheer not so pleasant. But in the acacia trees or in the pretty climbing plants the mocking-bird, the oriole, the linnet, the robin, and other birds, sound a note of joy, and bring me good cheer, because I have listening ears to hear, though I can not see.

The mail-man comes, brings letters,—one, two, three or five. He stops long enough to express some happy thoughts. Then my kind wife breaks the seals and says: "Here is one from Kansas, and another from Oregon, one from Indiana, one from Pennsylvania or California." Some are long and some are short, but all are wonderful and elevating, and plant good cheer in my soul. Then she picks up the "Messenger," reads an editorial, some other fine articles, and church news. I have good ears. I hear, understand, and gain a great abundance of good cheer. Here comes "Our Young People," bright and breezy, joyous and cheery.

Next come some friends, neighbors, or relatives, some brother or sister. He finds a seat on the porch, while I sit in my swivel-chair, used in the "Brethren at Work" office, more than forty years ago, and the conversation begins on some Bible topic. Presently good cheer is all over that porch in smiles and beauty. Listen! I hear my good wife, Loma, singing in the kitchen, or out in her grand garden, in the back yard. Then good cheer becomes ecstatic, and soars high,—all because I have ears willing to hear.

Next come Brother and Sister Callo F. Smith, with their four bright children. They put us into their auto and hurry us off about eleven miles to Bro. Guthrie's mission in Los Angeles. Then I listen to the uplifting songs and to holy prayers and to a real scriptural sermon,—pressed home to the hearts of the hearers,—all cheers, life-giving cheers! This is what a blind man gets out of passing life.

But the joy of joys is the knowledge of the Bible in great fullness. The Holy Spirit has filled and still abides.
Glendale, Calif. M. M. Eshelman.

A BIT OF EXPERIENCE IN CHINA

About a month ago I was with one of our neighboring missionaries, in a mountainous district of his field. We were having some special meetings for the members in those parts, as well as making a special effort to win the unconverted. In conversation with a young man of the place, I learned that he wanted to be baptized. I asked him if he could read. He said no, but later on he said he could read a little of the simplest kind of literature. I then inquired about his home and his people. Then I asked aboot his village, and as I went on our conversation grew more and more interesting. I found I was talking to a man that came from a historical place.

In 1900, when the missionaries of that section found that trouble was really coming, some of them went to this village and hid, for it is high up in the mountains. One member lived there and he was keeping them supplied with food and water. Not many days later, however, the official of the place learned that the missionaries were out here, and he sent his police out to tell them that if they wanted his protection, they must come back to the city. This, they learned afterwards, was only a pretense. The official had no intention of really protecting them at all. The conduct of these missionaries in this mountainous village made such an impression on the villagers that they began to turn to the Gospel, even immediately following the massacres that took place a few weeks later.

Now, what is in the village? It is a village without a temple and also without idols. All the families in the place are either Christians or definite inquirers. There is no idol worship. A small school is maintained by the people themselves. All the children, both boys and girls, go to school. Many of the older people and, in fact, about all of them, can not read to amount to anything, but they have learned to know the true God. How my heart rejoiced as I talked to this young man and heard him begging the missionary and the Chinese lay evangelists to come to them occasionally, and preach for them.

Just recently I had an experience in our own field that, I hope, will help us to see the possibilities in our own new work. I went with one of our preachers to a mountain place, about twenty miles away, where a big fair was being held. Here the people came together from all the little villages round about. We sold a lot of Gospel portions and did a lot of preaching to the large crowds that gathered. We had not been at the place long until one of our members, who was received into the church last winter, and who lives about five miles from there, came to us with a cordial smile. Then we knew he was glad we had come. He had a bundle of books and tracts, indicating that he had been distributing and selling these to the people. He took us to the shops and then into some of the homes of the place. "A wonderful opportunity," I said to myself. "The people are quite receptive."

After two days of hard work here, we went home with this brother to his village. It was an awful road. The preacher, Bro. Yin, who was with me, was used to a level country, and when we had to pass some dangerous cliffs, he shuddered even to pass on foot. Finally we came to the local brother's village. He took us first to a younger brother's home. Here we rested and drank some tea. Then he wanted us to preach in his village. We went out with him and could not find many of the people. The men were out in the fields and the women were afraid. After standing around awhile, and talking to some who appeared on the house-roofs and peeped through the doors, we got about a dozen together.

Some of the children had run to the fields to call the men and several came later. We began our little service and had a really good time. On inquiry we found that in this place, of about thirty families, our brother is the only man who can read an ordinary tract. Further investigation and inquiry revealed the fact that in the homes of two of his brothers the idols and paper gods have all been removed. They do not burn incense. On the walls several tracts were pasted and even though they can not read them much, they can tell the people that this little leaflet tells about the new doctrine that has come to their place. Further careful notice led me to think that the people are about all ready to get rid of their false gods and accept the new teaching. This local brother was having, and is having, a great influence in the place. His grasp of the Gospel is very limited, but he has enough to know the value of what he has, and he wants all the people to have the Christ, and so he tells them about him. He has removed the idols from the little village temple, and has taken the old bell to his place, to sell for iron. Now we are giving him about two dollars (gold) per month, to go about in these mountain villages, to tell the story, and to distribute Gospel portions and tracts. He seems very happy in it and I am hoping that the place may become a Christian village, as the one alluded to in the first part of this article has become.

We spent a night in this brother's home, and when we three were in the room (he is a widower), there was not room for much else except the few stone jars in which he keeps his grain. We visitors slept on the brick bed, hardly big enough for two people as big as we are. Our host slept on an ordinary bench, about seven inches wide and four feet long. He put a two by four scantling on the bench, at an angle, to make a bit of support for his shoulders, and there he spent the night.

Ordinarily I would have complained with my entertainment, but when I saw what the host was going through with, to have us in his own room, I had nothing to say. As we left, the next morning, he accompanied us three miles on the way, took us into three small villages on the way, and introduced us as the people who are promulgating the Gospel of which he had been telling them.

May the Lord bless this mountainous section, and bring light to many heathen hearts! It is a real joy to work with these simple people who scarcely ever get out of their little mountain gulch in which they live. That is one reason they all look to this member with such respect. He has been several times to the county-seat, fifteen miles away, and he is the one man of the whole neighborhood that can really read. He first gives them the tracts, and then he reads and explains them. May his work be blessed!
F. H. Crumpacker.
Ping Ting Hsien, Shansi, China, April 27.

FREEVILLE, NEW YORK

We began holding regular services here May 1. We were glad to have two automobile loads of brethren and sisters with us a few Sundays ago. We also had with us a brother from Iowa, who was so favorably impressed with the country that he is coming soon to buy a farm. Many people are coming from all over the West, and buying farms. There should be a number of our congregations throughout New York and other eastern States. We are receiving many inquiries concerning the country, and we try to be helpful to all who are interested.

Bro. Bowman, who came from the West and purchased a farm, is taking hold of the church work in a way that shows he is experienced in the work. His sermons are much appreciated.

Our District Mission Board is giving the work here helpful recognition. We are promised a visit from Bro. I. W. Taylor, in June. The church at Hagerstown, Ind., sent us a box of "Kingdom Songs No. 1," for which we are thankful.

We would be glad to have any Brethren and friends, who are interested, to come and see this country.

Ministers are especially invited to preach for us, when passing this way. Freeville has two railroads, thus affording excellent train service. In addition to that, regular automobile service passes through the town. We are half-way between the cities of Cortland and Ithaca,—ten miles from either place. We are forty miles from Auburn and fifty miles from Syracuse. Many leading roads are macadamized, so that travel is made easy. These roads are smooth as city pavements.

We ask an interest in the prayers of God's children everywhere.
F. L. Baker.

DISTRICT MEETING OF IDAHO AND WESTERN MONTANA

The meetings of the above-named District were held in the Nezperce church, May 13-15.

Twelve elders were present in the Elders' Meeting, which convened on the afternoon of May 13. The Missionary Meeting, on the evening of the same day, was well attended. The program was splendid and great interest was manifested. The offering, which was over $130, exceeded any previous offering in the District.

On the morning of May 14 the business session was held, with Eld. J. H. Graybill, Moderator; Eld. B. J. Fike, Reading Clerk, and the writer, Writing Clerk. The twelve churches of the District were represented by eighteen delegates, the largest number present since the District was organized. Several queries, looking to more aggressive work, especially in missionary lines, were considered and adopted. Bro. David Betts was placed on the Mission Board again, and Eld. M. Alva Long was chosen District Evangelist. The Sisters' Aid and the Child Rescue Work were each given attention in the evening.

On the following day, the Ministerial and Bible School program occupied the forenoon, and the Sunday-school and Christian Workers the afternoon, closing with the temperance program in the evening. All of these proved to be helpful and in harmony with the "Forward Movement." Each branch of the work seemed to be receiving more than ordinary attention, which will undoubtedly mean greater attainments during the coming year.

Eld. B. J. Fike will represent the District on Standing Committee this year, and as we changed the time of our meeting to the last of June, we will have no meeting before the Conference of 1920. This meeting chose the writer as a member on Standing Committee for 1920.

We separated from the Nezperce brethren to meet with the Payette Valley church June 29 to July 1, 1920.
Moscow, Idaho. Fred A. Flora.

EVANGELISTIC WEEK IN INDIA

The second week in February, with its beautiful bright moonlight evenings, was an ideal time for the special evangelistic effort put forth by our Indiao church to spread abroad the message of salvation. The boarding-school children, women, carpenters, farmers and other members of the laity, besides the regular mission workers, all took a commendable part in this effort to reach the lost.

That the work was well organized and included nearly one-third of our church membership, is shown by the fact that from our ten churches and mission centers there went out 44 evangelistic groups, consisting of 545 workers. These work-groups visited 546 villages and spoke the Word to 33,950 people in 80 separate meetings. They sold 4,886 Gospel portions, 1,528 tracts and gave away 3,542 tracts. There were 51 New Testaments sold and 7 Bibles. The immediate results of their work report was seen in 34 requests for schools, 58 applicants for baptism, and 19 baptisms during that week. Many heard the truth for the first time. The church has been strengthened, and our Lord has been glorified!

Compared with last year, there is ground for encouragement. While there were two more work-groups last year, also 61 more applicants for baptism, and six more Bibles sold, this year the number of New Testaments sold was the same as last year, but there was an increase of 67 workers, 102 more villages visited, 189 more meetings held, and they spoke to 13,512 more people. They also sold 1,048 more Gospels, 1,379 more tracts, and gave away an increase of 772 tracts over last year. Five more villages requested schools, and four more baptisms are reported this year. During that week a sufficient number of Bibles could not be secured, which largely accounts for the decrease in sales, because the old edition was exhausted before a new edition was issued from the Surat Mission Press.

Each church or mission center that sent out groups of workers during that week, reports as given below. In their statement I have included their offering to District Meeting:

Ahwa: 45 work-groups; 30 meetings held, with 645 persons present; offering, Rs. 172.

Anklesvar: 14 work-groups; 154 villages visited; 291 meetings held; 15,000 persons heard the Gospel; 5 applicants for baptism; 7 villages asked for schools; 126 workers; 1,503 Gospels and 262 tracts sold; gave away 925 tracts; sold 6 Bibles and 9 New Testaments; 4 were baptized. The District Meeting offering was Rs. 400/1.

At the Amletha church 1 work group, with 11 workers, visited 35 villages, held 40 meetings and preached to 1,503 people. There were 7 applicants, 5 of whom were baptized. They sold 176 Gospels and 192 tracts. Their offering was Rs. 45.

Bulsar had 3 work-groups and 40 workers, who visited 60 villages, held 50 meetings and preached to 3,000 people. They sold 1,273 Gospels and 45 tracts. The District Meeting offering was Rs. 313/9.

Dahanu had 2 groups, consisting of 12 workers, who visited 51 villages, conducted 43 meetings, in which were 2,000 hearers. They sold 10 Gospels, gave away 50 tracts, and report 12 applicants for baptism. Their offering amounted to Rs 472.

Jalalpor reports 2 groups, with 16 workers, who visited 14 villages, held 13 meetings, and spoke the Word to 1,538; 10 want baptism. One school was requested; 800 tracts were given away; 1 Bible, 16 New Testaments, 49 tracts and 237 Gospels were sold. They raised Rs. 224 for the work of District Mission Board.

Sister Shumaker reports: "Had we more Gospels on hand, we could have sold more, and there was a grand rush for tracts. We sent a special messenger to Surat, to get Gospels, etc., but we could get only a few. They were sold out of what we wanted. During the whole week groups came before our door, begging for the small tracts we distributed in the villages and wherever we went. I then had a chance to speak to them. This is not included in the report. It was incidental. There were at least 50 different persons who heard the message in this way."

Four groups, consisting of 49 workers, went out from Vali, visited 48 villages and conducted 77 services, with a total attendance of 1,500. They gave away 15 tracts and sold 6 New Testaments, 192 tracts and 176 Gospels. One school was requested and 4 expressed their desire for baptism. An offering of Rs. 150 was sent to the District Mission Board.

At Vyara there were 8 work-groups, with 263 workers, who visited 84 villages, gave out the message to 7,143 people at 116 meetings, baptized 8, and 37 others applied for baptism. Schools were requested by 14 villages; 1,200 tracts were given out; 1,590 Gospels and 465 tracts were sold. The Vyara offering was Rs. 306.

Among the 25 workers at Vada there were 3 groups who visited 83 villages, spoke to 1,200 people at 100 services, gave out 500 tracts, sold 35 Gospels and 500 tracts, and had 10 applicants for church fellowship. The Vada offering was Rs. 50/1.

At Rudha, where our District Mission Board is doing work, there were 2 groups with 3 workers, who visited 17

(Continued on Page 366)

HEALTH ON THE INDIA FIELD

In India there is always sickness and plenty of work for all medical people, though, as a whole, the health among our Christian people is better than among those who are not Christians, and the rate of mortality, especially among the children, is much lower.

During the influenza epidemic, in the fall, the mortality was much less, though a number were taken at some of our stations. Since the influenza epidemic, there have been other epidemics, of various natures, at different ones of our stations.

In January cholera broke out in the Boys' Boarding-school at Karadoho, near Dahanu. On Friday morning one of the small boys was brought into the dispensary sick. He was almost pulseless and died about four o'clock that afternoon. The symptoms were similar to cholera, though not typical. The body was wrapped in a sheet, wet with a disinfectant, and buried. On Saturday Dr. Nickey went out to the school and put disinfectant in the well. On Sunday morning two more boys were brought almost pulseless. About half an hour later another boy developed symptoms, and was also brought. About every half hour a new case was brought, till there were eleven or twelve. The worst ones were put in the only room there was for patients,—a room in the dispensary 12x18 feet, and the others were lined up on the floor of the dispensary veranda until little huts could be put up for them.

Very often, as soon as one dose of medicine was given, the patient would vomit, and another must be given at once, if any results were to be obtained. It kept all busy pouring down medicine and water, combating panic among the friends and relatives, and enforcing isolation of all contacts from those who had not been exposed. We do not have the organization that we have at home, in case of epidemics, therefore the duties of doctor, nurse, sanitation committee, health officer, police and undertaker often fall to one person.

Four of the boys died. One, who was very sick, was taken away by his family and doubtless died also.

No new cases developed after Tuesday. We praise the Lord for saving us from a longer and more serious epidemic, and for protecting us from the disease. Wednesday noon Dr. Cottrell came and stayed thirty-six hours to help out. His help was much needed and appreciated.

There is quite a bit of dysentery and smallpox about, but the doctor is never called to treat smallpox, as it is considered as a visitation from the gods and no help is wanted.

At Vada, in the Boys' Boarding-school there was recently an epidemic among some of the boys, some of the symptoms being dysentery and sore eyes. Dr. Cottrell was called out to see them, and later they were brought in to Dahanu, where Dr. Nickey could treat them. Finally they were brought to the hospital at Bulsar. Two of them died and the others have returned, well.

The influenza was later in reaching Ahwa than the stations along the railways, therefore they were later in recovering. It left great marks of its ravages here. It broke out the second time here, and at the time to start for District Meeting at Vyara, March 11-13, there were so many sick that Bro. Adam Ebey thought it his duty to stay by them and give what assistance he was able to render.

Many have been vaccinated for smallpox at Vyara, Anklesvar, Vali and Bulsar. In February one boy was taken down with it and died at Anklesvar. Since then all on the compound have been vaccinated. He was an orphan boy in the Boarding-school, who had not been vaccinated. Several were sent home who had taken it, but, so far as we know, all have recovered. One boy was quarantined for several weeks on the mission compound till he recovered.

There has been some chickenpox in both the Boys' and the Girls' Boarding-schools at Anklesvar, but nothing serious has resulted. The boys were all sent home until danger of any more breaking out was over, so that they could then be sent to the Vali Boarding-school.

The missionaries at Jalalpor do no medical work except to give out ointment for itch and ringworm, of which there is always plenty.

Bulsar has been having an epidemic of measles which, in itself, is not so serious, but some cases have been followed by pneumonia, which were and are still quite serious. There is also much malaria.

Everywhere the doctors find much trouble, which dates from the influenza,—especially affections of the heart and lungs.

With the coming of the hot season the health of the native people seems to improve, for which we are thankful, as it is very trying for the missionaries who remain on the plains. Our stations will all be left without a missionary doctor for a while, as the Drs. Cottrell will be gone about two and a half months at Kodiakanal, South India, and Dr. Nickey about six weeks at Landour, North India.

Brethren Long and Pittenger, with their families, go to Nanai Tal, North India, for the hot season, where Sister E. H. Eby is with the missionaries' school-children, to regain health, strength and energy for the coming year. Sisters Ziegler, Powell and Himmelsbaugh will spend the hot season at Landour. Bro. Pittenger has been much improved in health during the last year, and has been busy with station and building work. Baby Rosaline Pittenger has had a severe attack of chickenpox but has recovered nicely. Bro. Long has had much trouble with one eye and has had to have two operations on it. It is hoped that in time it will be greatly improved.

Miss Swartz, who has been greatly afflicted with malaria, much of the time since in India, is much improved and encouraged. She praises the Father for the improvement.

Dr. Nickey has just returned home to Dahanu, after spending a week at Bulsar with the doctors because of a badly-infected hand.

Miss Mow, who has not fully recovered from the effects of the influenza in the fall, will spend the hot season at Bulsar, and will be in the medical bungalow with me.

We praise the Father that, amid all the diseases and epidemics, which are so prevalent in India, our people have been so well kept and that, comparatively, so few have been taken, as compared with non-Christians.

We praise the Father that the missionaries have been so well kept and though some, on furlough in the homeland, have suffered and have been bereaved, those on the field have been spared. Jennie Mohler.

Bulsar, India, April 1.

FOREIGN MISSION WORK ON THE HOME FIELD

We are willing to give our young men and women, and to spend our money to support the work across the seas. This is good, honorable, and Christlike, and it is the proper thing for us to do, but the question in my mind is: "Should we begrudge the money and talent we give for exactly the same kind of work, among the same kind of people,—when those to be benefited live right at our door?"

There are places in our Brotherhood that are as purely "foreign" as though the communities were located across the sea. Many of us think of these communities very reluctantly, and therefore decline to help them in person and with our finances. We often look upon these localities with antipathy, and really feel that certainly no good thing can come out of such communities. Consequently such people are neglected by us.

We usually find that such people are financially poor and are struggling for a livelihood. This, I am sorry to say, is sometimes repulsive to so-called Christians, who are hoarding up riches for their children and their children's children, forgetting the message of Acts 2: 43-47. They do not think of Jesus' message to the rich ruler, or even the example which Christ himself gives by his own life, as recorded in Rom. 5: 8.

It is hard for some of us,—who are comfortably located in large churches, where the membership has been taught from earliest youth the Word of God and the principles which our church holds dear,—to realize why a church, in such a community as mentioned above, does not soon become self-supporting and a staunch stronghold in the Brotherhood. We often forget that it is a "foreign mission" proposition.

We are realizing that our Minneapolis church is a fair example of foreign mission work on the home field. The church is located in a purely Scandinavian settlement. In working with these people, and getting personally acquainted with them and their manner of living, we are able to say as to whether the time and money spent here are profitably invested or not, even though the church is not self-supporting. I want to state some facts to create sentiment for what, I think, are the most neglected fields in our own land.

When we pass through such communities as stated above, and look down upon them as being lower than our own field, we are judging ignorantly the worth of these people. Jesus' value on souls is the same, whether they are found in these communities or in some large church. The question that concerns him is: "Do these souls know the Lord as their personal Savior?" It is our task to lead them to Christ. The Christian can not neglect these people and say that he has done his duty.

As we get into the hearts of these people, we find many commendable characteristics. We find a surprising readiness for the truth. Their early training in the state church of their own country is to be reckoned with. They are not moved so readily by what the minister may say, until we show them that our teachings are based on the Word of God. They will not, however, affiliate themselves with the church until they are fully taught, and thoroughly understand every step they take. This, of course, takes time and much effort, but to my mind it is much better to have them make sure of every step, rather than to accept our doctrine at first sight,—later on to be driven about by shifting winds.

The hope of our mission here, as well as similar ones elsewhere, depends upon our ability to lead a few influential families to the Lord. Then the entire community will be open for the same kind of teaching.

Not one member should allow himself to think of giving up in despair, for the Forward Movement gives new opportunities to every member of our church. If you have been guilty of slighting such communities, read John 13: 34, 35 and many other texts that dwell upon love. Exercise your love upon these people, and your heart will leap within you to find the gracious response. If you have not given any of your money for this work, ask God to forgive you, and make an investment. If you have given, the Lord has blessed you for it, and will continue to do so; so give more. Remember, too, that these people have relatives and friends in their homeland, to whom they write. Doubtless they tell of this new religion, for to them, indeed, it is new.

The work of our missionaries in these foreign countries will be greatly helped by the work that is done here. Let us not weaken our efforts on the foreign field, but rather let us strengthen them by devoting a part of our talent and finances to the foreigners here. Leading them to Christ, we can, with them, herald the Greatest Message of all the ages across the waters, and touch every heart with the assurance that Jesus saves.

Minneapolis, Minn. I. D. Leatherman.

The Forward Movement

(Continued from Page 357).

good one. It is of God. But that does not mean that we shall not make it enticing to souls. We need to appeal to the heroic, to the noblest, to the biggest work and most difficult undertakings ahead. We must, somehow, enlist the loyal services of many thousands of our young people who are eager indeed to do hard service. How shall we do it? Certainly, a flattering promise of a heavenly home without struggling and enduring will not appeal to them. See the mighty throngs of young men returning from the fields of battle! What appealed to them, causing them to leave "their own land and their own kindred"? What but scars and suffering and death was the promise? But somehow the promise to serve, to share in giving themselves motivated their going. Shall we not act as wisely as that personal worker of more than three thousand years ago? Shall we not do as wisely in enlisting our promising "eyes for the wilderness" as do the men of the world? May our forward movement be a challenge, not for numbers, not for dollars, not for organization, merely. Teachers, hear me! Let us challenge to loyal service and efficient coöperation, and the blessings in store will be enriched and enjoyed as they are passed along to others. The world is peculiarly ready for such an occupancy. Let us move forward!

Chicago, Ill.

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Golden Gate Mission.—We were glad to have some brethren and sisters from Empire at our love feast April 27. Bro. David Bowman, of that place, officiated and we had a splendid meeting. Bro. J. I. Kaylor, from India, arrived here May 13 and the following evening, at our prayer meeting, gave a very interesting address on the work in India. Our missionary collection for Annual Meeting amounted to $64.85, which puts us over the top.—Ivy Walter, Oakland, Calif., May 24.

Inglewood church met in council May 11, with Bro. Wm. Wertenbaker in charge. The visiting brethren gave their report. The need of better facilities for the Sunday-school has been realized and the church trustees were appointed as a committee to investigate the matter. May 5 Bro. Welty La Fever, of Pasadena, preached for us in the morning. In the evening several officers of the District Christian Workers' Society visited us, giving many suggestions for active Christian work. The Women's Bible Class favored the Sunday-school with several readings on Mothers' Day. In the evening a special program was given during the Christian Workers' hour, and an offering of $22 was received for Chinese mission work of this District. May 18 we held our love feast, which was much enjoyed by those present. Bro. S. W. Funk, of Glendora, preached the examination sermon and officiated at the love feast. About seventy-five were present, including a number of visitors.—Susan Stoner, Inglewood, Calif., May 19.

La Verne.—Three have been baptized since our last report. Our Armenian-Syrian Relief offering totaled $2,080.20. This was collected through the section workers and their sentinels. The Annual Meeting offering is being gathered by the same workers, and already has passed the $2,000 mark, with all not paid in yet. We were delighted to have Bro. John T. Kagay from the Pasadena mission field, with us at the morning and evening services last Sunday. It was an especially opportune time for him to give his testimony, as the subject of the day necessarily was instruction, leading us to give to the "Annual Conference offering" as "the Lord hath prospered us." Bro. Kaylor addressed the section workers on Sunday afternoon at the regular meeting, and on Tuesday evening at a special meeting. We are glad to report a Mexican men's night school, organized under the tutorship of our pastor, R. H. Miller, and wife. Twelve of our Mexican neighbors are enrolled in this work. In the neighborhood of twenty "cottage prayer meetings" are being held in our congregation weekly, under the auspices of the section workers.—Grace Hileman Miller, La Verne, Calif., May 23.

CANADA

Notice to the Churches of North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Western Canada.—All those wishing any queries or notices in the District Conference Booklet must send them to I. M. McCune, Irricana, Alta., at once.—I. M. McCune, Irricana, Alta., Can., May 24.

COLORADO

Denver church is progressing in all her departments as never before. There is no reason why we should not be much encouraged en guilty of slighting such communities, read John 34, 35 and many other texts that dwell upon love. ercise your love upon these people, and your heart l leap within you to find the gracious response. If you ve not given any of your money for this work, ask God forgive you, and make an investment. If you have en, the Lord has blessed you for it, and will continue do so; so give more. Remember, too, that these people ve relatives and friends in their homeland, to whom y write. Doubtless they tell of this new religion, for them, indeed, it is new.

The work of our missionaries in these foreign counes will be greatly helped by the work that is done here. t us not weaken our efforts on the foreign field, but her let us strengthen them by devoting a part of our ent and finances to the foreigners here. Leading them Christ, we can, with them, herald the Greatest Mesge of all the ages across the waters, and touch every art with the assurance that Jesus saves.

Minneapolis, Minn. I. D. Leatherman.

The Forward Movement

(Continued from Page 357).

od one. It is of God. But that does not mean that e shall not make it enticing to souls. We need to peal to the heroic, to the noblest, to the biggest work d most difficult undertakings ahead. We must, mehow, enlist the loyal services of many thousands our young people who are eager indeed to do hard rvice. How shall we do it? Certainly, a flattering omise of a heavenly home without struggling and during will not appeal to them. See the mighty rongs of young men returning from the fields of ttle! What appealed to them, causing them to ave "their own land and their own kindred"? What rt scars and suffering and death was the promise? ut somehow the promise to serve, to share in giving emselves motivated their going. Shall we not act wisely as that personal worker of more than ree thousand years ago? Shall we not do wisely in enlisting our promising "eyes for the ilderness" as do the men of the world? May our rward movement be a challenge, not for numbers, ot for dollars, not for organization, merely. Teachrs, hear me! Let us challenge to loyal service and fficient coöperation, and the blessings in store will be riched and enjoyed as they are passed along to hers. The world is peculiarly ready for such an ccupancy. Let us move forward!

Chicago, Ill.

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Golden Gate Mission.—We were glad to have some brethren and sters from Empire at our love feast April 27. Bro. David Bowman, that place, officiated and we had a splendid meeting. Bro. J. I. aylor, from India, arrived here May 11 and the following evening our prayer meeting, gave a very interesting address on the work India. Our missionary collection for Annual Meeting amounted $64.85, which puts us over the top.—Ivy Walter, Oakland, Calif., ay 24.

Inglewood church met in council May 11, with Bro. Wm. Wertenker in charge. The visiting brethren gave their report. The need better facilities for the Sunday-school has been realized and the uuch trustees were appointed as a committee to investigate the natter. May 5 Bro. Welty La Fever, of Pasadena, preached for us th the morning. In the evening several officers of the District Christn Workers' Society visited us, giving many suggestions for active hristian work. The Women's Bible Class favored the Sunday-chool with several readings on Mothers' Day. In the evening a pecial program was given during the Christian Workers' hour, and n offering of $22 was received for Chinese mission work of this istrict. May 18 we held our love feast, which was much enjoyed by those present. Bro. S. W. Funk, of Glendora, preached the examination sermon and officiated at the love feast. About seventyve were present, including a number of visitors.—Susan Stoner, nglewood, Calif., May 19.

La Verne.—Three have been baptized since our last report. Our armenian-Syrian Relief offering totaled $2,080.20. This was collected hrough the section workers and their sentinels. The Annual Meeting offering is being gathered by the same workers, and already as passed the $2,000 mark, with all not paid in yet. We were deghted to have Bro. John I. Naylor, from the India mission field, with s at the morning and evening services last Sunday. It was an specially opportune time for him to give his testimony, as the subject of the day necessarily was instruction, leading us to give to the Annual Conference offering " as "the Lord hath prospered us." Bro. Naylor addressed the section workers on Sunday afternoon at he regular meetings and on Tuesday evening at a special meeting. We are glad to report a Mexican men's night school, organized under he tutorship of our pastor, R. H. Miller, and wife. Twelve of our Mexican neighbors are enrolled in this work. In the neighborhood over the future outlook of this church in a city of 275,000 population. I have been receiving many inquiries from various parts of our Brotherhood, regarding our great State, as well as the church. I will continue to give such information as may be desired.—W. R. Cline, 1070 Cass and Electric Building, Denver, Colo., May 21.

Haxtun church met for her spring love feast May 17. A number of new members have moved into our midst. We have Bro. Ernest G. Hoff, from Bethany Bible School, also Sister Florence Dickey with us for the summer. Our pastor, Bro. S. G. Nickey, expects to spend the summer in Chicago. Bro. Hoff is conducting revival meetings. One has accepted Christ. Prof. Heiney conducts a singing class every Wednesday evening and we have an hour on Sunday evening for song service. Bro. Roscoe Baker is home for the summer from McPherson College. Our brethren are planning on holding preaching services at Dailly, a small town near Haxtun. Anyone desiring to locate where the climate is healthful and agreeable, crops and wages good, and church privileges excellent, would do well to investigate the Haxtun country.—E. L. Lapp, Haxtun, Colo., May 23.

McClave church met in council April 11, with Eld. W. D. Harris presiding. We decided to redecorate the church. Seven letters were received and the prospects are that a number of new members will be received this summer and fall. The work is going nicely, since the weather is favorable. The attendance and offerings are the highest in the history of the church. Our Teacher-training Class is doing very well. Any one wanting to change locations will do well to come and look at the land and prospects.—W. T. Luckett, McClave, Colo., May 22.

DELAWARE

Greenwood.—May 11 Eld. A. L. B. Martin began a series of meetings, preaching in all eighteen inspiring sermons. This was the first revival meeting held in Greenwood. One confessed Christ and the church is much strengthened. Our Sunday-school is steadily growing. This is only a mission point now, but we are looking forward to the time when we shall have an established church. There is an organized congregation in Delaware yet.—Clara Selders, Farmington, Del., May 26.

IDAHO

Twin Falls church held her love feast May 25, with about seventy members communing. Brethren R. E. M. Shook and J. E. Steinour assisted Bro. Fahrney. Bro. Shook gave us a splendid sermon Sunday morning before the feast. His subject was "Jesus, the Same Yesterday, Today and Forever." In the absence of Bro. Fahrney, who was attending District Meeting, Bro. Steinour filled the pulpit for two Sundays. We had a fine program on Easter Day and also on Mothers' Day. The Junior Workers are doing fine under the leadership of Sister Fahrney. We hope that they are preparing the children for future usefulness.—Allee Swab, Twin Falls, Idaho, May 27.

ILLINOIS

Hickory Grove church enjoyed another love feast May 11, with sixty-six members present, also a number of friends. Several members from Lanark, Cherry Grove and Mt. Carroll were with us. Bro. Wm. Eisenbise officiated, and led us in a very inspiring service. Our regular meetings have been greatly blessed of late. Our first spring by the influenza, but we have many reasons to be thankful in that none of our number were lost. The little membership here has responded to many of the calls for assistance, in the great world war. We were unable to make the full quota allotted us on the Relief and Reconstruction work, but are trying now to meet our part of the Conference offering. Our parsonage has been remodeled and repaired, and we are glad to be able to have a pleasant place for the minister to live. Our younger members are, for the most part, faithful in attendance, and seem to be interested in the greater things of the Kingdom.—Mrs. O. G. Corbell, Mt. Carroll, Ill., May 24.

Yellow Creek church met in council May 27. Our elder, Bro. P. R. Keltner, was with us. The deacons gave a good report of their visit, made prior to the feast, which will be held June 21 and 22. Our series of meetings is to begin after the feast and will be conducted by Bro. Jesse Shull. Two deacons will be elected at our feast. Delegates to District Meeting are Bro. A. Kubleman and Sister L. Studebaker; to Sunday-school Meeting, Sister Iva Weaver. We reorganized our Aid Society. Sister Iva Weaver will continue as President, and Sister Maggie Shank, Secretary-Treasurer. Sister Bollinger and Bro. Becker, of Bethany Bible School, and Sister Elsenbise, of the Hastings Street Mission, were with us May 26 from Peari City, and gave us a fine concert. There were appreciative audiences at both places and we know that lasting good has been done.—Lizzie Studebaker, Pearl City, Ill., May 28.

INDIANA

Beaver Creek church met in council May 24, with Eld. J. G. Stinebaugh presiding. The membership will presently be increased. Sister Hattie Bowsher was granted letter to Beaver Creek congregation, with Sister Hattie Bowsher, alternate. Our love feast will be held Oct. 25, at 5:30 P. M. We have also decided to have an all day Meeting, September 4, and expect to have two sermons while with us.—Sarah Hahn, Francesville, Ind., May 26.

Connersville.—May 24 we held our love feast, which was well attended. Eld. Levi Dilling officiated. Sunday morning Eld. John Miller delivered a splendid sermon and in the evening Bro. S. W. Payton gave a stirring missionary sermon. We had a good attendance at both services. Our offering for the Annual Conference collection amounted to $46.—Mrs. Omer White, Connersville, Ind., May 26.

Fairview church met in members' meeting March 29, with Eld. D. L. Barnhart, of the Pyrmont church, present. Church trustees were elected for the year. Bro. David Wagoner was elected delegate to Annual Meeting. It has been our unhappy experience, in the last six months, to grant letters to about fifteen of our members who have moved to other States. Revival services were recently conducted at Pyrmont by Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe. Six have been added to our number by baptism. Four have moved in from other congregations. This gives us encouragement to move onward and upward. May 18 one of the teams of the Bethany Mission Band gave talks on various phases of mission work. Sunday morning Bro. Merlin Miller addressed us on the theme of "Self-Sacrifice." At the close of the service an offering of $159.65 was taken for World-wide Missions. May 25 Bro. L. E. Ockerman, of Kokomo, preached to an attentive audience on the "Danger of Worldliness." The offering of the Sunday previous for World-wide Missions was increased to $175.60. Our quota was $65 and we are grateful for consecrated members who made it possible for us to go over the top. Sunday night the work here seems to be in sympathy with the " Forward Movement."—Lulu E. Root, Lafayette, Ind., May 26.

Huntington City church met in council April 3, with Bro. Long presiding. Bro. Riddle, who has accepted the charge at this place, was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. I. B. Wike, alternate. Our love feast will be held June 15, beginning at 7 o'clock. On Mothers' Day Bro. John Wright gave us two splendid sermons. In the evening, the Friendship Bible Class rendered the program for the Christian Workers' Meeting. Children's Day will be observed June 1.—Mrs. Ermal Humbert, Huntington, Ind., May 26.

Middletown.—Bro. Rool, our elder, preached for us May 25. Bro. Ora Gentle is our delegate to Annual Meeting. Our first love feast was one long to be remembered, with 109 members and fifteen ministering brethren present. Bro. Spitzer officiated. We are glad to have with us Bro. Aaron Moss, of North Manchester, who was given by the children. A goodly number of neighbors and friends came to enjoy the program. Recently several ministers from adjoining congregations have favored us with sermons.—Dora A. Stout, Millford, Ind., May 26.

Pipe Creek church met in council May 22, with Eld. Frank Fisher presiding. The annual visit was reported. One letter was received and two granted. Bro. Jesse Kleppinger was chosen "Messenger" agent and the writer church correspondent. Our love feast was held May 24, with a large crowd present. Visiting ministers were Brethren J. D. Rife, Perry Coblentz, Frank Fisher, Moy Gwong, Andrew Miller, Ira Miller, Walter Strawbridge and John Wright. Bro. Andrew Miller officiated. On the following Sunday morning, Bro. Gwong talked on "The Needs of China," followed by Sunday-school and addresses by some of the brethren on mission work.—Ruth Dailey, Peru, Ind., May 28.

Pleasant Hill church met to prepare for our love feast. Bro. Hiram Forney and wife, from Goshen, were with us. Bro. Forney presided. Bro. Leroy Smith, from Collins, was also with us. After the services two of our Sunday-school boys were baptized. Sunday morning we met again for worship. After the Sunday-school lesson Sister Forney gave a talk to the children, which both old and young enjoyed. Bro. Forney delivered three splendid sermons during the day.—Sarah Gump, Churubusco, Ind., May 26.

Rock Run.—May 4 Bro. Milo Geyer, from Milford, Ind., came to hold a series of meetings. Sister Edith Pletcher led the song services. We had good interest and attendance and, best of all, seven of our boys and girls in the Sunday-school were baptized. May 17 we held our love feast. The house was well filled and a number of ministers from adjoining congregations were present. May 25 was missionary day. Bro. Manly Dexter preached an excellent sermon, using as his subject "Others." An offering of $131.93 was taken. Our Conference offering will be about $135, which is almost twice our quota.—Mrs. Clarence K. Cripe, Goshen, Ind., May 26.

Spring Creek church closed a very interesting series of meetings May 19. Five were baptized that evening after services, May 25 the Manchester Mission Band gave two programs, which were enjoyed by all present.—M. Amanda Rusher, Pierceton, Ind., May 26.

IOWA

Cedar.—Church work here is becoming normal again, for which we feel thankful. During the little organization contributed over $420 for charitable and missionary purposes, over and above our local current expenses. March 23 an offering of $84.15 was lifted for the India sufferers. April 20 an Easter program was rendered by the Sunday-school. May 11 we enjoyed communion services, when forty-two members were present. Eld. Leander Smith, of Muscatine, was with us. May 18 an offering of $83 was taken for World-wide Missions. We were very agreeably surprised May 23 when Prof. M. W. Emmert came to us and gave us two inspiring sermons. One has recently been added to the church by baptism.—John Zuck, Clarence, Iowa, May 26.

Greene church met in council May 24, with Eld. W. H. Liehty presiding. Owing to sickness in Bro. Caslow's home he could not be with us in a series of meetings, as planned. We decided to have a revival, beginning about the 15th of July. Our love feast was postponed until June 14, services to begin at 10:30 A. M., with an election for deacons at 1 o'clock. One young man from our congregation, who is now in school at Mt. Morris, has volunteered for the ministry and will be installed at that time. Preparatory service will follow the installation, with communion in the evening at 6:30. The missionary committee set the goal for our Annual Meeting offering at $250; $34.28 of this has been raised, and it is hoped that, by the time our delegate leaves for Conference, we will have reached the goal and more. May 11 we were favored with two inspiring sermons by Bro. M. W. Emmert, of Mt. Morris' College. Bro. Ezra Lutz, of Vadadams Grove, Ill., has given us two good sermons recently.—Elsie A. Pyle, Greene, Iowa, May 26.

Kingsley.—Today we held our regular quarterly council, attending to regular matters and electing officers for the Christian Workers. The appointment committee also gave a report favorable to the building of a new modern churchhouse, to meet the needs of the earnest congregation. This matter is to be considered soon, in a special meeting. Recently about thirty persons from Sheldon met with us in a joint Christian Workers' program. It was a pleasant occasion for all. Brethren C. E. and M. L. Kimmel, of Sheldon, filled the pulpit at the morning service.—S. S. Neher, Kingsley, Iowa, May 21.

Panther Creek church very fittingly observed Mothers' Day, with recitations, essays, speeches and songs. This church raised $722.15 for Armenian Relief. The Sunday-school raised $49.83 and one class of boys and girls—about twelve years old—raised $40. Our quota was $560. May 25 Bro. J. Q. Goughnour, of Ankeny, Iowa, delivered a stirring missionary sermon, after which the Annual Conference offering was taken. It amounted to $275.46, with promise of more later. We will be represented at Annual Conference by Bro. Robert Bentall. Bro. H. L. Royer delivered the examination service last Sunday evening, preparatory to our love feast. Our program committee is planning on observing Children's Day with a special program, to be given June 8.—Mrs. L. D. Replogle, Adel, Iowa, May 27.

KANSAS

Eden Valley.—Bro. O. H. Feller, of Hutchinson, was with us in our love feast and helped to make the occasion a real uplift. Prof. Decter, of McPherson, recently gave us four splendid addresses on missionary and Sunday-school work. Bro. Royer will serve for District Mission work. This church has an added phase of permanency in its work, in that it has built by the side of the church a substantial parsonage. Our indebtedness, amounting to several hundred, we trust to get back to, and go beyond, the standard attained before the unfortunate conditions of last winter. In the fall, Eld. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., will read us in a series of evangelistic meetings.—Lena Sollenberger, St. John, Kans., May 26.

Fredonia church was favored May 25 by having Bro. W. R. Arga-bright, of Fairview, Mo., preach the missionary sermon, which we very much appreciated. Our offering for Annual Conference was $37.—Mrs. W. H. Sell, Fredonia, Kans., May 26.

Parsons.—The two weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. H. B. Mohler, came to a close last night. Four were received into the church through baptism. The congregation was very much built up and strengthened through Bro. Mohler's preaching. Our love feast was held Saturday evening, with Bro. Mohler officiating, assisted by Bro. Reed, of Galesburg, Kans. Sunday a basket dinner was served and we enjoyed the social hour together. In the afternoon a business session was held. Brethren Harold Clark and Porter Amos were called to the deacon's office and duly installed. Bro. John A. Campbell and wife were advanced to the second degree of the ministry. May 16 the Gospel Team from McPherson rendered a fine program.—Julia C. Jones, Parsons, Kans., May 26.

Wade Branch church met in council May 17, with Eld. R. F. McCune presiding. Two letters were received. We decided to hold a series of meetings this fall, closing with a love feast. Our collection for Annual Meeting was $67.26. Our young people rendered a very good program on Mothers' Day. We will also observe Children's Day by a program. We have no pastor at present but for this place in the near future.—Mrs. S. W. Myers, Paola, Kans., May 26.

MARYLAND

EVANGELISTIC WEEK IN INDIA

(Continued from Page 363)

villages, held 20 meetings and spoke to 421 people. They gave out 52 tracts; sold 16 Gospels and 5 tracts. They received requests for 2 schools; two were baptized. The offering from Rudha was Rs. 33/1.

Great zeal was shown among our Indian workers to lift a large offering for the work of our District Mission Board. This being a year of famine and high prices, the Indian church would have done very well with an offering no larger than that of last year, which was Rs. 1,506/6, but to the joy of us all, they went "over the top" with an offering of Rs. 1,998/2/9, anincrease of little less than Rs. 500 over last year. This includes the bat collection at District Meeting, which was Rs. 117/2/9. One dollar is equal to three rupees.

The workers report many experiences of interest and profit to themselves and to the work. Only a few can be given. One group from Anklesvar made a three days' tour among the villages. The first day they were unable to get fodder for their oxen. In the evening they came to a village and asked the head official for a place to stay for the night, and fodder for the bullocks, stating further that they would cook their own food, which they had with them. The man was a Brahman and when he saw that they were Christians, he did not want to have anything to do with them, fearing they would make trouble for him with his caste. For that reason he would not give them a place nor food for their bullocks. It seemed dark for a time, because they felt they could not go on without first feeding their animals. Finally, one said to the official: "Why are you opposed to the Christians? They are good people. What do you know about them that you should fear? In South India there are many Christians." After talking along that line for some time, the man completely changed his attitude, and ordered his servant to give them a place for the night to feed their oxen and to cook food which he himself insisted on furnishing. In short, he did everything for them that their hearts could desire. When, in the morning, it came time for them to go, the Brahman refused to accept any pay for his hospitality, so they gave him six Gospels, which he accepted.

On Sunday afternoon Bro. Stover with the boarding-school boys and several others went on the streets of Anklesvar, to preach and sell Gospels and tracts. Several of the boys sold a number of Gospels, which they enjoyed doing. Coming into the bazaar, near the place where the liquor-shop is located, a drunken man came before Bro. Stover and bowed to him, bending himself well toward the ground. Bro. Stover lifted up his finger, and looked at the pitiful specimen of humanity bowed before him, who remained thus for several minutes, until finally the Sabab told him it was enough, that he should go his way. By that time a crowd had gathered, and then Bro. Stover spoke to them for a few minutes on the evils of intemperance and what America has done to banish the liquor business from her borders.

The following incidents are related in the April number of "Prakash Patra": When our delegates were on their way to District Meeting, several Brahmans were also in the car. One of the Christians banded a copy of Proverbs to each Brahman,—all of whom, except one, handed their copy back, when they saw it was Christian literature. The one who kept his copy, after reading two pages, turned to his boy and said: "Son, take this book; it is of great use to you." He bought this and two other copies for his friends.

In a district where there is much thieving, one master and his workers, while on their way to a near-by village, at night, met about twenty men, who evidently were out for what they could steal. The workers, "buying up their opportunity," preached the Gospel Message to them and sold them several Gospels. Then both parties went their way.—the Christians, to a village for preaching, and the thieves to the railroad to steal grain from the goods-train.

A. T. Hoffert.

Anklesvar, India.

AN APPEAL FOR WORKERS

To All the Loved Ones Who Have in Any Way Contributed to the Cause of the Kingdom:—

Greetings to you all in the name of our dear Lord! Grace and peace be multiplied! Since arriving here, I have had a longing desire to tell you how wonderfully God has guided us, protected us, and kept us in perfect peace and safety during our long and perilous journey across the deep, and finally brought us to our desired haven, where he has appointed us a place to serve, and where we are busily and happily engaged in his service in this needy field.

To you, "the faithful in Christ," who followed us every step of the way with your prayers, who gave generously of your gifts of love, making it possible for us to be here and share the great blessings with these who so much need salvation, we say, from a full heart: "Thank you and God bless you," in the fullest meaning of that term, for your reward is great in heaven.

Beloved, you will never know what it all means to these needy ones, especially during these hard days of famine and distress. It is sad, sad indeed, to note the physical distress and needs of the famine-stricken people, and to hear the cry of the hungry children especially, but still more sad and distressing it is to note the spiritual needs of India's teeming millions. Who is responsible for this condition?

We are much in prayer that during this coming year the needed workers will be on their way to this needy, needy field. Every one of your force of workers here is overburdened. We are putting up a stiff fight to "hold the fort" until relief comes. Will you join us in prayer that physical strength may be given, that we may not fall down under the heavy strain and the heavy responsibilities, so that we may be able to hold up the banner of King Jesus until victory for the Lord is won in this sin-cursed land?

It is heart-rending as we stand in these open doorways of opportunity, and see the great fields waiting for the reapers, ripe unto the harvest, and not a soul to enter in. We are brought to our knees many times, as we cry out unto the Lord of the harvest.

YOU, whom GOD has called to come over and help, what is in the way? Why are YOU not among those who will come? Remember, no one else can do YOUR share of this work! YOU must do it, or it suffers, and you will bear the consequences.

Just take this one part of our field in Jalalpor district,—to say nothing of the rest. Here is a wonderful opportunity to work among the women, the girls and the children, in the whole of this district. The door is wide open. Who will enter?

Did I bear you say: "Why do YOU not do this work if there is such a wonderful opportunity?" Beloved reader, if you will stop a moment to think, your heart will be made to bleed as does ours, when we tell you that there was no missionary man and wife available for this station when vacated by Bro. Emmert, wife and family, as they left for a much-needed and well-deserved furlough in the homeland. So the management of this station fell to the lot of "single ladies," who should be free to do the work which regularly falls to them on the mission field. Will you not join us in earnest, heart-felt prayer that a man and his wife may be available for this station, as well as the needed workers elsewhere!

I appeal to you, who are MEN, who have manhood and nobility of character, can you stand by and see a woman,—in this land especially,—shoulder the responsibility that rightly belongs to man, and then carry her own share of the work and responsibility besides? No, you can not do that. Then respond at once, and prove your true worth, by doing YOUR part. Please note, that at least EIGHT MEN, besides women, are to be sent to India this year. Will you be one of the EIGHT? "Go or send! Pray and spend"! You are responsible for YOUR PORTION of the unsaved! You have heard that before, and you will hear it again if you do not respond.

Ida C. Shumaker.

Jalalpor, Surat District, India, April 16.

MANCHESTER COLLEGE, INDIANA

The twenty-fourth annual commencement exercises of Manchester College occurred May 18 to 22. Though there was rain every day, the attendance was large and the events passed most pleasantly.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached on Sunday evening, May 18, by Dr. Otho Winger from the theme "Know Thyself." Four excellent programs were rendered during the week by the Literary Societies, Bible Society, Music School and Expression Department. The class of 1919 revived much of the past history of the college by an interesting program on the afternoon of the last day.

The annual Commencement Address was given by Dr. J. A. Clement, of DePauw University. It was a scholarly presentation of the world's condition at present, and the duties of Christian men and women in this present crisis. The graduating class included sixty men and women. Seventeen received the A. B. degree. This is the smallest college class the institution has had for five years. The young men had been hindered in their course by the calls of war. Then, too, there was a vacant chair,—Sister Dora Wagner, of Lanark, Ill., having been called during the year to her home above.

The events of this week were made more pleasant by the presence of a distinguished visitor, Rev. D. N. Howe, A. M., of Custer, Ohio. Rev. Howe was the founder of Manchester College thirty years ago, under the United Brethren direction. This was his first visit to Manchester for nearly twenty years. But he manifests as much interest in the college today as he did then. He was honored, at this commencement, by the degree of doctor of laws.

During the week the entire trustee board was present. Since their last meeting Eld. John Calvin Bright, trustee of Southern Ohio, was called away. His place was ably filled by the new trustee, Levi Minnich. The trustees decided upon many things in harmony with the Forward Movement in education. They have plans for a new sixty thousand dollar building, a larger endowment and a larger faculty.

Four new teachers have been secured for the College Department this coming year. Perhaps the biggest advance is in the Bible Department. Two new teachers were employed for this work. Courses have been added that will be of special interest to country pastors and Sunday-school teachers.

The outlook for a large attendance is the best now that it has ever been. Many new opportunities have come to our Christian colleges. This is the time to accept the responsibility and move forward to greater things.

Clara Harper.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

FAYETTEVILLE, W. VA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society of the Pleasant View church for 1918: Ten meetings were held, with an average attendance of twelve. We made and sold 4 comforts, donated 2 comforts, sold 4 bedspreads and 53 prayer-veils. We gave for home charities, addition to church, etc., $101.86; to Armenian sufferers, $30; to Annual Meeting, $18; French Relief Work, $11; to World-wide Missions, $40; total expended, $498.03; in treasury, 90 cents. Officers: President, Mary M. Jones; Vice-President, Lucinda Hypes; Secretary-Treasurer, the writer.—Virgie L. McAvoy, Fayetteville, W. Va., May 19.

NEW ENTERPRISE, PA.—Report of the Sisters' Aid Society for the year ending March 31, 1919: Cash from preceding year, $8.12; work completed, $60.68; monthly dues, $11.80; collections, $9.57; birthday contributions, $6.01; outside contributions, $1.75; money lifted from bank, $1,106; contribution to Mary Quinter fund, $120; to Red Cross, $16; rent paid, $12; materials purchased, $21.03; bank deposit, $17; medical care for Sarah Replogle, $4; Old Folks' Home, $5; Armenian Relief, $15; cash on hand, $13.90. Officers: President, Lizzie Ober; Vice-President, Rose Reliey; Treasurer, Ella Snoberger; Secretary, the writer; Assistant, Lizzie Bechtle.—Julia Snyder, New Enterprise, Pa., May 20.

PRESTON, MINN.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society of Root River congregation: On account of the Red Cross work, we discontinued our Aid for a time. This report is of our Aid Society, and does not include the Red Cross work. Collections and donations, $36.04; goods sold, $12.65; received for work, $43.00; on hand from 1917, $24.71; paid out, $64.47; balance, $15.63. Officers: Sister Amy Owen, President; Sister Jane Finekh, Superintendent; Sister Laura Broadwater, Secretary-Treasurer.—Amanda Dornink, Preston, Minn., May 14.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made at the time the notice is sent, and full address given.

Backus-Dietz.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, in Detroit, Mich., May 10, 1919, Bro. Archie L. Backus and Sister Olive P. Dietz, both of Detroit.—C. L. Wilkins, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Custer-Millar.—By the undersigned, at the parsonage in Pittsburgh, Pa., May 10, 1919, Bro. James A. Custer and Sister Carrie E. Miller, both of Johnstown, Pa.—C. Walter Warstler, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dill-Spicher.—By the undersigned, at his home, April 10, 1919, Mr. Ralph Linden Dill, of Felton, Del., and Sister Caroline A. Spicher, of Denton, Md.—J. W. Krabill, Denton, Md.

Shively-Egolf.—By the writer, May 22, 1919, Bro. Esli Shively, Columbia City, Ind., and Miss Helen Egolf, Churubusco, Ind.—Lee R. Smith, Columbia City, Ind.

Vaniman-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, Brother and Sister Abram Bowman, May 21, 1919, Bro. Arthur C. Vaniman and Sister Olive Ethel Bowman, both of Girard, Ill.—D. Warren Shoek, Girard, Ill.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Buston, Delilah, nee Heistand, born in Wyandot County, Ohio, died at Benton, Ohio, at the home of her son, Deonis Buxton, May 19, 1919, aged 81 years, 7 months and 19 days. In 1864 she married Andrew Buxton, who preceded her eleven years ago. To this union were born seven children, five of whom have died. She united with the Church of the Brethren about fifty-five years ago. One son and one daughter survive. Services by the writer in the Union church. Burial in the cemetery near by.—J. L. Guthrie, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

Covar, Mary Etta, born in Fayette County, Pa., Sept. 8, 1846, died at the home of her brother, John C. Cover, Laketon, Ind., May 11, 1919. When seventeen years of age, her mother died, leaving her to care for her younger brothers and sisters, which she faithfully undertook. She remained at home until the death of her father. She united with the Church of the Brethren in July, 1865, and remained a devoted member until death. She suffered much of her life with asthma, but faithfully attended church services until recent years. She leaves three brothers, three sisters and many nieces and nephews. The remains were brought to Masontown, Pa., and laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery May 15. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. C. M. Driver.—F. F. Durr, Masontown, Pa.

Cupp, Sister Ada, daughter of Bro. Newton (deceased) and Sister Betty Cupp, died at the Rockingham Memorial Hospital, Harrisonburg, Va., April 10, 1919, aged 22 years, 2 months and 13 days. She is survived by her mother, two brothers and four sisters. Her father and one sister preceded her. She united with the church early in life and remained faithful. Services at the Branch house by Bro. A. S. Thomas. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Meda G. Argenbright, Bridgewater, Va.

Eshelman, Sister Clara Susan, nee Miller, born near Hagerstown, Md., March 11, 1853, died at the home of her sister in Lanark, Ill., May 19, 1919, aged 66 years, 2 months and 8 days. She came to Illinois with her parents when quite young, and lived here ever since except about a year spent in Iowa. About 1875 she was baptized into the Church of the Brethren. Sept. 20, 1877, she was married to Bro. David B. Eshelman, who was called home Aug. 8, 1899. Death was due to a paralytic stroke, from which she was practically helpless for nearly two years. Aunt Callie, as she was known, was kind and cheerful, gentle and good. She leaves one brother and one sister. Services at the Cherry Grove church by the writer, assisted by Elders I. R. Young and Wm. Eisenbise. Burial in the cemetery near by.—James M. Moore, Lanark, Ill.

Gindar, Emma, wife of John E. Gindar, of Mt. Joy Township, died of pneumonia, May 6, 1919, aged 36 years, 5 months and 26 days. She leaves her husband and four children. Services by the home ministers at the Chickies house. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.—P. C. Geib, Manheim, Pa.

Gnagey, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Brother and Sister Milton ousand dollar building, a larger endowment and a larger ulty.

Four new teachers have been secured for the College partment this coming year. Perhaps the biggest adnce is in the Bible Department. Two new teachers re employed for this work. Courses have been added t will be of special interest to country pastors and nday-school teachers.

The outlook for a large attendance is the best now t it has ever been. Many new opportunities have come our Christian colleges. This is the time to accept the ponsibility and move forward to greater things.

Clara Harper.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

AYETTEVILLE, W. VA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society of the asant View church for 1918: Ten meetings were held, with an rage attendance of twelve. We made and sold 4 comforts, do- ed 2 comforts, sold 4 bedspreads and 53 prayer-veils. We gave home charities, addition to church, etc., $101.86; to Armenian suf- rers, $30; to Annual Meeting, $10; French Relief Work, $11; to eld-wide Missions, $40; total expended, $198.03; in treasury, 90 ts. Officers: President, Mary M. Jones; Vice-President, Lucinda e; Secretary-Treasurer, the writer.—Virgie L. McAvoy, Fayette- e, W. Va., May 19.

EW ENTERPRISE, PA.—Report of the Sisters' Aid Society for year ending March 31, 1919: Cash from preceding year, $8.12; ney collected, $60.68; monthly dues, $11.80; collections, $8.37; birth- r contributions, $6.01; outside contributions, $1.75; money lifted m bank, $1,106; contribution to Mary Quinter fund, $100; to Red oss, $5; rent paid, $12; materials purchased, $21.03; bank deposit, $64.47; balance, $15.63. Officers: Sister Amy Owen, President; ter Jane Finckh, Superintendent; Sister Laura Broadwater, Sec- ary-Treasurer.—Amanda Dominik, Preston, Minn., May 14.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication m marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel essenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Receipt uld be made at the time the notice is sent, and full address en.

Backus-Dietz.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's pa- s, in Detroit, Mich., May 10, 1919, Bro. Archie L. Backus and ter Olive P. Dietz, both of Detroit.—C. L. Wilkins, Grand Rapids, ch.

uster-Miller.—By the undersigned, at the parsonage in Pittsburgh, , May 10, 1919, Bro. James A. Custer and Sister Carrie E. Miller, th of Johnstown, Pa.—C. Walter Wertzler, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ill-Spicher.—By the undersigned, at his home, April 10, 1919, Mr. iph Linden Dill, of Felton, Del., and Sister Caroline A. Spicher, of nton, Md.—J. W. Krabill, Denton, Md.

bively-Egolf.—By the writer, May 22, 1919, Bro. Eali Shively, lumbia City, Ind., and Miss Helen Egolf, Churubusco, Ind.—Lee B. ith, Columbia City, Ind.

animen-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's ents, Brother and Sister Abram Bowman, May 21, 1919, Bro. hur S. Vaniman and Sister Olive Ethel Bowman, both of Girard, .—D. Warren Shock, Girard, Ill.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die In the Lord"

Buxton, Delilah, nee Heistand, born in Wyandot County, Ohio, d at Benton, Ohio, at the home of her son, Dennis Buxton, May 19, aged 81 years, 7 months and 19 days. In 1864 she married drew Buxton, who preceded her eleven years ago. To this union re born seven children, five of whom have died. She united with e Church of the Brethren about fifty-five years ago. One son and daughter survive. Services by the writer in the Union church. rial in the cemetery near by.—J. L. Guthrie, Upper Sandusky, io.

Cover, Mary Etta, born in Fayette County, Pa., Sept. 8, 1846, died the home of her brother, John C. Cover, Laketon, Ind., May 11, 9. When seventeen years of age, her mother died, leaving her to re for her younger brothers and sisters, which she faithfully under- ok. She remained at home until the death of her father. She ited with the Church of the Brethren in July, 1865, and remained devoted member until death. She suffered much of her life with hma, but faithfully attended church services until recent years. e leaves three brothers, three sisters and many nieces and phews. The remains were brought to Masontown, Pa., and laid to t in the Fairview cemetery May 15. Services by the writer, as- ted by Eld. C. M. Driver.—F. F. Durr, Masontown, Pa.

Cupp, Sister Ada, daughter of Bro. Newton (deceased) and Sister tty Cupp, died at the Rockingham Memorial Hospital, Harrison- rg, Va., April 10, 1919, aged 26 years, 2 months and 13 days. She is rvived by her mother, two brothers and four sisters. Her father and one sister preceded her. She united with the church early in and remained faithful. Services at the Branch house by Bro. S. Thomas. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Meda G. Argen- ght, Bridgewater, Va.

Eshelman, Sister Clara Susan, nee Miller, born near Hagerstown, l., March 11, 1853, died at the home of her sister in Lanark, Ill., ay 19, 1919, aged 66 years, 2 months and 8 days. She came to nois with her parents when quite young, and lived here ever since except about a year spent in Iowa. About 1875 she was bap- ed into the Church of the Brethren. Sept. 20, 1877, she was mar- d to Bro. David B. Eshelman, who was called home Aug. 8, 1889. ath was due to a paralytic stroke, from which she was practically Gnagey, died within the bounds of the Summit Mills congregation, aged 4 years, 6 months and 8 days. Services by the writer.—J. W. Peck, Meyersdale, Pa.

Hinkle, Henry Shafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Hinkle, born at Iowa City, died at St. Luke's Hospital, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, of meningitis, April 29, 1919, aged 3 years, 8 months and 3 days. His parents and one brother survive. Services in the Brethren church in Garrison by Bro. Edmister. Interment in Garrison cemetery.—Minnie Gnagey, Dysart, Iowa.

Joyce, Noble J., died of lockjaw, April 26, 1919, aged 57 years. He is survived by his wife and five stepchildren. Services at the Antioch church by the undersigned.—S. P. Hylton, Yoder, Colo.

Miller, Bro. Abram S., died in the bounds of the Woodbury church, Bedford County, Pa., April 6, 1919, aged 66 years, 9 months and 22 days. He leaves his wife, three sons and one daughter. Service by Eld. J. B. Miller, assisted by the writer.—J. C. Stayer, Woodbury, Pa.

Puckett, Mattie W., died of heart trouble, May 17, 1919, aged 33 years, 1 month and 27 days. She leaves her husband, five children and several brothers and sisters. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren. Services at Basic by Bro. N. W. Cofman, assisted by the writer.—L. S. Yoder, Basic, Va.

Sanders, Mrs. Isabelle Ann, widow of the late Wm. Sanders, died at her home in Vinton, Iowa, April 5, 1919, aged 79 years, 3 months and 4 days. Death was due to injuries received from a fall. She was a member of the Brethren church for a number of years. She leaves two brothers and one adopted daughter. Services by Bro. Edmister in the United Brethren church in Vinton.—Minnie Gnagy, Dysart, Iowa.

Spaugh, Sister, wife of Bro. C. A. Spaugh, died at her home at Durham, Okla., of influenza, March 3, 1919. She leaves her husband and six children. Services at the Elk City church by Bro. J. R. Pitzer. Interment in adjoining cemetery.—Elizabeth E. Byerly, Elk City, Okla.

Spitler, Sarah Catherine, wife of Bro. Isaac Spitler, died of paralysis at her home, near Lanark, Ill., April 9, 1919, aged 76 years, 8 months and 9 days. She was the daughter of Jonas and Catherine Varner. She united with the Brethren church about forty-five years ago and remained a faithful member. She is survived by her husband, one son and one daughter. Services at Mt. Zion Brethren church by Elders B. F. Neff and D. N. Spitler. Interment in the cemetery near by.—H. F. Sours, Luray, Va.

Strausbaugh, Sister Hasel, nee Merriman, born in Ross County, Ohio, died at her home in Chillicothe, Ohio, May 14, 1919, aged 22 years, 4 months and 20 days. In 1915 she married C. E. Strausbaugh, who, with two sons, survives. Services by the writer at the Charleston church. Interment in cemetery near by.—Oliver Royer, Circleville, Ohio.

Wallick, Rebecca, daughter of Peter and Phebe Showalter, born in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, died at her home near Bloomingdale, Mich., April 30, 1919, aged 87 years, 6 months and 4 days. She married Alexander B. Wallick in 1849. Four sons were born to them, three of whom survive. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for seventy years and was always actively engaged in the work of the church. Services at the home by Eld. John M. Smith, of Woodland, Mich.—Elias Wallick, Bloomingdale, Mich.

Warner, Sister Malinda, born in Darke County, Ohio, Oct. 14, 1863, died from the effects of influenza, May 17, 1919. She married James Wesley Burkett in 1884. At the age of fourteen she became a Christian and united with the Church of the Brethren. The husband and eight children survive. Services by the pastor, assisted by Brethren Harshbarger and W. H. Shull.—D. Warren Shock, Girard, Ill.

Wertz, Bro. George B., born in Richland Township, Cambria Co., Pa., Jan. 20, 1879, died at his home in Johnstown, Pa., April 28, 1919, aged 40 years, 3 months and 8 days. The cause of death was pernicious anæmia. He is survived by his wife, Sister Blanche Ober Wertz, to whom he was married Aug. 20, 1908, two small children, his parents, Brother and Sister David A. Wertz, four brothers and three sisters. Bro. Wertz united with the church while a student at Juniata College, in 1904. In 1912 he was chosen deacon in the Johnstown congregation, and was considered one of the pillars of the church. He also served faithfully as church choirister, Sunday-school teacher, and assistant superintendent. For several years he was a member of the executive board of the Sunday School Association of Western Pennsylvania. In all of these important trusts he was a faithful worker. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. Edgar M. Detwiler, at the Walnut Grove Church. Text, Rev. 14: 13. Interment in Grandview cemetery.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

Wise, infant son of Milton and Lavina (Sloop) Wise, died May 12, 1919. Short services at the home by the writer. Burial in the Hillcrest cemetery, near Redkey, Ind.—D. A. Hummer, Portland, Ind.

Young, Bro. Lee W., born at Prairie City, Iowa, died at Hot Springs, Ark., where he had gone for treatment, April 26, 1919, aged 34 years, 10 months and 4 days. For a year he was discharged from service at Camp Funston and returned to his father's home, near Ottawa, Kans. Feb. 22, 1919, he married Miss Ruby Garrett, who survives, together with his father, W. A. Young, one brother and three sisters. Services in the church at Ottawa by the writer, assisted by Eld. R. F. McCune. Interment in Highland cemetery.—Willis B. Devilbiss, Ottawa, Kans.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY.

General Mission Board.—H. C. Early, Chairman, Pene Laird, Va.; Otho Winger, Vice-Chairman, North Manchester, Ind.; J. J. Yoder, McPherson, Kans.; A. P. Blough, 1315 Grant Ave., Waterloo, Iowa; Chas. D. Bonnack, New Windsor, Md.; Life Advisory Member, D. L. Miller, Mt. Morris, Ill. Secretary-Treasurer for the Board, J. H. B. Williams, Elgin, Ill.

General Sunday School Board.—H. K. Ober, Chairman, Elizabethtown, Pa.; S. S. Blough, Vice-Chairman, Astoria, Ill.; Jas. M. Mohler, Treasurer, Canton, Mo.; Ezra Flory, 3446 Van Buren Street, Chicago; C. S. Ikenberry, Dalcville, Va., Secretary for the Board, J. E. Miller, Elgin, Ill.

General Educational Board.—D. W. Kurtz, President, McPherson, Kans.; Wm. Beery, Vice-President, Trotwood, Ohio; J. S. Flory, Bridgewater, Va.; D. C. Reber, North Manchester, Ind.; J. W. Lear, Mt. Morris, Ill. Secretary for the Board, H. A. Brandt, Elgin, Ill.

Temperance Committee.—P. J. Blough, Chairman, Hooversville, Pa.; A. J. Culler, Secretary, McPherson, Kans.; J. Carson Miller, Treasurer, Mount Morris, Ill.

Peace Committee.—W. J. Swigart, Chairman, Huntingdon, Pa.; A. C. Wieand, Secretary, 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago; Jacob Funk, Treasurer, Wiley, Colo.

Homeless Children Committee.—Frank Fisher, President, Mexico, Ind.; P. S. Thomas, Secretary, Harrisonburg, Va.; E. E. John, Treasurer, McPherson, Kans.

Committee on Dress Reform.—E. M. Studebaker, Chairman, McPherson, Kans.; J. J. John, Vice-Chairman, New Windsor, Md.; Lydia E. Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer, Mt. Morris, Ill.; Eva Trostle, 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago; Mrs. Polk Ellenberger, 6035 Pryor Avenue, St. Joseph, Mo.

Tract Examining Committee.—T. T. Myers, Chairman, Huntingdon, Pa.; Edgar Rothrock, Secretary, Holmesville, Nebr.; E. B. Hoff, Maywood, Ill.; Jas. M. Moore, Lanark, Ill.; J. P. Dickey, Le Verne, Cal.

When Ordering Sun
Include Some

Our 1XL Register is mad ty inches wide. We fu one top piece and five ha inch figures and SIXTEEN
ment; Attendance Today;
Attendance a Year Ago; O
Sunday; Offering a Year A
Attendance; Cradle Roll;
Psalms; Boys; Girls; Bible

Postpaid, ...
Extra Steel Hangers, 25
Extra Slides, 5 cents eac
Extra Figures, 40 cents

We will make to order
25 cents each.

Our Birthd

The register consists o month, with 3 birthday sa the thing to keep track of

Brethren S

Your children will be wearing one of these butt sizes of special occasions two colors, one half red a Per dozen, 25c; per 100, $1.

Lock Bank

No. 1, postpaid, ...60c
No. 2, postpaid, ...70c

Made of Clear Flint Glass with a patent metal screw top, perfect padlock and key. The money can not be extracted.
The coins pass through a slit in a round disk of rubber underneath the cover. Will receive any coin from a penny to a dollar.

No. 1 holds 200 nickels and
No. 2 holds 350 nickels.

ORDER BLANK

BRETHREN PUBLISHING
Enclosed find $.....fo for the .....
ending .....
Town .....
If order is to be charged, to Town .....

No. of Copies	Subscriptions ma —the
.....	BRETHREN TEA dress, 1 to 4, 15c yr., 60c; clubs of
.....	BRETHREN QU
.....	Advanced Quart copies to one ad
.....	Advanced Quart yr., 25c; five or
.....	Intermediate Qu copies to one ad
.....	Junior Quarterly to one address,
.....	Primary Quarter to one address,
.....	Senior Leaflets, to one address,
.....	Junior Leaflets, TOTAL FOR QU
.....	OUR YOUNG PE one address per
.....	OUR BOYS AND to one address,
.....	CHILDREN AT to one address,
.....	OTHER SUNDA
.....	Bible Lesson Pic
.....	Pictura Lesson C
.....	Foundation Tru
.....	Single copy, per
.....	Lesson Pictures
.....	Child's Life of C
.....	Single copy per
.....	Lesson Pictures
.....	Junior Teachers
.....	The Junior Pup
.....	Secretary's Min
.....	Twentieth Cent
.....	Paramount Min
.....	Paramount Min
.....	Brethren Teache
.....	Star Internation
.....	No. 2, 25 names,
.....	Collection and A
.....	Star Attendance
.....
.....
.....	TOTAL FOR OTHER SU

Remember to Order

Christian Workers' Topical Outlines for July to Dec.

25 copies, ...$ .75
50 copies, ... 1.25
100 copies, ... 2.00

Junior Workers' Topic Cards for July to Dec.

10 cards, ...$ .10
100 cards, ... .75

Golden Text Book

A vest pocket reminder of the texts and Daily Home Readings for scholars' and teachers' use. Each 5c; per dozen,...$ .50

Studies in Doctrine and Devotion, 50c

The new book of doctrine prepared especially for new converts and all others interested in the doctrines of the Church. May be used as a text or reference book in connection with the Sunday-school Lessons for the next few months.

Brethren

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24:14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3:13 "Till we all attain unto . . . the stature of the fulness of Christ."—Eph. 4:13.

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., June 14, 1919 No. 24

1719--Becker Bicentennial Echoes--1919

Not within the memory of the oldest attendant has the Conference been held four times on the same spot. But this is number four for Winona Lake. And the number is likely to be increased, for when we get that splendid new auditorium that's on the way somewhere, the advantages afforded by this place for Conference purposes will indeed be hard to surpass. It is not an easy matter as it is.

Many of us had earnestly hoped that the new auditorium would materialize in time for this Conference, and most of the Districts directly concerned had taken some action looking toward this end. But the conditions brought on by the war, combined with certain other important interests, made it impracticable to push the matter. But it takes a good deal of hope deferred to make the heart of some of us too sick to keep on hoping. So we shall expect to see our hope realized by 1922.

Or by 1923, perhaps, we ought to say. For there's the Pacific Coast to be reckoned with. The folks out there may succeed in convincing the delegates that they should make the seven-year interval for Coast Conferences a regular feature. In that case it is likely to be four years until we get back to Winona Lake.

Did anybody wonder what had broken Virginia's charm on the years that end in nine? Or what gave her that charm to begin with? Or had it slipped your mind that the Conference was held in Virginia in 1869? And in 1879? And in 1889? And in 1899? And in 1909? The writer had not forgotten it,—perhaps because he attended all of them, but one. It doesn't matter, but that one is not the one you've guessed.

Rather an interesting coincidence here, or something, isn't there? We guess the zone system of locating our Conferences had something to do with breaking the spell, but what made it last for half a century? Let some self-appointed expert on the mysteries of chance and Providence work at the problem. We haven't time.

Wednesday, June 4

Sometimes it has been a little difficult to tell just when the Conference begins. But there's no mistaking that point this year. Exactly at the appointed time, 7 P. M., Wednesday, June 4, 1919, the Becker Bicentennial began. And it began in earnest. Bro. H. C. Early, moderator for the evening, called the assembly to order, and Sister Stahly, the Conference song leader, led us in "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." "'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus" followed, after which opening devotions were conducted by Bro. C. F. McKee, pastor of the Green Tree church, Pa.

Before introducing the first speaker of the evening, Moderator Early offered a few remarks about the special significance of this Conference, as the two-hundredth anniversary of the coming of the Brethren to America. He explained that the program had been built around the idea of the meaning of Peter Becker's coming, rather than the history of it. There was to be some history too, enough to serve as a "spring-board," but we would not dwell on the past so much as we did at the Bicentennial of 1908 when we commemorated the two-hundredth anniversary of the beginning of our church organization. This time we were to do as Peter Becker did,—look forward.

Bro. D. L. Miller's address on "What the Church Means to Me" was a most excellent first number on the program. He was evidently surprised and inspired by the size of the audience. His first answer to the question, implied in his subject, was that the church meant more to him than anything else in the world. This was what he was living for. He had no other business.

He emphasized strongly the importance of sound doctrinal standards, dwelling especially upon those pertaining to the person and work of Christ, such as his virgin birth, divinity, atonement and resurrection. He rejoiced that the church had a form of baptism, the validity of which was hardly questioned by anybody. In commending and urging her simple life principles he spoke out strongly against the evil influence of the average modern picture show.

He made a most earnest plea for church unity, saying that he regarded his relation to his brethren as close as that of the physical members of his body. The importance of unified effort he illustrated by an observation made in his travels, when a few men in a small rowboat, by working together and keeping on, even when they felt an occasional backward jerk, succeeded in pulling a heavily-laden barge up alongside the ship which was to take on her burden. As to church federation, so-called, he was in favor of it, so far as based on the Gospel of Christ, but not otherwise.

The address met with a hearty response by the audience, which was in fine spirit for singing "O Happy Day" before listening to the illustrated lecture of Dr. F. J. Wampler on "The China Field."

Bro. Wampler's address was also listened to and "looked at" with great interest. To avoid prolonging the session unduly, he spoke rapidly and the scenes changed rapidly, the slides being manipulated by Sister Wampler. They have learned how to work together. The ground covered was of a varied nature. Maps and figures were shown, giving a good impression of our China field, physical and other features of the country illustrated, but, as might be expected from a doctor missionary, the lecture was largely devoted to the sanitary (*un*sanitary) conditions in China, and the hospital work of our mission.

Probably the most interesting part was that which pertained to the work of our doctors and others in stamping out the terrible pneumonic plague. Its awful ravages and the perils to which those were subjected who dared to fight it, were graphically portrayed. Nothing could have shown more effectively the value of scientific sanitation and treatment of disease, and the vital place of the medical missionary in the program of world evangelization.

The interest manifested in this first session of the Life Work Conference for Young People outran all expectation. It is well to guard against overenthusiasm in describing the very beginning of a Conference like this, lest we run out of adjectives before we reach the end, but the word of Bro. G. A. Snider, platform manager, is a fitting one. In his closing announcements he said it was wonderful. He was right.

"Would they really come on Wednesday?" The Lodging Committee said they did come, anyway, and they have a good opportunity to find out. Bro. Miller estimated that seven or eight hundred were present when he began his address, and that, in spite of the shower, just at opening time.

There were at least twice that many before the session closed, and people who are not extra cautious would say there were two thousand. Yes, the young people came and the old ones too. Nothing like this has ever been seen at this stage of an Annual Conference.

You may be sure the audience put heart and soul into the doxology, after which the closing prayer was offered by Bro. P. S. Miller, of Roanoke, Va.

Thursday, June 5

At the morning session of the Life-Work Conference four addresses were given on as many subjects, each of which was a sermon in itself. Each one seemed to be the most important, but it was certainly fitting that "The Place of Prayer in the Christian's Life" should be the first on the program, thus setting the tone of the whole session at the proper pitch. Bro. Jas. M. Moore, pastor of the Lanark church, Ill., was the speaker.

Bro. Moore dwelt upon the dependence of the Christian on Divine Resources, because of his own insufficiency, his need of light on the path of duty and of strength in temptation. Prayer is the avenue through which help comes. The speaker recognized the importance of intellectual training for effective work, but showed that the gift of the Spirit, most fundamental of all, comes only through prayer, which is the symphonizing of the heart with the will of God.

But the heart must be open and hungry for God to speak. For often the "line is busy." God is waiting in the depths of our being to talk to us, but we are preoccupied and he gets no response. "Alone with God," other voices cease or we cease to hear them.

The second address was by Bro. J. F. Graybill, our missionary to Sweden, now on furlough, on the theme: "How Shall I Invest my Life?" The very thought of life as an investment is one to thrill the hearts of young people who still have the investment to make. It was the same subject that Jesus talked on once when he gave that wonderful formula for saving one's life. Do you remember what it is?

Bro. Graybill said the life should be invested where it can do the most good. Ask God to show you how to run your business profitably. Learn from the man who gave hay to the preacher's horse how to make your resources yield the largest returns. He said the life should be consecrated about seventy years before birth,—a hint to parents and grandparents. The spirit of resignation, implied in our frequent "If the Lord will" is fine, he said, but when it comes to getting the Lord's work done we should not forget another great truth: "The Lord can, if we will."

At this point Bro. H. K. Ober, who was in charge of the meeting in the absence of Bro. J. J. Yoder, who had not yet reached the grounds, asked all under thirty years of age to stand. Then he said he wished somebody could invent a machine that would enable all these young people to see life as they will see it when they are fifty. Nobody offered to furnish the machine, but the suggestion must have helped a little anyway, in getting the right life-outlook.

A beautiful solo, "Glory to God in the Highest"

(Continued on Page 372)

A Magazine for Officers and Teachers

IN THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL

The May number of the Teachers' Monthly was a regular 48 page issue and contained nine pages of matter devoted to the exposition of each of the four lessons for the month. In addition it contained twelve pages of special articles as follows:

1. Your Sunday-school's Part in the Forward Movement.
2. Library Helps for Teachers.
3. The Missionary Message.
4. An Alphabet of Favorite Bible Verses.
5. Systematic Offerings in the Sunday-school.
6. The Spirit of Worship in the Sunday-school.
7. A "Round-up Sunday" Plan.
8. The Book of Books.
9. Emotional Life of a Child.
10. The Teacher Who Failed. Etc., etc.

A magazine which contains such a wealth of material on Sunday-school problems as well as the exposition of the lessons themselves should be in the hands of every teacher and officer.

The Teachers' Monthly

A Magazine for Sunday-School Officers and Teachers

Single copy, per quarter, 18c; three or more to one address, per quarter, 15c each; single copy, per year, 60c; three or more to one address, per year, 55c each.

Primary and Junior Note Books

The Primary Note Book provides space for the record of each lesson as follows:

Date of the lesson.
Subject of the lesson.
Space to paste lesson picture card.
Space for memory verse.
A page for "Something to Do."

If you have not found a way for the children to keep a record of the Sunday-school lesson and save their lesson cards in good shape just send for some Primary Note Books.

The Junior Note Book provides spaces for the date, subject and golden text of each lesson as well as a record for daily Bible study.

Price of either Primary or Junior Note Books as follows: Single copy 5c; five or more to one address 3c each. Uniform in size and binding with the Quarterlies.

ORDER NOW!

Full Report of the Proceedings of the Annual Meeting
of the Church of the Brethren
Held at Winona Lake, Ind.
June 4-11, 1919

THE GOSPEL MES

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24:14. "STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3:13

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., June 14, 1919

1719--Becker Bicentennial Echoes--1919

Not within the memory of the oldest attendant has the Conference been held four times on the same spot. But this is number four for Winona Lake. And the number is likely to be increased, for when we get that splendid new auditorium that's on the way somewhere, the advantages afforded by this place for Conference purposes will indeed be hard to surpass. It is not an easy matter as it is.

Many of us had earnestly hoped that the new auditorium would materialize in time for this Conference, and most of the Districts directly concerned had taken some action looking toward this end. But the conditions brought on by the war, combined with certain other important interests, made it impracticable to push the matter. But it takes a good deal of hope deferred to make the heart of some of us too sick to keep on hoping. So we shall expect to see our hope realized by 1922.

Or by 1923, perhaps, we ought to say. For there's the Pacific Coast to be reckoned with. The folks out there may succeed in convincing the delegates that they should make the seven-year interval for Coast Conferences a regular feature. In that case it is likely to be four years until we get back to Winona Lake.

Did anybody wonder what had broken Virginia's charm on the years that end in nine? Or what gave her that charm to begin with? Or had it slipped your mind that the Conference was held in Virginia in 1869? And in 1879? And in 1889? And in 1899? And in 1909? The writer had not forgotten it,—perhaps because he attended all of them, but one. It doesn't matter, but that one is not the one you've guessed.

Rather an interesting coincidence here, or something, isn't there? We guess the zone system of locating our Conferences had something to do with breaking the spell, but what made it last for half a century? Let some self-appointed expert on the mysteries of chance and Providence work at the problem. We haven't time.

Wednesday, June 4

Sometimes it has been a little difficult to tell just when the Conference begins. But there's no mistaking that point this year. Exactly at the appointed time, 7 P. M., Wednesday, June 4, 1919, the Becker Bicentennial began. And it began in earnest. Bro. H. C. Early, moderator for the evening, called the assembly to order, and Sister Stahly, the Conference song leader, led us in "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." "'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus" followed, after which opening devotions were conducted by Bro. C. F. McKee, pastor of the Green Tree church, Pa.

Before introducing the first speaker of the evening, Moderator Early offered a few remarks about the special significance of this Conference, as the two-hundredth anniversary of the coming of the Brethren to America. He explained that the program had been built around the idea of the message of Peter Becker's

Bro. D. L. Miller's address on "What the Church Means to Me" was a most excellent first number on the program. He was evidently surprised and inspired by the size of the audience. His first answer to the question, implied in his subject, was that the church meant more to him than anything else in the world. This was what he was living for. He had no other business.

He emphasized strongly the importance of sound doctrinal standards, dwelling especially upon those pertaining to the person and work of Christ, such as his virgin birth, divinity, atonement and resurrection. He rejoiced that the church had a form of baptism, the validity of which was hardly questioned by anybody. In commending and urging her simple life principles he spoke out strongly against the evil influence of the average modern picture show.

He made a most earnest plea for church unity, saying that he regarded his relation to his brethren as close as that of the physical members of his body. The importance of unified effort he illustrated by an observation made in his travels, when a few men in a small rowboat, by working together and keeping on, even when they felt an occasional backward jerk, succeeded in pulling a heavily-laden barge up alongside the ship which was to take on her burden. As to church federation, so-called, he was in favor of it, so far as based on the Gospel of Christ, but not otherwise.

The address met with a hearty response by the audience, which was in fine spirit for singing "O Happy Day" before listening to the illustrated lecture of Dr. F. J. Wampler on "The China Field."

Bro. Wampler's address was also listened to and "looked at" with great interest. To avoid prolonging the session unduly, he spoke rapidly and the scenes changed rapidly, the slides being manipulated by Sister Wampler. They have learned how to work together. The ground covered was of a varied nature. Maps and figures were shown, giving a good impression of our China field, physical and other features of the country illustrated, but, as might be expected from a doctor missionary, the lecture was largely devoted to the sanitary (*un*sanitary) conditions in China, and the hospital work of our mission.

Probably the most interesting part was that which pertained to the work of our doctors and others in stamping out the terrible pneumonic plague. Its awful ravages and the perils to which those were subjected who dared to fight it, were graphically portrayed. Nothing could have shown more effectively the value of scientific sanitation and treatment of disease, and the vital place of the medical missionary in the program of world evangelization.

The interest manifested in this first session of the Life Work Conference for Young People outran all expectation. It is well to guard against overenthusiasm [illegible] the very beginning of a Conference like tomed to talking over the work of the church with the pastor in a confidential way, and matters hardly seem to go right in the absence of the good old way. The new pastor has a large congregation, and is kept so exceedingly busy, looking after all the members of his well-scattered flock, that he finds no time to indulge in petting anybody. If he makes any difference at all, with those of his charge, it is his purpose to give the more attention to the weak, the aged and all those especially needing help. So far as he can understand, the Master wants him to feed and care for all the sheep of his flock, and so manage his work as to make the salvation of each one possible.

There may be more of this petting business going on than some of our readers imagine. A year or more ago we heard of a well-to-do congregation whose trustees had been petted until they were spoiled. Nothing could be done without their approval. If a pastor was to be employed, they must conduct all the negotiations and outline the work to be entrusted to the new preacher. When the congregation proposed to entrust such matters to the official board,—deacons and ministers,—there was trouble. The spoiled pets had to be dealt with.

We might easily call up other instances where men and even women have been petted until they became peevish and by and by made the church a whole lot of trouble. And, by the way, it is one thing to make a few pets in the congregation, but quite another to get rid of them, or even to get along with them to the satisfaction of the other members of the flock and the good of the cause. While a pastor can not well help loving some people more than others, he can avoid making special pets of selected favorites.

Sebring, Fla.

"And Joseph Shaved Himself"

BY W. J. SWIGART

CERTAINLY, the Bible says so; and I suspect that he needed it. Neglected two years in an Egyptian prison would leave a man in need of a shave and a change of raiment. Besides that, he is now summoned into the presence of King Pharaoh and needs to look his best. There is no escaping the fact that physical appearance and personal presence figure in the assets of life. A fine, attractive and commanding physique counts in the estimate of men. A good presence is an advantage to its possessor. Who of us, of diminutive size, has not wished he were six feet in height, weighed two hundred pounds,—and were good looking?

Joseph is about as nearly a sane and correct man as any of the characters of history. His is a great and noble character, and his is a distinguished career.

He is now to appear before the king. There are necessary physical preparations for a great event, as well as spiritual. He ought to be presentable. A stubby or straggling beard and his everyday prison garb would be against him. Of course his intelligence and character and spiritual acumen that enabled him to interpret dreams, and forecast the future of Egypt's condition for a fortnight of years, and the Divine grace that enabled him to stand in the fiery forge of lust's enticements, were the real assets and determined all,—but still he provides for a respectful and becoming physical presence, with which to approach the king.

The body is the outward, tangible expression of the inner spiritual man. It is the immediate and personal "habitat" of the man. It is more than this,—it is that which we see and first think about, judging of a man; and, of course, too often we think about it and speak about it as the man, the ego, the self. We invest it with all the qualities and personalities possessed by the indwelling man himself. It is also "the temple of the Holy Ghost" and should be properly cared for and kept.

The keeping of the body includes the clothing of the body. A change of clothing, with a cleansing of the body, makes a great difference in the appearance of the man. The cleansing and clothing of the body have a reflexive influence on the inner man himself, both intellectually and religiously. A man may be content to sit all day Sunday in his farm clothes, or his hunting garb, or his butchering habiliments, unshaved and hair unkempt, not going to church or among his fellows, content to lounge in unchanged raiment, but it implies decline in mental and moral fiber as well as in religious character. One can think better, worship better and be better when cleaned up physically.

The Sabbath has a physical function, as well as a religious. Shaving and bathing and getting into "Sunday clothes" is good for any one, and helps to maintain the spiritual functions of the Lord's day.

Joseph shaved and changed his raiment. He made himself more attractive in appearance; he was a clean and attractive man. He was presentable and made a favorable impression. Pharaoh concluded: "Here is my man to place over all this scheme of food conservation and to become next to the king in all the land." Who will doubt that the shave and change of raiment to which Joseph resorted, had its effects on him and on the king, and had its influence even on the destinies of his race and people?

Maintaining an attractive and comely appearance is a factor in life's affairs. Clothing does not make the man, but clothing indicates the man. One's influence, his worth and efficiency to the cause which he represents, the force of his appeals to others, the general estimate that is put upon him are all affected by the taste and consistency of his dress and presence. One's own estimate of himself is, in some degree, indicated by the manner in which he keeps himself.

As years come on men and women, they may become indifferent to the amenities of society and even of the home and dear friends, and become neglectful of common decorum in dress and manner. Thus they become repellent to their best friends, even to the extent of affecting the bond of tenderness and respect with which they are regarded. Beauty and attractiveness in youth do not surpass, in power and consistency, beauty and venerableness in old age.

> "The glory of young men is their strength,
> And the beauty of old men is the hoary head."
>
> "The hoary head is a crown of glory,
> If it be found in the way of righteousness."

The venerable and compelling beauty of aged men and women,—beauty first because of the cultured Christian spirit within them, and because of the consistent care they have taken of their persons,—is most inspiring. The plain and simple but fitting and becoming dress and person of many of our aged fathers and mothers is an inspiring memory concerning some that are dead, and an equally inspiring and pleasant fact in others who are living. I have most vivid and impressive remembrance of the attractive and respect-inspiring appearance both in dress and person, of Eld. James Quinter, and the contribution this gave to the power and dignity of his speech and life. I carry about with me always a vivid image of the appearance of his face, as his body lay in death, even after the Christed man had forsaken it, and we stood gazing and charmed, loath to commit to the dark and decaying tomb anything so fair to look upon, and so desirable to keep, and to live with.

Men and women, husbands and wives,—as years come,—may with profit, remember how they studied to be attractive and pleasing to each other in the lover days and courtship period, and may consistently study to maintain their physical as well as their social attractiveness for each other. This not only for the sake of the pleasurable remembrance of those times, but also for the sake of quickening and continuing those sentiments of pleasing attractiveness, and provoking anew admiration and devotion to each other.

In writing this, I have all proper and natural contempt for the dude,—for those whose chief aim is to dress, who study nothing so closely as the fashion plates, and concern themselves more about their physical appearance than about the inner adorning of a sweet spirit and a pure character. I am also aware that a sleek face and faultless dress are factors in the equipment and power of the rascals, villains and libertines, who insinuate themselves into the graces of unsuspecting and gullible innocents, robbing some of their hard-earned money and crushing the guileless hearts of others and robbing them of that which is a thousand times dearer to them than money or life itself. I am aware also that the follies and power of fashion have an unrighteous domination over the hearts, characters and lives of many people.

There is little or no limit to the power and extravagances and follies of fashion. Not what is economical, not what is comfortable, not what is becoming, not what is modest or moral in dress; but what is fashionable, is the final inquiry and determining factor too often. Peek-a-boos in January and furs in August! Clothing, it is said, is provided for two purposes: (1) For protection to the body. (2) For sake of natural modesty. It is a question whether the clothing of present-day fashions serves either purpose. "Fashion is simply doing as others do without asking questions." In the newspaper accounts of some weddings, the dress of the bride receives more notice than the bride herself,—and, possibly, sometimes the chief value the poor fellow gets, is included in this description of dry goods, etc., and the chief financial asset of some men is in the clothes they wear.

But all these facts only add to the force of the contention of this article,—that a personal and attractive physique is a factor in accomplishing one's mission, and in making one's self agreeable and successful among people. Let not the children of this world be wiser in their dealings in and with their generation than are the children of light in dealing and serving theirs. The preacher and the leader, the advocate of reform, the pleader for righteousness among men, the makers of homes, and the personalities that constitute the families,—all, with profit and promotion to their cause, may well remember that while the treasure is in earthen vessels, the earthen vessels should be so kept as to recommend the treasure.

In the visions of heaven that are given to us, the redeemed are represented as being washed and clothed in white raiment. Oh, that glorious vision of the renovated heaven and earth! Peopled with the sanctified and purified throng, hungering no more, thirsting no more,—no longer arrayed in the fading garments of earth, but in the shining robes of heaven,—even the vile bodies changed and made like unto his own glorious body.

Huntingdon, Pa.

The Holy Fire in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher

BY J. E. MILLER

HERE, in the Holy City, one has an opportunity to see many holy associations. He also has an opportunity to see much that is called holy that is holy only in name. As it has struck me, the Church of the Holy Sepulcher has gathered within its walls more frauds, as to religion, than can be found in any other place within a like compass, when one speaks of the Christian religion. It was my privilege to see this well-known ceremony on April 19. I must confess, after seeing it, that when I will hear it mentioned in addresses in the future, it will not have such a strong grip on me.

Just a word as to the origin of this Holy Fire. As one story runs, many hundreds of years ago the lamps in the holy place went out because of a lack of oil. The attendants did not know what to do. The chief official interceded and in some miraculous manner the oil was supplied, the lamps lit and all was in order again. There being no oil in the lamps and no fire at hand, it was evident that the fire had come from the tomb of Christ and hence was a holy fire. And now the ceremony of the Holy Fire is an annual observance.

On former occasions the crowds were much larger than this year. From Russia and other distant lands pilgrims have come, walking the entire distance that they might be present when the patriarch hands to the people the Holy Fire that comes from the tomb of Christ. This fire they then carry back to the homeland, and feel that they will be greatly blessed in so doing. This fire, they say, will not burn. I myself saw some put it to their cheeks, but I also saw evidence that they would not allow it to remain there very long.

(Continued on Page 374)

have seen some of them. Not only pet deacons, we have seen pet elders, as well as pets that did hold any official position. And it is amazing how ny people of this sort there are in the world. Then re are those who would like to be some one's pet enjoy the privilege of being petted. Candidly, re is something about this petting business that eals to more grown-up people than seems possible irst thought.

o start with, pets are quite generally very trouble- ne creatures. As a rule, they require a great deal ime and attention and fully nine out of every ten spoiled. While a sheep may be regarded as the e of that which is noble and desirable in the saint, a pet lamb is about the most vexatious four-legged ature on the premises. When fondled he may be very embodiment of innocence, and yet every d on the place soon learns, by sad experience, that ety consists in keeping out of his way. And so the y goes about pets. Of course there may be excep- ns, as was Mary's "little lamb that went with her chool one day." But of all the pets to be discour- d are those that wear shoes and possibly boots.

n the New Testament the duties of deacons are efully set forth. But there are no instructions for deacons, unless it be found in what some people te as scripture,—"Be a man."

The human pet,—be he a deacon, elder or non- cial,—is the man who must be constantly petted fondled in some way. Not willing to stand on his ord, he must be made a favorite and especially sulted about everything that is done. While others y take their chances in handling questions coming ore the church for consideration, the pet insists on views receiving special consideration. Sometimes elder, having such a deacon on his official board, ls it expedient to consult him much in order to oid more or less unpleasant opposition. To reason h him and treat him just like the other officials are ated, only makes an unfortunate situation that Th worse. He has been petted and indulged all his e and to him the world does not seem bright unless can be somebody's pet or favorite. In everything wants to be the right-hand man, and he would just soon that the left-hand officials did not know any- ng about his ideas and preferences until he has ceeded in getting them well rooted and grounded the mind of the elder or elders,—as the case may

He simply thinks of himself as the right-hand n, and the members of the congregation are not g in finding out that, after all, he is the real "power hind the throne,"—or tries to be.

Well, who is to blame for this petting, indulging d favorite business? For their peculiarities we have ver blamed the pets as much as we censure those o make the pets. God has made a good many ngs but, so far as we can learn, he has never made y pets. Man has made the pets and that, too, in not few cases, to his own sorrow. An elder may pet a acon, a minister or any other member of his flock. nd, by the way, it is marvelous how easily some ople take to petting. The elder may keep up the actice until he has gathered about him enough vorites to make the situation very pleasant for him- lf and family, but exceedingly disagreeable for those o get no petting. In some States one does not ve to search long to find pastors who are experts at is kind of business. Place them in charge of any ngregation you will, and in a little while they will ve their pets. With these they consult. They treat em as favorites, and in order to get along smoothly d it necessary to indulge them more and more. his kind of business can not last long in a congrega- on. The other members will not stand for it, so the astor must move on to another point and make more ets.

tomed to talking over the work of the church with the pastor in a confidential way, and matters hardly seem to go right in the absence of the good old way. The new pastor has a large congregation, and is kept so exceedingly busy, looking after all the members of his well-scattered flock, that he finds no time to indulge in petting anybody. If he makes any difference at all, with those of his charge, it is his purpose to give the more attention to the weak, the aged and all those especially needing help. So far as he can understand, the Master wants him to feed and care for all the sheep of his flock, and so manage his work as to make the salvation of each one possible.

There may be more of this petting business going on than some of our readers imagine. A year or more ago we heard of a well-to-do congregation whose trustees had been petted until they were spoiled. Nothing could be done without their approval. If a pastor was to be employed, they must conduct all the negotiations and outline the work to be entrusted to the new preacher. When the congregation proposed to entrust such matters to the official board,—deacons and ministers,—there was trouble. The spoiled pets had to be dealt with.

We might easily call up other instances where men and even women have been petted until they became peevish and by and by made the church a whole lot of trouble. And, by the way, it is one thing to make a few pets in the congregation, but quite another to get rid of them, or even to get along with them to the satisfaction of the other members of the flock and the good of the cause. While a pastor can not well help loving some people more than others, he can avoid making special pets of selected favorites.

Sebring, Fla.

"And Joseph Shaved Himself"

BY W. J. SWIGART

CERTAINLY, the Bible says so; and I suspect that he needed it. Neglected two years in an Egyptian prison would leave a man in need of a shave and a change of raiment. Besides that, he is now summoned into the presence of King Pharaoh and needs to look his best. There is no escaping the fact that physical appearance and personal presence figure in the assets of life. A fine, attractive and commanding physique counts in the estimate of men. A good presence is an advantage to its possessor. Who of us, of diminutive size, has not wished he were six feet in height, weighed two hundred pounds,—and were good looking?

Joseph is about as nearly a sane and correct man as any of the characters of history. His is a great and noble character, and his is a distinguished career.

He is now to appear before the king. There are necessary physical preparations for a great event, as well as spiritual. He ought to be presentable. A stubby or straggling beard and his everyday prison garb would be against him. Of course his intelligence and character and spiritual acumen that enabled him to interpret dreams, and forecast the future of Egypt's condition for a fortnight of years, and the Divine grace that enabled him to stand in the fiery forge of lust's enticements, were the real assets and determined all,—but still he provides for a respectful and becoming physical presence, with which to approach the king.

The body is the outward, tangible expression of the inner spiritual man. It is the immediate and personal "habitat" of the man. It is more than this,—it is that which we see and first think about, judging of a man; and, of course, too often we think about it and speak about it as the man, the ego, the self. We invest it with all the qualities and personalities possessed by the indwelling man himself. It is also "the temple of the Holy Ghost" and should be properly cared for and hunting garb, or his butchering habiliments, unshaved and hair unkempt, not going to church or among his fellows, content to lounge in unchanged raiment, but it implies decline in mental and moral fiber as well as in religious character. One can think better, worship better and be better when cleaned up physically.

The Sabbath has a physical function, as well as a religious. Shaving and bathing and getting into "Sunday clothes" is good for any one, and helps to maintain the spiritual functions of the Lord's day.

Joseph shaved and changed his raiment. He made himself more attractive in appearance; he was a clean and attractive man. He was presentable and made a favorable impression. Pharaoh concluded: "Here is my man to place over all this scheme of food conservation and to become next to the king in all the land." Who will doubt that the shave and change of raiment to which Joseph resorted, had its effects on him and on the king, and had its influence even on the destinies of his race and people?

Maintaining an attractive and comely appearance is a factor in life's affairs. Clothing does not make the man, but clothing indicates the man. One's influence, his worth and efficiency to the cause which he represents, the force of his appeals to others, the general estimate that is put upon him are all affected by the taste and consistency of his dress and presence. One's own estimate of himself is, in some degree, indicated by the manner in which he keeps himself.

As years come on men and women, they may become indifferent to the amenities of society and even of the home and dear friends, and become neglectful of common decorum in dress and manner. Thus they become repellent to their best friends, even to the extent of affecting the bond of tenderness and respect with which they are regarded. Beauty and attractiveness in youth do not surpass, in power and consistency, beauty and venerableness in old age.

> "The glory of young men is their strength,
> And the beauty of old men is the hoary head."
>
> "The hoary head is a crown of glory,
> If it be found in the way of righteousness."

The venerable and compelling beauty of aged men and women,—beauty first because of the cultured Christian spirit within them, and because of the consistent care they have taken of their persons,—is most inspiring. The plain and simple but fitting and becoming dress and person of many of our aged fathers and mothers is an inspiring memory concerning some that are dead, and an equally inspiring and pleasant fact in others who are living. I have most vivid and impressive remembrance of the attractive and respect-inspiring appearance both in dress and person, of Eld. James Quinter, and the contribution this gave to the power and dignity of his speech and life. I carry about with me always a vivid image of the appearance of his face as his body lay in death, even after the Christed man had forsaken it, and we stood gazing and charmed loath to commit to the dark and decaying tomb anything so fair to look upon, and so desirable to keep and to live with.

Men and women, husbands and wives,—as years come,—may with profit, remember how they studied to be attractive and pleasing to each other in the lover days and courtship period, and may consistently study to maintain their physical as well as their social attractiveness for each other. This not only for the sake of the pleasurable remembrance of those times, but also for the sake of quickening and continuing those sentiments of pleasing attractiveness, and provoking anew admiration and devotion to each other.

In writing this, I have all proper and natural contempt for the dude,—for those whose chief aim is to dress, who study nothing so closely as the fashion plates, and concern themselves more about their physical appearance than about the inner adorning of water College, filled the place of Bro. M. W. Emmert, of Mount Morris College, who could not be present, and he filled it with a soul-stirring message. His first point was that this is preëminently the age of the Spirit,—the age in which God works in the hearts of men through the Holy Spirit. The baptism of the Spirit is, then, the supreme condition of full discipleship. We live shallow lives because we lack the well of a truly spiritual life. And what is the first condition of this baptism? Willingness to do God's will.

He asked: "Why has the Church of the Brethren accomplished so little in 200 years, in comparison with the early activities of the apostolic church? Has the Spirit really filled us all along?" Referring to the evangelistic success of the Pentecostal church and to the fact that interest in evangelism is a necessary expression of a Spirit-filled life, he thought the best way to keep the church pure is to keep her busy saving human souls. Consecration, knowledge and obedience will make the life Spirit-filled, and this will insure the success of the Forward Movement.

Discussing the second topic, Bro. V. F. Schwalm, of Manchester College, reminded us that there is no competition between the home and foreign fields. Every foreign missionary makes more workers at home. Where are the possibilities? In every unfinished task. In every unrighted wrong. The Old Testament prophets were greatly concerned about the social injustice about them. Can Christians be less so?

There are two great classes, he said, who should be won to Christ, those who are not Christians at all, and those who are only half or nominal Christians. Some of our churches are surrounded by people and are little concerned about them. Some are losing their young people and do not seem to be disturbed by the fact. Yet the church, as a whole, was never so conscious of the need of shepherding as now. Everywhere she is calling for pastors, for leaders. The speaker closed with a strong appeal to every young man and young woman to get ready to respond to these calls.

When Bro. A. B. Miller, pastor of the Hagerstown church, Md., began to speak, he called for a show of hands of the laymen present, and then said: "This is the day of the layman. The war was not won by the generals but by the rank and file. The great centenary program of the Methodists, the most ambitious of all the church forward movements, is essentially a layman's movement."

What is a consecrated layman? One "set apart," whatever his mode of activity, to the interests of the Kingdom. One who subordinates everything to that. One who multiplies the efforts of his pastor by his sympathy. One who is himself a soul-winner. One who puts his faith beside that of the pastor and refuses to be discouraged or turned aside by the challenge of material things or unfavorable conditions. The standard we set for the ministry must also be set for the layman. As Pershing said at the tomb of Lafayette: "Here we are," so must our laymen answer to the call of the world's need: "Here we are."

The discussion of the last topic of the forenoon session was made up of six nine-minute speeches, each on a subdivision of the general theme.

Bro. H. S. Randolph told us how to further the interests of the church in the Southland. He said the large per cent of illiteracy and religious indifference was an aswer to former methods of evangelism. The plan of annual visits by imported evangelists had failed. The South must have an evangelism of its own, and to this end it must have permanently-settled pastors. Put leaders in command.

Bro. Virgil C. Finnell applied the question to pioneer districts. There are not so many pioneer districts in our country any more, in the agricultural sense, but there are plenty of them which are pioneer religiously. He gave practically the same answer as the former speaker did to his question. Settled pastors is the only solution, and this can not be applied without funds provided by the strong, established churches.

The next two speakers, Sister Nelie Wampler and Bro. G. L. Wine, applied the question to weak and strong churches, respectively. Both agreed that these terms are not synonymous with small and large. Some small churches are strong and some large ones are weak. Sister Wampler told of one weak church of 400 members, if we got the figures straight, that was not able to take care of the members it had gained. Bro. Wine recommended, for one thing, that strong churches take up the support of missionaries,—by individuals when possible. But the answer to the questions was substantially the same as the first two speakers had given to their questions.

The last two speakers applied the question to another pair of contrasted conditions. Bro. W. J. Horner dealt with the cities and Bro. W. H. Yoder with the rural districts. Bro. Horner emphasized the fact that the cities are where the people are in largest numbers and that, for this reason, we must consider the cities as a needy and fertile evangelistic field. Bro. Yoder reminded us that we have been mostly a rural people and are best acquainted with rural conditions. He helped us to see the largeness of the country field and the real problems that are there. A church which confines its activities to the maintenance of worship is leaving a large part of its field untilled.

Of course both speakers were entirely right, each seeing the bigness of his own problem. And their answers to the main question agreed with each other and with those who had spoken before them. In fact, that was the one outstaoding and important feature of the whole discussion of this very vital question: "What Can We Do to Further the Interests of the Church?" It all came back to this: Provide competent leadership.

If the six participants in this discussion, as well as the three who spoke at greater length before them, were right,—and who will say that they were not?—our program is marked out plainly. Our first and greatest task, as the most practical measure for such progress is, to raise up a great army of Spirit-filled and thoroughly competent young men and women to labor in the many, many fields which are white unto the harvest.

In the afternoon the Life-Work Conference went again, as yesterday, to the Westminster building, the Hillside, or wherever it found room enough to hold it, under the direction of the Student Volunteers. The Temperance and Dress Reform Meetings were held in the auditorium.

Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, Ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, had been scheduled to speak at the Temperance Meeting, but was unable to be present. Naturally this was a disappointment to the audience, but most of those who listened to the substitute speaker, Bro. J. H. Cassady, got bravely over their disappointment before he got through with his speech. We have reason to guess, however, that some did not become reconciled to the change in program and probably are not yet reconciled, unless,—well, see if you can find the explanation farther down.

Among the features of special interest, before Bro. P. J. Blough, the moderator, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, were a reading, "The Licensed Liquor Traffic Must Die," by Sister Cora M. Emley, of Indiana, and the singing of "May the Master Count on You" by a chorus of Manchester girls.

The first part of Bro. Cassady's address was devoted to impressing the fact, which many seem inclined to ignore, that the temperance fight is not over. He called attention to the powerful forces which are arrayed against the constitutional amendment, seeking to nullify it in one way or another. To prevent this, the utmost vigilance will be required, on the part of the temperance forces. Besides this, there is the great movement for world prohibition, which is likely to command our energies for some time. The liquor forces are preparing to shift much of their nefarious traffic to other countries. Shall we sit still and allow it?

But Bro. Cassady did not confine his remarks to the liquor question. There are other great social evils to be fought. There is the "social evil," strictly so-called, the terrible ravages of which were so startlingly brought to light during the war. Indifference and ignorance are its great promoters. False modesty must not keep us silent and inactive in the face of the awful curse of venereal disease.

Bro. Cassady also paid his compliments to the cigaret and tobacco in no uncertain tones. The giving of cigarets to the army boys he condemned unsparingly, and showed to what an alarming extent the cigaret evil had grown because of this. He then told, in a way they could not fail to understand, what he thought of brethren who use their fertile soil to foster this evil, just because it brings them gain. We forget the number of boys that can be kept in cigarets for ten years by the tobacco raised on Brethren farms, but it is a large one. He said he did not intend to stop bis fight on this evil until a corn stalk takes the place of every tobacco plant on these farms. Are you ready to guess now why some might have preferred risking what Bro. Brumbaugh would have said? They could be certain he would not have hit them any harder.

After the "Westover" quartette had sung "The Brewers' Big Horses Can't Run Over Me," Bro. D. W. Kurtz made a statement about the attitude of our schools toward tobacco. The one with which he is associated will not enroll a student unless he signs an agreement not to use tobacco in any form. He was sure the attitude of all our schools was the same, in spirit at least.

At the Dress Reform Meeting, presided over by Bro. E. M. Studebaker, the Chairman of the Dress Reform Committee, the first address was delivered by Bro. D. L. Miller. His subject was "Conformity to Christ." The church and the world are opposed to each other, he said, and you can not belong to both at once. Conform to the church requirements, he urged, but put first conformity to Christ. This means separation from the world.

On the particular subject of extravagant or immodest dress he quoted the testimony of the Scriptures, as well as that of John Wesley, Dr. Barnes, C. F. Yoder, author of "God's Means of Grace." He recalled a saying he once heard from the lips of Bro. R. H. Miller shortly before his death, "You can not put a gold ring on your hand until you have put it in your heart."

After four Manchester girls had sung "I'll Be True to the Name I Wear," Sister Mary Polk Ellenberger spoke on "Standardization in Dress and the Forward Movement." Alluding to some things the war had taught us about luxury and extravagance, she asked whether its lessons would be permanent. She found encouragement in the attitude of many leaders in all walks of life, who are giving their efforts to the cause of dress reform. Simplicity in dress has always been a principle with us and we must not think of abandoning it now.

She dwelt on the relation of dress to moral purity, citing resolutions of the W. C. T. U. on this subject, and telling how mothers, without realizing it, foster wrong ideals in their children. It is not kind, she said, to send girls to school, dressed so as to excite envy in other girls. It is better to be distinguished by one's personality than by style. Men's clothes were standardized long ago. Why not do the same for women? She explained that standardization is a principle and is not to be made synonymous with uniformity. The question will be settled, she concluded, when the mothers take the matter in hand. "You can't stand out against mothers."

An offering was lifted for the benefit of the Dress Reform Committee. The interest in the cause was shown by the large attendance, notwithstanding other meetings held at the same time.

The evening session in the auditorium marked the ion. Bro. Funk strongly repudiated the idea he church is "going to sticks." "Quit quibbling o to work, quit hair-splitting and preach Christ," is counsel.

(Continued on Page 376)

o. Kurtz closed the discussion with a few forceful rks, stressing the thought that the only cure for s of the world is Jesus Christ and his principles. an souls constitute the only ultimate value. All s machinery. The vigorous way in which Bro.
e drove his thoughts home, made his closing s an excellent substitute for the address of Bro.
Heckman, of Polo, Ill., who had been placed on rogram but was unable to be present.

the evening session the Life-Work Conference back in the auditorium again. Bro. J. A. Dove, overdale, Va., was in charge.

o. Levi S. Shively, President of Mount Morris ge, presented "The Claims of the Christian stry." Bro. Shively's very carefully prepared exhaustive treatment was worthy of his great
e. Preaching the Word, though not the whole of inister's work, is his chief duty. And that reibility is increased by the fact that few people think for themselves. The masses depend upon rs. The claims of the ministry are so great demand the most thorough preparation. This sts of two parts, direct preparation for the work
, and the preparation of the minister's own char-
, using the term broadly, so as to include his ual life.

s educational preparation should be as compre-ive as possible. The four years' college work is too much to ask. Without a broad literary and tific basis, especially without a good understand-f the literary forms in which the Bible is cast, the cher is seriously handicapped. The same is true ecting those branches of knowledge which deal human nature, singly and in groups, psychology sociology. Though not giving as much time to demands on the character, the spiritual preparaof the minister, the speaker put even greater hasis upon it. The secret thought life of the cher, which nohody knows but himself and God, is most vital of all.

ro. Shively knows no larger field of service than Christian ministry, and thinks the forward step n by the Conference in 1917, on the manner of ring our ministers, will do much to encourage the ous consideration of this great calling by our ng men, as they face the problem of what to do their lives.

efore the second number of the evening program given, "Send the Light" was impressively sung the Westover (West-Stover) quartet of Mount rris College.

The stereopticon lecture by Bro. Jesse B. Emmert, sionary to India, on "The India Field" was stened to and looked at," like the corresponding one China last evening, with the intensest interest.
t was evident, though the countenances of the ple could not be seen. Maps and figures, pictures people and places, explained by the lecturer, as the es rapidly supplanted one another, all combined to e a vivid impression and understanding of our lia field, the terrible need and its tremendous oppor-ities for Christian service. How the missionaries l the natives live, how the latter look before and er they become Christians, how they hold a District eting over there, were a few of the many things own.

Friday, June 6

The morning session of the Life-Work Conference

water College, filled the place of Bro. M. W. Emmert, of Mount Morris College, who could not be present, and he filled it with a soul-stirring message. His first point was that this is preeminently the age of the Spirit,—the age in which God works in the hearts of men through the Holy Spirit. The baptism of the Spirit is, then, the supreme condition of full discipleship. We live shallow lives because we lack the well of a truly spiritual life. And what is the first condition of this baptism? Willingness to do God's will.

He asked: "Why has the Church of the Brethren accomplished so little in 200 years, in comparison with the early activities of the apostolic church? Has the Spirit really filled us all along?" Referring to the evangelistic success of the Pentecostal church and to the fact that interest in evangelism is a necessary expression of a Spirit-filled life, he thought the best way to keep the church pure is to keep her busy saving human souls. Consecration, knowledge and obedience will make the life Spirit-filled, and this will insure the success of the Forward Movement.

Discussing the second topic, Bro. V. F. Schwalm, of Manchester College, reminded us that there is no competition between the home and foreign fields. Every foreign missionary makes more workers at home. Where are the possibilities? In every unfinished task. In every unrighted wrong. The Old Testament prophets were greatly concerned about the social injustice about them. Can Christians be less so?

There are two great classes, he said, who should be won to Christ, those who are not Christians at all, and those who are only half or nominal Christians. Some of our churches are surrounded by people and are little concerned about them. Some are losing their young people and do not seem to be disturbed by the fact. Yet the church, as a whole, was never so conscious of the need of shepherding as now. Everywhere she is calling for pastors, for leaders. The speaker closed with a strong appeal to every young man and young woman to get ready to respond to these calls.

When Bro. A. B. Miller, pastor of the Hagerstown church, Md., began to speak, he called for a show of hands of the laymen present, and then said: "This is the day of the layman. The war was not won by the generals but by the rank and file. The great centenary program of the Methodists, the most ambitious of all the church forward movements, is essentially a layman's movement."

What is a consecrated layman? One "set apart," whatever his mode of activity, to the interests of the Kingdom. One who subordinates everything to that. One who multiplies the efforts of his pastor by his sympathy. One who is himself a soul-winner. One who puts his faith beside that of the pastor and refuses to be discouraged or turned aside by the challenge of material things or unfavorable conditions. The standard we set for the ministry must also be set for the layman. As Pershing said at the tomb of Lafayette: "Here we are," so must our laymen answer to the call of the world's need: "Here we are."

The discussion of the last topic of the forenoon session was made up of six nine-minute speeches, each on a subdivision of the general theme.

Bro. H. S. Randolph told us how to further the interests of the church in the Southland. He said the large per cent of illiteracy and religious indifference was an aswer to former methods of evangelism. The plan of annual visits by imported evangelists had failed. The South must have an evangelism of its own, and to this end it must have permanently-settled out funds provided by the strong, established churches

The next two speakers, Sister Nelie Wampler and Bro. G. L. Wine, applied the question to weak and strong churches, respectively. Both agreed that these terms are not synonymous with small and large. Some small churches are strong and some large ones are weak. Sister Wampler told of one weak church of 400 members, if we got the figures straight, that was not able to take care of the members it had gained. Bro. Wine recommended, for one thing, that strong churches take up the support of missionaries,—by individuals when possible. But the answer to the questions was substantially the same as the first two speakers had given to their questions.

The last two speakers applied the question to another pair of contrasted conditions. Bro. W. J. Horne dealt with the cities and Bro. W. H. Yoder with the rural districts. Bro. Horner emphasized the fact that the cities are where the people are in largest numbers and that, for this reason, we must consider the city as a needy and fertile evangelistic field. Bro. Yoder reminded us that we have been mostly a rural people and are best acquainted with rural conditions. He helped us to see the largeness of the country field and the real problems that are there. A church which confines its activities to the maintenance of worship is leaving a large part of its field untilled.

Of course both speakers were entirely right, each seeing the bigness of his own problem. And the answers to the main question agreed with each other and with those who had spoken before them. In fact that was the one outstaoding and important feature of the whole discussion of this very vital question: "What Can We Do to Further the Interests of the Church?" It all came back to this: Provide competent leadership.

If the six participants in this discussion, as well as the three who spoke at greater length before them, were right,—and who will say that they were not?—our program is marked out plainly. Our first and greatest task, as the most practical measure for such progress is, to raise up a great army of Spirit-filled and thoroughly competent young men and women for labor in the many, many fields which are white unto the harvest.

In the afternoon the Life-Work Conference was again, as yesterday, to the Westminster building, on Hillside, or wherever it found room enough to hold, under the direction of the Student Volunteers. The Temperance and Dress Reform Meetings were held in the auditorium.

Dr. M. G. Brumbaugh, Ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, had been scheduled to speak at the Temperance Meeting, but was unable to be present. Naturally this was a disappointment to the audience, but most of those who listened to the substitute speaker, Bro. J. H. Cassady, got bravely over their disappointment before he got through with his speech. We have reason to guess, however, that some did not become reconciled to the change in program and probably are not yet reconciled, unless,—well, see if you can find the explanation farther down.

Among the features of special interest, before Bro. P. J. Blough, the moderator, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, were a reading, "The Licensed Liquor Traffic Must Die," by Sister Cora M. Emmert, of Indiana, and the singing of "May the Master Count on You" by a chorus of Manchester girls.

The first part of Bro. Cassady's address was devoted to impressing the fact, which many seem inclined to ignore, that the temperance fight is not over.

orderly. The Greeks were anything but orderly. Songs, yells, speeches, pushing and crowding were common for more than an hour. On former occasions riots have broken out, and there are stories of times when blood flowed ankle deep in this old church. But I take it that this is rather a figurative expression. Only one fight arose as I watched the doings. Two men,—Greeks,—became engaged in blows. Each side defended its man. The soldiers rushed in and both men were finally ejected, not through the Greek entrance but through the Armenian crowd. Those soldiers used nothing but their hands, but they held on to their men and soon all was quieter. This event had a wholesome effect on the crowd for the rest of the ceremony.

Finally the time came for the ceremony proper to begin. Greeks, the Greek choir boys, others bearing twelve banners, priests and the old patriarch, with his private secretary and other dignitaries, formed in line and started to march around the sepulcher, which is enclosed within a little chapel standing in the center of the church. Soldiers opened a way through the crowds, so that there should be no confusion for the dignitaries as they marched along. As they neared the close of the third time around, the Armenian head priest was brought in, and accompanied the Greek patriarch into the sepulcher.

Here followed eager moments, for all were waiting to catch the fires first. Select men, as runners, had been stationed from the sepulcher to the open doors, so that they might quickly carry the Holy Fire to nearby churches and to other villages and cities. These men were dressed in shirt and trousers, so that their speed need not be hindered. Others stood near the open places in the sepulcher, through which the patriarch would hand the fire to the Greeks, and the priest would hand it to the Armenians. As the fire came, a mighty cheer arose and bells began to clang. Soon the fires were carried to all parts of the crowd. Those in the galleries had candles attached to strings, and thus drew the fire up.

I am told that runners, horses, carriages and probably automobiles will be used to carry this Holy Fire to the different places. On board of ships parties will travel and, perhaps, as many as a dozen fires will be seen in one group. By this means, should some fires go out, they can be started from other fires at hand. The fire was delivered to the people in a bowl of oil, but it was picked up by the people with their candles. As a mere sight the waving of the candles was fair, but when one thought of the fanaticism connected with it, there was little to arouse one's better feelings.

Yes, this Holy Fire is a pious fraud. The priests know and the more intelligent know that the fire is started by human hands. They say as much as that. But they say that the ignorant people can not appreciate religion unless it comes to them in the form of the miraculous, and that by such means the people are enthused in their religious work, that they are led to reverence the holy places and are helped in every way. That is their explanation. They may be correct, but one must doubt the propriety of such means to reach the desired end.

As I witnessed this ceremony, I was made to examine myself more closely,—for only in this way could I be benefited by what I had seen,—and to find a reason for justifying myself in spending a half day or the greater part of it in this way. I wonder whether we, as Christians, may at times use means and methods to reach certain ends that may not bear the light of the truth, as revealed in the Bible, and thus place ourselves on a level with these people. No, we would not do what they do, but we may be using the same ignoble methods. Every people will find that certain forms and ceremonies appeal to their reason or passion or prejudice, and it is the easiest thing in the world to imagine that the end will justify the means.

Some day the Government will step in and prohibit all such observances. And why should it not? A people can not be elevated by feeding on falsehood and deception. Only the truth, as revealed in Jesus Christ, can meet the needs of the human soul, whether that soul be enlightened or ignorant, in Palestine or in America.

Jerusalem, Palestine.

General News Notes from India

March 14, when the Field Committee was in session at Vyara, Bro. J. I. Kaylor sailed from Bombay for America, via Hongkong, on the S. S. "Dinera." There was room for only a few passengers on this boat and our brother was fortunate in being one of the few to be accommodated, out of over a hundred, desiring passage.

Soon after the middle of April Brother and Sister J. M. Blough will sail from Calcutta for New York. They are to proceed from Bulsar for Calcutta on the evening of April 10, in order to reach Calcutta in ample time for their boat. Before leaving the Dangs they spent several weeks in evangelistic work among the villages. After the District Meeting they visited Anklesvar, Vali, Dahanu and Jalalpor,—at each place services being held. The people listened gladly to the last mesage Bro. Blough had for them before leaving on their second furlough. May the Lord guide these on their way who go from us for a much needed rest in the homeland!

Sister Lillian Grisso and Bro. A. T. Hoffert passed the Gujerati examination for first year, given in March by the United Language Board. March 21 they went to Ahmedabad for the oral examination, which was given at the bungalow of the Irish Presbyterian Mission. Their veteran missionary, Dr. G. P. Taylor, author of a Gujerati grammar and other works, took great pleasure in showing his guests an old coin that Bro. D. L. Miller had bronght from Jerusalem and given to him when he visited India years ago. It is thought to be just such a coin as the widow cast into the treasury, for which she received the commendation of Jesus. Dr. Taylor was pleased to learn that his old friend, Bishop Miller, was enjoying good health, and desired that his kind regards be extended to him.

The Gujerati Missionary Conference was held at Bulsar March 26. About thirty were present. Impressive devotional exercises were conducted by Bro. Blough. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Bro. J. M. Blough, took charge of the meeting. The report of the committee to investigate the Gujerati Reading Series was heard. The committee was asked to continue its study and get its report in such a shape that at the meeting of the Conference, next August, their recommendations can be passed on to Government. Some desire that passages and lessons, objectionable because they favor Hindu religious ideals, or for other reasons, be omitted from the series. Others feel that a new series of readers should be prepared primarily for Christians. The idea was also suggested that there should be more temperance teaching in the books. The Conference passed a resolution, which was presented to it from our District Meeting at Vyara, asking the Bombay Council of Missions to approach Government with the request that early steps be taken to bring about the total prohibition of the liquor traffic in India.

Sister Eliza B. Miller, with twenty of the Bulsar Boarding-school girls, has moved to Anklesvar, where the two Girls' Boarding-schools will be merged into one. The rest of the Bulsar girls will not come until after the twentieth of this month, when their vacation will be over, and school-work will begin at Anklesvar. The Boys' Boarding-school at Anklesvar has been moved to Vali, and their quarters are being arranged to accommodate the girls.

Sister Olive Widdowson has gone to Vali to take charge of Dispensary work and Foundlings' Home for the hot season, in order that Sister Ida Himmelsbaugh may get a much needed rest at the "Hills." She has delayed her furlough until about Aug. 1.

The hot season is upon us and a number of our missionaries were able to get away from their work for the rest they so much need at the "Hills." Drs. Cottrell are at Kodaikonal in South India. Sisters Ella Ebbert and Goldie Swartz, Bro. Howard Alley and family, and Brother and Sister Garner are at Mahabaleshwar, attending the Marathi Language School. Sisters Kathryn Ziegler, Josephine Powell and Ida Himmelsbaugh are at Landour in North India. At Naina, Tal, also in North India, is Sister Emma Eby with the missionaries' children, Bro. I. S. Long and family, and Bro. J. M. Pittenger and family.

Pastor Govindji Khengar and his good wife, Kankubai Shaukar, left Anklesvar today with their four children for Bulsar. He is to be assistant teacher in the Bulsar Bible Teacher Training School, and Kankubai is to teach a class of Fifth and Sixth Standard women in Kindergarten methods of teaching and other useful subjects. For over two years Bro. Khengar has been Bro. Stover's right-hand man, assistant editor of the "Prakash Patra," has frequently assisted in the village work, and has done pastoral work for the Anklesvar church. His wife was principal of the Anklesvar Girls' School. They will be missed here, for they were heart and soul in the work and had caught the spirit of true missionary service. That they had won a large place in the hearts of the India community, was abundantly shown in the touching farewell given them. Last evening the Christian community gathered in front of the Stover bungalow, where six or eight expressed their high appreciation of the large service our brother and his wife have rendered to the Anklesvar church. Muskmelon was served to each one present by Sister Stover. Then there was prayer. The next day at 12:30 P. M., just before their departure for the station, a short farewell service was held. At this time there was presented to Bro. Khengar a purse of twenty-two rupees, collected the day before. The putting of garlands of flowers about their necks, the tender words of appreciation of their services by the one presenting the unexpected gift, and the short prayer,—all quite overcame Bro. Khengar, who, with broken words, could scarcely find expression to the feelings that welled up within! In large measure, his feeling was shared by all present, one by one, they bade them good-bye. "It was a sight good to see," as afterwards was expressed by a missionary, "that this spontaneous expression of appreciation should go to one of their own number. When their leaders prove themselves worthy, it is fitting that their people should express appreciation of their services in the same way they are wont to show their love towards the missionaries."

A. T. Hoffert

Anklesvar, India, April 9.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

Seeing the Good in Others

Philpp. 2: 1-11

For Week Beginning June 22, 1919

1. Introductory.—The things we see, will depend much upon the glasses through which we look. If we smoked or yellow lenses, we need not wonder that objects about us appear dark or of a jaundiced tint. To see an object clearly, we need a clear medium. If we want to see good in those about us, there must be first some thing good in ourselves. If we are blind to goodness, kindness, to loveliness, to sweetness of temper, we will be unable to discern these excellent qualities in our friends. Nature is sure to reflect our moods. "Unto the pure all things are pure; but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure." Christ said: "Blessed are the pure in heart shall see God." Heart purity insures mental vision. What can be more evident than the important fact that the more good there is in us, the more good will we see in our companions, and the more quickly will we detect its opposite in the lives of those in our own walks of society?

2. Goodness of Heart Increases the Desire to Do Good to Others.—If one who loves flowers were to discover some ugly weeds in his garden, threatening to choke out his beautiful blooms, he would quickly pull up the weeds to give his flowers a chance. So a friend should strive in gentleness and by kindly admonition, to remove, or help his friend to remove, the things that hinder. The good of our friend may be all the more beautiful if watchful in cherishing therein the things that are admirable. "No one,"—the apostle says,—"liveth to himself." Are we not, then, be sunshine-bearers, to bring gladness to others?

3. We Should Pattern After Our Divine Exemplar.—Well does Paul say: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." Don't forget to place the emphasis on the word "mind,"—the ruling factor in proper conduct. Our trouble is largely with our minds. We have Christ's mind we will have Christ's will. We will be able to see good in every one, and we will also be able to DO GOOD to every one. The Christ mind will mold the Christ motive, and something of the Christ will result. Without this mind we will have but small power of discernment of the good there is in the world about us, no matter how good the camera may be, if the lens is covered by the shutter, the film will register no object. Christ take the cap off your camera. Humanitarianism has its basis in godliness.—God-likeness. There is something decidedly Christ-like in him who sees in another something worthy of his own sacrifice. That is what brought Christ into this world. He came to minister to others, because he saw something in others that was worthy of his ministry. Humanity ever cherishes the most of all,—who have done most for their fellow-beings. They have done much because they had the happy faculty of seeing much in others that was worthy of recognition and encouragement.

4. Suggestive Referenees.—Prefer others to yourself (Rom. 12: 10). Bear with others, and seek to please your neighbor for his good to edification (Rom. 15: 1-2). Paul's anxiety to gain others (1 Cor. 9: 19-23). Let no man seek his own but every man another's wealth (1 Cor. 10: 24). The loving heart is not easily provoked (1 Cor. 13: 4, 5). We must fulfil the "royal law" (James 2: 8).

orderly. The Greeks were anything but orderly. Songs, yells, speeches, pushing and crowding were common for more than an hour. On former occasions riots have broken out, and there are stories of times when blood flowed ankle deep in this old church. But I take it that this is rather a figurative expression. Only one fight arose as I watched the doings. Two men,—Greeks,—became engaged in blows. Each side defended its man. The soldiers rushed in and both men were finally ejected, not through the Greek entrance but through the Armenian crowd. Those soldiers used nothing but their hands, but they held on to their men and soon all was quieter. This event had a wholesome effect on the crowd for the rest of the ceremony.

Finally the time came for the ceremony proper to begin. Greeks, the Greek choir boys, others bearing twelve banners, priests and the old patriarch, with his private secretary and other dignitaries, formed in line and started to march around the sepulcher, which is enclosed within a little chapel standing in the center of the church. Soldiers opened a way through the crowds, so that there should be no confusion for the dignitaries as they marched along. As they neared the close of the third time around, the Armenian head priest was brought in, and accompanied the Greek patriarch into the sepulcher.

Here followed eager moments, for all were waiting to catch the fires first. Select men, as runners, had been stationed from the sepulcher to the open doors, so that they might quickly carry the Holy Fire to nearby churches and to other villages and cities. These men were dressed in shirt and trousers, so that their speed need not be hindered. Others stood near the open places in the sepulcher, through which the patriarch would hand the fire to the Greeks, and the priest would hand it to the Armenians. As the fire came, a mighty cheer arose and bells began to clang. Soon the fires were carried to all parts of the crowd. Those in the galleries had candles attached to strings, and thus drew the fire up.

I am told that runners, horses, carriages and probably automobiles will be used to carry this Holy Fire to the different places. On board of ships parties will travel and, perhaps, as many as a dozen fires will be seen in one group. By this means, should some fires go out, they can be started from other fires at hand. The fire was delivered to the people in a bowl of oil, but it was picked up by the people with their candles. As a mere sight the waving of the candles was fair, but when one thought of the fanaticism connected with it, there was little to arouse one's better feelings.

Yes, this Holy Fire is a pious fraud. The priests know and the more intelligent know that the fire is started by human hands. They say as much as that. But they say that the ignorant people can not appreciate religion unless it comes to them in the form of the miraculous, and that by such means the people are enthused in their religious work, that they are led to reverence the holy places and are helped in every way. That is their explanation. They may be correct, but one must doubt the propriety of such means to reach the desired end.

As I witnessed this ceremony, I was made to examine myself more closely,—for only in this way could I be benefited by what I had seen,—and to find a reason for justifying myself in spending a half day or the greater part of it in this way. I wonder whether we, as Christians, may at times use means and methods to reach certain ends that may not bear the light of the truth, as revealed in the Bible, and thus place ourselves on a level with these people. No, we would not do what they do, but we may be using the same ignoble methods. Every people will find that certain forms and ceremonies appeal to their reason or passion or prejudice, and it is the easiest thing in the world to imagine that the end will justify the means.

Some day the Government will step in and prohibit all such observances. And why should it not? A people can not be elevated by feeding on falsehood and deception. Only the truth, as revealed in Jesus Christ, can meet the needs of the human soul, whether that soul be enlightened or ignorant, in Palestine or in America.

Jerusalem, Palestine.

General News Notes from India

March 14, when the Field Committee was in session at Vyara, Bro. J. I. Kaylor sailed from Bombay for America, via Hongkong, on the S. S. "Dinera." There was room for only a few passengers on this boat and our brother was fortunate in being one of the few to be accommodated, out of over a hundred, desiring passage.

Soon after the middle of April Brother and Sister J. M. Blough will sail from Calcutta for New York. They are to proceed from Bulsar for Calcutta on the evening of April 10, in order to reach Calcutta in ample time for their boat. Before leaving the Dangs they spent several weeks in evangelistic work among the villages. After the District Meeting they visited Anklesvar, Vali, Dahanu and Jalalpor,—at each place services being held. The people listened gladly to the last mesage Bro. Blough had for them before leaving on their second furlough. May the Lord guide these on their way who go from us for a much needed rest in the homeland!

Sister Lillian Grisso and Bro. A. T. Hoffert passed the Gujerati examination for first year, given in March by the United Language Board. March 21 they went to Ahmedabad for the oral examination, which was given at the bungalow of the Irish Presbyterian Mission. Their veteran missionary, Dr. G. P. Taylor, author of a Gujerati grammar and other works, took great pleasure in showing his guests an old coin that Bro. D. L. Miller had brought from Jerusalem and given to him when he visited India years ago. It is thought to be just such a coin as the widow cast into the treasury, for which she received the commendation of Jesus. Dr. Taylor was pleased to learn that his old friend, Bishop Miller, was enjoying good health, and desired that his kind regards be extended to him.

The Gujerati Missionary Conference was held at Bulsar March 26. About thirty were present. Impressive devotional exercises were conducted by Bro. Blough. In the absence of the president, the vice-president, Bro. J. M. Blough, took charge of the meeting. The report of the committee to investigate the Gujerati Reading Series was heard. The committee was asked to continue its study and get its report in such a shape that at the meeting of the Conference, next Augnst, their recommendations can be passed on to Government. Some desire that passages and lessons, objectionable because they favor Hindu religious ideals, or for other reasons, be omitted from the series. Others feel that a new series of readers should be prepared primarily for Christians. The idea was also suggested that there should be more temperance teaching in the books. The Conference passed a resolution, which was presented to it from our District Meeting at Vyara, asking the Bombay Council of Missions to approach Government with the request that early steps be taken to bring about the total prohibition of the liquor traffic in India.

Sister Eliza B. Miller, with twenty of the Bulsar Boarding-school girls, has moved to Anklesvar, where the two Girls' Boarding-schools will be merged into one. The rest of the Bulsar girls will not come until after the twentieth of this month, when their vacation will be over, and school-work will begin at Anklesvar. The Boys' Boarding-school at Anklesvar has been moved to Vali, and their quarters are being arranged to accommodate the girls.

Sister Olive Widdowson has gone to Vali to take charge of Dispensary work and Foundlings' Home for the hot season, in order that Sister Ida Himmelsbaugh may get a much needed rest at the "Hills." She has delayed her furlough until about Aug. 1.

The hot season is upon us and a number of our missionaries were able to get away from their work for the rest they so much need at the "Hills." Drs. Cottrell are at Kodaikonal in South India. Sisters Ella Ebbert and Goldie Swartz, Bro. Howard Alley and family, and Brother and Sister Garner are at Mahabaleshwar, attending the Marathi Language School. Sisters Kathryn Ziegler, Josephine Powell and Ida Himmelsbaugh are at Landour in North India. At Naina Tal, also in North India, is Sister Emma Eby with the missionaries' children, Bro. I. S. Long and family, and Bro. J. M. Pittenger and family.

Pastor Govindji Khengar and his good wife, Kankubai Shankar, left Anklesvar today with their four children for Bulsar. He is to be assistant teacher in the Bulsar Bible Teacher Training School, and Kankubai is to teach a class of Fifth and Sixth Standard women in Kindergarten methods of teaching and other useful subjects. For over two years Bro. Khengar has been Bro. Stover's right-hand man, assistant editor of the "Prakash Patra," has frequently assisted in the village work, and has done pastoral work for the Anklesvar church. His wife was principal of the Anklesvar Girls' School. They will be missed here, for they were heart and soul in the work and had caught the spirit of true missionary service. That they had won a large place in the hearts of the India community, was abundantly shown in the touching farewell greeting given them. Last evening the Christian community gathered in front of the Stover bungalow, where six or eight expressed their high appreciation of the large service our brother and his wife have rendered to the Anklesvar church. Muskmelon was served to each one present by Sister Stover. Then there was prayer. The next day, at 12:30 P. M., just before their departure for the station, a short farewell service was held. At this time there was presented to Bro. Khengar a purse of twenty-two rupees, collected the day before. The putting of garlands of flowers about their necks, the tender words of appreciation of their services by the one presenting the unexpected gift, and the short prayer,—all quite overcame Bro. Khengar, who, with broken words, could scarcely give expression to the feelings that welled up within! In a large measure, his feeling was shared by all present, as, one by one, they bade them good-bye. "It was a sight good to see," as afterwards was expressed by a missionary, "that this spontaneous expression of appreciation should go to one of their own number. When their leaders prove themselves worthy, it is fitting that their people should express appreciation of their services in the same way they are wont to show their love towards the missionaries."

A. T. Hoffert.

Anklesvar, India, April 9.

THE QUIET HOUR

Suggestions for the Weekly Devotional Meeting Or for Prayerful, Private Meditation.

Seeing the Good in Others

Philpp. 2:1-11

For Week Beginning June 22, 1919

1. Introductory.—The things we see, will depend very much upon the glasses through which we look. If we use smoked or yellow lenses, we need not wonder that the objects about us appear dark or of a jaundiced tint. To see an object clearly, we need a clear medium. If we are to see good in those about us, there must be first something good in ourselves. If we are blind to goodness, to kindness, to loveliness, to sweetness of temper, we will be unable to discern these excellent qualities in our friends. Nature is sure to reflect our moods. "Unto the pure all things are pure; but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure." Christ said: "The pure in heart shall see God." Heart purity insures clear mental vision. What can be more evident than the all-important fact that the more good there is in us, the more good will we see in our companions, and the more quickly will we detect its opposite in the lives of those in our own walks of society?

2. Goodness of Heart Increases the Desire to Do Good to Others.—If one who loves flowers were to discover some ugly weeds in his garden, threatening to choke out his beautiful blooms, he would quickly pull up the weeds, to give his flowers a chance. So a friend should strive, in gentleness and by kindly admonition, to remove, or help his friend to remove, the things that hinder. The garden of our friend may be all the more beautiful if we are tactful in cherishing therein the things that are admirable. "No one,"—the apostle says,—"liveth to himself." Why not, then, be sunshine-bearers, to bring gladness to others?

3. We Should Pattern After Our Divine Exemplar.—Well does Paul say: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." Don't forget to place due emphasis on the word "mind,"—the ruling factor in proper conduct. Our trouble is largely with our minds. If we have Christ's mind we will have Christ's will. We will be able to see good in every one, and we will also be able to DO GOOD to every one. The Christ mind will give the Christ motive, and something of the Christ vision. Without this mind we will have but small power of discernment of the good there is in the world about us. No matter how good the camera may be, if the lens is covered by the shutter, the film will register no object. Let Christ take the cap off your camera. Humanitarianism has its basis in godliness.—God-likeness. There is something decidedly Christ-like in him who sees in another something worthy of his own sacrifice. That is what brought Christ into this world. He came to minister unto others, because he saw something in others that was worthy of his ministry. Humanity ever cherishes those,—most of all,—who have done most for their fellow-beings. They have done much because they had the happy faculty of seeing much in others that was worthy of recognition and encouragement.

4. Suggestive References.—Prefer others to yourself (Rom. 12: 10). Bear with others, and seek to please your neighbor for his good to edification (Rom. 15: 1-3). Paul's anxiety to gain others (1 Cor. 9: 19-23). Let no man seek his own but every man another's wealth (1 Cor. 10: 24). The loving heart is not easily provoked (1 Cor. 13: 4, 5). We must fulfil the "royal law" (James 2: 8).

BECKER BICENTENNIAL ECHOES

(Continued from Page 373)

close of the Life-Work Conference. That is, it was supposed to, but some things are easier started than stopped. And when you get a lot of earnest young Christians thoroughly aroused on such fundamental matters as have been engaging their thought here, they are likely to have something to say themselves about the stopping part of it. And so, when the meeting in the auditorium was dismissed, they met elsewhere and just kept on. They talked and prayed far into the night because the greatest question of their lives was on their hearts. But to the scheduled evening session.

The messages were brought by Bro. C. C. Ellis, of Juniata College, and Bro. J. M. Blough, just arrived from India in time for this Conference. And they were both such messages as can not fail to stir all but dead men and women to their depths.

Dr. Ellis talked on "The Call of the World to the Christian Young Men." Reading from that great message to young men in the second chapter of First John, he said the first call is the challenge to Christian faith and character. Can a young man believe in God and in his Word? That is the world's challenge to his faith. Then comes the challenge to his character by the temptations of the world. Happy the young man who meets these challenges successfully.

The second call is the lure of the second best. The speaker referred to Bushnell's great sermon: "Every Man's Life a Plan of God" and then showed how young men are constantly refusing to have God's best for them and choosing something good, it may be, but still something less than what they might have chosen. Why should any young man be satisfied with less than the best thing he can do? Too many, he said, are drawn into some purely secular social service instead of a service of real Christian sacrifice.

The third call is the call to stand fast in the faith and go out with the faith. This is the call which comes often unconsciously but none the less really from the world's heart. This is the call to world service which comes from the fact of the world's need, whether the world itself realizes it or the young man heeds it. To respond to the Great Commission is the loudest, most insistent call of all. In concluding, Bro. Ellis made a powerful appeal to young men to hear and answer.

Bro. Blough's theme, "Consecration to the World's Needs" was the logical sequence of the one which had just been presented. He first referred briefly to the appalling needs of the present hour and then to the fact that man is God's method of meeting these needs. God does not force his way across a human will. He does not draft, he asks for volunteers.

The speaker then devoted himself to defining and vivifying the doctrine of consecration. This consecration must be made by every Christian. It must be made to God. "I do not know where God wants you, I only know he wants you." Give yourself to him in blank. Let him fill out the occupation and the place. Still further, remember it is a consecration of yourself he wants, not merely of some things you have. This thought was illustrated by the case of the supposed bride who proposed to give the bridegroom some of her treasures but not herself. Give yourself. The rest will find its place.

Consecration must not be confused with conversion. In conversion you take your sins to God. In consecration you take him your renewed heart and life to be used as he will. Christ has purchased you. Have the goods been delivered? You have accepted Christ as your Savior. Have you accepted him as your Lord, your Owner? "Unless he is Lord of all, he is not Lord at all."

Perhaps there was no more impressive moment of the service,—I had almost said dramatic moment,—than when, between the two addresses, a chorus from Bethany Bible School, stationed in the balcony, answered a duet on the platform. The duet sang "You can by God's grace if you will," and the chorus answered, "We can by God's grace and we will." The effect on that vast audience was truly wonderful.

The service, as a whole, was a fitting climax to the Life-Work Conference. And yet, as noted above, it would not stay "climaxed." The climax will not be known until eternity has revealed the outcome of this first Life-Work Conference for Young People in our church. We believe it is an epoch-making event in our history.

Saturday, June 7

This was Becker Bicentennial Day proper. The General Theme of both morning and afternoon sessions was "The Church of the Brethren" and the program in large measure gathered about the memories of Peter Becker and his fellow-pioneers. But even today the thought of the Conference could not be kept on the past. The past was reviewed only for the inspiration it could give for the tasks of the present and future. And the spirit of the day was forward and onward to greater things.

Just following the opening devotions, led by Bro. W. E. Trostle, of California, the audience sang: "I Know Whom I Have Believed" as if they really knew. Then, before taking up the regular program, the moderator for the day, Bro. John Heckman, of Illinois, presented Dr. Dickey, Secretary of the Winona Assembly, who extended to the Conference a very gracious welcome to Winona. Appropriate response was made by Bro. J. W. Norris, in behalf of the Committee of Arrangements.

In the latter part of his address of welcome, Dr. Dickey had spoken of the financial difficulties through which the Assembly had passed and of their desire for a new auditorium and other needed improvements. Bro. Norris also referred to this matter, with the result that a considerable degree of enthusiasm was aroused. The Assembly is raising a fund by receiving subscriptions for stock, non-assessable and non-dividend paying, but carrying the right to share in the management. One brother offered a subscription of a hundred dollars, and others followed his example with like or smaller amounts.

Our people like Winona as a place for the Conference and when the situation is fully appreciated we believe they will come to the rescue and that a sufficient number will become stockholders in the Assembly to insure the new auditorium and the making of Winona Lake the ideal Conference location.

The regular program began with the topic, "Beginning of the Church in Germany and Emigration to America." In the absence of Ex-Governor Brumbaugh, to whom it had been assigned, this subject was discussed by Bro. G. N. Falkenstein.

Bro. Falkenstein reviewed the conditions in Germany which seemed providentially so favorable to the new organization. He described, in particular, the Pietistic movement, and the work and mutual relations of Hochmann and Mack. He portrayed the circumstances attendant upon the migration to America under the leadership of Peter Becker. Recalling how much they sacrificed, he said we had not yet learned to give as those fathers did. But the speaker's strong plea was that we should endeavor to catch their spirit and do something worthy of the followers of such leaders.

Bro. T. T. Myers followed on "The Establishment and Growth of the Church in America." He traced the history of the early years, explaining that the small amount of religious activity for the first three or four years was due to the material struggle involved in finding and establishing homes in the new world. But in 1723 Peter Becker made a journey among the scattered immigrants to reconcile differences and re-enlist their interest in religious things. The outcome was that, on Christmas Day of that year, the first church was organized at Germantown, six new converts were baptized and these, with the seventeen previous members, enjoyed the first communion service together. In 1724 there was a great revival. Referring briefly to the coming of Conrad Beissel and the Ephrata movement, he then traced the chronological development of new organizations in Pennsylvania and other States. The growth was natural from within outward, being due to evangelization about the home centers, followed by the carrying of the faith to new centers.

Speaking on "The Early Missionary Spirit of the Church," Bro. M. C. Swigart, pastor of the mother Germantown church, first told us of the earliest missionary tour of the Brethren in 1722, then of another in 1723,—the one Bro. Myers had mentioned,—and then of the party of fourteen, seven horsemen and seven footmen, who answered the call to Lancaster County, and how, from that time to this, that county has held more Brethren than any other in the United States. Sometimes the candle at Germantown almost went out, but it did not entirely. Such tours as above mentioned, with the countless over-Sunday horseback trips at great sacrifice of personal interest, give evidence of a missionary spirit in these early times unsurpassed by that of today. But why the later eclipse?—that is the pathetic fact in our missionary history. The speaker concluded with an account of the later revival and our more recent development along this line.

Before the next address was called for, that familiar text in Galatians: "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," was rendered in song by a chorus of Manchester young men.

The last address of the morning session was given by Bro. Otho Winger. The speaker began by referring to the fact that the tedious labors of the Standing Committee from which he had just come, were not very conducive to the proper inspiration for such an occasion, but before he got far into his speech it was evident that something must have happened in the Committee room to supply Bro. Winger with a very excellent kind of inspiration. His subject was "The Present and Future Missionary Spirit of the Church."

He recounted the marvelous progress of the recent past in missionary spirit but soon gave us to understand that in his view of things our missionary activities have as yet, scarcely begun. His vision of future possibilities is not a narrow one. It was when he got to denouncing the worldliness and selfishness and quibbling over technical matters, which hinder growth, that he became really in earnest. He has no sympathy for those who refuse to work just because our methods are changing in some respects. He held out no hope for the "stingy folks" who hope the calls for money will soon stop. The church may be a hospital, he admits, but not a cemetery or morgue. We are coming to the day of big things, and "when you are hunting big game you have no time to bother with mosquitoes."

At 1:30 Bro. Albert C. Wieand talked on "The Early Interest of the Church in Its Young People." The object in looking up the history of such things, he said, is that we may see God at work and learn by what principles and methods we can help along the work of God now. He showed the prominent part of young men in the Pietistic movement and how they were influenced by it, and cited the well-known dialog between Alexander Mack and his son, as indicating the interest in young people. Also the fact that Mack's children were baptized at 16 years of age.

The Sunday afternoon meetings in Germantown, whether properly regarded as the beginning of the Modern Sunday-school or not, give evidence of lively interest in the young. Bro. Wieand closed with a special appeal for home interest in the children, taking time and trouble to answer their questions and cultivate the proper religious spirit.

The second address of the afternoon was given by Bro. H. K. Ober, Chairman of the General Sunday School Board, on "Our Present and Future Sunday schools." Circumstances prevented our hearing

Well, what does this mean? Just a line to help you remember to send 35 cents for the Becker Bicentennial Conference. Brethren Publishing House, Elgin, Illinois.

gether. In 1724 there was a great revival. Reg briefly to the coming of Conrad Beissel and phrata movement, he then traced the chrono-l development of new organizations in Pennsyland other States. The growth was natural within outward, being due to evangelization about ome centers, followed by the carrying of the to new centers.

aking on "The Early Missionary Spirit of the h," Bro. M. C. Swigart, pastor of the mother ntown church, first told us of the earliest mis-y tour of the Brethren in 1722, then of another 23,—the one Bro. Myers had mentioned,—and f the party of fourteen, seven horsemen and footmen, who answered the call to Lancaster y, and how, from that time to this, that county ld more Brethren than any other in the United . Sometimes the candle at Germantown almost ut, but it did not entirely. Such tours as above oned, with the countless over-Sunday horseback t great sacrifice of personal interest, give eviof a missionary spirit in these early times un-sed by that of today. But why the later
?—that is the pathetic fact in our missionary
. The speaker concluded with an account of the evival and our more recent development along ic.

ore the next address was called for, that familiar n Galatians: "Be not deceived, God is not d, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he ap," was rendered in song by a chorus of Man-r young men.

last address of the morning session was given
o. Otho Winger. The speaker began by reg to the fact that the tedious labors of the Stand-mmittee from which he had just come, were not onducive to the proper inspiration for such an on, but before he got far into his speech it was t that something must have happened in the ittee room to supply Bro. Winger with a very nt kind of inspiration. His subject was "The t and Future Missionary Spirit of the Church."

recounted the marvelous progress of the recent missionary spirit but soon gave us to under-that in his view of things our missionary activi-ve, as yet, scarcely begun. His vision of future lities is not a narrow one. It was when he got ouncing the worldliness and selfishness and ng over technical matters, which hinder growth, became really in earnest. He has no sympathy se who refuse to work just because our methods anging in some respects. He held out no hope "stingy folks" who hope the calls for money on stop. The church may be a hospital, he but not a cemetery or morgue. We are com-the day of big things, and "when you are hunt-g game you have no time to bother with toes."

1:30 Bro. Albert C. Wieand talked on "The Interest of the Church in Its Young People."
ject in looking up the history of such things, he s that we may see God at work and learn by principles and methods we can help along the f God now. He showed the prominent part of men in the Pietistic movement and how they influenced by it, and cited the well-known between Alexander Mack and his son, as ing the interest in young people. Also the fact ack's children were baptized at 16 years of age.

Sunday afternoon meetings in Ger[illegible]antown, r properly regarded as the beginning of the n Sunday-school or not, give evidence of lively t in the young. Bro. Wieand close[illegible] with a and the two following addresses, a fact which we greatly regretted, the more so when we heard what others had to say about them. Bro. Ober revealed some startling facts about recent results of Sunday-school surveys. He closed with a very strong appeal, and if this is heeded, his high hopes for the future Sunday-school will be justified.

The last two subjects had to do with education and were discussed by two members of the General Educational Board,—Bro. John S. Flory, of Bridgewater College, and Bro. D. C. Reber, of Manchester College.

Bro. Flory's subject was "The Early Educational Endeavors of the Church of the Brethren." According to the testimony of a competent listener, "it was an excellent, scholarly address, worthy of being put into print as a historical pamphlet." Bro. Reber spoke on "Our Present and Future Educational Work." His discussion was also careful and exhaustive, including a great fund of information on the very recent and present condition of our schools in respect to attendance, curricula, equipment, faculties and endowment, a history of the General Educational Board, and an outline and optimistic estimate of future possibilities.

The evening session was devoted to the discussion of "The Doctrine of Peace and Its Application." To Bro. W. J. Swigart had been assigned the duty of setting forth the doctrine itself, while Bro. Edward Frantz was asked to discuss the application of the doctrine.

Bro. Swigart explained that he did not feel inclined to enter upon an exhaustive examination of New Testament teaching on this subject, but referred to the statement of the special Goshen Conference as the best presentation of which he knew and advised that it be carefully studied. Bro. Swigart's address was, therefore, largely a setting forth of the horrors and wickedness of war, with such vividness as to make any listener desire to do everything possible to relieve humanity of this awful curse. In the latter part he commended the loyalty of all who had found it impossible to participate in the recent cataclysm of destruction, and especially of those who had suffered imprisonment for conscience' sake.

Using as a starting-point Paul's words of counsel to the Romans, "If it be possible, as much as in you lieth, be at peace with all men," the address of Bro. Frantz was devoted to pointing out and elaborating briefly seven principles which he called "Some Guiding Principles for the Practice of Peace." These principles were stated somewhat as follows:

(1) Do your best to maintain the ideal, "Peace with all men."

(2) In all circumstances, whatever you do must be prompted by love.

(3) The deeds of your hands and the desires of your heart must agree.

(4) The course you think right for others must be the course you think right for yourself.

(5) Work for national and international policies which make for peace.

(6) Keep up the campaign of Christianizing the individual conscience.

(7) Ask God for light on your path.

Our sketch of the day's activities has been confined to the auditorium sessions as the center of interest, but there were many other busy and interesting conferences and meetings. A splendid Sisters' Aid Society program was given and there were also the Mothers and Daughters, the College Faculties and Trustees, the District Sunday-school Secretaries, and still other agencies holding conferences about their work.

Sunday, June 8

It was truly a Pentecostal day. We have not mer years, we do not know. But we are sure of one thing,—there has never been a Conference where so many of our people, especially young people, came together with such serious purpose. This is no crowd of sight-seers or pleasure-seekers. The folks who came to this Conference came for business,—the King's business.

We have not had time to talk about the weather. And we take only enough space to say that so far it has been as nearly perfect as nature seems to know how to make it. The blessings of God upon us are truly great.

The forenoon exercises in the auditorium consisted of the Sunday-school session and the discourse by Bro. J. W. Lear on "The Doctrines of the Church."

Of course the Sunday-school was not all in the auditorium. The adults were there,—that is, some of them were,—but the young people and children of all ages were,—well, most anywhere about the grounds and various buildings.

In the auditorium the lesson on Obedience was expounded by Bro. M. M. Myers, of Bridgewater College, and Bro. I. D. Heckman, of Cerro Gordo, Ill. Here are a few nuggets of truth gathered from their rich diggings:

Our obedience to God and his commandments must be not from blind servility, but from love. God wants obedience but he does not want it unless it is prompted by love. "If ye love me, keep my commandments." If all of us would do as well as we know, this would be a different world. Consecrated obedience can not come to the Lord on his day empty-handed. The emphasis must be placed, not on the fact that we have learned of Jesus, but on the fact that he controls our life. As faith makes all things possible, so love makes all things easy. Law says: "Do and live." Grace says: "Live and do."

Bro. Lear's sermon was an able and comprehensive treatment of a great and comprehensive subject. He first gave a brief exposition of three of the most fundamental Christian doctrines, God, Man and Salvation. Next he took up a group of "Ethical Doctrines" and surprised some of us, first, by his new classification, which made us think he was going to keep shy of most of the "distinctive features," and secondly getting in, after all, about everything of that class. You would have to hear Bro. Lear preach on "Fraternity" and "Sound Speech" for example, to realize how much those terms include. Then there were "The Sacredness of Human Life," "Marriage and Home" and "Simple Dress." There was not much left of anything except the ordinances when the speaker got through with these doctrines.

And there was no uncertain sound about it. Condemnation of modern evil tendencies was unsparing. You could easily tell what church the preacher represented.

Under his third division the "Ordinances" came in for their full share of attention, that is, as full as was possible in a sermon which was obliged to cover so much ground. Throughout the whole sermon there was a touch of freshness and originality in the treatment which put new interest in a subject which can never really grow old. And many a preacher present got some useful hints, we hope, on preaching doctrine.

At the same hour other preachers were holding forth the Word to other throngs at other places on the grounds. We got only one of them identified,—

Well, what does this mean? Just a line to help you remember to send 35 cents for the ... the Becker Bicentennial Conference. Brethren Publishing House greater transformation that takes place in the lives of men everywhere when they allow the Spirit of God to flow into their hearts and lives!

There is considerable sickness about. In Broach, and several of the surrounding villages, there is cholera. During the past month there have been several cases of measles in the boarding-school, and still there are two cases. Scorpions, too, are making their presence felt in a very real way to any one who happens to step on them with bare feet. Nearly every day, of late, some one has had that unfortunate experience. Several weeks ago one stung Daniel Stover, who said it felt as if something was pulling in every direction. Last Sunday evening his sister Helen was in the height of suffering for over an hour from the same cause. There is a worse sting than that of scorpions, but, best of all, there is a sure remedy: "The sting of death is sin; . . . but thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Somabhi, who was headmaster of the boys' school, has gone to Miraj to be operated on for appendicitis. When he returns he will be transferred to Vali, where he is needed in the school and church work. He has finished the Bible School at Bulsar and has proved himself to be a good, steady worker.

This part of India was visited by a slight earthquake at 3:25 P. M. of April 21. It lasted fifteen seconds and was felt by those who were not moving about at the time. Last fall a similar shock occurred at night, but no harm was done either time.

The May number of the "Prakash Patra" is now in the press. This is the special temperance issue and is illustrated. Fifteen hundred copies were ordered to be printed, to supply the needs of other missions of Gujerat for temperance material. This is three times the number regularly printed. Bro. Stover has been editing this paper, but in June that work will be entrusted to the principal and students of the Bulsar Bible School.

Sister Miller went to Bulsar on Monday and returned on Tuesday, bringing with her twenty-three of the Bulsar Boarding-school girls, who were spending their vacation there before coming here for school, which opened April 23. Provisions have been made for the accommodation of over a hundred girls in the boarding-school. This has been done by utilizing the building formerly occupied by the boys. One wing of the servants and teachers' line, which faces the boys' building, has been arranged for the accommodation of the girls. The space between the two buildings has been enclosed with lattice work. There are now ninety-seven in the boarding-school. With several others, to come in soon, there will be over a hundred. Six teachers are employed in the school, who teach all standards but the seventh. A. T. Hoffert.

April 24.

DEDICATION DAY AT FRANKLIN COUNTY CHURCH, IOWA

As previously announced, the day set for the dedication of our remodeled church building is June 15. The program for the day is as follows: 10 A. M., Regular Sunday-school; 11 A. M., Sermon.—A. P. Blough; 2:30 P. M., Dedication Service.—A. P. Blough; 8:30 P. M., Christian Workers' Meeting; 9 P. M., Evangelistic Sermon, Opening Bible School and Series of Meetings in Charge of W. E. Buntain.

A cordial invitation and welcome is extended to any one to be with us in the above services.

On Missionary Day the morning and evening services were both well attended and very much appreciated. The total offering amounted to $562.33.

Dumont, Iowa, May 31. Harvey W. Allen.

JOINT SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

The third Annual Sunday-school Convention of Southern Michigan was held in the Woodland church May 10. The main topic discussed at this convention was "The Modern Sunday-school in Worship, Education, Expression, Special Day Programs and Social Problems."

This topic with its divisions and subdivisions was ably handled by various speakers and many helpful suggestions were brought out. The following are a few of the many good things:

Singing is a part of divine worship, and the selection of hymns should largely be left to the superintendent, chorister and teachers, and should be in harmony with the lesson. Much emphasis was given to reading and memorizing Scripture. The topic "Education" showed the need of graded lessons. It is best to have a class for each year in the child age, which is the best time for character building. Expression is manifested by gifts and service. Giving is a part of worship. We should give not only of our means but give ourselves. Service in the church begins in the Sunday-school and it is the most direct way of reaching the children. Of the Special Days mention was made of Easter, Children's Day, Mothers' Day, Promotion Day and Christmas. The topic, "Social Problems," showed that recreation is a necessary element in our lives. Special means must be provided to safeguard the social elements, so necessary to the young, and class organization is one of the best means for this purpose.

"The Five-Year Forward Movement," as pertaining to the Sunday-school, was well discussed. Our work in the past has been indefinite. We should organize for definite work and have a common purpose. There is great need of many new schools in the District and many new scholars are ready to enter the schools when organized. The goal of every teacher should be to bring the scholar to Christ.

The last topic was: "What Can the Schools of the District Do to Inspire Young Men and Young Women to Definite Service?" Definite work will bring every member of the church to do something, and will build up a stronger church than ever before. Young people should be made to take up active work in the church, Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Meetings.

In the evening the Volunteer Mission Band of Bethany Bible School was with us. Bro. Sollenberger gave a very interesting talk, and Sister Miller gave a stereopticon lecture on the work in India. They also gave us talks on Sunday morning, and Sister Pearl Grosch gave an interesting talk to the children, which was much enjoyed by all.

Woodland, Mich. Jesse Spindler.

AHWA NOTES, INDIA

After two months on the sea, we are glad to be settled again, here in our home at Ahwa. We are twenty-two miles from the railway, which is more than a day's journey for the slow Indian bullocks, over these stony, hilly roads. We live on a high hill, surrounded by forests,—a lovely spot.

Brother and Sister Pittenger spent about ten years here, serving these simple forest people. Bro. Pittenger's health did not permit him to continue the work here, so he is now located at Dahanu. The people of this place owe much to Brother and Sister Pittenger who, through much toil, pain and prayer, have established schools, and organized a little church in their midst.

Brother and Sister Blough, who worked here during the past year, also hold a large place in the hearts of these poor people. Daily prayer is made in behalf of these dear ones who today sail from Calcutta. May the Lord guide their ship and land them safe in the homeland for their well-deserved and much-needed furlough.

Now the duties and responsibilities of this work have fallen upon us. On every side are many and great opportunities for Gospel work. What with boarding-schools, a church of raw converts, building, famine work, village schools, evangelistic work among the people, medical work, and countless smaller matters,—what, with all these, can one or two missionaries do?

Five have been baptized since the beginning of the year. Our little Lois was one of these. About twenty more are asking for baptism and as fast as they can be instructed they will receive baptism.

Famine is facing us in this district. There was but a four anna (one-fourth) crop, so these people who, in normal years, live near the bread line, are now in great need. For two weeks there has been no rice for sale. We had laid in store for our boarding-schools, so we sold what we could spare, but now that supply is exhausted. Many people are living on roots and wild fruits. Government has ordered 4,000 bags of rice and will open some relief work, but just now the riots along the railway are delaying the transportation of foodstuffs. We trust that since order is being restored, the rice may soon come, so that at least people who have money can buy. It has been hard to turn away hungry people, especially fathers and mothers who beg for just a little rice for their little ones. We pray that soon we may be able to help these hungry people.

Water, too, is scarce. Many wells have failed. Our own mission well has furnished no water since early in February. Our water is hauled or carried from a well about a half mile away. It is feared that even that well may fail. All cattle are kept from the well and people who have no special work in the town, have been ordered away. If the wells fail altogether, our boarding-school children and Christian families will seek temporary lodging until the monsoon in June.

Influenza has again come into our midst. Our Christian village at Chankal, about four miles away, was stricken. The patel, or head-man, a Christian, was the first to die. People were panic-stricken and wandered hither and thither. Several Christian families came to us for help and medicine. We arranged a place for them, apart from our schools and community, but it is hard to segregate in India. However, we did what we could to prevent the spread of the disease, and daily gave food and medicine. One man lost his wife and his two children, having left only his baby boy. Two girls of one family and one boy of another family are left orphans and are now in our boarding-schools. Another man had left his wife in the stricken village, while he went on a three days' journey, hauling grass. When he returned, he found his wife alone under a tree, dying. He had been married but one month. No one would help, so he tied a rope around her body, dragged her out and, with his own hands, buried her. The Lord has now stayed the disease and so far as we know the Dang State is now free from this terrible disease.

A party of fifty-one went from Ahwa to the District Meeting at Vyara,—a three days' journey over these rough jungle roads. Bro. Ebey remained at home to care for the influenza patients. The two little girls and myself rode in the spring wagon without much discomfort for we had a careful driver and another Christian man to care for the brake. We cooked our meals under trees by some river and at night spread out our bedding in the wagon, tied up our mosquito-net and lay down in peace to sleep, with our carts and bullocks and people around us. Each family kept a fire burning all night to keep away the cold and the tigers. All enjoyed the meetings and returned with new inspiration to work among their people here who do not yet know the Christ.

We left our little girl, Lois, aged nine, at Vyara, in order to join the school party the following week. Sister E. H. Eby is making a home at Naini Tal for her own three boys and five girls from our mission families. This school is about 1,500 miles from us, high up in the Himalayas. The climate is good, and though we most keenly feel the separation, we are thankful that our children have this splendid opportunity to continue their school work in a good English school.

Last week was the great annual Durbar for the Dangs. Sixteen kings, each with all the pomp and splendor he could afford, appeared before the English Political Agent to receive their annual fees. These kings have but little authority, as the government pays them for the right of the forests, etc.

The following morning our mission school children from Ahwa and from several out-villages sang and gave exercises before the English officials and a great crowd of people. They were praised for their good work and every boy who had passed his final examination received a coat. Government is eager to get the girls in school. Eighteen girls were present and each one received a jacket. All the children present were given sweets and parched pulse. Some of the forest children were afraid, and the police could scarcely make them sit down to receive these sweets. Influenza has broken up some of our mission schools. Next year we hope to have more and better schools. Christian education is the crying need of these people. Will you pray for the work of the Lord among these needy people of this forest land?

April 18. Alice K. Ebey.

DISTRICT MEETING OF SOUTHEASTERN KANSAS

Our meeting began Tuesday morning, May 6. On Monday night we listened to a very interesting and inspiring message, given by Bro. D. H. Heckman, of Madison, Kans., who is now holding a series of meetings at Altamont, same State. The visiting members began arriving on Monday afternoon; others came Tuesday and some on Wednesday.

The Tuesday morning session was a temperance program, closing with an address by Bro. Ralph Quakenbush, now of the Verdigris church. Tuesday afternoon was Christian Workers' Meeting. Instead of the topic outlined in the program, the "Forward Movement" was taken up by Bro. W. O. Beckner, of McPherson College. The second topic was: "How to Get Dormant Talent Stirred to Activity," followed by an essay by Lillie Miller, of Altamont. In the evening Bro. Beckner gave the educational address, showing the very important need of an education.

A Sunday-school Meeting was held Wednesday morning. Some of the speakers were Brethren J. A. Campbell, J. S. Leaman, G. E. Shirkey, R. W. Quakenbush and S. E. Lantz.

Wednesday afternoon was the Ministerial Meeting. Some of the problems which come up in our church work were very ably and satisfactorily discussed. In the evening we were entertained with a missionary address by Bro. Beckner. At the close of the meeting, a collection of $1,200 was taken.

The District Meeting was held on Thursday. We believe each one present received spiritual good from the sessions. Our next District Meeting is to be held at the Paint Creek church. May Nicholson.

McCune, Kans.

FROM DENMARK

In former days I wrote now and then for the "Gospel Messenger," but a long time has gone by since my last attempt. At this time I send just a few words to gladden the hearts of the many readers who love our mission and are interested in the work in far-away Denmark.

The little plant which was started here some years ago by our beloved and consecrated missionaries, Christian Hope and wife, is yet alive, trying to contend for the faith "once delivered unto the saints."

Our good Lord and Father has mercifully spared and protected this little band of faithful believers through many tribulations. We have, indeed, learned the truth of the Written Word, that through much tribulation we must enter into the Kingdom of God. We are rejoicing every day for the great privilege we are permitted to share,—that we may be the children of God, our Heavenly Father, who, in his great mercy and grace, sent the dear missionaries here to tell us the truth as it is in Jesus.

(Continued on Page 382)

aud among them we have many good friends. It is leasant to think of their being left to themselves, to n in the ways of their fathers. But that is just what happen, the only thing that can happen to them, s help comes from the outside. We hope that day is not far distant when the Brethren church will en to a sense of her duty toward Latin America.
r last regular service was held May 11 at our home, church having been sold some time before. It was a feeling of sadness that we met for the last time those with whom we had worshiped for a numbe ars. And yet we were glad that we had had the privileg neeting with them, working with them and learning desires and hopes. Only a very few of those who with us remain at Omaja, and most of them are look-forward to leaving at an early day, to find homes where.

hen the money for the church is paid in, it will be in some way to help make the Hiel Hamilton hos-l in China more of a blessing to those whom the kers there can reach. We were blessed in having the rch, and we are sure that the money coming from its will be the means of blessing others.

he writer of this will find it necessary to return to a temporarily for business reasons, but the family not. Other members of the Omaja congregation are tered from the east to the Pacific, and from Michigan Florida. We came from sections as widely separated, on leaving our common home in a pleasant land each ks his work and profit where it seems best to him.
y the blessing of the Father be with them all, and with se who helped us to secure a church home in Cuba!

Delhi, N. Y., May 31. Grant Mahan.

HAPPENINGS AT ANKLESVAR, INDIA

t has been customary, for the past few years, for the klesvar church, to hold the spring love feast on Thurs-y evening before Good Friday. At this time of the year r thoughts naturally go back to the last evening Jesus ent with his disciples, to the agonizing prayer in the rden, and to the tragic, yet, epoch-making event of the llowing day. Good Friday of Passion Week tends to rect our thoughts back to the cross, much the same as es the communion service. There is no more fitting ay of impressing upon our minds the significance of ood Friday than to hold a communion service at this ne of the year. Such is the feeling of the Anklesvar urch.

The attendance this spring was smaller than usual, the umber of communicants was 109. Bro. Stover conucted an impressive examination service prior to the ast, at which time a number expressed a desire for aptism. Only the members communed, but all who came ere fed,—there being 250 in all. Baptism was adminisered the next day, April 18. We were rejoiced to see ixteen enter the fold of Christ. Three of these were omen,—wives of Christian men. It brought joy to the eart of the missionary, to see the women come, for the Christian man who has a heathen wife makes but little rogress in spiritual growth, and can not have a Christian ome. Six of this number are in the Girls' Boardingchool. Two are daughters of men who were baptized ears ago by Bro. S. N. McCann. This makes forty-nine who have been received by baptism in the Anklesvar district since the beginning of this year. These need your prayers, dear reader, that they may remain faithful, and grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord!

With people by the score coming daily for famine relief or for other reasons, these are busy days for the missionaries. Several days ago men came in carts from Rudha, twenty-five miles to the east, where our District Mission Board has workers, that they might get rice for themselves and others in that village. Among themselves they were able to make up Rs. 92 for buying the rice they need, but the Anklesvar municipality has no rice on hand at present, and the cheap grain shop, opened by them some time ago for the benefit of the poor, has sold out its supply. Yesterday word came that a car-load was coming from Bombay, and another car from Broach.
Hence there are prospects that the wants of the men from Rudah and of those from other villages can soon be met. With fully six weeks until the rains come, every effort will be required, by transportation and relief distributing agencies, to reach the suffering poor in thousands of villages.

When we go to Broach, as we cross the long bridge over the Nerbudda River, our eyes are greeted by a beautiful sight on both sides of the railroad. At this time of the year the channel of the stream covers less than one-fourth of the river bed. Just to the north of the stream the greater transformation that takes place in the lives of men everywhere when they allow the Spirit of God to flow into their hearts and lives!

There is considerable sickness about. In Broach, and several of the surrounding villages, there is cholera. During the past month there have been several cases of measles in the boarding-school, and still there are two cases. Scorpions, too, are making their presence felt in a very real way to any one who happens to step on them with bare feet. Nearly every day, of late, some one has had that unfortunate experience. Several weeks ago one stung Daniel Stover, who said it felt as if something was pulling in every direction. Last Sunday evening his sister Helen was in the height of suffering for over an hour from the same cause. There is a worse sting than that of scorpions, but, best of all, there is a sure remedy: "The sting of death is sin; . . . but thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Somabhi, who was headmaster of the boys' school, has gone to Miraj to be operated on for appendicitis. When he returns he will be transferred to Vali, where he is needed in the school and church work. He has finished the Bible School at Bulsar and has proved himself to be a good, steady worker.

This part of India was visited by a slight earthquake at 3:25 P. M. of April 21. It lasted fifteen seconds and was felt by those who were not moving about at the time. Last fall a similar shock occurred at night, but no harm was done either time.

The May number of the "Prakash Patra" is now in the press. This is the special temperance issue and is illustrated. Fifteen hundred copies were ordered to be printed, to supply the needs of other missions of Gujerat for temperance material. This is three times the number regularly printed. Bro. Stover has been editing this paper, but in June that work will be entrusted to the principal and students of the Bulsar Bible School.

Sister Miller went to Bulsar on Monday and returned on Tuesday, bringing with her twenty-three of the Bulsar Boarding-school girls, who were spending their vacation there before coming here for school, which opened April 23. Provisions have been made for the accommodation of over a hundred girls in the boarding-school. This has been done by utilizing the building formerly occupied by the boys. One wing of the servants and teachers' line, which faces the boys' building, has been arranged for the accommodation of the girls. The space between the two buildings has been enclosed with lattice work. There are now ninety-seven in the boarding-school. With several others, to come in soon, there will be over a hundred. Six teachers are employed in the school, who teach all standards but the seventh.

A. T. Hoffert.

April 24.

DEDICATION DAY AT FRANKLIN COUNTY CHURCH, IOWA

As previously announced, the day set for the dedication of our remodeled church building is June 15. The program for the day is as follows: 10 A. M., Regular Sunday-school; 11 A. M., Sermon.—A. P. Blough; 2:30 P. M., Dedication Service.—A. P. Blough; 8:30 P. M., Christian Workers' Meeting; 9 P. M., Evangelistic Sermon, Opening Bible School and Series of Meetings in Charge of W. E. Buntain.

A cordial invitation and welcome is extended to any one to be with us in the above services.

On Missionary Day the morning and evening services were both well attended and very much appreciated. The total offering amounted to $562.33.

Dumont, Iowa, May 31. Harvey W. Allen.

JOINT SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

The third Annual Sunday-school Convention of Southern Michigan was held in the Woodland church May 10. The main topic discussed at this convention was "The Modern Sunday-school in Worship, Education, Expression, Special Day Programs and Social Problems."

This topic with its divisions and subdivisions was ably handled by various speakers and many helpful suggestions were brought out. The following are a few of the many good things:

Singing is a part of divine worship, and the selection of hymns should largely be left to the superintendent, chorister and teachers, and should be in harmony with the lesson. Much emphasis was given to reading and memorizing Scripture. The topic "Education" showed the need of graded lessons. It is best to have a class for each year in the child age, which is the best time for character building. Expression is manifested by gifts and service. Giving is a part of worship. We should give not only of the Sunday-school, was well discussed. Our work in the past has been indefinite. We should organize for definite work and have a common purpose. There is great need of many new schools in the District and many new scholars are ready to enter the schools when organized. The goal of every teacher should be to bring the scholar to Christ.

The last topic was: "What Can the Schools of the District Do to Inspire Young Men and Young Women to Definite Service?" Definite work will bring every member of the church to do something, and will build up a stronger church than ever before. Young people should be made to take up active work in the church, Sunday-school and Christian Workers' Meetings.

In the evening the Volunteer Mission Band of Bethany Bible School was with us. Bro. Sollenberger gave a very interesting talk, and Sister Miller gave a stereopticon lecture on the work in India. They also gave us talks on Sunday morning, and Sister Pearl Grosch gave an interesting talk to the children, which was much enjoyed by all.

Woodland, Mich. Jesse Spindler.

AHWA NOTES, INDIA

After two months on the sea, we are glad to be settled again, here in our home at Ahwa. We are twenty-two miles from the railway, which is more than a day's journey for the slow Indian bullocks, over these stony, hilly roads. We live on a high hill, surrounded by forests,—a lovely spot.

Brother and Sister Pittenger spent about ten years here, serving these simple forest people. Bro. Pittenger's health did not permit him to continue the work here, so he is now located at Dahanu. The people of this place owe much to Brother and Sister Pittenger who, through much toil, pain and prayer, have established schools, and organized a little church in their midst.

Brother and Sister Blough, who worked here during the past year, also hold a large place in the hearts of these poor people. Daily prayer is made in behalf of these dear ones who today sail from Calcutta. May the Lord guide their ship and land them safe in the homeland for their well-deserved and much-needed furlough.

Now the duties and responsibilities of this work have fallen upon us. On every side are many and great opportunities for Gospel work. What with boarding-schools, a church of raw converts, building, famine work, village schools, evangelistic work among the people, medical work, and countless smaller matters,—what, with all these, can one or two missionaries do?

Five have been baptized since the beginning of the year. Our little Lois was one of these. About twenty more are asking for baptism and as fast as they can be instructed they will receive baptism.

Famine is facing us in this district. There was but a four anna (one-fourth) crop, so these people who, in normal years, live near the bread line, are now in great need. For two weeks there has been no rice for sale. We had laid in store for our boarding-schools, so we sold what we could spare, but now that supply is exhausted. Many people are living on roots and wild fruits. Government has ordered 4,000 bags of rice and will open some relief work, but just now the riots along the railway are delaying the transportation of foodstuffs. We trust that since order is being restored, the rice may soon come, so that at least people who have money can buy. It has been hard to turn away hungry people, especially fathers and mothers who beg for just a little rice for their little ones. We pray that soon we may be able to help these hungry people.

Water, too, is scarce. Many wells have failed. Our own mission well has furnished no water since early in February. Our water is hauled or carried from a well about a half mile away. It is feared that even that well may fail. All cattle are kept from the well and people who have no special work in the town, have been ordered away. If the wells fail altogether, our boarding-school children and Christian families will seek temporary lodging until the monsoon in June.

Influenza has again come into our midst. Our Christian village at Chankal, about four miles away, was stricken. The patel, or head-man, a Christian, was the first to die. People were panic-stricken and wandered hither and thither. Several Christian families came to us for help and medicine. We arranged a place for them, apart from our schools and community, but it is hard to segregate in India. However, we did what we could to prevent the spread of the disease, and daily gave food and medicine. One man lost his wife and his two children, having left only his baby boy. Two girls of one family and one boy of another family are left orphans and are

Annual Meeting. Our District is to be represented by Bro. D. P. Neher. Our revival meetings are to be held by Bro. E. L. Ikenberry, of McPherson, beginning the latter part of August. We decided to hold our communion service some time during the revival. Christian Workers' officers were elected, with Sister Templetoo, president. We also decided to have a lecture course, consisting of three numbers, and a committee for securing speakers for the same was appointed. At the close of the session we took up some of the points, as outlined on the "Forward Movement" chart. We decided to organize a Teacher-training Class and appointed a committee to seek a location for organizing a new Sunday-school.—Mrs. May Nicholson, McCune, Kans., May 26.

Sabetha church enjoyed a love feast May 24. Bro. Yoder, of Morrill, Kans., preached a very interesting sermon, after which dinner was served in the basement. At 2 P. M. Bro. Bowman conducted the examination services, after which Bro. Roy Kistner was advanced to the eldership and installed. In the evening we met for communion services, with about 140 present. Bro. Bowman officiated. Visiting members from adjoining churches, Sunday morning Bro. Studebaker, of McPherson College, preached an interesting missionary sermon, after which a collection of $4655 was taken for Armenian. Bro. Studebaker gave two lessons in Bible study which were interesting. We are preparing a program for Children's Day.—Mrs. John Heikes, Sabetha, Kans., May 27.

MISSOURI

Fairview congregation met May 25 for Sunday-school. Eld. J. B. Hylton gave us a missionary talk. Our services a collection of $30 was taken for mission purposes. We expect to begin a series of meetings Oct. 14, with Bro. F. E. Miller of Enders, Nebr., evangelist.—Belle Hylton, Mansfield, Mo., May 26.

Carthage.—We had an unusually interesting and enjoyable communion May 31, with about seventy present. There were representatives from Dry Fork, Fairview, Joplin, and other towns; also from Arkansas. They failed to have an overflow. Bro. Jaggers' bright, frank Fairview led the services. Sunday morning he preached at Joplin and his son preached at Carthage. Eld. A. B. Lichtenwalter was also with us, both at Carthage and Joplin, and encouraged us by his good counsel and wise and wholesome admonitions.—J. L. Switzer, Carthage, Mo., June 2.

Mineral Creek church met in council May 23. One letter was granted. Our spring love feast was held May 15. Eld. James Mohler was also present. Our next council meeting will be held with Sister Bonover, of Adrian, Mo., gave us several very interesting and instructive talks on Sunday-school work.—Ruth Pentecost, Leeton, Mo., May 29.

South Wyaconda.—We expect to hold a two weeks' series of meetings, beginning Aug. 24, with Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., in charge. The interest and attendance in Sunday-school have been unusually good. Bro. C. A. Bailey was reelected superintendent. We expect to have a Teacher-training Class during the winter. June 22. Our contributions to the Armenian-Syrian Relief amounted to $57.23, and our offering for Annual Meeting to $63. One letter of membership was received recently.—Mrs. Alice R. Mohler, Warrensburg, Mo., June 3.

MONTANA

Galpin.—May 17 Bro. Brown, of Poplar Valley church, preached three sermons,—the first preaching we have had for eight months. We had good attendance and seemed to appreciate the message. Sunday we had an all-day meeting. The afternoon was spent in organizing the Bible Class. We now have two organized classes. The Young People's Class is doing excellent work since being organized, with Frank Kasten, president. June 26 we will hold our annual Rally Day picnic. This day is looked forward to as a spiritual feast in Sunday-school work, the different schools coming together and exchanging ideas and Sunday-school work. Monday evening we met in council at the South Bench schoolhouse, with Bro. Brown presiding. Bro. A. M. Swihart was elected elder; Bro. Claude Burlingame, clerk; Bro. Brown will be our delegate to Conference. Six membership were granted. Bro. Brown will be with us again June 15. We sent an offering of $164.42 to the Armenian Relief fund.—Mrs. R. G. Mahugh, Nashua, Mont., May 27.

NEBRASKA

Bethel congregation met in quarterly business meeting May 24. Three letters were granted. At the close Bethrock will act as delegate to Annual Conference. Bro. Hilton and family expect to go to their new field of labor at Los Angeles June 17, and we regret to see them leave. Our new pastor, Bro. Hilton, and Wenatchee, Wash., takes up the work June 8. Our missionary offering amounted to $252.78.—Ella S. Saylor, Carleton, Nebr., June 2.

Kearney church met in regular business meeting May 28, with Eld. J. J. Tanner presiding. Bro. D. A. Bothrock will act as delegate to Annual Conference. Bro. Hilton and family expect to go to their new field of labor at Los Angeles June 17, and we regret to see them leave. Our new pastor, Bro. Hilton, and Wenatchee, Wash., takes up the work June 8. Our missionary offering amounted to $252.78.—Ella S. Saylor, Carleton, Nebr., June 2.

Table Rock church met in council May 28, with Eld. Fidler presiding. Bro. A. M. Swihart was elected elder; Bro. Claude Burlingame, clerk; Bro. Brown will be with us again June 15. We sent an offering of $164.42 to the Armenian Relief fund.—Mrs. R. G. Mahugh, Nashua, Mont., May 27.

NEBRASKA

Bethel congregation met in quarterly business meeting May 24. Three letters were granted. At the close Bethrock will act as delegate to Annual Conference. Bro. Hilton and family expect to go to their new field of labor at Los Angeles June 17, and we regret to see them leave. Our new pastor, Bro. Hilton, and Wenatchee, Wash., takes up the work June 8. Our missionary offering amounted to $252.78.—Ella S. Saylor, Carleton, Nebr., June 2.

Kearney church met in regular business meeting May 28, with Eld. J. J. Tanner presiding. Bro. D. A. Bothrock will act as delegate to Annual Conference. Missionary sermons were preached on two Sundays, May 18 and 25. Our Annual Meeting collection amounted to $65.75. June 1 Eld. W. P. McLellan, of Litchfield, preached for us, which was very much appreciated.—Mary P. May, Kearney, Nebr., June 4.

South Beatrice.—As a result of the series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Smith, ministers of the Gospel, by baptism and two await baptism. Bro. W. H. Halderman, of Morrill, Kans., conducted the song service and we feel that his efforts were a very valuable contribution to the meetings. Bro. J. H. B. Williams gave two very much appreciated Conference addresses. Our offering for Annual Conference is being taken and so far amounts to $250.—Mrs. Edith Kindig, Holmesville, Nebr., May 29.

NORTH CAROLINA

Spray Mission.—May 12 Bro. Zion Mitchel began a series of meetings, preaching fourteen interesting sermons. May 18 Sister Bessie Barnhart came to assist in the meetings. May 23 Eld. L. A. Bowman, of Calloway, Va., and Bro. Robertson, of Winston-Salem, N. C., were with us, remaining until the meetings closed. One was baptized. Our love feast was held May 24, with Bro. Robertson officiating. The following day we met in members' meeting. The subject of securing a pastor was considered. Sunday night a collection of about $50 was taken.—Lucy A. Rickman, Leaksville, N. C., June 3.

NORTH DAKOTA

Berthold church met in council May 17, with Eld. D. M. Shoth presiding. All church officers were retained for the year. The writer was elected Sunday-school superintendent. The following Sunday Eld. Shoth gave a splendid sermon. We decided to have preaching twice a month.—Altha Mahugh, Berthold, N. Dak., May 23.

Surrey church held her annual love feast May 24. We had with us Elders O. C. Wyer, Wm. Eisenbise, and M. Bright, and appreciated their presence very much. Eld. O. A. Myer preached a very edifying missionary sermon on Sunday morning, after which we took an offering of $104.14 for Armenian Relief. Sunday in the evening our Sunday-school is progressing nicely.—Nora E. Petry, Surrey, N. Dak., May 27.

OHIO

Bear Creek church met in council May 14. We held our love feast May 24, with Bro. H. A. Claybaugh officiating. The presence of those from adjoining churches was much appreciated. Sunday morning we had a children's meeting, with an attendance of 434. Brethren H. A. Claybaugh and Sister Keller gave splendid talks. May 25 and 26 Bro. Claybaugh, assisted by Bro. Keller, gave lectures with stereopticon views, showing some of the conditions in Chicago and the work of Bethany Bible School. Sisters Anna Eby and Sadie Miller were with us on Sunday evening, June 1, when the latter gave an interesting talk. Sister Anna Eby was also with us May 11 and gave a good talk. We are planning to have an all-day missionary meeting July 4 and expect to have several of our missionaries with us.—Maudie Filbrun, Dayton, Ohio, June 4.

Brookville church met in council May 27, with Eld. Fidler presiding. Brethren Sylvan Bookwalter, Jesse Garst and Harvey Peiser were also present. Sixteen letters of membership were received and one was granted. The church decided to send a request to entertain the Ministerial and Sunday-school Meetings. Our love feast has been arranged for Oct. 14, at 6 P. M. Brookville church is planning to be well represented at the Winona Conference.—Mrs. Arthur Hay, Brookville, Ohio, May 31.

Dunkard church met in council May 24. One was received by letter. We will hold our love feast June 29, at 6 P. M. Bro. David Lytle is our delegate to Annual Meeting. We are looking forward to our series of meetings, which will begin June 15.—Esther Dishong, Deshler, Ohio, May 28.

Eagle Creek church held her love feast May 25. We were pleased to have with us Bro. L. H. Dickey, of Fostoria, and Bro. G. A. Snider, of Lima, Ohio. Sunday morning we took our Conference offering which amounted to $303; our quota was $256. Some time ago $819 was given for the Armenian-Syrian Relief, for which our quota was $343. Mothers' Day our pastor, Bro. J. J. Anglemyer, delivered a very interesting sermon. Since the last report one has been baptized.—Pearl Rodebaugh, Williamstown, Ohio, June 4.

Goshen church met in council April 28 at White Cottage house, with Bro. A. B. Horst in charge. Bro. J. J. Hoover, of Morrill, Kans., assisted. The following officers were elected: Bro. S. S. Scarbaugh, elder; trustee for one, two and three years, respectively, Brethren L. H. Gray, J. L. Spring and J. F. Shrider; clerk, Q. E. Horn; correspondent and "Messenger" agent, Mrs. J. F. Shrider; Sunday-school superintendent, Bro. A. B. Horst. The latter came to us Feb. 16 and expects to remain during the summer, filling appointments alternately at Goshen and White Cottage houses. Bro. J. J. Hoover held the Easter service at the Goshen house. We took offerings both for Armenian and Indian sufferers. The work here is being greatly revived under the personal work of Bro. Horst.—Mrs. J. F. Shrider, South Zanesville, Ohio, June 3.

Greensburg church met in council May 30. Lucille Snavely was elected Christian Workers' president. At this meeting we decided to redecorate the interior of the church.—Mrs. Elias L. Eberly, Old Fort, Ohio, June 3.

Lordstown church met in council May 30, with Eld. J. H. Eidemiller in charge. Two letters were granted and two received. Bro. Guy Studebaker was elected to serve on the missionary committee and Bro. Herbert Barnhart on the auditing committee. Bro. Baker was elected trustee and Bro. Barnhart, president of the Christian Workers. Our fall communion is set for Sept. 27, at 10 A. M. The collection for Annual Conference is $617.85 and not all in yet. Our Children's Day will be June 29.—Mrs. Ida Baker, Lordstown, Ohio, June 4.

Pleasant Hill church met in council May 30, with Bro. C. L. Flory presiding. The "Forward Movement" was adopted by the church. A committee was chosen to secure some one to assist in an annual ministerial meeting. Bro. Decker proposed to be given room. Four letters were received. We have enjoyed many spiritual meetings during the last month. May 4 Sister Marguerite Bixler Garrett conducted our Musical Institute for one week. May 7 and 8 the Ladies' Aid Society served dinner and supper. Mothers' Day our revival began with our pastor, Bro. John A. Robinson, in charge. There was a large attendance throughout the meeting and the meeting closed with seventeen boys and girls from the Sunday-school were baptized. May 31 our love feast was held. Brethren Isaac Frantz and Geo. Mohler, of Covington, officiated. Easter Sunday over $1,100 was given for Armenian Relief to make our conference offering quota.—Mary West, Pleasant Hill, Ohio, June 2.

Sugar Hill church met in council May 31, with Eld. J. Franklin Brubaker presiding. One letter was read. We decided to hold an all-day Harvest Meeting some time in August. Our love feast will be held Oct. 11, at 5 P. M.—Mary Bowser, West Alexandria, Ohio, June 2.

OREGON

Albany church met in council May 31, with the writer presiding. Bro. H. H. Ritter, of Mabel, Oregon, will hold a week's meetings for us, commencing June 22. Our love feast will be held June 28 at 7 P. M. Sister T. M. Anderson and the writer were elected delegates to the District Meeting, to be held at Portland Aug. 18-21.—Hiram Smith, Albany, Oregon, June 4.

Talent church met in council May 28, with Eld. S. F. Decker presiding. Two letters were granted. It was decided to have our love feast June 21. All church officers were retained.—Ora L. Stump, Talent, Oregon, May 31.

PENNSYLVANIA

East Fairview.—May 17 and 18 our church held a Bible Institute, conducted by Brethren H. K. Ober and Harry H. Nye from Elizabethtown College. The instruction they gave was highly appreciated. May 25 Eld. Geo. Weaver preached a very inspiring missionary sermon, after which we took an offering. We organized a teacher-training class, with Eld. J. B. Brubaker as teacher.—H. A. Merkey, Manheim, Pa., May 31.

Codorus.—May 12 Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, Pa., began a series of meetings at the Codorus house, continuing for two weeks. One accepted Christ and was baptized. Bro. Geo. N. Falkenstein, of Elizabethtown, Pa., delivered the first sermon. May 24 we held a love feast at the same house. The following ministering brethren were with us: Eld. John C. Zug, who officiated, E. S. Miller, Geo. M. Kesser, N. S. Martin, H. J. Bhogh, Myers, Jacob Brubaker and Abba Baugher. Bro. John C. Zug has been secured to hold a series of meetings at the Shrewsbury house to start June 17 and to continue for two weeks.—E. H. Lehman, Seven Valley, Pa., June 3.

Harrisburg church held her love feast June 1, with fair attendance. Bro. David Kilheifer, from Ephrata, Pa., officiated. There will be services at the county jail June 8, at 9 A. M., when Bro. Beachley will preach. Bro. Conner, Bro. Beachley and Bro. Abram Hollinger fill the pulpit. Our midweek prayer meetings are very interesting and beneficial. Our Children's Day services will be held June 29, at 10 A. M.—Sallie S. Schaffner, Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.

Manor congregation met in council at the Penn Run house May 17, with Eld. W. N. Myers presiding. Our love feast was held at the above named house May 25, with a good attendance. Eld. D. R. Berkey officiated. Two ministers were ministered unto. Good meeting collection was made. As a result we went over the top. Our membership is 138, with many in limited financial circumstances, but we raised $254.54. Several of our members expect to attend the Annual Meeting at Manor Lake. Arrangements are being made for a series of meetings at our different houses of worship.—Catherine E. Pyock, Clymer, Pa., June 2.

Markleysburg congregation met in council April 12, with Eld. D. M. Markleysburg presiding. Two were granted. Bro. P. J. Blough is to hold a series of meetings, beginning June 17 and ending with a love feast June 28. Bro. Clapper was elected delegate to District Meeting. A call was given for the use of the Markleysburg house. Collection. Our collection for Armenian Relief amounted to $123.47.—Mary J. Frazee, Markleysburg, Pa., June 2.

Middle Creek.—Our love feast was held May 1, with Bro. R. T. Hull officiating. At our council, prior to the feast, two were baptized. Brethren H. H. Kimmel and J. W. Wegley were elected elders. Brethren Elmer Miller and Earl Shultz were elected to the ministry, but have not accepted the work as yet. We had a feast of good things during the day. Eld. C. S. Myers, from Juniata, gave us a fine temperance lecture; Brethren J. H. Cassady and Galen B. Royer were with us in a Bible Institute, giving nine very inspiring talks; also we had a Sunday-school Rally which was very instructive in the line of Sunday-school work.—Carrie Walker, Rockwood, Pa., June 2.

Philadelphia (Geiger Memorial Church).—Since our last report our Sunday-school has been organized. Two were received by baptism. A Senior and Junior Sisters' Aid Society were organized. They are increasing in interest and number, which fact is demonstrated by the work they are doing and the encouragement for their greatest. Special interest is manifest in the husbands becoming honorary members and thus greatly helping the financial end. A considerable amount of clothing and $50 in cash was sent to the Armenian sufferers. Our love feast was held May 26. An excellent spirit was manifest and a large number of communicants were present. Bro. Hesse of the Bethany church, Philadelphia, was present and officiated, making some very helpful and appropriate remarks. Our Bible Class and prayer meeting are interesting.—W. F. Spidle, Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.

Springville.—Our love feast was held May 20 and 21 and was well attended. We had with us Elders John Herr, Wm. Oberholtzer, Ammon Brubaker, Chas. C. Madeira, Jos. N. Cassel, who officiated, Cyrus Gibbel, David Snader, J. W. G. Hershey, Nathan Fahnestock, Henry Sonon and Brethren John S. Baker, S. N. Wirt and Linn Longenecker. An offering of $443.41 was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief. May 26 the Annual Meeting offering of $346.06 was hited. On the same day a special council was held at the Mobler house, with Eld. John presiding. Bro. Abram H. Royer was ordained as elder by Brethren I. W. Taylor and David Kilheifer. Bro. John Myer was elected to the ministry, and Bro. Henry Fasnacht was elected deacon. Bro. Royer will have charge of the care of the Springville church.—Aaron R. Gibbel, Ephrata, Pa., May 29.

Spring Creek church has enjoyed many splendid services lately. May 25 Bro. Harnson Gipe preached in the morning. In the afternoon we had the pleasure of having Bro. F. W. Schlosser with us for children's exercises. The children rendered a well-prepared program. Following that, Bro. Schlosser gave a very interesting talk on a small stone he held in his hand. He said we are all stones in God's house, and that some of the most important ones are laid away in the building. No one ever sees them, or talks about them, but God knows the place they are occupying. In the evening Bro. Clayton Miller preached for us. He chose for his theme the thing Bro. Miller is working under the Mission Board in South Carolina, and will return some time in the future. On the same evening Bro. Wm. E. Glasmire preached for us at the Palmyra house. He was only recently called to the ministry. All of these services were well attended. We held our love feast May 31 at the Spring Creek house. Eight ministers from neighboring congregations were with us. In the evening, while the supper tables were prepared, the children gave short talks to a large crowd on the lawn. Their subject was "Advertising Christ." The membership was well represented at the communion tables. There were some tears for visiting members. Eld. John W. Witmer officiated. The second day Brethren Thomas Patrick, John Baker, and Samuel Witmer preached for us. They set many good things before us.—Elizabeth Blauch, Palmyra, Pa., June 3.

Spring Grove.—Our love feast was held May 10. Visiting ministers with us were Brethren J. B. Brubaker, H. M. Eberly and A. H. Royer. May 25 a missionary offering of $391.88 was taken for the Annual Conference offering. A class of seven members, with Sister Ida Stover as teacher, recently completed a course in mission study. —Florence L. Mohler, New Holland, Pa., May 29.

White Oak congregation opened a series of meetings May 17 at the Kreider house, with Bro. Wm. Prets, of Hatfield, evangelist. The meetings were well attended. Three were received into the church.—H. G. Minnich, White Oak, Pa., June 3.

TEXAS

Pleasant Grove.—May 18 we enjoyed services conducted by Bro. J. A. Miller who gave us two inspiring sermons,—one on Saturday evening, the other on Sunday morning. No evening service could be held on account of unfavorable weather.—Jessie Mahaffey, Huffsmith, Texas, May 26.

VIRGINIA

Copper Hill church met in council May 25, with Brethren D. S. Miller and C. E. Eller present. Bro. Jos. E. Wimmer and wife, and Bro. Cleophas P. Stump and wife were installed into the ministry. Brethren Eugene Shaver, Noah E. Holt and Irvin B. Shaver were installed into the church's office. A collection of $34.14 was taken for missions. May 24 Bro. Miller preached an interesting sermon. Sunday we met for Sunday-school which was followed by the preaching service with Bro. C. E. Eller in charge. We expect to meet in council July 26.—Ethel E. Shaver, Stuart, Patrick Co., Va., May 27.

Fairfax church recently enjoyed quite a feast of good things. May 11 Eld. A. S. Thomas, of Rockingham County, Va., began a series of meetings, preaching seventeen inspiring sermons. Many were received into the church by baptism, and we feel sure all were strengthened in their spiritual life. May 15 and 16 the Ministerial and Sunday-school Meetings of the Eastern District of Virginia were held here. The first session of these meetings was the "Forward Movement."—Maggie Miller, Vienna, Va., June 2.

Monticello.—May 24 a number of our members surrounded the communion tables. Bro. J. B. Kindig, of Roanoke, preached two unexcelled sermons the following Sunday, which were much appreciated.—E. J. Whitesell, Montebello, Va., May 28.

Pleasant Valley (Southern District).—May 11 Bro. C. D. Hylton, of Troutville, Va., began a two weeks' series of meetings, which were well attended. We feel that much good has been done by Bro. Hylton's earnest efforts. Three accepted Christ and three were reclaimed. May 24 Brethren H. L. Heatwole, Wm. Dudley and Otho Shetzel to the ministry. Brethren Cecil Reed, Ezra Mitchell, Lewis Mitchell, H. E. Reed and Thos. Dulaney were elected deacons. The ministers and two of the deacons have been duly installed. Bro. S. P. Reed is our delegate to Conference. The church's estimate of membership was received recently.—Mrs. Linie A. Dulaney, Floyd, Va., June 2.

Timberville.—Brother and Sister A. B. Miller, of Hagerstown, Md., came to us May 3 and remained until May 28. Bro. Miller gave us twenty-six splendid sermons. The song services were ably led by Bro. J. C. Garber. The interest was splendid from the beginning of the meetings. Forty-five obeyed Christ,—thirty-nine of whom were baptized. Timberville has experienced a great awakening. Bro. O. S. Miller is now our pastor.—H. B. Martin, Timberville, Va., May 28.

Unity.—Bro. Homer Zigler, of Churchville, Va., began a series of meetings at the Bethel house May 11 and continued until May 24. The interest was good. Twelve young people were baptized and our membership was increased by a love feast at Bethel, which was fairly well attended. Visiting ministers present were Brethren J. F. Driver, S. D. Zigler and Early Wakeman. July 4 we expect to have an all-day service at Bethel. The preaching services will be on Sunday afternoon for the three Sunday-schools of the congregation and in the evening by those graduating in the teacher-training class.—Anna R. Roller, Timberville, Va., June 3.

Woodstock.—May 10 our love feast was held at the Valley Pike house. Bro. Samuel Zigler, of Harrisonburg, Va., officiated. He began a series of meetings which continued for two weeks and we feel that much good has been done. March 23 he gave a sermon "On Calvine." The Annual Meeting offering was taken at that time. On the same day seven were baptized. At Columbia Furnace house Bro. Wm. Harpine, of Mt. Jackson, Va., conducted a series of meetings May 11, continuing for about ten days. Good interest was manifested. May 17 a love feast was held, which was well attended. Five were baptized and four await the rite. Bro. Lawrance Hisky was recently elected to the ministry.—M. H. Copp, Maurertown, Va., May 30.

Woodstock congregation met in council at the Valley Pike church May 24, with Eld. H. R. Mowry presiding. Bro. S. D. Zigler was also with us. Bro. John H. Smith was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Eld. Mowry, alternate.—M. H. Copp, Maurertown, Va., June 2.

WASHINGTON

Spokane.—The members of the Church of the Brethren who live in the north part of the city, are trying to do their bit in the "Forward Movement," with the aid of the Mission Board, by organizing a Sunday-school which is known as the North Spokane Mission. We organized on Easter Sunday, with twenty-eight present. Our largest attendance was forty-six on Mothers' Day. Our superintendents are Brethren J. D. Dull and L. H. Jorgens. We have a teacher-training class, with Bro. L. H. Jorgens, teacher. He is also president of our

(Continued on Page 384)

, at 8 P. M. Bro. John Mummert was elected trustee for a term of ree years. Bro. Frank Burrows was chosen delegate to Annual Conference, with Bro. Walter Stinebaugh, alternate.—Mrs. Geo. R. urphy, Lincoln, Ind., June 2.

West Manchester.—Bro. Wm. Buckley, of Bradford, Ohio, began a ries of meetings April 27, closing May 11. One of our Sunday-hool girls was baptized. Sister Zuma Heestand, of Manchester ollege, led the song service. Eld. S. L. Cover, of Mt. Etna, Iowa, as recently located in our congregation. The service of Brother nd Sister Cover, both in Sunday-school and preaching, is greatly ppreciated. Our church gave an offering to the Armenian Fund f over $60. May 25 Bro. V. F. Schwalm, of Manchester College, reached a splendid missionary sermon, after which a collection as $170 was taken for the Conference offering. A good amount has een raised since that time and will be added to it.—Calvin F. Eiler, orth Manchester, Ind., June 2.

IOWA

Coon River.—Our love feast was held in the country church May and 25, with about 180 present. Several members from adjoining hurches were present and two visiting ministers. Bro. J. O. ruckenmiller, of Ankeny, Iowa, gave a splendid address in the after-oon and officiated in the evening. Sunday morning we had a hildren's Meeting in place of Sunday-school. Short talks were given by all present. They were very instructive and appreciated by the hildren. Bro. Wm. Cordis also gave us a splendid talk. An offering was taken for Annual Meeting, amounting to $125.—Mrs. Sora Qtt, Panora, Iowa, June 1.

Des Moines.—For the past two weeks Bro. Hugh Reckman, of Chigo, has been conducting a series of meetings. Bro. Samuel Fike, Waterloo, Iowa, had charge of the song service, which was very nspiring and uplifting. Bro. Fike is a personal worker, hich added greatly to the interest of the meetings. Three were aptized. Our Annual Meeting offering was $368.—Minnie Gaugy, ysart, Iowa, June 2.

Kingsley church enjoyed a very spiritual love feast, May 24, with ervice, Eld. S. S. Neher, officiating. Our church work has been oving along very nicely, under the efficient leadership of Eld. eher and wife, who came to us last fall from Twin Falls, Idaho. nder the quarantine conditions last fall and winter the work of ur church was very much hindered, but with health conditions ettered and the opening of the spring, church work has taken on new life. Bro. Neher was given a unanimous call to continue the ork another year. May 28 we met in special council, looking orward to the building of a new churchhouse in the town of Kingsley. Committees were appointed to solicit funds, select locations nd plans for a house.—H. H. Wingert, Kingsley, Iowa, June 2.

Albertville church met in council May 29, with Bro. W. N. Glotfelty presiding. Bro. Glenn Carr was elected delegate to Annual Meeting, with Bro. H. B. Johnson, alternate. Brethren Arval Glenn Carr and Wilbur Carr were called to take the deacon's ffice and duly installed. Our offering for Annual Meeting was $150 nd for Relief and Reconstruction $285. Our love feast was held May 10. Bro. Henry Butler, of Ollie, Iowa, officiated and was with us in an all-day meeting on Sunday. Easter Sunday the children rendered a program which was much appreciated. We expect to hold a love feast Aug. 29, to be followed by a series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Chas. Walters, of Summum, Ill.—Wilbur L. Oyen, Batavia, Iowa, June 2.

Ottumwa church held her communion service May 25, with seventy-six members present. Bro. W. D. Grove officiated, assisted by brethren Glotfelty and Brower. Our pastor, Bro. S. W. Garber, is attending Annual Meeting as delegate for this church.—E. M. Baughman, South Ottumwa, Iowa, May 29.

Prairie City.—Our pastor, Eld. I. W. Brubaker, has been pushing us "Five-year Forward Movement" for the last year, and yesterday was the climax,—Missionary Day. We held our love feast May 17, when about fifty members communed. Eld. Joshua Scheehter, of Brooklyn, officiated. Eld. J. Q. Goughnour and family, of Ankeny, were also present. In the following Sunday morning, Eld. Schechter preached a missionary sermon and in the evening a program was rendered by the Sunday-school. Yesterday our pastor preached on "Giving," following which an Annual Missionary offering was lifted. It amounted to more than $600. Since the roads and weather are better, the interest and attendance in all our services are growing. We have a live Aid Society, under the leadership of Sister Hattie Peters. Sisters' Aid Day was observed in a very appropriate manner.—Nellie L. Bowie, Prairie City, Iowa, May 26.

South Ottumwa.—We held our communion service May 25, with seventy-six members present. Preceding the service Brethren Ed Stephens, J. M. Clark and Joe Sly were elected deacons and, with their wives, duly installed. Visiting ministers present were Brethren W. D. Grove, J. W. Brower, Wm. N. Glotfelty, D. H. Pouts, Elmer Pouts and Wm. Brower. At the request of our elder and pastor, these brethren conducted the services of the day and evening. Eld. S. W. Garber will represent us at the Winona Meeting. Bro. D. H. Pouts preached for us on Sunday morning during our pastor's absence.—E. M. Baughman, South Ottumwa, Iowa, June 2.

South Waterloo.—A number from our congregation were privileged recently to attend the County Sunday-school Convention. One was impressed with the earnestness with which the speakers gave their messages, showing the responsibility of the Sunday-school in helping to evangelize the world. The offering raised in April, for Relief and Reconstruction, amounted to $2,064.34. The general Missionary offering amounts at this time to over $2,200. Our pastor, Bro. A. P. Blough, delivered the baccalaureate sermon for the class graduating from the Orange Township consolidated school. Six were received into the church at a recent Sunday evening service. Five were baptized and one was received on former baptism. Evangelistic meetings will begin June 15, with Bro. C. D. Bonsack in charge. The regular business meeting will be held June 29 and the love feast June 30.—Ada M. Shank, South Waterloo, Iowa, June 2.

KANSAS

Altamont church has enjoyed a two weeks' series of meetings, with Bro. Heckman, evangelist. There is a splendid opportunity here for any one wanting to do his bit in the Master's service. Two workers are needed. We have a nice country and invite any members wishing to change location to come and look it over.—Rose Gish, Altamont, Kans., May 28.

Bellville church met in council May 27, with Eld. A. C. Daggett presiding. Sunday and Monday evenings we enjoyed messages from Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Horning and A. C. Daggett, who were on their way to Annual Meeting. The collection taken for the World-wide Missions amounted to $77. On account of the weather conditions there were not many able to attend our communion services, held May 31.—Jessie Ball, Bellville, Kans., June 2.

Lone Star.—May 25, after a very inspiring sermon on Missions, delivered by our pastor, Bro. C. W. Ward, an offering in aid of World-wide Missions was taken. Our Sunday-school has recently been reorganized, with Bro. J. W. Gorbutt, superintendent, and Sister Laura Fox, superintendent of the cradle roll. This she has thoroughly organized, with about eighteen enrolled. We are expecting to have our Annual Meeting with the Lone Star church, June 10 to 15. Bro. Ira Hoover, of Abilene, Kans., will be present to assist in the meetings.—Mrs. Ida Ward, Lone Star, Kans., June 2.

Wichita.—Bro. Wm. Eisenbise, of Hutchinson, Kans., began a series of meetings in the Wichita church, May 18, which continued two weeks. Bro. Eisenbise is a strong preacher and a consecrated worker. Our church was greatly revived and strengthened by his coming. Two were received by baptism and one by letter. Bro. Eisenbise will return to us in the near future for a few days' meeting.—Mrs. Ida Ward, Lone Star, Kans., June 2.

MISSOURI

Fairview congregation met May 25 for Sunday-school. Eld. J. B. Hylton gave us a missionary talk. After services a collection of $30 was taken for mission purposes. We expect to begin a series of meetings Oct. 13, with Bro. F. E. Miller of Enders, Nebr., evangelist.—Belle Hylton, Mansfield, Mo., May 28.

Carthage.—We had an unusually interesting and enjoyable communion May 31, with about 100 present. There were representatives from Dry Fork, Fairview, Joplin, and other towns; also from Arkansas. They filled the house to overflowing. Bro. Argabright, from Fairview, led the services and preached a sermon. Eld. J. Jollifi and his son preached at Carthage. Eld. A. B. Lichtenwalter was also with us, both at Carthage and Joplin, and encouraged us by his good counsel and wise and wholesome admonitions.—J. L. Switzer, Carthage, Mo., June 2.

Mineral Creek church met in council May 23. One letter was granted. Our spring love feast was held May 15. Eld. James Mohler was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. May 25 Sister Fern Wagoner, of Adrian, Mo., gave us several very interesting and instructive talks on Sunday-school work.—Ruth Pentecost, Leeton, Mo., May 29.

South Warrensburg.—We expect to hold a two weeks' series of meetings, beginning Aug. 24, with Bro. C. H. Ronk, of Mt. Morris, Ill., in charge. The interest and attendance in Sunday-school have been unusually good. Bro. C. A. Bailey was reelected superintendent. We expect to have a Children's Day and Temperance program June 22. Our contributions to the Armenian-Syrian Relief amounted to $57.25, and our offering for Annual Meeting to $63. One letter of membership was received recently.—Mrs. Alice R. Mohler, Warrensburg, Mo., June 3.

MONTANA

Galpin.—May 17 Bro. Brown, of Poplar Valley church, preached three sermons,—the first preaching we have had for eight months. We had good attendance and all seemed to appreciate the message. Sunday we had an all-day meeting. The afternoon was spent in organizing the Bible Class. We now have two organized classes. The Young People's Class is doing excellent work since being organized, with Frank Kasten, president. June 26 we will hold our annual Rally Day picnic. This day is looked forward to as a spiritual feast in Sunday-school work, the different schools coming together and exchanging ideas on Sunday-school work. Sunday evening we met in the basement of the South Beach schoolhouse, with Bro. Brown presiding. Bro. A. M. Swibart was elected elder; Bro. Claude Burlingame, clerk; the writer, correspondent. Five qualifcates of membership were presented. Bro. Brown will be with us again June 15. We sent an offering of $161.42 to the Armenian Relief fund.—Mrs. R. G. Mahugh, Nashua, Mont., May 27.

NEBRASKA

Bethel congregation met in quarterly business meeting May 24. Three letters were granted. Bro. E. S. Rothrock will act as delegate to Annual Meeting. Bro. Rothrock expects to go with their new field of labor at Los Angeles June 17, and we regret to see them leave. Our new pastor, Bro. Elmon Sutphin, of Wenatchee, Wash., takes charge June 8.—Ella S. Saylor, Carleton, Nebr., June 2.

Kearney church met in regular business meeting May 28, with Eld. J. J. Tawzer presiding. Bro. F. F. Evans was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. Missionary sermons were preached on two Sundays, May 18 and 25. Our Annual Meeting collection amounted to $65.75. June 1 Eld. W. P. McLellan, of Litchfield, preached for us, which was very much appreciated.—Mary F. May, Kearney, Nebr., June 4.

South Beatrice.—As a result of the series of meetings, conducted by Bro. Smith, nineteen have been received by baptism and two await baptism. Bro. W. H. Hollenberg, of Mcrrill, Kans., conducted the song service and we feel that his efforts were a very valuable contribution to the meetings. Bro. J. H. B. Williams gave two very much appreciated sermons during the meetings. Our offering for Annual Conference is being taken and so far amounts to $200.—Mrs. Edith Kindig, Holmesville, Nebr., May 29.

NORTH CAROLINA

Spray Mission.—May 12 Bro. Zion Mitchel began a series of meetings, preaching fourteen interesting sermons. May 14 Sister Bessie Barnhart came to assist in the meetings. May 23 Eld. L. A. Bowman, of Calloway, Bro. Rebecca Cox, of Winston-Salem, N. C., were with us, remaining until the meetings closed. One was baptized. Our love feast was held May 24, with Bro. Robertson officiating. The following day we met in members' meeting. The subject of securing a pastor was considered. Sunday night a collection of about $50 was taken.—Lucy A. Rickman, Leaksville, N. C., June 3.

NORTH DAKOTA

Berthold church met in council May 17, with Eld. D. M. Shorb presiding. All church officers were retained for the year. The writer was elected Sunday-school superintendent. The following Sunday Eld. Shorb gave a splendid sermon. We decided to have preaching twice a month.—Altha Mahugh, Berthold, N. Dak., May 28.

Surrey church held her annual love feast May 24. We had with us Elders O. A. Myer, Wm. Deardorff and J. M. Myers, and appreciated their presence. Eld. O. A. Myer preached a very edifying missionary sermon on Sunday morning, after which we took an offering of $34. Eld. Wm. Deardorff preached for us in the evening. Our Sunday-school is progressing nicely.—Nora E. Petry, Surrey, N. Dak., May 27.

OHIO

Bear Creek church met in council May 14. We held our love feast May 24, with Bro. H. A. Clarkson officiating. The presence of those were also present. Sixteen letters of membership were received and one was granted. The church decided to send a request to entertain the Ministerial and Sunday-school Meetings. Our love feast has been arranged for Oct. 14, at 6 P. M. Brookville church is planning to be well represented at the Winona Conference.—Mrs. Arthur Hay, Brookville, Ohio, May 31.

Deshler church met in council May 24. One was received by letter. We will hold our love feast June 29, at 6 P. M. Bro. David Lytle is our delegate to Annual Meeting. We are looking forward to our series of meetings, which will begin June 15.—Esther Dishong, Deshler, Ohio, May 28.

Eagle Creek church held her love feast May 25. We were pleased to have with us Bro. L. H. Dickey, of Fostoria, and Bro. G. A. Snider, of Lima, Ohio. Sunday morning we took our Conference offering which amounted to $363; our quota was $256. Some time ago $519 was given for the Armenian-Syrian Relief, for which our quota was $343. Mothers' Day our pastor, Bro. J. J. Anglemyer, delivered a very inspiring sermon. Since the last report one has been baptized. —Pearl Rothbaugh, Williamsport, Ohio, June 4.

Goshen church met in council April 28 at White Cottage house, with Bro. A. B. Horst in charge. Bro. J. J. Hoover, of Morrill, Kans., assisted. The following officers were chosen: Bro. G. S. Straubaugh, elder; trustees for one, two and three years, respectively, Brethren L. H. Gray, J. L. Spring and J. F. Shrider; clerk, Q. E. Horn; correspondent and "Messenger" agent, Mrs. J. F. Shrider; Sunday-school superintendent, Bro. A. B. Horst. The latter came to us Feb. 16 and expects to remain during the summer, filling appointments alternately at Goshen and White Cottage houses. Bro. J. J. Hoover held the Easter service at the Goshen house. We took offerings both for Annual Meeting and Relief amounting to $178. We are being greatly revived under the personal work of Bro. Horst.—Mrs. J. F. Shrider, South Zanesville, Ohio, June 3.

Greenspring church met in council May 30. Lucille Snavely was elected Christian Workers' superintendent. At this meeting we decided to redecorate the interior of the church.—Mrs. Elias L. Eberly, Old Fort, Ohio, June 3.

New Carlisle church met in council May 30, with Eld. J. H. Eldermiller in charge. Bro. Eldermiller was elected and two received. Bro. Guy Schebler was elected to serve on the missionary committee and Bro. Herbert Barnhart on the auditing committee. Bro. H. A. Baker was elected trustee and Bro. John Musselman, president of the Christian Workers. Our fall communion is set for Sept. 27, at 10 A. M. The collection for Annual Conference is $617.85 and not all in yet.—Ruth B. Shroyer, New Carlisle, Ohio, June 4.

Pleasant Hill church met in council May 30, with Bro. C. L. Flory presiding. The Five-Forward Movement was adopted by the church. A committee was chosen to secure some one to assist in an annual musical institute. A Peter Becker program will be given soon. Four letters were received. We have enjoyed many spiritual meetings during the last month. May 4 Sister Marguerite Bixler Garrett conducted our Musical Institute for one week. May 7 and 8 the District Meeting of Southern Ohio convened with us. Brethren Ward and Wagner were the leading ministers. Our revival began with our pastor, Bro. John A. Robinson, in charge. There was a large attendance throughout the meeting and the membership was strengthened. Eleven boys and girls from the Sunday-school were baptized. May 31 our love feast was held. Brethren Isaac Frantz and Geo. Mohler, of Covington, officiated. Easter Sunday over $1,100 was given for Armenian Relief. We are now endeavoring to lift our Conference offering quota.—Mary West, Pleasant Hill, Ohio, June 2.

Sugar Hill church met in council May 31, with Eld. J. Franklin Brubaker presiding. One letter was read. We decided to hold an all-day Harvest Meeting some time in August. Our love feast will be held Oct. 11, at 5 P. M.—Mary Bowser, West Alexandria, Ohio, June 2.

OREGON

Albany church met in council May 31, with the writer presiding. Bro. H. E. Ritter, of Abbot, Oregon, will hold a week's meetings for us, commencing June 22. Our love feast will be held June 28 at 7 P. M. Sister T. M. Anderson and the writer were elected delegates to the District Meeting, to be held at Portland Aug. 18-21.—Hiram Smith, Albany, Oregon, June 2.

Talent church met in council May 28, with Eld. S. E. Decker presiding. Two letters were granted. It was decided to have our love feast June 14. All church officers were retained.—Ora L. Stump, Talent, Oregon, May 31.

PENNSYLVANIA

East Fairview.—May 17 and 18 our church held a Bible Institute, conducted by Brethren H. K. Ober and Harry H. Nye from Elizabethtown College. The instruction they gave us was highly appreciated. May 25 Eld. Geo. Wise gave us a very inspiring missionary sermon, after which we took an offering. We organized a teacher-training class, with Eld. J. B. Brubaker as teacher.—H. A. Merkey, Manheim, Pa., May 28.

Codorus.—May 12 Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, Pa., began a series of meetings at the Codorus house, continuing for two weeks. One accepted Christ and was baptized. Bro. Geo. N. Falkenstein, of Elizabethtown, Pa., assisted for the first few evenings. May 25 we held a love feast at the same house. The following ministering brethren were with us: Eld. John C. Zug, who officiated, E. S. Miller, Geo. M. Resser, N. S. Sellers, J. I. Blough, Samuel Zug, J. E. Myers, Jacob Stauffer and Aldus Baugher. Bro. John C. Zug has been secured to hold a series of meetings at the Shrewsbury house to start June 17 and to continue for two weeks.—E. H. Lehman, Seven Valley, Pa., June 3.

Harrisburg church held her love feast June 1, with fair attendance. Bro. David Kilheiner, from Ephrata, Pa., officiated. There will be services at the county jail June 8, at 9 A. M., when Bro. Beachley will preach. In the absence of Bro. Conner, Bro. Beachley and Bro. Abram Hollinger fill the pulpit. Our mid-week prayer meetings are very interesting and beneficial. Our Children's Day services will be held June 29, at 10 A. M.—Sallie E. Schaffner, Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.

Manor congregation met in council at the Penn Run house May 17, with Eld. W. N. Myers presiding. Our love feast was held at the above named house May 25, with a good attendance. Eld. D. R. Berkey officiated. A special drive for missions for the Annual Meeting collection was made. The result was several over the top. Our membership is 138, with many in limited financial circumstances, but we raised $254.54. Several of our members expect to attend the Annual Conference at Winona Lake. Arrangements are being made for a series of meetings at our different houses of worship.—Catherine E. Fyock, Clymer, Pa., June 2.

Markleysburg congregation met in council April 12, with Eld. D. K. Clapper presiding. Four letters were granted. Bro. P. J. Blough is to hold a series of meetings, beginning June 17 and ending with a love feast June 28. Bro. Clapper was elected delegate to District Meeting. He was also elected elder of the Markleysburg congregation. Our collection for Annual Relief amounted to $123.47.—Mary J. Frazee, Markleysburg, Pa., June 2.

Middle Creek.—Our love feast was held May 1, with Bro. R. T. Hull officiating. At our council, prior to the feast, two were baptized. Brethren H. H. Kimmel and J. W. Wegley were elected elders. Brethren Elmer Miller and Earl Shultz were elected to the a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for many years. Services at the Presbyterian church in Lebanon by the writer. Interment in the Nye cemetery.—Hiram Smith, Albany, Oregon.

Kitchen, Joseph R., Sr., died May 21, 1919, aged 68 years, 7 months and 16 days. He belonged to the Brethren church some fifteen or twenty years. Services by Eld. Daniel R. Berkey. Burial in Mount Joy graveyard.—Sarah E. Neidhiester, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Kurtz, Sister Mary, nee Hollinger, born at Louisville, Ohio, died at Hartville, Ohio, May 19, 1919, aged 82 years, 7 months and 13 days. In 1856 she married John Kurtz, who preceded her eighteen years ago. To this union were born six sons and six daughters. She was the mother of D. W. Kurtz, of McPherson, Kans. She is survived by ten children, thirty-nine grandchildren and twenty-six great-grandchildren. Her life was given to the welfare of her children and the advancement of the church. Services at the Brick church by Eld. Noah Longaneeker. Burial in the cemetery near by.—A. J. Carper, Middlebranch, Ohio.

Lohman, Bro. Isaac C., son of Brother and Sister F. W. Lohman, died at his home near Cameron, Mo., of a complication of diseases following influenza, May 16, 1919, aged 46 years, 5 months and 16 days. He leaves his father and mother, two sisters and two brothers. He was a faithful and devoted member of the Church of the Brethren for nineteen years, having his membership in the Smith Fork church at Plattsburg. Services at the home by Bro. H. M. Brubaker, assisted by Bro. D. D. Sell. Interment in the Pollard cemetery, near Cameron.—Ada Sell, Plattsburg, Mo.

Long, Sister Emeretta, born in Osceola, Ind., died May 18, 1919, aged 69 years, 2 months and 28 days. She leaves six children and one brother. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. H. Rose. Burial in the Osceola cemetery.—H. M. Schwalm, Wakarusa, Ind.

Metzger, Francis Eppley, the only son of Elmer and Mary Metzger, was born in Union Bridge, Md., Jan. 12, 1904. After six weeks' illness he died at the age of 15 years, 4 months and 4 days. For six years Chicago was the parental home, but in 1911 Flora became their home. Francis was a very promising young man. At the early age of nine he united with the Church of the Brethren at Flora. He was a member of the Freshman class of the local high school, and this class, with his Sunday-school class, attended the funeral services in a body, to pay their respects to their departed classmate. Francis had planned to enter the Academy of Manchester College at the opening of the fall term, but death intervened. April 27 he was anointed with oil in the name of the Lord, and May 23 the Heavenly Father saw fit to bring his life to a close. Francis leaves a father, mother, two sisters and four grandparents. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. Ira Kreider. Text, James 4: 14. Burial in Maple Lawn cemetery of Flora.—I. R. Beery, Flora, Ind.

Miller, John W., son of Abram and Hannah Miller, born in Wabash County, Ind., died at his home, near North Manchester, Ind., May 5, 1919, aged 63 years, 1 month and 6 days. In 1885 he married Emma Cupp. Having no children of their own they adopted a baby girl. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1886 and has been faithful and true to his Christian profession and the church of his choice. He leaves his wife, daughter, two brothers, three sisters and three grandchildren. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. I. B. Book.—A. L. Wright, North Manchester, Ind.

Moomaw, Daniel Clovis, youngest son of D. C. and Mrs. R. A. Moomaw, of Roanoke, Va., was killed in the battle of the Argonne Forest, France, Oct. 5, 1918, aged 32 years and 25 days. He was officially reported "missing in action" and "killed in action" several months after the tragedy, but the facts were not determined till our son, Dr. B. C. Moomaw, went over and made a definite search. This resulted in finding his lifeless body May 5, lying just as he fell, seven months before. He was taken to the Romauge cemetery, where he was buried temporarily. As soon as practicable, he will be brought home, and buried at Roanoke.—D. C. Moomaw, Roanoke, Va.

Potter, Sister Henrietta, of Newport, Pa., died Feb. 20, 1919, aged 91 years, 2 months and 8 days. She was the daughter of Joseph and Christina Jones. She married John McNaughton in 1846. To them was born one daughter, who survives. Her husband died in 1848 and she later married John Potter, who preceded her. Afterward she resided with her daughter. She was received into the Church of the Brethren in 1859, at Germantown, Pa., and was a loyal and faithful member. Services at the church by Brethren C. D. Sterman, and W. H. Miller. Interment in the family burying plot.—Mrs. Ada Brandt, Millerstown, Pa.

Reed, Harriette, nee Holdreed, wife of John Reed, deceased, died in May, 1919. She was the mother of three sons and three daughters who survive. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1885 and lived an exemplary Christian life. Services by the home ministers.—David Metzler, Nappanee, Ind.

Rohrer, Bro. Henry H., son of Benj. and Mary Rohrer, born near Canton, Ill., died May 15, 1919, aged 51 years, 3 months and 26 days. In 1891 he married Maggie Vanzyckle. To this union were born eight children. He united with the Church of the Brethren when nineteen years old and was an active worker in both church and Sunday-school. He is survived by three sons, four daughters and five grandchildren. Services at the home by Elders D. E. Eshelman and S. G. Bucher. Interment in Greenwood cemetery at Canton.—Mrs. W. D. Vanzyckle, Canton, Ill.

Sadler, John, died at his home at Austin, Minn., April 28, 1919, aged 91 years. He leaves his wife, three sons and two daughters. He was a faithful member of the Brethren church for many years. Services in the Root River church by Bro. J. Sanders. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Amy J. Owen, Preston, Minn.

Shoemaker, Sarah, nee Pontius, born in Ohio, died at the home of her son, Eld. C. W. Shoemaker, Overbrook, Kans., May 25, 1919, aged 86 years, 2 months and 17 days. She married Isaac Shoemaker. She united with the Church of the Brethren forty-five years ago and lived a consistent Christian life. Although almost helpless and blind for two years, yet she bore her afflictions with Christian patience. Her husband and three children preceded her. She is survived by four sons, three daughters, twenty-two grandchildren and twenty great-grandchildren. Services in the Appanoose church by Eld. L. L. Hoover, assisted by Elders D. B. Barnhart and S. J. Heckman. Interment in cemetery near by.—J. M. Ward, Pomona, Kans.

Thacher, D. R., died April 23, 1919, aged 83 years, 4 months and 19 days. He leaves his wife, four sons and one daughter. Services at the Root River church by Bro. J. F. Souders. Burial in the cemetery near by. He was a faithful member of the Brethren church for many years.—Amy J. Owen, Preston, Minn.

Umbaugh, Sister Martha, daughter of Adam Hohbein, born near Nappanee, Ind., died May 7, 1919, aged 51 years, 1 month and 18 days. In 1887 she married Wm. Umbaugh. One son was born to them. She united with the Church of the Brethren many years ago and has lived a devout Christian life. She leaves her husband, one son, three grandchildren and one sister. Services at the Union Center church by Eld. Frank Kreider and Eld. D. F. Anglemyer.—Chloe Weldy, Nappanee, Ind.

Wallman, Jemima, wife of J. K. Wallman, died at her home in Nampa, April 10, 1919, aged 69 years, 3 months and 27 days. Her husband, seven children, twenty-eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild survive. Services at the church by Bro. J. C. Neher.—Amanda Garber, Nampa, Idaho.

Wright, Dr. J. Lewis, was born near North Liberty, Ohio. He was reared on a farm, taught school, and studied medicine at Cincinnati, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind. He was offered the professorship of Anatomy at Indianapolis by his Alma Mater, but he preferred the service of sacrifice. He was the originator of several effective remedies. When a young man the faith of the "Seceders" appealed to him, whose faith he accepted and endorsed. His wife was taken by death six years ago. Two sons blessed this union. He was retiring in disposition and beautifully gave himself to others. His entire practice was confined to this vicinity with the exception of two years in Bellefontaine, Ohio. He lived to serve humanity for forty-nine years in the practice of medicine. Services at the home by the writer. Interment at Locust Grove.—Van B. Wright, Peebles, Ohio.

TEACHERS, SUPERINTENDENTS, STUDENTS AND MINISTERS

The Sunday-school lessons for the next six months are on such topics as Baptism, The Lord's Supper, Faith, The Resurrection, Sin, Prayer, The Church, Christian Fellowship, etc.

You Will Need the Best Books on the Doctrines of the Church

STUDIES IN DOCTRINE AND DEVOTION, ...50c

Part I, By D. W. Kurtz; Part II, By S. S. Blough; Part III, By C. C. Ellis

This is the Book of Doctrine that should be in the hands of every teacher, superintendent, minister and all others interested in the doctrines of the Church of the Brethren. It is a book for reference, for devotional study, for the library and for class use as a text-book. Be sure to get Studies in Doctrine and Devotion.

Doctrine of the Brethren Defended, 65c
Elder R. H. Miller

A clear and interesting exposition of the doctrines of the church. The author is commonly recognized as having been one of the most able thinkers of his day. The volume treats of the divinity of Christ and the Holy Spirit as well as the several distinctive doctrines of the church.

Kesler-Ellmore Debate, ...$1.50
Elder B. E. Kesler and Rev. Wm. Ellmore

The full stenographic report of the debate between Elder B. E. Kesler and Rev. William Ellmore that occurred at Jacksonville, Ind., in the autumn of 1915. A substantially bound book containing a mass of doctrinal material.

Life of R. H. Miller, ...$1.00
Elder Otho Winger

During the latter part of the nineteenth century Elder R. H. Miller was a notable figure in the history of the church. He excelled in many lines, having been a powerful preacher, an able debater and a great leader. The author of this biography has done the church a valuable service in presenting with such graphic detail the story of this worthy man's life. An informing and inspiring book. 269 pages, bound in cloth.

Bible Readings and Bible Studies, .35c
Elder I. J. Rosenberger

A pocket-sized book containing 116 Bible readings covering important doctrinal and evangelical subjects. Useful for the study of special topics or for sermon material. Bound in imitation leather; 126 pages.

Close Communion, ...35c
Landon West

This book was originally issued in 1888 and enjoyed a very large sale. While the present supply lasts copies may be had at 35c each. Part I contains eight chapters on "Reasons for Close Communion," and Part II twelve chapters on "Reasons Against Open Communion."

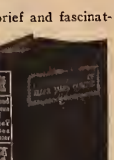
God's Means of Grace, ...$2.00
C. F. Yoder, A. B., B. D.

A discussion of the various helps divinely given as aids to Christian character and a plea for fidelity to their scriptural form.

Life and Sermons of Elder James Quinter, ...$1.00
Mary N. Quinter



This volume contains a brief and fascinating sketch of Bro. Quinter's life, some tributes and memorial sketches and forty of his best sermons. Several of these sermons bear directly on subjects that will be studied in the course of the next few months.

New Testament Doctrines, ..75c
Elder J. H. Moore

This is one of the best books on the doctrines of the church that have ever been printed. The author is a master at clear and interesting exposition. His reputation as a concise and able expositor is fully sustained by New Testament Doctrines.

The book covers a wide range of subjects, beginning with "Is There a God?" and concluding with "The Home of the Righteous." Ove- one hundred topics are treated in a brief and convincing way.

New Testament Baptism, Each, 10c; per doz., ...$1.00
S. Z. Sharp

A concise and logical treatment of New Testament baptism. A booklet in which every word counts. References are given in order that the reader may be fully equipped to meet any question on New Testament baptism.

Trine Immersion as the Apostolic Form of Christian Baptism, ...75c
Elder James Quinter

The author brings to bear a wealth of testimony to prove that trine immersion is the form of baptism commanded by Christ and that until the close of the twelfth century it was the prevailing practice of the church.

Dress Reform Literature

The three booklets listed here have been issued by the Dress Reform Committee. They contain the best in print on the subject.

Head Dress for Christian Women. J. H. Moore, ... 5c
Christian Attire. Lydia E. Taylor, ...10c
Dress Reform. W. F. Crafts, J. W. Lear, 20c

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

PLEASANT VALLEY, VA.—Report of Aid Society for 1918: We t ten times, with an average attendance of eighteen. At the ginning of the year we had in the treasury, $27.81; received by nthly offerings, $58.37; birthday offerings, $15.26; for work done d goods sold, $68.99; paid on sewing-machine at Bridgewater Col-re, $2.50; for support of an Indian orphan, $30; to Orphans' Home,
; sent soap to Orphans' Home and to the Old Folks' Home; to the or, $3.50 in cash, bedding and clothing; to Sister Nelle Wampler, stern Virginia Mission, comforts and clothing, valued at $12.50; for ods and other expenses, $34.50. Our work consisted of making ilts, prayer-coverings and comforts. Amount received during the ear, $142.62; total, $170.43; total expenses, $80.50; balance, $89.93. Of-ers: President, Sister Effie Cline; Vice-President, Sister Willie iver; Secretary-Treasurer, Sister Ida Showalter.—Annie Bibb, Mt.
nney, Va., May 30.

POPLAR VALLEY, MONTANA.—Report of Sisters' Aid Society
m May 23, 1918,—date of organization. Officers: President, Sister ron Swihart; Vice-President, Sister Ed Mitchell; Superintendent, ster Jessie Brown; Secretary, Sister Georgia Brown; Treasurer, ster Wm. Dees. We held fourteen meetings, with an average at-ndance of eight; enrollment, twenty. Offerings, $15.54; average llection, $1.11. We made comforters, aprons and did sewing for e Red Cross. We sold comforters amounting to $12.—Bessie Dees, ps, Mont., May 31.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a rriage notice may be applied to a three months' Gospel Mesnger subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Beegbley-Walker.—By the undersigned, at his residence, May 22, 9, Bro. Floyd F. Beegbley, son of Elder and Sister A. J. Beegbley, d Sister April May Walker, daughter of Elder and Sister D. H. alker, both of Geiger, Pa.—S. A. Meyers, Somerset, Pa.

Gilbert-Cupp.—By the undersigned, at his residence, May 10, 1919,
o. Orin Gilbert and Sister Georgia Cupp, both of Augusta County,
.—J. C. Garber, Staunton, Va.

Lybarger-Thomas.—At the home of the undersigned, May 10, 1919,
o. Ralph G. Lybarger and Sister Mary J. Thomas, both of Holl-pple, Pa.—N. H. Blough, Davidsville, Pa.

Pullen-Robertson.—At the Presbyterian parsonage, Jacksonville, regon, May 15, 1919, Bro. Thomas J. Pullen, of Empire, Calif., and ster Mary Robertson, of Eagle Point, Oregon.—Jesse Wirth, Empire, lif.

Salzer-Ritenour.—By the undersigned, at the Hickory Grove church rsonage, May 22, 1919, Mr. Henry F. Salzer and Sister Ada E. tenour.—G. G. Canfield, Mt. Carmel, Ill.

Wren-Paceley.—By the undersigned, in the Muscatine church, Iowa, ay 22, 1919, Bro. John C. Wren and Sister Ida F. Paceley, both of uscatine.—Leander Smith, Muscatine, Iowa.

Zimmerman-Metzger.—By the undersigned, in the East Dayton urch, May 14, 1919, Bro. Martin C. Zimmerman and Sister Sarah . Metzger, both of Dayton, Ohio.—Elmer Brumbaugh, Dayton, Ohio.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Brodine, Florence Yates, born at Plattsmouth, Nebr., died at St. ke's Hospital, at Kearney, Nebr., May 5, 1919, aged 27 years. She s baptized in the Church of the Brethren when eleven years old, t later united with the Christian church. April 3, 1918, she married lfred Brodine, who survives with her mother, stepfather, one sister, ur brothers, two stepbrothers and four stepsisters. One brother still in service in France. Services at Fairview church by Rev.
ggers, of the United Brethren Church, and Bro. Frank Musselman.
Leonora Yates Becker, Elm Creek, Nebr.

Brower, Wm., born in Chester County, Pa., died April 26, 1919, aged years, 2 months and 1 day. In 1864 he entered the Millersville ate Normal. He read medicine with the late Dr. A. R. Savidge, of rkerford and later entered Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, om which he graduated in 1867. He then came to Spring City, here he entered upon a large and lucrative practice. Twelve years go he gave up his practice, to become the president of the Spring ty National Bank. Dr. Brower from his youth was an active ember of the Brethren church. In 1869 he married Miss Sallie M. endall, who survives with a daughter. Services by Elders J. F. etric and A. M. Dixon, assisted by Rev. Flint.—J. P. Hetric, Pottswn, Pa.

Deardorff, Nancy, wife of Jacob Deardorff, deceased, died at her n's home at Malvern, Iowa, May 22, 1919, aged 77 years, 9 months d 14 days. The remains were brought to Yale, to the home of e writer. Burial in the Brethren cemetery. Services by Bro. E.
Fisel, assisted by Bro. Irving Haughtelin.—Moses Deardorff, ale, Iowa.

Fauber, Mary Frances, born Dec. 11, 1915, died April 6, 1919. Martha elle Fauber, born Oct. 21, 1917, died April 7, 1919. They were daugh-rs of W. D. and Sesie W. Fauber, of the Spring Creek congreion; mother, four sisters and one brother survive. Short services the home by Rev. R. A. Crabtree, of the Baptist church. Burial South Mountain cemetery.—E. J. Whitesell, Montebello, Va.

Foote, Sister Cynthia A., nee Gump, born in Allen County, Ind., ed at the Sanitarium, Rome City, Ind., May 26, 1919, aged 66 years, months and 2 days. Death was due to a complication of diseases.
e married Abraham Z. Foote in 1872. To this union were born ven children, of whom three sons and three daughters survive.
e united with the church at the age of sixteen, and has always en a faithful member of the Cedar Lake congregation. Services the writer, assisted by Brethren Amos Budd and Russell Sheran.—J. H. Urey, Corunna, Ind.

Garver, Mrs. Anna, daughter of Benj. and Catherine Bear, born in nking Valley, Pa., died at the home of her daughter, in Hunting-on, May 26, 1919, aged 86 years, 8 months and 15 days. Mrs. Garver accidentally fell about two weeks ago and sustained severe injuries hich, together with advanced age, resulted in death. She married eo. Garver in 1856. To this union eight children were born, three whom died in infancy. She was a faithful member of the Church the Brethren. She is survived by two sons and three daughters, a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for many years. Services at the Presbyterian church in Lebanon by the writer. Interment in the Nye cemetery.—Hiram Smith, Albany, Oregon.

Kitchen, Joseph R., Sr., died May 21, 1919, aged 68 years, 7 months and 16 days. He belonged to the Brethren church some fifteen or twenty years. Services by Eld. Daniel R. Berkey. Burial in Mount Joy graveyard.—Sarah E. Neiderhiser, Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Kurtz, Sister Mary, nee Hollinger, born at Louisville, Ohio, died at Hartville, Ohio, May 19, 1919, aged 87 years, 7 months and 13 days. In 1856 she married John Kurtz, who preceded her eighteen years ago. To this union were born six sons and six daughters. She was the mother of D. W. Kurtz, of McPherson, Kans. She is survived by ten children, thirty-nine grandchildren and twenty-six great-grandchildren. Her life was given to the welfare of her children and the advancement of the church. Services at the Brick church by Eld. Noah Longenecker. Burial in the cemetery near by.—A. J. Carper, Middlebranch, Ohio.

Lohman, Bro. Isaac C., son of Brother and Sister F. W. Lohman, died at his home near Cameron, Mo., of a complication of diseases following influenza, May 16, 1919, aged 46 years, 5 months and 16 days. He leaves his father and mother, two sisters and two brothers. He was a faithful and devoted member of the Church of the Brethren for nineteen years, having his membership in the South Fork church at Flatrock. Services at the home by Bro. H. M. Brubaker, assisted by Bro. D. D. Sell. Interment in the Pollard cemetery, near Cameron.—Ada Sell, Flattsburg, Mo.

Long, Sister Emeretta, born in Osceola, Ind., died May 18, 1919, aged 69 years, 2 months and 28 days. She leaves six children and one brother. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. H. Roose. Burial in the Osceola cemetery.—H. M. Schwalm, Wakarusa, Ind.

Metzger, Francis Eppley, the only son of Elmer and Mary Metzger, was born in Union Bridge, Md., Jan. 12, 1904. After six weeks' illness he died at the age of 15 years, 4 months and 4 days. For six years Chicago was the parental home, but in 1911 Flora became their home. Francis was a very promising young man. At the early age of nine he united with the Church of the Brethren at Flora. He was a member of the Freshman class of the local high school, and this class, with his Sunday-school class, attended the funeral services in a body. Francis was one of their departed classmate. Francis had planned to enter the Academy of Manchester College at the opening of the fall term, but death intervened. April 27 he was anointed with oil in the name of the Lord, and May 23 the Heavenly Father saw fit to bring his life to a close. Francis leaves a father, mother, two sisters and four grandparents. Services by the writer, assisted by Eld. Ira Keeider. Text, James 4: 14. Burial in Maple Lawn cemetery of Flora.—I. R. Berry, Flora, Ind.

Miller, John W., son of Abram and Hannah Miller, born in Wabash County, Ind., died at his home, near North Manchester, Ind., May 5, 1919, aged 63 years, 1 month and 6 days. In 1885 he married Emma Cupp. Having no children of their own they adopted a baby girl. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1886 and has been faithful and true to his Christian profession and the church of his choice. He leaves his wife, daughter, two brothers, three sisters and three grandchildren. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. I. B. Book.—A. L. Wright, North Manchester, Ind.

Moomaw, Daniel Clovis, youngest son of D. C. and Mrs. R. A. Moomaw, of Roanoke, Va., was killed in the battle of the Argonne Forest, France, Oct. 5, 1918, aged 32 years and 25 days. He was officially reported "missing in action" and "killed in action" several months after the tragedy, but the facts were not determined till our son, Dr. D. C. Moomaw, went over and made a definite search. This resulted in finding his lifeless body May 5, lying just as he fell, seven months before. He was taken to the Romaugc cemetery, where he was buried temporarily. As soon as practicable, he will be brought home, and buried at Roanoke.—D. C. Moomaw, Roanoke, Va.

Potter, Sister Henrietta, of Newport, Pa., died Feb. 20, 1919, aged 91 years, 2 months and 8 days. She was the daughter of Joseph and Christina Bones. She married John McNaughton in 1846. To this union was born one daughter, who survives. Her husband died in 1848 and she later married John Potter, who preceded her. Afterward she resided with her daughter. She was received into the Church of the Brethren in 1859, at Germantown Pa., and was a loyal and faithful member. Services at the church by Brethren C. H. Steerman, and W. H. Miller. Interment in the family burying plot.—Mrs. Ada Brandt, Millerstown, Pa.

Reed, Harriette, nee Holdreed, wife of John Reed, deceased, died in May, 1919. She was the mother of three sons and three daughters who survive. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1885 and lived an exemplary Christian life. Services by the home ministers.—David Metzler, Nappanee, Ind.

Rohrer, Bro. Henry H., son of Benj. and Mary Rohrer, born near Canton, Ill., died May 15, 1919, aged 81 years, 3 months and 26 days. In 1891 he married Maggie Vansyckle. To this union were born eight children. He united with the Church of the Brethren when nineteen years old and was an active worker in both church and Sunday-school. He is survived by three sons, four daughters and five grandchildren. Services at the home by Elders D. E. Packman and S. G. Bucher. Interment in Greenwood cemetery at Canton.—Mrs. W. D. Vansyckle, Canton, Ill.

Sadler, John, died at his home at Austin, Minn., April 28, 1919, aged 91 years. He leaves his wife, three sons and two daughters. He was a faithful member of the Brethren church for many years. Services in the Root River church by Bro. J. F. Souders. Interment in the cemetery near by.—Amy J. Owen, Preston, Minn.

Shoemaker, Sarah, nee Pontius, born in Ohio, died at the home of her son, Eld. C. W. Shoemaker, Overbrook, Kans., May 25, 1919, aged 86 years, 2 months and 17 days. She married Isaac Shoemaker. She united with the Church of the Brethren forty-five years ago and lived a consistent Christian life. Although almost helpless and blind for two years, yet she bore her afflictions with Christian patience. Her husband and three children preceded her. She is survived by four sons, three daughters, twenty-two grandchildren and twenty great-grandchildren. Services in the Appanoose church by Eld. I. L. Hoover, assisted by Elders D. B. Barnhart and S. J. Heckman. Interment in cemetery near by.—J. M. Ward, Pomona, Kans.

Thacher, D. R., died April 23, 1919, aged 83 years, 4 months and 19 days. He leaves his wife, four sons and one daughter. Services at the Root River church by Bro. J. F. Souders. Burial in the cemetery near by. He was a faithful member of the Brethren church for many years.—Amy J. Owen, Preston, Minn.

Umbaugh, Sister Martha, daughter of Adam Hobbein, born near Nappanee, Ind., died May 7, 1919, aged 51 years, 1 month and 18 days. In 1887 she married Wm. Umbaugh. One son was born to them. She united with the Church of the Brethren many years ago and has lived a devout Christian life. She leaves her husband, one son, three grandchildren and one sister. Services at the Union Center church by Eld. Frank Kreider and Eld. D. F. Anglemyer.—Chloe Weldy, Nappanee, Ind.

Wallman, Jemima, wife of J. K. Wallman, died at her home in Nampa, April 10, 1919, aged 69 years, 3 months and 27 days. Her husband survives, also two daughters, seven children and one great-grandchild survive. Services at the church by Bro. J. C. Neher.—Amanda Garber, Nampa, Idaho.

TEACHERS, SUPERINTENDENTS,

The Sunday-school lessons for the next six mon
Supper, Faith, The Resurrection, Sin, Prayer, Th

You Will Need th on the Doctrin

STUDIES IN DOCTRINE AND DEVOTIO
Part I, By D. W. Kurtz; Part II, By S

This is the Book of Doctrine that should be i minister and all others interested in the doctrines for reference, for devotional study, for the libra to get Studies in Doctrine and Devotion.

Doctrine of the Brethren Defended, 65c
Elder R. H. Miller

A clear and interesting exposition of the doctrines of the church. The author is commonly recognized as having been one of the most able thinkers of his day. The volume treats of the divinity of Christ and the Holy Spirit as well as the several distinctive doctrines of the church.

Kesler-Ellmore Debate, ...$1.50
Elder B. E. Kesler and Rev. Wm. Ellmore

The full stenographic report of the debate between Elder B. E. Kesler and Rev. William Ellmore that occurred at Jacksonville, Ind., in the autumn of 1915. A substantially bound book containing a mass of doctrinal material.

Life of R. H. Miller, ...$1.00
Elder Otho Winger

During the latter part of the nineteenth century Elder R. H. Miller was a notable figure in the history of the church. He excelled in many lines, having been a powerful preacher, an able debater and a great leader. The author of this biography has done the church a valuable service in presenting with such graphic detail the story of this worthy man's life. An informing and inspiring book. 269 pages, bound in cloth.

Bible Readings and Bible Studies, .35c
Elder I. J. Rosenberger

A pocket-sized book containing 116 Bible readings covering important doctrinal and evangelical subjects. Useful for the study of special topics or for sermon material. Bound in imitation leather; 126 pages.

Close Communion, ...35c
Landon West

This book was originally issued in 1888 and enjoyed a very large sale. While the present supply lasts copies may be had at 35c each. Part I contains eight chapters on "Reasons for Close Communion," and Part II twelve chapters on "Reasons Against Open Communion."

God's Means of Grace, ...$2.00
C. F. Yoder, A. B., B. D.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. R. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor — EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

BECKER BICENTENNIAL ECHOES

(Continued from Page 377)

ideals worth while have had their origin in the church, the speaker showed how many of the principles for which the Church of the Brethren has stood have steadily gained in influence until some of them have been adopted into the life of the nation and still others are ideals toward which America is striving. Christian ideals are the ideals of a true democracy and the church must continue to contribute her utmost in making American ideals Christian.

"America's Debt to the World" was discussed by Bro. W. F. England, of California. He held that it was similar to Paul's debt to the Romans, Greeks and Barbarians. These people had never done anything for Paul, but Christ had done a lot for him. Christ had given him something which he was able to give them, and just because he was able, he considered himself their debtor. That's the ground of America's debt to the world. She has the message the world needs, and is able to "send the light." Therefore she ought to do it. Her debt is the debt of love.

Bro. J. W. Fidler, of Ohio, followed with a most appropriate treatment of a most appropriate subject, "Paying the Debt." This great debt can only be paid by love, prayer and life-blood. Love, the love that makes faith work, will provide the motive. Prayer will keep the inspiration from running low and the current of divine power turned on. And life-blood; the pouring out of the life-energies in sacrificial service,—this will put the power into operation,—this will pay the debt.

There was a Great Day of Pentecost long, long years ago. There was another one today. This one has not yet brougbt three thousand souls into the Kingdom but it will bring them and many more, when the influences it has set going have come to full fruition.

Monday, June 9

These words are written just after the Great Missionary Meeting this afternoon. Time and space forbid anything but the briefest mention, at this time, of the events of this wonderful day. We hope to have something further to say later.

The forenoon session was given to "An Interpretation and Application of the Forward Movement of the Church of the Brethren." The Secretary of the General Mission Board, Bro. J. H. B. Williams, explained the meaning of the Movement "Along Missionary Lines." Bro. Ezra Flory, a member of the General Sunday School Board, did the same "Along Sunday-school Lines," and the Chairman of the General Educational Board, Bro. D. W. Kurtz, did the same "Along Educational Lines."

This was the session preëminently given to the Forward Movement, but that has been the real theme of every meeting which preceded. It is the spirit of the Conference. Unless we greatly err, the hopes of many of us that this Conference would mark the beginning of a new era of power and service for the church, are going to be justified. The addresses this forenoon seemed to gather up the impulses which have been forming, and crystallize them into definite, tangible expression and determination. We can say no more at present.

The interest reached its climax this afternoon. Good-natured effort was made to put into the auditorium twice as many people as it would hold. Overflow meetings had to be provided for. Bro. D. L. Miller presided in the auditorium. Bro. S. R. Zug, of Pennsylvania, a former member of the Mission Board and now in his eighty-eighth year, offered the opening prayer. Bro. Jesse B. Emmert, of India, and Bro. J. J. Yoder, of McPherson College, a member of the General Mission Board, both gave soul-inspiring addresses and appeals, of which no more can be said here. A little girl of eight or ten summers, Mary Alice Archey, of Pittsburgh, Pa., followed in clear voice with a most touching selection whose theme seemed to be, "I am waiting, Lord, send me." The people were hushed in reverent silence and their hearts melted in adoration.

Bro. J. H. B. Williams directed the gathering of the offering and then presented to the audience the new missionaries, two for Denmark, ten for China and twenty for India, thirty-two in all. The audience waved them a farewell salute with a sea of white handkerchiefs, after which Bro. H. K. Ober offered the consecration prayer. The singing of the doxology, and the final benediction by Bro. H. C. Early, Chairman of the General Mission Board, concluded the greatest missionary meeting ever held in the Church of the Brethren.

Up to the time of closing the columns of this issue,—Tuesday forenoon,—the great Missionary Offering, so far as counted, had reached $85,000, but it was estimated that the final amount will be swelled to at least $125,000. Compared with the offering of last year, at Hershey, Pa., $66,953.62,—the largest up to that time,—the increase is gratifying indeed, strongly indicative of the fact that the "Forward Movement" has gripped the hearts of our members, and induced them to give liberally to the work of the Lord.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 15

Sunday-school Lesson, Prayer.—Matt. 6: 5-15; Luke 18: 1-14.

Christian Workers' Meeting, My Prayer Life.—1 Thess. 5:17.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. D. M. Shorb, of Surrey, N. Dak., at Perth, same State.

GAINS FOR THE KNGDOM

Six confessed Christ in the South Waterloo church, Iowa.

Seven were added to the Blue River church, Ind.,—Bro. Geo. Mishler, of South Whitley, same State, evangelist.

Five were baptized in the Union Center church, Ind.,—Bro. Everett Pippin, of Nappanee, same State, evangelist.

Eleven were baptized in the Pleasant Hill church, Ohio,—Bro. John A. Robinson, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Twenty-one were baptized in the Rossville church, Ind.,—Bro. Ira Kreider, of Bringhurst, same State, evangelist.

Nineteen have been baptized and two await the rite in the South Beatrice church, Nebr.,—Bro. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, Kans., evangelist.

Twelve were baptized and one reclaimed in the Unity church, Bethel house, Va.,—Bro. Homer Zigler, of Churchville, same State, evangelist.

Forty-five confessed Christ, thirty-nine of whom were baptized, in the Timberville church, Va.,—Bro. A. B. Miller, of Hagerstown, Md., evangelist.

Nine were baptized, one reclaimed and two await baptism in the Howard church, Ind.,—Bro. Chas. Oberlin, of Hartford City, same State, evangelist; fourteen were baptized previous to the meetings.

Five were baptized in the Columbia Furnace church, Woodstock congregation, Va.,—Bro. Wm. Harpine, of Mt. Jackson, same State, evangelist. Seven were baptized at the Valley Pike house, same congregation, Bro. Samuel Zigler, of Harrisonburg, Va., evangelist.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. H. H. Ritter, of Mabel, Oregon, to begin June 22 in the Albany church, same State.

Bro. C. D. Bonsack, of New Windsor, Md., to begin June 24 in the South Waterloo church, Iowa.

Bro. P. J. Blough, of Johnstown, Pa., to begin June 17 in the Markleysburg congregation, same State.

Bro. Ralph G. Rarick and wife, of Covington, Ohio, to begin June 15 in the North Liberty church, Ind.

Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, Pa., to begin June 17 at the Shrewsbury house, Codorus congregation, same State.

Bro. Ralph W. Schlosser, of Elizabethtown, Pa., to begin about the middle of June in the Manchester church, Ind.

Bro. B. B. Ludwick, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., to begin June 14 in the Elbethel house, Elbethel congregation, same State.

Bro. D. M. Shorb, of Surrey, N. Dak., to begin June 15 in the Salem church, same State; July 13 in the Milk River Valley church, Montana.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. F. E. Miller changes his address from Enders, Nebr., to Impo, Mo.

Bro. Roy W. Hockenberry has moved from Everett, Pa., to Canoe Creek, Blair Co., same State.

Bro. Walter R. Replogle, late of Citronelle, Ala., has moved to 2207 S. Meridian Street, Anderson, Ind.

Bro. Elmon Sutphin, formerly residing at Wenatchee, Wash., is now in pastoral charge of the Bethel church, Nebr. He should be addressed at Carleton.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

The District of Texas and Louisiana is to hold its Ministerial Meeting and Sunday-school Meeting July 23 and 24, at Nocona, Texas, in connection with the District Conference, July 25. The programs will be found on page 382.

Elders and Pastors who contemplate changing locations, may find an opportunity for real service in the Shipshewana church, Ind.,—now without a resident minister. See Bro. John Bollinger's announcement among the Notes.

Churches of Idaho and Western Montana will please note the announcement of Bro. M. Alva Long, concerning his appointment as District evangelist. Application for his services should be made at once, so that the season's program can be properly arranged.

Special attention is directed to the announcement on page 382, of the Educational Directory which is being compiled by Brethren W. Arthur Cable and Homer F. Sanger, of Chicago. They solicit the coöperation of "Messenger" readers in securing a complete list of names, that the Directory may be as serviceable as possible. Please note their reasonable request, fill out the blank now, before you forget it, and mail as directed.

MISCELLANEOUS

Members of Northeastern Ohio will please note the following announcement, sent us by Bro. C. I. Schrock, 827 Oberlin Street, Akron, Ohio, for immediate insertion: "Owing to crowded housing conditions at Akron, Ohio, those expecting to attend the District Sunday-school Institute and Christian Workers' Convention at that place, should send names to the writer, so that lodging can be provided for. Parking space for automobiles is provided for on the high school grounds near by."

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 381)

Christian Workers' Meeting. Bro. Clapper preaches for us on the second and fourth Sunday of each month. May 11 Bro. L. H. Eby gave us a very inspiring and impressive sermon. We extend a cordial invitation to any brethren passing through the city to meet with us.—Elizabeth Johnson, Spokane, Wash., June 2.

WEST VIRGINIA

Pleasant View.—We met in council May 24. Our delegate to Annual Meeting is Bro. J. M. Crouse, with Brethren J. S. Zigler and E. L. Clower, alternates; delegate to District Meeting, Bro. E. L. Clower, with Virgie McAvoy, alternate. Our missionary sermon was preached May 25 and an offering of $150 was lifted.—Cyntha Fox, Fayetteville, W. Va., May 30.

It Was Great, Wasn't It?

Those young folks on Conference platform last Monday ready to pay their debt to the world. They Were Trained, Prepared, Ready to Serve Efficiently. LISTEN. Is Your Son Being Prepared to Pay His Big Debt? He owes a big one. He must pay it, in Christian Service.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO GET READY

Start Him In at

McPherson College

Fall Semester Begins September 15, 1919. "Life's Best Preparation, an Education at McPherson College."

McPHERSON, KANSAS

Remember: Students can enter our Academy as soon as they have finished the country school. Write for full particulars.

(Watch this space next week.)

Bro. Ralph W. Schlosser, of Elizabethtown, Pa., to egin about the middle of June in the Manchester church, id.

Bro. B. B. Ludwick, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., to begin June in the Elbethel house, Elbethel congregation, same tate.

Bro. D. M. Shorb, of Surrey, N. Dak., to begin June 15 the Salem church, same State; July 13 in the Milk iver Valley church, Montana.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. F. E. Miller changes his address from Enders, ebr., to Impo, Mo.

Bro. Roy W. Hockenberry has moved from Everett, a., to Canoe Creek, Blair Co., same State.

Bro. Walter R. Replogle, late of Citronelle, Ala., has oved to 2207 S. Meridian Street, Anderson, Ind.

Bro. Elmon Sutphin, formerly residing at Wenatchee, Vash., is now in pastoral charge of the Bethel church, ebr. He should be addressed at Carleton.

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

The District of Texas and Louisiana is to hold its Ministerial Meeting and Sunday-school Meeting July 23 nd 24, at Nocona, Texas, in connection with the District onference, July 25. The programs will be found on age 382.

Elders and Pastors who contemplate changing loca- ons, may find an opportunity for real service in the hipshewana church, Ind.,—now without a resident min- ter. See Bro. John Bollinger's announcement among e Notes.

Churches of Idaho and Western Montana will please ote the announcement of Bro. M. Alva Loug, concerning s appointment as District evangelist. Application for s services should be made at once, so that the season's ogram can be properly arranged.

Special attention is directed to the announcement on age 382, of the Educational Directory which is being ompiled by Brethren W. Arthur Cable and Homer F. anger, of Chicago. They solicit the coöperation of Messenger" readers in securing a complete list of ames, that the Directory may be as serviceable as possi- le. Please note their reasonable request, fill out the lank now, before you forget it, and mail as directed.

MISCELLANEOUS

Members of Northeastern Ohio will please note the ollowing announcement, sent us by Bro. C. I. Schrock, 27 Oberlin Street, Akron, Ohio, for immediate inser- on: "Owing to crowded housing conditions at Akron, hio, those expecting to attend the District Sunday- chool Institute and Christian Workers' Convention at hat place, should send names to the writer, so that odging can be provided for. Parking space for automo- iles is provided for on the high school grounds near by."

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 381)

ristian Workers' Meeting. Bro. Clapper preaches for us on the cond and fourth Sunday of each month. May 11 Bro. L. H. Eby ve us a very inspiring and impressive sermon. We extend a cor- al invitation to any brethren passing through the city to meet th us.—Elizabeth Johnson, Spokane, Wash., June 2.

WEST VIRGINIA

Pleasant View.—We met in council May 24. Our delegate to An- ial Meeting is Bro. J. M. Crouse, with Brethren J. S. Zigler and L. Clower, alternates; delegate to District Meeting, Bro. E. L. ower, with Virgie McAvoy, alternate. Our missionary sermon as preached May 25 and an offering of $150 was lifted.—Cyntha Fox, ayetteville, W. Va., May 30.

It Was Great, Wasn't It?

Those young folks on Conference platform last Monday ready to pay their debt to the world. They Were Trained, Prepared, Ready to Serve Efficiently. LISTEN. Is Your Son Being Prepared to Pay His Big Debt? He owes a big one. He must pay it, in Christian Service.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO GET READY

Start Him In at

McPherson College

THE GOSPEL MES

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14.

"STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., June 21, 1919

1719--Becker Bicentennial Echoes--1919

Monday, June 9

REFERENCE to the events of this wonderful day, in our issue of last week, was of necessity so meager that it may be worth while to add a few further observations. The three addresses of the morning session were explanations of the goals set in the Forward Movement, with appeals and suggestions as to methods of reaching them.

What would the Mission Board do with $200,000 for home missions? Well, Bro. Williams made it plain that there are plenty of needy places to put it. He talked of the cities and of the Southland in particular. Then he told us something most of us had thought little about: the special need of expert leadership in lifting weak churches to a self-supporting and working basis. He told of some denominations that do not keep pouring money into the same church year after year without getting any results. They put a competent man there with a definite program and expect him to get the church able to stand alone within five or six years.

And as for the men and money set down as the foreign goal, if you could feel the desperateness of the situation in India say, as he described it, for lack of man-power to handle the work already under way, fifteen men and $250,000 would look exceedingly small. He did not give much credit to the folks who talk of leaving money for the Lord when they die, in view of their evident inability to take it along with them. Citing a recent case in which the Board lost $25,000 which a brother desired it to have because his heirs succeeded in breaking his will, Bro. Williams commended the wiser plan of setting your money to work for the Lord while you are still alive and can make sure the Lord will get it.

Bro. Ezra Flory, interpreting the Sunday-school Forward Movement, warned us against thinking of the goals in too formal a way. They are to give us something tangible to work for, to help us to a vision of the field. Here are some of the things to be kept in mind as the real objects of the movement:

We must supply teacher training. We must not endure so much mechanical teaching. From everywhere, too, comes the call for leaders in church activities. We must supply them. We must develop the latent talent in our churches. We must promote Bible study, not in the Sunday-school merely but through the Sunday-school, in the homes. In short, to fall back on a much used word, the Sunday-school must be a more efficient instrument in forwarding the objects for which the church exists.

At this point Mr. Rodeheaver was given two minutes in which to announce the "Song-Directors' Conference" to be held at Winona Lake for ten days beginning August 15. It is free of charge and a hearty invitation was extended to all our churches to send their local talent to the Conference to learn how to lead in schools for missionaries and pastors. We can not have leadership without Christian education. The purpose of the Forward Movement in Education, he said, must be to give the church the school vision and the schools the church vision. Why should it not be thought as sacred a service to train missionaries as to feed them?

The educational goals are very modest indeed, he explained. They are the absolute minimum, the standard that must be reached, if the schools are to maintain their standing in the educational world and meet the demands of these tremendous times.

The writer has a vivid recollection of his experience, at the first Annual Conference of which he has any recollection at all, in trying to get into the dining hall to get something to eat. He thought about it when he saw the people trying to gain admission to the auditorium for the Great Missionary Convocation. And it seemed good to see them as eager now to get into a missionary meeting as they were to get into a dining hall thirty-seven years ago. And that happened only a few miles from where this happened.

Another impressive appeal through the eye, when you got inside, was that intermittent electric light which had been preaching its powerful sermon in the exhibit room but was now above the auditorium platform. You just had to look at it and think what it meant. The card below it said "Every time this light goes out three persons in India and three in China perish without Christ."

Another impressive sight was the big service flag with 99 crosses on it, one for each missionary who has served on the foreign field. The flag was made and presented to the Board by a Sisters' Aid Society down in Ohio, the one at Painter Creek, if we remember rightly. There is a large blank space for new crosses. Isn't it fine to think that it will get thirty at this time? It's thirty instead of thirty-two, because two of the missionaries, though new appointments, had served on the India field. Bro. D. L. Forney and wife, after fifteen years of residence in the home land, are reappointed to the service.

But what would you guess was the most impressive picture of all? It was the missionaries themselves, more than forty of them, outgoing and on furlough. Doesn't it begin to look like the church is waking up?

It sounded like it, too, the way the congregation sang "Take my life and let it be, consecrated, Lord, to thee," the last verse being sung by the missionaries only.

In beginning his address Bro. Emmert called attention to the fact that this Conference, in addition to being the bicentennial of the coming of the church to America, is the quarter-centennial of the appointment of the first missionaries to the non-Christian world. And the address was largely a review of the progress which had been made. Some feared failure, but the

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

An Ever-Present Friend

It is so sweet to know,
When we are tired, and when the hand of pain
Lies on our hearts, and when we look in vain
For human comfort, that the Heart Divine
Still understands these cares of yours and mine.

Not only understands, but day by day
Lives with us while we tread the earthly way,
Bears with us all our weariness, and feels
The shadow of the faintest cloud that steals Across our sunshine, ever learns again
The depth and bitterness of human pain.

There is no sorrow that he will not share;
No cross, no burden, for our hearts to bear
Without his help; no care of ours too small To cast on Jesus. Let us tell him all,—
Lay at his feet the story of our woes,
And in his sympathy find sweet repose.

—Selected.

The Things Which Belong Unto Peace

BY PAUL MOHLER

It is a foolish farmer that expects to reap without sowing. Equally foolish is he that sows without expecting to reap. Given the one, and the other follows in its natural course. This principle is as universal, as beneficent, and as terrible as the law of gravity. How much of the happiness and unhappiness of the world depends upon it!

Jerusalem did not know that it was time to sow for peace. She did not know that peace is as much a product of planting, watering, and the blessing of God, as is corn. She did not even recognize the seed when it was offered her, so she refused to sow. Jesus knew, and knowing, wept for her, saying: "If thou hadst known in this day, even thou, the things which belong unto peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes. For the days shall come upon thee, when thine enemies shall cast up a bank against thee, and compass thee around, and keep thee in on every side, and shall dash thee to the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another; because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation" Luke 19: 42ff.).

What is the seed of peace? The faith. He who takes Jesus as both Savior and Lord has sown peace for himself and for his nation. All that any nation needs to do, to insure its peace, is really to Christianize its citizens. If Jerusalem had received her Lord when he was with her, she would not have been destroyed. All the armies of Rome could not have cast up a bank against her or touched one of her children, if Jerusalem had accepted Jesus and enlisted in his army of peace.

How does this work out? It is simple enough. In the first place, a nation of real Christians will never wrong another nation nor alarm it by any threat of aggression. Nations prepare for war because they fear an enemy. No other nation could fear the nation of Christians. But that is not all. No nation can have real Christianity and keep it to itself. Like the waters of the ocean, it flows out into every open space, filling the valleys of the seas, pressing against their bounds in every bay and cove and inlet. Then, where it is balked of a direct approach, it dissolves itself in vapor and flies by the winds of heaven to every nook and corner of the earth. One really Christian nation would Christianize the world so widely, and it would so profoundly change its atmosphere that no other nation could lead its citizens into war. Remember, in this connection, that even Germany, with all its autocratic power, united her millions for this struggle by telling them that the war was one of defense against a ring of powerful enemies. See how she even now insists that it was Russia mobilizing that called forth her own first movements! If all or even the majority of her neighbors had been as peacefully inclined toward her as was our own great nation, Germany would never have delivered herself into the hands of her military masters. Fear is at the foundation of it all, and no one fears a Christian.

But some one says: "That smacks of Bolshevism." No, it does not. The two are far apart, as far as the East is from the West. The Bolsheviki hope in the power of selfishness and unity of class. The Christian hopes in God and the power of righteousness. The seed which the Bolsheviki are sowing can never produce a harvest by the blessing of God. They must depend upon the devil. The seed the Christian sows is blessed of God, and God is stronger than the devil. Bolshevism strives to unite the masses of all the nations against the classes, to set up a tyranny with the workingman on the throne. Christianity unites all classes in love and mutual helpfulness, with each one serving the other in unselfishness. Bolshevism can never bring peace to any nation. Christianity will bring it to all the world.

Jerusalem fell because she did not know the time of her visitation. Jesus came and offered himself as a Savior at a time when Jerusalem thought she needed a leader in battles against a foreign enemy. So, because she did not recognize the real strength of Jesus, she rejected him. America may do the same if she is careless and superficial in her judgment. We need to know the time of our visitation. We need to know when Jesus is knocking at our door. This country needs thousands of evangelists, and she needs pastors by the tens of thousands,—all alive and awake to the need of America. America needs a Savior, a Prince of Peace, a Captain of her salvation. We need leadership in a tremendous attack against the enemy of souls. Our time of visitation is right now. Jesus is presenting himself to us with peace in his hands. Our future peace, as a nation, is at stake. How many of us are patriotic enough to respond? How many are ready to respond to make our future safe? These are the really vital questions before America today.

I know that many people are looking for the end of this generation. Some refuse to sow (for Christ) on that account, but I notice that they haven't quit sowing for money. As long as there is time given us for farming and merchandising, it is time to sow for peace, and they who are faithful in sowing will be rewarded when the Lord of the harvest comes.

Wenatchee, Wash.

Respecting the Aged Ministers

BY J. H. MOORE

In this article we are treating a subject that is not very popular, but it needs attention all the same. What we are saying has nothing to do with personal interest, for as a preacher and a writer we have enough work to take up our time and strength. We are considering the subject in a sense that is as broad as the Brotherhood itself, and what we may offer will apply to other Christian bodies as well as to our own.

Preachers grow old as well as other men. They can not help it, and their Creator never intended that they should. Some, as they advance in years, become prematurely feeble. Others grow in wisdom, knowledge and even in strength as the years multiply. Moses, at the age of 120, was still a strong man in mind as well as in body. As a writer, as well as a leader of men, he did a marvelous amount of work during the last day he spent on earth. Though a hard worker and a diligent student, he had taken good care of his mind and body, and was therefore fully prepared for any part of the Lord's work. Caleb, at the age of 85, had lost none of his qualities as a warrior, leader and thinker. The apostle John did his fine literary work after passing the fourscore and tenth milestone of his busy life.

Coming down to the present age, we notice that the very best generals, diplomats and statesmen in the late war were men who had seen sixty summers and more. Many of the members of both houses in Congress are men of seventy and more years. The people of this country never think of dropping a congressman or a senator because of his age. With them it is a matter of efficiency, and not a case of so many years. On the bench, in the Supreme Court, are men venerable in years as well as efficient in knowledge and experience.

We do not hear of lawyers being retired from the bar simply because of years. Judges of all courts continue on the bench long after they begin wearing the silver crowns. Who thinks of dismissing the family physician merely because of his years? In all departments of human activity, especially as leaders and thinkers, we find old men. They are men of experience, and age has ripened their judgment and rendered their services only the more valuable.

But in the ministry we do not find the same situation. Preachers of the Gospel are often discounted because of their age. Families may prefer the aged physician, vote for the congressman who has passed his seventy-fifth year, but for their pastor they seldom want the man of years. They are looking for the preacher who takes well with the public. It is this way in practically all the churches. The air is full of that kind of talk. In case of sickness the aged family doctor is called, but when it comes to looking after the Master's sheep, there is little demand for the man who has rounded out his threescore years. For those who have given their best energies to the preaching of the Gospel, all of this is discouraging. They are often made to feel that they are no longer wanted in the pulpit. They see the world using men of age and experience, while the church is measurably dispensing with hers.

This condition has not yet greatly disturbed our congregations, but it is coming. We may, then, ask whose fault it is. It is not a normal condition of society or religion, and it may be wise to consider the reason, or reasons, for the situation.

The fault may lie with the ministers growing old in the Lord's service, and then the trouble may rest with the members composing the congregations. Not a few ministers permit themselves to grow inefficient. At the age of sixty-five and seventy we find them preaching the same sermons they preached when forty years old. Before reaching the threescore year mark, they have prepared sermons enough to last them the balance of life, and so, in their pulpit efforts, it is the same thing over and over again. They seldom prepare a new sermon. There are enough old ones outlined, and these save work. They do not read, think, plan and work as they once did. Some grow careless in their appearance and cease to cultivate the habits, taste and manners that appeal to the people with whom they mingle. One can hardly blame a community for dropping a minister of this type. But how about those who keep as well read up in their profession as does the aged family physician? Why shelve the efficient, hard-working ministers of years, and encourage the aged doctors, lawyers, judges and statesmen?

In too many instances the public sentiment, such as the members themselves help to make, is at fault. The talk is against using the fathers in the pulpits. They want something that will draw. Experience and efficiency in the management of the flock are often lost sight of. It is not so much the skill in church management as the ability to draw in the pulpit. Members think this way, and it is along this line that they do their talking, and so the air is soon full of the same spirit.

To us the method does not seem fair or wise. Without embarrassment, we can speak out plainly, for those who know us understand that we have no grievance to air, and no ax to grind. We look at the subject on its merits. Why not encourage the aged and experienced ministers? They have long borne the heat and the burden of the day, and largely at their own expense some of them have built up not a few of our most influential congregations. To some of them it seems a bit discouraging to step entirely aside just when the vineyards they have planted become especially fruitful.

As compared with improved methods and growing demands, some of them may have become a little short on efficiency. But they need not be completely sidetracked on this account. Find something for them to do, and then encourage them while doing it. If they can not manage a large flock with the necessary skill, then place them in charge of a smaller flock. All their lives they have been accustomed to working for the Lord, and as they grow old in years and even riper in bar simply because of years. Judges of all courts continue on the bench long after they begin wearing the silver crowns. Who thinks of dismissing the family physician merely because of his years? In all departments of human activity, especially as leaders and thinkers, we find old men. They are men of experience, and age has ripened their judgment and rendered their services only the more valuable.

But in the ministry we do not find the same situation. Preachers of the Gospel are often discounted because of their age. Families may prefer the aged physician, vote for the congressman who has passed his seventy-fifth year, but for their pastor they seldom want the man of years. They are looking for the preacher who takes well with the public. It is this way in practically all the churches. The air is full of that kind of talk. In case of sickness the aged family doctor is called, but when it comes to looking after the Master's sheep, there is little demand for the man who has rounded out his threescore years. For those who have given their best energies to the preaching of the Gospel, all of this is discouraging. They are often made to feel that they are no longer wanted in the pulpit. They see the world using men of age and experience, while the church is measurably dispensing with hers.

This condition has not yet greatly disturbed our congregations, but it is coming. We may, then, ask whose fault it is. It is not a normal condition of society or religion, and it may be wise to consider the reason, or reasons, for the situation.

The fault may lie with the ministers growing old in the Lord's service, and then the trouble may rest with the members composing the congregations. Not a few ministers permit themselves to grow inefficient. At the age of sixty-five and seventy we find them preaching the same sermons they preached when forty years old. Before reaching the threescore year mark, they have prepared sermons enough to last them the balance of life, and so, in their pulpit efforts, it is the same thing over and over again. They seldom prepare a new sermon. There are enough old ones outlined, and these save work. They do not read, think, plan and work as they once did. Some grow careless in their appearance and cease to cultivate the habits, taste and manners that appeal to the people with whom they mingle. One can hardly blame a community for dropping a minister of this type. But how about those who keep as well read up in their profession as does the aged family physician? Why shelve the efficient, hard-working ministers of years, and encourage the aged doctors, lawyers, judges and statesmen?

In too many instances the public sentiment, such as the members themselves help to make, is at fault. The talk is against using the fathers in the pulpits. They want something that will draw. Experience and efficiency in the management of the flock are often lost sight of. It is not so much the skill in church management as the ability to draw in the pulpit. Members think this way, and it is along this line that they do their talking, and so the air is soon full of the same spirit.

To us the method does not seem fair or wise. Without embarrassment, we can speak out plainly, for those who know us understand that we have no grievance to air, and no ax to grind. We look at the subject on its merits. Why not encourage the aged and experienced ministers? They have long borne the heat and the burden of the day, and largely at their own expense some of them have built up not a few of our most influential congregations. To some of them it seems a bit discouraging to step entirely aside just when the vineyards they have planted become especially fruitful.

As compared with improved methods and growing judgment, like Caleb of old, they still feel like battling for the Master. Do not have them feel that they are of no more use in the church. Treat them at least as kindly and considerately as you treat your aged family physician.

Sebring, Fla.

The Hope of the World

BY ROGER C. SMITH

THIS is indeed a suffering world. Torn by dissensions, bleeding from the frightful wounds of the war, haunted by memories of horrors and finally stricken by famine and pestilence. The nations cry "Peace," but there is no peace. A few months ago, when it seemed that the enemy was about to prevail, it was commonly stated that the world had reached a crisis. Fortunately this crisis is over, but immediately there appeared another, and then another. History appears to be a record of crises. It appears each time as if a part or all the fabric of society must fall to pieces,—a miserable failure. But just as often the solution appeared in due time, the crisis was passed, and the world moved on. We are brought to wonder just what is the ultimate hope of the world.

It seemed to me that the answer to this question is twofold,—education for the masses and the Christian religion for all. Either of these alone is insufficient without the other, to bring the fullest realization of human hopes.

We have just witnessed the downfall of an insufficient philosophy, viz., that might makes right. "He that taketh up the sword shall perish with the sword" it has been ordained. On the other hand, right does not conquer by virtue of itself but it must have staunch defenders. Sometimes right can be adequately upheld by reasoning or argumentation, but sometimes plain force appears to be necessary. But the exercise of might is no solution of any problem,—it is never more than a temporary measure. Man can not hope to reach the abundant life by the exercise of mental or physical force.

It has been frequently stated that education is the ultimate solution, and, indeed, the shibboleth that "the common schools are the hope of our country" carries with it much convincing argument. Russia today shows clearly what a grave danger there is in illiteracy. With 85% of her population illiterate, it is not surprising that there exists today in that country such chaos. The illiterate man is distrustful and suspicious of his fellows, especially of educated persons. He puts his trust in some of his own kind. As a result, he can be swayed by the simplest of argument and led by the most incompetent of leaders. Bolshevism is championed in all countries by the illiterate and irresponsible. Being without the power of convincing argument, its promoters resort to anarchy, in the hope of intimidating their opponents and gaining their point. True Christian education will lift the world to a higher plane. It will show the individual his responsibilities in society, it will enable him to read and form his own conclusions. It will make him rational.

But Germany had developed a great system of education. They boasted of their learning and, indeed, illiteracy was reduced to a very low figure. Yet we could not say that Germany acted rationally towards God or man. On the other hand, one may be rational and still be wrong. It is a well known fact that many college professors are infidels and atheists.

While a student at one of our large universities, I formed the acquaintance of a very learned professor who was an atheist. Strange to say, this man had had two years in a denominational Bible school, in preparation for the ministry, and his Bible, concordances and allied books had the earmarks of much usage. We he was a happy, contented man. It appears that many learned men attempt to reason to some understanding of God, immortality and spiritual problems. Upon the failure to do this, to their satisfaction, they become infidels. But not even infidels regard atheism as a solution. It is only their idea of a failure of a solution. During those terrible days of the French Revolution, one of the governments, that held power for a short time, decreed that the place of God should be taken by reason, and that worship should be accorded this new deity. But the Goddess of Reason was destined to have a small following. We can expect the recent antichurch activities in Russia to call forth new standards of consecration.

Education alone is not the ultimate solution, for pure reason never went beyond "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." But there came a man out of Nazareth who taught: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them that despitefully use you" and many other un*reasonable* things. He taught an idealism that his hearers could not comprehend. It is this lofty idealism, constituting the tenets of true religion, that is the hope of the world. Almost everything else has been tried and found wanting.

In the past, religion has been practiced in such a haphazard, half-hearted way. Religious leaders are beginning to see how far short the church has come of the full measure of its duties and opportunities. The late world crisis has turned the world to serious thinking. Men on the battle-field have looked into the face of death. They have prayed and many have professed religion. They will return, fired by a new zeal to purge this old sin-cursed world. But they will be disappointed. They will come back and find that people who call themselves Christians are still wasting their time arguing over trivialities, while the community continues to revel in the works of the devil. He will be impatient when he finds that many churches are on a side-track resting with a marvelous feeling of self-satisfaction and composure. He will see a large per cent of the churches using only a fraction of their powers, with great stores of latent ability untouched. He will see leaders working together like a balky, untrained team. If this war taught any practical lesson at all, it is that, to overcome, the forces must be united. The tide of battle was quickly turned when the Allies unified their efforts. So, if the church is to appeal to the returned soldier, or to any serious minded person, for that matter, there must be unity of purpose and efforts. I have often wondered what would become of the business man who attempted to run his business as not a few churches go about the Master's business. If religion is the hope of the world, it is too serious a business to be operated at less than maximum efficiency.

So Christians, wake up, go forward, for the time of big things is at hand. The whole world is groping for a solution of their problems. They are seeking a peace such as man can scarcely make. Let it not be said that the church missed a single opportunity to minister to those within its reach. Let us not forget that the world is stumbling not over details of the Christian religion but over the fundamental principles of the same. We have abundant reasons to be encouraged in that we have in such sweeping reforms as national prohibition, the League of Nations, and organized relief for the world's needy, unmistakable evidence of an admission by the world's leaders that the tenets of the Christian religion do constitute the hope of the world.

800 Locust Grove, Charlottesville, Va.

Have Ye Received the Holy Ghost Since Ye Believed?

BECKER BICENTENNIAL ECHOES

(Continued from First Page)

sketched the later establishment and development of our church periodicals as we have them at the present time.

Tuesday, June 10

The high tide of spiritual interest engendered by the inspiration of the preceding days, reaching its climax in the great missionary meeting of Monday afternoon naturally suffers a little declension in the tedious processes of transacting business. How would it be this year? was a question in many minds. Would the business sessions act as a wet blanket on the fires which had been kindled? Oh, if you could only have been there to see. Only a time or two were the fires dampened just a little, and the way the situation recovered and even deepened in the final session beyond anything that had gone before—but that is getting ahead of our story. Just wait.

We didn't know whether it was premeditated, accidental, or providential, that the same hymn was used to begin the business with that had marked the opening of the Conference, but "All Hail" is good to sing at any time. And its dominant note, "Crown Him Lord of All" seemed to dominate the thought of the delegates right through to the end. Bro. L. H. Dickey, of Ohio, led the opening prayer.

The Retiring Moderator, Bro. I. W. Taylor, who was temporarily in charge, after referring briefly to the activities of the five preceding days and to the natural concern of all for the corresponding success of the meeting further, announced the new organization and turned the meeting over to the new officers: Moderator, H. C. Early; Reading Clerk, Otho Winger; Writing Clerk, Jas. M. Moore.

Moderator Early signalized the assumption of his new duties by a short address on general world and church conditions, and the bearing which these ought to have on the Conference. He referred to the critical world situation when we met at Hershey a year ago and the developments since then, to the present unprecedented distress in the East, and to the remarkable response of the Brethren to the appeals made. He also expressed the concern we all feel for the outcome of the Peace Conference at Versailles, and voiced our approval of President Wilson's high ideals and efforts in this matter.

He also alluded to the changed conditions in the church world, reminding us that what Ameriea had done in the war had challenged the churches to a revival of effort in behalf of world evangelization and the Christianizing of world ideals and policies, as well as to a new degree of coöperation toward these ends. How will this marked tendency to federation and union affect the future of our church, he asked. He believes in her success, but that this will come only by hard battle. He concluded with the thought that we ought at least to take to heart with new seriousness the importance of union within our own ranks and to regard the day of schism for the Church of the Brethren as a thing of the past. It was an excellent "keynote" speech.

While the customary reading of Acts 15 was in progress, we confess to have been busier watching the faces of the delegates than listening to the reading. We wanted to see how much they were impressed by it. A few appeared actually interested. A larger number gave respectful attention. Some were plainly wishing the chapter wasn't more than half as long, while a half-dozen or so utilized the opportunity to get some much-needed slumber. We say much-needed, for any man who can sleep when Bro. Winger reads or talks surely needs it.

We are not so much disposed to blame the delegates as to raise the question whether this may be a custom with more formality than profit in it. Personally we should like to see an experiment tried. We should like to see some other portion of Scripture suddenly sprung on the delegates and note the effect. We are curious to know just how many seconds it would be by the watch before some one would rise to a point of order. Acts 15 is a splendid lesson, but since all Scripture is profitable for instruction why not try something else for a change? There are other Scriptures appropriate, even for a Conference.

After the reading and explanation of the rules, committee appointments were announced and confirmed as follows: On Credentials: D. C. Naff, G. W. Ellenberger, M. C. Swigart, Frank Kreider, J. Harman Stover; on Resolutions: J. W. Lear, C. C. Ellis, J. A. Dove; on Letters of Greeting: G. N. Falkenstein, T. T. Myers.

Vacancies on Church Boards and Committees were filled as follows: General Mission Board, A. P. Blough reappointed; General Sunday-school Board, J. W. Cline appointed to succeed S. S. Blough, whose time had expired; General Educational Board, D. M. Garver reappointed. Auditing Committee, J. J. Oller to succeed L. R. Peifer; Temperance Committee, J. Carson Miller reappointed; Peace Committee, W. J. Swigart reappointed; Dress Reform Committee, E. M. Studebaker and Lydia E. Taylor reappointed; Homeless Children Committee: P. S. Thomas, reappointed; Railway Transportation Agent: P. S. Miller, reappointed; Annual Meeting Treasurer, J. B. Deeter, reappointed; Tract Examining Committee: Jas. M. Moore, reappointed; Central Service Committee: W. J. Swigart, I. W. Taylor, J. M. Henry, and C. D. Bonsack, advisory member, reappointed; Relief and Reconstruction Committee: J. E. Miller, reappointed. H. Spenser Minnich and J. H. B. Williams appointed to succeed Galen B. Royer and C. W. Lahman.

Next in order was the reading and adoption of the reports of the various Boards and Committees. In most cases where these reports had been printed in the booklet, only those parts containing recommendations, financial totals, and auditors' statements were read. The report of the Central Service Committee included a recommendation that a petition be sent to the President and Secretary of War, asking for the release of those of our brethren who have suffered imprisonment for conscience' sake. The Tract Examining Committee recommended a review of our entire list of tracts. The recommendation was approved. A final recommendation was adopted to the effect that the delegates, on returning home, urge their churches to study these reports.

The foregoing matters occupied the morning session until 10:15 o'clock. The remainder of the time was given to the first two items on the docket of unfinished business. These were the reports of the committees on "Saving Our Children to the Church" and on "Revision of Annual Meeting Minutes."

The report of the first committee elicited much interest. Not that there was any difference of opinion as to its disposition, for it was recognized by all as a most excellent report. The interest was due to the importance of the subject. The report, which was printed in the Messenger some time ago, and will appear in the Minutes and Full Report of the Conference, deserves the most careful study. It was approved and the committee continued, Bro. S. S. Blough taking the place of Bro. Virgil C. Finnell, resigned. The other member is Bro. W. S. Long.

The committee on Revision of Annual Meeting Minutes has not yet completed its work. It reported progress. The report was accepted and the committee continued.

At eleven o'clock adjournment was taken until one P. M., after closing devotions led by Bro. W. J. Swigart.

At the beginning of the afternoon session the Moderator announced the appointment of the following assistant officers: Timekeeper, P. S. Thomas; Tellers, Jacob Funk and Jesse B. Emmert. The opening prayer was offered by Bro. L. W. Teeter.

The first business was the report of the committee on the Investigation of the Brethren Publishing House. Because the Moderator is one of the directors of the House, he appointed Bro. D. M. Garver to preside while this matter was under consideration. This he did to the satisfaction of all concerned.

After some preliminary discussion it was decided to consider the report in two parts, the first part consisting of the main body of the report, and the second, of the last section containing the recommendation looking toward a Publication Board.

There was not much discussion of the first part. Everybody seemed pleased with it, especially that the financial status of the House had been found so sound and prosperous. By request, the General Manager, Bro. R. E. Arnold, made a statement on the progress made toward nullifying the partial unionizing of the House, which was received with apparent satisfaction by all. The first part of the report was promptly adopted.

The last section called out considerable discussion. A number of earnest speeches were made, and when the matter finally came to vote, the recommendation of the Committee that "the brotherhood look toward putting our publishing interests into the hands of a Publication Board" was adopted. At a later stage of the meeting a committee was appointed "to work out a plan whereby this can be done and report to the 1920 Conference." The committee consists of Galen B. Royer, Frank Fisher, J. W. Lear.

The remainder of the afternoon session was occupied with the consideration of the reports of the committees on Revision of Credential Blanks and Dividing and Organizing Churches. Both reports were favorably received, yet it was felt by the majority of the delegates that some changes might be made to advantage, and both reports were recommitted to their respective committees for further consideration and report next year.

Adjournment for the day was taken at four o'clock, after closing devotions led by Bro. J. Harman Stover.

An interesting meeting was held in the Auditorium in the evening which had for its general theme: What Our Boys Have Taught Us. It was in charge of Bro. Chas. D. Bonsack, advisory member of the Central Service Committee. The principal features of the meeting were addresses by two brethren, M. C. Swigart, of Germantown, Pa., and R. N. Leatherman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, both of whom had had extended experience in camp visiting. Bro. Swigart had visited eighteen different camps in the work and traveled 12,000 miles.

This sort of a meeting was something out of the ordinary at an Annual Conference and the speakers had no difficulty in holding the attention of their hearers. From the many lessons which their experience had impressed upon them, we glean the following:

(1) The importance of firm convictions of right. It was noted too, that the boy of estabished convictions, whatever the course he chose, as a rule, fared best. It was the boy who "wabbled" that had the most trouble.

(2) The possibility of conscientious objectors rendering valuable service and showing courage and bravery excelled by none.

(3) The beauty and value of enduring hardships without murmuring.

(4) The extent of illiteracy in some sections, and the value of education and culture.

(5) The value of experience in determining the best method of standing for a principle.

(6) The fact that the Church of the Brethren has a splendid lot of loyal young men ready and anxious to serve and sacrifice in her behalf.

(7) The necessity and possibility of doing cheerfully disagreeable work in the interests of "the cause."

(8) The meaning of sacrifice.

(9) The importance of constructive work in contrast with mere negation and opposition.

(10) The importance of giving the boys the right kind of reception in our churches as they return. "If they come back to an iceberg of a church, you'll lose them, for they have red blood in their veins."

At the conclusion of this service Bro. Williams announced the total amount of the Conference Missionary offering: $131,372.29. It was interesting to watch ecause the Moderator is one of the directors of the louse, he appointed Bro. D. M. Garver to preside hile this matter was under consideration. This he d to the satisfaction of all concerned.

After some preliminary discussion it was decided to onsider the report in two parts, the first part consist- g of the main body of the report, and the second, of ie last section containing the recommendation looking oward a Publication Board.

There was not much discussion of the first part. verybody seemed pleased with it, especially that the nancial status of the House had been found so sound nd prosperous. By request, the General Manager, ro. R. E. Arnold, made a statement on the progress ade toward nullifying the partial unionizing of the louse, which was received with apparent satisfaction y all. The first part of the report was promptly dopted.

The last section called out considerable discussion. number of earnest speeches were made, and when ie matter finally came to vote, the recommendation f the Committee that "the brotherhood look toward utting our publishing interests into the hands of a ublication Board" was adopted. At a later stage of ie meeting a committee was appointed "to work out plan whereby this can be done and report to the 1920 onference." The committee consists of Galen B. oyer, Frank Fisher, J. W. Lear.

The remainder of the afternoon session was occu- ied with the consideration of the reports of the com- ittees on Revision of Credential Blanks and Dividing nd Organizing Churches. Both reports were favor- bly received, yet it was felt by the majority of the elegates that some changes might be made to ad- antage, and both reports were recommitted to their espective committees for further consideration and eport next year.

Adjournment for the day was taken at four o'clock, fter closing devotions led by Bro. J. Harman Stover.

An interesting meeting was held in the Auditorium n the evening which had for its general theme: What Our Boys Have Taught Us. It was in charge of Bro. Chas. D. Bonsack, advisory member of the Central Service Committee. The principal features of the meeting were addresses by two brethren, M. C. Swigart, of Germantown, Pa., and R. N. Leatherman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, both of whom had had extended experience in camp visiting. Bro. Swigart had visited eighteen different camps in the work and traveled 12,000 miles.

This sort of a meeting was something out of the ordinary at an Annual Conference and the speakers had no difficulty in holding the attention of their hear- ers. From the many lessons which their experience had impressed upon them, we glean the following:

(1) The importance of firm convictions of right. It was noted too, that the boy of estabished convictions, whatever the course he chose, as a rule, fared best. It was the boy who "wabbled" that had the most trouble.

(2) The possibility of conscientious objectors render- ing valuable service and showing courage and bravery excelled by none.

(3) The beauty and value of enduring hardships with- out murmuring.

(4) The extent of illiteracy in some sections, and the value of education and culture.

(5) The value of experience in determining the best method of standing for a principle.

(6) The fact that the Church of the Brethren has a splendid lot of loyal young men ready and anxious to serve and sacrifice in her behalf.

(7) The necessity and possibility of doing cheerfully disagreeable work in the interests of "the cause."

(8) The meaning of sacrifice.

(9) The importance of constructive work in contrast the effect on the audience. Were the people glad? Why shouldn't they be? Wasn't it a great offering? Wasn't it nearly double that of last year? Certainly. It really was wonderful, when you think of it. But,— But—— And you could see that "but" on nearly every face. But you just wait, gentle reader. There's something more to be said about this before we are through.

Wednesday, June 11

"We praise thee, O God" resounded through main floor and balcony as the people kept coming in. Bro. John Heckman led the opening prayer.

Before resuming the regular business schedule, the Secretary of the Mission Board reported on the Mis- sionary Offering, the amount of which had been al- ready announced the evening before. He referred to the fact that throughout the war it had been the in- variable practice in the various money-raising cam- paigns to put the drive "over the top," and wondered if we could feel satisfied to permit our drive to fall short of the goal. He invited the delegates to think about it, and said that if the Moderator was in favor- able mood, the question might be raised in the after- noon session.

The audience then joined in the "Doxology" in view of what had already been accomplished and in view, we think, of what it was hoping might yet be accomplished.

The names of the new missionaries were then pre- sented for confirmation, thirty-two of them in all. But formal confirmation was not enough to satisfy that audience. They just had to sing the Doxology again. But could you blame them? Aren't you sing- ing it in your heart now? Here is a drive that did go over the top, not once but twice, for thirty-two is more than twice fifteen, the annual goal of the Mission Board for the Forward Movement. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The names of the new missionaries with their re- spective fields are as follows:

For Denmark

Glasmire, Will E.
Glasmire, Mrs. W. E.

For China

Myers, M. M.
Myers, Mrs. M. M.
Stump, L. A.
Stump, Mrs. L. A.
Sollenberger, O. C.
Sollenberger, Mrs. O. C.
Horning, D. L.
Horning, Mrs. D. L.
Ullom, Lulu
Miller, Valley V.

For India

Forney, D. L.
Forney, Mrs. D. L.
Shull, C. G.
Shull, Mrs. C. G.
Miller, A. S. B.
Miller, Mrs. A. S. B.
Blickenstaff, Leo
Price, Elsie
Hollenberg, Fred M.
Hollenberg, Mrs. F. M.
Wagoner, J. E.
Wagoner, Mrs. J. E.
Butterbaugh, A. G.
Butterbaugh, Mrs. A. G.
Summer, B. F.
Brown, Nettie
Brumbaugh, Anna B.
Kintner, Elizabeth
Replogle, Sara G.
Blickenstaff, Verna

A report from the Sisters' Aid Society was pre- sented at this time. This organization was officially recognized by the Conference two years ago, and it seemed entirely proper to have a report of its activi- ties. This was read in summary only but should be carefully studied along with the other reports in the Conference Minutes or Full Report. The officers are chosen by the organization itself, but confirmation by the Conference was desired, which was readily given. The officers are: President, Mrs. M. C. Swigart, of Philadelphia; Vice-President, Mrs. Naomi Shaw, Des Moines, Iowa; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Eva Lichty Whisler, Milledgeville, Ill.

On the regular schedule there remained under "Un- finished Business" the report of the committee on "Installation Formulas, etc." This was now taken

The first item of "New Business," that is, of the kind usually embraced under the general head of "Queries," was the request of the General Mission Board for the appointment of a Music Committee by the Conference rather than by the Board. The peti- tion was granted and Sister Cora M. Stahly and Brethren B. F. Wampler and J. B. Miller were named as the committee.

The Conference was then ready for the business from State Districts. The first to be presented was the paper from Southern California and Arizona asking for the creation of a General Christian Workers' Board. The petition was granted without discussion and a Board appointed consisting of Sister Eva Lichty Whisler, of Illinois, Bro. I. V. Funderburg, of Cali- fornia, and Bro. A. B. Miller, of Maryland.

The petition from India, asking for permission to make a separate District of the Marathi-speaking churches was granted. The second paper from India relative to the voting power of the native Christian ministers at District Conference, was referred for further study to a committee consisting of Brethren J. B. Emmert, J. H. B. Williams and Fred J. Wampler.

Middle Indiana presented a query concerning the practice of law by members of the Church of the Brethren, which was referred to a committee for further investigation and report next year. Brethren A. C. Wieand, J. J. John and A. P. Blough constitut this committee.

Similar disposition was made of the paper from Northern Indiana asking for a "plan by which the church can control and direct the work of our evange- ists." The committee on this subject consists of Brethren Jas. M. Moore, A. C. Wieand and Fran Fisher.

The paper from Southeastern Kansas relative to placing Sunday-school workers in the field of the weaker districts was returned on the ground that the point was covered by other provisions, in particular the new plan for District grouping and field worke now being projected by the General Sunday Scho Board.

The District of Southwestern Kansas and Sout eastern Colorado offered two papers, one recommend ing "that the pastoral year for the churches of the Brotherhood begin Sept. 1" and the other that churches be permitted to elect deacons and minister by ballot "provided that the ballots are prepared private and counted in private by brethren in cha of the election only." Both requests were granted.

The paper from Southwestern Missouri and Nor western Arkansas pertaining to a number of alle evils and irregularities, and asking for the appoi ment of a "Committee on Loyalty" to deal with th matters called out considerable discussion, yet not m than was expected. The Standing Committee recommended that the paper be returned and answer seemed on the point of being adopted whe motion was offered to refer the paper to a commi for further consideration and report. This mo secured the support of a majority of the delegates. committee, appointed later, consists of the follow brethren: P. S. Miller, I. W. Taylor, D. W. Ku G. A. Shamberger, John Heckman.

Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado asked the next Conference be located in the Middle W zone. The request was granted. This means that Conference of 1920 will be held somewhere betw the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains.

Northwestern Ohio presented a paper relative to ravages of vice, using this term in its technical se

THE ROUND TABLE

Choosing the Disagreeable

BY G. W. TUTTLE

"'Tis a goodly, pleasant land that we mortals journey through,
And our Father's constant blessings fall around us like the dew."

STRANGE how we forget the "goodly, pleasant land," and wear out our shoes, searching for the deserts! Strange how we forget the dew-laden blessings, and allow our thoughts to dwell upon some trifling, insignificant, disagreeable, happening that should have been banished to oblivion!

What a load of unpleasant things a man can gather up if he simply will ignore the things worth while and gather up rubbish! He becomes a great guidepost upon which men read: "This way to the 'Wilderness of Discontent.'" Too many of us are given to emphasizing our discords, preferring briers to roses, keen eyes for faults of our fellow-men, running the failings of our friends through that mischievous talk-mill of ours, when it should be manufacturing honey instead of vinegar!

People who deliberately choose the disagreeable, become very uncomfortable to live with. A man who makes a business of gathering thorns is sure to have a thorn sticking out somewhere. The man who dwells only on the unpleasant, seamy side of life, is sure to become sour and unpleasant. You can not draw honey out of a vinegar barrel.

The normal man needs more sunshine than clouds. We need to dwell much upon the pure and sweet and beautiful. It is only as we dwell upon the virtues of other lives,—the beautiful thoughts, the kindly words, and the helpful deeds,—that they soak in, or filter in, to our own lives. Only the man whom God keeps sweet will not be defiled by the disagreeable things with which he comes in contact. It is what we absorb,—not what brushes against us in life's pathway,—that makes character.

Look! The sun is rising in the east! Its golden beams already fall across your pathway! Here is that old miracle which is ever new,—the glory of a new morning. And there will be gold for you to gather up today, if you care for gold, and there will be only dross, if you see only dross.

Pasadena, Calif.

An Unfailing Peace

BY IDA M. HELM

"Watchman, what of the night" (Isaiah 21-11)?

THIS question was asked of Isaiah, a prophet in Jerusalem, 750 years before Christ was born. At that time wars raged and terror and desolation stalked naked and ghastly everywhere.

The prophet's reply to the anxious Idumeans was: "The morning [prosperity] cometh, but the night [adversity] follows closely." Before the awful world war began, in 1914, men were proclaiming: "The morning is come." They pointed to the Hague Conference and to the disarmament of the great lakes. They said: "The unvarying foreign policy of other powers has always been to avoid hostilities with the United States and there will be no war."

The country was flooded with peace literature and peace workers, leagues and federations. Sociologists, and reformers of different kinds, were busy everywhere, promulgating peace principles, when suddenly the war broke out in all its fury, like a clap of thunder out of a comparatively clear sky. Men's hearts melted with fear and many said: "Christianity failed." But did you notice that not one person attempted to prove that any of the nations at war were ruled by men who were ruled by the Spirit of the Prince of Peace when the war broke out, or before?

Is any one so foolish as to believe that, if the rulers of Europe had been guided by the Holy Spirit, human life would have been counted so cheap, and that Europe's hands would now be red with human blood? Some Christian professors did fail, but true Christianity did not fail. Men, whose faith in God was strong, knew that it was not the religion of Christ that failed. It was men who have only a scientific or philosophical interest in the Christian religion who said it had failed.

True, we had a sort of peace before the war broke out, but it was not a peace built on the eternal principles of Christ Jesus. It was a peace devised by frail humanity,—shall we say the "Superman"? It was a social salvation, developed by man, and looking to man for elevating influence.

The help that we once expected from invisible and incorporeal agencies (from God and Christ and the Bible and angels and invisible spiritual influences), we are now demanding from man. Society is to save the man. Where the Christian world signally failed was in not mobilizing its forces years before the war broke out, and working as hard and zealously to teach the Gospel of Jesus Christ to every creature, as they worked to win the war. If they had, the awful war might not have been. A peace resting on Christ can not fail.

Ashland, Ohio.

Proper Feeding

BY REBECCA C. FOUTZ

"Man doth not live by bread only" (Deut. 8: 3; Matt. 4: 4).

EVEN at this early time, God saw the necessity of teaching man this important lesson. And there has never been a time since, when it was not necessary to stress the importance of remembering that we have more than the body for which to provide nourishment.

We sweat and toil constantly to get the bread with which to feed our physical being, for to see or to have a starved body can not be endured. But all too often we starve mind and soul and it gives us little concern. This is largely because such tendencies are not as tangible as starvation of the body, hence their lack of nourishment is not so easily discerned.

But if they were as visible or as easily seen as the houses of flesh in which they have their abode, I fear there would be many dreadful-looking skeletons going around. For as long as the outside looks plump and well fed, we are too much inclined to feel that all is well, or that we have done our duty by any who may be in our care.

A starved or poorly-fed mind is fairly easy to recognize. It does not feed on the bigger, finer things of life, but is usually tethered to the post of trivial happenings, gossip or the round of affairs of just one's self or household. It doesn't grow and expand by taking in outside and broadening interests. With it, as with the body, variety in food is necessary. Too much of one kind will destroy the balance necessary to keep it in a healthy condition.

But of all these the soul is most likely to be stinted in its feeding. It is so easy to neglect it. Because we can silence its calls for nourishment and our fellow-man can not so easily discern when it is lean, we let it go hungry, even unto a starved condition. If only we could be as energetic in providing it with food as we are for the house it lives in!

And so, to do our best and to be the properly and all-around developed, well-balanced persons that the Lord meant us to be, mind and soul must be as carefully and regularly fed as is the body, and to accomplish this the instructions as to their chief diet must be followed. "But by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live."

Waynesboro, Pa.

Loyalty Christians

BY GALEN B. ROYER

THESE are times when loyalty is a word on many lips, when towns and cities turn out en masse to do honor to every returning soldier, especially those bearing the marks of the dreadful conflict. The large parades are not only to do honor to the boys in khaki, but much more to proclaim, far and wide, our loyalty to the best government in the world. Well may the American people thus express themselves, for one needs but travel in other lands to appreciate the goodness of God to usward. This land is the home of freedom, democracy and unparalleled prosperity. Well it was for her people to lay down all national differences while they stood as one man, loyally supporting her Chief Executive in his most difficult task of rendering aid to the down-trodden and outraged across the seas! America's loyalty to her President, from this view-point, has been most commendable.

There is, however, a still greater Leader (Psa. 47: 7) to whom we owe loyalty and allegiance in a still greater degree,—even homage,—not only in the sense of a free-born people, but in the deeper, richer meaning of "bond-servants" (Paul's term for himself as a servant of the Lord Jesus Christ). Are we, as Christians, as loyal to our God as the people of this land have been to their President? If we have not been, then we are less true to the One who is the Greater. For "the Lord, he is God." "He is Lord of lords and King of kings" and in every sense he is the rightful Sovereign over all. Allegiance and loyalty are but reasonable demands upon every one. He who made us has a right to rule over us (Isa. 43: 21), to direct all our footsteps.

Let me illustrate the foregoing. Go with me into some famous picture gallery and let us examine some of its wonderful oil-paintings. Here is one of a country-side,—laughing brook, beautiful meadow, homey home, children at play, animal life in splendid setting, and a sky with just enough beautiful clouds to strengthen and beautify all the rest of the picture. We admire the painting, speak of its "true to nature" qualities, and exclaim: "How near it approximates the real!" Could we, for one moment, be able to think that all those colors came upon that canvas just by chance,—that no master mind conceived the setting, that no artist hand placed the colors there as they are?

Who, then, can sanely look out upon this radiant earth in springtime, green and living; in harvest time, golden; in autumn, russet and brown? Who can behold a sunset in blue and red and crimson and orange,—in all a picture far beyond the skill of man, and then not believe that behind all this is the Great Artist of not only this world but of other worlds without number,—One who made them all, who painted the sunset, gave to the flower its exquisite form, delicate texture and delightful fragrance, all its grace and beauty? Even nature proclaims a Creator who made us, the King of all the earth.

Our national leaders receive their positions from the people. In kingdoms the king sometimes falls heir to the throne, but more often acquires it through long and bloody conquest. Our Beloved Prince, Christ the Lord, won his throne through the greatest battle the world shall ever witness. Satan, the fallen one, cast out of heaven, came down to earth, deceived the first Adam, and thereby stole the hearts of men. This archenemy has slandered God by leading men to believe that our Father does not love them. Satan tried repeatedly to overcome the second Adam, Christ. On top of Calvary's hill he pitched all his forces against the Prince of Peace. No battle has ever been so terrible (Isa. 53: 3-5). No victory has been more signal and glorious. There the Son, the Only Begotten, showed in unmistakable terms how much God the Father loved men and women, even when in the bondage of their sin. There, through his atonement and "propitiation for our sin" (1 John 2: 2) he made the way back to God so simple, so clear and so easy that "whosoever believeth on him . . . shall have everlasting life." This King of Love,—so mysteriously enthroned on the cruel cross and able to save for Paradise the only one who recognized his kingship on that day (Luke 23: 42),—is the King of all the earth. What better thing can men do than to acknowledge Christ as their Lord!

But this acknowledgment must be more than lip service. Loyalty is a serious matter. In the days of Israel, when David, the rightful ruler, the anointed one, the one after God's own heart, was a fugitive, with headquarters in the cave of Adullam, those who cast their lot with him, did so at great cost and peril. In the great war, which closed some months ago, likewise was manifested the same spirit. Men of means ss of God to usward. This land is the home of edom, democracy and unparalleled prosperity. ll it was for her people to lay down all national ferences while they stood as one man, loyally supting her Chief Executive in his most difficult task rendering aid to the down-trodden and outraged oss the seas! America's loyalty to her President, n this view-point, has been most commendable.

There is, however, a still greater Leader (Psa. 7) to whom we owe loyalty and allegiance in a greater degree,—even homage,—not only in the se of a free-born people, but in the deeper, richer aning of "bond-servants" (Paul's term for him- as a servant of the Lord Jesus Christ). Are we, Christians, as loyal to our God as the people of this l have been to their President? If we have not , then we are less true to the One who is the ater. For "the Lord, he is God." "He is Lord ords and King of kings" and in every sense he is ightful Sovereign over all. Allegiance and loyalty but reasonable demands upon every one. He who e us has a right to rule over us (Isa. 43: 21), to ct all our footsteps.

et me illustrate the foregoing. Go with me into e famous picture gallery and let us examine some ts wonderful oil-paintings. Here is one of a try-side,—laughing brook, beautiful meadow, ey home, children at play, animal life in splendid ng, and a sky with just enough beautiful clouds to gthen and beautify all the rest of the picture. dmire the painting, speak of its "true to nature" ties, and exclaim: "How near it approximates real!" Could we, for one moment, be able to that all those colors came upon that canvas just aance,—that no master mind conceived the setting, no artist hand placed the colors there as they are? ho, then, can sanely look out upon this radiant in springtime, green and living; in harvest time, n; in autumn, russet and brown? Who can be- a sunset in blue and red and crimson and ge,—in all a picture far beyond the skill of man, hen not believe that behind all this is the Great t of not only this world but of other worlds ut number,—One who made them all, who ed the sunset, gave to the flower its exquisite delicate texture and delightful fragrance, all its and beauty? Even nature proclaims a Creator made us, the King of all the earth.

r national leaders receive their positions from the e. In kingdoms the king sometimes falls heir to rone, but more often acquires it through long and y conquest. Our Beloved Prince, Christ the won his throne through the greatest battle the shall ever witness. Satan, the fallen one, cast f heaven, came down to earth, deceived the first , and thereby stole the hearts of men. This nemy has slandered God by leading men to be- that our Father does not love them. Satan tried edly to overcome the second Adam, Christ. On f Calvary's hill he pitched all his forces against Prince of Peace. No battle has ever been so le (Isa. 53: 3-5). No victory has been more and glorious. There the Son, the Only Be- , showed in unmistakable terms how much God ather loved men and women, even when in the ge of their sin. There, through his atonement propitiation for our sin" (1 John 2: 2) he made ay back to God so simple, so clear and so hat "whosoever believeth on him . . . shall everlasting life." This King of Love,—so mys- sly enthroned on the cruel cross and able to for Paradise the only one who recognized his ip on that day (Luke 23: 42),—is the King of earth. What better thing can men do than to wledge Christ as their Lord!

gave liberally. Men of large salary wholly unselfishly served for the pittance of the soldier. This is greatly to be admired. But should the world do less for Christ? Surely, when we think how our Prince was rejected by his own, crucified by those who should have believed on him, we can not think of being loyal and rendering less than a whole-hearted service.

Some well-meaning leaders are concerned about the members being loyal to the church. It takes but little reflection to see how much better it would be if these same bishops would urge, by example and precept, loyalty to the Christ. This would work for unity and bring to pass Christ's prayer: "That they may be one" (John 17: 21).

To be a loyal Christian means to have an undivided heart towards our King. God is a jealous God (Ex. 20: 5). He will in no sense tolerate any usurpers to his place in our hearts. If others occupy our Jehovah, God goes.

Best of all, however, is this: When we are really loyal Christians we are satisfied in him. With the "Right One" on the throne, the subjects are sure to be happy, contented and satisfied. They enjoy "green pastures." They know what it is to rest beside "still waters." No one but Jesus gives this complete satisfaction.

As long as we try to get along with any one else, there are disturbances, "fightings within,"—no peace. But when Jesus is securely seated, love rules and of the "increase of his government" and peace,—perfect, deep, soul-satisfying peace,—there will be no end (Isa. 9: 7).

The promise is plain and precious: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness" (i. e., through loyalty to God) and "all these things,"—not only food and raiment, which so much concerns so many,—but fullness of joy, rest and satisfaction (Psa. 103: 5) "shall be added unto you." Be loyal to God's interests and he will be loyal to yours. Seek God first and all things are yours through Jesus Christ, whose we are and whom we serve.

Huntingdon, Pa.

The Necessary Man of the Day

BY EZRA FLORY

"How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace, that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation, that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth" (Isa. 52: 7)!

THE complaint is universal today that there is a scarcity of first-class ministers and that our brightest young men do not enter the ministry. This is true. As a rule it has always been true. It was true in the day of Christ, in the day of Savonarola, in the day of Wesley. Almost the only exception was in Scotland and New England during the earlier part of the previous century. At that time almost all the homes were under the spell of a deep religious mood and ministers stood first in deep piety and esteem. Whenever idealism is strong, the ministry is strong also. Whenever and wherever materialism is in precedence, the ministry lacks great leadership. Materialism and greed are two archenemies of the ministry.

Isaiah lived in a time when materialism and greed had seized the people. Hear the prophet speak of the land being full of silver and gold. The Lord called: "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" Like our own time, the people were busy. In the maddened rush of life there were not enough hours to buy and sell. Yet in our rush men set aside one day in seven and call it "holy." On this day they do not work, nor their servant, nor their ox, nor their horse. The office is closed and the church is opened. They call it the house of God, and in it people gather to pray.

Some people laugh and call it superstition, and prefor all are pushed forward by instincts of the soul. As long as men and women march across this storm-scarred earth they will feel the need of God and will lift up holy hands in prayer. And so long will they count dear and call a friend and counselor "the man sent from God."

Note the scripture of Isa. 52: 7 again, to see the dignity of his office and the deep experience out of which this messenger speaks. God's mouthpiece is not a lineal successor of the Greek orator, inspiring the masses only. He is rather a successor of the Hebrew prophet, with a genuine experience,—a heart as well as a head. In deep assurance he is optimistic about the welfare of Zion, the chief center of religious devotion.

With such men the Lord still longs to reveal himself, that they may adorn the office and function of the ministry. Such are "allowed of God to be put in trust with the Gospel."

Chicago, Ill.

The Home-Coming

BY ELIZABETH McDANNEL MARTIN

"Joyful songs of salvation through the sky shall ring,
When the saints are marching in."

THESE words came to our minds very forcefully, just a few days ago, when the church bells rang and whistles blew for half an hour, welcoming the return of the boys, just as their train pulled in. Scores and scores of people also were waiting to give them "a rousing welcome," as the paper of the evening before their arrival had stated it was everybody's duty to give them, in honor of their bravery.

As we stopped to meditate, for a moment, on the home-coming of the boys, we felt to rejoice greatly that so many were permitted to return safely. Although, personally, we knew none of them, yet we thought we could at least faintly imagine the intense anxiety and joy in many a mother's heart, to welcome her returning boy. What a wonderful reunion there must have been in many a home that night! The we thought of a much greater reunion than even the one referred to,—one of which mortal man, in his weakness, can not fully conceive. Ah, yes, and more perfect in every way. Even though there was great rejoicing when the boys came back, yet many cloud of sorrow hung over the scene. Many a boy returned just a little too late to meet father, or perhaps mother, as the case may have been. Many parents were made sad to know that their boy will never again return. Numbers of others have returned, but have been crippled for life. Still others tell us that a very close and dear friend to them was shot down right by the side. So, amidst great rejoicing, there are many clouds of sorrow and gloom.

In the great reunion beyond, scenes will be entirely different. There will be great rejoicing, but we know that there will be nothing to mar our happiness in the least. All sorrow and gloom will be o'er, and we will be unspeakably happy, singing the Song of Moses and the Lamb.

Again, we wondered if there might have been one soldier, among those just returned, who had no one to greet him. If this were the case, how sad and lonely he must have felt! Coming through trials and dangers untold, and reaching home safely, but not a soul to greet him! Our sympathies all go out to him. Brother, sister, does this apply to any of us? If we have not helped souls to stand for Christ, or in some way brought them to a realization of their need of Christ as their Savior, we may have to enter heaven empty-handed, as the thought in the hymn we sing suggests:

"Must I go and empty-handed,
Must I meet my Savior so,
Not one soul with which to greet him,
Must I empty-handed go?"

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 22

Sunday-school Lesson, Love.—I Cor. 13.

Christian Workers' Meeting, "Lovest Thou Me?"—John 21: 15-17.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. O. H. Austin, of McPherson, Kans., in the Iowa River church, Iowa.

Bro. D. R. McFadden, of Smithville, Ohio, in the Ashland (Dickey) church, same State.

Bro. John E. Rowland, of Bunkertown, Pa., in his home congregation, at the Good Will house.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Two were baptized in the Muncie church, Ind.

One was baptized recently in the Victor church, Kans.

Two were recently baptized in the Bremen church, Ind.

Two were baptized recently in the Harmonyville church, Pa.

Two were recently baptized in the Brooklyn church, Iowa.

One was baptized recently in the Iowa River church, Iowa.

Three were baptized and one reclaimed in the Ridge church, Pa.

Two were baptized recently in the Middle Creek church, Pa.

One was baptized recently in the Washington City church, D. C.

One recently confessed Christ in the First Church, South Bend, Ind.

One has been baptized since the last report in the Eagle Creek church, Ohio.

One has been baptized in the Yellow Creek church, Ind., since the last report.

Five have been baptized in the Welsh Run church, Pa., since the last report.

One has been reclaimed in the Indianapolis church, Ind., since the last report.

Two have been recently baptized in the Geiger Memorial church, Philadelphia.

One was baptized in the Spray Mission, N. C., Bro. Zion Mitchel, of Wirtz, Va., evangelist.

Two were restored at Moscow, Va.,—Bro. M. G. Sanger, of Mt. Solon, same State, evangelist.

Three were baptized in the Garrison church, Iowa.—Bro. Heckman, of Chicago, evangelist.

Two were baptized in the Arcadia church, Nebr.—Bro. M. E. Stair, of Alvo, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Bloom church, Kans.,—Bro. J. S. Sherfy, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Seven were baptized in the Ligonier church, Pa., Brethren W. E. Wolford and J. W. Sanner, evangelists.

Three were received into the White Oak church, Pa.,—Bro. Wm. Fretz, of Hatfield, same State, evangelist.

Five confessed Christ in the Larned church, Kans.,—Bro. C. B. Smith, of Morrill, same State, evangelist.

Four were baptized in the Plevna church, Ind.,—Bro. Reuben Shroyer, of North Canton, Ohio, evangelist.

Four were baptized in the Fairfax church, Va.,—Bro. A. S. Thomas, of Bridgewater, same State, evangelist.

Two confessed Christ in the Eel River church, Ind.,—Bro. Ira E. Long, of Andrews, same State, evangelist.

Two were baptized in the Newton City church, Kans.,—Bro. M. S. Frantz, of Wichita, same State, evangelist.

Two were baptized in the Ottawa church, Kans.,—Bro. S. E. Thompson, of Garden City, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the West Manchester church, Ind.,—Bro. Wm. Buckley, of Bradford, Ohio, evangelist.

Two were baptized in the Beech Grove church, Ind.,—Bro. G. W. Hahn, home minister, in charge of the meetings.

Nine were baptized and one reclaimed in the Meyersdale church, Pa.,—Bro. T. R. Coffman, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Four were baptized and one reclaimed in the Thornapple church, Mich.,—Bro. J. Edwin Jarboe, of Chicago, evangelist.

Three were baptized in the Back Creek church, Upton house, Pa.,—Bro. E. J. Egan, home minister, in charge of the meetings.

Four were baptized in the Bethel church, Aptioch congregation, Va.,—Bro. J. A. Naff, of Boone Mill, same State, evangelist.

One was baptized in the Codorus house, Codorus congregation, Pa.,—Bro. John C. Zug, of Palmyra, same State, evangelist.

One has been baptized in the First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., since the last report.

Two were reclaimed at the Marsh Creek house, Marsh Creek congregation, Pa.,—Bro. David L. Little, of Hanover, same State, evangelist.

Five confessed Christ, four of whom have been baptized in the Middlebury church, Ind.,—Bro. Ralph G. Rarick, of Covington, Ohio, evangelist.

Three accepted Christ and three were reclaimed in the Pleasant Valley church (Southern District), Va.,—Bro. C. D. Hylton, of Troutville, same State, evangelist.

Twenty-five were baptized and twelve restored in the Brownsville congregation, at the West Brownsville house, Md.,—Bro. Elmer Rowland, of Hagerstown, Md., evangelist.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin August 10 in Prairie View church, Mo.

Bro. F. E. Miller, of Enders, Nebr., to begin Oct. 13 in the Fairview congregation, Mo.

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin August 24 in the South Warrensburg church, Mo.

Bro. Ralph G. Rarick and wife, of Covington, Ohio, to begin July 10 in the Manassas church, Va.

Bro. O. F. Shaw, of Milledgeville, Ill., to begin about July 10 in the Pleasant Hill church, N. Dak.

Bro. M. S. Frantz, of Wichita, Kans., to begin about the middle of July in the Rocky Ford church, Colo.

Bro. Chas. Walters, of Summum, Ill., to begin the latter part of August in the Libertyville church, Iowa.

Bro. H. C. Early, of Penn Laird, Va., to begin Oct. 12 at the Replogle house, Woodbury congregation, Pa.

Bro. E. L. Ikenberry, of McPherson, Kans., to begin the latter part of August in the Osage church, same State.

Bro. J. H. Brower, of South English, Iowa, to begin sometime in September in the Fairview church, same State.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. Ira H. Fox, of Brooklyn, Iowa, stopped off to visit the Publishing House, as he was on his way home from the Winona Lake Conference.

Bro. C. C. Ellis has accepted the pastorate of the First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., with Bro. Stover Kulp as associate pastor. He is to enter upon his new duties July 1.

Bro. W. W. Blough having accepted the pastorate of the Omaha church, Nebr., changes his address from 1424 Grant Street, Beatrice, to 2615 N. Twenty-second Street, Omaha, Nebr.

Bro. J. P. Dickey, of La Verne, Calif., stopped off at Elgin June 12, homeward bound from the Winona Lake Conference. His call at the "Messenger" rooms, though brief, was greatly enjoyed. He left behind him a ray of cheer that, somehow, banished the monotony of the daily grind.

Bro. Edward Shepfer and wife, of Sugar Creek, Ohio, who came over to Elgin after the Conference, to visit their daughter, Sister H. Spenser Minnich, were among the recent callers at the "Messenger" rooms. Incidentally the Elgin congregation was favored with an excellent sermon by Bro. Shepfer last Sunday evening.

Bro. H. A. Brandt, Book Editor of the Publishing House for nearly two years past, has found it necessary, on account of health conditions, to change his occupation, a fact which we record with the utmost regret. He leaves us this week to join his wife and babe at Covert, Kans., whither Sister Brandt had gone some time ago, to spend a while with her parents, Brother and Sister A. C. Daggett. Later they go to La Verne, Calif., their future field of labor, carrying with them the very best wishes of their friends, a term synonymous with all who knew them. Bro. Brandt's resignation was tendered at the April Board meeting and accepted with extreme reluctance, his work having been so satisfactory to all concerned. His successor has not yet been appointed.

With deep sorrow we learn, through Bro. E. E. Brubaker, of Virden, Ill., of the serious accident which befell Bro. J. W. Lear and wife on their return from Winona Lake. As they were nearing Lafayette, Ind., going down a steep, winding hill, the auto in which they were riding became uncontrollable and plunged down a twenty-foot embankment to the solid rock below, pinning four of the occupants under the car. Brother and Sister Lear suffered the greatest injuries. Bro. Lear's chest was crushed, several ribs broken, and cuts and bruises received about the head. Sister Lear received a large gash in her forehead, a broken nose, a broken wrist and bruises about the face and right knee. They were hurried to the Home Hospital in Lafayette, where they received the best of attention and care. They were reported on Saturday, the 14th, as doing as well as could be expected. Brother Lear and wife had a number of evangelistic engagements for the summer months and were planning to enter Bethany Bible School about Oct. 1. They earnestly request the prayers of the church for their speedy recovery. May it please our Heavenly Father to spare them and quickly restore them to active service!

According to our latest word from Bro. J. E. Miller, the party expects to reach London by June 19 and had asked for passage to New York June 20, but did not know when they would get to sail. Bro. Miller will undoubtedly have many interesting things to tell our readers when he gets home.

MISCELLANEOUS

Greenwood, Del., is only a mission point as yet, but by a recent revival the little flock at that place has been so greatly strengthened that a duly-organized church will be established in the near future,—the first in that State.

Elders, pastors, everybody,—are you keeping Education Day in mind? It's Sunday, June 29. See "Gospel Messenger" for May 24, page 322. And while you are looking at that it may be worth while to freshen up, too, on some of the other pages.

Notice to Churches in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan.—If any church desires the service of a good teacher or leader of singing during the months of July and August, Manchester College can supply you. Write at once.—Otho Winger, North Manchester, Ind.

Bro. Alva Long, Secretary of Mission Board for Idaho and Western Montana, sends us the following itinerary for Sister Eva Trostle while among the churches of Idaho and Western Montana: "Twin Falls, June 22-25; Boise Valley, June 26-29; Nampa, June 20 to July 3; Bowmont, July 4-7; Weiser, July 12-15; Winchester, July 18-20; Nezperee, July 21-23; Clear Water, July 24-27."

Churches of Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado will please note the following announcement, sent us by Bro. S. G. Nickey, Moderator of last District Conference: "We have not yet received any call for the District Meeting of 1919. All churches desiring the meeting will please send in their call before July 15 to S. G. Nickey, 3435 Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill., or W. W. Blough, 2615 N. Twenty-second Street, Omaha, Nebr."

Southern Ohio will have a Midsummer Assembly for three days this year, it taking the place of the usual Ministerial and Sunday-school Convention. A strong program is being planned and it is the purpose to have some of the best talent possible take part. Eld. Otho Winger, of Manchester College, Eld. R. H. Nicodemus, of Chicago, and Sister Cora Stahly, have already been engaged. The first assembly will be held at the Harris Creek church, near Bradford, Ohio, and the dates are Aug. 19, 20 and 21. Programs will appear later.

The Trustees of Blue Ridge College,—so we are informed by Bro. H. G. Englar, Secretary,—in a recent Board Meeting, decided to tear down the old East Hall and in its place erect a new Boys' Dormitory at a probable cost of $40,000, and make other improvements on buildings and grounds to cost around $10,000. A campaign has been arranged to solicit the churches in Maryland, beginning June 15, with a view of rounding up the work by June 29. A force of men are at work now, removing the old building, that work may proceed immediately on the new one.

NOTICE TO DISTRICT MEETING WRITING CLERKS

Our operators are already at work on the "Minutes of Annual Meeting." The Writing Clerk of the last District Meeting in each State District should order at once sufficient copies of the "Minutes of Annual Meeting" to supply each family of the Brethren in his District with a copy. This is the arrangement as directed by Annual Conference. The order should give the names and addresses of the elders or overseers of the churches, the number of copies of Minutes to be sent to each, and the name and address of the District Treasurer to whom the bill is to be charged. The price of the Minutes is 2 cents each in quantities; less than five copies, 5 cents per copy.

INSTITUTE SCHEDULE FOR NORTH DAKOTA AND CANADA

During the first half of a two months' engagement with the District Mission Board of North Dakota, Eastern Montana and Western Canada, the following points are to be visited:

Sykeston, N. Dak., Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, June 23, 24, 25.
Bowden Valley, N. Dak., Thursday, Friday, Saturday, June 26, 27, 28.
Minot, N. Dak., Sunday, Monday, June 29, 30.
Surrey, N. Dak., Tuesday, Wednesday, July 1, 2.
Kenmare, N. Dak., Thursday, Friday, July 3, 4.
Fairview, Sask., Can., Saturday, Sunday, July 5, 6.
Gleichen, Alberta, Can., Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, July 8, 9, 10.

It is planned to conduct a "Community Survey" at each point visited. Each evening will be devoted to a stereopticon lecture on such themes as "The Rural Church," "The Forward Movement" and "Modern Church Equipment." Day sessions (with basket dinner) have been planned for one day of each Institute.

Virgil C. Finnell,
Field Director of Religious Education.

ayers of the church for their speedy recovery. May it ease our Heavenly Father to spare them and quickly store them to active service!

According to our latest word from Bro. J. E. Miller, e party expects to reach London by June 19 and had ked for passage to New York June 20, but did not know ien they would get to sail. Bro. Miller will undoubtedly ve many interesting things to tell our readers when he ts home.

MISCELLANEOUS

Greenwood, Del., is only a mission point as yet, but by recent revival the little flock at that place has been so catly strengthened that a duly-organized church will be tablished in the near future,—the first in that State.

Elders, pastors, everybody,—are you keeping Education y in mind? It's Sunday, June 29. See "Gospel Mesnger" for May 24, page 322. And while you are looking that it may be worth while to freshen up, too, on some the other pages.

Notice to Churches in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan.—If any urch desires the service of a good teacher or leader of ging during the months of July and August, Manchester llege can supply you. Write at once.—Otho Winger, rth Manchester, Ind.

Bro. Alva Long, Secretary of Mission Board for Idaho l Western Montana, sends us the following itinerary Sister Eva Trostle while among the churches of Idaho l Western Montana: "Twin Falls, June 22-25; Boise lley, June 26-29; Nampa, June 20 to July 3; Bowmont, y 4-7; Weiser, July 12-15; Winchester, July 18-20; zperce, July 21-23; Clear Water, July 24-27."

Churches of Nebraska and Northeastern Colorado will ase note the following announcement, sent us by Bro. G. Nickey, Moderator of last District Conference: "We re not yet received any call for the District Meeting of 9. All churches desiring the meeting will please send their call before July 15 to S. G. Nickey, 3435 Van ren Street, Chicago, Ill., or W. W. Blough, 2615 N. enty-second Street, Omaha, Nebr."

Southern Ohio will have a Midsummer Assembly for ce days this year, it taking the place of the usual Minrial and Sunday-school Convention. A strong proam is being planned and it is the purpose to have some the best talent possible take part. Eld. Otho Winger, Manchester College, Eld. R. H. Nicodemus, of Chicago, Sister Cora Stahly, have already been engaged. The t assembly will be held at the Harris Creek church, r Bradford, Ohio, and the dates are Aug. 19, 20 and 21. ograms will appear later.

The Trustees of Blue Ridge College,—so we are inmed by Bro. H. G. Englar, Secretary,—in a recent ard Meeting, decided to tear down the old East Hall l in its place erect a new Boys' Dormitory at a probable t of $40,000, and make other improvements on buildrs and grounds to cost around $10,000. A campaign has n arranged to solicit the churches in Maryland, bening June 15, with a view of rounding up the work by e 29. A force of men are at work now, removing the building, that work may proceed immediately on the y one.

NOTICE TO DISTRICT MEETING WRITING CLERKS

Our operators are already at work on the "Minutes Annual Meeting." The Writing Clerk of the last Dist Meeting in each State District should order at once icient copies of the "Minutes of Annual Meeting" to ply each family of the Brethren in his District with a y. This is the arrangement as directed by Annual iference. The order should give the names and adsses of the elders or overseers of the churches, the nber of copies of Minutes to be sent to each, and the ne and address of the District Treasurer to whom the is to be charged. The price of the Minutes is 2 cents h in quantities; less than five copies, 5 cents per copy.

JSTITUTE SCHEDULE FOR NORTH DAKOTA AND CANADA

During the first half of a two months' engagement with District Mission Board of North Dakota, Eastern ntana and Western Canada, the following points are be visited:

keston, N. Dak., Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, June 23, 24, 25.
owden Valley, N. Dak., Thursday, Friday, Saturday, June 26, 27, 28.
inot, N. Dak., Sunday, Monday, June 29, 30.
rrey, N. Dak., Tuesday, Wednesday, July 1, 2. numare, N. Dak., Thursday, Friday, July 3, 4. irview, Sask., Can., Saturday, Sunday, July 5, 6.

AROUND THE WORLD

Tennessee's Beneficent Law

According to a legal enactment of the State of Tennessee no liquor can be sold within four miles of a schoolhouse. When the measure was passed, the better element of the population soon realized its far-reaching possibilities for good. While large sections of the State were without schools, and largely settled by people unable to read or to write, there was, nevertheless, a growing sentiment against the sale of liquor. By a well-systematized plan a number of schoolhouses were built,—a double blessing accruing by the effort. Illiteracy was practically done away with, and sales of liquor were automatically eliminated,—the four-mile limit effectually barring any further traffic in intoxicants.

Church Influences Reognized

Judge De Wolfe, of the "Morals Court," Pittsburgh, Pa., is fully convinced that there is power in church influences, so far as the reclamation of delinquent boys is concerned. The Y. M. C. A. secretary is on duty at the court all the while, ready to accept responsibility for bad boys whom the judge does not want to send to prison. Then the different churches come to the rescue. Plenty of the men volunteer to be "big brothers" to the boys who have gone wrong. The judge simply turns over the erring boy to the church-man who has agreed to be responsible for him. And,—wonder of wonders,—very seldom is a boy so hardened that he fails to respond to the loving appeals of the "big brother." It is simply love at its best.

Science to the Reseue of Our Forests

As the preservation of our forests is being recognized more and more as a problem of national importance, the best means of avoiding disastrous fires is one of vast significance. Forest fire fighters are located at strategic points, ready for instant service. The latest addition to the forest ranger's station is the windmill. Located on a lofty elevation, its purpose is to drive the dynamo that supplies current for a wireless telephone. The ordinary telephone has long been the chief aid of the lookout in fighting fires in our great national forests. Often, however, when most needed, the wires would be lying useless under a slide of rocks, snow, or a fallen tree. Wireless telephones, therefore, will have the advantage of being available at all times,—thanks to science.

Mohammedan Women Gaining Ground

In no part of the East have the barriers, which have hedged women to narrowest limits, been broken down to a larger extent by the war than in Mohammedan countries. In many instances their lot has been a most deplorable one, beset by many discouragements and the most abject degradation. The missionaries, who have sought to labor among them, have met with little success,—only women workers being allowed to present the Story of the Cross. Latest reports indicate the dawn of a new era. Contact with the outside world during the war period has opened new channels of activity for these Mohammedan women. The old-time seclusion is largely a thing of the past. They are taking their places in the army of the world's workers.

Changing Conditions

Recent reports from the Orient describe a remarkable air flight from Egypt to Palestine. Bible students are familiar with the toilsome journey of the Israelites from the "Land of Bondage" to the "Land of Promise," and how, for forty years, they wandered through the wilderness. Mr. Finley, a noted American educator, recently made a trip over the same territory by air-plane, covering the entire distance in but two hours. Achievements like this call to mind renewedly the wonderful attainments of man's genius, and how readily these discoveries may be adapted to the highest and best interests of the human race. What a pity, however, that some of the greatest discoveries have been prostituted to purposes of injury and destruction, rather than the highest interests of the great world family!

Prohibition Endangered

As stated in a previous item on this page, we may expect strenuous opposition to the war-time prohibition measure, as well as to the federal prohibition amendment. The American Federation of Labor, at its recent convention in Atlantic City, N. J., squarely placed itself on record temperance principles that the battle against King Alcohol is still on, and that the foe openly challenges the Lord's hosts to a combat that will mean a fight to the finish.

London's Society World Discards Jewels

A recent press report from England declares that society leaders of the great metropolis have registered their strong opposition to jewelry of all sorts. Previous to the great war there was a most conspicuous display of the finest and best that the jeweler's art could produce, at every society function. Seemingly, however, there has been a change to higher ideals. Many of the women freely assert that the exigencies of the war have brought home the great lesson that there are higher aims in life than mere personal adornment, and that, in the face of extreme suffering throughout the world, it is downright folly to spend money for the glittering baubles of ostentatious display. It is to be hoped that these earnest women may succeed in their laudable move of dispensing with mere display, being adorned, instead, "with a meek and quiet spirit."

Real Reforms Not Wrought by Violence

Glancing over the pages of the daily press one is really astonished at the many acts of violence,—bomb explosions, dynamite outrages and the like,—by which misguided would-be reformers seek to achieve their ends. These men fail to recognize that the true reformer must raise the social structure from the bottom,—from the lowest stone in the foundation. The problem can not be solved, save by the elevating force of public schools, good books, and intelligent men working for their fellows without hatred and with profound sympathy. Time, education, honesty, sincerity, patience,—nothing else will work a real reform. In that way the light has come in past ages, and in that way it must operate through time to come. Rational thought and submission to duly-constituted authority insures progress. Civilization, like the individual, can climb the stairs only one step at a time.

Creators of Bolshevism

While much is being said, nowadays, about destroying Bolshevism and conditions incident thereto, it should not be forgotten that certain industrial conditions, tacitly allowed to exist, are direct creators of the iniquitous propaganda. Recently a group of men and boys were going to their work in a coal mine. With them,—at the direction of those "higher up,"—they had twelve kegs of blasting powder, though contrary to the law which specifically forbids the carrying of powder on a train with passengers. Wholly unexpected there was a spark from a defective overhead wire, and when the fumes of the blast had passed away, it was found that ninety men were killed, others wounded, blinded and scorched. The owners of that mine and railroad boasted much of their slogan "Safety First," and had it emblazoned upon signboards in their structures, here and there. But when, for the sake of a trifling extra haul, the powder was carried on the same train with the men, financial gain, rather than safety of the men, seems to have been considered. And just that is the spirit that creates Bolshevism in the hearts of the toilers.

A Better Understanding Needed

It was hoped that by the deliberations of the great Peace Conference in Paris a better understanding among nations would gradually be established. And yet, to the sincere regret of every lover of peace and righteousness, the steady drift of things has been the other way. Criminations and recriminations, national suspicions and animosities have been all too much in evidence. The question naturally suggests itself: "Why has the result been so opposite to the much vaunted 'high aims and purposes,' talked about some months ago?" The answer is readily seen. One of the basic conditions of friendship is frankness. If friendship is to thrive, it must be given conditions that nurture it. These, unfortunately, have not always been favorable at the Paris gathering. Apparently there is always some hidden complication to be met and disposed of,—some nationalistic ambition to be gratified at the expense of a weaker country. Because of this tendency, the much-discussed peace pact has not yet been signed, though the final steps to that end were to be taken some months ago. Seemingly each country represented at the peace table,—with the possible exception of the United States,—has in mind some project of special importance to its own realm, and desires to accomplish its ends, though strong opposition is thereby aroused among the representatives of the other nations. Only

HOME AND FAMILY

The Forgiven Sinner

BY JAMES A. SELL

"And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat. And behold a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster box of ointment, and stood at his feet behind him weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with ointment. . . . And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven" (Luke 7: 36-48).

Our Savior had a tender heart,
A strong and open hand.
He healed the sick and raised the dead
Throughout his native land.
The people saw his mighty power
And glorified his name,
They looked to him as heaven-sent
And spread abroad his fame.

A Pharisee invited him
To have a social feast.
They then reclined, and thus conformed
To customs of the East.
And while they lingered at the board
In festive joy and cheer,
The Savior felt a loving touch,
He knew some one was near.

A sinful one, whose heart was touched,
Came to the Savior there.
She bathed his feet with tend'rest tears
And wiped them with her hair.
She felt the weight of sin and guilt
And had no plea to make,
And all she could, she freely gave,
For her Redeemer's sake.

When Jesus saw her bounteous love,
Her sins were all forgiven.
She came to him a sinful soul,
And left an heir of heaven.
The host felt humbled at the thought
That Christ should bless the vile,
And take such to his loving heart
With a consoling smile.

This is the nature of our Lord,
With whom we have to do.
He has a kind and tender heart,
Is always kind and true.
We all are steeped in sin and shame,
And, like this sinful soul,
Should come with penitential tears,
To reach the blessed goal.

While we are guilty, he is good,
And loves us though defiled.
The sinner, who gives all to him,
Is cherished as a child.
Help us, O Lord, with heart sincere,
Humbly to come to thee,
O, wash us in thy cleansing blood,
To make us pure and free.

This woman came with stricken heart
To her blest service there;
She put her soul into her deeds,—
Her only pleading prayer.
She came a sinner to his feet,
And laid her burden down,
And in the ages yet to come,
She'll wear a starry crown.

Hollidaysburg, Pa.

"And a Little Child Shall Lead Them"

BY NINA KATOR

WHENEVER I read the eleventh chapter of Isaiah, I always stop to ponder over the vast amount of wealth, summed up in the last clause of the sixth verse: "And a little child shall lead them." And then my mind bridges the chasm of years and stops at the temple when "A Little Child" is giving the learned doctors the intellectual pace of their lives. No wonder "all who heard marvelled"! I have seen so many instances of child leadership in homes, that I marvel at the prophetic note of Isaiah when he uttered those words. Whenever I am analyzing this verse, I just can't help thinking of Johnny Wright.

Johnny's mother was the most selfish and the most unambitious girl and young woman I ever met. She was mentally and physically lazy. Her greatest pleasure seemed to be making fun of people in a way which would make them suffer. So she always had a fine time making fun of Christians and the church. She was not a deep thinker. "Thinking" was not in her line. Mr. Wright was very ambitious along business lines but in other respects, like his wife. Their lives were bounded on the north by good clothes,—mostly fads; on the south by a beautiful home; on the east by a well-spread table, and on the west by a good time. Such was Johnny's intellectual and spiritual environment. Mrs. Wright did not like children, so, in August, 1907, when Johnny made his tiny debut in that home, it is safe to assume that he was not a very welcome guest.

Johnny was the first grandchild in the family; he had three grandparents, uncles, aunts and great-aunts, who idolized him. I made a mental prophecy that he would surely be spoiled and grow up as selfish as his parents. I am glad to say that thus far my prophecy has not come true. He was a handsome child and everybody loved him. He seemed to have come from a realm of universal brotherhood. He never tired doing kind things for people and he always gave some one else the credit. For instance, one hot day in July the colored man, who collected the garbage, sat down on the curb to eat his dinner. Johnny saw him. "Mamma, may I have a piece of pie and a glass of milk?" said he. His mother gave it to him. He took it out to the colored man and his mother heard him say: "I know you must be tired, so my mamma sent this to you." Then this chubby little three-year-old sat down and entertained the man until he was ready to go to work again.

Johnny was never taught to pray or say his prayers; he never was taught anything, pro or con, about God, Jesus, angels, or heaven. He learned to talk very young. When he was sixteen months old, his father asked him what he wanted for Christmas. "A book to wead," was his prompt reply. It was his first sentence. After that he surprised his parents many times by asking them questions about angels, heaven and God.

One day I was visiting the Wrights. I discovered that Johnny could sing. I told him so. And that little four-year-old focused his big black eyes on me and said: "Would God be pleased if I would sing for him?" Before he was five, a little brother came to the home. It was expected that he would be somewhat jealous of the baby. Such was not the case. A few evenings after the baby's arrival, Johnny was supposed to be asleep but he surprised the family by calling: "Papa, come here."

The father was busy and did not respond very promptly, so Johnny kept on calling.

"What do you want?" said his father.

"I want you to pray for me," was the answer.

"Pray,—where on earth did he hear that word?" mused the father.

"What do you want me to pray for?" said his father.

"I want you to pray that God will send us a lot more babies," was the reply.

Shortly after this he strayed from the yard. He went to a parochial school with a neighbor boy. After that he coaxed his parents continually to send him to the Brothers' School, for they told the children about God and the angels. One Sunday, a few weeks later, he was told to stay in the yard until his parents were ready to take him on an outing. When they were ready, he was missing. A search was instituted. The neighbors had not seen him. Just as the father was about to notify the police, Johnny returned. Where had he been? He had strayed from the yard and followed some people into a church. He stayed to Sunday-school. Even though his parents wanted to punish him for his disobedience, his enthusiasm over his adventure was so contagious that the punishment was averted. And the climax came when he said: "And, oh, mamma, the man who did the talking is coming to see you, and I told him to come tomorrow night and eat dinner with us, so he could meet my papa." Yes, dear reader, that boy had invited the minister to dinner.

"What will that young one be doing next? And the minister, of all people! And wash-day, too," said his mother.

The minister came and proved himself an interesting person. Before he departed, it was decided that Johnny would go to Sunday-school. Perhaps these incidents are not interesting, but in order to appreciate the point I am trying to make, it is quite necessary to relate them.

I have not seen the Wrights for four years. Have not heard of them, either. And I would not be telling this story now, if I hadn't run across a home town friend a few days ago. She is the first person from there that I have seen in three years. Well, you can easily imagine all the questions I asked. I am sure I did not forget any one. She knew every one whom I had ever known. "How are the Wrights? Has Johnny grown very much?" said I. "In wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," said she, "replying to your last query."

"Be more explicit," said I.

"Johnny is a fine little fellow. He is a splendid student. He is well, strong and busy. He is a fine singer. He sings in one of the Commonwealth Avenue churches twice every Sunday and in a suburban church on Sunday evening. He sings solo parts very often. His parents have joined the church in their neighborhood. They are the leading lights; never miss a service. Their spiritual growth has been wonderful," said she.

Like the proverbial country girl, I sat with my eyes and mouth wide open and when she stopped, I said: "No, not the Wrights! You can't mean it. How did it all happen? Did they hit the sawdust trail when Billy Sunday was in Boston?"

"No," said my friend, "it was Johnny who led them."

Johnny will be twelve years old next August. Pretty good record, is it not? I wonder how many converts the average Christian makes each twelve years? Johnny led his parents; they will lead the other two children. Do you wonder I love the leadership of children? It seems to me that I could preach many sermons on the text "And a little child shall lead them," but I am sure that I would always think of Johnny Wright.

Wilton, Minn.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

MIAMI, NEW MEXICO

A few weeks ago a basket dinner was served at the church, and in the afternoon we held our second annual Community Day service. In keeping with our plan, that the social as well as the religious activities of our community be under the supervision of the church, our subject was "Amusements." At the close of the program an athletic committee was appointed and the half-holiday established.

From three to five the people play, and from five to six the time is spent in class work with the vocational-agriculture teacher,—a government worker.

During the past year nine of our young people completed the second year of Teacher-training work under our pastor, Bro. Ira J. Lapp. They have now taken up the course in Mission Study.

Our collection for the Becker Bicentennial Fund amounted to $226.36. Besides this, Brother and Sister Frank Gibson have pledged themselves for the support of a native worker. Mrs. M. N. Mikesell.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

"There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him, that he had wasted his goods." "If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches" (Luke 16: 1, 11)?

With the above subject and the significant, forceful text as the basis of his theme, Eld. Orlando Ogden delivered an excellent missionary sermon May 24 to a good-sized crowd at Fairview church, where he is elder. We submit the following thoughts which were presented:

"A certain rich man,"—evidently referring to God. Is God rich? "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." "And the cattle upon a thousand hills." Would God come to us for something to eat? We own nothing. Yet we act as if we owned all. We are stewards,—only the stewards of this rich man. We are to care for what he created. We must use, in a way not to abuse, God's possessions. However, we have abused everything in a large measure. It is right to be industrious, to own a home or farm, that we may not be dependent on others, and that we may be able to help the needy, and to give to the work of spreading the Gospel. When we work so

The minister came and proved himself an interesting person. Before he departed, it was decided that Johnny would go to Sunday-school. Perhaps these incidents are not interesting, but in order to appreciate the point I am trying to make, it is quite necessary to relate them.

I have not seen the Wrights for four years. Have not heard of them, either. And I would not be telling this story now, if I hadn't run across a home town friend a few days ago. She is the first person from there that I have seen in three years. Well, you can easily imagine all the questions I asked. I am sure I did not forget any one. She knew every one whom I had ever known. "How are the Wrights? Has Johnny grown very much?" said I. "In wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man," said she, "replying to your last query."

"Be more explicit," said I.

"Johnny is a fine little fellow. He is a splendid student. He is well, strong and busy. He is a fine singer. He sings in one of the Commonwealth Avenue churches twice every Sunday and in a suburban church on Sunday evening. He sings solo parts very often. His parents have joined the church in their neighborhood. They are the leading lights; never miss a service. Their spiritual growth has been wonderful," said she.

Like the proverbial country girl, I sat with my eyes and mouth wide open and when she stopped, I said: "No, not the Wrights! You can't mean it. How did it all happen? Did they hit the sawdust trail when Billy Sunday was in Boston?"

"No," said my friend, "it was Johnny who led them."

Johnny will be twelve years old next August. Pretty good record, is it not? I wonder how many converts the average Christian makes each twelve years? Johnny led his parents; they will lead the other two children. Do you wonder I love the leadership of children? It seems to me that I could preach many sermons on the text "And a little child shall lead them," but I am sure that I would always think of Johnny Wright.

Wilton, Minn.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

MIAMI, NEW MEXICO

A few weeks ago a basket dinner was served at the church, and in the afternoon we held our second annual Community Day service. In keeping with our plan, that the social as well as the religious activities of our community be under the supervision of the church, our subject was "Amusements." At the close of the program an athletic committee was appointed and the half-holiday established.

From three to five the people play, and from five to six the time is spent in class work with the vocational-agriculture teacher,—a government worker.

During the past year nine of our young people completed the second year of Teacher-training work under our pastor, Bro. Ira J. Lapp. They have now taken up the course in Mission Study.

Our collection for the Becker Bicentennial Fund amounted to $226.36. Besides this, Brother and Sister Frank Gibson have pledged themselves for the support of a native worker.

Mrs. M. N. Mikesell.

CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

"There was a certain rich man, which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him, that he had wasted his goods." "If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches" (Luke 16: 1, 11)?

With the above subject and the significant, forceful text as the basis of his theme, Eld. Orlando Ogden delivered an excellent missionary sermon May 24 to a good-sized crowd at Fairview church, where he is elder. We submit the following thoughts which were presented:

"A certain rich man,"—evidently referring to God. Is God rich? "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness as to be able to help others, then are we faithful stewards, but not so when we work for self and greed.

I am glad we are being educated to give. He has made us overseers of earthly goods and stewards over spiritual things. He expects each one of us to be spreading the Gospel over the world. "I go to prepare a place for you," he says, "but in my absence go everywhere, warn them of danger coming, show them the light of the Gospel. Go down the lanes and dark places, as well as the highways, and invite others to the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world."

He has made us stewards in his church. The church belongs to God and he requires faithfulness of his stewards. For illustration: If we had an employé that was unfaithful, that wasted our goods, we would not keep him, we would discharge him at once. Have we been extravagant of the goods he has entrusted to our care, that is, our money, or, in other words, the unrighteous mammon? How many millions of dollars have we wasted on tobacco, jewelry, chewing gum, etc.? "If therefore, ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to you the true riches?"

It is not so much the high cost of living that confronts us, but the cost of high living. We would have plenty to help others and for the spread of the Gospel, if we were more economical, if we were not so selfish, but we insist on supplying every whim of our own selfish nature first, then the small per cent remaining is to be used for the Lord's work, and we say: "It's all we can afford."

People are watching us, and we may have been accused and will have to answer to God. We must give account to God and may no longer be stewards.

People want to know how much to give, what per cent, to be pleasing to God. I am not going to say, but will say this much: The $150,000 asked for the Conference offering is not large,—only averaging $1.50 per member for World-wide Missions, for saving lost souls. Consequently, let us give as prospered, and give willingly. We have known Christians (?) whose hearts would almost break when asked for a few cents to carry on local work, but now we are educated to give until one brother alone was known to give $50,000. If we have hearts filled with love for dying souls, we will give cheerfully and send our prayers with our offerings, and much greater will be the result.

If we are not faithful in the unrighteous mammon, how can we expect the Lord to trust us with true riches? Why, we consider money safer in our own pockets than in the Lord's possession. Where is our faith? Will he not take care of us if we give much? Whose is the controlling power? Are we like the servant who hid his Lord's talent in a napkin? You should have given, he says, and so increase. The man who will not use his talent,—will not work,—is not wanted in the earthly Kingdom, much less in heaven. For of the man who will not work God says: "Take his talent and give to the one who will use it and so increase its usefulness." We will receive no reward if we are unfaithful, but we will be rewarded in true riches if we are faithful in earthly things,—if we work and give. "I will give you a crown that fadeth not away."

I have not said how much you should give, but God challenges us. He says: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, . . . and prove me now herewith, . . . if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Spurgeon says: "What I give away, I keep. What I keep, I lose." There is a withholding that tends to poverty. For example: This awful world war would doubtless have been averted, had Christian professors been true to the command, "Occupy till I come." Had we given our means and our lives for Christianizing the world, this awful catastrophe would not have been, and who knows what we may have to answer for? So let us be up and doing all we can at this late hour.

Udell, Iowa. Sadie Price Whisler.

A TRIP TO WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

On the morning of May 17 I left home for Garrett, Somerset County, Pa., where, on the following day, I began a series of evangelistic meetings in the town church. Garrett is on the main line of the B. & O. R. R. and has a population of about 850. It is the home of Dr. R. T. Pollard, elder in charge. About four miles northeast of Garrett is the Beachdale church, built in 1911, and here I preached a sermon (in the old church) twenty years ago.

Bro. B. F. Waltz is pastor in charge of these two churches—known as the Berlin congregation, also the

However, this is a digression, and is not what has impressed me most. I now hasten to explain and beg pardon for indulging the personal element that shall herein follow.

During my stay in Garrett I was entertained in the hospitable and comfortable home of Bro. W. H. Miller, whom I have intimately known for more than a score of years. While in this home I have been casually reading the "History of the Church of the Brethren of Western Pennsylvania," by Blough, and to my surprise noticed myself mentioned as among the first supported pastors in the District. My name is also given in connection with the Glade Run church and I now recall having attended the first Ministerial and Sunday-school Convention held in the District, if not in the Brotherhood. This District Convention was held in the old Walnut Grove church, Johnstown, Pa., in August, 1898, and I was sent as delegate from the Plum Creek church, Armstrong County.

As I now sit and reflect over the experiences of those early days in my Christian ministry, my soul is cheered with many tender and cherished memories. Many of the faithful ones have gone home and others have succeeded them in the work. Many changes have been made. All this is natural and as it should be. It all seems like a dream to me, for as yet I am only forty-six years "young."

In those days the home of Brother and Sister Miller, referred to above, was my home, but since then they have moved to Garrett, in the Berlin congregation. An ideal home it has been to me from the first time I entered it. Bro. Miller is an active deacon. At our recent meetings I assisted Bro. Waltz in installing Bro. L. A. Phenicie, his son-in-law, and two others, in the same office.

When this appears in print I shall have been at the Winona Conference, going as the delegate from my home church.

F. D. Anthony.

Baltimore, Md.

THE CITY OF MINES

There are times in our busy lives when, like a schoolboy, we feel like getting away from our every-day toil into "green pastures," to relieve our wearied minds of the strong tension incident to modern life.

On Saturday, May 24, we left home at 10: 52, by way of the Lebanon Valley Railroad, arriving at Reading at 12: 05 P. M. Reading is nicely situated, with the Schuylkill River on the one side, and with the mountains on the other. It is a city of about ninety thousand inhabitants and has varied industries,—large foundries and machine shops, railroad shops, knitting-mills and different textile industries. Here we changed trains and wended our way northward through the Blue Ridge Mountains, through winding valleys, up and down grades. We crossed many a black, mucky stream, defiled by the filthy waters pumped from the many mining shafts. We realized that we had arrived in the anthracite coal regions of Eastern Pennsylvania.

We find nothing in these valleys but mountains of coal and coal dirt. There is coal-breaker after coal-breaker. Air-shafts, to ventilate the mines with large fans, are seen everywhere. Coal washeries,—to reclaim coal that has been dumped on vast mounds,—are also in evidence.

It is here in the valleys that we find many of our smaller cities,—Pottsville, Mahanoy City, Tamaqua, Ashland, Mt. Carmel, Shamokin and others, with from eight and ten to thirty-five thousand inhabitants. We find that most of these little mining cities are built in narrow valleys, up the mountain slopes. Many of these towns are undermined, as is evidenced by the breaches,—or cave-ins,—found near by. Even in the very streets you will often find houses sunk to the roof. Why is it that this dangerous manner of living and hazardous labor seem to harden the soul of man rather than to lead him into the way of right living? The answer seems to be that they become accustomed to their surroundings.

We arrived at our destination, Shamokin,—the "City of Mines,"—at 3: 33 P. M., and were met at the station by the pastor of the Brethren church,—Bro. Adam Hollinger. He escorted Bro. Brubaker, of Manheim, and the writer and family to his pleasant home.

Shamokin is a small city of thirty-five or forty thousand inhabitants. It is built at a junction of mountain gaps,—network of small valleys, uniting at one point. The central part of the city has nicely-paved streets,—also many prosperous business houses. There are mountains to the north, south, east and west. These, as well as the valleys, are a continuation of a network of mines. We have been told that if these mines were connected at several places, one would be able to travel underground from Mt. Carmel to Shamokin and from thence to Bear

COMMENCEMENT AT McPHERSON COLLEGE

The thirty-first annual Commencement of McPherson College was one of the happiest in her history. The weather was delightful, the crowds were large and enthusiastic and there was the finest of loyalty and cooperation in all the events of the week.

The Baccalaureate Sermon was the first event of the week. As is customary, it was preached by our honored president, Bro. D. W. Kurtz. The message was timely and it was impressively presented. One of the most unique features of the week was the exhibit of the departments of art and manual training. The various senior class exercises were interesting and entertaining.

Graduation morning (Friday) brought a crowd that could not be accommodated. Many were turned away, thus emphasizing the need of more chapel space. Seventy-four persons presented themselves for diplomas and degrees. Nineteen men and women received the bachelor's degree. Four received the master's degree and one the bachelor's degree in divinity. Degrees were conferred upon two missionaries returned from Africa. The college graduating class had more members of middle age than is usual.

The trustees have advertised for bids for the erection of the new dormitory, which is to be ready for occupancy by September. Practically all the rooms in the present girls' dormitory have been taken for next year. The faculty next year will have four new members,—one member having been added who will give his entire time to teaching in the academy.

Sept. 15 is the date for the opening of school in the fall and there is every reason to believe that a student body of unusual size will be in McPherson on that date. The regular May catalog is now off the press and may be had by addressing the college. E. L. Craik.

College Hill, McPherson, Kans., June 5.

BECKER BICENTENNIAL ECHOES

(Continued from Page 393)

take, reader, if you imagine there was a great whirlwind whoop-and-hurrah effort to work up the situation. Nothing of the kind. There was no excitement. Just a plain, simple statement of the facts, and a deliberate determination to finish the job. That was all.

And they finished it. The money came in amounts ranging from five dollars to five hundred, in cash, in pledges, in Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. The men of means gave in hundreds. The poor widow was there too and she gave "more than they all," her five dollars. They gave as individuals, and they gave pledges for their congregations, their Sunday-school classes, their Aid Societies and other organizations. And the longer it went, the better they liked it. Bro. Williams hadn't figured on how to stop it, and some began to wonder if there would be time enough left to get through with the business. But it does not take much time to do business when everybody is feeling right. It was a splendid preparation for the "home stretch" in the business schedule. And our guess is that no time was lost.

Something over $18,000 was gathered in, in cash and pledges, and the goal was safely passed. And then we sang again: "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

It was about four o'clock when the Becker Bicentennial Conference adjourned. The Moderator offered a few fitting words in closing, chiefly in appreciation of the support which had been accorded him by the Standing Committee, the delegates and all. He remarked upon the excellent attendance at the business session, up to the very end. And it was remarkable. The audience responded with a well-deserved expression of appreciation of the Moderator's impartiality and able leadership in the handling of the business.

The closing devotions were led in an impressive manner by Bro. J. M. Blough, of India.

Miscellaneous Addenda

The Becker Bicentennial began with the evening session of Wednesday, June 4. It closed with the afternoon session of Wednesday, June 11. Exactly one week. And such a week!

Here is what Bro. H. K. Ober said, in his address on Saturday, about the Sunday-schools of the future. We failed to get it in its proper place. But what's *im*proper about any place for anything so good as this? The church, he said,

(1) Will recognize that the field of the Sunday-school is the whole wide world.

(2) Will recognize that her field is only partially occupied. There are a few garden spots. There is little intensive farming practiced now.

(3) Will recognize that the lesson text is nothing less than the Word of God—the Bible.

(4) Will demand that her officers measure up to the highest standards of efficiency.

(5) Will demand that the best equipment be placed at the disposal of every department.

(6) Will demand that her pupils be properly graded so that uniform lessons from God's Word may be adapted in their treatment to the capacity of the pupils.

(7) Will demand the most Spirit-filled, best-trained teachers that can be found anywhere.

(8) Will take an accurate inventory (survey) of the conditions in her immediate territory and, finding the facts, will institute definite remedies for improvement.

(9) Will not be content until every home in every community has volunteered in the service of Jesus Christ.

Here are a few important facts about the Sisters' Aid Society Meeting, held in Westminster Chapel on Saturday afternoon, kindly furnished us by the retiring Secretary, Mrs. Levi Minnich: The room was crowded and the two hours of time were much too short. The meeting closed with interest at high water mark. The Society has pledged itself to raise $24,000 in the next three years for foreign work, half of this for a girls' boarding school at Anklesvar, India, and half for a hospital at Ping Ting Chou, China. A committee was appointed to apportion the amount to the various State Districts.

Music was a strong feature of the Conference. First in importance was the congregational singing under the inspiring leadership of Sister Cora M. Stahly and the many others whom she called to her assistance. Sister Stahly has asked us to give expression through these columns to her heartfelt appreciation of the valuable services rendered by all those who so freely and ably responded to her calls for help in this work.

Almost every program, too, had some music specially prepared, a duet, quartet, chorus, or something of the kind. Then there was the Musical Institute each morning just before the regular auditorium session. And on Saturday evening at 5 o'clock there was the great musical event of the Conference, the rendition, by a large Manchester chorus, of the oratorio Queen Esther. The hour would be thought unfavorable for most programs, but it was not for this. The auditorium was packed and the people were thrilled and delighted.

But this story is stretching out beyond all reasonable proportions. And yet many things worthy of mention happened at Winona which we have not recorded. Will all those who had part in such please be gracious enough to pardon the omission?

The original marker of Peter Becker's grave, a stone slab, brought to the Conference by Bro. Jacob Missimer and fastened to a post just outside the Conference Exhibit Room, was an object of interest to many, inviting reflection upon the character and deeds of this faithful pioneer. Yet the face of this Conference was too firmly set toward the future to spend very much time looking at gravestones.

The weather was fine. For the first half it was perfect. The last three days it was warm, sometimes very warm. But who cared for that? "Take off your coat and go ahead" was the quick solution. Collars wilted, but not the interest of the people.

And that was the most remarkable fact of all,—the way the interest kept up from beginning to end. On the very last afternoon,—the time when often few are present besides the delegates,—the auditorium was well-filled, not crowded, but practically full. All around the balcony, up next to the roof, where the heat was greatest, the people sat and sweltered and helped to finish up the business. They might have been lounging under shade-trees or riding on the lake or on the way home. But they were not. They were where their hearts were.

At no time, probably, were the crowds at Winona Lake this year so large as three years ago. But the purpose with which they came and stayed and prayed and gave and worked,—oh, that was never finer. It was great. It was great.

A Final Word

The Becker Bicentennial Conference was a success beyond the fondest hopes of those who planned and prayed for it. We believe it is the greatest event, the most significant for the future of the church, that has happened since Peter Becker came to America. The Forward Movement has gripped the hearts of our people. The congregations which had already caught the spirit of it will go on with greater strides. Those which had not yet fallen into line will not long stand out against the new impulse which has seized the church.

There are problems in plenty. There always have been. There always will be. Some things are not as they should be. But they are not going to strangle the life out of the church. The spirit of the Becker Bicentennial, the spirit of the Forward Movement, is the spirit with which we shall meet the new conditions that confront us. And that is the pledge of our success. That is the spirit that has always won in the face of hard tasks. That is the spirit that will do it again.

A new day is dawning for the Church of the Brethren. The sky is still streaked with many night shadows, but the day is breaking, nevertheless. "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad." Blessed be his holy Name!

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Covina.—Our offering for the Armenian Relief was $200. May 7 Bro. J. B. Emmert came to this church. The members decided to build a dormitory for a boarding-school in India; also to furnish eight scholarships for one year,—the money to be raised in the Annual Conference offering. May 25 a missionary sermon was preached. The offering amounted to $800.—Mrs. S. W. Funk, Charter Oak, Calif., June 5.

La Verne church held her spring love feast May 25. Our pastor, Eld. R. H. Miller, preached the examination sermon and Eld. J. P. Dickey had charge of the love feast services, at which about 300 were present. Children's Day servies were observed June 1. An offering was taken for the support of a native worker in India. The baccalaureate address to the graduating class of La Verne College was given by our pastor on Sunday evening.—Grace H. Miller, La Verne, Calif., June 5.

Patterson church met in council June 1. Bro. D. J. Fink was re-elected church trustee. Sunday-school officers were elected for the next six months, with Brethren J. H. Kreps and J. G. Fallis, superintendents. The writer was elected "Messenger" correspondent.—D. J. Fink, Patterson, Calif., June 4.

COLORADO

Denver church met in council June 4. Our elder and pastor, Bro. G. W. Bergan, presided, assisted by Bro. Fitz. Church and Sunday-school officers were elected for six months. Love and union prevailed. Sixteen letters were received and accepted. Many are moving in from other States. Our dear sister, H. C. Long, has returned from the hospital much improved, and was elected again as our Sunday-school superintendent. Our church is growing and in a healthy condition. One of our ministers, Bro. Chas. S. Shively, is soon to leave us for LaVerne, Calif. He will be missed very much, having been for many years one of our active workers. Bro. Bro. S. I. Miller has been elected as "Messenger" agent and Sunday-school and young people's correspondent. The writer is the general church correspondent.—W. R. Cline, Denver, Colo., June 5.

DELAWARE

Wilmington Mission.—Our new pastor, Bro. Wilbur K. McKee, came to us May 4. May 8 we held a business meeting for the purpose of reorganizing. Both mission and Sunday-school seem to be in a flourishing condition, with splendid prospects for continued growth. We frequently find families of the Brethren who have not hitherto been acquainted with the existence of the mission and we would be very glad if any, who know of friends or members of the church located near here, would send their names and addresses to the correspondent, so that we may get in touch with them. We are hoping to secure a more suitable and permanent place of worship in the near future. We have recently organized a Sister's Aid Society, with Sister Danner, president. Children's Day will be observed June 22, at 7:30 P. M.—Mrs. Warren Hank, 302 S. Clayton Street, Wilmington, Del., June 9.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington City.—Among the outstanding events of our church for the past month, was the remembrance for the pastor, Bro. J. M. Henry, and his wife. This took the form of a social gathering at the church. Sister Henry was presented a chest of silver by the congregation, and in addition a number of hand-made articles from various individuals. The work of Bro. Henry and his wife has been of very great value to the church and this occasion was intended to show, in a small way, our appreciation of their labors. May 25, according to the regular plan of our pastor, baptism was announced. One was baptized. Another one was ready but was prevented from being present by illness. Three were received by letter on the following Sunday. The quota assigned the Washington City church for the Conference offering was $260. The amount contributed and sent to the Conference was $450.—Chas. E. Resser, Washington, D. C., June 4.

ILLINOIS

Cherry Grove church met in business session May 29, with Bro. I. R. Young presiding. Christian Workers' officers were elected with

At no time, probably, were the crowds at Winona Lake this year so large as three years ago. But the purpose with which they came and stayed and prayed and gave and worked,—oh, that was never finer. It was great. It was great.

A Final Word

The Becker Bicentennial Conference was a success beyond the fondest hopes of those who planned and prayed for it. We believe it is the greatest event, the most significant for the future of the church, that has happened since Peter Becker came to America. The Forward Movement has gripped the hearts of our people. The congregations which had already caught the spirit of it will go on with greater strides. Those which had not yet fallen into line will not long stand out against the new impulse which has seized the church.

There are problems in plenty. There always have been. There always will be. Some things are not as they should be. But they are not going to strangle the life out of the church. The spirit of the Becker Bicentennial, the spirit of the Forward Movement, is the spirit with which we shall meet the new conditions that confront us. And that is the pledge of our success. That is the spirit that has always won in the face of hard tasks. That is the spirit that will do it again.

A new day is dawning for the Church of the Brethren. The sky is still streaked with many night shadows, but the day is breaking, nevertheless. "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad." Blessed be his holy Name! •

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

CALIFORNIA

Covina.—Our offering for the Armenian Relief was $200. May 7 Bro. J. B. Emmert came to this church. The members decided to build a dormitory for a boarding-school in India; also to furnish eight scholarships for one year,—the money to be raised in the Bencalaureate address to the graduating class of La Verne College was given by our pastor on Sunday evening.—Grace H. Miller, La Verne, Calif., June 5.

La Verne church held her spring love feast May 23. Our pastor, Eld. R. H. Miller, preached the examination sermon and Eld. J. F. Dickey had charge of the love feast services, at which about 300 were present. Children's Day service were observed June 1. An offering was taken for the support of a native worker in India. The baccalaureate address to the graduating class of La Verne College was given by our pastor on Sunday evening.—Grace H. Miller, La Verne, Calif., June 5.

Patterson church met in council June 1. Bro. D. J. Fink was re-elected church trustee. Sunday-school officers were elected for the next six months, with Brethren J. H. Kreps and J. G. Fellis, superintendents. The writer was elected "Messenger" correspondent.—D. J. Fink, Patterson, Calif., June 4.

COLORADO

Denver church met in council June 4. Our elder and pastor, Bro. G. W. Bergan, presided, assisted by Bro. Fitz. Church and Sunday-school officers were elected for six months. Love and union prevailed. Sixteen letters were received and accepted. Many are moving in from other States. Our dear sister, H. C. Long, has returned from the hospital much improved, and was elected again as our Sunday-school superintendent. Our church is growing and in a healthy condition. One of our ministers, Bro. Chas. S. Shively, is soon to leave us for LaVerne, Calif. He will be missed very much, having been for many years one of our active workers. Bro. Bro. S. I. Miller has been elected as "Messenger" agent and Sunday-school and young people's correspondent. The writer is the general church correspondent.—W. R. Cline, Denver, Colo., June 5.

DELAWARE

Wilmington Mission.—Our new pastor, Bro. Wilbur K. McKee, came to us May 4. May 8 we held a business meeting for the purpose of reorganizing. Both mission and Sunday-school seem to be in a flourishing condition, with splendid prospects for continued growth. We frequently find families of the Brethren who have not hitherto been acquainted with the existence of the mission and we would be very glad if any, who know of friends or members of the church located near here, would send their names and addresses to the correspondent, so that we may get in touch with them. We are hoping to secure a more suitable and permanent place of worship in the near future. We have recently organized a Sister's Aid Society, with Sister Danner, president. Children's Day will be observed June 22, at 7:30 P. M.—Mrs. Warren Hank, 302 S. Clayton Street, Wilmington, Del., June 9.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Washington City.—Among the outstanding events of our church for the past month, was the remembrance for the pastor, Bro. J. M. Henry, and his wife. This took the form of a social gathering at the church. Sister Henry was presented a chest of silver by the congregation, and in addition a number of hand-made articles from Bro. I. B. Eisenhise presiden. Our delegates to District Meeting are Walter and Laura Le Barron. Roy Butterbaugh was chosen trustee. Our love feast was held June 1, with the largest number of communicants present for years. Eight ministers from adjoining churches were with us. May 4 the Mount Morris Mission Band gave us a program in the forenoon and Bro. Lear gave an excellent speech on "The Simple Life" in the evening. May 11 we observed Mothers' Day with a program. May 22 we enjoyed a very instructive program along the line of mission work, given by the Bethany Volunteer Mission Band. April 27 a collection was taken for Armenian-Syrian Relief, which, with other donations, amounted to $530. —Lamar E. Shiffer, Lamark, Ill., June 9.

Franklin Grove.—May 24 we enjoyed an all-day love feast. We had with us from adjoining congregations Brethren J. J. Johnson, G. L. Wine and H. S. Randolph. They gave us some very spiritual and helpful sermons. Eld. Wine officiated at the evening service. May 31 we met in business meeting. Elders C. C. Price and S. S. Plum were with us. Bro. Galen Lehman was called to the ministry and duly installed.—Mrs. Jennie Beachley, Franklin Grove, Ill., June 9.

INDIANA

Beech Grove.—On Easter Sunday we enjoyed a well-rendered program prepared by the Sunday-school. Since our last report we are glad to welcome into our midst Eld. A. W. Hahn and family, formerly of the Indianapolis congregation. May 18 we held an all-day meeting. Bro. Hahn delivered an interesting missionary sermon in the morning. At noon a basket dinner was enjoyed in the basement. The afternoon was spent in discussing plans by which we can carry out our part of the "Forward Movement." We met in council May 28, with Bro. J. M. Shepherd presiding. Bro. Shepherd was elected delegate to Annual Meeting. One letter was granted. Bro. Hahn conducted a week's series of meetings prior to our love feast. He delivered some inspiring sermons and two were added to the church by baptism. Our love feast, May 31, was largely attended by members from adjoining churches being with us. Ministering brethren present were Moses and John Smeltzer, J. Holder, F. Fesler, W. I. Kintner, F. Fair, D. W. Bowman and A. Snoff. Bro. Smeltzer officiated. Several of the brethren conducted the services on Sunday morning. Bro. Kintner delivered an inspiring sermon in the evening.—Vernie Beaver, Fortville, Ind., June 3.

Bremen church met in council May 24, with Eld. Cripe presiding. Aug. 3 is the date set for our Harvest Meeting and a committee was appointed to secure a minister for that day. As a result of our series of meetings, which just closed, two were baptized. The communion service was well attended by members from adjoining congregations and a number of ministering brethren were also present. Bro. David Metzler officiated.—Emma Kauffman, Bremen, Ind., June 6.

Eel River church met in council May 10, with Bro. Amos Freed presiding. Brethren I. B. Beery, Geo. Mishler and Ira E. Long were also present. Bro. Abram Miller and wife, and the writer and wife were advanced to the full ministry. Brethren Book and Mishler were in charge of the services. Bro. Long began a series of evangelistic meetings, which closed May 25. One was baptized and one came to us from another denomination. The membership has been greatly strengthened. Our love feast was held May 24, with Bro. Long officiating. Visiting ministers present were Brethren Emanuel Leckrone, Aaron Moss, S. L. Young, T. D. Butterbaugh, Roy Mishler, O. D. Cottrell, C. C. Miller and Moyne Landis. Bro. Samuel Leckrone was not able to be present and we held a special communion service in his home, June 1. Bro. O. D. Cottrell preached our sermon Sunday evening, at which time we lifted our Annual Conference offering. It amounted to $206.59, which has since been increased. Our Sunday-school is progressing very nicely. Many of our members were able to attend the Conference at Winona.—Geo. W. Deaton, Claypool, Ind., June 12.

Indianapolis.—Our new pastor, Bro. S. G. Dreyer, of Tolcio, Ohio, came to Indianapolis June 1. He preached two splendid sermons on that day. We expect to have him here as soon as the school closes in Toledo, about June 21. Bro. Dreyer left for the Conference on Wednesday, together with Bro. S. A. Hylton. We were, indeed, very glad to have with us, June 8, Bro. Charles Harshbarger, of Tolcio, who preached both morning and evening. During the spring, when we were without a regular minister for a short time, the pulpit was filled at various times by Bro. Mitchel, of Clay City, Ind., Bro. J. S. Allderman, of Bethany, and Bro. Bolinger, of Greenville, Ind. We are very glad indeed, now that our pastor is with us, and feel that under his direction the work at this place will prosper. Since our last report we have been received by letter and one confessed Christ. Our Sunday-school children are looking forward to the picnic, to be held on our love feast day, June 22. Saturday evening we enjoyed a quiet, spiritual love feast, with Bro. Rarick officiating. On Sunday morning he preached a stirring missionary sermon, after which we lifted our Conference offering. In the evening the Junior Mission Band gave a missionary program, after which Bro. Rarick preached.—Mrs. Bessie E. Sherck, Middlebury, Ind., June 4.

Plevna church enjoyed an interesting series of meetings May 19 to June 5, with Bro. Reuben Shroyer, evangelist. Four were received into the church by baptism. Sister Gladys Strieker led the song service. The interest was good throughout the meetings.—Tena Bender, Kokomo, Ind., June 9.

Roann.—We met in council May 31, with Eld. J. D. Rife in charge. Four letters were granted. Bro. John Cripe was chosen church trustee. We decided to hold our love feast July 4, at 2 P. M. The reorganization of the Sunday-school resulted in the reelection of Bro. Ray Figert as our superintendent. Bro. C. C. Miller was elected president of Christian Workers' Meeting. The joint Sunday-school Meeting of the West Manchester, Otters Creek and Roann Sunday-schools, which was postponed, will convene June 22.—Sarah C. Seitner, Roann, Ind., June 6.

Wakarusa.—May 4 Sisters Sadie J. Miller and Nora Bollinger and Bro. Chas. Wright, of Bethany Bible School, gave us an interesting missionary program. Bro. John Appleman gave us a sermon on Mothers' Day, which was appreciated by all. May 31 we held our love feast. Thirteen ministering brethren from other churches were with us. Bro. Frank Kreider officiated and on the following day gave us a reported and accepted. We decided to hold our Harvest Meeting July 27,—an all-day meeting. Our love feast was held May 31. A goodly number of ministers from near by congregations were present. Bro. Van B. Wright, from Peebles, Ohio, officiated. Brethren Daniel and Henry Wysong and Van B. Wright remained with us, giving some excellent talks on Sunday morning.—Alma E. Hanawalt, Plymouth, Ind., June 3.

IOWA

Brooklyn church met in council May 24, with Bro. I. H. Fox presiding. The letters of Bro. J. Schechter, Jr. and family were granted and we regret that we must lose them. Bro. I. W. Brubaker, of Prairie City, Iowa, was chosen elder to succeed Bro. Schechter. Sister Besaye Seehorn was elected superintendent of the Primary Department of the Sunday-school. We held our love feast May 31, with Eld. J. Q. Goughnour, of Ankeny, Iowa, officiating. More than fifty were present, ten of whom were visitors. June 1 was our Rally Day and a large crowd enjoyed the program. Bro. Goughnour gave a short but inspiring missionary address, after which the Conference offering was taken, amounting to $110. In the evening, in keeping with the spirit of the day, two of our Sunday-school scholars were received into the church by baptism.—Rose D. Fox, Brooklyn, Iowa, June 4.

Des Moines City.—We are glad to announce the arrival of Bro. N. E. Baker and family, of Kansas City, Kans. Bro. Baker has accepted the pastorate for one year. He has asked that June 15 be our members' assembly day and we hope to make it a banner day. We feel the need of unity and spiritual growth, and are sure that he will help us greatly along these lines.—Kenneth E. Smith, Des Moines, Iowa, June 9.

Fairview church met in council June 7, with Eld. O. Ogden presiding. Bro. J. W. Tarrence was again chosen Sunday-school superintendent and Sister Ellen Moss, Christian Workers' president. Our love feast was held May 31, with Bro. Isaac Brubaker officiating. He also preached on Sunday morning, which was very much enjoyed by all present. We are expecting Bro. J. H. Brower to hold a series of meetings for us in September. Sister Ellen Moss is our delegate to Annual Conference. We are going to have our Children's Day exercises June 29. There will be Sunday-school and preaching services in the morning and a basket dinner at noon, followed by the program.—Mrs. Ida Tarrence, Udell, Iowa, June 9.

Fernald church postponed her regular council of June 7, on account of bad roads and weather. Bro. Lookingbill talked to us on Sunday morning, June 8. Our teacher-training class has once more started, after being hindered by rainy conditions. We are planning on a love feast some time during the summer, the date being undecided as yet. We are also looking forward to District Meeting, which will be held at this place the coming fall. Our offering for the Conference collection amounted to about $25.—Mrs. Cecil Sell, Nevada, Iowa, June 10.

Iowa River.—May 31 was the day set for our feast. In the afternoon Dr. Horning gave us a splendid address. Bro. A. C. Daggett, of Covert, Kans., officiated at the communion services. Brethren John Cakerice and Earl Jarboe assisted. About fifty-five members communed. Sunday morning Eld. Daggett gave us a splendid sermon. Dinner was served at the church. In the afternoon Bro. I. H. Austin, of McPherson, began our revival meetings, which will continue indefinitely. Since our last report four letters have been received and one baptized.—Susie Kinzie, Marshalltown, Iowa, June 7.

KANSAS

Bloom.—May 4 our pastor began a series of meetings, continuing till May 11, when Bro. O. H. Feiler, of Ittetehinson, Kans., came to assist. One was baptized. The meetings closed with a love feast May 19,—Bro. Feifer officiating. We were very glad to have with us at our feast Bro. Ed Weaver and wife, and Bro. Michael and wife, from Garden City. Just previous to the love feast Bro. Dayton Weaver and wife were received into the office of deacon. Bro. Feifer endeared himself to everyone, and especially to the children, during his short stay among us. May 31 a very interesting and appropriate Mothers' Day program was rendered. We met in council June 2, with Eld. G. W. Weddle presiding. Four letters were granted. Our Sunday-school and Christian Workers' officers were elected for the next six months. We adopted a paper of resolutions to be sent our Congressmen, asking them to do all in their power in favor of national prohibition and that the Sherley amendment be not repealed. Our offering for our Annual Conference was $57.85. June 7 and 8 we are to have with us Bro. J. W. Deeter, our District Sunday-school Secretary.—Cassie Martin, Bloom, Kans., June 9.

Kansas City (Armourdale Mission).—We had our Sunday-school enjoyed a meeting in Rose Park. Nature seemed at its best, and the rugged features of the park were clothed in beauty which every one seemed to enjoy to the full. Ninety-nine went out on our special car, immediately after the Sunday-school session of the morning, and the lunch was prepared under a spreading oak, where all enjoyed the generous refreshments. On the evening of June 8 the mission enjoyed the first love feast it has had in a number of years. The services were made doubly inspiring and helpful by the presence and help of quite a number from the Central Avenue church on the Kansas side, and also a number from the First Church of the Brethren on the Missouri side. It was, indeed, a very quiet and spiritual meeting, and enjoyed by all. Brother Ernest Goena led the services of the evening. Our aged and much beloved Bro. Moses Cruse also was an inspiration to the meeting. Several enjoyed the communion services for the first time.—Chas. A. Miller, Kansas City, Kans., June 9.

Larned.—May 4 Bro. C. B. Smith and wife, of Morrill, Kans., began a series of meetings, which continued for three weeks. Bro. Smith served Decision Day. In the afternoon Bro. Smith talked to the mothers and daughters, and in the evening the Christian Workers' Band gave a short but excellent program. May 18 we had a basket dinner in the basement. In the afternoon Bro. Smith talked to the fathers and sons. At the same time the mothers and daughters' meeting was held. We decided to have a like meeting every three months and organized temporarily. We closed our meetings with a love feast in which about ninety took part. May 31 we held our quarterly council. Our Sunday-school and Christian Workers' officers were elected. Bro. Geo. Bock was elected Sunday-school superintendent and Bro. Clyde Seitz, president of the Christian Workers' Band. Since our last report three have been received by letter.—Sallie C. Bock, Larned, Kans., June 4.

Newton City church enjoyed an interesting series of meetings which began May 15, closing May 25, conducted by Bro. H. C. Frantz, of Wichita, Kans. The last day he delivered three impressive sermons. A basket dinner was served and a delightful social hour was enjoyed. The attendance and interest were good throughout the meetings. Two were received by baptism. We were very grateful for the presence and help of several members from Wichita during these meetings; their music was enjoyed by all. Our love feast was held May 24, with about seventy communing. Bro. Frantz officiated, assisted by Brethren Wilmer Keedy, S. M. Brown and W. S. Royer. Several visiting members were with us. Brother and Sister J. R. Wine, of Wichita, have taken charge of the work at this place, while Brother and Sister Reasoner are attending Academy. Meetings and enjoying a much deserved vacation, visiting rel been organized, taking a group of their original members from the "Truth Seekers' Class." We wish them all God-speed and success.

TRUTH SEEKERS' CLASS

(Continued from Page 395)

Since the class was organized, forty-eight members of the class have confessed Christ, and united with the church.

The class adopted as a class motto,—the words being used to express the purpose of the Adult Bible Class at the very beginning of Adult Bible Class organization, viz., "To Bring Men to Christ and to Train and Build Men Up in Christ."

The class has done quite an amount of missionary and charitable work. It usually responds with its aid and funds to help worthy objects, and causes that are seeking assistance. The class has inaugurated a series of class exchange visits. These visits have proved very helpful to both the class making the visit, and also to the class receiving the return visit. Class socials are occasionally held, with mutual, helpful fellowship to all present.

The O. A. B. C. Old Testament Scripture verse has always proved stimulating and helpful: "Assemble the people, the men and the women and the little ones, and the sojourner that is within thy gates, that they may bear, and that they may learn, and fear Jehovah, your God; and observe to do all the words of this law" (Deut. 31: 12).

All members are constantly encouraged to study their Bibles intelligently. The prayer life is emphasized.

Huntingdon, Pa. Amos H. Haines.

ROCKY FORD, COLORADO

We have been here just one year and like it better every day. Our humble efforts have been blest in many ways. We found a strong working force, well organized, "with a mind to work" and so our part has been made lighter, more pleasant and successful by this splendid coöperation.

As at many other points in the great West, "the harvest is great and the laborers are few." Our territory embraces some three thousand square miles and the membership is badly scattered. Bro. H. P. Talhelm and wife and my wife and I recently visited an aged sister, seventy-five miles to the northwest. It was a long auto ride, to be sure, but we were well repaid in seeing her so happy, especially as she received the anointing,—possibly the last earthly service. The pleasure experienced in the homes of our isolated members is truly reciprocal.

A great majority of our membership, however, is in and around the beautiful little city of Rocky Ford. Prospects are good for building up strong mission points at Ordway and Cheraw.

We look forward with much pleasure to the date of our District Conference and associate gatherings, to be held here in October. We have a Sunday-school Institute billed for July 15, to be conducted by our District Sunday-school Secretary, Bro. J. W. Deeter, of McPherson, and others. Then follows a series of meetings, to be conducted by Eld. M. S. Frantz, of Wichita, Kans. In this month we have an Old People's Meeting on Sunday the 15th and Children's Day the 22nd.

During this year our church, Sunday-school and Young People's Band, including the Juniors, have given to Relief, Reconstruction, etc., $469.95, and to missions, home and foreign, $554.11, or a total of $1,024.06. The Christian Workers' Band is arranging to support an orphan in India or China, in addition to a splendid contribution to the support of Bro. Crumpacker in China.

We have a fine climate and a splendid class of people here, mostly made up of Eastern people, and any one thinking of changing to a healthier climate, or to a place where they can do a great work for the Master, should consider Southern Colorado.

Every word we read about the Conference at Winona Lake increases our interest in this great spiritual feast and the desire to be there again, but we must be contented to see others happy and find pleasure in other lines of Christian service. Next year we hope to meet with them.

Rocky Ford, Colo. A. G. Crosswhite.

ANNUAL MISSIONARY MEETING OF EASTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The second Annual Missionary Meeting was held on Ascension Day in the Chickies church. At that time the writer was engaged in a series of meetings in the Mechanic Grove congregation, about twenty-two miles southeast of Lancaster City. From there we made the trip by auto with Bro. Rufus Bucher and family. We rode over hill and dale, with fine fields of waving grain on either hand. All nature seemed at her best, and beautiful scenes were all about us. It was a little too early in the season to see the fields of tobacco, or "fields of curses" as we called them. I am glad to say, though, that our brethren are dropping out of the business more and more, proving the fallacy of the assertion made by some that they can not get along without raising tobacco.

We passed through busy Lancaster, beautiful East Petersburg, and memorable old Manheim,—all rich in the history of our church. About 9 o'clock we rolled into the shade at Chickies church.

Eld. David Kilhefner, just then, was in charge of the meeting and gave an inspiring address on the "Outlook." It had the "go-up-and-possess-the-land" ring in it.

"How Shall We Work Our Home Field?" and "What Would Paul Do?" were the burning subjects discussed during the morning session. Though the speakers on the program were nearly all absent, the impromptu speeches were full of good things.

A fine tribute was given to our forefathers by contrasting their times and ours, and the work accomplished then and now in the home field especially. It made us feel that we are not "occupying" as they did. "A Charity Meal,"—a recitation that moved many to tears,—was given by Sister Mildred Kilhefner.

At 11:30 we adjourned for lunch. The social time thereby enjoyed can be truly considered one of the important sessions of the day. In the afternoon the large house was well filled, notwithstanding the fact that it was Commencement Day at Elizabethtown College,—only a few miles away.

After a cheering song service, the afternoon session was begun. "God's Way of Financing His Own Work" was very thoughtfully discussed by Brethren A. H. Brubacher and Graybill Minnich. We were shown that if we adopt God's methods, as taught in his Word, we will need no man-made methods or schemes to "raise money."

Then came one of the most inspiring moments of the day. The Chickies church has about fifty young members under twenty years of age, who entertained us with songs and scriptural quotations. The sisters especially were models in dress. Talk about standardization! There it was, with nothing to be desired.

The Five-year Forward Movement received some attention. The session and day's work closed with an enthusiastic discussion of "Stewardship." Systematic giving, according to God's plan (1 Cor. 16: 1, 2), was strongly recommended.

Yes, it was good to be there. It was unanimously decided to have a similar meeting next year. At that time we hope for reports and evidences that this good meeting produced something more than mere "talk."

Harrisburg, Pa. Wm. K. Conner, Secretary.

A CALL FROM THE NORTH

In view of the fact that people are coming into Northern Minnesota in large numbers this season, we thought it well to mention to any brethren, contemplating such a move, that there is an organized Church of the Brethren at Hines, in Beltrami County. This, the Bethel congregation, is the most northern Church of the Brethren in the State, with a large district in which to expand. We have a membership of twenty-five, with an elder, a minister and three deacons. Our membership is somewhat scattered at present, making it difficult to conduct a Sunday-school of our own, but we have a live-wire school in Hines, with our ministers in charge of the regular preaching services each Sunday.

The survey, recently made by Bro. Finnell, shows a good field for missionary endeavor. The percentage of land owners is very large.

Land, while advancing rapidly, may still be had at a reasonable price and on easy terms, close to the church, consolidated schools and the railroad.

Brother homeseeker, one of the largest causes of loss of our children to the church is in our members locating away from church influences. If you are seeking a home in Northern Minnesota, come to the Bethel church. If you are spiritually strong, WE NEED YOU. If you are spiritually weak, YOU NEED US. At any rate, we need each other. Don't take your family away from church influence and then wonder why they drift away from the church. "Come over and help us," and help yourself.

Tenstrike, Minn. Earl L. Flora.

LAWRENCEBURG, TENN.

Lawrenceburg is the county-seat of Lawrence County, Tenn., a beautiful town situated in a splendid section of the State. The Crowson church is located about seven miles and the Lone Star church three miles from the town, in opposite directions. Practically one-half of the membership of both congregations lives in and very near the town. Sunday-school and preaching services are held in the county courthouse, as it is more centrally and conveniently located for the greater number of members than either of the churchhouses. At each of the churches twice a month, Bro. A. M. Bashor, the elder in charge, fills the appointments. Bro. J. C. Shively is also a minister but, owing to his age, does not do much preaching. He is, however, interested and active in the other phases of church work. The membership of both congregations is about forty-five at this time.

In earlier days the church was strong, but some of the workers have died and others have moved to the west and north. Bro. Baker, who now resides in California, was elder of the Crowson church for quite a while. Since that time the work has been under the care of Bro. Bashor. He, with his colaborers, is keeping the fires burning, but they crave encouragement which so many congregations enjoy. This they lack because of their isolation, being the only organized congregation in Central Tennessee. Their nearest sister church is down in Alabama.

The writer being in school at Nashville, and anxious to get in touch with any of our churches within reach of the city, finally succeeded in learning of and getting in communication with these brethren at Lawrenceburg, eighty miles away. Since April 1, Bro. W. B. Varner and myself have spent several Sundays with them.

May 25 our little student group, all from Virginia, consisting of Sisters Mary E. Cline, Elsie N. Shickel, Bro. W. B. Varner, Sister Myers and myself, conducted a Sunday-school Institute with these members. The program was enjoyed and appreciated by every one present. Splendid interest was shown by the presence and attention of members as well as visitors. We trust that Sunday-school enthusiasm was kindled into a burning, glowing flame.

This is a promising field, and help and encouragement are appreciated. Any who are passing by or near there, should make an effort to visit these members. They, like all southern people, are exceedingly courteous and hospitable in their homes, and keep the latch-string hanging on the outside. It has been a real joy to mingle and worship with these people. M. M. Myers.

Nashville, Tenn.

DEPUTATION WORK OF McPHERSON COLLEGE

The students of McPherson College have always done deputation work among the churches, but not until the school-year 1918-19 did they have a definite organization for that work. The committee in charge was chosen from the following organizations of the college: The Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Home Mission Band, the Foreign Mission Band, the Student Ministers' Association and the Anti-tobacco Association. The committee organized themselves under the name of "The Student Christian Extension Department," and began active work in sending out Gospel Teams.

The following is the report of the work done by the students during the second semester of the school year: Miles traveled, 2,270; money received, $343.43; people spoken to, 5,125; number of programs given, 34; number of churches visited, 21; talks given, 103; readings, orations, stories, 14; special songs, 116.

Even though the students always lose time from their schoolwork, they feel amply repaid for their efforts among the churches and they are always eager to go the second time. There is nothing the students enjoy more than meeting the people in our home churches and the kind welcome which has been extended to them will always be appreciated. Winona McGaffey.

McPherson, Kans.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' Gospel Messenger subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Carney-Metzger.—By the undersigned, at the parsonage of the Walnut Grove church, Johnstown, Pa., June 4, 1919, Brother Charles C. Carney, of Penn Run, Pa., and Sister Dora E. Metzger, of Johnstown, Pa.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

Clark-Holmgren.—By the undersigned, at the residence of the bride's parents, June 1, 1919, Mr. Ramond W. Clark and Sister Irma M. Holmgren, both of Oakland, Calif.—J. C. Wright, Oakland, Calif.

Hoffman-Saylor.—At the home of the writer, May 18, 1919, Brother Harrison Hoffman and Sister Edna M. Saylor, both of Berlin, Pa.—L. S. Knepper, Berlin, Pa.

La Forge-Stahl.—By the undersigned, at the Chico church, June 1, 1919, Mr. Walter La Forge, of Napa, Calif., and Sister Ruby Stahl, of Chico, Calif.—C. Ernest Davis, Chico, Calif.

Moore-Riedel.—By the undersigned, at the home of the groom, 750 Grove Avenue, Johnstown, Pa., June 4, 1919, Brother Newton R. Moore and Miss Sophia Riedel, both of Johnstown, Pa.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

Shenks-Piper.—At the home of the writer, June 3, 1919, Paul E. Shenks and Thelma M. Piper, both of Garden City, Kans.—S. E. Weaver, Garden City, Kans.

Wingerd-Hamer.—By the undersigned at the Church of the Brethren parsonage, June 3, 1919, Brother Paul E. Wiogerd, of Clarence, Iowa, and Sister Martha E. Hamer, of Waterloo, Iowa.—C. G. Shull, Chicago, Ill.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Boyd, Sister Sarah, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Stahl, Meyersdale, Pa., of paralysis, May 23, 1919, aged 83 years, 2 months and 20 days. Her husband preceded her twelve years ago. Eleven children were born to them, seven of whom survive. She was an active church worker and a faithful and consistent member of the Meyersdale church. Services in the church by Bro. T. R. Coffman. Interment in the cemetery near the Middle Creek church.—Mrs. D. J. Pike, Meyersdale, Pa.

Deahoog, Margaret, boro in France, June 20, 1848, died at the home of her son, Milton Deahoog, Dayton, Ohio, May 20, 1919. In 1872 she married John Deahoog, who died about twelve years ago. She united with the Church of the Brethren when but a girl and was a faithful and devoted member. Services in the home of her son by the undersigned, assisted by Eld. B. F. Petry. Interment in the Woodland cemetery.—Wm. Mönich, Union, Ohio.

Fogleman, Bro. Wm., died at his home near the Free Spring church, Lost Creek congregation, from the effects of a stroke, May 18, 1919, aged 73 years, 1 month and 3 days. He was a veteran of the Civil War. He united with the Brethren church when a young man. He leaves his wife and seven children. Services by the writer and Rev. Solomon Lauver. Interment in Lost Creek Mennonite cemetery.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Fnuch, Mrs. Sarah E., died at her home in Yarrowsburg, Md., April

The writer being in school at Nashville, and anxious get in touch with any of our churches within reach of c city, finally succeeded in learning of and getting in mmunication with these brethren at Lawrenceburg, ghty miles away. Since April 1, Bro. W. B. Varner and yself have spent several Sundays with them.

May 25 our little student group, all from Virginia, con-sting of Sisters Mary E. Cline, Elsie N. Shickel, Bro.
. B. Varner, Sister Myers and myself, conducted a Suny-school Institute with these members. The program as enjoyed and appreciated by every one present. Splend interest was shown by the presence and attention of embers as well as visitors. We trust that Sunday-school thusiasm was kindled into a burning, glowing flame.
This is a promising field, and help and encouragement e appreciated. Any who are passing by or near there, ould make an effort to visit these members. They, like l southern people, are exceedingly courteous and hostable in their homes, and keep the latch-string hanging the outside. It has been a real joy to mingle and orship with these people. M. M. Myers.
Nashville, Tenn.

DEPUTATION WORK OF McPHERSON COLLEGE

The students of McPherson College have always done putation work among the churches, but not until the hool-year 1918-19 did they have a definite organization r that work. The committee in charge was chosen om the following organizations of the college: The oung Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's ristian Association, the Home Mission Band, the For-gn Mission Band, the Student Ministers' Association and e Anti-tobacco Association. The committee organized emselves under the name of "The Student Christian Ex-nsion Department," and began active work in sending t Gospel Teams.

The following is the report of the work done by the idents during the second semester of the school year:
iles traveled, 2,270; money received, $343.43; people oken to, 5,125; number of programs given, 34; number churches visited, 21; talks given, 103; readings, ora-ons, stories, 14; special songs, 116.

Even though the students always lose time from their hoolwork they feel amply repaid for their efforts among e churches and they are always eager to go the second ne. There is nothing the students enjoy more than eeting the people in our home churches and the kind lcome which has been extended to them will always be preciated. Winona McGaffey.
McPherson, Kans.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

lease note that the fifty cents required for the publication marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel ssenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request ould be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

arney-Metzger.—By the undersigned, at the parsonage of the hnut Grove church, Johnstown, Pa., June 4, 1919, Brother Charles arney, of Penn Run, Pa., and Sister Dora E. Metzger, of Johns-n, Pa.—M. Clyde Horst, Johnstown, Pa.

lark-Holmgren.—By the undersigned, at the residence of the ide's parents, June 1, 1919, Mr. Ramond W. Clark and Sister Irene Holmgren, both of Oakland, Calif.—J. C. Wright, Oakland, Calif.

offman-Saylor.—At the home of the writer, May 18, 1919, Brother rison Hoffman and Sister Edna M. Sayler, both of Berlin, Pa.—
S. Knepper, Berlin, Pa.

n Forge-Stahl.—By the undersigned, at the Chico church, June 1,
, Mr. Walter La Forge, of Napa, Calif., and Sister Ruby Stahl, of co, Calif.—C. Ernest Davis, Chico, Calif.

loore-Riedel.—By the undersigned, at the home of the groom, 750
ve Avenue, Johnstown, Pa., June 4, 1919, Brother Newton R.
ore and Miss Sophia Riedel, both of Johnstown, Pa.—M. Clyde rst, Johnstown, Pa.

heaks-Piper.—At the home of the writer, June 3, 1919, Paul E. aks and Thelma M. Piper, both of Garden City, Kans.—S. E. ves, Garden City, Kans.

Wingerd-Hamer.—By the undersigned at the Church of the Breth-parsonage, June 3, 1919, Brother Paul E. Wingerd, of Clarence, a, and Sister Martha E. Hamer, of Waterloo, Iowa.—C. G. Shull, cago, Ill.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

oyd, Sister Sarah, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kathryn hl, Meyersdale, Pa., of paralysis, May 23, 1919, aged 83 years, 2 nths and 20 days. Her husband preceded her twelve years ago.
ven children were born to them, seven of whom survive. She was active church worker and a faithful and consistent member of the yersdale church. Services in the church by Bro. T. R. Coffman.
rment in the cemetery near the Middle Creek church.—Mrs. D. ike, Meyersdale, Pa.

eshinn, Margaret, born in France, June 20, 1848, died at the home her son, Milton Deshong, Dayton, Ohio, May 20, 1919. In 1872 she ried John Deshong, who died in 1914, aged 72 years, 7 months and 24 days. She leaves six children, five sisters, two brothers and one half-sister. She was a member of the Church of God. Services at the house by Eld. N. P. Castle. Interment in St. Mark's Episcopal cemetery, near Brownsville.—Mrs. Nellie S. Kaetzel, Brownsville, Md.

Goodyear, Raymond La Vure, son of Joseph and Ida Bell Goodyear, born at Burr Oak, Ind., died at Argos, Ind., of pneumonia, May 12, 1919, aged 2 years, 1 month and 15 days. He leaves father, mother, three brothers and three sisters. Services by the writer. Burial in the Burr Oak cemetery.—Clyde M. Joseph, Culver, Ind.

Hadsell, Sister Dessie Marie, daughter of S. G. Hadsell, born in Linn, Ohio, died at the home of her brother in South Bend, Ind., of pneumonia, March 16, 1919, aged 25 years, 2 months and 7 days. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1913 and was an active worker in the Sunday-school. Services in the Advent church. Burial in the Highland cemetery.—S. G. Hadsell, Phoenix, Ariz.

Harris, Sister Rachel, nee Hylton, died March 25, 1919, aged 83 years, 4 months and 9 days. She married James Harris who died several years ago. To this union were born seven children, six of whom are living. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for fifty years and lived a true Christian life. Services by Bro. A. N. Hylton, assisted by Rev. M. Dickerson, of the Primitive Baptist church, and Rev. J. W. Craddock, of the Methodist church. Burial in the Harris cemetery.—Clemmie E. Hylton, Floyd, Va.

Hylton, Blain, son of Bro. D. S. and Sister Susan Hylton, died at his home near Norwood, Mo., in the bounds of the Mt. Hermon congregation, Mo., May 30, 1919, aged 19 years. He had been an invalid all his life. He leaves father, mother, four sisters and five brothers. Services by Bro. J. B. Hylton. Interment in the home cemetery.—Belle Hylton, Mansfield, Mo.

Kolth, Sister Rachel, nee Hylton, died of Bright's disease, April 26, 1919, aged 73 years. She married Zehrun Keith, who preceded her several years ago. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for several years and lived a true Christian life. Services by the home brethren. Burial in the Shusher cemetery.—Clemmie E. Hylton, Floyd, Va.

McCahill, Blanche, daughter of J. R. and Fanny McCahill, died May 16, 1919, aged 12 years, 5 months and 6 days. She leaves father, mother, two sisters and three brothers. Services by Brethren J. J. Brower and M. H. Miller at the Church of the Brethren at Reedley.—Mabel Armantrout, Reedley, Calif.

Morris, Bro. Simson, died at his home in the bounds of the Pleasant Hill congregation, May 29, 1919, aged 60 years, 1 month and 5 days. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for several years. He has been a member of the Church of the Brethren for about twenty years. He is survived by his wife, two sons, three daughters, one brother and a sister. Services by Bro. A. B. Early.—Nora B. Crickenberger, Harriston, Va.

Mosgrave, Bro. Oscar K., died in service, in Evacuation Hospital No. 4, France, of influenza, aged 24 years, 1 month and 6 days. He spent his entire life in the bounds of the Brothers Valley congregation and was a member of the church for the past six years. Memorial service by the writer in Wills' Lutheran church. He is survived by his parents, one sister and one brother.—L. S. Knepper, Berlin, Pa.

Parker, Florence Miller, wife of A. L. Parker, died at her home in Cambridge, Nebr., of tuberculosis, May 12, 1919, aged 44 years. She leaves her husband and six children. Services at the Afton church by Bro. J. H. Snell. Burial in Afton cemetery.—Mrs. J. H. Snell, Cambridge, Nebr.

Perry, Oliver H., born in Edwardsburg, Mich., died of paralysis, May 20, 1919, aged 83 years, 7 months and 4 days. In 1867 he married Sarah A. Bassett. To them were born seven children, five of whom with the wife survive. He was a veteran of the Civil War. He united with the Church of the Brethren some years ago and bore his suffering of nearly five years with Christian patience. Services by the writer. Burial near Bremen.—Chas. C. Crist, Bremen, Ind.

Riser, Bro. J. A., of Chestnut Grove, W. Va., died of heart failure, May 17, 1919, aged 54 years. He had been a faithful minister for twenty-five years. He was the only son of Eld. S. W. Riser, deceased. On the evening of his death he went to a regular appointment near Paw, W. Va., and preached his last sermon on Saturday night. Services by the writer. Burial in the Chestnut Grove cemetery.—J. M. Crouse, Fayetteville, W. Va.

Ritter, Bro. Charles Elmer, born in Medina County, Ohio, died at his home in Clinton County, Ohio, near Grand Ledge, of consumption, May 28, 1919, aged 46 years, 9 months and 23 days. In 1896 he was married to Mary Wells. To them were born eight children, five of whom survive, with his wife and parents. He united with the Church of the Brethren when eighteen years old. Services at the Methodist church of Wacousta by Rev. Kenney.—Martha Ritter Shrider, Butternut, Mich.

Smith, Sister Amelia, died in the bounds of the Lost Creek congregation, at Bunkertown, Pa., April 28, 1919, aged 75 years. She was a member of the Brethren church for many years. For the past few years she was blind and deaf. Services from the home of Sister Lizzie Zimmerman and in the Good Will church by the writer. Interment in Koons cemetery.—John E. Rowland, Bunkertown, Pa.

Spitzer, Sister Sarah E., nee Golladay, died at the home of her brother, Milton Golladay, May 22, 1919, aged 64 years, 1 month and 7 days. She married John M. Spitzer in 1876. Soon after her marriage she united with the Church of the Brethren, and was a member of the Flat Rock congregation, Va., for many years. She was always the faithful in her religious duties and lived a consistent Christian life. Services by the writer and Bro. Chas. Nesselrodt in the Reformed church at Conicville, Va. Sister Spitzer leaves her husband, five children, twenty grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters.—J. Carson Miller, Moore's Store, Va.

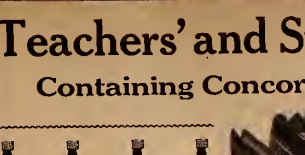
Wine, Mrs. Minerva, born in Pennsylvania, died at her home, Pomona, Calif., May 29, 1919, aged 82 years. She is survived by three sons and four daughters. Services by Bro. S. E. Yundt.—Mary E. Forney, Pomona, Calif.

Wright, Sister Nancy Isabel, daughter of Wm. and Mary Colvin, died at her home in Peebles, Ohio, June 1, 1919, aged 66 years, 7 months and 28 days. In 1888 she married Lewis A. Wright. Two children were born to them. One son,—Van B. Wright,—and the husband survive. In girlhood she belonged to the Christian church, but later became a member of the Church of the Brethren. Services at the home by Eld. J. A. R. Causey, assisted by Eld. R. C. Davidson and Rev. G. H. Williams, of the Methodist church. Interment at Locust Grove cemetery.—E. A. Wisecup, Peebles, Ohio.

SISTERS' AID SOCIETIES

DALLAS CENTER, IOWA.—Report of the Sisters' Aid Society for 1918: We held 17 meetings, with an average attendance of 13; enrollment, 17. We quilted 11 quilts, and tacked 4 comforts. We received for work done, $39.53; donation, $38.13; amount on hand from 1917, $26.00; total, $103.66. We paid out during the year $25 to Mary Quinter Memorial Hospital; $10 for United War Work; $10 for Child Rescue Work in our District; $10.50 for War sufferers; $21 for the Christian Herald; Council Bluffs; $3.83 for pillow-slips for Old People's Home;

Teachers' and S
Containing Concor



American Standard Version Bibles

The American Standard Version Group of Teachers' Bibles is the most up-to-date in text and helps obtainable. The text is the American Revision of 1901, conceded by all scholars to be the clearest and best translation yet made. This series of Bibles contains a "Concise Bible Dictionary alphabetically arranged, a Combined Concordance and Word-Finder, 12 Indexed Colored Maps, and 25 New Outline Maps placed through the Bible where most needed.

This India Pap
pared with ord paper, contain number of pag size type.

MINION BLACK-FACE TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Self-Pronouncing. Size 4⅝x7 inches

Specimen of type used in these Bibles

40 For 41 lift up my hand to her
And say, As I live for ever,
41 If I swbet my glittering swo
And my hand take hold on ment;

No. 215Z. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $3.00

No. 215Z3. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.00

No. 215Z4. Genuine Persian Levant, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $5.00

INDIA PAPER EDITION
Only ⅞ of an inch thick

No. 215ZX. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.00

No. 215ZX3. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $5.50

No. 215ZX4. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $7.00

BOURGEOIS TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Non-Pronouncing. Size 5½x8 inches

Specimen of Type

22 And David spake unto Jehovah the words of this song in the day that Jehovah delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of
Saul: 2 and he said,

No. 217Z. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $3.75

No. 217Z3. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.75

No. 217Z4. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $6.50

INDIA PAPER EDITION
Only 1½ inches thick

No. 217ZX. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $6.00

No. 217ZX. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $7.00

No. 217ZX4. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $8.00

No. 217ZX. Genuine Levant, divinity circuit, calf lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $12.00

ONYX BLACK-FACE TYPE TEACHERS' AND STUDENTS' BIBLES

Self-Pronouncing. Size 5⅝x8¾ inches

Sample of type used in these Bibles

24 a ram on every altar. 1 And when Ba'lâam saw that it pleased Je-hō'vāh to bless Is'ra-ĕl, he went not, as at the other times,

No. 2252. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $3.50

No. 2253. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $4.50

No. 2254. Genuine Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, round corners, red under gold edges, ... $6.00

NELSON'S INDIA PAPER EDITION
Only ⅞ of an inch thick

No. 2252X. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, silk sewed, ... $5.50

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscriptions fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor — EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 397)

Pleasant Hill church met in council May 24, with Eld. Amos H. Blocher in charge. Bro. Roy Long and wife were elected to the deacon's office. Two letters were accepted. Our series of meetings will commence about July 19, with Bro. Shew in charge. We decided to hold our love feast July 12.—Ethel Burns, York, N. Dak., June 6.

NORTH OAKOTA

Minot church met in council May 25, with Eld. W. A. Deardorff and Bro. Ora Meyer presiding. We reorganized for the next six months. Bro. J. W. Steele was elected to the ministry. It was decided not to send a delegate to either Annual or District Meeting, but to be represented by letter.—Beulah Steele, Minot, N. Dak., June 4.

OHIO

Ashland (Dickey).—Bro. W. A. Wiley gave us a very interesting discourse June 8, in the absence of our pastor, Eld. W. L. Deaberg, who, with a number of others, is attending Conference. Bro. D. E. McFadden will begin a series of meetings June 15 and our love least will be held June 22. Our Annual Meeting offering was $188.—Esther Zimmerman, Ashland, Ohio, June 9.

Jonathan Creek.—May 25 we held an all-day meeting, serving dinner at the church. Bro. C. S. Straushaugh, of Fredericktown, Ohio, preached both morning and afternoon. In the evening we held our love least, at which meeting he officiated. The forenoon an offering was lifted to send to Annual Meetiog. We also sent one quota for the Armenian-Syrian Relief.—Mary H. Snider, Thornville, Ohio, June 9.

Painter Creek church enjoyed a very pleasant love least May 24, with Bro. Otho Winger officiating. Bro. John Root gave a very interesting address on Sunday morning. Sister Sadie Miller, returned missionary from India, gave us two very much appreciated talks June 2 and 3.—Martha Mannick, Greenville, Ohio, June 7.

Pleasant View church met in council May 24, with Eld. David Byerly in charge. Sunday morning, May 25, Bro. Walter Landis preached a missionary sermon, after which $770.54 was lifted for the Conference offering.—Ada Miller, Lima, Ohio, June 4.

OREGON

Newburg church met for worship June 1 in their newly-decorated audience room. We were glad to welcome among us Bro. J. A. Reed and family, who are locating here. We hope to make it homelike for them and know they will be a great help to us. The church contributed $36.60 for the Annual Meeting offering.—Eliza J. Moore, Newburg, Oregon, June 4.

PENNSYLVANIA

Back Creek church held a very helpful series of meetings at the Upton house, beginning May 19 and closing on Sunday evening, June 1. Bro. E. J. Egan, one of our home ministers, was in charge of the meetings, which were well attended. Three were baptized.—J. D. Wilson, Greencastle, Pa., June 9.

Bethany church observed Mothers' Day May 11. We had special music by the mothers of the church and also the choir. The pastor's theme for morning service was "Mother's Ambition." May 18 we held Missionary Day. In the morning our pastor talked on "The Church and Missions." At the Sunday-school session we had an address by Bro. G. E. Yoder, our field secretary. In the evening we had with us Dr. O. H. Yereman, formerly of Smyrna, a medical missionary, who gave us a wonderful message concerning his work on the foreign field. Special music at each service was conducted by J. W. R. Andrews. May 25 we were privileged to have with us Bro. Hartman, whose address in the morning was on "The Need of Christ," and in the evening on "The Voice of a King." The Women's Bible Class held a social May 26. The program was spicy and the speakers of the evening were good. After the program we enjoyed a social season together. We are all glad to welcome many of our boys home again and trust that it will not be long until all are with us again.—Margaret E. Rogers, Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.

Conewago.—Our love least was held in the Bachmanville church May 24 and 25. Although it was rainy we had large gatherings at the three services. Nineteen ministers were present from other congregations and we enjoyed a great spiritual least. During the afternoon session Bro. Amos Shearer was elected deacon, and at the opening of the evening session he and his wife were installed. Bro. S. H. Hertzler, elder of the congregation, conducted the installation services. Our Sunday-school at Bachmanville has decided to render a Children's Day program on Sunday afternoon, June 22.—Lena H. Gruber, Bachmanville, Pa., June 7.

Ligonier church has just closed a series of meetings, in charge of Brethren W. E. Wolford and J. W. Sanner, assisted by Bro. M. J. Brougher, of Greensburg. Bro. P. J. Blough and wife came on Friday evening and stayed for the love feast. Three boys and three young men were received by baptism. We sent $120 for Armenian Relief and $78 to the Annual Meeting missionary offering. Sister Wm. E. Wolford left for Annual Meeting on Tuesday evening. The Sunday-school Convention of the seventh circuit of Western Pennsylvania will be held at Bolivar June 17.—Opal W. Leonard, Ligonier, Pa., June 6.

Lower Conewago.—Eld. S. M. Stouffer, of Newville, Pa., closed his evangelistic work at the Wolgamouth house May 25. He delivered eighteen inspiring sermons. His sermon in honor of Mothers' Day was very interesting to all. The church was much revived through his help in this series of meetings.—R. D. Cook, Dillsburg, Pa., June 7.

Marsh Creek church has just closed a two weeks' series of meetings, conducted by Bro. David L. Little, of Hanover. On the last day our love least was held at the Marsh Creek house. Two were reclaimed during the meetings. We had with us at our love least Eld. H. M. Stover, who officiated, and Brethren David L. Little, Geo. Bowers, Jacob Hollinger and H. S. Baker. About 150 communed. Bro. Stover preached to a full house Sunday morning. Our missionary collection amounted to $160.—Ida M. Lightner, Gettysburg, Pa., June 3.

Meyersdale.—May 11 we observed Mothers' Day with a special program. The service was largely attended. A talk was given by our pastor and at the close a large bouquet of carnations, used in the service, was presented to a consecrated mother. May 18 we began a two weeks' series of meetings, with our pastor, Bro. Coffman, in charge. During the last week the weather was nice and we had the church full nearly every night. Good interest was manifested. We had fine music, with Sister Florence Just and Prof. Meyers Horner in charge. We recently received four by letter. On Sunday morning nine were baptized and one reclaimed. Our preparatory services were held in the morning, and at 7 o'clock in the evening we met for our love feast, with a larger number communing than ever before. The service was very impressive. We are encouraged by the large attendance and the growth of the church. Our pastor leaves this week for Annual Conference. Our church raised $1,014.19 for the Armenians. We are now preparing for Children's Day.—Mrs. D. J. Fike, Meyersdale, Pa., June 9.

Philadelphia (First Church).—Bro. C. C. Ellis, Vice-President of Juniata College, who has been supplying our pulpit for the last six months, has accepted the pastorate, with Bro. Siover Kulp as associate pastor, beginning July 1. One has united with the church by baptism since our last report.—Mrs. Wm. H. B. Schnell, Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.

Ridge church held her love least at the Fogelsanger house May 31 and June 1. Eld. D. A. Foutz, of Greencastle, and Eld. John A. Miller, of Carlisle, officiated. Saturday these Brethren preached two powerful sermons and on Sunday morning Eld. Miller delivered another wonderful message on "Soldiers for Christ." Previous to the meeting of bree were received by baptism and one reclaimed.—Mrs. Joseph Burkhart, Shippensburg, Pa., June 10.

Welsh Run.—Five have been baptized since our last report. We held our love least May 24 and 25. Visiting ministers present were Brethren C. D. Bonsack, who officiated, J. M. Flohr, Ira Hart, John Hershman, S. D. Hartzoch, C. Hicks, D. Petre and F. McCoy. At the close of the services, on Sunday morning, an offering was taken, to be sent to Annual Meeting.—Mrs. N. A. Winger, Mercersburg, Pa., June 6.

Woodbury.—At our love feast we had a large attendance,—about 300 communicants being present. Eld. D. T. Detwiler, of New Enterprise, had charge of the service. We expect Eld. H. C. Early to begin a series of meetings for us at the Replogle house Oct. 12.—J. C. Stayer, Woodbury, Pa., June 9.

TENNESSEE

Limestone church met in council May 24, with Eld. A. E. Nead presiding. Three letters of membership have been received since our last report. Our Annual Meeting offering amounted to $20.60.—Honoria Penee, Limestone, Tenn., June 11.

Meadow Branch church met in council May 24, with Eld. J. Henry Peterson in charge. We elected Bro. Peterson elder for another year. Brethren W. O. Jarnagin and A. M. Isenberg were elected delegates to District Meeting. We took an offering of $76 for the Annual Meeting collection.—Cora A. Gammon, Tate, Tenn., June 6.

New Branch church met in council June 7, with Eld. A. M. Laughrun presiding. Brethren A. M. Laughrun and J. B. Hilbert were elected delegates to District Meeting, with Brethren Niles Hilbert and Floyd Laughrun, alternates. Recently a collection of $53.75 was taken for World-wide Missions. Our Sunday-school is doing nicely. —Mary Hilbert, Joneshoro, Tenn., June 10.

VIRGINIA

Antioch.—May 25 the writer went to Bethel church, a mission point in the above congregation, and began a series of meetings. Through the earnest efforts of the members, who came long distances, and the ministers, the meetings were continued one week, with growing crowds and good interest. Four were baptised.—J. A. Nafi, Boone Mill, Va., June 10.

Burks Fork church met May 17, with Bro. Joel Weddle presiding. A collection of $22.40 was taken for World-wide Missions. Brethren Austin Hylton and Joel Weddle preached interesting sermons on the day followig.—Clemmie E. Hylton, Floyd, Va., June 2.

Elk Run church met in council May 31, with Eld. W. H. Zigler presiding. The Elk Run congregation decided to provide half the support of Sister Sarah Zigler Myers on the foreign field. The series of meetings, conducted by Bro. M. G. Sanger at Moscow, closed June 1, with two restored to church fellowship.—C. H. Smith, Mt. Solon, Va., June 6.

Midland church met in council May 31 at the Mt. Hermon house, with Eld. M. G. Early presiding. Five letters were granted. We decided to paint the Midland churchhouse and to add a kitchen to the Mt. Hermon house. May 17, at a special council, held prior to our love feast, Bro. Cheslie Hinegardner was elected to the ministry and Brethren Daniel Myers and Carl Miller were chosen deacons. May 18, after an inspiring sermon by Bro. L. A. Neff, the installation of the new officers took place.—Mrs. Lelia M. Andes, Bealeton, Va., June 9.

Mt. Joy church met in council June 1, with a comparatively good representatioo of members present. Bro. Lewis Newcomb was chosen delegate to Annual Meeting. Eld. H. H. Byer, from Bethel, was present at this meeting and remained over, preaching for us on Saturday night and on Sunday morning. We decided to hold our annual love least on the evening of June 14, beginning at 7:30 A. M. A series of meetings will be held this fall, provided we can secure a minister. Our Sunday-school is progressing fairly well.—A. F. Pressley, Mt. Joy, Va., June 5.

Rodes Grove.—Our council meeting was held at Stone Wall May 31, with Eld. C. E. Williams presiding. We decided to have a meeting the second Saturday in July to elect some deacons. One letter was granted. Most of the business was deferred until next council, on account of the absence of both our elder and assistant. Eld. Vest is engaged in a series of meetings at Pulaski City. Bro. Williams preached an excellent sermon on Sunday to a large audience. —Clara V. Vest, Floyd, Va., June 3.

WEST VIRGINIA

Eglon.—We met in council May 30, with Eld. Jonas Fike presiding. In the evening we met for a peace program, which was very interesting. Bro. Daniel Spaid, who has recently returned from France, gave us a talk on some of his experiences. He also preached an excellent sermon on Sunday morning.—Goldie Judy, Eglon, W. Va., June 5.

Greenland church met in council at the Brick church and raised her allotment of $200 for the Annual Meeting offering. We hope the $150,000 will be raised.—Dennis Clark, Streiley, W. Va., June 1.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DISTRICT MEETINGS

July 23-25, District of Texas and Louisiana, at Nocona, Texas.
August 19-21, District of Oregon, at Portland.
August 29, 30, District of Western Maryland, Oakland, at Pine Grove church.

LOVE FEASTS

California

June 22, 7 pm, Santee.

Idaho

July 12, 8 pm, Winchester.

Illinois

June 21, 22, Yellow Creek.
June 21, 22, 8:30 pm, Rock Creek.
June 22, Sterling.

Indiana

June 21, 8 pm, Upper Deer Creek.
June 22, 7 pm, Indianapolis.

Iowa

June 30, South Waterloo.

Maryland

June 21, Bear Creek.

Michigan

June 21, 8 pm, Hart, at Cedar house.
June 21, 10:30 am, New Havco.
June 28, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnasota

June 21, Monticello.
June 28, Lewistoo.
June 28, 29, Hancock.
June 28, Morrill.
July 5, Worthington.

Montana

July 5, Poplar Valley.

North Dakota

July 12, Pleasant Hill.

Ohio

June 21, North Poplar Ridge.
June 21, 10:30 am, Silver Creek.
June 22, Ashland (Dickey).
June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.
June 28, 10 am, Richland.
June 28, Canton Center (all-day meeting).
June 29, 8 pm, Bellefontaine.
June 29, 6 pm, Deshler.

Oregon

June 28, 7 pm, Albany.

Pennsylvania

June 21, 6:30 pm, James Creek.
June 28, 3 pm, Elbethel, at Elbethel house.
June 28, Markeyshurg.
June 29, Montgomery.
June 29, Sipesville.
June 29, Locust Grove.

South Dakota

July 5, Willow Creek.

Virginia

June 22, 6 pm, Roanoke City.

West Virginia

June 28, Tear Coat.
August 30, Maple Spring.

DANGER!

NOT FOR THE OTHER FELLOW ONLY, BUT

For Your Boy WHERE?

In that Dancing, Cigarette Smoking, Card Playing Crowd he will have to associate with, unless you send him to a Clean School. McPHERSON COLLEGE IS CLEAN. Take no Chances. Send Your Boy to McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPherson, Kansas.

Fall Semester begins September 15, 1919.

Remember: It costs less too in McPherson College.

(Watch this space next week.)

The Teachers' Monthly

A Magazine for Sunday-School Officers and Teachers

The May number of the Teachers' Monthly was a regular 48 page issue and contained nine pages of matter devoted to the exposition of each of the four lessons for the month. In addition it contained twelve pages of special articles as follows:

1. Your Sunday-school's Part in the Forward Movement.
2. Library Helps for Teachers.
3. The Missionary Message.
4. An Alphabet of Favorite Bible Verses.
5. Systematic Offerings in the Sunday-school.
6. The Spirit of Worship in the Sunday-school.
7. A "Round-up Sunday" Plan.
8. The Book of Books.
9. Emotional Life of a Child.
10. The Teacher Who Failed. Etc., etc.

A magazine which contains such a wealth of material on Sunday-school problems as well as the exposition of the lessons themselves should be in the hands of every teacher and officer.

Single copy, per quarter, 18c; three or more to one address, per quarter, 15c each; single copy, per year, 60c; three or more to one address, per year, 55c each.

Primary and Junior Note Books

The Primary Note Book provides space for the record of each lesson as follows:

Date of the lesson.
Subject of the lesson.
Space to paste lesson picture card.
Space for memory verse.
A page for "Something to Do."

If you have not found a way for the children to keep a record of the Sunday-school lesson and save their lesson cards in good shape just send for some Primary Note Books.

The Junior Note Book provides spaces for the date, subject and golden text of each lesson as well as a record for daily Bible study.

Price of either Primary or Junior Note Books as follows: Single copy 5c; five or more to one address 3c each. Uniform in size and binding with the Quarterlies.

THE AOORESSES GIVING AN

Interpretation of the Forward Movement will be one feature of the Full Report of Annual Meeting this year. Order the Full Report now! You cannot afford to be without it. Price: 35c per copy, post paid.

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE
ELGIN, ILLINOIS

DANGER!

NOT FOR THE OTHER FELLOW ONLY, BUT

For Your Boy

WHERE?

In that Dancing, Cigarette Smoking, Card Playing Crowd he will have to associate with, unless you send him to a Clean School. McPHERSON COLLEGE IS CLEAN. Take no Chances. Send Your Boy to McPHERSON COLLEGE, McPherson, Kansas.

Fall Semester begins September 15, 1919.

Remember: It costs less too in McPherson College.

(Watch this space next week.)

The Teachers' Monthly

A Magazine for Sunday-School Officers and Teachers

The May number of the Teachers' Monthly was a regular 48 page issue and contained nine pages of matter devoted to the exposition of each of the four lessons for the month. In addition it contained twelve pages of special articles as follows:

1. Your Sunday-school's Part in the Forward Movement.
2. Library Helps for Teachers.
3. The Missionary Message.
4. An Alphabet of Favorite Bible Verses.
5. Systematic Offerings in the Sunday-school.
6. The Spirit of Worship in the Sunday-school.
7. A "Round-up Sunday" Plan.
8. The Book of Books.
9. Emotional Life of a Child.
10. The Teacher Who Failed. Etc., etc.

A magazine which contains such a wealth of material on Sunday-school problems as well as the exposition of the lessons themselves should be in the hands of every teacher and officer.

Single copy, per quarter, 18c; three or more to one address, per quarter, 15c each; single copy, per year, 60c; three or more to one address, per year, 55c each.

Primary and Junior Note Books

The Primary Note Book provides space for the record of each lesson as follows:

Date of the lesson.
Subject of the lesson.
Space to paste lesson picture card.
Space for memory verse.
A page for "Something to Do."

If you have not found a way for the children to keep a record of the Sunday-school lesson and save their lesson cards in good shape just send for some Primary Note Books.

The Junior Note Book provides spaces for the date, subject and golden text of each lesson as well as a record for daily Bible study.

Price of either Primary or Junior Note Books as follows: Single copy 5c; five or more to one address 3c each. Uniform in size and binding with the Quarterlies.

THE ADDRESSES GIVING AN

Interpretation of the Forward Movement will be one feature of the Full Report of Annual

THE GOSPEL MES

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14.

"STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3: 13

Vol. 68

Elgin, Ill., June 28, 1919

In This Number

Editorial,—
Keeping the One Big Fact in Mind, ... 401
Getting Lost at Church, ... 401
Our Best and Greatest Conference (D. L. M.), ... 401
The Sweetness of Revenge, ... 402
The Quiet Hour, ... 407
Among the Churches, ... 408
Around the World, ... 409

Contributors' Forum,—
If the Lord Should Come (Poem), ... 402
Justice. By S. Z. Sharp, ... 402
Four Views of Faith—I. By H. H. Helman, ... 403
Wanted at Once, a Dozen Missionaries. By W. G. Nyce, ... 403
High Power Christians. By Galen B. Royer, ... 404
Church History and Polity.—VI. By Carman Cover Johnson, ... 404
Christian Leadership. By M. W. Emmert, ... 405
Ecdysis. By H. H. Nininger, ... 405

The Round Table,—
Prayer. By Ida M. Helm, ... 406
Easter in Jerusalem. By J. E. Miller, ... 406
A Garden (Poem), ... 406
What Are You Reading? By J. M. Blough, ... 406
When the Boys Come Home, Why Change? By Nora E. Berkebile, ... 407

Home and Family,—
Our Visitor (Poem). By Julia Graydon, ... 410
The Glories of Motherhood. By W. H. Meyers, ... 410
Satan's Criminal Factories. By Nancy D. Underhill, ... 410
Prodigal Sons,—Why Do They Leave Home? By Olin F. Shaw, 410

...EDITORIAL...

Keeping the One Big Fact in Mind

WITH the launching of campaigns, leagues, movements, and what not, for world betterment, the rattling of machinery is fairly deafening. It is the new life with which the hearts and hopes of men are seething everywhere. It is the embryo of the new world, swelling and pressing hard against the shell of the old, trying to find some place to break through.

Much of the mighty effort will seem to have been wasted. Much of the striving will have come to naught when tangible results are looked for. But what of that? The path of progress is always strewn with contrivances outworn or found useless and rejected. How else would the useful instruments of progress be found out?

So let the experimentation proceed. Some good will come of it. Some better ways of doing things, as churches, nations and social groups of every kind, will be discovered. Some really useful machinery will survive the wreck of discarded appliances.

Only let us keep the one big fact in mind! The thing we are working at is nothing less than the making over of human hearts. We must put the Spirit of God into them and train them in the practice of Christian principles. This is the only way to bring that "new world" into being. All campaigns, movements, leagues and programs must be auxiliary to this.

Getting Lost at Church

IT is bad enough to get lost on the way to church but worse to get lost after reaching the place of worship.

One man who had the former experience tells how he listened to his friend's directions for finding the place, then started off confidently until all at once he realized he did not know whether to turn this way or that. He remembered he was to pass a certain building but did not remember which way he was to go next. He thought he understood when he started out, but found later that he had not paid close enough attention to the directions of his friend.

OUR BEST AND GRE

Most Significant Meeting Ever Spiritual Standard.—

IN the title to this writing, concerning our Conference, recently closed at Winona Lake, Ind., are given facts relative to that great meeting. It has been the privilege of the writer to attend about forty of our Annual Conferences, and he sets down this last one, without drawing on the imagination even for a moment, as the very best, much the largest, in the attendance of members of the church, and immeasurably the greatest Conference of the church he ever attended.

In spirituality it was of the highest type. In this feature alone we have abundant occasion for great rejoicing that the church has so rapidly grown in this most important Christian grace. This Conference gave a strong token of spiritual growth and development. Along this line it was greatly blessed of God. The speakers, for the most part, showed a marked disposition, in their sermons and addresses, to hold up, not only methods of work in this life, but strongly urged the spiritual side of the Christian life. The immense audiences felt the inspiration given on the subject, and intensely enjoyed the meetings. It was on almost every tongue to say: "What a good, spiritual meeting we did have. Thank God for it!" Scores of expressions were heard, as one passed through the crowds after the services closed. Many of our aged members declared this to be the best meeting they ever attended.

Another splendid feature of the meeting was the very large number of our young people in attendance,—more than we ever saw at any of our Conferences. The Program Committee acted wisely and well in placing a number of our young speakers on the program, and the speakers did well. Upon the young men and women of the church of today depends the church of tomorrow. We ought to look carefully after our young people and encourage them in every possible way. Let them understand that they are to be the leaders of the future. Otherwise it will not go so well with the church in time to come. Some of the very best sermons and addresses were given by our young ministers and public speakers.

The Program Committee is to be heartily congratulated upon the wisdom displayed, in arranging the speaking force for the meeting. The subjects and topics were well chosen and the same is true of the speakers. Among these were a number of new names not often heard at Conference. In the past a few speakers seemed to have a monopoly on the addresses at Conference. Now that God has so richly blessed the church with a large number of very able young speakers, it is a wise move to let them be heard at our large Annual Meetings.

The song service was well conducted. It was in charge of Sister Cora M. Stahly, of Manchester College. She has charge of singing in that institution of learning. She had some assistance, and all did remarkably well. Winona is the home of Mr. Rodeheaver, the leader of Billy Sunday's song services at his great meetings. He very kindly consented to sing one afternoon for us. He is considered among the Armenians. We have given over a quarter of a million dollars of the means, wherewith God blessed us, this year, to help others, and we are richer instead of poorer. Let the missionary offering for 1920 be not less than $200,000.

The spirit manifested in the business sessions of the Conference was also most excellent. Our efficient Moderator, who has served in that capacity at six of our Conferences, told us that he never served on a Standing Committee in which there was such a harmony of feeling and such a good spirit shown as was manifest this year. We did not all get just what we wanted,—we never do in this world,—but the spirit of the meeting was of the highest type. The discussions were carried on in the spirit of brotherly love, and good will prevailed throughout the entire business meeting. There were 580 local church delegates present,—the largest number ever in attendance. This is gratifying. It is sincerely hoped that the time will come when all of our one thousand churches will send delegates to our Conferences.

One query presented was answered by the Standing Committee "Respectfully returned," because of some of the statements made in the query, and also because of the unusual methods adopted in promoting it. The answer by the Standing Committee was a wise one. It was on the point of being passed in open Conference,—the previous question having been moved,—when the Moderator accorded a good brother the floor, who offered a substitute for the answer of the Standing Committee, asking that the paper be referred to a Committee, to be reported on in 1920. The substitute passed. At the close the Standing Committee offered the following protest, which was unanimously adopted by Conference:

Annual Conference protests: (1) Against circularizing the Brotherhood with personal accusations against leading brethren, and otherwise promoting matters to come before the Conference; and (2) against brethren publicly denouncing our elder brethren, as well as the decisions of Annual Conference, thus tending to increase the strained relations now existing.

The reason the Standing Committee decided to return the query was because of the unwise and mistaken circularizing of the Brotherhood, and on some points making incorrect statements. If all the points had been brought before the open Conference, as they were before the Standing Committee, doubtless the answer of the Standing Committee would have been sustained. But the points were not all brought out.

The methods used in promoting the paper to bring it to the Conference were considered unwise and a serious mistake. Such methods, it was said, tend to destroy the unity of the church, which is wrong in the sight of God. It is sincerely hoped that we shall not have another instance of this kind. There were a few good points in the paper, but the methods were ill-advised. It was this that saddened the hearts of a number of our good, faithful brethren. This was the only depressing feature of our good meeting. For the first time, in our church history, has it been deemed expedient to place on record a protest of this kind. Laying aside this incident, and burying it with the dead past, and the regrets it caused with it, we can most emphatically repeat what was said in the start,—that the Conference of 1919 was the greatest and best ever held in the Church of the Brethren. Thank God for it all! Through his great blessings it came to us. Praise him and glorify his great name! D. L. M.

The "Sweetness" of Revenge

"Revenge is a gun that kicks harder than it shoots."

Because it plants the seeds of desire for a still greater revenge in the heart of the one toward whom it is directed. And so on, without end. The "getting even" process never finds a satisfactory stopping place. The other party is never satisfied to quit.

But there is a better reason. It is found in the effect of revenge on the character of the one who cherishes it. The bitterness of spirit which it engenders is a far more serious damage to its possessor than any which it can inflict upon the object of its hate.

For this bitterness the "sweetness" of revenge is poor compensation. Paul's "coals of fire" are better.

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

If the Lord Should Come

If the Lord should come in the morning
As I went about my work,
The little things and the quiet things
That a servant cannot shirk,
Though nobody ever sees them,
And only the dear Lord cares
That they always are done in the light of the sun,
Would he take me unawares?

If my Lord should come at noonday,
The time of the dust and heat,
When the glare is white, and the air is still,
And the hoof-beats sound in the street,—
If my dear Lord came at noonday,
And smiled in my tired eyes,
Would it not be sweet his look to meet?
Would he take me by surprise?

If my Lord came hither at evening,
In the fragrant dew and dusk,
When the world drops off its mantle
Of daylight like a husk,
And flowers in wonderful beauty,
And we fold our hands and rest,
Would his touch of my hand, his low command,
Bring me unhoped-for zest?

Why do I ask and question?
He is ever coming to me,
Morning and noon and evening,
If I have but eyes to see.
And the daily load grows lighter,
The daily cares grow sweet,
For the Master is near, the Master is here,
I have only to sit at his feet.

—Margaret Sangster.

Justice

BY S. Z. SHARP

Never before, in the history of the world, has justice been so much in demand, among nations as well as among individuals, as now. Even the nations which have been most brutal and destructive during the war, now ask for justice in the form of leniency, when they are to be punished for their crimes. Nearly everybody wants justice. We read of one man who did not want it. It was an Irishman who had a case pending in court which worried him. A friend tried to console him by saying that the judge before whom his case was to be tried was a righteous man and would surely do him justice. "Ah," said Pat, "That is just what I am afraid of." From this we learn that righteous persons always want justice, but the wicked do not always want it.

In the first place we ought to have a clear understanding as to what is meant by justice. Not many, on the spur of the moment, can tell exactly what it is, though they have a confused idea about it. The dictionary defines it: "Conformity to the principles of right and equity." The ancients represented it by a woman holding in her hand an equally-balanced pair of scales. The word is used both in an abstract and concrete sense. In the abstract it embodies the principles of right and equity, and forms the standard by which God judges and by which justices in court profess to judge. In the concrete it means what a person gets when he obtains what rightly belongs to him.

Justice is an attribute of God, hence an eternal principle. Judges of courts profess to judge by this principle, hence we call them justices. It is also the standard by which all the weights, measures and values are regulated.

Justice is the principle by which all commercial transactions are intended to be adjusted,—by nations as well as by individuals. When William Penn bought the territory of Pennsylvania from the Indians, and paid for it in goods, each one thought he got justice, and peace reigned between them long after other colonies were engaged in war. If the great war, just closed, is to be the last one, for a long time to come, then the Peace Congress, now in session, must arrange according to the principles of justice, the affairs of each nation whose destiny is now in its hands.

Injustice always brings dire results. We can not name a single war that was not induced by injustice. The Revolutionary War was caused by the unjust taxes and oppression laid upon the colonies by England. The Civil War was the result of unjust slavery prevailing in the Southern States. The late war was started by the unjust demands of Austria upon Serbia,—Germany agreeing thereto. The many strikes and disturbances that constantly occur between labor and capital, originate because of the unjust demands of one party or the other. Injustice always creates disturbances, while justice produces peace, tranquillity and happiness.

We get our idea of justice by intuition. We are born with it. Give a child a toy and then try to take it away, and see how it protests. It feels that it is being wronged. Like every other power of the mind, the sense of justice can be quickened or improved.

While it is the professed purpose of all courts to do justice, this, by no means, always happens. One reason is that not all the facts in the case are presented to the judge or jury, and the decision is according to the facts presented. Sometimes prejudice is a winning factor in the case. Then juries can not always take into consideration the motives which prompted the act. Such will not be the case in the last judgment, in the end of the world. There absolute justice will be done. There the judge will be unbiased and will know all the facts and motives and every one will be judged "according to the deeds done in the body."

There is one class of cases that needs explanation. It is asked: "How can it be according to justice that some who led clean moral lives are lost, while some who were great sinners, like the Apostle Paul, are saved?" The answer is: "Morality can save no man. If it could, it would not have been necessary for Christ to suffer and die for the sins of mankind. The moral man, who does not accept Christ as his Savior, simply remains unsaved, while the sinner, who repents and accepts the Savior, is in a saved condition."

Still the question arises: "How can God satisfy justice and at the same time save such a wicked sinner?"

Let us explain by an example: The time was when, in England, a person was imprisoned for debt and not released until the debt was paid. There were two boys,—a nobleman's son and the son of a peasant. The two boys played together in childhood and went through college together. The peasant's son was diligent and economical and rose from position to position until he became a judge on the king's bench. The nobleman's son was reckless, spent all his inheritance and then plunged into debt. He was arrested and brought into court for trial. To his astonishment and joy he recognized the judge to be his former companion and friend. He hoped that he who so often befriended him will befriend him now. Great was his astonishment when the judge laid on him the heaviest penalty the law would allow. Justice had to be satisfied. The prisoner collapsed in despair. His case was hopeless. The sheriff came to lead him to his doom. When he reached the door, the judge said: "Bring that prisoner back." Then he pulled out his purse and paid every penny the prisoner owed and said: "Now let him go free."

Who will say that the judge did not do justice? The heaviest penalty was laid on the culprit and the law was fully satisfied. If, however, the judge wished to bestow a gift, no one could object. That is exactly the way in which the Lord deals with sinners who are saved. He can be just and yet be "the justifier of him that hath faith in Jesus" (Rom. 3: 26). Christ, our Representative, was arraigned for the debt of the whole world. "The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. . . . He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities, . . . and with his stripes we are healed" (Isa. 53: 5, 6). Jesus paid it all.

Just now the Peace Congress is dealing out justice to the nations. The Jews who, for eighteen centuries, have been bewailing the loss of their country and their temple, are now permitted to return and are speaking of a million-dollar temple on Mount Moriah. The Injustice always brings dire results. We can not name a single war that was not induced by injustice. The Revolutionary War was caused by the unjust taxes and oppression laid upon the colonies by England. The Civil War was the result of unjust slavery prevailing in the Southern States. The late war was started by the unjust demands of Austria upon Serbia,—Germany agreeing thereto. The many strikes and disturbances that constantly occur between labor and capital, originate because of the unjust demands of one party or the other. Injustice always creates disturbances, while justice produces peace, tranquillity and happiness.

We get our idea of justice by intuition. We are born with it. Give a child a toy and then try to take it away, and see how it protests. It feels that it is being wronged. Like every other power of the mind, the sense of justice can be quickened or improved.

While it is the professed purpose of all courts to do justice, this, by no means, always happens. One reason is that not all the facts in the case are presented to the judge or jury, and the decision is according to the facts presented. Sometimes prejudice is a winning factor in the case. Then juries can not always take into consideration the motives which prompted the act. Such will not be the case in the last judgment, in the end of the world. There absolute justice will be done. There the judge will be unbiased and will know all the facts and motives and every one will be judged "according to the deeds done in the body."

There is one class of cases that needs explanation. It is asked: "How can it be according to justice that some who led clean moral lives are lost, while some who were great sinners, like the Apostle Paul, are saved?" The answer is: "Morality can save no man. If it could, it would not have been necessary for Christ to suffer and die for the sins of mankind. The moral man, who does not accept Christ as his Savior, simply remains unsaved, while the sinner, who repents and accepts the Savior, is in a saved condition."

Still the question arises: "How can God satisfy justice and at the same time save such a wicked sinner?"

Let us explain by an example: The time was when, in England, a person was imprisoned for debt and not released until the debt was paid. There were two boys,—a nobleman's son and the son of a peasant. The two boys played together in childhood and went through college together. The peasant's son was diligent and economical and rose from position to position until he became a judge on the king's bench. The nobleman's son was reckless, spent all his inheritance and then plunged into debt. He was arrested and brought into court for trial. To his astonishment and joy he recognized the judge to be his former companion and friend. He hoped that he who so often befriended him will befriend him now. Great was his astonishment when the judge laid on him the heaviest penalty the law would allow. Justice had to be satisfied. The prisoner collapsed in despair. His case was hopeless. The sheriff came to lead him to his doom. When he reached the door, the judge said: "Bring that prisoner back." Then he pulled out his purse and paid every penny the prisoner owed and said: "Now let him go free."

Who will say that the judge did not do justice? The heaviest penalty was laid on the culprit and the law was fully satisfied. If, however, the judge wished to bestow a gift, no one could object. That is exactly the way in which the Lord deals with sinners who are saved. He can be just and yet be "the justifier of him that hath faith in Jesus" (Rom. 3: 26). Christ, our Representative, was arraigned for the debt of the whole world. "The Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. . . . He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he opened not his mouth. He was taken from prison and from judgment: and who shall declare his generation? for he was cut off out of the land of the living: for the transgression of my people was he stricken. And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth. Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise him; he hath put him to grief: when thou shalt make his soul an offering for sin, he shall see his seed, he shall prolong his days, and the pleasure of the Lord shall prosper in his hand. He shall see of the travail of his soul, and shall be satisfied: by his knowledge shall my righteous servant justify many; for he shall bear their iniquities. Therefore will I divide him a portion with the great, and he shall divide the spoil with the strong; because he hath poured out his soul unto death: and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors" (Isa. 53: 5-12).

Armenians, who lost nearly a million inhabitants through the savage butchery of the Turks, are to have freedom and protection. The Poles who, for one hundred and twenty years, suffered under the tyranny of Prussia, Austria and Russia, among whom their country was divided, are again united into a compact nation, and given a place among the Allies. Serbia, which furnished the pretext for Austria and Germany to begin the war, and was to be annihilated, is to be restored and to be made greater than ever. Belgium and France are to receive just indemnities for what they suffered by the war. All the other nations which suffered by the war are to have justice meted out to them. Never before, in the history of the world, have plans been made to administer justice on such a gigantic scale.

Fruita, Colo.

Four Views of Faith

BY H. H. HELMAN

I. Faith and Salvation

ARE you sure you have faith? How do you know that you have it? How do you feel, and act, and look, under the direction of faith? Did you have faith when you entered the redeemed life? Have you had it since? Has it ever been as strong since? Has its presence brought, or its absence failed to bring, a change in your life? Do you think you are what you could have been, but for the absence of faith? Are you doing the work which operative faith promotes? Do you feel that faith answers for regeneration, for character, for activity? Are you real sure of anything concerning faith?

Because faith is abstractly defined in the best-known scripture bearing upon the subject (Heb. 11: 1), we pass up the subject with little inquiry into its real significance and meaning. But here we err, for faith enters vitally into the entire life and being of every real Christian, from the initial entrance into this life, through all the experiences and operations of its entire course. For this reason, a serious inquiry into the meaning and operations of faith is incumbent upon every true child of God. The absence of faith in the life of any individual should cause great discomfort and great concern, for it is absolutely essential to secure, to keep and to exercise in salvation.

"Have faith in God," is a specific command of our Savior. "By grace are ye saved, through faith," indicates that there can be no salvation without faith. "Whatsoever is not of faith is sin." "Without faith it is impossible to please God." "The just shall live by faith." Thus one scripture after another strikes at the necessity and significance of faith. All the wonderful, satisfying result, which we call salvation, depends upon faith as a requirement. It was not only made prominent but essential by both Christ and his apostles. Not only was it to be a condition of salvation as an initial step, but to be the inspiration of the whole life. And this requirement of faith, as a necessity, imposes nothing impossible or even difficult upon the recipient of salvation.

The prescription of ritual, so prevalent in other religions, might have been zealously followed by the superstitious and ignorant mind. But that is the very opposite of the faith way. Yet, here is where we are so liable to be misled. Even in this State pilgrimages are made to a certain spot and here people believe to be healed, redeemed or inspired. Some folks try to purchase salvation by observance of ordinances, donations to charity, refraining from certain immoral acts, but, at the same time, neglect to perform the duties required by active faith. But this is not the faith way. It is grace that saves, through faith. Faith itself does not purchase salvation,—it only makes it effective. God, in his love for us, wants grace to do the work of salvation. Man is inclined to prescribe something sense, there is no condition of salvation but that of acceptance of it. Just accept it. Whoever accepts the provision, made by the vicarious death of Christ, will be saved. But God hates sin. Union with God is impossible with the sinner. Sin must be condemned and the sinner realize his helpless condition. Here faith begins, for the man who has faith does this. If faith continues and the sinner appropriates or accepts Christ as answering for his sins, the soul will be redeemed. Faith here causes us to apprehend and apply the blood and righteousness of Christ. Simultaneously with our feeling of guilt, our sorrow for sin, our knowledge of a lost condition and our utter inability to come to God,—all operations of faith,—we turn to God in our despair, apply for Jesus' blood for our sins and his Spirit for the transformation of our lives. Faith does all this and it is by grace. What have we done? Nothing. We only accept a gift. The acceptance is faith. Happily its presence made redemptive power operative and we became sons of God. But our faith was a God-given instinct to draw us to God. So even the ability to exercise faith is a God-given power. How dependent upon God we poor sinners are!

Unfortunately, here is where too many of us stop. We really had faith when we put on Christ. What mountains of guilt it removed! What an assurance it gave of things hoped for! What boldness in the Gospel we felt! But alas! We did not appropriate the promises of faith. We lost our zeal. Mole hills became mountains which our faith was too weak to remove. We needed to pray: "Lord, increase our faith." We seemed to have lost the substance of things hoped for and failed to see any evidence of things not seen. Then we despaired of understanding faith and hence of exercising in its powers. We were still able to define it abstractly (Heb. 11: 1), but unable to show or prove its reality and operations in a life moved by faith.

As an essential, salvation is dependent upon faith. It is not a prescription but a condition. It is not a superstitious but an intelligent exercise of mind and spirit. Everybody is eligible; none are barred from the faith way. Once we are redeemed, faith does not cease to be necessary. It must continue to operate,—first, to the building of character, second, to the inspiration and direction of service.

Richwood, Ohio.

Wanted, at Once, a Dozen Missionaries

BY W. G. NYCE

THIS is not a call for foreign work. It is neither for service in the city slums, nor for any remote point, far away from home or friends.

The twelve mission points are right in your own congregation, yet they are of as great importance, involving almost as much sacrifice if fully covered, as those in lands beyond the sea. Each is a real mission, and the one who undertakes it is a real missionary.

They are the twelve principal lines of church and Sunday-school activity, carried on so generally by conscripts, or untrained volunteers, but calling for specialists, and requiring specialization before ever the church shall be liberated from impediments to its progress.

The twelve principal lines of definite activity which every live church,—and Sunday-school, for they are one,—should include in its program are "The Cradle Roll," "The Beginners' Department," "The Primary," "Junior," "Intermediate," "Senior," "Adult" and "Home Departments," "Educational," "Social," "Evangelistic" and "Missionary Development."

These are rather lightly referred to as departments, but they are more than mere divisions of an organization,—more than simply names of forms of work in evidence in the church. They are really twelve dis-that about all the best-equipped intellectually for this service are already loaded down with secular or other responsibilities, and some decline appointment right away on that ground. Others, seeing the pressing need, agree to take class leadership, reluctantly adding it to their already-overburdened programs, and never achieving distinguished success. They can't. It can't be done. This is a full-sized job in itself, and is a mission, calling for a missionary who will make it the first consideration in his life, and use even his secular employment to pay expenses, while he carries on this supreme business of the Lord.

The consecration of a trained worker, his thorough and careful preparation for every lesson, and his PRAYER, will exercise an irresistible influence upon the members of his class. All of them? All of them. None will ultimately escape it. This is his field, and he will work it, and God will give the increase. He will not (successfully) do much else in the church. He may preach, but his sermons will be more or less a side-issue. The writer has never seen or heard of an ideal teacher of a Bible class,—an organized class with many relations for him to fit his message to,—who followed his work of teaching with an ideal sermon week after week. When he renders both services in succession continuously, both are less than his best.

The minister is frequently pressed into the service of teaching Adult Bible classes because of the lack of teacher-material—or teacher-willingness. And this is a service as big as his own, and fully as important,—a lay service. Why do not the lay-members recognize its claims on them, and volunteer for it,—take the training and measure up! Let it be known for a few months that one such is making good as the teacher of a Bible class, specializing in that line of work, and his class will be sought out, the school will get accessions, the church will rise in general respect, and the teacher himself will find a great, new, vast field of usefulness opened up to him, in the opportunities constantly presented to share, in conventions and in the journals, his secrets of Bible class success.

Dealing with each age, or class, of life in the church and Sunday-school, presents a different set of requirements and different problems to be solved. The casual observer can do nothing with them. They have to be studied hard, carefully, exactly. Often the end to be accomplished comes by prayer and fasting. Each task becomes a life-work, a life-mission to the missionary who accepts it.

Equally true is it that the social life of the church needs,—must have,—skilled direction or perish. Few there are who know how to bring into pleasant and profitable coördination the social activities of the members of the Sunday-school and of the church. The Friends know how. The Catholics know how. The military welfare experts know how. Each of these holds on to what it has, keeping everybody satisfied. An expert in social service and community welfare (in and for the Brethren church), would be welcomed by every pastor, increase the usefulness of the young members, increase their contentment in the church, increase the number of marriages conserved within the church, and increase the accessions to the church. A consecrated social leader of the church is a missionary with a large and important mission.

Evangelism within the church should include the development of personal workers, the distribution of tractual literature, team work when possible, holding of shop-meetings and cottage prayer-meetings, and other lay activities,—all for the purpose of making Christ the one supreme every-day message of the church. Wise and careful direction is required for success, and while the pastor should be the director-in-chief of all these various enterprises, the work of such an incessant evangelism should be, in a subordinate way, in the hands and mind and heart of some specialist, willing to give all the time he has for service to this one great, grand, glorious mission.

Blessed is the church which has at the head of each of its departments a man or woman who can say with Paul: "This one thing I do."

Pottstown, Pa.

High Power Christians

BY GALEN B. ROYER

ELIJAH was one of God's messengers. His mantle fell upon Elisha and he became one of them, too. Nothing was plainer than the fact that the spirit of Elijah had fallen upon Elisha. There was the familiar mantle itself, and there was the same wondrous power, though graciously increased. All this was so plain that the people who doubted and hooted at such power being transferred had to be quiet, and those who believed in Elisha were greatly cheered and comforted.

Elijah's prospective whirlwind ascension into heaven had undoubtedly been widely talked about (2 Kings 2). The schools of prophets,—first, the one at Bethel, and then the one at Jericho,—asked Elisha: "Knowest thou that the Lord will take away thy master from thy head today?" Then fifty of these same prophets were eager to see the wonderful event, if possible, and went as far as the Jordan.

But not all believed. There were incredulous people,—plain, open scoffers, who not only would not believe the story told of Elijah's ascension, but raised the question at once: "Now that Elijah is dead, where is Elijah's God?"

Then there were others, who did not question Elijah's ascension, but exclaimed: "He is gone and what shall we do now? When Elijah was with us he was our shield, comfort and strength. He saved us from the wrath of Jezebel. His words were so comforting and assuring. Now, that he is gone, everything will go to pieces. We have no one to point us to his God. How can we find God anyway?"

While many thus scoffed, and others doubted, Elisha clung to his old master. Thrice Elijah asked Elisha to "tarry here" and thrice Elisha positively refused. So determined was the latter that he should have a "double portion" that he kept right by the prophet until, beyond Jordan, the chariot of fire, like a whirlwind, separated them, and Elijah disappeared beyond the clouds.

Elisha had mingled feelings. There was sadness because his master was gone. There was joy because a double portion of his master's spirit was now his own. Rending his own garments, a symbol of forsaking self, he laid hold on Elijah's mantle, thereby showing that he claimed the promised blessing. Upon his return to the Jordan, whose waters were flowing swiftly, perhaps a question was raised in his own mind: "Shall I undertake to cross here as Elijah did, or seek an easier ford?" The doubt soon disappeared as, with the newly-acquired mantle, he smote the waters and cried out: "Where is the Lord God of Elijah?"

The Lord delighted to answer this cry of faith, and Elisha passed over on dry land. Thus it was all through the prophet's life. He did not want the mantle simply to wear or show it, so that others, with himself, could admire it. To him it was for use. By it he surmounted all the obstacles in his way. The doubting believed and all came to understand that though Elijah had gone away, God was still with them and doing still greater things through Elisha.

Now I am made to wonder if we realize that Jesus, whom we all love and adore, sent back, after his ascension, his mantle for our use today. We read that he said on one occasion: "Greater things than these [miracles, signs and wonders which he did] shall ye do because I go to my Father" (John 14: 12). Those "greater things" began on Pentecost when the Spirit-filled preached, and men and women repented by the thousands. When did the Lord withdraw that privilege of doing these "greater things"? Does he not command every one: "Be filled with the Spirit"? Why should not this apply to every servant of God today?

Have you laid hold of the mantle Christ left for you? Truly here is not only high privilege but true Gospel "succession,"—the presence of apostolic power.

This precious privilege, too, is for every one today, but it was not always so. In olden times only a few were Spirit-filled. Nevertheless "it shall come to pass afterward,"—so quotes the Lord from Joel 2: 28,—"that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." That "afterwards" has been here for 1,900 years, and the mantle will fall on any one who complies with the conditions.

Conditions! Yes, Elisha was rewarded with Elijah's mantle because he forsook every one else and stayed with his master to the end.

Here, then, is a beautiful picture of our union with Christ, and separation from the world. Some people think that if they separate from the world in the matter of clothing, they have done all that is to be done in following Christ. Others think if they keep the "ordinances" they have about done all. So, apparently, each has his favorite portion that he observes and leaves the real part untouched.

"Where he leads me, I will follow," we sometimes sing. But his leading is sure to take us to Gilgal, where our burden of sin rolls away. He takes us through Bethel, where heaven will be opened to us, and we will feel God so very near. He also, however, takes us through Jericho, the city of the curse, over Calvary, where we identify ourselves with Christ in rejection by the world, and into Jordan, the river of death, where we are buried with him in baptism. Then our union is tested,—perhaps first by the devil without, and then through those within, who, Peter-like, have Satan behind them, as they impose unscriptural demands in a legalistic manner, and this testing takes us through the garden alone, and "yet not alone," and to the Calvary of our own opinions, desires and ambitions. When these are all gone, power in a double portion will fall upon us.

If one wants to be so full of electric fluid that touching another gives the latter a shock, he must not only have hold of the brass knob of the electric machine, but he must stand on a glass insulator. Plenty of people seem to have hold of God all right, but they impart no shock because they are not separated from the world properly, or they separate according to their notions or way, rather than in God's plain way. "They are not of the world as I am not of the world" (John 17: 20) is the Master's standard or measure of anti-worldiness.

My brother and sister, do you want the mantle of High Power, so that men may speak of your good work? It is not given, however, save to use,—never for show or self-glory. If God would give it to you, are you prepared to use it? Are you ready to face the responsibilities of living for Christ against a gain-saying, Christless, dying world? Have you passed through the school of discipline which has taken all man-fear from you and left you wholly in the fear of God?

"Go ye" (Matt. 28: 19) and "Tarry ye" (Luke 14: 49) are two special commands for the Spirit-filled disciples. It is needful that we "tarry" to give power to the going. It is also just as important that we "go," to give purpose to our tarrying. Let our faces be turned to the "uttermost parts" and tarry before God, till, emptied of all our own motives, opinions, preferences, tastes and likes, we are clothed with the divine mantle of power. "Tarry and go. Grasp the mantle and use it."

Huntingdon, Pa.

Church History and Polity

BY CARMAN COVER JOHNSON

VI. The Council Meeting

PROBABLY by this time, as this series of articles has proceeded, some of my liberal friends have wondered if something could not be done to prevent me from going any further in my evident intention to defend all the ancient institutions of the church, in spite of the fact that we are living in a modern world and are witnessing the upsetting of so many old pieces of machinery in both church and state. Or, perchance, it is the other way around. Maybe the more conservative-minded are concerned, for fear I shall either omit something in the ancient regime, or suggest something too new by way of use for the old offices or institutions of the Brotherhood.

"that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." That "afterwards" has been here for 1,900 years, and the mantle will fall on any one who complies with the conditions.

Conditions! Yes, Elisha was rewarded with Elijah's mantle because he forsook every one else and stayed with his master to the end.

Here, then, is a beautiful picture of our union with Christ, and separation from the world. Some people think that if they separate from the world in the matter of clothing, they have done all that is to be done in following Christ. Others think if they keep the "ordinances" they have about done all. So, apparently, each has his favorite portion that he observes and leaves the real part untouched.

"Where he leads me, I will follow," we sometimes sing. But his leading is sure to take us to Gilgal, where our burden of sin rolls away. He takes us through Bethel, where heaven will be opened to us, and we will feel God so very near. He also, however, takes us through Jericho, the city of the curse, over Calvary, where we identify ourselves with Christ in rejection by the world, and into Jordan, the river of death, where we are buried with him in baptism. Then our union is tested,—perhaps first by the devil without, and then through those within, who, Peter-like, have Satan behind them, as they impose unscriptural demands in a legalistic manner, and this testing takes us through the garden alone, and "yet not alone," and to the Calvary of our own opinions, desires and ambitions. When these are all gone, power in a double portion will fall upon us.

If one wants to be so full of electric fluid that touching another gives the latter a shock, he must not only have hold of the brass knob of the electric machine, but he must stand on a glass insulator. Plenty of people seem to have hold of God all right, but they impart no shock because they are not separated from the world properly, or they separate according to their notions or way, rather than in God's plain way. "They are not of the world as I am not of the world" (John 17: 20) is the Master's standard or measure of anti-worldiness.

My brother and sister, do you want the mantle of High Power, so that men may speak of your good work? It is not given, however, save to use,—never for show or self-glory. If God would give it to you, are you prepared to use it? Are you ready to face the responsibilities of living for Christ against a gainsaying, Christless, dying world? Have you passed through the school of discipline which has taken all man-fear from you and left you wholly in the fear of God?

"Go ye" (Matt. 28: 19) and "Tarry ye" (Luke 14: 49) are two special commands for the Spirit-filled disciples. It is needful that we "tarry" to give power to the going. It is also just as important that we "go," to give purpose to our tarrying. Let our faces be turned to the "uttermost parts" and tarry before God, till, emptied of all our own motives, opinions, preferences, tastes and likes, we are clothed with the divine mantle of power. "Tarry and go. Grasp the mantle and use it."

Huntingdon, Pa.

Church History and Polity

BY CARMAN COVER JOHNSON

VI. The Council Meeting

PROBABLY by this time, as this series of articles has proceeded, some of my liberal friends have wondered if something could not be done to prevent me from going any further in my evident intention to defend all the ancient institutions of the church, in spite of the fact that I am not a member of the Old Order Brethren. Now, lest I be misunderstood, as to my purpose hitherto or in future, permit me frankly to confess that there is not now, nor has there been, anything radical or revolutionary intended either way. These articles have been prompted from rather extensive and continued studies in general church history, and more especially by a study of the unclassified or original Minutes of our own Annual Conferences in the light of church polity, as found in the primitive Christian church, and the effort is toward that reconfirmation and re-education of our people in the essential values of our natural inheritance. That these offices and institutions, dating back even to the Scriptures, have been misused and abused and inadequately comprehended by many of our people at different times and in diverse localities, goes without refutation. And yet, must our confidence in the offices and the institutions themselves be so shaken, because of errors and failures, as to cause us to slight them while still retaining them, knowing, at the same time, that at bottom they are worthy in themselves?

It is a peculiar piece of human psychology that confronts us. We are in the midst of change and progress of greater proportion than ever experienced before; and we should not resist it so much as recognize it and make conscientious and effective adjustment thereto. But an era of change may, and in the case of the church should, involve moral, mental and spiritual change toward higher ideals of achievement and method and application of truth, rather than an abandonment of the very God-given means or agencies by which and through which to do the work.

Here, for instance, is the council meeting. It is an actual fact that in the period of the progressive versus conservative agitation within the Church of the Brethren, a little over a generation ago, council meetings were abandoned in some places because they became unmanageable,—just when, in truth, they really needed them most. And much more recently practically the same sort of thing has occurred, of course without any really regular action on the part of the congregation, or congregations, involved, just because a series of unpleasant events had developed a kind of distaste for congregational meetings. Who among us will ever seek to justify a "series of unpleasant events" inside the church and so among the very "people of God's own possession"? Never justification, and probably not censure either, but pity and prayer for forgiveness rather.

In short, what is needed, Brethren, in all our congregations, no matter what the issue, is the regular (not every-now-and-then, special and capricious) council meeting program,—at least semiannually and in some congregations quarterly or monthly. Let it grow into a one-hundred-per-cent-membership attendance, opened with real devotion and consecration and prayer for vision, always well prepared for by both the general membership and the official board, always presided over by the presiding elder and not merely handed over for practice to some other elder or minister, never permitted to develop into a spirit of levity, though, of course, by no means so dignified as to be monotonous or funereal, and never, never allowed to gather up into a storm of personal or factional antagonisms. How attain to this ideal, how prevent trouble? Never expect it; and yet always recognize officials and laity with due respect in their proper relations, and ever and always face every issue squarely when it arises. Above all, so far as matters of form and method are concerned, have a first-class congregational secretary who knows how to take, make and preserve records; and have all matters of business always proceed with reasonable respect for parliamentary rule, though never merely technical and clever and captious.

Oh, the blunders, the heartaches, the anxieties, the sort of recognized management and control. Then, why not get over the sort of council meeting that nobody ever did really like or approve of,—and surely the Heavenly Father did not approve,—and take hold of the sort of council meeting that constructively, prayerfully, courageously, vigorously, systematically and effectively handles the interests of the congregations as part of the interests of the larger brotherhood, as part of the still larger interests of the commonwealth of God?

The Lord's business is no less the Lord's business because it is the Lord's. And so, as a closing thought, not even the especially prayerful and devout and quiet and consecrational type of Christian is justified in permitting himself or herself to eschew these matters of system and government and church polity, as some are inclined to do, as if these things were of a lower order of religion, if religious at all. No, no, the foot can not truthfully say that since it is not the body it is therefore not of the body, quoting Paul, you know. And so, whether we are specially inclined or by nature interested or not, we all are, perforce, part and parcel of the council meeting.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

Christian Leadership

BY M. W. EMMERT

MULTITUDES of men have, during the period of the war, shifted their view of life. They have learned to place a new value upon some of the fundamentals of the higher life. Many who were slaves of selfishness have thrown off the chains of slavery and have found the joy of unselfish endeavor. Sad that men have to be awakened from the slumber of petty, personal aggrandizement to the active, energetic moral life of unselfish service by the cruel hand of war! But such has been the case. However, this awakening of unselfishness, in the bosom of both soldier and civilian, is not a child of Christianity but of patriotism. In many cases it has been mistaken for the unselfish spirit characteristic of Christianity. This is a lamentable mistake, if left uncorrected. Unless the church grasps the situation, and definitely sets to work to correct the error by specifically providing the spiritual equivalent of war, she will suffer irreparable loss.

This is the crucial moment in the history of the Christian church. Perhaps there never were so many doors open at once to the church. And none of the doors, now opened, are more necessary for the church to enter than the spirit of self-sacrifice and service which has been revealed to her by the war in an unprecedented manner. True, these principles have lain at the very foundation of Christianity since the days of Christ, but we have been slow to appreciate their importance. We have only played at the task of making them operative. Worldly warfare has put spiritual warfare to shame in this respect.

The test of the victory in the war will not lie so much in the actual gains on the battle-field, as in the quality of men who have to carry on the work of the world after the peace has been signed. Now is the time for the church to seize the opportunity to utilize the mighty spirit of unselfishness which has taken hold of multitudes of people and compelled them to serve the church with as much ardor as that with which they served the kingdoms of this world. Our task of reconstruction is equally as great as the world program of destruction. Will the church rise up and meet the test to which she is now put, by calling young men, who have learned, through the art of war, how to sacrifice, into definite service of the church? Should not the church clearly set before the young men of every church community the opportunity for even more heroic and self-sacrificing endeavor in the kingdom of Christ than they had in the service of their

THE ROUND TABLE

Prayer

BY IOA M. HELM

"Evening and morning and at noon will I pray" (Psa. 55: 17).

It is said: "He that has learned to pray as he ought, has solved the secret of a holy life." Deep meditation,—earnest thoughts of God and his wonderful works,—leads one close to God and fits him for prayer. God will have the whole heart or none of it. The Spirit will not dwell in a divided heart. If the things of this world are our delight, they will separate us from God, they will choke the prayer channel between us and God. The oftener we come to God in prayer, the greater will be our devotion. Frequent prayer, as it is an exercise of holy thought, is a natural remedy against the power of sin. Importunate prayer makes no change in God, but it creates in us such qualities that God delights to reward.

It would be considered rude for one of us to ask a favor of our fellow-being and then not stay for an answer, and it is not right for us to approach God in prayer and ask him for blessings and then turn our minds to other things and think no more of our requests to God. We should wait before him in humble expectation and in faith, believing till the answer comes. He will deny us no good thing if we really desire it and ask it of his Son. He knows what is best for us to have and if we ask amiss he will give us something better than we asked for. "Thy will be done as in heaven so in earth." Amen.

R. D. 2, Ashland, Ohio.

Easter in Jerusalem

BY J. E. MILLER

SIGHTSEEING and worship do not go together well. While our mission is one of investigation and study, we are also asked to see some of the chief places of interest, and to study conditions outside of the problem of orphanages for destitute children. Thus it has come to pass that we are able to see present conditions and form conclusions for ourselves.

After observing the noisy and popular customs of Easter in Jerusalem, it is a pleasure to turn aside to the more quiet ways, and come into closer communion with the place and the occasion. Some of our party found their way to the different churches and partook of the communion, while others went elsewhere. It is my purpose to report how I spent Easter in Jerusalem.

At seven in the morning, with a few others, I made my way to the tomb known as Gordon's Tomb. This is outside the city walls and is near the place which he has identified as the "Skull." One can see the features of a man's face on the rocks facing the road passing along the outside of the wall. The tomb itself is a large one, cut into the rock from the side. One can stand erect in it, and the entire enclosure would serve for a number of tombs. The front has been partly walled up and the inside consists of at least two compartments. It would seem to be a tomb of later origin.

The tomb fronts on a garden with flowers of the season. It has this advantage for the spirit of worship,—it is not beset with a lot of tradition, nor is every foot of it marked with definite events in the life of our Lord. It readily lends itself to the spirit of worship.

We had been invited by some of our Red Cross friends, who had arranged for an early, quiet service. Some two dozen were present. The resurrection story was read from John. Songs and prayers and a simple, brief discourse followed. All felt the seriousness of the occasion, and I think all felt that if the Master had been present he again might have wept over Jerusalem that has so far been unable to understand him and his mission.

From this service we went to our hotel for breakfast. At nine o'clock we met with Dr. Frederick Bliss, who had agreed to give us a lecture on some points of interest concerning Jerusalem. First he took us to the roof of our hotel and explained something relating to the three walls of which Josephus speaks, and their probable location. We were surprised to learn that under the very foundation of our hotel are remains of the old city walls. The Hill of Zion lay to the south and east of us. He pointed out the four hills which originally marked the four parts of the city. Years have largely obliterated these hills as successive generations have filled in the lower parts, and have built city above city.

Next he took us to a part of the wall towards the south and east, and there explained how the foundation of the corner wall had been found, eighty feet beneath the present surface. As he led us on, from point to point, we were able to see the successive changes that had taken place in the city.

A Garden

A garden is a lovesome thing,
God wot,
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Ferned grot,
The veriest school
Of peace, and yet the fool
Maintains that God is not.
Not God in gardens when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign;
'Tis very sure,—he walks in mine.
—Thomas Edward Browne.

Our next position was from the roof of the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Here again he discussed the walls on the north side and then passed on to the claims for the sacred places, as they cluster around the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. His own views are that such places as the Garden of Gethsemane, the tomb of Christ, Golgotha and the like have not been located and never can be located. At the same time he grants that there is virtue in assigning certain places as the spots that the common people may regard as the real places, because the common people of the East must have something concrete, or they will have nothing.

Towards evening a number of us started down David Street and for a short time passed through the Mosque of Omar. It is a grand structure, and means much to the Moslem. Some of the stories the guide tells you are astounding, but he tells them in all sincerity. The Mosque stands on the temple platform and as such has a special interest to Christians as well as others. Jews will not enter it because they fear of treading on the Holy of holies.

Our destination was a secluded spot north of the bridge spanning the Brook Kedron, where we were to have a short evening service by ourselves. We met in a field by a stone wall, under some olive trees. We had not been there long until I noticed that there were just twelve of us. Our leader called our attention to the parting message of Jesus to his disciples and the associations surrounding us. The songs and prayers and testimonies had a personal ring to them and we left the place, feeling that this was a fitting close to our first Easter in Jerusalem.

What Are You Reading?

BY J. M. BLOUGH

PERHAPS few of us realize what a tremendous influence our reading has upon our ways of thinking, our manner of life and subjects of conversation. Our characters are largely formed according to the food we extract for our souls from books and papers. In these days the printed word moulds the nation as well as the church. President Wilson's magnificent addresses influenced the world, as they were read in the different languages of the nations. If we put credence at all in what is printed, we can not help but be influenced. I remember the time when, as a boy in the public school, I would question some statements of the teacher, but if I could read the same statement in a book, I was satisfied, for I had full confidence in the books. It is said of some one that his theology is like that of the last book he read. From some people's conversation you can tell what books they have read last. All this goes to show how much we are influenced by what we read. Everybody knows it and no doubt expects it, hence the extreme need of severe censorship upon our reading matter.

Then look at the impossible amount of reading matter available. Millions of copies have collected during the ages past, and millions more are being added year by year. Periodicals, magazines, religious and secular papers in superabundance, every week and month, are thrust upon the public. It is impossible to read them all even casually, if one wishes to do so. Now, among all this reading matter there is some excellent material, and some extremely bad, as well as all grades between these two extremes. But discarding all that is bad and trashy, it will still be necessary for us to practice a severe censorship as we select our reading from the permissible books and papers that are available. We should not be satisfied simply with the good, but we should carefully select the best,—the best with which to fill our minds and feed our souls. We are careful to select good, clean, nutritious food for our bodies, and can any Christian afford to be less careful about his spirit? There is poison, deadly poison, to be found even in religious literature. Don't feed upon it. Beware of it!

What, then, shall we read? In answering this question I wish simply to call attention to one phase of religious literature which, I fear, is entirely too much neglected by the Christian church. I refer to what is called "devotional literature," by which is meant that literature which is especially useful in the development of the spiritual life. What can be more needful? We should welcome every help that shows us our lack and barrenness, as well as every encouragement to become the consecrated, prayerful, Spirit-filled Christian that Christ meant us to be.

First among our reading, of course, must be the Bible. I do not mean such reading to be simply of a kind to gain knowledge, but that "devotional" reading which allows the Spirit to apply every thought direct to my own soul. This leads me to humble confession, prayer and meditation, yea, it leads me into the Holy of holies to enjoy the presence and fellowship of my Lord and Savior. The purpose of devotional Bible study is to develop and perfect the spirit. As Dr. John R. Mott says: "The devotional study of the Bible, more than anything else, shows us the possibilities of our spiritual lives. Therefore, if we would overcome doubts, temptations, passion, evil imaginations, unclean, unholy and proud thoughts, let us center our energies upon such study. Would we be Christians of more than ordinary power? Then we must be great feeders upon the Word, which is not only quick but powerful."

Then, in addition to the Bible, men have found that devotional books, written by great saints, have been very helpful in soul development. From earlier centuries have come down to us some splendid devotional works, of which I mention only three: "The Confessions of St. Augustine" (90 cents), "The Imitation of Christ," by Thomas à Kempis (90 cents), "The Practice of the Presence of God," by Bro. Lawrence (35 cents).

Perhaps the three greatest modern writers of devotional literature are J. R. Miller, Andrew Murray and F. B. Meyer. All the books that you can secure of these writers are worthy of your most careful and prayerful study. The last two have written profusely, hence select from their works according to your own spiritual needs. But should any one feel that he has no spiritual need, then I would advise him especially to buy some of these books that he may know his need and see himself as he is. The man most to be pitied is the one that compliments himself and does not recognize his own failures in the divine life.

Besides these writers there are many others who have written excellent devotional books of which I wish to indicate but a few. Ministers will find a few teacher, but if I could read the same statement in a book, I was satisfied, for I had full confidence in the books. It is said of some one that his theology is like that of the last book he read. From some people's conversation you can tell what books they have read last. All this goes to show how much we are influenced by what we read. Everybody knows it and no doubt expects it, hence the extreme need of severe censorship upon our reading matter.

Then look at the impossible amount of reading matter available. Millions of copies have collected during the ages past, and millions more are being added year by year. Periodicals, magazines, religious and secular papers in superabundance, every week and month, are thrust upon the public. It is impossible to read them all even casually, if one wishes to do so. Now, among all this reading matter there is some excellent material, and some extremely bad, as well as all grades between these two extremes. But discarding all that is bad and trashy, it will still be necessary for us to practice a severe censorship as we select our reading from the permissible books and papers that are available. We should not be satisfied simply with the good, but we should carefully select the best,—the best with which to fill our minds and feed our souls. We are careful to select good, clean, nutritious food for our bodies, and can any Christian afford to be less careful about his spirit? There is poison, deadly poison, to be found even in religious literature. Don't feed upon it. Beware of it!

What, then, shall we read? In answering this question I wish simply to call attention to one phase of religious literature which, I fear, is entirely too much neglected by the Christian church. I refer to what is called "devotional literature," by which is meant that literature which is especially useful in the development of the spiritual life. What can be more needful? We should welcome every help that shows us our lack and barrenness, as well as every encouragement to become the consecrated, prayerful, Spirit-filled Christian that Christ meant us to be.

First among our reading, of course, must be the Bible. I do not mean such reading to be simply of a kind to gain knowledge, but that "devotional" reading which allows the Spirit to apply every thought direct to my own soul. This leads me to humble confession, prayer and meditation, yea, it leads me into the Holy of holies to enjoy the presence and fellowship of my Lord and Savior. The purpose of devotional Bible study is to develop and perfect the spirit. As Dr. John R. Mott says: "The devotional study of the Bible, more than anything else, shows us the possibilities of our spiritual lives. Therefore, if we would overcome doubts, temptations, passion, evil imaginations, unclean, unholy and proud thoughts, let us center our energies upon such study. Would we be Christians of more than ordinary power? Then we must be great feeders upon the Word, which is not only quick but powerful."

Then, in addition to the Bible, men have found that devotional books, written by great saints, have been very helpful in soul development. From earlier centuries have come down to us some splendid devotional works, of which I mention only three: "The Confessions of St. Augustine" (90 cents), "The Imitation of Christ," by Thomas à Kempis (90 cents), "The Practice of the Presence of God," by Bro. Lawrence (35 cents).

Perhaps the three greatest modern writers of devotional literature are J. R. Miller, Andrew Murray and F. B. Meyer. All the books that you can secure of these writers are worthy of your most careful and prayerful study. The last two have written profusely, hence select from their works according to your own spiritual needs. But should any one feel that he has of the Gish Fund books valuable in this connection, especially "Alone With God" (75 cents), Frances Havergal's "Kept for the Master's Use" (40 cents), should be read by all. All her writings are good. What beautiful hymns she has written! "All of Grace," by Spurgeon (40 cents), "Secret Power," by Moody (15 cents), "The Spirit-Filled Life," by John MacNeil (40 cents), "The Power of a Surrendered Life," by J. Wilbur Chapman (40 cents), "Power Through Prayer," by E. M. Bounds, "Christ and Life," by Robert E. Speer ($1.25), "The Quiet Talks Series," by S. D. Gordon ($1, each), and the pamphlets of John R. Mott, "Morning Watch" and "Secret Prayer Life," are all well worth your study and will put you in touch with spiritual men. You may find some others of their books more helpful than these I have mentioned. My purpose is to call your attention to good devotional books which will lead you to select for yourself and create a hunger for such reading. If you do not enjoy such books, perhaps there is something very seriously wrong with your spiritual life. Perhaps you have advanced beyond the stage when you need them. Then don't fail to recommend them to others who do need them. Pastors will do well to urge their congregations to add devotional books to their libraries. People will read. Let us urge them to read wholesome and soul-feeding books.

Ahwa, Surat District, India.

[The Brethren Publishing House will furnish the books, above mentioned, at the prices following each title. For a few of the books the price could not be given,—not being quoted in the publishers' lists.—Ed.]

When the Boys Come Home, Why Change?

BY NORA E. BERKEBILE

THE religious journals and nearly every other periodical are discussing the questions of "What About the Church After the War?" and "What About the Church When the Boys Come Home?"

Some people,—and among them prominent ministers,—are trying to make us believe that our entire mode of life and worship must be changed "when the boys come home." Is war, then, so elevating, so refining, so soul-inspiring that it has imparted to those engaged in it a greater vision of all that is good? That the homes, the churches and our entire manner of life must be changed to meet the new order of things brought about by the war? I can not understand some of the arguments on the question.

Just why slaying one's fellow-man,—even when that fellow-man may have been cruel beyond belief,—will bring about in the avenger a great spiritual growth, puzzles me. Just why going abroad to infidel France and Catholic Belgium will elevate and make one grow spiritually, I can not understand. It may broaden the mind, but where the heart and soul growth comes in, I can not see. How living under shell fire and in underground quarters, pestered by vermin and attacked by poisonous gases will so change a man that the old home, the old church, the old community must be revolutionized before he can tolerate life at home, is another puzzle. Just why fighting beside men who are cursing the name of Jehovah, as they attack the foe, elevates a man, is stranger still.

I can understand how a man, thus brought face to face with death, can get back to God, for he realizes that in such an hour nought counts so much as God, and nothing is so precious as pleasing God. I can understand how a man, suffering all he suffers, can have a longing for mother, home and the old home church of his youth. He may have forgotten God until suffering and peril brought him to call upon him for mercy, and in this time of stress and strife he may have had such a vision of God that he now will want none of the sham of religion.

One prominent daily says the American soldier will generally relish American bread after having eaten the poor, if they baked sour bread at home and he got good bread in France, then, of course, he will not relish the poor bread.

If we have been teaching the true Gospel in the past, why need we change it when the boys come home? If we have stood for peace, down through the ages, do you think that, after all the horrors of war he has endured, he will want us to give up our peace principles? A few officers and would-be officers, looking for good-paying positions, will advocate universal military training, a great standing army, etc., but not the fellows who have gone through the cruelest part of the war. These will advocate peace, for they know war's horrors.

In trench and dugout the rich and poor, the cultured and unlearned, the refined and the uncouth suffered and fought side by side, and learned to love each other. If we have been an humble church, using all people the same, living the simple life, making every one welcome, will we need to change in this when the boys come home? No, they will want to find the church welcoming those they have learned to love.

They sang together in their great Y. M. C. A. huts until the buildings rang with the chorus. And when they come home, will they want the little church choir up in the corner, or will they want the hearty congregational singing they have had over there? If we have been a singing church, need we change "when the boys come home"?

They prayed over there. Ah, how they prayed for God's protection when they were brought so near death! If we have been a praying church, need we change and pray less "when the boys come home"?

He carried a little Testament over there. Perhaps he had never carried or read one before. As he read it then, he had it in its simplest form. He had access to no books that would wrest the Scriptures and make them mean the opposite of what the Gospel really teaches. If we have been teaching the whole Gospel, must we teach something else "when the boys come home"?

As I think of these things I am at a loss to know just why there is all this clamor for doing things differently when the "boys come home."

If we have been doing God's will before, why need we change? If they have not found God, they will need the old time religion to find him. If they have found him in their peril, they will want the old time religion to keep close to him. I see no need to change, but I do see a need for our living closer to God, obeying him better and putting forth a greater effort to save the lost ones of the world.

The Christian Herald of Jan. 22 gives us an article written by Chaplain George W. Ridout, in which he gives us the returning soldiers' view of the question. Among the many splendid things he says is this:

"The Church after the War? Well, let me speak as one who has preached the Gospel twenty-five years at home and a year in the army in France; as one who has seen war in all its frightful actualities and who for five months lived and suffered and wrought under shell fire, and who knows by a bit of real experience what officers and men have to go through and have come out of.

"Let the church present a live, vital Gospel. I mean the kind that is found in the New Testament. Don't let the pulpit spend its precious time on such secondary matters as 'reconstruction,' 'expansion,' 'the new social conditions,' etc. The press, the magazine, the forum, the lyceum, the lecture hall, etc., can better handle a lot of those questions than the average preacher. . . . . Let the church guard sacredly the things handed down to her, and let no war conditions and their cessation bring on a hysteria of liberality by which the golden law of Moses might be exchanged, for expediency's sake, for something brassy; and the 'old faith' substituted by a program entirely human.

"War has a tendency to produce a short memory for the Ten Commandments. Peace must needs improve that memory. The church must apply herself to this important

AMONG THE CHURCHES

CALENDAR FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 29

Sunday-school Lesson, Preparing to Live.—Prov. 4: 13.

Christian Workers' Meeting, God's Need of Men and Women.—Isa. 6: 8; Acts 13: 1-3.

MEETINGS IN PROGRESS

Bro. R. A. Saylor, of Bradford, Ohio, in the Spring church, Iowa.

Bro. J. H. Fike, of Middlebury, Ind., in the Laporte mission, same State.

GAINS FOR THE KINGDOM

Two were baptized recently in the La Place church, Ill.

One was recently baptized in the Buffalo Valley church, Pa.

Three were recently baptized in the Aughwick church, Pa.

One confessed Christ recently in the Kokomo church, Ind.

One has recently been reclaimed in the Neosho church, Kans.

Four have been baptized in the Octavia church, Nebr., since the last report.

Three recently confessed Christ and one was baptized in the Independence church, Kans.

Eight were baptized in the Griffin church, Va.,—Bro. I. L. Bennett, of Zigler, W. Va., evangelist.

Five were baptized in the Queen church, Pa.,—Bro. J. B. Miller, of Curry, same State, evangelist.

Four were baptized in the Big Creek church, Okla.,—Bro. V. K. Meek, of Enid, same State, evangelist.

Five were baptized in the Broadfording church, Md.,—Bro. D. L. Miller, of Mt. Morris, Ill., evangelist.

Six were baptized in the Fairview church, Pa.,—Brethren F. R. Zook and Moses Brumbaugh, evangelists.

Six were baptized in the Maple Grove church, Ohio.—Bro. H. H. Helman, pastor, in charge of the meetings.

Six were baptized in the Upper Twin church, Ohio.,—Bro. D. M. Garver, of Trotwood, same State, evangelist.

Six were baptized in the Watersville Mission, Md.,—Bro. Wm. E. Roop, of Westminster, same State, evangelist.

Three confessed Christ at the Manor house, Mountville church, Pa.,—Bro. G. W. Group, of York Springs, same State, evangelist.

Five were baptized and three reclaimed in the Smith Creek church, W. Va.,—Bro. B. S. Landis, of Harrisonburg, Va., evangelist.

Two were baptized at Hermitage Chapel, Barren Ridge church, Va.,—Bro. L. G. Humphreys, of Buena Vista, same State, evangelist.

Eight were baptized and one awaits the rite in the Rock Creek church, Kans.,—Bro. Earl M. Bowman, of McPherson, same State, evangelist.

CONTEMPLATED MEETINGS

Bro. F. E. Miller, of Enders, Nebr., to begin Sept. 13 in the Fairview church, Mo.

Bro. B. B. Garber, of Markle, Ind., to begin Sept. 27 in the Meadow Branch church, Md.

Bro. S. S. Shoemaker, of Lake, Ohio, to begin August 10 in the Wooster church, same State.

Bro. B. J. Fike, of Nezperce, Idaho, to begin sometime in January, 1920, in the Moscow church, same State.

Bro. L. H. Root, of Mt. Morris, Ill., to begin the second week in September in the Warrensburg church, Mo.

PERSONAL MENTION

Bro. Jesse C. Shull having given up his pastorate in the Laporte church, Ind., Bro. Russell Shull is to take up that work in the near future.

Bro. A. C. Wieand, President of Bethany Bible School, spent Sunday, the twenty-second, with the Elgin congregation, preaching at both morning and evening services, to the great edification of all who heard.

Bro. Henry R. Gibbel, wife and son, of Lititz, Pa., were visitors at the Publishing House last week. Bro. Gibbel recalled a visit to the publishing plant at Mt. Morris, in the early years, and noted a very marked development in our publishing activities.

Following the Winona Lake Conference Bro. D. J. Lichty, our India missionary, went to Waterloo, Iowa, where, on June 17, he underwent an operation for chronic appendicitis. The appendix was found to be very much diseased and the operation was somewhat critical. At last report he was doing well. God grant that his recovery may be speedy and complete.

Following the Winona Lake Conference, Bro. D. L. Miller began a series of meetings at Goshen, Ind., to continue, probably, over three Sundays. After this, Brother and Sister Miller plan to spend some time at Onekama, Mich.

Bro. W. R. Miller, of Onekama, Mich., requests us to say that, after making a thorough investigation, he finds that a tour of Europe and Palestine this fall would be impracticable, as the unsettled conditions of those countries still continue. Our Government discourages the issuing of passports except for official business, and the European governments are not yet ready for the tourist traffic. They can not take care of it because of the food scarcity and the unsettled conditions in general. It has been thought best to postpone the proposed trip until the fall of 1920 when, it is hoped, the conditions will be more favorable. This will give Bro. Miller opportunity to serve those churches which are contemplating a series of Bible Land and missionary lectures this fall and winter. But they should confer with him at an early date.

Here We Are,—Right Up Against It

EDUCATION DAY

Sunday, June 29

You'll Be Sure to Make the Most of It

The following lines from Bro. J. W. Lear, received a few hours before closing the forms for this issue, will be of great interest to our readers: "I am writing with my own hand, although every motion of the arm produces pain. We are improving day by day and in course of time we hope to be in the field of service again. We have suffered almost to the limit of human endurance but in it all we have been thoroughly happy, as we experience the personal presence of our Heavenly Father moment by moment. Our program has been changed, but the Father's program suits us all right, even though it be on a bed of pain in a hospital. How unworthy we both felt ourselves to be as the letters of concern, sympathy, cheer, prayers and material blessings came pouring in. How did the good brethren know that we were temporally needy just then? Oh, of course, the Father knew and supplied even above that which we were able to ask or think, through the spirit of Christian Brotherhood. We faced the chasm with a shudder, we met the suffering with occasional groans, but the avalanche of good will, etc., from our brethren and sisters so broke up the fountains of emotion in our souls that our tears wet our pillows. We hope to answer by a personal letter all the friends who have so kindly remembered us, but it costs too much bodily pain now. Until then we want the columns of the 'Messenger' to carry to one and all at least a measure of the depth of our gratitude. We can never repay all for their abounding fullness toward us, but we shall feel, as we have opportunity, to pass blessings on to others. While it will take some time fully to recover, we are glad to report that we are dismissed from the hospital. Our friends may address us at Virden, Ill., until further notice."

ELSEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE

Two weeks ago we published an announcement concerning the Educational Directory, in course of preparation by Brethren Homer F. Sanger and W. Arthur Cable, of Chicago. Did you forget to respond to the request which it contained? If so, please turn to page 414 of this issue, note the request repeated there, and respond promptly on the blank form provided for this purpose.

MISCELLANEOUS

Mount Morris and Bridgewater have lately favored the "Messenger" rooms with catalog numbers of their "College Bulletins," containing announcements for the year 1919-20. Thanks.

A brother from Northern Indiana sends us a communication concerning the fourth meeting of the Ministerial Association of that District, held in Goshen City church June 19. As soon as we are favored with the name of the writer, we shall be pleased to publish the news item referred to.

The Basic City church, Va., is in need of one hundred "Kingdom Songs No. 1," and would like to secure about the same number of Hymnals. Not being able to purchase these books, they herewith request the donation of them from any congregation in position to do so. Those who may be able to accommodate the Basic City church along the line indicated, will please address Bro. L. S. Yoder, Waynesboro, Va., at their earliest convenience.

Sister Edna B. Gerber, of Weilersville, Ohio, requests us to announce the following: "The joint Sunday-schools of this vicinity will hold their Fourth of July Meeting at the Chippewa house, Beech Grove congregation, Ohio. All are welcome."

There have been several inquiries, of late, for copies of the "Brethren Encyclopedia," published by Bro. Henry Kurtz some years ago. Any one who may have a copy of this work in fair condition, which he desires to dispose of, will kindly address us, naming the price.

"The Brick Church Sentinel" is the name of the new local paper, edited by Bro. W. H. Yoder, pastor of the Morrill church, Kansas. The first number is full of good things, and yet, somehow, manages to leave on the reader the impression that there must be plenty more in reserve.

The Seattle, Wash., church is again looking for a pastor. Bro. C. A. Eshelman, of McPherson, Kans., had been engaged to take up the work but, owing to a protracted illness, can not do so. Full support is offered. Correspondence should be directed to Ernest J. Cline, 142 North Seventy-sixth Street, Seattle, Wash.

Bro. J. A. Stouder, R. D. 1, Cherry Box, Mo., would like to get into communication with some church or Sunday-school that has about three dozen of "Kingdom Songs No. 1" at its disposal. He would want the books in fair condition. Please remember this is the old book,—the first one issued. Those having some of these books, will please advise Bro. Stouder as to price, number of copies, etc., addressing him as above.

Do you have that list of "Simple Life Books to Read," prepared by the Dress Reform Committee? The list, we mean, was prepared by the Committee, but so were some of the books. Other authors include names of various degrees of note, all the way up to Woodrow Wilson. The prices range from nothing up to $1.50, so you can surely afford some of them. They are mostly about clothes, to be sure, but other phases of the Simple Life are covered. Ask the Secretary, Lydia E. Taylor, Mount Morris, Ill., to send you the list, telling her at the same time to how many of your friends you want to give one.

Notice to Members of Southern Illinois.—The Mission Board of Southern Illinois will meet in regular session on Thursday, July 3, at the home of Eld. W. T. Heckman, Cerro Gordo, Ill. All business and reports from the workers should be in the hands of the Secretary prior to that date. Arrangements were completed at the Winona Lake Conference for two new workers on the field. Bro. Herschel Shank takes charge of the work at Liberty for the summer, and Bro. Erwin Weaver is locating at Oak Grove. The Board requests that the churches will please remit all money due up to the close of the second quarter at once.—E. E. Brubaker, Secretary, Virden, Ill.

What Is Our Standard?—A story is told of an Indian who one day asked Bishop Whipple to give him two one-dollar bills for a two-dollar note. The bishop was just a little curious to know his reason, and so he asked: "Why?" The Indian said: "One dollar for me to give to Jesus, and one dollar for my wife to give." The bishop then asked if that was all the money he had, and was told: "Yes." The bishop was just going to tell him: "It is too much for you to give," when an Indian minister, standing near by, whispered: "It might be too much for a white man to give, but not too much for an Indian who has this year heard for the first time of the love of Jesus." Perhaps the most of us might readily make a much needed adjustment in our standards of giving.

The pastor of a certain congregation, after a number of years of faithful service, recently went to another field of labor. The following tribute of appreciation was given him, being read at a public meeting, at the time of his leaving. Possibly it will help you to be a better pastor yourself, or a better parishioner. The rewards of service are of different kinds. This kind is one of the best:

"There has grown a strong bond of friendship between the Sunday-school scholars and our dear pastor and his good wife, and we have no words by which we can express our thanks and appreciation for the good they have done us in these eight years they have lived among us. They have shown us the beautiful Christ, they have fed us with bread from the Father's great storehouse. Were I an artist, with the soul of a Raphael, I would paint a picture, the center of which would be the Christ with a tired lamb which the pastor had brought to lay upon his bosom. And next to the Christ, I would have his minister, the pastor, leading his flock by way of the cross up to the Master's feet. I would have the Sunday-school superintendent and his corps of faithful teachers marching at the head of a great army of girls and boys, women and men. Then I would read in that picture, from the Cradle Roll up to the silver-crowned head of the veteran of that vast army, first the tiny green shoot, the leaf, the twig, and the bud with its petals of velvet gently unfolding into a full-blown rose. Then our fathers and mothers, and as the snow-flakes begin to flutter down to rest upon their crowns I seem to see in the distance, rifts of gold, waiting to adorn the bending heads of ripened grain. What a comfort it will be to the faithful pastor who has walked with his Christ all the way, and who has been instrumental in helping the tired lamb find sweet repose on his Master's bosom."

THE FULL REPORT OF CONFERENCE

We are preparing to get out the Full Report of the Winona Lake Conference as quickly as the matter can be arranged for publication. Meanwhile be sure to send us your orders. Only thirty-five cents per copy. In congregations where we have agents, please hand your order to the duly-appointed representative of the Publishing House.

Sister Edna B. Gerber, of Weilersville, Ohio, requests to announce the following: "The joint Sunday-schools this vicinity will hold their Fourth of July Meeting at e Chippewa house, Beech Grove congregation, Ohio. l are welcome."

There have been several inquiries, of late, for copies the "Brethren Encyclopedia," published by Bro. Henry rtz some years ago. Any one who may have a copy of is work in fair condition, which he desires to dispose of, ll kindly address us, naming the price.

"The Brick Church Sentinel" is the name of the new lo- l paper, edited by Bro. W. H. Yoder, pastor of the Mor- l church, Kansas. The first number is full of good things, d yet, somehow, manages to leave on the reader the pression that there must be plenty more in reserve.

The Seattle, Wash., church is again looking for a pas- r. Bro. C. A. Eshelman, of McPherson, Kans., had been gaged to take up the work but, owing to a protracted ness, can not do so. Full support is offered. Corre- ondence should be directed to Ernest J. Cline, 142 North venty-sixth Street, Seattle, Wash.

Bro. J. A. Stouder, R. D. 1, Cherry Box, Mo., would like get into communication with some church or Sunday- hool that has about three dozen of "Kingdom Songs o. 1" at its disposal. He would want the books in fair ndition. Please remember this is the old book,—the st one issued. Those having some of these books, will ease advise Bro. Stouder as to price, number of copies, c., addressing him as above.

Do you have that list of "Simple Life Books to Read," epared by the Dress Reform Committee? The list, we ean, was prepared by the Committee, but so were some the books. Other authors include names of various de- ees of note, all the way up to Woodrow Wilson. The ices range from nothing up to $1.50, so you can surely ford some of them. They are mostly about clothes, to sure, but other phases of the Simple Life are covered. sk the Secretary, Lydia E. Taylor, Mount Morris, Ill., send you the list, telling her at the same time to how any of your friends you want to give one.

Notice to Members of Southern Illinois.—The Mission oard of Southern Illinois will meet in regular session on hursday, July 3, at the home of Eld. W. T. Heckman, erro Gordo, Ill. All business and reports from the work- s should be in the hands of the Secretary prior to that ate. Arrangements were completed at the Winona Lake onference for two new workers on the field. Bro. Her- hel Shank takes charge of the work at Liberty for the mmer, and Bro. Erwin Weaver is locating at Oak Grove. he Board requests that the churches will please remit l money due up to the close of the second quarter at nce.—E. E. Brubaker, Secretary, Virden, Ill.

What Is Our Standard?—A story is told of an Indian ho one day asked Bishop Whipple to give him two one- ollar bills for a two-dollar note. The bishop was just a ttle curious to know his reason, and so he asked: Why?" The Indian said: "One dollar for me to give Jesus, and one dollar for my wife to give." The bishop en asked if that was all the money he had, and was told: Yes." The bishop was just going to tell him: "It is o much for you to give," when an Indian minister, stand- g near by, whispered: "It might be too much for a hite man to give, but not too much for an Indian who as this year heard for the first time of the love of Jesus." erhaps the most of us might readily make a much eeded adjustment in our standards of giving.

The pastor of a certain congregation, after a number of ears of faithful service, recently went to another field of bor. The following tribute of appreciation was given im, being read at a public meeting, at the time of his eaving. Possibly it will help you to be a better pastor ourself, or a better parishioner. The rewards of service re of different kinds. This kind is one of the best:

"There has grown a strong bond of friendship between the Sun- y-school scholars and our dear pastor and his good wife, and we ave no words by which we can express our thanks and appreciation r the good they have done us in these eight years they have lived mong us. They have shown us the beautiful Christ, they have fed s with bread from the Father's great storehouse. Were I an artist, ith the soul of a Raphael, I would paint a picture, the center of hich would be the Christ with a tired lamb which the pastor had ought to lay upon his bosom. And next to the Christ, I would ave his minister, the pastor, leading his flock by way of the cross o to the Master's feet. I would have the Sunday-school superin- ndent and his corps of faithful teachers marching at the head of a reat army of girls and boys, women and men. Then I would read t that picture, from the Cradle Roll up to the silver-crowned head f the veteran of that vast army, first the tiny green shoot, the leaf, e twig, and the bud with its petals of velvet gently unfolding into full-blown rose. Then our fathers and mothers, and as the snow- akes begin to flutter down to rest upon their crowns I seem to see n the distance, rifts of gold, waiting to adorn the bending heads of ripened grain. What a comfort it will be to the faithful pastor who

AROUND THE WORLD

Conquering the White Plague

"One of the war's greatest victories was the control of modern medicine over acute infectious diseases," is the statement of Dr. David R. Lyman, president of the National Tuberculosis Association, as voiced in his address at the recent annual meeting of that body. "Even greater benefits will follow," he says, "opening the eyes of the Government and people to the inroads that chronic diseases are making in our national economy." He confidently expects the immediate creation of a "Division of Tuberculosis" in the United States Public Health Service. Since 150,000 deaths, annually, are due to tuberculosis, Government officials are determined to institute a new, nation-wide health campaign.

Our Bountiful Crops

Surely it would be a most unappreciative heart, that would fail to respond with a tribute of profound gratitude to the great Creator, for the signal bounty of nature at this time of urgent need. A wheat crop, estimated at 1,- 236,000,000 bushels, and a further yield of 3,021,000,000 bushels of feed grains, constitutes a most commendable showing. The wheat crop alone is by far the greatest on record, increasing 319,000,000 bushels, or thirty-four per cent, over last year. As the prospects are now, there will be plenty and to spare for all the needy ones of earth, provided proper distribution is made. Well may the thankfulness of every devoted heart seek expression by the very practical way of sharing its blessings with others.

A Wrong Move

Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks, of the University of New York, —at one time connected with Mt. Morris College, Ill.,— is acknowledged to be an authority on international affairs. While speaking on the recent ceding of Shantung Province, China, to Japan, he predicted that the most prominent danger of war in the future lies in the action of the Paris Peace Conference, by which Japan was awarded the province of Shantung. "The award," said Prof. Jenks, "seems contrary to the principles of right and justice,—so contrary that unless some factors enter into the case that do not now appear, the decision is almost certain to bring about war in the Far East, and in that war the United States would almost certainly be involved." A voice of warning that should be heeded.

Indecent Songs Condemned

Long since, the pernicious influence of suggestive and vile songs aroused the indignant remonstrance of minister, educators and parents. At the present time, however, the protest comes from a source little expected,—the "International Association of Dancing Masters," in session, recently, at Atlantic City, N. J. The association claims that the various indecent dances in vogue today, are directly due to the depravity of song writers, and that indecent actions are openly encouraged by these suggestive songs. To curb the growing evil, the dancing masters urge a concerted drive against all vile songs. They also suggest close police supervision at all dances. Their advice may help in part, but our readers will probably prefer the far more decisive remedy of entire elimination.

The War Cost Individually

Counting our population at one hundred million, the cost of the war equals $212.94 for each man, woman and child in the United States. If the population of this country were grouped into families, allowing six to the family, there would be 16,666,666 families. The cost of the war would buy a home worth $1,277.64 for each family group in the nation. This debt is in the form of bonds averaging four per cent, and running thirty years to maturity. This will mean $45,552,800,000 at the time of final redemption. This, however, is only a small part of the real cost. If we take into account the many who made the "supreme sacrifice" and the still larger number who were disabled, we can not compute the cost of the war in mere dollars and cents,—we stand appalled at the loss that can not be repaid.

Uniting World Brotherhood

At its special session in Cleveland, Ohio, the "Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America" issued a message of helpfulness, from which we are pleased to quote the following: "In these days of rapid social changes, the church must up to safeguard, against assault from within and without, the principles of democracy. It must always maintain the priceless treasure of liberty of conscience, and must now work for the speedy restoration of the democratic rights of freedom of thought and speech, and for the resumption of all interrupted processes of orderly progress and imperiled standards of human welfare. . . . The ancient question arises: 'Who is sufficient for these things?' The only adequate answer is found in a church alive to her new opportunities,—reconsecrated to her age-long tasks."

The Need of Historians

New York's Legislature has passed an enactment by which an historian is appointed in every town, village and city in the entire State. It is rightfully contended that much valuable historical matter may thus be preserved for future generations. The action above referred to naturally suggests that an equally effective plan might be set on foot for the churches of our land to preserve religious data and incidents of value. It would seem wholly appropriate for the Church of the Brethren to appoint an historian in every congregation, to record, from time to time, all matters of interest. There are many incidents in the past history of our people that have never been recorded. It should be some one's business to chronicle these matters while still available, that future generations may have access to these happenings of by-gone years.

How Argentine Deals with the Lawless

Like all other countries, the Argentine Republic has its share of anarchists and other opponents of law and order. Instead of incarcerating these insubordinate ones in the penal institutions of the land, however, the authorities simply banish them. They are sent to an insular possession of Argentine,—Terra del Fuego,—"land of fire," as the literal translation of the name would indicate, but really a realm of mist, cold and dreariness. Nevertheless it is a place where a mere living may be obtained by arduous effort, provided property rights are respected. Right at that point the first action of the exiles revealed that a new life had dawned for them. The first arrivals quickly saw that laws must be made to insure orderly conditions. So laws were passed, and nowhere are laws more stringently enforced than by this band of former violators of law.

History Teaches the Virtues of Simplicity

Those who assert that the present-day trend towards greater simplicity, in the manner of dress as well as in ways of living, is merely a modern fad or eccentricity, may do well to look a little closer into the matter. It is a well-known fact that the founders of our great nation were characterized by the utmost simplicity. They landed on a rock that became the cornerstone of a great nation. They gave it a simple name,—"Plymouth Rock." Their dress was very plain. As a recent writer says: "You would know a Pilgrim Father and Mother if you met them anywhere today, and you would take off your hat to them." Too many diversified things, too many elaborate plans, choke up our lives nowadays. We all know people who are so busy taking care of "things,"—unimportant, many of them,—that they have no time to live. Some folks do not know, at the end of the day, whether the sky was blue or gray. They failed to hear the sweet songs of the birds because they allowed their minds to be wholly occupied with the complex things of earth. They failed to see the wayside flowers and the thousand and one other glorious beauties of nature. Having lost sight of the value of real simplicity, they wholly miss the very salt and savor of earth.

We Reap As We Sow

After killing, robbing and mistreating the Florida Seminole Indians most notoriously for about a century, the American people, as represented by Congress and the Bureau of Indian Affairs, now propose to educate, civilize and convert them. To this proposition,—a tardy reparation at best,—the Seminoles reply, in effect: "No, thank you. We don't want any of your brand of civilization. Besides, all white men,—so far as our experience goes,—are liars. Why should we believe in your protestations at this time?" The remarkable story of the Florida Seminole has come out in connection with the present efforts of the Government to help them to better conditions. It reveal the unusual fact that this tribe of but 600 Indians at this time, is an unconquered race, living on its own lands, worshiping its own gods, making its own laws, acknowledging no authority, and asking nothing of any one except "the glorious privilege of being independent,"—a species of the modern "self-determination," as it might be termed. The history of these Indians,—from the time when, early i

HOME AND FAMILY

Our Visitor

BY JULIA GRAYDON

She has baskets filled with flowers,
But she carries in her hand,
Just one bunch of gayest roses,
Fairest lady in the land.

She has birds upon her shoulders
And they sing the sweetest songs
Of the bright and happy season
Which to this loved queen belongs.

She has goblets full of sunshine
And she's coming our way soon
Over hills and through the valleys,
Mistress of the summer,—June!

Harrisburg, Pa.

The Glories of Motherhood

BY MRS. W. H. MEYERS

CREATION DAY was the first bridal or wedding day. It must have been glorious to hear the heavenly bells peal forth their solemn strains and to see the hosts of heaven marching to the bridal hall where God himself united Adam and Eve in holy wedlock. The blessing pronounced upon this union by God himself: "Be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth," rings down through the ages to all mankind.

There are three solemn attainments for every normal girl, namely: Womanhood, wifehood and motherhood. Of these three the most glorious is motherhood.

Why should the prospective mother seclude herself from public life and then appear from a chrysalis, as it were, with the little bundle of love and tremendous possibilities in her arms? The mother of Jesus, meek and lowly, came to Jerusalem,—not secluded but walking among the throngs with joy and peace reigning supreme in her soul. Is not the prospective as beautiful and holy as the reality? The realization of the new life that is to be should bring to every living soul the great omnipotence of an All-wise and Loving Father who doeth all things well in their season.

The responsibilities that come to a mother, as she looks upon her child, are tremendous and beyond her comprehension. But the Christian mother is happy to see God behind it all. She knows that he is waiting and ready to help her at a moment's notice in the unfurling of this little life, so that it may blossom among mankind in glory and splendor. There comes a sense of joy to her as she watches her child develop. At first he seems almost motionless and does not recognize that he is in a new world. But as mother watches joyfully from day to day, she notices that he sees and hears and then comes the smile which makes her heart glad. As he grows, muscular action develops. He begins to laugh and kick. Soon the first step is taken, which the household and friends enjoy, but the greatest delight is seen in mother.

School days come in their season, and as mother watches and sees that he makes good, she ponders many things of his youthful days in her heart and feels joyfully confident that he is coming nearer her ideal day by day. Then, as he grows to maturity and becomes independent, she loves to hear him call her blessed. For it was she who eagerly watched and waited for him until the small hours of the night, when he was out. It was she who pointed out heaven's ways to him.

There are many thorns along the way that pierce here and there and everywhere, but mother, in her wistful, watchful way, keeps these intruders from making deeper scars.

If, by chance, one of her boys or girls should fall by the way, or drop into the gutter, or should ignore her counsel and even step upon her heart, "does she find joy in that?" you ask. But let me ask, before I answer: "What was it that thrilled her mother heart as she heard the first cry of this wayward one? It was her newly awakened mother love, the love that is nearest the divine the world can give. It is not dead now, but it is ever alive. She will go and search for him in the byways, and bring him home and prepare a feast for him. Can you enjoy that feast with her? Yes, you who have a true mother's love.

There are great things in human life, but the greatest is love,—such as is inherent in every true mother, for in it,—the cherished idealism of its ardor,—we come face to face and heart to heart with the fulness of childlikeness, and thus commend our souls to God. When mother's threescore and ten have come, her earthly task is well nigh done. She looks back with joy in her heart and sees the duties and privileges she has had and that with God's help she has done well. It is glorious to see her ripe for heaven. Her eyesight is almost gone, but the splendor of the celestial city dawns upon her vision. The gray light of heaven's morning has struck through the gray locks which are folded back over her wrinkled temples. She stoops very much now under the burdens of joy and sorrow she used to carry. Her last days are full of joy and peace. And calmer and sweeter will her spirit become until the gates of life shall lift and pass the worn-out pilgrim into eternal springtime and youth, where the limbs never ache nor the eyes grow dim and the staff of the exhausted and decrepit pilgrim shall become the palm of the immortal athlete.

Fresno, Calif.

Satan's Criminal Factories

BY NANCY D. UNDERHILL

"O, MRS. A! Mama wants to know if you will lend her a quarter to make change. She'll pay it back as soon as she gets some change." The little girl at the door received the quarter, but the amount was not returned.

A few days later the same little girl appeared. "O, Mrs. A! Would you please loan mama a dime for street car fare? She'll have some change tomorrow and then she'll pay you." She received the dime, but it was not returned.

Later we learned that other children had borrowed small amounts of other women upon similar pretexts. An investigation revealed the fact that their mothers knew nothing of the borrowing, but that the money was used to purchase tickets to the "movies."

A little boy received a nickel for the Sunday-school collection,—for "the poor little starving Belgians." Late in the afternoon, when Johnny was nowhere to be seen, Auntie started out to find him. He had used the nickel to go to the picture show.

Just as a man, addicted to the use of opium, will lie, steal, or do anything, to obtain more of the poison drug, so a child, accustomed to attend the movie show, with its exciting scenes, will lie or steal to get money to satiate the poisoned appetite for those seductive lessons in crime.

And why not? "Birds of a feather will flock together." The habitual theater-goer has continually before the eyes of his perverted mind the most exciting scenes, depicting the wrongdoings of criminals, thugs and harlots. Thus, being constantly associated with those classes in his mind, he naturally longs to be with them, because they are the folks with whom he is best acquainted.

A certain dear little child, in whom we are interested, was to be taken to a picture-show. Inquiry having been made, it was ascertained that this particular show was a "nice one, having no objectionable features." The writer was prompted by the Spirit to accompany the theater-going party upon this occasion. A part of what we saw is herein briefly mentioned,—the remainder being too vile for the columns of such a paper as the MESSENGER.

First, to catch the approval of the more intelligent class, several landscape views were thrown upon the screen, without explanation or comment. Had their location been indicated, they would have been educational. But movie shows usually are not meant to be elevating.

Next, several sensational scenes were shown, depicting a woman attired for bed. Next a villain enters, upon whom she smiles. Finally, the husband comes upon the scene, whereupon a three-cornered fight ensues. Then follow more pictures of harlots and villains, married folks with their paramours, wronged marriage partners coming upon the scene,—liquor being freely used by both sexes,—fights, men with revolvers, etc.

And thus men and women, with a large degree of intelligence, who might be doing things to make the world better, degrade themselves to the level of a monkey. Thus they become mere imitators,—followers of evil men and women,—criminals, harlots! And they do it for money. They sell their souls for mere dollars. And the poor dupes who pay them for doing it—oh, could they only have their eyes opened! This is what they call "a nice play,"—a show worth while for innocent children to attend. Why wonder that modesty among young people is almost a forgotten virtue,—that brazen immodesty is prevalent in all cities! Why be astonished that the sanctity of the home is fast becoming a thing unknown, especially in the cities where Satan's criminal factories are the schools most largely attended, and where juvenile criminality is greatly increasing!

Happy are the Christian parents who can train up their children in the quiet sanctity of a country home! Happy are the parents whose homes, even in the city, are the abiding places of the Holy Guest! Thank God that you have the privilege of blessing this old sin-cursed earth by keeping within it a little life-saving salt of humanity (Matt. 5: 13), a little honesty and purity, by sending forth your clean, unspoiled sons and daughters to help carry on the good works of mercy, kindness and truth, till our King shall come to claim his own (Matt. 25: 14-30).

Pomona, Calif.

Prodigal Sons,—Why Do They Leave Home?

BY OLIN F. SHAW

THERE are but few words in the English language that mean more to us than home. We love to sing: "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like hom." Home is where mother is, who makes even the humble abode a real home, and who is even more dear to us than home. Home is the place where all of our earthly interests center. It is the most sacred spot to us on earth. It will thus be seen that it is a very unnatural thing, indeed, for one to desert home. If one leaves home it is safe to say that it is due to some abnormal condition.

Sacred emotions for home and mother are not acquired feelings, but inherited. What has been said of our earthly home is equally true of our spiritual home. It is the place where all human interest center, and its associations are even more sacred to us. That any one should deliberately stray away from the heavenly home, seems almost unthinkable, when right viewed.

A discussion of the topic, just at this time when we are realizing the appalling losses of our young people, sustained by the church in the past, and its present effort to deal with the situation, seems especially timely. The natural instincts of the child do not lead him away from the church, any more than from the home. If a child wanders away from the church, depend upon it, there is an important reason for it. It is up to us to find it. We should not rest till we do find it. It can be located with considerable accuracy, and will be found in one of three places—in the child itself, in the church, or in the child's environment.

Let us look first at the child. He is born with a natural love of kin, amounting to almost godly reverence for its parents. Laid in the lap of a black "mammy," a thousand miles from the scene of its birth and ancestry, it would develop its same feeling for the one who nurtures and cherishes it. Though reared in Zululand, it would become no less a devotee to its heathen worship. The religious instinct, therefore, is present in every child in less degree than the home instinct.

There is this marked difference, however,—children developing among a less intelligent people live in a proportionately smaller world, and do not develop as fully the juvenile characteristics do the children of a more highly-organized society. The intelligence of Americans. To educate a child to stir up emotions lains, married folks with their paramours, wronged arriage partners coming upon the scene,—liquor beg freely used by both sexes,—fights, men with re-lvers, etc.

And thus men and women, with a large degree of telligence, who might be doing things to make the orld better, degrade themselves to the level of a onkey. Thus they become mere imitators,—follows of evil men and women,—criminals, harlots! And ey do it for money. They sell their souls for mere llars. And the poor dupes who pay them for doing —oh, could they only have their eyes opened! This what they call "a nice play,"—a show worth while r innocent children to attend. Why wonder that odesty among young people is almost a forgotten rtue,—that brazen immodesty is prevalent in all ies! Why be astonished that the sanctity of the me is fast becoming a thing unknown, especially the cities where Satan's criminal factories are the hools most largely attended, and where juvenile iminality is greatly increasing!

Happy are the Christian parents who can train up eir children in the quiet sanctity of a country home!
appy are the parents whose homes, even in the city, e the abiding places of the Holy Guest! Thank God at you have the privilege of blessing this old sin-rsed earth by keeping within it a little life-saving lt of humanity (Matt. 5: 13), a little honesty and rity, by sending forth your clean, unspoiled sons d daughters to help carry on the good works of ercy, kindness and truth, till our King shall come to aim his own (Matt. 25: 14-30).

Pomona, Calif.

Prodigal Sons,—Why Do They Leave Home?

BY OLIN F. SHAW

THERE are but few words in the English language at mean more to us than home. We love to sin: Be it ever so humble, there's no place like hom." ome is where mother is, who makes even the humle ode a real home, and who is even more dear tous an home. Home is the place where all of our earthly terests center. It is the most sacred spot to u on rth. It will thus be seen that it is a very unnatural ing, indeed, for one to desert home. If one laves me it is safe to say that it is due to some abnrmal ndition.

Sacred emotions for home and mother are pt acuired feelings, but inherited. What has been aid of ir earthly home is equally true of our spiritu home. is the place where all human interest center and its sociations are even more sacred to us. Thamy one ould deliberately stray away from the eavenly me, seems almost unthinkable, when right viewed. A discussion of the topic, just at this time when we e realizing the appalling losses of our yog people, stained by the church in the past, and it present fort to deal with the situation, seem especially mely. The natural instincts of the child o not lead m away from the church, any more th from the me. If a child wanders away from the church, de-nd upon it, there is an important reas for it. It up to us to find it. We should not yt till we do id it. It can be located with considerple accuracy, id will be found in one of three place—in the child self, in the church, or in the child's eronment.

Let us look first at the child. He born with a atural love of kin, amounting to almost godly verence for its parents. Laid in the lap of a black mammy," a thousand miles from e scene of its irth and ancestry, it would develop his same feeling or the one who nurtures and cheries it. Though eared in Zululand, it would becom no less a devotee s heathen worship. The relig's instinct, there-and to create desires in the child, and in so doing we may (as a matter of fact we do) create desires for things that are diametrically opposed to the best interests of the home and the church, and which they dare not tolerate. Here, in part, is the answer to the question propounded in the caption. How to deal intelligently with the new emotions and desires of unfolding child nature, is one of the problems for the home and church to solve.

Has the sacredness of home, and the religious instinct in the child a counterpart in the home and in the church? The writer has in mind an aged father and mother who are wealthy. They are living in an old house with no modern improvements,—one that is uncomfortably cold in winter weather. When we visited them they were drinking their coffee with no cream in it, and they were eating their bread with no butter on it. If some of you readers, with a look of disgust, say "misers," let me tell you that the motive for this manner of living is their children, who are all housed in modern homes. This represents, too, the interest the ordinary home has in its children.

But when we come to consider the interest of the church in its children, we discover an evident and serious weakness. Men and women who are housing the children in splendid modern homes, are content with very common, unattractive houses as places of worship. Too many consider a creditable bank balance as being of greater importance than a Christian education under church influences. As we should expect, the outcome has been many cases of noble and admirable devotion and loyalty to home, and utter indifference to the church, ending in prodigality. It is a matter of sincere regret that such have not found it a pleasure to sacrifice for the sake of our schools and the church work in general, as they have for their children.

Looking at the church and the home from another angle,—neither, as a whole, has understood child nature, nor anticipated and intelligently dealt with the varying needs of youth. This, too, has exacted a heavy toll of our children. Our problem here is first, to educate along lines that will stir up emotions and create wholesome desires for high and noble ideals. And, second, to know how to deal intelligently with ignoble and unwholesome emotions and desires that arise. Why is there not an organized effort in the study of child nature and child welfare in our various State Districts now? How many of our Sunday-schools have an organized parent-teachers' association? If not, why not?

Passing to the third point,—that of environment,—we note the well-known fact among juvenile workers, that most of the children in houses of correction are there because of inadequate home training and environment.

Homes might be classified as follows: (1) Homes where no particular goal or standard is insisted upon. (2) Homes where child raising is regarded as a matter of holding the children down, and keeping them under until they are grown. (3) Homes where such ideals as positions of fame, great riches, or pleasure are the ideals to be striven for.

Space does not permit me to enter into a detailed discussion of these various phases of home life. It is a law of nature that the parent can not give to the child what he does not possess. The same may be said of the home. Homes where attendance at services is marked by indifference and irregularity, and where contributions are, in a measure, forced, will inspire no enthusiasm in the children. I have much respect for many sincere parents who have vainly tried the "holding-down" process, though it does not hold. The children break over and away. If the children of such homes are to be saved for the church, the home en-us to an alarming degree. Children from such homes will not be slow to discover that labors for the church are not lucrative, nor promotive of particular honor, and that devotion to the service of the church is not conducive to big money-making. It must be evident, therefore, to all that if we are to save our children for the church, the home environment constitutes a big factor.

The hope of the writer of these lines is, that the church may catch a larger vision of her responsibility. Well may we reeall the words of our Lord again: "For this my son was lost, . . . this my son was dead." This should inspire us to push the work to its highest development.

Milledgeville, Ill.

When the Boys Come Home, Why Change?

(Continued from Page 407)

God. We have met all kinds of things in the trenches and dugouts and battle-fields, but have failed to find any Gospel there better than the Gospel of our childhood, the Gospel of our youth, the Gospel of our manhood, the Gospel of our ministry, which is the good old Gospel of the New Testament. . . . . .

"Let no one be deceived by the spurious cry of a new Gospel. And now since the war is over, just let the churches do what old Peter Cartwright said when dying: 'Give the old Gospel a chance.'"

If the mother was a good cook before the boy went away, he is not going to find fault with her cooking when he returns, and he isn't going to clamor for some new concoction, but will want the old substantial fare that will build up wasted tissue.

Neither will he want the spectacular, the sensational in religion. He will not want any flowery war talks and sermons. He knows more about that than we do and is sick and tired of it. He will want the plain old Gospel truths of his little Pocket Testament, and will be disappointed if he does not get them. So let us not concern ourselves so much about what we will do when the "boys come home" as what we are doing to spread this old Gospel and how we are living and what we shall be doing when the Lord Jesus comes. If we concern ourselves more about how we shall meet the approval of our Lord, the question of the coming home of the boys will be solved correctly.

Bellefontaine, Ohio.

SOME men are trying hard to get rid of sins. They will never succeed until they conquer sin.

CORRESPONDENCE

"Write what thou seest, and send it unto the churches"

WHAT WE ARE

Our characteristics, naturally and morally, are largely whatever our ancestors have bestowed upon us. All of us have the nature of Adam, but, thanks be to God, through Jesus Christ our Lord, we can be raised from the mire and filth of sin to high and holy positions in this life. Only those who have experienced a change of heart can reach these high spiritual planes.

It would be well, for every child of God, often to think of the exalted state to which Christ has lifted us, for there is danger of forgetting our high calling to which God, by his Spirit, has exalted us. "Wherefore, holy brethren, partakers of a HEAVENLY CALLING, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus" (Heb. 3: 1). We should not become proud or vain because of the dignity and honor which have been placed upon us for our acceptance of Christ. Rather should we conduct ourselves "with all lowliness and meekness." Yet, on the other hand, we may lower our dignity by not holding our calling in high esteem, and living in the true realm or sphere that God wants us to reach and appreciate.

We are privileged to become "sons and daughters" of our Heavenly Father. What joy a true and obedient child experiences when it lives in harmony with the wishes of its parents! It gets all the care, sympathy and in-

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

In this manner I wish to thank all who helped to make the "Conference Daily News" the success it attained at the Winona Lake Conference. The circulation reached a point beyond all precedence and yet we were unable to supply back numbers to late subscribers. Subscriptions continued to come in until the last day of the Conference. We mailed to all whose names reached us, what issues we had on hand. Every copy was cleaned up.

In settlement with those who did not receive a complete set of the papers, we placed the balance due them in the Bicentennial missionary offering, feeling sure that this would be satisfactory to those who had sent it in. So far as we can learn, the delivery of the Conference daily was quite satisfactory, there being less complaint along this line than we have ever known before. The paper was not perfect, for it was in charge of a very imperfect man. Again assuring all that we appreciate the assistance given, and praying for the success of the Five Year Forward Movement and a "bigger, better, busier Church of the Brethren," we are,

Yours in his service,

John R. Snyder,
Conferenee Editor.

DEATH OF DAVID BAKER

David Baker was born in Pennsylvania and died at his home in Carson City, Mich., May 29, 1919, aged eighty-seven years, nine months and twenty-seven days. He married Elizabeth Weaver. To this union eight children were born, three of whom preceded him. One son, Levi Baker, was a minister.

Fifty-four years ago the family moved to Clinton County, Mich. They were among the pioneers of the community and for thirty-six years lived on the farm where they first located. The mother died in 1868 and later Bro. Baker married Harriet Nicholas, who died in 1893. Six children were born to them,—two of whom died when young. His third marriage was to Mrs. Charlotte Robison in 1901.

About sixty years ago Bro. Baker united with the Church of the Brethren and for forty-nine years served in the ministry. He enjoyed serving others and helping to build up churches. He was always very enthusiastic in his public work, adding much life to services in which he took part.

He called for the anointing and requested preaching and prayer services in his home.

Services by the writer in the United Brethren church-house near Shepardsville, Mich. C. H. Deardorff.
Clarksville, Mich.

A CARD OF THANKS

The tragic death of our beloved son, Daniel Clovis Moomaw, on the battle-field of the Argonne Forest in France, Oct. 5, 1918, has been confirmed to the great regret of all who knew him. To our many friends and the friends of the departed one, who have, by their visits and affectionate letters, testified to their sorrow in our behalf, we here by offer sincerest thanks.

Words of appreciation but dimly express our high regard for their loving sympathy. The unspeakable burden of grief, which rends our hearts because of the sad fate of our dear son,—who took his departure for the spirit world at the dawn of a life of phenomenal promise,—is borne with greater resignation when dear friends ask the privilege to share it with us.

We have received letters of exquisite tenderness, which will be held in perpetual remembrance, and the tears of weeping friends tell us, in unutterable words, that he was enshrined in other hearts besides ours.

The deluging of "this evil world" with the blood and tears of millions of its people but faintly emphasizes the great wickedness of its rulers and the inefficiency of the spiritual forces, which should be sponsors for the divine benediction of "peace and good will."

That the lives of our young men may not be sacrificed in vain, let the tragic story of the great war be emphasized in a union of all the spiritual forces, which our peace-loving Lord established, when he brought his Father's will to the earth to banish the Satanic spirit of war from the nations of the world. For that holy benediction let the children of God everywhere fervently pray.

Mrs. R. A. Moomaw, D. C. Moomaw.
Roanoke, Va.

ELDER JOHN H. UTZ

John H. Utz was born within the bounds of the Beaver Dam congregation, Frederick County, Md., died May 27, 1919, aged eighty years, seven months and one day. He married Margaret Keller in 1862. To this union were born one son and four daughters. He united with the Church of the Brethren in 1858 and lived a devoted life. He leaves his wife, one son, four daughters, eleven grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren.

He was elected to the ministry about thirty-eight years ago and ordained to the full ministry in 1900. In these official positions he served the church faithfully and efficiently. He was easily the best self-made Bible student in the Eastern District of Maryland. He was thoroughly familiar with the New Testament and all the teachings of the Bible. To none, with whom we have associated, could the apostolic qualification of an elder,—"Apt to teach,"—be so consistently applied as to Brother Utz. He was constantly teaching and talking his religion at home and abroad. Seven days in the week his ministerial labors were a success, especially in his home church, as is evidenced by the faithful and loyal band of members left as a monument of his untiring efforts. To them he has been, in the fullest sense, both pastor and shepherd. The manifest worldward movement in the church caused him much concern and deep regret.

Many of the elders and ministers and hundreds of brethren, sisters and friends, who visited with him during his illness, would gladly testify to his devotion to Christ and the church of his choice. Possibly his greatest concern was for the home flock. He will be missed in the home and home church, in the District and community in which he lived.

Services were conducted at the home in the Piney Creek church, by the writer. The remains were taken to the Beaver Dam church in Frederick County,—his old home church. Here a second service was held by Eld. J. J. John. Burial in the cemetery near by.

Thurmont, Md. T. S. Fike.

Ecdysis

(Continued from Page 405)

having no shell, it is in great danger. Sad, indeed, its plight, if its soft, helpless body is spied by some hungry bird at this juncture, or if it is attacked by some insect parasite or the germs of some dread fungus! But its abundant life is its salvation, and soon it has formed a new shell, as durable as the old one, and suited in size and form to its new needs.

There is an interesting difference in structure between animal bodies, which must increase in size or change their form by ecdysis, and those which exhibit steady growth. In the former we have the exo-skeletal plan of structure, i. e., the skeleton or supporting frame work is on the outside, and is the most conspicuous part. It encloses all of the living tissues and organs, and compels their conformity to itself. While in the latter type,—the endo-skeletal type,—the supporting frame-work is concealed beneath the living tissues and serves only to facilitate the proper functioning of the vital parts.

Now there is a remarkable similarity between these animal types and institutions. Some institutions seem to belong to the lower group. They make their framework the most conspicuous part. It is on the outside, so to speak, enveloping the whole organism, and the principal duty of the constituent organs seems to be to conform to that framework. Such institutions must, like the grasshopper, depend on an ecdysis, such as the Reformation, the French Revolution, or the present revolutions in Russia and Germany, for any appreciable adjustment to new conditions. As with the insects, this process is fraught with great danger and is very wasteful. But there are other institutions of the higher order which have foreseen the need for adjustment and have put the vital functions first, resorting to rigid structures only where they seemed necessary to proper functioning.

When Jesus appeared in Palestine, he found his native church of the most formal type,—so formal, indeed, had it become that about all there was visible any more was the skeleton or form. This being on the outside, and incapable of change, was strangling the vital parts within. He plead with the officials of the church for changes to accommodate this struggling life, but it was of no use. The old shell was so firm and strong that it could not respond. For centuries the prophets had been struggling against the same hard shell, and always the strength of the shell had been sufficient to crush and quench the surging, pent-up life. However, when those vital forces were vivified by the Master's touch, and when his strength added to the pressure for freedom, there was a rent! The old shell parted asunder and the living contents slipped out, but not without great cost. The blood of the Master himself was the price. But the freed organism had received so much of his life that it was able to survive the ordeal of ecdysis and soon the freshly exuviated form was actively functioning in a new way.

Now here is a principle wherein institutions differ from the animal types: An institution may change from one type to the other. And this newly-formed institution, freed by the life of the Master, began its life on that higher plane of the endo-skeletal plan. This type, however, could not long survive in a world where all other institutions were of the exo-skeletal type. The State, the family and the church had always been built from the outside in, and soon the "Christian Fathers" began to build a shell about the "Christian church" like unto that which had to be broken at the cost of the blood of its Founder, and which, in turn, demanded the blood of many martyrs in the age of the Inquisition and the Reformation.

When this old, obstructing frame was finally torn asunder and left hanging lifeless to the weed of formalism, the newly-born Protestantism began its career, and, strange as it may seem, in less than two centuries its living constituents were finding themselves as tightly bound up by lifeless creeds as any of the previous ante-molt stages of the religious world had witnessed.

About this time there were many attempts, on the part of small groups, to escape the restricting frame of the church by the organization of new units. Among them was one which determined forever to avoid the pitfalls of creedism and laid it down as one of its foundation stones that there should never be any written creed, but that the religion of Jesus, as portrayed in the New Testament, would serve as its entire authority. For, said its wise founders: "We may not yet have all of truth, and we shall leave the way open for advancement as new light is received."

I marvel at the wisdom exhibited by these people in a time of such ignorance and superstition as prevailed at the time in which they lived. We wonder what a pace they would set for us if they lived in our own time, with all of the accumulated knowledge of the last two centuries at their service!

When we follow the history of our denomination from this noble beginning down to the present day, we see that we, too, have been beset by that same degenerative tendency which fossilized the Jewish church, Catholicism, and, to a greater or less degree, all of the outgrowths of the Protestant Reformation,—the tendency to preserve as sacred the wise acts and decisions of the fathers, instead of seeking to propagate the inspirational emanations of their untrammeled spirit, which enabled them, regardless of precedent, to reach these wise decisions.

Just now the world is in the molting season. Very unusual conditions have obtained during the last five years, which have stirred to alertness and activity all of the slumbering and benumbed vitals of the various institutions. Governments all over the world are molting to make room for new life. Other institutions are either doing the same or are feeling radical changes approaching. Every organization must, at such a time as this, accomplish great and sweeping changes. These will be accomplished either by rapid but gradual and studied adjustments, or by the more dangerous method of molting. Those organizations, which are built on the higher endo-skeletal plan, will be able to adjust themselves, with effort to be sure, because of the unusual stress of the times, the rapid change in their environment,—but without danger to themselves and for the ultimate good. Those, on the other hand, whose form depends upon the rigidity of an outward framework, will doubtless be rent, and the stirring life within will extricate itself and reform in a fashion suited to its new needs, and go on playing its part in the world of the living, while the old shells of tradition shall still cling to the weeds of precedent, retaining their old form, but showing no other evidence of life. There they shall rustle in the breezes until they are trampled to dust by the marching feet of progress.

Brookings, S. Dak.

THE soul may be compared to a field of battle, where the armies are ready every moment for action. Not a single vice but has a more powerful opponent, and not one virtue but may be overborne by a combination of vices,

Now here is a principle wherein institutions differ rom the animal types: An institution may change rom one type to the other. And this newly-formed stitution, freed by the life of the Master, began its fe on that higher plane of the ondo-skeletal plan. his type, however, could not long survive in a world here all other institutions were of the exo-skeletal ype. The State, the family and the church had always een built from the outside in, and soon the "Christian fathers" began to build a shell about the "Christian hurch" like unto that which had to be broken at the ost of the blood of its Founder, and which, in turn, emanded the blood of many martyrs in the age of the nquisition and the Reformation.

When this old, obstructing frame was finally torn sunder and left hanging lifeless to the weed of ormalism, the newly-born Protestantism began its areer, and, strange as it may seem, in less than two enturies its living constituents were finding themselves s tightly bound up by lifeless creeds as any of the revious ante-molt stages of the religious world had witnessed.

About this time there were many attempts, on the art of small groups, to escape the restricting frame f the church by the organization of new units. Among them was one which determined forever to avoid the pitfalls of creedism and laid it down as one of its foundation stones that there should never be any written creed, but that the religion of Jesus, as portrayed in the New Testament, would serve as its entire authority. For, said its wise founders: "We may not yet have all of truth, and we shall leave the way open for advancement as new light is received."

I marvel at the wisdom exhibited by these people in a time of such ignorance and superstition as prevailed at the time in which they lived. We wonder what a pace they would set for us if they lived in our own time, with all of the accumulated knowledge of the last two centuries at their service!

When we follow the history of our denomination from this noble beginning down to the present day, we see that we, too, have been beset by that same degenerative tendency which fossilized the Jewish church, Catholicism, and, to a greater or less degree, all of the outgrowths of the Protestant Reformation,—the tendency to preserve as sacred the wise acts and decisions of the fathers, instead of seeking to propagate the inspirational emanations of their untrammeled spirit, which enabled them, regardless of precedent, to reach these wise decisions.

Just now the world is in the molting season. Very unusual conditions have obtained during the last five years, which have stirred to alertness and activity all of the slumbering and benumbed vitals of the various institutions. Governments all over the world are molting to make room for new life. Other institutions are either doing the same or are feeling radical changes approaching. Every organization must, at such a time as this, accomplish great and sweeping changes. These will be accomplished either by rapid but gradual and studied adjustments, or by the more dangerous method of molting. Those organizations, which are built on the higher endo-skeletal plan, will be able to adjust themselves, with effort to be sure, because of the unusual stress of the times, the rapid change in their environment,—but without danger to themselves and for the ultimate good. Those, on the other hand, whose form depends upon the rigidity of an outward framework, will doubtless be rent, and the stirring life within will extricate itself and reform in a fashion suited to its new needs, and go on playing its part in the world of the living, while the old shells of tradition shall still cling to the weeds of precedent, retaining their old form, but showing no other evidence of life.

Notes From Our Correspondents

As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country

ARKANSAS

Springdale church has been lifted to a higher plane by the short series of meetings, conducted by Eld. C. H. Brown. There were no accessions to the church,—but much good was accomplished. June 10 a very enjoyable and spiritual love feast was held, with twenty-nine members present. A few visiting members were with us, including Eld. Marshal Ennis, of Cole, Okla.—L. W. Stong, Springdale, Ark., June 16.

CALIFORNIA

Live Oak.—We have been reciting Bible verses in our Sunday-school in alphabetical order. We appreciated the efforts of the Junior Boys' Class in that respect, when they appeared as a class and with their teacher recited twenty-six verses in concert. A concentrated effort to raise our quota of the $150,000, resulted in $146.60 for Annual Conference offering. Our council convened June 6. Sunday-school officers for the next six months were elected, with Royal Ott,-superintendent. Gilbert Brubaker was chosen president of the Christian Workers' Meeting. We are trying to open a mission point among the Chinese in Marysville.—A. Crites, Live Oak, Calif., June 15.

Pasadena Sunday-school rendered a fine program June 8, which was our Children's Day. Especially impressive was an exercise by a class of junior boys who told in their own words the lives of several Bible characters. Their splendid work was an inspiration to all present. Bro. N. G. Brubaker, of Los Angeles, is filling our pulpit in the absence of our pastor, Bro. W. E. Trostle, who is attending Conference. Bro. Brubaker is giving us some good practical messages. Our collection for Annual Conference amounted to $400.—Ida Brubaker Gibbel, Pasadena, Calif., June 14.

COLORADO

Bethel church enjoyed a Children's Day program June 15 at the schoolhouse where we have Sunday-school each Sunday. About 100 were present. A collection of $12 was taken for general missionary work. We have organized a Christian Workers' Meeting, in which the young people of this community are very much interested. Our Sunday-school has increased in attendance this summer.—Elcora B. Switzer, Arriba, Colo., June 17.

IDAHO

Moscow church met in council June 7. Bro. Fred Flora was chosen elder in charge of Bro. A. J. Mow, who is leaving for Weiser, Idaho. Three letters were granted. Bro. B. J. Fike will hold a revival meeting in January, 1920.—Arrie Lyon, Moscow, Idaho, June 9.

ILLINOIS

Elgin.—We kept Children's Day June 15. The trees were their greenest, the roses their sweetest, and the birds and children most joyful. Songs and recitations by the primaries, exercises by the juniors, songs by the intermediates, and anthems by the choir blended in a jubilee of adoration to Christ, who suffered little children to come to him. The perfume of flowers was offered him too. With all we could bring, though, we couldn't make an even trade for all the magnificent benefactions with which he loaded us down. We simply gave back some of his owe. . . . In the evening Edward Siepler, father-in-law of our Spencer Minnich, now in the Mission Field, filled the pulpit, giving us a virile address. He came here from Conference, accompanied by his wife, their home being at Sugar Creek, Ohio.—Adaline H. Beery, Elgin, Ill., June 16.

La Place.—May 3 our church was visited by one of the Volunteer Mission Bands of Bethany Bible School. Sister Anna Hutchison, on furlough from the South China mission field, gave an illustrated lecture on China. The whole program was along the line of missionary work and was very much enjoyed by all present. May 29 an enjoyable and well attended love feast was held. That evening two were baptized. Our regular quarterly council was held May 31, with Eld. Geo. W. Miller presiding.—Mrs. Laura M. Crain, La Place, Ill., June 16.

INDIANA

Bachelor Run church met in council June 4, with Eld. Ira Kreider presiding. Three letters were granted. Our love feast will be held Oct. 18. We decided to retain Bro. Kreider as pastor and elder for another year.—Pearl Sink, Flora, Ind., June 18.

Bethany congregation met in council June 18, with Bro. A. E. Clem presiding. One letter was granted. Our series of meetings will begin Sept. 7, and we expect to hold our love feast Sept. 20. Bro. Bert Neff was elected superintendent of the Sunday-school, which is progressing splendidly.—Bertha B. Weybright, Syracuse, Ind., June 19.

Howard church met in council May 29, with Eld. John Flora presiding. Our delegate to the Annual Meeting was Bro. Robert Sink. The Annual Meeting offering was $415. Bro. John Flora was re-elected elder for the coming year. He was also elected delegate to District Meeting. One trustee was also chosen. Four letters were granted. The date for our communion was set for Oct. 12.—Everett Henry, Flora, Ind., June 16.

Kewanna.—Since spring the attendance and interest in Sunday-school and church services are increasing. Members as well as neighbors are taking hold of the work with new spirit. Easter Sunday Bro. May Gwong gave us two fine addresses, one being on the customs of China. Our love feast was held recently and was a spiritual meeting. May 31, with Bro. J. G. Stinebaugh in charge, we held our council. Two letters were received and one was granted. It was decided to hold an all-day Harvest Meeting Aug. 17, with Bro. B. D. Hirt in charge.—Myrtie Mishler, Kewanna, Ind., June 15.

Kokomo.—The children of the church rendered an interesting program on Mothers' Day. Bro. O. D. Werking also preached an excellent sermon, his subject being "The Ideal Mother." April 27 under the superintendence of Sister Grace Hart. We met in council June 5, with Eld. Oscar Werking presiding. Sister Josie Werking was elected delegate to District Meeting, with Bro. Werking, alternate. Just before closing our business meeting, after singing an invitation hymn, one confessed Christ and will be baptized on Sunday.—Mrs. Anna Davis, Kokomo, Ind., June 19.

Landess church met in council June 14, with Eld. D. M. Hummer in charge. We had a fine meeting. Bro. Bixler gave us a good talk June 15. Our church is about finished and we are looking forward to the dedication service, which will be followed by a series of meetings, closing with a love feast, the date of which will be announced later.—Mrs. Marshall Pence, Landess, Ind., June 18.

Loon Creek church met in council June 14, with Eld. D. W. Paul in charge. Bro. B. D. Hirt and wife were ordained to the eldership. Bro. Carpenter was elected delegate to District Meeting, with Bro. Geo. Ritchey, alternate. Our love feast is set for Oct. 25, at 7 P. M. Bro. Jos. Holder, of Anderson, preached for us on Sunday morning and evening.—Florida J. E. Green, Middletown, Ind., June 17.

Salem church met in council June 13, with Eld. J. M. Markley in charge. Elders S. P. Hendricks and D. W. Hostetler were also with us. One letter was granted. The date of our Harvest Meeting was set for Sept. 7, and our love feast for Oct. 10. We will hold a series of meetings this fall. Two deacons were chosen.—Mrs. Clyde Joseph, Culver, Ind., June 14.

White church met in council May 28, with Eld. D. C. Campbell presiding. Our Harvest Meeting will be held Sept. 7, with the morning services conducted by Bro. W. F. Haynes, of Virden, Ill., children's exercises in the afternoon, followed by our series of meetings, which will close with a love feast. Brethren Ira Fisher and Forrest Groff were chosen delegates to District Meeting, and Bro. R. M. Bowers represents the Sunday-school. Our Annual Conference offering amounted to $100.—Roy Coyner, Clarks Hill, Ind., June 11.

IOWA

Grundy County.—Bro. D. H. Keller has taken up pastoral work here and is already occupying the parsonage. We are preparing for the series of meetings which will begin June 22. Our love feast will be held at the close.—Hannah C. Messer, Grundy Center, Iowa, June 16.

KANSAS

Bloom.—June 8 Bro. J. W. Deeter, of McPherson, our District Sunday-school Secretary, gave an excellent discourse on missions. An offering of $300 was taken for work in our home District. A basket dinner was served in the basement of the church. In the afternoon and evening Bro. Deeter took up the work of the Sunday-school and discussed its various problems, giving us some excellent ideas as to how we might improve in our work.—Cassie Martin, Bloom, Kans., June 14.

Correction.—In the note, published in the June 7 issue, I stated that Bro. John A. Campbell was advanced to the second degree of the ministry. I should have said: "He was advanced to the eldership."—Julia C. Jones, Parsons, Kans., June 16.

Independence.—All lines of church work are moving along encouragingly. Yesterday, which was Decision Day, after an interesting Sunday-school session, Eld. W. H. Miller preached an able sermon on the subject "The Valley of Decision." In the evening we had a very enjoyable Christian Workers' Meeting, led by Bro. Chas. Cline. Afterward Bro. John Denney delivered an able sermon also, on "Decision." At the conclusion of the service three came forward for baptism. One has been baptized since our last report. Our Sunday-school shows a good increase over last year, both in attendance and collections. The school has decided to install electric fans in the church. We now have a male quartet and several weeks ago a Gospel Team was organized. Each Wednesday evening we have a music and singing class under the direction of Bro. Denney. We also have a Teacher-training Class. These are all proving a great help in the different lines of church work. Our weekly prayer meeting is increasing in interest and is certainly one of the greatest helps in our church, in building up interest and attendance.—Pella Carson, Independence, Kans., June 16.

Maple Grove church met in council, with Eld. A. J. Wertenberger in charge. We decided to hold our love feast June 28. June 15 a Union Sunday-school Convention was held at our church, with a large number present. Our Sunday-school attendance is increasing.—Anna Cheesman, Norton, Kans., June 16.

Neosho church met in council at the Canute house, with Bro. W. H. Miller in charge. Six letters were received. One has been ordained recently. The old officers were all retained, with the exception of elder, to which office Bro. E. M. Reed was chosen. We organized the Sunday-school at the old Neosho house last Sunday with Bro. Quincy Reed, superintendent. Our Annual Meeting offering amounted to over $250.—Alice Reed, Galesburg, Kans., June 12.

Rock Creek.—Bro. Earl M. Bowman, of McPherson, was with us in a series of meeting which closed June 15. He preached twelve forceful and convincing sermons. Eight were baptized and one awaits the rite. Sunday evening, June 14, our love feast was held with about sixty communing. Our pastor, Bro. H. D. Bowman, is putting forth every effort to build up this community spiritually by preaching powerful sermons.—Frank Hoover, Sabetha, Kans., June 16.

MARYLAND

Baltimore (Fulton Avenue).—May 4 we held our annual love feast with 165 communicants present. Bro. Edw. C. Bixler, of New Windsor, Md., officiated. Mothers' Day was observed with appropriate exercises. May 15 our missionary committee secured the Rev. Hebbner, of Philadelphia, who gave an illustrated lecture on China and India. This was the beginning of an effort toward raising our Annual Meeting offering, which amounted to $300.90. Our Sunday-school is supporting a native worker in India. While Bro. Martin is attending Annual Meeting, Bro. B. D. Angle is preaching for us.—D. C. Angle, Baltimore, Md., June 14.

Broadfording.—Bro. D. L. Miller, of Mount Morris, Ill., began a series of meetings at this place April 20, which continued for two weeks. The meetings were well attended from the beginning, and we feel that much good seed was sown. Bro. Miller gave a number of Bible Land talks during the first part of the series of meetings. May 18 Bro. S. A. Sanger, of Free Union, Va., began a series of meetings for us in the Maugansville Union church, and continued meetings for us in the Maugansville Union church, and continued until June 1. During these series of meetings five have been added to the church by baptism. Our Annual Meeting offering amounted to $300.—C. E. Martin, Maugansville, Md., June 16.

Meadow Branch church met in council June 12, with Eld. Uria Bixler presiding. Two letters were received. Eld. W. E. Roop and wife, delegates to Annual Meeting, made a report and extended to their church the privilege, as requested by the Conference, to join in the special thank-offering, to be taken in the near future, for missions over the top this year. Sisters Lou Bish and Eugenia Geiman were appointed solicitors for this purpose. Brethren Frank Garner and Arthur Nail were elected members of our local missionary committee. Bro. B. B. Garber has promised to begin a series of meetings Sept. 27, to close with our love feast, now set for Oct. 11, at 2 P. M.—W. E. Roop, Westminster, Md., June 16.

Waterasville Mission.—The series of meetings, held here by the writer, May 18 to June 1, closed with all being baptized. A number of others decided for Christ and expressed themselves willing to unite with the Church of the Brethren at a later date. The interest of the meeting was good from start to finish. The attendance was all that could have been expected, considering the rainy weather during almost the entire first week. This was the first series of meetings ever held here, which resulted in converts being secured.—W. E. Roop, Westminster, Md., June 14.

Westminster.—The annual interest was manifested in the annual Bible Term, held in the Westminster house by Elders J. G. Myers and H. H. Nye. The attendance was above normal. To miss the

NATURE IN THE PSALMS

(Continued from Page 411)

Would it not be appropriate for us to offer David's prayer in Psa. 104: 31-35, that the glory of God, manifested in nature, might endure forever?

May every living thing praise Jehovah until the whole world becomes a temple filled with the anthems of his praise! Stella Bruhaker.

Virden, Ill.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Another Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren is past. What did it mean to you who attended? What did it mean to me? Was it simply a place to meet and converse again with friends of former days? Or did we realize a deeper joy? Did we find it a good place where we could meet and converse with God about things of mutual interest? Did we catch a glimpse of higher things? Or if we had that already, did we get a wider and better view of the great harvest field and its need of workers? Will we feel more like praying the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into his harvest field, and then help to answer our prayers by consecrating our own lives to his service, to be used where he may direct?

How did you feel, when asked by Bro. J. H. B. Williams, "How many in the audience wish that you could go with these missionaries who are soon to sail? Raise your hands." I raised my hand, for I did sincerely wish that I could be one among them. At one time I had hopes that at some time I could be nf service on the mission field. But as the way did not open, I was not permitted to go. My missionary zeal did nnt abate, however, and I was content to work in the homeland, hoping, in a few years, to be permitted to have the privilege of giving of my own sons and daughters to the cause so dear to my heart.

Have you heard the call of God? Did you listen to the voice? Try it again! Pray the Lord of the harvest! Pray and listen! As you kneel at his feet and listen to his message, look up! Behold the bleeding hands and pierced side of your Savior and mine. Sometimes we can see farthest by closing our eyes. With closed eyes look across the fields of India and China and to the "uttermost parts." Do you see the outstretched hands and hear the pleading of the millions for the Dear Old Story which has meant so much to you?

Now let us pray together: "Dear Savior of the world, touch our hearts; make them tender; give us a desire to be used where thou canst use us best, to help those in benighted lands."

We often hear: "There's plenty of work at home." True, there is work in America that God wants some one to do. Now you, who do not feel called to service in foreign lands, especially young ministers with health and talent, are you sure God is satisfied with your life, with your location?

We will take a look at some of the States in the great Northwest where, here and there, are little groups nf members, struggling to keep up a Sunday-school and heggiing for a minister to come at least once a month to preach the Word.

Then there are vast territories with no churches. Going to the Far East, in the whole State of New York, the Church of the Brethren has hut one congregation, which was a mission point for seven years. Recently it has become an organized church and we are glad to state that it is growing in many ways.

In this beautiful State where farms are productive, yet very cheap, there is an open door for members to secure beautiful homes and to he of service to God by preaching and teaching the Gospel to a people who know nothing of our church or its doctrines, as we believe and practice them, but who are interested and seem hungry for the whole Gospel.

Young brother ministers, located in large congregations where you scarcely have elhow-room, you are not needed there. God knows it. YOU know it. God is calling workers for these needy fields. Are you right sure he is not calling YOU?

Move out! Get into some of these churches where workers are so greatly needed. Give of your talent, your time and you will experience some of the REAL joy of living. Try it and he convinced. After a life of joyful service there is another still greater joy awaiting when you hear the Master's "Well done."

Ludlowville, N. Y. Alice Richer Funderburg.

HUNTINGTON COUNTY, IND., SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION

May 25 was a hig day for the Brethren churches in Huntington County. Members from the different congregations met at the Huntington country church for the semiannual Sunday-school Convention. The program hegan at 10 o'clock, with Bro. Amzi Snell in charge. Sister Cora Emly gave a missionary reading, impressing us with a call from the heathen to the churches in America. Eld. E. L. Heestand gave a talk on "The Bible in This World Crisis." The subject was of such interest and importance that a numher responded in the general discussion.

After a hasket dinner the program was continued. The speaker for the first subject, "A Community Survey," was not present, so the moderator called on representatives from the different congregations for reports of their local survey work.

The subjects, "Our Quota of the $40,000 for Missions," by Bro. Quinter Neff, and "Sunday-school Evangelism," by Bro. B. D. Hirt, awakened new energy to meet our responsibility in the Five-Year Forward Movement.

There were a numher of special songs during the day's program. To he at that meeting meant to "catch the spirit," for one could not help hut carry away inspiration. Our Heavenly Father granted such a heautiful day and through his servants spoke such messages that we feel a new zeal in making our Sunday-school work count for him. Cora L. Heestand.

Huntington, Ind.

IN MEMORY OF BROTHER ELMER MINNICH AND SISTER SALLIE LONGENECKER

The Annville congregation, like so many other congregations, gave her share to the dread disease, influenza. These two were taken from one home, Bro. Minnich and his wife living with the latter's parents, Brother and Sister H. G. Longenecker.

Bro. Elmer G. Minnich, son of Jacob L. Minnich, was born in Lancaster County, Pa., and died at his home at Annville, Pa., Jan. 15, 1919, aged twenty-nine years, eight months and two days. While at Elizabethtown College, where he spent two years, his heart was touched and he became a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren at the age of seventeen. In 1911 he married Sister Anna K. Longenecker, daughter of the above-named sister.

In August, 1915, the church elected him to the office of Sunday-school superintendent, and two days later to the ministry. Both offices he filled acceptably. In the work of the ministry he was a faithful student of the Word and had the gift of touching the hearts of his hearers in its proclamation. The church feels its loss very keenly, having looked forward for rare usefulness and help in the future. In all his church work he always showed that he had the Master's cause at heart, first and foremost.

He leaves his wife, one son, mother, two brothers and four sisters.

Sister Sallie Longenecker died Jan. 11, 1919, aged fifty-one years, four months and two days. She became a member of the Church of the Brethren twenty-five years ago. She was active in all the work of the church,—Sunday-school, Christian Workers' Meeting and the Aid Society. In 1887 she married Bro. H. G. Longenecker. To them were born one daughter and two sons who survive, with her husband, two brothers and two sisters.

Services in the Annville church hy Elders J. H. Longenecker, A. B. Gingrich and H. K. Ober. H. B. Hollinger.

Lebanon, Pa.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may he applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Ebersole-Michael.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, in Kenmare, N. Dak., June 11, 1919, Miss Emily R. Michael and Aaron Ebersole, both of Kenmare.—Jorgen Boe, Kenmare, N. Dak.

Hollenberg-Reber.—By the undersigned, June 1, 1919, in the parlor of Bethany Bible School, Chicago, Bro. Frederick M. Hollenberg and Sister Nora L. Reber, missionaries under appointment to India.—J. Hugh Heckman, Oak Park, Ill.

Hoover-Smith.—By the undersigned, June 5, 1919, at the home of the bride's parents, Brother and Sister S. M. Smith, Bro. Earl D. Hoover, of Detroit, Mich., and Sister S. Ruth Smith, of Campbell, Mich.—Peter B. Messner, Lake Odessa, Mich.

Miller-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride, April 30, 1919, Bro. Benj. G. Miller, of Singer Glen, Va., and Sister Amy B. Bowman, of Johnson City, Tenn.—R. B. Pritchett, Johnson City, Tenn.

Simmons-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at his home, March 26, 1919, Bro. Claude R. Simmons and Sister Mary M. Bowman, both of Johnson City, Tenn.—R. B. Pritchett, Johnson City, Tenn.

Wagoner-Cherrington.—At the Methodist parsonage, Grand Junction, Colo., by the Rev. Chas. Thibodeau, Sister Lettie Wagoner and Mr. L. H. Cherrington, of Grand Junction, Colo.—Mrs. L. Cherrington, Grand Junction, Colo.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Arnold, Hannah Catherine, wife of Bro. Geo. S. Arnold, died at the age of 65 years, 6 months and 10 days. She was a faithful and consecrated member of the Church of the Brethren for nearly forty years. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. J. Welty Fahrney.—J. Kurtz Miller, Frederick, Md.

Border, Sister Violet, nee Greenawalt, wife of H. E. Border, died at her home in Hopewell Township, April 28, 1919, aged 41 years, 9 months and 18 days. She is survived by her husband, nine children, her father, mother, six brothers and four sisters. She and her husband united with the Church of the Brethren in 1904 and later were elected to the office of deacon. Services at the house by Bro. Geo. S. Batzel. Interment in the Bethel cemetery.—Levi E. Greenawalt, Everett, Pa.

Brumbaugh, Ruth Evelyn, daughter of Theodore and Rose Brumbaugh, died at her home, near Saxton, Pa., of pneumonia, May 11, 1919, aged 1 year, 5 months and 4 days. She leaves her father, mother and one brother. Services at the Raven Run church by Bro. J. F. Harris. Interment in the Bunker Hill cemetery.—Zura Hoover, Saxton, Pa.

Dorsey, Sister Helen Harriet, born in Somerset County, Md., died at the Crisfield Hospital, of appendicitis, Jan. 8, 1919, aged 18 years, 4 months and 26 days. She united with the church some time ago, and was a consistent member. She leaves her father, mother, six brothers and two sisters. Services at the home by Bro. N. J. Miller. Burial in the home cemetery. —Mrs. Chas. Fifer, Rehobeth, Md.

Fleshman, Sister Jennie, died at her home near Lindside, W. Va., May 20, 1919, aged 63 years and 8 months. In 1875 she married W. H. Fleshman. To them were born seven children. Her husband and two children preceded her. In 1896 she, with her husband, united with the Brethren church and lived faithful. Services at Spruce Run church by Eld. Geo. W. Bradley. Interment in the Fleshman burying ground.—Mary R. Bradley, Lindside, W. Va.

Frederickson, Anna Elizabeth, daughter of George and Georgine Frederickson, born in Copenhagen, Denmark. She came to America with her parents in 1909. She died at the hospital at Spokane June 6, 1919, aged 20 years. She leaves her father and two brothers. Her mother, three sisters and one brother preceded her. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. Chas. M. Yearout.—James Harp, Lenore, Idaho.

Gentry, Miss Esther May, daughter of Albert J. and Harriet M. Gentry, born near Lima, Ohio, died in Sacramento, Calif., May 30, 1919, aged 17 years, 1 month and 11 days. Death was caused by the rush of blood to the brain. She is survived by her father, mother, three brothers, and two sisters. She was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Services by the writer in the undertaker's parlor in Sacramento. Interment in the cemetery near Salida, Calif.—Michael Blocher, Rio Linda, Calif.

Harlason, Samuel Oliver, born at Kilbourn City, Wis., died in the hounds of the Willow Creek church, S. Dak., May 20, 1919, aged 48 years, 11 months and 11 days. He was confirmed in the Lutheran faith but later became a member of the Church of the Brethren. In 1904 he married Sister Ellen Heagley, who survives with two adopted children.—Eva Heagley Hurst, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Haynes, Barbara Ann, daughter of Wm. and Barbara Eisenberg, born in Seneca County, Ohio, died of cerebral apoplexy, May 1, 1919, aged 77 years, 4 months and 20 days. In 1867 she married Egbert M. Haynes. To them were born six children, two of whom died in infancy. She is survived by her husband, four children, ten grandchildren and two sisters. Soon after her marriage she was received into the Church of the Brethren, in which she was a faithful worker. Services in the Union church by Eld. Jesse Gump. Interment in cemetery near by.—E. L. Kennedy, Garrett, Ind.

Jenkins, John, died June 7, 1919, aged 79 years, 4 months and 18

An Educational Directory of the Church of the Brethren

Two weeks ago an announcement of this undertaking was published, its probable results stated, and a request made for such aid as the "Messenger" readers can render. The main point to remember is that it is planned to publish a Directory, giving briefly the qualifications, achievements, and interests of members of the Church of the Brethren who are graduates of collegiate courses, that is, courses from which no one may he graduated who has not completed a four-year high-school course or its equivalent.

The Brethren colleges are supplying the names and addresses of their graduates of collegiate courses. The names and addresses of members who are graduates nf such courses in other than Brethren colleges can hé accurately obtained only if every reader of the "Gospel Messenger" coöperates by furnishing the names of all such members of their acquaintance. If you know of such members, will you kindly send their names and addresses at once to the compilers, using the blank below? If you do not know of such persons, will you please hand this article and blank to some one who does, or inclose it in your next letter to some one who may know of such members?

Blank, on Which Names and Addresses of Members of the Church of the Brethren Who Are Graduates of Courses of Collegiate Grade, Should Be Filled in And Sant at ones to the Compilers, in Care of W. Arthur Cable, 5515 Ingleside Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

W. Arthur Cable, 5515 Ingleside Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Brother:—

The persons whose names and addresses are entered below are members of the Church of the Brethren and, I believe, are graduates of courses of collegiate grade; that is, courses from which no one may he graduated who has not completed a four-year high-school course or its equivalent:

Name	Address	School from Which Graduated (Omit if Not Known)
.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....
.....	.....	.....

Name of sender, ... Address, ...

We thank in advance all who may aid in the wark nutlined above. Homer F. Sanger, W. Arthur Cable.

Bro. Elmer G. Minnich, son of Jacob L. Minnich, was born in Lancaster County, Pa., and died at his home at Annville, Pa., Jan. 15, 1919, aged twenty-nine years, eight months and two days. While Elizabethtown College, where he spent two years, his heart was touched and he became a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren at the age of seventeen. In 1911 he married Sister Anna Longenecker, daughter of the above-named sister.

In August, 1916, the church elected him to the office of Sunday-school superintendent, and two days later to the ministry. Both these offices he filled acceptably. In the work of the ministry he was a faithful student of the Word and had the gift of touching the hearts of his hearers in its proclamation. The church feels its loss very keenly, having looked forward for rare usefulness and help in the future. In all his church work he always shawed that he had the Master's cause at heart, first and foremost.

He leaves his wife, one son, mother, two brothers and four sisters. Sister Sallie Longenecker died Jan. 11, 1919, aged fifty-one years, four months and two days. She became a member of the Church of the Brethren twenty-five years ago. She was active in all the work of the church—Sunday-school, Christian Workers' Meeting and the Aid Society. In 1887 she married Bro. H. G. Longenecker. To them were born one daughter and two sons who survive, with her husband, two brothers and two sisters.

Services in the Annville church by Elders J. H. Longenecker, A. S. Gingrich and H. K. Ober. H. B. Hollinger.
Lebanon, Pa.

MATRIMONIAL

Marriage notices should be accompanied by 50 cents

Please note that the fifty cents required for the publication of a marriage notice may be applied to a three months' "Gospel Messenger" subscription for the newly-married couple. Request should be made when the notice is sent, and full address given.

Ebersole-Michael.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride's parents, in Kenmare, N. Dak., June 11, 1919, Miss Emily R. Michael and Aaron Ebersole, both of Kenmare.—Jorgen Boe, Kenmare, N. Dak.

Hollenberg-Reber.—By the undersigned, June 1, 1919, in the parlor of Bethany Bible School, Chicago, Bro. Frederick M. Hollenberg and Sister Nora L. Reber, missionaries under appointment to India.—J. H. Heckman, Oak Park, Ill.

Hoover-Smith.—By the undersigned, June 5, 1919, at the home of the bride's parents, Brother and Sister S. M. Smith, Bro. Earl D. Hoover, of Detroit, Mich., and Sister S. Ruth Smith, of Campbell, Mich.—Peter B. Messner, Lake Odessa, Mich.

Miller-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at the home of the bride, April 30, 1919, Bro. Benj. O. Miller, of Singer Glen, Va., and Sister Amy R. Bowman, of Johnson City, Tenn.—R. B. Pritchett, Johnson City, Tenn.

Simmons-Bowman.—By the undersigned, at his home, March 26, 1919, Bro. Chude R. Simmons and Sister Mary M. Bowman, both of Johnson City, Tenn.—R. B. Pritchett, Johnson City, Tenn.

Wagoner-Cherrington.—At the Methodist parsonage, Grand Junction, Colo., by the Rev. Chas. Thibedeau, Sister Lettie Wagoner and Mr. H. Cherington, of Grand Junction, Colo.—Mrs. L. Cherrington, Grand Junction, Colo.

FALLEN ASLEEP

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord"

Arnold, Hannah Catherine, wife of Bro. Geo. S. Arnold, died at he age of 65 years, 6 months and 10 days. She was a faithful and consecrated member of the Church of the Brethren for nearly forty years. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. J. Welty Fahrney.—E. Knox Miller, Frederick, Md.

Border, Sister Violet, nee Greenawalt, wife of H. E. Border, died at her home in Hopewell Township, April 28, 1919, aged 41 years, 9 months and 18 days. She is survived by her husband, nine children, her father, mother, six brothers and four sisters. She and her husband united with the Church of the Brethren in 1904 and later were elected to the office of deacon. Services at the house by Bro. Gen. S. Batzel. Interment in the Bethel cemetery.—Levi E. Greenawalt, Everett, Pa.

Brumbaugh, Ruth Evelyn, daughter of Theodore and Rosa Brumbaugh, died at her home, near Saxton, Pa., of pneumonia, May 11, 1919, aged 1 year, 5 months and 4 days. She leaves her father, mother and one brother. Services at the Raven Run church by Bro. J. F. Harris. Interment in the Bunker Hill cemetery.—Zura Hoover, Saxton, Pa.

Dorsey, Sister Helen Harriet, born in Somerset County, Md., died at the Crisfield Hospital, of appendicitis, Jan. 5, 1919, aged 18 years, 6 months and 26 days. She united with the church some time ago, and was a consistent member. She leaves her father, mother, six brothers and two sisters. Services at the home by Bro. N. J. Miller. Burial in the home cemetery.—Mrs. Chas. Pifer, Rehoboth, Md.

Flesbman, Sister Jennie, died at her home near Lindside, W. Va., May 20, 1919, aged 63 years and 8 months. In 1873 she married W. H. H. Flesbman. To them were born seven children. Her husband and two children preceded her. In 1896 she, with her husband, united with the Brethren church and lived faithful. Services at Spruce Run church by Eld. Geo. W. Bradley. Interment in the Flesbman burying ground.—Mary R. Bradley, Lindside, W. Va.

Frederickson, Anna Elizabeth, daughter of George and Georgine Frederickson, born in Copenhagen, Denmark. She came to America with her parents in 1909. She died at the hospital at Spokane June 6, 1919, aged 20 years. She leaves her father and two brothers. Her mother, three sisters and one brother preceded her. Services by the writer, assisted by Bro. Chas. M. Yearout.—James Harp, Lenore, Idaho.

Gentry, Miss Esther May, daughter of Albert J. and Harriet M. Gentry, born near Lima, Ohio, died in Sacramento, Calif., May 30, 1919, aged 17 years, 1 month and 11 days. Death was caused by the rush of blood to the brain. She is survived by her father, mother, three brothers, and two sisters. She was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Services by the writer in the undertaker's parlor in Sacramento. Interment in the cemetery near Salida, Calif.—Michael Blocher, Rio Linda, Calif.

Hardison, Samuel Oliver, born at Kilbourn City, Wis., died in the bounds of the Willow Creek church, S. Dak., May 20, 1919, aged 48 days. Services by the writer. Interment in the family burying ground.—S. W. See, Mathias, W. Va.

Joyce, Noble, born in Gentry County, Mo., died in the Bethel Hospital, in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 25, 1919, aged 37 years, 11 months and 2 days. He united with the Church of the Brethren about twenty-five years ago. Soon after he was called to the deacon's office, which office he acceptably filled. He was the youngest son of Henderson and Martha Binder Joyce. He first married Elmira Rudd Shaw, of Missouri. His second wife was Rovena McColly, of Colorado. He leaves his wife and four brothers. Death was caused by running a splinter in his finger, from which blood poison developed in his spine. Services by Bro. S. P. Hilton at the Antioch church, Colo. He was laid to rest in the Antioch cemetery.—E. E. Joyce, Nampa, Idaho.

Kaser, Sister Anna, born in Pennsylvania, died in the bounds of the Pine Creek church, Ind., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Smith, May 28, 1919, aged 84 years, 8 months and 18 days. In 1864 she married Geo. Kaser. To this union were born three sons and two daughters. Her husband and one son preceded her. She united with the Church of the Brethren a few years ago and lived a devoted Christian life. She leaves two sons, two daughters and twenty-three grandchildren. Services in the Pine Creek church, at the East house, by Eld. Jacob Hildebrand, assisted by Bro. Arthur Long. Interment in the Fair cemetery.—M. S. Morris, North Liberty, Ind.

Koontz, Sister Emmaline, nee Klinefelter, wife of Bro. Emanuel Koontz, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Russel Myers, near Kumps Station, Md., May 29, 1919, aged 57 years, 4 months and 4 days. Bright's disease was the cause of her death. She and her husband united with the Church of the Brethren about a year ago. She is survived by her husband and three children. Services at the Hanover church by Bro. Bruce C. Whitmore. Burial in the cemetery at Bairs meetinghouse, York Road.—Mary A. Rhinehart, Hanover, Pa.

Leopold, Sister Caroline A., wife of Bro. Elwood Leopold, died of pneumonia May 23, 1919, aged 62 years and 6 months. She was a consistent member of Bethany church. She leaves one daughter and five grandchildren. Services by Eld. L. R. Holsinger, assisted by Eld. J. F. Hetric.—Mrs. R. E. Harley, Pottstown, Pa.

Lark, Margaret, born near Frankfort, Ky., died of pneumonia, May 23, 1919, aged 79 years and 4 months. She married Stephen C. Lark, who died in 1870. She was a member of the Church of the Brethren for forty-three years. She is survived by three children, sixteen grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren. Services at the home by Bro. Clyde Joseph.—Dortha Joseph, Culver, Ind.

Long, Mary Elizabeth, born in Richland County, Ohio, died at the home of her son, June 6, 1919, aged 67 years, 3 months and 18 days. She married Jacob Long in 1873. Five sons and one daughter were born to this union. The husband and one son preceded her. Early in life she united with the Church of the Brethren and lived a consistent and consecrated life. Services by Bro. Arthur Sellers from the Lick Creek church. Interment in Shiffler cemetery.—Ira E. Long, Andrews, Ind.

Musselman, Mrs. W. M., died at her home near Williamson, in the bounds of the Back Creek congregation, May 26, 1919. She was a faithful member of the Church of the Brethren for many years. Her husband preceded her two months ago. She is survived by three sons and three daughters. Services by Bro. Albert Niswander.—Pearl Heckman, Williamson, Pa.

Nelson, Earl A., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson, born May 28, 1918, died May 29, 1919. He leaves father, mother, one sister and two brothers. Services at the home by Eld. A. Brumbaugh.—Etha Miller, Greenville, Ohio.

Newland, Frances A., born near Libertyville, Iowa, died June 4, 1919, aged 64 years and 5 months. In 1877 she married Isaac Newland. One son was born to this union. She united with the Church of the Brethren in 1885 and remained faithful. She leaves her husband, son and aged mother, three brothers, three sisters and four grandchildren. Services at Drakesville by Eld. Abraham Wolf.—Emma Fahrney, Ankeny, Iowa.

Poister, Mrs. Harriet, nee Miller, was born at Rockwood, Somerset Co., Pa. She grew to womanhood in her native State and Feb. 20, 1859, was united in marriage with Mr. Jacob Poister, of Rockwood, Pa. In 1878 they moved to Kansas, and settled on a farm near Abilene. Enterprise where they lived until her husband's death, who preceded her sixteen years ago. To this union ten children were born, all of whom were at her bedside at the time of her departure at the home of her daughter, Mary Alice Wolfe, May 10, 1919, aged 80 years, 7 months and 18 days. She leaves six sons and four daughters, two sisters, two brothers, thirty-one grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren. In her early life she united with the Church of the Brethren, which faith she held until the end. Services from the home of her daughter, June 12, 1919, Rev. J. F. Hantz, of Abilene, Kans., officiating, assisted by Rev. Oscar Gessell, of Enterprise, Kans. Burial in Mt. Hope cemetery, her six sons acting as pall-bearers.—J. F. Hantz, Abilene, Kans.

Sovers, Sister Sarah, died in the bounds of the Upper Lost River congregation, May 27, 1919, aged 80 years, 7 months and 22 days. Services by the writer at the Lutheran church. Interment in the family burial ground.—S. W. See, Mathias, W. Va.

Shively, Daniel G., born near Sigourney, Iowa, died May 20, 1919, near Rio Linda, Calif., aged 69 years, 6 months and 6 days. He is survived by his wife, Mary M. Shively, two sons and three daughters. With his wife and son, S. M. Shively, he came to California November, 1918. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. Services by the writer. Interment in the East Lawn cemetery, Sacramento.—Michael Blocher, Rio Linda, Calif.

Switzer, Glendie Wm., infant son of Brother and Sister J. W. Switzer, born April 19, 1919, died June 10, 1919. Surviving him are his father, mother and two brothers. Services by Bro. J. C. Garber, assisted by Bro. P. J. Wenger. Burial at Lebanon.—Lila B. Wine, Mt. Sidney, Va.

Teets, Sister Virginia, died in the bounds of the Lower Lost River congregation, Va., May 23, 1919, aged 69 years, 1 month and 8 days. She was the wife of Eld. Laban Teets, who died a few years ago. Services by the writer at the New Dale church. Interment in the New Dale cemetery.—S. W. See, Mathias, W. Va.

Wade, Truman Diller, son of Truman D. and Sister Stella Wade, died May 29, 1919, aged 15 years, 9 months and 9 days. He united with the Caverymyer church two years ago, and was an earnest worker. Services by Eld. J. R. Holsinger, assisted by Eld. J. F. Hetric.—Mrs. R. E. Harley, Pottstown, Pa.

Wagoner, Bro. Austin F., born at Three Springs, Pa., died May 15, 1919, aged 56 years, 3 months and 18 days. Dec. 20, 1893, he married Mary E. Mascemore. To this union were born four sons and four daughters, all of whom were born in Pennsylvania. In February, 1914, the family moved to Dallas County, Iowa, and soon after the father, mother and three eldest children united with the Church of the Brethren. Three of the children preceded their father within the past three years. Services in the Panther Creek church by the writer, assisted by Bros. Abram Spurgeon and H. L. Royer. Interment in the near by cemetery.—A. M. Stine, Adel, L. Royer. Interment in the near by cemetery.—A. M. Stine, Adel,

Take a New Bi

Most of the page are Te fore contain no Text Bible repr in space, consequ carry and reasonable Text Bibles especially

RUBY TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION

Our Ruby Type Text Bibles are ideal for Sunday-school use because they combine readable type with small size in the book. Size 3½x5½ inches.

Specimen of Type used steps, which is gone down on the dial of Ahaz with the sun, to return backward ten steps. So the sun returned ten steps on the dial whereon it was gone down. 9 The writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, when he had been sick, and

No. 40. Bound in Cloth, round corners, red edges, ...$0.55

No. 47. Genuine Maroon Leather, Morocco grain, flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.50

No. 51L. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, with 31 full page illustrations in sepia, ...$1.85

MINION TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AMERICAN STANDARD VERSION

Size, 4x6 inches, 1½ inches thick

These Bibles are printed from large Minion Type and make excellent books for Sunday-school and church use and for gifts to scholars.

No. 101. Bound in Cloth, stiff covers, round corners, red edges, ...$0.70

No. 112. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$2.10

No. 113. Genuine Leather, Morocco grain, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$2.70

SMALLEST TEXT BIBLE

AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

This is our smallest complete Bible. It contains the entire Bible and if small enough to carry in your pocket. Is not as large as an ordinary Testament. Get the Bible to carry with you. Diamond Type, Printed on India paper. Size, 4½ x2¾x¾ inches.

Specimen of Type

St. LUKE, b.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink

8 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 * And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.

No. 01161X. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$2.50

No. 01112X. Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, $3.00.

PEARL TYPE TEXT BIBLES

AUTHDRIZED (KING JAMES) VERSIDN

Pocket Size, 3¼x5½ inches

Furnished in strong durable bindings at prices within the reach of all.

Each Bible contains Bible Atlas, comprising handsome colored lithographic maps.

Specimen of Type.

AND the LORD answered unto him in the cloud of thunder; and he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day;

1008. Divinity Circuit Binding, overlapping covers, durable Morocco tot, burnished edges, gold titles, each in a box, ..$1.15

Same as No. 1008, Flexible Limp Binding, without divinity circuit, ...$1.10

Size 3¼x5½, with 6 Maps only

No. 010. French Morocco, limp, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.40

No. 012. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, ...$1.60

NOTICE:—Thumb Index on Bibles 35 Cents Additional. Name, or name and address in gold, will be placed upon any of these Bibles and Testaments at 20 cents per line.

THE GOSPEL MESSENGER

Official Organ of the Church of the Brethren

Published weekly by Brethren Publishing House, R. E. Arnold, General Manager, 16 to 24 S. State St., Elgin, Ill., at $2.00 per annum, in advance. (Canada subscription fifty cents extra.)

D. L. MILLER, Editor — EDWARD FRANTZ, Office Editor
L. A. PLATE, Assistant Editor

Entered at the Postoffice at Elgin, Ill., as Second-class Matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized August 20, 1918.

Notes From Our Correspondents

(Continued from Page 413)

July 4 at the Beech Grove house in the Chippewa congregation. Our morning session of brethren's meetings came to be a success. It has been well attended this spring and is a very valuable half hour for the teaching corps. Bro. R. M. Moomaw is the leader and conducts the work ably. The junior part of the young folks has almost doubled its regular attendance this spring. The young men's class has earned the title of "Steady Pullers" and the boys' class is doing its share in practical work. Already seven sunshine boxes have been sent into homes of the sick and shut-ins. In our May quarterly council it was decided to hold our love feast on the second Saturday in October. Our series of meetings, which Bro. S. S. Shoemaker was to have held in May, was postponed to begin August 30.—Miriam Hoff Fetter, Wooster, Ohio, June 10.

OKLAHOMA

Big Creek church closed a two weeks' series of meetings June 1, conducted by Bro. V. K. Meek. Four were baptized and the congregation was strengthened and built up through the earnest efforts of Bro. Meek. We held our love feast May 31, with Bro. Meek officiating. Seventy-five members were present and visitors were with us from Chandler, Ponca City and McPherson. We met in council June 2, with Eld. N. S. Gripe presiding. The Sunday-school and Christian Workers' offices were retained for another six months. Our elder, Bro. Gripe, resigned and Bro. Meek was elected in his place. Delegates were chosen to represent our church, Sunday-school and Christian Workers at District Meeting. The offering for the Annual Conference was $150.—Oma Holderread, Cushing, Okla., June 11.

Hollow.—Bro. W. H. Miller was with us June 24 and 25. Our love feast was held Saturday evening, with twenty-four members present. We enjoyed an uplifting feast together. Bro. Miller delivered a splendid sermon on Sunday evening on the "Forward Movement." June 1 a missionary address was given by Bro. Ralph Loshbaugh. Following this a collection of $28.20 was taken for World-wide Missions. June 15 a Children's Day program was rendered. Large crowds attended each service and we are hoping that from now on we may have a better attendance at our Sunday-school.—Zada Loshbaugh, Hollow, Okla., June 16.

Monitor church met in council June 7, with Eld. A. B. Diller in charge. Sunday-school officers were elected, with Bro. T. F. Williams, superintendent. We organized a Bible Study Class. We are glad to have with us Eld. I. H. Miller and wife, who recently came from Oregon.—Mrs. Sarah Logsdon, Nash, Okla., June 11.

OREGON

Portland.—June 15 being Children's Day the hour for morning worship was given over to the children who rendered a splendid program, consisting of songs, recitations, drills, etc. The success of the day was largely due to the work of Sister Vertie Myers, who trained the children and had full charge. Each child was presented with a small badge,—an emblem of the day. A goodly number of the parents were present at these exercises and they praised the children's work. We are glad to report the return of Eld. G. C. Carl, who has been attending Annual Conference. He brought with him many interesting facts concerning the work at Winona Lake.—Grace W. Hewitt, Portland, Oregon, June 16.

PENNSYLVANIA

Aughwick church held her love feast June 7 at the Germany Valley house. We enjoyed a very spiritual service, with Bro. A. H. Haines officiating. About eighty members were present. Three were received into the church by baptism.—W. B. Wilson, Three Springs, Pa., June 15.

Buffalo Valley church met in council June 7. We held our love feast at the Pike house, June 14. About seventy-five members communed. Several were with us from other congregations. The following ministers were with us: Bro. J. H. Richard, of Maitland; Bro. Adam Hollinger, of Shamokin; Bro. Chas. Schwenk, of Logan; Bro. Rowland, of Dunkerton. We had a fine meeting.—The largest held for some years. One brother was baptized before services.—Jacob G. Shively, Millmont, Pa., June 11.

Chest Creek church held her love feast June 1, with Eld. D. K. Clapper officiating. About twenty-four members were present. Bro. Clapper preached for us the preceding week. Our Annual Conference offering amounted to $28.05.—Ora Owens, Mahaffey, Pa., June 12.

Fairview church has just closed a very inspiring and spiritual series of meetings, held by Brethren F. E. Zook and Moses Baughaught. Six were received by baptism. The interest was good throughout the meetings.—J. B. Snowberger, Williamsburg, Pa., June 14.

Lancaster.—We enjoyed a very interesting Children's Meeting on Sunday morning, June 1. Bro. Geo. Weaver, of Manheim, and Bro. H. R. Gibbel, of Lititz, addressed the school. In the evening we held our love feast, which brought together a number of ministers from adjoining congregations were present, and Eld. Cyrus Gibble officiated. June 15 we had the pleasure of meeting with Bro. F. J. Byer, President of the Hebron Seminary, Nokesville, Va., and his wife and little son; also Bro. S. D. Hartranft, wife and daughter, of Mauersville, Md. Bro. Byer preached for us in the morning. In the evening Bro. Hartranft delivered the message.—Leah N. Philippy, Lancaster, Pa., June 17.

Mountville church held her love feast at the Mountville house May 20, with Bro. G. N. Falkenstein officiating. The interest and attendance were good. An offering was lifted to be forwarded to Annual Meeting. Bro. G. W. Group was with us for two weeks, conducting a series of meetings at the Manor house. Three confessed Christ.—Annie L. Neff, Lancaster, Pa., June 14.

Queen church held her love feast June 8, with fair attendance and good interest. Our elder and pastor, Bro. J. B. Miller, of Curry, Pa., officiated. We had four meetings previous to the feast. Bro. Miller baptized five applicants. We feel that a greater ingathering would have resulted if it had not been for the helpers. We lifted an Annual Meeting offering of $78. We recently finished paying the debt on our church building.—Mrs. A. I. Claar, Queen, Pa., June 16.

Shamokin.—May 25 we held our love feast. Eld. J. B. Bruhaker, from Manheim, Pa., preached in the evening previous, taking for his text the subject of "Prayer." Sunday morning breakfast was served at the church. Sunday-school and preaching services followed, with good attendance. Dinner was also served and in the afternoon Bro. Oliver Erdman and wife were installed in the deacon's office. After this the examination sermon was preached by Eld. Bruhaker. In the evening the communion services were held, with thirty-three present. There were members with us from adjoining congregations which we appreciated very much. The offering during the day amounted to $46.85, part of which was our Annual Meeting offering.—Adam M. Hollinger, Shamokin, Pa., June 14.

West Greentree.—June 4 and 5 we held our love feast at the Greentree house. Eld. Hiram Gibble, of the White Oak congregation, officiated in the evening. Quite a number of visiting brethren from other congregations were present. A large number of members communed, and we had a very enjoyable feast together. Several certificates of membership were recently received. July 6 we intend to have a Children's Meeting at Rheems.—S. R. McDannel, Elizabethtown, Pa., June 12.

York (First Church).—May 25 Bro. J. H. Cassady, of Huntingdon, Pa., gave a very interesting talk on "The Origin of the Church of the Brethren." In the evening he preached on the subject of "Visions and Dreams." June 1 we held our Children's Day exercises at the First Church in the morning and at the Second Church in the evening. Two well-prepared programs were successfully rendered. The attendance at both places was very large. The enrollment at the First Church is 553, and the attendance was 469. The exercises consisted of special music, essays and songs by the children, after which Eld. J. A. Long addressed both meetings. June 8 Bro. Israel Enserick preached two interesting sermons at the First Church. The following Sunday Eld. J. A. Long gave a very interesting report of the work done at our late Conference. This was much enjoyed by all.—Alice K. Trimmer, York, Pa., June 16.

TENNESSEE

Bristol.—While Bro. S. H. Garst is attending the Annual Meeting, Bro. P. D. Reed, of Limestone, Tenn., is preaching in our new place on the Blountville Pike road, in the Presbyterian Chapel. Last Sunday the attendance was small, but all were much interested and well pleased with the sermon.—J. S. Good, Bristol, Tenn., June 8.

Cotton Mill Chapel.—June 15 Bro. A. M. Laughrun held services here. There was a good audience, the house being practically filled. Bro. Laughrun's subject was "Conversion." He told of our relation to the church after conversion, and how we become members of the body of Christ. After the services one made application to become a member of the church.—N. T. Larimer, Jonesboro, Tenn., June 16.

VIRGINIA

Barren Ridge.—June 2 Bro. L. G. Humphreys, of Buena Vista, Va., began a two weeks' series of meetings at Hermitage Chapel, preaching three very helpful sermons. Two were baptized. Our love feast was held at the Barren Ridge church May 31. Bro. D. L. Andes was the only visiting minister present.—N. W. Coffman, Fishersville, Va., June 17.

Cook's Creek.—May 17 we enjoyed a very spiritual love feast, in which 111 members participated. Bro. Ernest S. Coffman and family, of Harrisonburg, was with us. Bro. Coffman officiated.—S. L. Bowman, Timberville, Va., June 16.

Griffin.—May 28 Bro. I. L. Bennett, of Zigler, W. Va., began a series of meetings at Griffin church near Deerfield, Va. He preached in all fourteen stirring sermons. Eight were baptized. Much interest was shown during the last week of the meetings and the churches united in an effort to make the meetings a success.—Martha Click Senger, Bridgewater, Va., June 16.

Rowland Creek church met in council June 14. We elected Bro. Levi Sims as pastor for this year, and Bro. Benton Rowland as assistant. Richardson, assistants. Other officers were retained. We had a fine meeting, with a large attendance. The Sunday-school is growing, with Bro. Shelton as superintendent. This year we have Eld. Jno. Hylton and Bro. Brethren R. L. Sulfi and Frank Griffeth are delegates to District Meeting. Our love feast will be held Sept. 20.—Nancy J. Suit, Seven Mile Ford, Va., June 16.

WASHINGTON

Outlook.—At our last teachers' meeting we decided to observe a special day each month for the purpose of increasing the interest and attendance of our Sunday-school and church services. June 8 was set apart as a "Go-to-Church Day." The week previous we extended invitations by making house-to-house visits. The result was quite pleasing, as our congregation was increased May 24 we enjoyed a very spiritual love feast, with Bro. J. S. Zimmerman officiating. We were glad to have with us other members from neighboring congregations. Sunday morning Bro. Zimmerman gave an inspiring address on "Higher Standard of Christian Living." Since our last report one has been received by letter.—Mrs. C. A. Wagner, Outlook, Wash., June 10.

Wenatchee.—Since the lifting of the influenza ban our church has become quite active. We have been able to organize a primary department, with three classes. The average attendance for the whole school shows an increase of 33% over last year's average of 39. For special purposes the school has lifted the following offerings: $12 for the Armenian-Syrian Relief; $10 for homeless children of the Washington Children's Home; also $3.94, which was sent with some money on hand to the Washington State Sunday-school Association. The average of the regular offering is $3.26. We miss Bro. Roman Sutphin's wife who were called from us to serve in Nebraska. He had been preaching for us each Sunday morning. The Christian Workers' Society gave them $10 in appreciation of their service. Our Christian Workers' Society is also moving along. It has a live enterprise and devoted president. Just a short time ago the Society sent $20 to Sister Martha Shiek, missionary in South China.—Fred Bastin, Wenatchee, Wash., June 14.

WEST VIRGINIA

Smith Creek.—Bro. B. S. Landis, of Harrisonburg, Va., began a series of meetings May 15 and continued until May 26. The attendance was good all through the meetings and the interest fine. Bro. P. F. Showalter, of Mt. Clinton, Va., led the song service. He and Bro. Landis made a number of personal calls during the meetings. May 22 Eld. S. H. Bowman was with us to commune. The following evening fifty-two members enjoyed a very spiritual love feast, with Bro. Bowman officiating. The strong and uplifting sermons given by Bro. Landis, with the counsel and help of Brethren Showalter and Bowman, were very strengthening to the members, and the church has been much built up. Five were baptized and three reclaimed. Our Sunday-school is evergreen, with good attendance and splendid interest. Bro. S. J. Spangler is superintendent. The Christian Workers' Society also seems to be taking on new life.—Carrie E. Judy, Zigler, W. Va., June 13.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

DISTRICT MEETINGS

July 23-25, District of Texas and Louisiana, at Necessity, Texas.
August 18-21, District of Oregon, at Portland.
August 29, 30, District of Western Maryland, Oakland, at Pine Grove church.

LOVE FEASTS

Idaho

July 12, 8 pm, Wincheater.

Indiana

July 5, 7: 30 pm, Laporte, at Ross house.

Iowa

June 28, Sheldon.
June 30, South Waterloo.

Kansas

June 28, 1 pm, Maple Grove.

Michigan

June 28, 10 am, Rodney.
June 28, 10 am, Zion.

Minnesota

June 28, Lewiston.
June 28, 29, Hancock.
June 28, Morrill.
July 5, Worthington.

Montana

July 5, Poplar Valley.

North Dakota

July 12, Pleasant Hill.

Ohio

June 28, 10 am, Swan Creek, East house.
June 28, Greenspring.
June 28, 10 am, Richland.
June 28, Canton Center (all-day meeting).
June 29, 8 pm, Bellefontaine.
June 29, 6 pm, Deahler.

Oregon

June 28, 7 pm, Albany.

Pennsylvania

June 28, 3 pm, Elbethel, at Elbethel house.
June 29, Bootheryalley.
June 29, Montgomery.
June 29, Sipesville.
June 29, Locust Grove.

South Dakota

July 5, Willow Creek.

West Virginia

June 28, Tear Coat.
August 30, Maple Spriog.

If Parents Only Knew

The awful dangers of Evil Companionships they would Never, Never, Never send their sons and daughters into the Cigarette Smoking Crowd that some schools have.

Why Shove Them Out

on the road to destruction? Send them to a clean school.

McPherson College

Does Not Tolerate the Use of Cigarettes Among her students. Protect Your Children.

Write today for catalog and reservation of rooms.

McPHERSON, KANSAS.

(Watch this space next week.)

A College Course

Is a necessary equipment for the young people of today. Manchester College is well equipped to give you a standard college course.

During the coming year fourteen teachers will devote their time exclusively to college courses. This strong faculty, together with our good equipment, insures for you a strong course of study.

One hundred-fifteen have secured the A. B. degree during the last five years. These men and women are already leaders in the church, school and society.

The world is needing Christian leadership. You should respond to this need and prepare for it. Let us tell you about the work and opportunities at Manchester College. Ask for our new catalogue and information. Address

OTHO WINGER, President,
No. Manchester, Indiana.

The Forward Movement

is the largest goal our church has ever set. Surely the day of small things in the Church of the Brethren is a thing of the past.

A CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

is the foundation for all things which this movement contemplates. This is why MOUNT MORRIS COLLEGE endorses the Forward Movement and is striving to do her part to make it succeed.

Write for detailed information concerning our work.

MOUNT MORRIS COLLEGE,
Mount Morris, Ill.

The Full Report of the Winona Conference

Send 35 cents for the Full Report

Amos R. Wells'

Cyclopedia

of 20th Century Illustrations gives 900 classified illustrations and tells how to use them.

What users say:

Bishop John H. Vincent: "A gift of world wide wisdom embodied in a rich, invaluable Cyclopedia of Twentieth Century Illustrations. It is impossible to state its worth. It is a fruit-and-flower garden and a museum of ancient and modern Aids to all Teachers and Preachers and Parents."

Dr. Russ H. Conwell: "Dr. Amos R. Wells has given the rush wings. His Cyclopedia of Twentieth Century Illustrations is a book which should be in every library and within the reach of every author and public speaker. It is a privilege and a duty to commend it."

Dr. David James Burrell: "I sat up two evenings to read it; that tells the story. It is as interesting as one of Jos. Lincoln's novels—and what more could I say? If I were a young preacher and looking for high spots in the art of illustration I would keep this Cyclopedia within easy reach."

Prof. Cleland B. McAfee: "The illustrations ought to teach any one how to look out on the world about him and find material for his speaking. There are days when one ought to find their illumination in present day life rather than in historical conditions."

OVER 900 USABLE ILLUSTRATIONS
OCTAVO CLOTH BINDING, $3.00 NET

BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Elgin, Ill.

If Parents Only Knew

The awful dangers of Evil Companionships they would Never, Never, Never send their sons and daughters into the Cigarette Smoking Crowd that some schools have.

Why Shove Them Out

on the road to destruction? Send them to a clean school.

McPherson College

Does Not Tolerate the Use of Cigarettes Among her students. Protect Your Children.

Write today for catalog and reservation of rooms.

McPHERSON, KANSAS.

(Watch this space next week.)

A College Course

Is a necessary equipment for the young people of today. Manchester College is well equipped to give you a standard college course.

During the coming year fourteen teachers will devote their time exclusively to college courses. This strong faculty, together with our good equipment, insures for you a strong course of study.

One hundred-fifteen have secured the A. B. degree during the last five years. These men and women are already leaders in the church, school and society.

The world is needing Christian leadership. You should respond to this need and prepare for it. Let us tell you about the work and opportunities at Manchester College. Ask for our new catalogue and information. Address

OTHO WINGER, President,
No. Manchester, Indiana.

The Forward Movement

is the largest goal our church has ever set. Surely the day of small things in the Church of the Brethren is a thing of the past.

A CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

is the foundation for all things which this movement contemplates. This is why MOUNT MORRIS COLLEGE endorses the Forward Movement and is striving to do her part to make it succeed.

Write for detailed information concerning our work.

MOUNT MORRIS COLLEGE,
Mount Morris, Ill.

The Full Report of the Winona Conference

Send 35 cents for the Full Report

Amos R. Wells'

Cyclopedia

of 20th Century Illustrations

gives 900 classified illustrations and tells how to use them.

What users say:

Bishop John H. Vincent:
"A gift of world wide wisdom embodied in a rich, invaluable Cyclopedia of Twentieth Century Illustrations. It is impossible to state its worth. It is a fruit-and-flower garden and a museum of ancient and modern Aids to all Teachers and Preachers and Parents."

Dr. David James Burrell:
"I sat up two evenings to read it; that tells the story. It is as interesting as one of Joe Lincoln's novels—and what more could I say? If I were a young preacher and looking for high spots in the art of illustration I would keep this Cyclopedia within easy reach."

Dr. Russell H. Conwell:

Prof. Cleland B. McAfee:

THE GOSPEL MES

"This gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in the whole world."—Matt. 24: 14.

"STRETCHING FORWARD."—Philpp. 3:13

Vol. 68 Elgin, Ill., July 5, 1919

In This Number

Editorial—
Noise, Waste and Common Sense, ... 417
"God Created Man in His Own Image," 417
Wanted: A Definition of Americanism, ... 417
What Now Since the Conference Is Over? 417
Delegates at Winona Lake, ... 418
The Quiet Hour, ... 423
Among the Churches, ... 424
Around the World, ... 425

Contributors' Forum—
Confidence (Poem), ... 418
Four Views of Faith.—II. By H. H. Helman, ... 418
Education and Reconstruction. By Amos H. Haines, ... 418
The Consecrated Layman. By A. B. Miller, ... 419
The Deserted House. By J. E. Miller, ... 419
Church History and Polity.—VII. By Carman Cover Johnson, ... 420
An Employment Bureau. By E. F. Sherfy, ... 420
Our Adoption. By L. J. Rosenberger, ... 421
Forgetting to Pay Our Little Debts. By Sara Zigler Myers, ... 421
Resolutions Adopted at the Winona Lake Conference, ... 430

The Round Table—
"Be Not Afraid." By Norman W. Twiddy, ... 422
Reflections After the Conference. By Mary Polk Ellenberger, ... 422
Be Pleased With What Pleases God. By G. W. Tuttle, ... 422
The Root of Evil. By Maude C. Jones, ... 422
A Broken Violin. By Ira H. Frantz, ... 423
The Preacher's Pay, ... 423

Home and Family—
Words for the Living (Poem), ... 426
Near—and—Distant. By Oma Karn, ... 426
Coveralls. By Nancy D. Underhill, ... 426
Our Responsibility in Relation to the Boy. By Ezra Flory, ... 426

...EDITORIAL...

Noise, Waste and Common Sense

BEFORE the war the movement for a "safe and sane Fourth" had gained considerable headway. But it is hard to think soberly and sensibly in such an explosive atmosphere as we had to live in for several years. And the memories of victory with its semi-barbarous demonstrations are still too fresh for a complete return to normal mental attitudes. But why not begin, at least, to resume the practice of common sense?

One can understand how some kinds of "fireworks,"—those which furnish something really beautiful to look at,—may provide innocent, or even useful, entertainment. But what about mere noise, just plain, ear-splitting, nerve-racking noise?

And what of the waste involved in such "celebrations"? How can a Christian blow away good money without thinking of the world's distress, both physical and spiritual? And how can he do this, if he does think of it?

Now it is useless to expect live boys to look at these matters from a broad and well-considered viewpoint. And it is a great mistake to give no heed to this. Boyish enthusiasm can not be safely crushed. But it can be directed. With wise guidance boys are not wholly unreasonable. Their greatest handicap is ignorant and foolish fathers.

The "Fourth of July" idea has noble sentiment behind it, somewhat obscured by accumulated rubbish, though it is. It is right that we should rejoice in it. But to do so we need not throw away either our religion or our sanity.

"God Created Man in His Own Image"

Do you get the double—yes, double—significance of this marvelous fact?

Do you see, first, how it must ennoble our conceptions of human dignity? Can you ever think of yourself again as nothing—nothing—but dust? Nothing but what your body is? Even so, isn't it wonderful proof that God saw fit to make your body a temple make up the soul of you,—that elusive, intangible, imperishable thing so susceptible to moral impress and so sensitive to pain or joy,—that is what makes you kin to God.

Alas that such a noble picture should have been so scratched and blackened,—thanks to the ugliness of sin! But the outlines of the image are still there. It can be restored. It can be brightened up again. You can be re-created in Christ Jesus and then,—with what reverence and humility and gratitude we should say it,—God can look into you and see something of himself!

But the second implication of this great fact of Genesis is hardly less wonderful. If we are like unto God then God is like unto us. If we look at the image of God, which he has built into his human handiwork, shall we not be able to catch glimpses of his lineaments?

Some glimpses, yes. And the more, the more untarnished the image at which we look. A re-created, Christ-restored image is best. One in which the subject has attained "the stature of the fulness of Christ" is best of all. But where shall such be found?

Yet the case is not so hopeless as it seems. Some of the original markings may be found in all. And more in some than in others. The sentient faculties are there. These tell us much about the attributes of God. Personality in God must be substantially what we know as personality in man.

And as for moral attributes, the Scripture is full of testimony to the effect that the best qualities in men are kindred to the like qualities in God. "Like as a father pitieth his children," etc. Yes, even in weak, frail men we can see a bit of God.

What a glorious discovery to find that we and God

What Now Since the

AND how do you feel about it now? You who went to the Conference and felt the thrill of its inspiring influences and are now back home again, confronted with the prosaic tasks you left there? Is the "reaction" setting in? And you who, though you did not go, have felt something of its magnetic power through your own hopes and prayers and through the reports of others? What are you going to do next?

There are too many valleys needing cultivation for any Christian to be content to live always on the mountain top, even if he could. Seasons of great spiritual exaltation must find their justification and value in the permanent impulses which they create. If the enthusiasm engendered all vanishes, leaving no residuum of purpose strong enough to get itself expressed in more energetic action, then the great Bicentennial Conference will be a failure, after all. Will this be the outcome? No.

There was too much evidence of determination to do things to permit of any other conclusion than that things are going to be done. The Becker Bicentennial was not a mere spasm of emotion. It was both an expression and a generator of conviction, of purpose, of the will to do God's will. The attendance of the membership at the various meetings from first to last, and that in spite of physical discomfort, the way the audience responded to the suggestion to put that $150,000 disciplinary measures may be wise or necessary in some cases, but as a general reform policy for resisting the encroachments of worldliness nothing can equal hard work in behalf of righteousness and the salvation of men. For overcoming evil nothing is so effective as good. Nothing dispels darkness like turning on the light.

Above the auditorium platform at Winona Lake was a large streamer with the dates 1719 and 1919 at either end and between them the words "Becker Bicentennial" and underneath the latter, "Thy Kingdom Come." No more fitting words could have been found, none more expressive of the spirit of the Conference and none, we believe, more expressive of the spirit of the church today. Those wonderful words which Jesus taught his disciples to pray shall be the watchword of the church from this time onward.

Some people have worked for the coming of the Kingdom without praying for it, and some have prayed for it without working for it. Now we shall do both, for we have caught the meaning of the words. Rather, the meaning of the words has caught us. To work without praying is to forget that our strength is in God, that the whole basis of our confidence is in the Master's "I am with you." To pray without working is to forget that "we are God's fellow-workers," or else it is to make our prayer a hollow mockery.

"Thy Kingdom come"! What! Do we mean it? Then let's act like it.

Delegates at Winona Lake

We give below, in accordance with our custom, a tabulated statement of the local church representation at the late Conference. A comparative table of the representation for the last twenty-three years is also appended. It is gratifying to note that the number of delegates this year exceeded by forty-four the largest number for any preceding year,—that of three years ago.

STATE DISTRICTS	Elders	Ministers	Deacons	Lay Brethren	Sisters	Total
Arkansas, First and S. E. Mo.	1					1
California, Northern	2				2	4
California, So. and Arizona	6	1			2	9
Colorado, Western and Utah	1					1
China				1		1
Idaho and Western Montana					1	1
Illinois, No. and Wisconsin	14	2	1	1	2	22
Illinois, Southern	13	3	1	1	1	19
India					2	2
Indiana, Middle	22		8	1	3	43
Indiana, Northern	16	17	11		7	51
Indiana, Southern	12	4	6	1	4	27
Iowa, Middle	9	1	1		2	13
Iowa, Northern, Minn. and S. Dak.	8	3			3	14
Iowa, Southern	5	1	1		2	9
Kansas, Northeastern	6	1			2	9
Kansas, N. W. and N. E. Colo.	3					3
Kansas, Southeastern	2					2
Kansas, S. W. and S. E. Colo.	6	1		1		9
Maryland, Eastern	10	3	1		2	16
Maryland, Middle	2	3				5
Michigan	12	2	2		1	17
Missouri, Northern	1					1
Missouri, S. W. and N. W. Arkansas	1			2	1	4
Nebraska and N. E. Colo.	1	1	1		1	4
North and S. Car., Ga. and Fla.	2	2			1	5
North Dakota, E. Mont., W. Canada	1	1			2	4
Ohio, Northeastern	15	3			2	20
Ohio, Northwestern	14	6			3	23
Ohio, Southern	29	10	4		4	47
Oklahoma, Panhandle of Tex., N. Mex.	2					2
Pennsylvania, Eastern	24	6	5		3	38
Pennsylvania, Middle	14	3			2	19
Pennsylvania, S. E. and N. J., E. N. Y.	5		1		3	9
Pennsylvania, Southern	12	6	1		1	20
Pennsylvania, Western	18	10			4	32
Sweden					1	1
Tennessee	3	2				5
Texas and Louisiana					1	1
Virginia, Eastern	4	4	1		1	9
Virginia, First	6	3	1		1	11
Virginia, Northern	7	7			3	17
Virginia, Second	7	4			2	13
Virginia, Southern	4	1			1	6
Washington	1					1
West Virginia, First	1				1	2
West Virginia, Second			1			1
	323	130	59	9	69	580

Conference Delegates for the last twenty-three years:

Time and Place	Elders	Ministers	Deacons	Laity	Sisters	Total
1897 Frederick, Md.	93	122	14	10	0	239
1898 Naperville, Ill.	136	142	28	13	0	319
1899 Roanoke, Va.	130	127	25	10	0	292
1900 N. Manchester, Ind.	149	149	34	16	0	348
1901 Lincoln, Nebr.	156	131	37	12	16	350
1902 Harrisburg, Pa.	167	133	34	27	2	363
1903 Bellefontaine, O.	162	136	44	13	13	371
1904 Carthage, Mo.	150	131	40	8	0	329
1905 Bristol, Tenn.	165	121	38	8	16	348
1906 Springfield, Ill.	173	160	41	16	14	404
1907 Los Angeles, Calif.	190	158	52	16	16	432
1908 Des Moines, Ia.	201	138	47	12	18	414
1909 Harrisonburg, Va.	193	121	44	5	18	381
1910 Winona Lake, Ind.	228	157	54	14	33	486
1911 St. Joseph, Mo.	227	112	45	16	40	440
1912 York, Pa.	217	133	59	11	23	421
1913 Winona Lake, Ind.	252	124	61	12	23	486
1914 Seattle, Wash.	117	72	28	10	37	234
1915 Hershey, Pa.	223	140	33	18	30	455
1916 Winona Lake, Ind.	258	151	67	14	46	536
1917 Wichita, Kans.	228	99	51	8	49	435
1918 Hershey, Pa.	247	124	40	11	30	452
1919 Winona Lake, Ind.	323	130	59	9	69	580

CONTRIBUTORS' FORUM

Confidence

"I am persuaded, that he is able to keep"

Suppose you knew this day would be the last
That you would spend upon this old-time earth!
What would you do,—cry out, and pray, and fast,
Put work aside, and every thought of mirth,
And then give up your soul to dread and fear,
And so meet Death with bitter moan and tear?

Or, would you nerve your heart to meet that hour
As stoics did, in days before Christ came,
And so forget that sin has endless power
To bring the sinful life to endless shame;
And then would you, your heart-fears to defy,
Laugh in mad mirth,—until grim Death stood by?

As God would give me grace, I should not choose
To meet my last day thus, but otherwise;
Mindful of sin, I yet should hope to lose
All thought of sin, through Christ's great sacrifice;
Then, I should seek to turn to work or play
Just as I might on any other day!

—H. W. Frost.

Four Views of Faith

BY H. H. HELMAN

II. Faith and Belief

THE person who has tried to remove mountains and failed, condemns his faith to even less than microscopic size. Of course it was "just as he expected" and no particular alarm is felt over the failure. "Faith must, then, be an unreasonable thing, and abstract in its nature," he reasons. Faith, as a grain of mustard seed, must surely present a wonderfully vital and dynamic power. And to be sure, the first test of faith, that some folks wish to make, would be to try to remove mountains. What an ignoble purpose for such God-given power!

Just as truly as some reason that they have no faith because mountains do not tumble over before their eyes, others wish to perform all the works of faith simply by believing. Many there will be "on that day" that will say: "Lord, Lord," who trusted to belief to carry them through, and will be answered: "I never knew you." There are some folks that pride themselves upon their orthodoxy and seem to rest assured that they have a safe transport "over there" because they accede to accepted doctrines.

In the mind of the writer one of the greatest mistakes of Christian people has been to accept faith and belief as one and the same thing in both content and extent. Acceptance of the doctrines and teachings is the faith of too many of us.' I recently met a man,—not a member of any church,—who seemed as able to defend our doctrines, by both Scripture quotations and argument, as I have heard from few of our own clergy. He mentally acceded to them, just as truly as any of our own people do. Was that faith? It was belief. You will agree that he must go much farther than this to exercise faith. Faith is more vital than that. In content it includes far more than belief.

Faith involves belief, but it goes farther and includes more. To believe only, is not to be saved. The devils also believe, and tremble. Faith involves trust, but it is more than trust. Too many are trusting God for an unrighteous mercy. Faith involves confidence, but confidence doesn't vitalize. Faith does, so it is more than confidence. Faith, Paul says, is assurance and conviction in relation to our hopes and our visions. But how do our hopes and our visions affect our character and our actions? This was the proof of faith that James wanted to see.

I hear some one saying that "all that believe shall be saved; and since 'by grace are we saved through faith,' belief and faith must surely be identical." The doctrine of "believe and be saved" is only partly true. In too much of today's evangelism this idea is carried still farther to include only a confession of sin (sometimes) and mental acceptance of the historical fact of the life and death of Jesus. There follows, perhaps, a somewhat reformed life, and this is called Christianity. The belief or acceptance is called faith. Taking faith as a form of belief, which, if one has, assures one of all the blessings that follow faith, is a menace to the realities and experiences of Christianity. Faith must be something more than mere receptivity, or else Paul was mistaken in the evidences of faith in those Hebrew fathers. I haven't heard of many in these, or former, days who obtained a good report through belief alone. Have you? How did Paul, Augustine, Luther, Wesley, Spurgeon, Moody and the many living today obtain the good report? Have you noticed how very active these men were?

The emphasis of the idea of salvation by grace has led us to minimize the requisites for the acquisition and maintenance of the redeemed life. We have called for belief alone. As if belief made up for character, purity, love and service. We can very safely minimize the requisites which may purchase salvation, for it is absolutely free,—a gift and nothing else. But we can never afford to minimize the essential consequences of the regenerated life, namely, character, purity, love and service. These are not belief. They are evidences of faith,—yea, faith itself.

But more, perhaps, than any other one attribute, belief lies at the foundation of faith. No faith can exist without it. It must be present when faith makes operative the redemptive power. It must be present when faith produces character. It must be present when faith makes pure. It must be present and conducive to love. And lastly, no Christian service,—the proof of a living faith,—is possible without belief. Response to God is our answer to our belief in him. The belief was not our faith; but the belief and the response combined constitute our faith. Implicit trust in God is an answer to our belief in him. Similarly the belief and the trust constitute our faith. Love of God follows belief. The belief isn't faith, but the belief and love combined. To serve the world for Christ is our best answer to our belief in him. The belief and the service constitute our faith.

The bedrock foundation of faith is belief. There will be no superstructure that will stand unless built upon this. The great structure includes foundation and all. If I have only belief, my fellow Christians see no evidence of faith. We can justly be told by our fellows that our faith is dead, as James so frankly told his brethren.

Richwood, Ohio.

Education and Reconstruction

BY AMOS H. HAINES

EDUCATION has been made new already. What happened in the past four years? A vast army had to be raised and trained at once. This army had to be clothed, fed and furnished with weapons. Tons of ammunition had to be made, ships and airships had to be built. The Red Cross had to feed and nurse the world. Everybody was pressed into service. The emphasis was placed on vocational schools, technical institutes.

Is this to be the education of the future? Certainly, in a large degree. Shall we lose the cultural ideal altogether? Shall we forget education for living and being, in our emphasis on doing? Let us pause here and do some serious thinking, yes, praying. Let us not run wild on popular fads and fancies. Most of the early founders of our Brethren schools were more concerned about making a life than they were about making a living. Personally, I am still of the opinion that a reasonable amount of the Greek and Latin languages, with an appreciation of the best literature of these languages, is most helpful in giving a just balance to education.

We come face to face with the problem of religious reconstruction. Many things must go, many new things must come. There are many false standards of education. Mere opinion gets us nowhere and settles no question. Place must be given to fact and truth. May we commend in this connection, a book entitled: "The Modern High School,—Its Administration and Extension," by Charles H. Johnson and others? The chapter on "Religious Life of the Student" gives a quotation from President G. Stanley Hall in his recent "Educational Problems." We find these words:

of all the blessings that follow faith, is a menace to the realities and experiences of Christianity. Faith must be something more than mere receptivity, or else Paul was mistaken in the evidences of faith in those Hebrew fathers. I haven't heard of many in these, or former, days who obtained a good report through belief alone. Have you? How did Paul, Augustine, Luther, Wesley, Spurgeon, Moody and the many living today obtain the good report? Have you noticed how very active these men were?

The emphasis of the idea of salvation by grace has led us to minimize the requisites for the acquisition and maintenance of the redeemed life. We have called for belief alone. As if belief made up for character, purity, love and service. We can very safely minimize the requisites which may purchase salvation, for it is absolutely free,—a gift and nothing else. But we can never afford to minimize the essential consequences of the regenerated life, namely, character, purity, love and service. These are not belief. They are evidences of faith,—yea, faith itself.

But more, perhaps, than any other one attribute, belief lies at the foundation of faith. No faith can exist without it. It must be present when faith makes operative the redemptive power. It must be present when faith produces character. It must be present when faith makes pure. It must be present and conducive to love. And lastly, no Christian service,—the proof of a living faith,—is possible without belief. Response to God is our answer to our belief in him. The belief was not our faith; but the belief and the response combined constitute our faith. Implicit trust in God is an answer to our belief in him. Similarly the belief and the trust constitute our faith. Love of God follows belief. The belief isn't faith, but the belief and love combined. To serve the world for Christ is our best answer to our belief in him. The belief and the service constitute our faith.

The bedrock foundation of faith is belief. There will be no superstructure that will stand unless built upon this. The great structure includes foundation and all. If I have only belief, my fellow Christians see no evidence of faith. We can justly be told by our fellows that our faith is dead, as James so frankly told his brethren.

Richwood, Ohio.

Education and Reconstruction

BY AMOS H. HAINES

EDUCATION has been made new already. What happened in the past four years? A vast army had to be raised and trained at once. This army had to be clothed, fed and furnished with weapons. Tons of ammunition had to be made, ships and airships had to be built. The Red Cross had to feed and nurse the world. Everybody was pressed into service. The emphasis was placed on vocational schools, technical institutes.

Is this to be the education of the future? Certainly, in a large degree. Shall we lose the cultural ideal altogether? Shall we forget education for living and being, in our emphasis on doing? Let us pause here and do some serious thinking, yes, praying. Let us not run wild on popular fads and fancies. Most of the early founders of our Brethren schools were more concerned about making a life than they were about making a living. Personally, I am still of the opinion that a reasonable amount of the Greek and Latin languages, with an appreciation of the best literature of these languages, is most helpful in giving a just balance to education.

We come face to face with the problem of religious reconstruction. Many things must go, many new things must come. There are many false standards of "The Bible is the worst taught of all books and, as it might be added, the most grossly misunderstood. It is not only a model of English, but it is impossible to understand the history of any country of Europe without it, as it has influenced the literature, history, and the life of the Western nations as no other book has begun to do. . . . This outrageous abuse should cease."

The world has gotten down to the real thing in religion during the past four years. It will not be content with a religion that does not get down to the great realities of life. Religion must meet the problems civilization offers.

It is the province of the church, if not to solve these questions, at least to insist that they shall be settled in the Christian spirit and under the Christian ethics. Political organizations must exist for the common good. There must be a League of Nations, a family, where all are pledged to settle all questions arising between them amicably and by peaceful methods; and all are pledged unitedly to permit no criminal nor unchristian nation to break the peace of the world. The standard applied to individuals should be applied to nations.

The church must insist that in all the various problems of reconstruction, outside of the scope of the Peace Conference, the two great fundamental truths of the Gospel receive recognition at every step: One, the worth of every man as a child of God; the other, the fact that men are brothers and meant for brotherhood and coöperation. There can be no Christian civilization, no happy society, no lasting peace, except as they are based on these things.

Education is asking: "How and what shall we teach the returned soldier?" Answer: Give him an intelligent, historical and sane course of Bible study, including both the Old and New Testaments. When the facts of the Bible,—the origin, history, development of peoples, customs, literature, and writings and manuscripts,—are understood, its problems will be settled according to fact and truth, and not according to the whim or the caprice of the illy-educated and unscrupulous ecclesiastical politician and educational fraud.

Huntingdon, Pa.

The Consecrated Layman

BY A. B. MILLER

An Address Delivered at the Life-Work Conference, Winona Lake, Ind., June 6, 1919

THE subject is "The Consecrated Layman." The text you will find in Eph. 4: 1: "I therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you to walk worthily of the calling wherewith ye are called." The subject and text alike represent both a declaration and an appeal,—a declaration of what God has done for us, and an appeal to manifest his work in experience.

Redemption, sanctification, forgiveness, sonship, life, etc., represent God's work for us, "the calling wherewith ye are called." In that sense, as a matter of position, as God reckons us, every Christian is "consecrated," a word meaning, literally, "set apart" as God "set apart" the Sabbath (Gen. 2: 3), the firstborn (Ex. 13: 2), Aaron (Ex. 28: 40), and the vessels of the sanctuary (Ex. 20: 29). For this reason believers are called "saints," the "set-apart" ones, in the New Testament. Always this consecration by God is for a specific purpose. "Ye are the light of the world" is a statement of God's work; "let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father" (Matt. 5: 14-16), is an appeal to our fulfillment of his purposes in making us lights in the world.

So we are here dealing with the appeal to experimental consecration, remembering that we are already, as Christians, consecrated of God in name. Let charso efficient, the officials ever so earnest, the laity ever so noisy in word and active in deed, and yet the church may retrograde: Why? Because there must be an underpinning of all our service with Christian character,—Christ in the soul, organizing, developing and directing its faculties towards victory. Only thus can we hope to lead men from sin and wretchedness and despair into faith in the Son of God.

What is the basis of this appeal? It rests upon the position we occupy in the world before God, whose honor is at stake. "Ye are God's husbandry [tilled land]; God's building" (1 Cor. 3: 9). The power and influence of our character is not our own, but the life of Christ within us. We can not add to that lifepower any more than we can add to that of an acorn. The power of a seed is in the germ of life within it. Sunlight and heat, moisture and wind, soil and culture of soil can only help or hinder the development of that acorn. The seed of spiritual life is the power that makes for symmetry and beauty and strength of character. Our attitude of mind, openness of spirit, inclination of will, the atmosphere with which we surround ourselves, by the places we go and the company we keep, the information that enters the mind, the thoughts that we harbor and the words we speak,—all these help or mar the plan of God in our lives. "Ye are God's building." Do not hinder his work.

The appeal is, in the second place, for sacrificial service. Here lies the tremendous opportunity of the laity today. The rank and file of men everywhere are having a part in shaping the destinies of nations as never before. They are catching also a vision of their opportunity to serve in the Kingdom of God. How may we accomplish our part?

First of all, we may multiply the power and efficiency of our pastor,—the man whom we have called to the leadership of our church. Does he lack efficiency as an executive? Coöperate with the plans he proposes and lead him into better ones. Does he lack vision, consecration of purpose, liberty in the pulpit and spiritual power? Pray for him. Is there a woeful neglect of pastoral visitation? Let us do some of it ourselves, among our neighbors. Laymen can work wonders with a pastor, by a sympathetic interest and helpfulness.

Another powerful weapon in the hands of laymen is the exercise of large faith. Nothing can stand before a church that believes.

Today there is a ringing challenge to men everywhere to exercise large faith. The horrors of war, the blight of materialism and the silent, persistent spread of rationalism,—all used of Satan to negate the work of God,—challenge to faith everywhere. Let us answer in the words of that American naval commander who, in the midst of the engagement when the colors were shot away, was asked by the British commander if he had "struck," and made this reply: "I have not yet begun to fight."

Again, we can use our money,—the wealth God has entrusted to us, for the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God. Hard-earned money represents energy, blood, life. We have spent wisely and freely for ourselves. How have we spent for God? David got up against that question (2 Sam. 7: 1-3). He had been wonderfully blessed as the God-chosen king of a great people, victorious in war and now settled in peace. He had built for himself a house of cedar. Meditating one day, he discovered that God's house was still a tabernacle of curtains. This same discovery can be made on all sides,—"expensive living and cheap religion"; the self-ward life costly, the Godward life cheap; the self-life in cedar, the Spirit-life in curtains; our eternal interests in common linen, while our worldly interests are enshrined in silver and gold."

Let us go on. Laymen, let us farm, let us run our stores, and let us make good with the talent for money less condition of their neighbors, as well as their enemies. Flour went as high as forty-five cents a pound. People could buy no new clothes. Some, even with money, could not secure the necessities of life. The few who had means were willing to pay any price for life.

The owner of the deserted house sold his donkey, he sold the windows out of his house, he sold the doors, he sold the frames to doors and windows, he pulled off the roof and sold the wood of it, he sold his bedding, he sold some of his furniture, for he could eat none of these things and he and his family were starving. Some had died. Those left sold some of their cooking utensils, for with their scant supply of food they needed only a few utensils. Finally the last piece of property was disposed of. Those surviving wandered into the fields and the mountains, picking up whatever they could find, to eke out an existence. In many cases only one or two have survived of the entire family, and they may be far from home at this time. All that men have will they give for their lives. Women were forced to sell their virtue for a bit to eat. The streets were full of the dead and the dying. The police assigned even old men to the task of burying the dead. All had to work.

And so that deserted house stands as a monument to the suffering and death of its occupants. And all the time that these people were so suffering America had plenty and to spare, but it was not possible to share much. And possibly, nay, almost certainly, this very land could have fed and saved its thousands of starving if a just distribution could or would have been made. But under the conditions, this was not possible.

Daily some are returning to their former places of abode—I will not say their homes, for conditions have so changed. One must admire the heroism of the missionaries who staid by their posts and did their utmost to meet conditions. And one must praise the mission boards that have stood by their missionaries, even when they overdrew their accounts and helped to save the starving.

Beirut, Syria, May 10.

Church History and Polity

BY CARMAN COVER JOHNSON

VII. The Local Sunday-School Board

ALTHOUGH full sets of the original Sunday-school cards, printed by Brother Christopher Saur on his own presses in Germantown, Pa., still exist as evidence of the Sunday-school interest of the Brethren, away back in the first half of the eighteenth century, yet, because of the great migrations of our people to the Wilderness and the consequent coming on of the Middle Age Period of our history, following the Revolution and continuing down till the opening of our renaissance about 1870, our real Sunday-school history is hardly more than a generation old.

Our first District Sunday-school Convention to be held, after Annual Meeting had agreed that "Sunday-school Meetings" might be held, was in 1897,—just twenty-two years ago,—at Walnut Grove in Western Pennsylvania. Even then not all the congregations in the Brotherhood would tolerate, much less encourage and support, a Sunday-school. It is easy to find the first teacher of a Teacher-training Class, and the first graduates thereof, in the Brotherhood. As for Cradle Rolls, Home Departments, Organized Bible Classes, Children's Days, Decision Days, Temperance Secretaries, District Sunday-school Secretaries and especially Graded Lessons,—why, they all are so recent that none of them are really ripe as yet. And still, how matter-of-fact they all seem to most of us!

Furthermore, do you remember when the Sunday-school was quite independent of the church,—maybe held in a public schoolhouse? Then, do you recall when it was permitted to move into the church? And then, do you recollect when it was known as the "nursery of the church"? Of course 'twould never do for big boys and girls and grownups. And next, do you call to mind the days when we said: "The Sunday-school is the educational department of the church"? Well then, you surely will easily be reminded of the time you heard some one say: "The Sunday-school is the church in its educational endeavor"? And lastly,—and very recently,—some very enthusiastic devotees of the Sunday-school say, probably a little too seriously, "The Sunday-school is the church at work."

What is a process like that, which we have herein reviewed, called? Well, never mind,—it doesn't need to be called anything: it is just history. Here's what I am after. If the Sunday-school is now officially recognized to be, as it actually is, "the church in its educational endeavor,"—then all members of the church are in fact, consciously or unconsciously, members of the Sunday-school. And if all the Sunday-school is all the church, then the authorization, the promotion, the organization, the administration of the Sunday-school is a church function. If this is so, it follows that the Sunday-school, as a responsibility, as well as an opportunity, rests back upon the church council,—and that's where it should rest in the last analysis.

"Oh, but," I hear some one say, "most of the older members do not attend Sunday-school, even some of the elders and ministers and deacons, and why should they have any say in the Sunday-school elections and management?" Now that is merely arguing backwards. If our definition of the Sunday-school is correct, there is no escaping the conclusion of congregational control of the Sunday-school. Any independent organization of the Sunday-school in which the Sunday-school itself chooses its own officers and teachers, is merely an ancient and outworn system, and always attended with certain weaknesses,—such as a one-man or one-group control; lack of interest on the part of the older people, or the middle-aged people, or the boys and girls, or, in fact, all together, except the children; over-emphasis of the school to the weakening of the church; failure to respond to the suggestions of the Sunday-school organization of the District or of the General Brotherhood; and the possibility of collapse and reorganization every now and then.

Not to pursue the argument any further, for I feel that already many, if not most, of the Sunday-schools of the Brethren are officered by men and women who are placed in their positions by the congregational council,—perhaps being nominated by the Official Board,—I want to go into a brief discussion of the Sunday-school Board as such.

Let us assume that this board is composed of at least the following officers,—as I personally believe it should be and no more than these,—general superintendent, assistant general superintendent, principal of the Home Department, principal of the Cradle Roll, principal of the Senior Department, principal of the Junior Department, principal of the Elementary Department (I do not presume to try to be consistent with all the technical terms now being used by Sunday-school authorities), secretary and treasurer,—with the pastor and the elder, or the pastor-elder, participating ex-officio. What do we have? An officially-nominated, carefully-selected, congregationally-ratified, duly-installed board of religious education, dignified and charged with the high purpose of developing a really religiously educational and educationally religious enthusiasm within the entire congregation, in harmony with the best that the denomination and the International Sunday-school Association together afford.

But suppose the Sunday-school is small and these "principals," just elected, are needed as teachers? All right, let them be the first and maybe, for a while, the only teachers in their respective departments. Who is better qualified than a teacher-principal, to build up a department by the addition of students and the suggestion of additional teachers? To whom shall these additional teachers be suggested? To the superintendent in the presence of the Board at the monthly board meeting. And so the teachers are not to be selected either by the church council on the one hand or by the classes on the other hand? No, the matter of the selection of teachers is a purely educational matter, entrusted to a competent board of education; and as for a class choosing its own teacher, I frankly admit some hesitation, though not outright opposition, always reserving the right of confirmation of such teacher by the board.

Why not permit the superintendent to select and supply and drop all teachers? It is too much of a one-man power idea,—not sufficiently fair and democratic. The balancing values of a good Sunday-school board, that feels its responsibility as coming from the whole congregation, when this idea is once grasped and developed, is better than the best superintendent, and certainly better, by far, than the best so-called self-governed Sunday-school. It is not only the matter of selecting teachers that should engage the best thought of the board. There are helpers of all sorts to be provided,—musicians, choristers, special secretaries and the like. Then there are special activities, special occasions, and special exercises to be planned, besides the supervision of the teaching processes in all departments, including teachers' meetings by departments, if possible, and of course the ever-present teacher-training class. Nothing is quite so full of promise, quite so full of fresh opportunity, quite so rich in possibilities, as the Sunday-school Board now being adopted and developed among our people.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

An Employment Bureau

BY E. F. SHERFY

LAST summer, in order to help my country, my neighbor and, incidentally, my own pocket-book, I worked in the Kansas wheat harvest. With one job just finished, I found two days ahead of me before the time I had planned for some pastoral work. Time was, indeed, money just then. Help was scarce. Many a farmer could use me, but none knew about me and my desire to work. Suddenly a thought presented itself. Why not go down town, to the County Employment Bureau? Accordingly, at 6 P. M., I found myself face to face with the genial County Agent, head of the Bureau. Groups of city gentlemen were gathered around the door of the office, awaiting their turns and their assignment to their after-supper jobs at "shocking" for the farmers. All was hustle and bustle, but the agent took time to greet me cheerily and to assign me to a job. First, however, before doing so, he asked my preference of work. I answered, "Shocking." There were good reasons, I thought, for the choice. But the agent thought otherwise. He looked me over and then remarked: "You'd better get a header-box job. A tall man has so far to stoop to pick up a bundle, but when it comes to toppin' out a stack he has the advantage in the header-box." That sounded like good logic, so the next morning found me "seven miles out," fork in hand in the "box." Two evenings following found me nearly ten dollars to the good.

But why all this about a little personal matter in which my readers have no special interest? Simply this: It set me to thinking along a certain line. That getting together of the man and the job was done so nicely, I just wondered if the same thing might not work out in our church work. Well, we do have something along this line worked out for our ministerial force. I refer to our District Ministerial Boards, provided for at the Wichita Conference. I have no suggestions for these boards, but I should like, if I may, to offer a few humble suggestions to those seeking "a job" and to those seeking "laborers."

These boards have, as one of their chief duties, the "getting together of the man and the job." Such boards are not employment agencies, in that they actually get the employment, or do the employing. Rather, they simply pave the way for the congregations to do their own employing. The Methodist bishop, I am told, has, as an employment agency, more authority. On behalf of each congregation he virtually does the employing of the pastor. We have not come to that system yet, and perhaps never will come to it. Our ministers want some freedom of personal choice which is probably all right. But there is at least one good feature about the Methodist system. Recalling that experience at the farm employment bureau, we are reminded that a disinterested party may know better for what position a man is fitted than the man does himself.

Brethren of the ministry,—those of us who are planning to give our whole time to the work,—are

Why not permit the superintendent to select and pply and drop all teachers? It is too much of a one-an power idea,—not sufficiently fair and democratic. he balancing values of a good Sunday-school board, it feels its responsibility as coming from the whole ngregation, when this idea is once grasped and veloped, is better than the best superintendent, and rtainly better, by far, than the best so-called self-verned Sunday-school. It is not only the matter of lecting teachers that should engage the best thought the board. There are helpers of all sorts to be pro-ded,—musicians, choristers, special secretaries and e like. Then there are special activities, special casions, and special exercises to be planned, besides e supervision of the teaching processes in all depart-ents, including teachers' meetings by departments, possible, and of course the ever-present teacher-aining class. Nothing is quite so full of promise, ite so full of fresh opportunity, quite so rich in ssibilities, as the Sunday-school Board now being lopted and developed among our people.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

An Employment Bureau

BY E. F. SHERFY

Last summer, in order to help my country, my eighbor and, incidentally, my own pocket-book, I orked in the Kansas wheat harvest. With one job ist finished, I found two days ahead of me before the me I had planned for some pastoral work. Time as, indeed, money just then. Help was scarce. Many farmer could use me, but none knew about me and y desire to work. Suddenly a thought presented it-elf. Why not go down town, to the County Employ-ent Bureau? Accordingly, at 6 P. M., I found my-elf face to face with the genial County Agent, head of ae Bureau. Groups of city gentlemen were gathered round the door of the office, awaiting their turns and heir assignment to their after-supper jobs at "shock-ng" for the farmers. All was hustle and bustle, but he agent took time to greet me cheerily and to assign ne to a job. First, however, before doing so, he asked ny preference of work. I answered, "Shocking." There were good reasons, I thought, for the choice. But the agent thought otherwise. He looked me over and then remarked: "You'd better get a header-box ob. A tall man has so far to stoop to pick up a undle, but when it comes to toppin' out a stack he has the advantage in the header-box." That sounded ike good logic, so the next morning found me "seven miles out," fork in hand in the "box." Two evenings following found me nearly ten dollars to the good.

But why all this about a little personal matter in which my readers have no special interest? Simply this: It set me to thinking along a certain line. That getting together of the man and the job was done so nicely, I just wondered if the same thing might not work out in our church work. Well, we do have something along this line worked out for our ministerial force. I refer to our District Ministerial Boards, provided for at the Wichita Conference. I have no suggestions for these boards, but I should like, if I may, to offer a few humble suggestions to those seeking "a job" and to those seeking "laborers."

These boards have, as one of their chief duties, the "getting together of the man and the job." Such boards are not employment agencies, in that they actually get the employment, or do the employing. Rather, they simply pave the way for the congregations to do their own employing. The Methodist bishop, I am told, has, as an employment agency, more authority. On behalf of each congregation he virtually does the employing of the pastor. We have not come to that system yet, and perhaps never will come to it. Our ministers want some freedom of personal choice face to face,—ofttimes,—with a temptation very much akin to that mighty temptation of Jesus in the wilderness. Under the new system, gradually coming to be the rule among us, we may allow the call of the dollar and the lure of position to sound louder in our ears than the call of the Lord into a needy field. Then, too, the congregation may be tempted to seek the man most to their liking when their needs would call for one of a different type. Such temptations, if yielded to, may mean the sin of secularizing the ministry and the church. Heaven forbid it! Such a sin will, by its insidious workings, do more to hinder the work of the Kingdom than the efficient pastoral care of the new system can offset. But to the extent that we, as churches or as ministers, are humble enough and have enough devotion to the cause to put our cases into the hands of the board,—whom we ourselves in District Conference have chosen to help in such matters,—to that extent do we overcome this dangerous temptation.

If you will pardon my repeated reference to my experience at the farm bureau, I call attention to the fact that when I gave my name to the bureau I did more: I let the County Agent's judgment count for more than my own, because I took it as a matter of course that he likely knew better than I where I could fit in best. Even so in our "fitting in" and fitting together, and getting rightly located in church work: Outside advice might be decidedly advantageous if properly taken into account. Any of us who have tried it know that we are sometimes asked to go where we'd rather not, and to do what we'd prefer not to do, but after it is done, we can praise God that his leading is better than our judgment.

Under the section on "management" in the paper on the "election and support of pastor," paragraph seven, sub-paragraph five, Annual Meeting Minutes of 1917, the Ministerial Board is instructed to "co-operate with the churches in securing elders and pastors, . . . also with elders and pastors in changing location." You will notice that the board is expected to coöperate with the churches and with ministers. But they can coöperate with us only to the extent that we coöperate with them. To fail to do so is to tie their hands and render their work, so rich in possibilities, a dead letter, while the Kingdom of Christ suffers; the weaker churches continue to die one by one; and ministers, whose talent remains unused, "rust out."

A few lines above I stated that I had no advice for the "boards," as employment bureaus of the church. Advice from one of the younger generation of ministers would not be in place; but may I suggest that numbers of the "younger generation of preachers," as well as the older brethren, would not be in active service today if some ambassador of God had not done for them what I humbly wish every Ministerial Board would do,—that is, find, here and there, some brother who is not specially needed where he is, whose talent is not being developed, point him to a needy church and help him to a vision of service in the holy ministry. Or, if there is no definite call for just that sort of man, get his name to put on the "list" of available recruits.

These remarks in the preceding paragraph, I know, border dangerously near to a "suggestion," but since the writer has experienced the strength of such an appeal, he will be pardoned, I am sure.

Brethren and sisters, as I think of the congregations dying for pastoral care and of the unused ministerial talent in almost every District, my hope is in our Ministerial Boards, who, under God, have in their hands and upon their hearts the Macedonian call for the weak churches,—who have committed to them, as a sort of divine employment bureau, the task of getting together the "man and the job."

Our Adoption

BY I. J. ROSENBERGER

Our entrance into the fold of Christ,—the church,— is represented by various figures. We are said to be grafted, planted, born and adopted into Christ. These all terminate with the same results, but they each evolve different lines of thought. Each of these has a different story to present, and one of rare interest The adoption is the one now before us, as announced in our title. Adoption has been faintly alluded to by the press and pulpit, but is inore frequently woven into our prayers. It is so blended with the new birth that they are, seemingly, somewhat synonymous. The subject is rather vague,—generally very well understood however.

Proposition: Adoption is a future event; held u on conditions.

1. Paul says: "Even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemp tion of our body." Paul says: "Waiting for the adop tion," showing that it is a future event. "The redemp tion of our body" will be subsequent to the resurrec tion of our body, which places the event in the future

2. A child, contemplated for adoption, is taken o trial. Our first parents were given their garden hom without trial, but they proved unsatisfactory. Sinc then God has changed his method, so God now take his subjects on trial. God tried Abraham. Job says "When I am tried I shall come forth as gold." Davi says: "Thou, oh God, hast proved us; thou hast trie us as silver is tried." Peter talks about "the trial o our faith." John says: "Thou hast tried them whic say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found the liars." It is apparent that a trial,—a test,—is engage in with great propriety.

3. A child that is awarded by adoption, is given new name. John says: "To him that overcome will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and I will gi him a white stone, and in the stone a new nam written." Mark the language: "To him that ovs cometh," showing that they were on trial and that t new name given was a subsequent event,—the rest of a satisfactory trial or test. Again: "Him th overcometh. . . . I will write upon him the nam of my God, and the name of the city of my Go . . . and I will write upon him my new name." These texts stoutly support all the foregoing, ma ing it logical and conclusive. The foolish virgins we in the family, "waiting for the adoption," but fail in their trial or test, and hence were not adopted. T wise virgins proved satisfactory in their trial or te and therefore were adopted. The trial of the you man that came running to Jesus was, in some respec fine, but he failed in one point, hence was not adopt

Greenville, Ohio.

Forgetting to Pay Our Little Debts

BY SARA ZIGLER MYERS

The writer has been influenced to choose and wr on this subject for three reasons:

First, she herself pleads guilty of forgetting to p off little debts.

Second, the habit is so prevalent everywhere, es cially among students.

Third, it may be a help to some of us, in trying overcome the habit, to think back and call up the tim when we have asked favors of our friends, and ne remembered, for five minutes afterwards, that they h been kind enough to help us out at any particular ti

At once some one says: "Oh, that isn't worth m tioning. No one pays attention to such little thin I wouldn't want to live in a place where I could borrow little trifles from my friends when I most ne them."

Most assuredly, it would be a very unpleasant wo

THE ROUND TABLE

"Be Not Afraid"

BY NORMAN W. TWIDDY

FEAR is a mental hoax. Since Jesus Christ has blazed the trail through the blackness of sin, since he has conquered even the desolation of death, "whom, then, shall I fear?" Where fear is strong, faith is weak. Our Master rooted the deadly weed of fear from the life of the Christian.

To those who tremble in the grip of the devil and vacillate between right and wrong, he calls: "It is I, be not afraid." To those who sink despondently beneath the waves of doubt, and who tremble as the fires of faith burn low, he gives this counsel: "It is I; be not afraid." To those whom sickness has caused to quail, and to toss in restless anxiety, he whispers: "It is I, be not afraid." To those who are staring into the pitiless jaws of death, and who can not see the light, as it shines through the murky gloom, he speaks in reassurance: "It is I, be not afraid."

It seems I can hear him tenderly, lovingly saying today: "Why fear, oh, Christian, since I am with thee? I lived on this earth for you, bore my cross to Calvary for you. I conquered even Death for you. I live that ye may live also! Why are ye afraid? Know, dear follower of mine, that if this earthly tabernacle be removed you have an house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens."

Can you not hear him reassuring you? Rise up, then, Christian, out of your fear of life, of death, and of the grave, and know that Jesus lives, that he leads, and that he can silence even the worst of fear. "Be not afraid!"

Brooklyn, N. Y.

Reflections After the Conference

BY MARY POLK ELLENBERGER

HOME again, after having enjoyed the greatest Conference in the history of the church,—the epoch-making convention! A wonderful, never-to-be-forgotten experience! Many times, during those beautiful days, fraught with joys unspeakable, we were made to cry out from the depths of our heart: "What am I, that such opportunities should be mine!"

The great Forward Movement of the church has been well launched. The application of Christian principles has subdued personal prejudices. This has given supremacy to the things of the soul, and brought about the unity of the mind and heart of the church. It furnished the dynamic power by which the mighty wheels of progress began to turn.

Christianity, the only sane, safe panacea for the wounds left by the war monster's withering curse, is to be our contribution to the great needs of the world,—Christianity in its fullest, deepest sense, touching, as it must, every phase of life. We are to grow rich from much giving of brain and brawn and service and money that the Kingdom may come.

During those wonderful days, no department of Christian work was slighted, and thousands of hearts, we feel sure, have been reconsecrated to God's service, having received inspiration and encouragement to press onward and upward in the various duties pertaining to the extension of his Kingdom.

Most assuredly we now have a clearer insight into the world's needs, and a broader, more exalted vision of the future church,—its possibilities, its sacred obligations, its debt of gratitude to the God who has made its existence possible and who has blessed it so wonderfully.

The great Forward Movement impresses one with a lively sense of individual responsibility which, if neglected, will make pillows hard and sap the sweetness from our waking hours.

Unique features in these great Conferences of our church distinguish them from all others, adding greatly not only to their charm and spiritual significance, but to their working power as well. Numerically our Conference is the largest religious gathering in proportion to its membership in the world. The large representation of laymen, besides the body of delegates, is most remarkable. Their sincere interest and coöperation with the leaders of the Conference is readily to be seen. The fine consideration and candid attitude, shown by the latter toward the former, is the Christian demonstration of the real brotherhood of man.

"The spirit of unity," recommended in "A Personal Letter to the Folks at Home" by our editor, was strongly evidenced by our delegate body, and bonds of thoughtfulness, love and union were closely drawn.

Looking over that vast audience one was made to wonder if at any other place, or among any other people, such a scene could be found. We think not. Thousands of men and women sat for hours in rapt attention, listening to the propaganda of Christian education, and the instructive discussion of things vital to the life and purity of the church. Here were men who did not have to retire at regular intervals for a smoke,—clean, upright, earnest men. Here were women, simply dressed, distinguished as Christians by the symbol of submission to their Savior upon their heads,—no painted faces, no gum-chewing, cheerful and earnest,—more priceless than rubies. One needs only to compare this scene with conditions in other large gatherings, to appreciate the significance of it by the contrast.

And although the Brethren are noted for longevity, there were no old people upon the grounds. True, there were many fine white heads, here and there, through the audience, especially up toward the front and at the six o'clock morning service, but since one is old only when he has lost interest in the things about him, we repeat, there were no old folk there, but some very, very precious white-headed men and women. No policemen were needed to keep order,—no boisterous hilarity, but an abundance of good cheer and wholesome joy. And only once or twice did we catch a whiff of tobacco smoke, and never the smell of grog. Simplicity in dress was almost universal.

It is hard to express the sweetness of such surroundings to those who live where the opposite conditions exist. We hope, however, to see improvements brought about by the Forward Movement, that the environments may be improved for the safety of the coming generation,—the thousands of children who are under the curse of corrupt social and civic systems. For the many blessings received, food for meditation, an unforgettable experience, inspiration and encouragement, we give sincere thanks. And may God help us to render unto him a more cheerful, efficient and fruitful service!

St. Joseph, Mo.

Being Pleased with What Pleases God

BY G. W. TUTTLE

IF you have ever read that charming book, "The Shepherd of Salisbury Plains," you probably remember that the Shepherd, when asked what kind of weather he expected on the morrow, said: "It will be such weather as pleases me," and when his questioner expressed surprise at his answer, he made the following explanation: "The weather tomorrow will be such as pleases God, and what pleases God, pleases me."

Can we echo this sentiment? Does that which pleases our Heavenly Father, please us, or do we growl and complain at his ways and his providence? We have our plans all made for the day. We hoped for fair skies and sunny hours, and we awoke to find the clouds dark and forbidding, or the rain falling in no stinted measure upon the earth.

How do we take it? Are we sunny and pleasant? Do we stop to think that both the clouds and the sunshine are from the same Hand of Love? Our plans or our Father's,—which are the wisest and best? Do we stop to think of the thirsty crops; of the joy of the husbandman; of the fruitfulness that will follow the rain; or do we think only of our petty plans or discomforts?

How do we bear disappointments in other lines? We have done our best, but another has won the prize. Our competitor has outdistanced or outclassed us. Can we smile and congratulate him? I like the men who take disappointments sweetly and who have no such word as defeat in their vocabulary. "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Shall not his weather and all his plans for us be alike acceptable?

The people who can take disappointments sweetly and cheerfully, know how to turn defeat into victory. Defeat sours some people, others are sweetened and ripened by it. Defeat is a stepping-stone to some and a stumbling-block to others; it all depends upon how we take it.

An active Christian man had been mayor of a city and was a candidate for reëlection. I had been much pleased with the way in which he had filled the office, but he was defeated, and he took his defeat so sullenly that I should not have been willing to vote for him again. The life that leans hard upon God should be sweet-spirited alike in victory or defeat. Let us say: "As for me, I will be pleased with what pleases God."

Pasadena, Calif.

The Root of Evil

BY MAUDE C. JONES

WE all like money. Even the children seem to find a certain satisfaction in handling and owning money, though not acquainted with its value. God does not condemn us for that feeling until it reaches such a stage in our lives that it becomes a curse to us, instead of the blessing he intended it to be.

In looking about us and making a few mental calculations on our observations, we are astounded at some facts we learn concerning man's love for money. On every hand we find men and women who are actually selling their souls for money. Many of those men and women are not what we call "worldly people," but are members of Christian churches. I am sorry to say that the Church of the Brethren has her full share of them, too. Sad to say, many of these self-same people wear the garb of the deacon and the minister.

It seems very strange to me how such people can set up money as their god, and then endeavor to get worldly men and women to follow the lowly Nazarene who had no place where to lay his head. I do not believe that our Heavenly Father meant that we should all be as poor as was his Son and our Master, when he was here on earth. God had a noble purpose in causing the world's Redeemer to be without riches,—a motive that could have been carried out in no other way. But why should we, whom he died to save, presume to take advantage of the great privileges given us by our Father, and skimp and hoard, instead of relieving mankind, and helping to make the world better by the means, for the accumulation of which he gave us the talent?

I know of no better way to make my meaning understood and to bring us face to face with the naked truth, than to relate some actual facts that I have observed in the everyday life of people with whom I have come in contact,—men and women, mostly, who profess to be Christians, but who are putting to shame their holy calling because of their great greed for money.

One man, who has a pleasing personality, is a member of a well-recognized church and a very influential man in his neighborhood. He will stoop to almost any expedient, in order to make or to save a dollar. He exacts the last cent from his renters and holds them down with contracts so binding that it is impossible for him to keep a tenant on his large farm for more than a year or two at a time. He poses as a Christian and yet his acquaintances know him to be absolutely crooked in his dealings, because of his great desire for money. He has no heirs and yet he and his wife slave from morning to night, in order to accumulate more money. "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity." Surely it is, in such a case.

A poor boy inherited a small farm. He was ambitious, industrious, strong and clear-minded. But he had the money lust. He married a fine girl, who was also poor, but not afraid to work. They were good Christian people,—recognized as such by their many friends. But the gold lust grew with the years. They worked and saved and prospered. They bought more n we smile and congratulate him? I like the men o take disappointments sweetly and who have no ch word as defeat in their vocabulary. "If God be r us, who can be against us?" Shall not his weather d all his plans for us be alike acceptable?

The people who can take disappointments sweetly d cheerfully, know how to turn defeat into victory.
efeat sours some people, others are sweetened and pened by it. Defeat is a stepping-stone to some and stumbling-block to others; it all depends upon how take it.
An active Christian man had been mayor of a city d was a candidate for reelection. I had been much eased with the way in which he had filled the office, t he was defeated, and he took his defeat so sullenly at I should not have been willing to vote for him
ain. The life that leans hard upon God should be eet-spirited alike in victory or defeat. Let us say:
As for me, I will be pleased with what pleases God."

Pasadena, Calif.

The Root of Evil

BY MAUDE C. JONES

We all like money. Even the children seem to find certain satisfaction in handling and owning money, ough not acquainted with its value. God does not ndemn us for that feeling until it reaches such a age in our lives that it becomes a curse to us, instead the blessing he intended it to be.

In looking about us and making a few mental calations on our observations, we are astounded at me facts we learn concerning man's love for money. n every hand we find men and women who are acally selling their souls for money. Many of those en and women are not what we call "worldly peo-e," but are members of Christian churches. I am rry to say that the Church of the Brethren has her ll share of them, too. Sad to say, many of these lf-same people wear the garb of the deacon and the inister.

It seems very strange to me how such people can t up money as their god, and then endeavor to get orldly men and women to follow the lowly Nazarene ho had no place where to lay his head. I do not lieve that our Heavenly Father meant that we should l be as poor as was his Son and our Master, when e was here on earth. God had a noble purpose in using the world's Redeemer to be without riches,—motive that could have been carried out in no other ay. But why should we, whom he died to save, resume to take advantage of the great privileges given s by our Father, and skimp and hoard, instead of reeving mankind, and helping to make the world better y the means, for the accumulation of which he gave s the talent?

I know of no better way to make my meaning under-ood and to bring us face to face with the naked truth, nan to relate some actual facts that I have observed n the everyday life of people with whom I have come n contact,—men and women, mostly, who profess to e Christians, but who are putting to shame their holy alling because of their great greed for money.

One man, who has a pleasing personality, is a mem-er of a well-recognized church and a very influential nan in his neighborhood. He will stoop to almost any xpedient, in order to make or to save a dollar. He xacts the last cent from his renters and holds them own with contracts so binding that it is impossible or him to keep a tenant on his large farm for more han a year or two at a time. He poses as a Christian nd yet his acquaintances know him to be absolutely rooked in his dealings, because of his great desire for noney. He has no heirs and yet he and his wife slave rom morning to night, in order to accumulate more noney. "Vanity of vanities, All is vanity." Surely land and finally still more land. They raised a boy, and he and MONEY were their two idols. They could scarcely endure to part with any of their riches, except to satisfy their own desires. They had a fine home, with modern conveniences, but they saw no need of helping the unfortunate. Calls for charity almost prostrated them and yet they were regular church and Sunday-school attendants. They would give the merest pittance toward the support of their pastor and the upkeep of the church, and because they felt they were annoyed too often for such purposes, this good man (?) finally decided it was not necessary to hold membership in any church, in order to be Christians. So their names were taken from the church book, in order to escape being asked for help. They continued to attend church, to lead in prayer, to offer testimony and to join lustily in the song service, but had no money to give to the Lord. These parents are bringing up their son in the same way. He is an adept at making and saving money, but he is a Christian (?) also,—good just as his parents are good.

Had I the time and space, I might relate some of the very smallest tricks to which I have known that father to resort, in order to make a few pennies, but yet he sees no evil in it because he has the money lust. When asked for help for the Lord's cause, he says it is his duty to provide well for his family, and then quotes 1 Tim. 5: 8: "But if any provideth not for his own, and specially his own household, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel," thereby backing up his convictions with the Word, and feeling secure. Poor, miserable wretch,—rich and yet so very poor!

A sister in a certain church, who makes a pretense of being very devoted, has been known to reach into her pocketbook, and then put her hand into the contribution plate to rattle the coins, in order to make it appear she was giving when she had given nothing. Another Sapphira.

Another instance is of a certain deacon whom God had richly blessed with substance, much more than he needed for himself and family, and yet he was an unfaithful steward. He held down his employés with an iron hand, exacting the last drop of blood. Whenever any good work or forward movement was proposed by the church, he was perfectly willing to have it carried out, provided it took no money, or that the other members bear the expense. A missionary sermon or a plea for help caused him almost to wear his clothing thin because of his constant twisting and squirming in his pew. The mere mention of expending any money for others made him irritable, and sometimes, when he grudgingly gave a five dollar bill for a good cause, he felt his share was done for a long time, when he should have given at least twenty times that amount, and would still have been in debt to the Lord many hundreds of dollars.

He and his family have all their hearts could wish for, but he has no gold to give to the Lord's needy. Ask him for enough money to support an orphan for several days and, in all probability, he will refuse the request, and yet he has spent the same amount for one single flower to place on his dead child's grave. Is such conduct becoming to a Christian and an official in the church? Selfishness and inconsistency indeed!

Still another example of a minister of the Gospel. When he started out for himself he was the proud possessor of one dollar in cash and several other articles valued at about one dollar each. He was industrious, however, and the glitter of gold was most alluring to his sight. He became the shepherd of a country church and was much loved by his people. He worked and saved and accumulated a neat sum of money. He also ministered to his flock. He bought a fine farm, built a fine home and invested in fancy stock. Money making became a mania with him. the pedigree of one head of his thoroughbred stock. What was the result? A scattered congregation, an influence for good lost, and only eternity will reveal what else has been ruthlessly lost, because of that passion for gold in a man who had been called to the holy office of a minister.

This love of money actually dictates to many men and women which church they shall join in order to make themselves most influential in their different spheres. They ally themselves with the church that has the most wealth behind it, and even though they are sometimes very averse to helping pay the exorbitant salary of their pastors, yet, for the sake of popularity and business acumen, their names remain on the church record.

Everywhere we see men and women, who were created in God's own image, selling their talents, their virtues, their influence, their souls, and their bodies for money, and why? "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Syracuse, Ind.

A Broken Violin

BY IRA H. FRANTZ

"If thy hand or thy foot cause thee to stumble, cut it off, and cast it from thee."

Bro. M., a very consecrated Christian man, can show you a practical application of this advice. It is a broken violin. Before his conversion he used to play it for dances. In fact, he says that his love for the fiddle and the dance kept him away from Christ for a long time, and caused him to lose ten years of Christian service. Even after his conversion he found it more or less of a temptation. Accordingly he brought his heel into contact with the instrument in such a manner that the violin is forever incapacitated for furnishing dance music.

The sacrifice was more than the mere money value of the violin. It was a sacrifice of musical talent which many people would prize highly and find not only harmless but really helpful. Jesus knew that Satan is able, at times, to pervert for some people the right and proper use of a good thing, so that it becomes a stumbling-block for them. In such an event he warns us to rid ourselves of the thing that trips us up, even though it be something so valuable as a hand or foot, or even an eye.

Beattie, Kans.

The Preacher's Pay

The average salary for preachers in twelve leading denominations is $774 a year.

That's $2.12 a day.

The average preacher is married, most of the ministers are raising children, feeding them, clothing them, buying medicine for them, and sending them to school.

The average preacher works seven days a week.

He must wear good clothes; his wife must dress well; and his children can not appear in tattered and torn clothing.

The congregation insists that the preacher and his family must not display any sign of poverty and the preacher must wear a smile always. He must have a cheery word for every man, woman and child he meets. He must not complain.

